story, whi

JOHN JOKER.

Young Playwright—"And what did you think of my climax?" Critic—"It was very welcome."—Brooklyn Life.

She Snored.—"How does your wife sleep?" asked the doctor of the man whose better half was under his care. "Orally," said the man.—Truth.

"Good canvasback ducks," said Rivers, "are quoted, I see, at $3 apiece. How true it is that riches have wings."—Chicago Tribune.

"Margaret always reads the end of a novel first." "Why?" "So she can lie awake at night wondering how it began."—Chicago Record.

"Pa, what is a pessimist?" "A pessimist, my son, is a person who never goes out on his wheel without expecting to puncture his tire."—Puck.

Mrs. Painter—"My husband is delighted with my pictures." Mrs. Pointer—"You don't say? Don't they look like you?"—Yonkers Statesman.

"Not every man is made a fool of," remarked the observer of men and things, "but every man has the raw material in him."—Detroit Journal.

"The decree," announced the messenger of Jupiter, "is that you shall be bound forever to the wheel!" "W-which make?" asked Ixion, anxiously.—Puck.

Police Magistrate—"Have you ever seen the prisoner at the bar?" Witness—"Never, your honor; but I've seen him when I strongly suspected he'd been at it."—Tit-Bits.

Yabsley—"Did you ever make a mistake in the dark and kiss the wrong girl?" Mudge—"No. I have got mixed in the dark and kissed some other girl."—Indianapolis Journal.

"Some men," said Uncle Eben, "kin train er dog ter do anyt'ing dey tells 'im, an' at de same time raise de mos' disobejintest chillun in de neighborhood."—Washington Star.

"Dah ain' much use o' sufferin' in silence," said Uncle Eben; "seems like if dis worl' picks out anybody foh 'er victim, it ain' gwinter to be satisfied till he hollers."—Washington Star.

"And the divorce laws are so very liberal in your section?" "Liberal? Say! They are so liberal that nobody ever heard of a woman crying at a wedding out there."—Detroit Journal.

"My dear, if you took that face abroad you might have trouble in getting it home again." "What do you mean?" "I mean the tariff on art, my love."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Apprehension: The Professor—"As a matter of fact, there are different dialects in different parts of Scotland." Friend—"Great Scott! Are there more counties to hear from?"—Truth.

Mrs. Spatt—"Your husband is an inventor, I believe?" Mrs. Spotter—"Yes. Some of his excuses for coming home late at night are in use all over the country."—Philadelphia North American.

First Burglar—Lord, Bill! dis advertisement wouldnt fool nobody. Second Burglar—Wot is it First Burglar—Fifty dollars reward an' no questions ast—signed by a woman.—Leslie's Weekly.

"Frisbie is the laziest man I ever knew." "What makes you think so?" "He actually seems to be glad that he's getting baldheaded, so that he won't have to comb his hair any more."—Cleveland Leader.

"Might I ask what school of poetry you prefer?" inquired the young man who writes. And the old gentleman replied: "The homeopathic school. The smaller the dose, the better it suits me."—Washington Star.

Pease—I suppose you've learned a great deal about gardening since you've lived in the country? Hubbard—Yes; I'm picking up something all the time. This year I've given up trying to raise my own vegetables.—Puck.

"How did they stop the elopement?" asked Maud. "By a detestable piece of trickery," replied Mamie; "her father put his head out of the window and shouted that her hat was on crooked, and when she grabbed for it she upset the tandem."—Washington Star.

"Why do you do up your hair in those papers, dear?" remarked General Weyler of his wife, as she came down to breakfast in the Cuban boarding-house. "Why, that's the way you do the enemy up, is it not, dear?" replied the general's spouse.—Yonkers Statesman.

Once upon a time two Cows reclined peacefully beneath a tree. "Oh, by the way," one of the Cows remarked casually, "why was it, if I may ask, that you didn't chase those golfers yesterday?" "Oh, I don't care to be the cause of little calves being made to suffer."—Detroit Free Press.

"How long is it going to take to get through with this case?" asked the client, who was under suspicion of housebreaking. "Well," replied the young lawyer, thoughtfully, "It'll take me about two weeks to get through with it, but I'm afraid it's going to take you about four years."—Washington Star.

Browner—So you haven't a bicycle, Miss Neere? Miss Neere—No, I looked at one the other day, but there was something about it I didn't like and the man wouldn't alter it, so I didn't get it. Browner—They generally make any alterations required. What was it you wanted altered? Miss Neere—The price.—Judy.

"It seems to me that you can be depended on to say the wrong thing more than any other man that I know." "What have I done?" "Insulted the Bliggings family." "Why, I tried to compliment them." "You said that their baby, who hasn't any hair, looked exactly like its father." "Yes." "Well, Bliggins is insulted on his own account, and his wife is insulted on behalf of the baby."—Indianapolis Journal.

For Detectives Only.

The American Hawkshaw now has a newspaper of his own. This unique addition to the list of class papers is published monthly at Indianapolis. Its news columns are given over to a bulletin of more than $15,000 in cash rewards, with a veritable rogues' gallery of pictures and descriptions of "crooks wanted," while the latest swindling schemes and methods of detection are fully explained for its crimes investigating readers.

When an egg is boiled just right it is clearly the result of an accident.

BETTER THAN GOLD

ARE THE STEEL PENS shown below, so say our Customers.

OVER FIVE THOUSAND NATIONAL, STATE AND PRIVATE BANKS IN THE UNITED STATES are constantly being supplied with our pens, which fact alone guarantees their excellence.

PATENT APPLIED FOR.

Cut of inkstand shows our Popular No. 3. Automatic. Write us, enclosing stamps, and we will send you sample pens and tell you how to get the above stand without cost.

THESE ARE THE STRONG POINTS:

DURABILITY,
QUALITY,
SMOOTHNESS,
UNIFORMITY.

Take No Substitute.

If your dealer cannot supply you, send to this office, enclosing price, and we will fill your order, and guarantee safe delivery.

Price, per gross (1 box) $ 1.00
" 1-2 doz. boxes, 5.40
" 1 doz. boxes, 10.00

W. L. MASON & CO.,
(INCORPORATED.)
MANUFACTURERS STATIONERS' SUPPLIES.
KEENE, N. H.

ESTABLISHED, 1848.

D. A. ALTICK'S SON,

Manufacturer of High Grade Buggies, Surries, Phaetons, &c.

We claim to build, not the CHEAPEST, but the BEST for the money.

All we ask is, a TRIAL ORDER.

Send for catalogue, and by mentioning this paper we will allow you an EXTRA DISCOUNT.

D. A. ALTICK'S SON,
LANCASTER, PENN.

The Chamberlin Improved Screw Stump Puller.

The only practical stump puller made, pulls any and all classes and sizes of stumps. Four different sizes always in stock. When you buy get the best. Manufactured and sold by the Chamberlin Manufacturing Company of Olean, N. Y.

Write for catalogue and prices.

Chamberlin Manufacturing Company, - Olean, N. Y.

Relay Bicycles

Have more points of merit, than any other High Grade Bicycle.

FULL OF GRACE AND BEAUTY.

Every Wheel Guaranteed. Send for Catalogue.

Relay M'f'g Co., Reading, Pa.

NATURE'S REMEDY

CURES IN THE RIGHT WAY, BY REGULATING THE LIVER AND KIDNEYS, AND PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

It is a positive cure for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, Chills, and all diseases arising from a diseased liver or the kidneys, or impure blood.

YOUR MONEY BACK Is the plan on which it is sold. If after taking the entire box of medicine you do not think you have had your money's worth, send us back the guarantee, which you will find in the box, and we will send you a check for $1.00 by return mail.

It is put up in two forms, powder and tablets. The tablets are the easier to take, requiring no mixing. Price $1.00 for 180 doses of either kind. Sent post paid upon receipt of price. Send 10 cents for ten days' treatment and copy of Nature's Guide to Health.

A. H. LEWIS MEDICINE CO., - Bolivar, Mo.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

Made This Change.

DO YOU suffer from Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emission, Shrunken or Undeveloped Organs, Youthful Errors, Excessive Use of Tobacco or Opium? Sent by mail on receipt of price. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

WE GUARANTEE to cure you or refund money, and we stand by our guarantee.

Sold at $1 per Box, 6 Boxes for $5.

Sold By Fischler & Son

WHY NOT BUY THE BEST?

Sterling positively will not injure your hands or the finest fabric. This has been proven by actual tests. Clothes washed with it become white and odorless. Matchless for flannels. Superb for glassware. Will remove stains from marble and make your floors white as chalk.

Try it that it may speak for itself.

$2.50 Cleveland ..TO.. BUFFALO

....Also Daily Line Between....

Cleveland and Toledo,
Via "C. & B. LINE."

Steamers "City of Buffalo," (new) "State of Ohio" and "State of N. Y."

DAILY TIME TABLE.
Sunday Included May 23 to Oct 31

Lv Cleveland 7:00 p. m. | Lv Buffalo 7:30 p. m.
Ar Buffalo 7:30 a. m. | Ar Cleveland 7:30 a. m.

Central Standard Time.

Take the "C. & B. Line" steamers and enjoy a refreshing night's rest when enroute to Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, New York, Boston, Albany, 1000 Islands, or any Eastern or Canadian Point.

Cheap Excursions Weekly to Niagara Falls.

Send 4 cents for tourist pamphlet.
For further information ask your nearest Coupon Ticket Agent, or address.

W. F. HERMAN, Gen. Pass. Agt.
T. F. NEWMAN, Gen. Manager.
Cleveland, Ohio.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies. Especially recommended to married Ladies. Ask for DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler — Son.

JOB PRINTING

LETTER HEADS, BILL HEADS, CARDS, ENVELOPES, CIRCULARS.

HALL'S
Vegetable Sicilian
HAIR RENEWER
Beautifies and restores Gray Hair to its original color and vitality; prevents baldness; cures itching and dandruff. A fine hair dressing.
R. P. Hall & Co., Props., Nashua, N. H.
Sold by all Druggists.

How to Swing a Hammock in the Yard.

"If you want to swing a hammock in a yard offering but little space," says the June Ladies' Home Journal, "have two brackets or davits made of two-inch gas pipe and bent at the blacksmith's. At the hanging ends hooks are welded, to which hang the hammock. The pipes are fastened securely to the fence by bands of iron screwed fast to the fence. Wires may be strung over-head upon which vines can be trained."

The Grain-O Law Suit.

Rochester, N. Y., May 19, 1897.—The great $50,000 damage suit instituted by a Michigan Cereal Co. against the Genesee Pure Food Co. is at an end. They settled it and took it out of court for the ridiculously small sum of $500, and, as a practical result, Grain-O is in greater demand than ever. The new plant only just completed is to be duplicated, so that, not only the old friends of the delicious food drink which completely takes the place of coffee, but the new friends it is making every day, can be supplied. The beverage which the children, as well as the adult, may drink with benefit will be furnished in unlimited quantities.

Suits may come and suits may go, but Grain-O goes on forever.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

Dante's "Divina Commedia" was a monument to Beatrice. He fell in love with her when she was 8 and he was 9 years old. She afterwards married another man, and he another woman, but these little incidents do not seem to have cut any figure, though the course of true love in his case ran no more smoothly than it is said to do in most others.

Hall's Catarrh Cure
Is taken internally. Price 75 cents.

A sweet disposition, a lovely soul, an affectionate nature, will speak in the eyes, the lips, the brow, and become the cause of beauty.

Wabash Railroad.
REMEMBER that if you want to visit the Pacific Slope this summer the WABASH will take you out to San Francisco and back at astonishingly low rates. Ask Wabash Agents about it.

A list of Country homes along the South Shore of Lake Erie open to Summer Boarders will be mailed to any one enclosing a two-cent stamp to B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent of the Nickel Plate Road, Cleveland, Ohio.

Laugh at the Sun Drink HIRES Rootbeer
Keep Cool-Drink HIRES Rootbeer
Keep Well-Drink HIRES Rootbeer.
Quenches your thirst HIRES Rootbeer.

ALABASTINE IS WHAT?
A pure, permanent and artistic wall-coating ready for the brush by mixing in cold water.
FOR SALE BY PAINT DEALERS EVERYWHERE.
FREE A Tint Card showing 12 desirable tints, also Alabastine Souvenir Rock sent free to any one mentioning this paper.
ALABASTINE CO., GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

EARN A BICYCLE
600 Second Hand Wheels. All Makes. Good as new. $5 to $15. New High Grade '96 models, fully guaranteed. $17 to $25. Special Clearing Sale. Ship anywhere on approval.
We will give a responsible agent in each town one set of sample wheels to introduce them. Our reputation is well known throughout the country. Write at once for our special offer.
H. P. MEAD & PRENTISS, Chicago, Ill.

Why McCormick Changed from the Left to the Right Hand Binder.

It has been said that the conveniences of one age become the necessities of the next; but no ordinarily sane man will contend that the necessities of one age should become the inconveniences of the next. When binding was done by hand the left hand cut harvester was a necessity. The grain fell on the platform of the harvester and was delivered into the receiver with its heads towards the rear of the machine. The men stood in the receiver facing the grain. With the left hand machine the heads of the grain are at the left hand of the man doing the binding, so in taking out the bundle with the band around it, whether the man turned to the front table or to the back table he kept his position toward the bundle itself—that is, with the heads towards his left hand; hence, in making the tuck he shoved the ends under the band towards the heads. Grain is handled by the shocker by grasping into the heads, as shown in the illustration, and the tuck should therefore be toward the heads, so that it will not pull out.

The hand binding harvester with men to do the binding is out of date and so is the left hand machine, which has been superseded by the McCormick Right Hand Open Elevator, the success of which makes it seem highly probable that there will be no progressive manufacturer building left hand machines in three years.

The application of roller bearings to grain cutting machinery was made by J. G. Perry in 1869, and his patent, No. 86,584, for an improved reaper, showed and described various ways of using roller and ball bearings in harvesters.

Unquestionably the most practical and satisfactory application of roller bearings to binders and mowers has been made by the McCormick Harvesting Machine Company. The particular form used by them was patented in 1882 and is now to be found in all McCormick machines. The especially valuable feature of the Mc-

Cormick roller bearing is seen in the form—or cage as it is called—which holds the rollers from running together, and if for any cause the cage is taken from the shaft the rollers will not fall out and get lost.

The methods of the McCormick Company result in an annual saving of many thousands of dollars to the farming public. New devices are not embodied in their machines until long and oft repeated trials have shown them to be practical. It has been the same with roller bearings as with everything else—McCormick experimenting is done at McCormick expense, and not at the expense of the farmers, who are too often duped by manufacturers who rush into print for notoriety and bull the market with impractical forms.

Transparent Mirrors.

In passing the great plate glass windows of the shops, every one has noticed that if the interior be dark and dingy one gets a very good view of one's self reflected from the plate glass. Reflections seen in a car window at night are examples of the same thing. The transparent mirrors recently invented by a German chemist illustrate this principle. When the light and observer are on the reflecting side of a transparent mirror, one sees his own reflection. But if the light is on the opposite one sees the objects beyond through the glass just as through an ordinary window. The mirrors are made by coating glass with a chemical preparation of silver nitrate and other materials mixed up in a manner that has been patented by the inventor. That part of it isn't interesting. What does appeal to the fancy is the number of uses to which it can be put. The new mirrors are now being made by a large firm in France in various sizes and shapes—big mirrors in frames to set on the floor, panel-shaped doors to dark closets, and they hand glasses for the dresser, besides those of intricate and complicated design, for use by professional magicians, who see in the new invention a world of mystery fraught legerdemain.

A smooth roadway. Perfect passenger service. Uniformed colored train porters for the convenience of both first and second-class coach passengers. Quick time. Through Sleeping Car Service between Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo, New York and Boston. A Superb Dining Car Service. No change of cars for any class of passengers between Chicago and New York City. Rates lower than via other lines. These are the advantages presented by the Nickel Plate Road.

The empire of Morocco is the most important state that is absolutely without a newspaper.

AN OPEN LETTER
To MOTHERS.
WE ARE ASSERTING IN THE COURTS OUR RIGHT TO THE EXCLUSIVE USE OF THE WORD "CASTORIA," AND "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," AS OUR TRADE MARK.
I, DR. SAMUEL PITCHER, of Hyannis, Massachusetts, was the originator of "PITCHER'S CASTORIA" the same that has borne and does now Chas. H. Fletcher on every bear the fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. This is the original "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," which has been used in the homes of the mothers of America for over thirty years. LOOK CAREFULLY at the wrapper and see that it is the kind you have always bought Chas. H. Fletcher on the and has the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. No one has authority from me to use my name except The Centaur Company of which Chas. H. Fletcher is President
March 8, 1897: Samuel Pitcher M.D.
Do Not Be Deceived.
Do not endanger the life of your child by accepting a cheap substitute which some druggist may offer you (because he makes a few more pennies on it), the ingredients of which even he does not know.
"The Kind You Have Always Bought"
BEARS THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE OF
Chas. H. Fletcher
Insist on Having
The Kind That Never Failed You.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY

WOMAN'S REALM

Cross-Saddle Riding.

UNDOUBTEDLY much of the prejudice against the use of the cross-saddle by women arises from the vague and indefinite idea that women who thus ride are attired in trousers or "tights" or hideous bloomers or some such unfeminine dress. Many express great surprise on first sight of a lady rider tastefully and becomingly costumed in a cross-saddle habit, as the appearance presented is so different from that anticipated, says the Breeders' Gazette. A capital illustration came to light at the Kansas City horse show last September. Mrs. H. P. Colegrove of Chicago, the inventor of the best-fitting cross-saddle habit, won the medal offered at that show for such a costume. An old-time saddle-horse man from Missouri manifested much interest in the talk about the "new-fangled" style of riding for women, and after Mrs. Colegrove had been at the show for a couple of days he asked her "when she was going to put on her queer riding clothes," only to be amazed by the answer that she had been wearing the costume for two days! The habit is so made that when the rider is dismounted it appears like an ordinary street dress.

Greek Garb for Cycling.

Among the suggested costumes for the wheelwoman is the garb of the Greek rifles. The uniform is striking and handsome, and when adorning a pretty American girl with the bicycle habit would undoubtedly attract as much attention as the most vain could desire. The effect is to be noted in the picture showing a girl thus dressed.

CYCLING COSTUME A LA GREC.

Some New Beauty Hints.

A Chicago woman, who is no less celebrated for her beauty than for her walk and apparently spontaneous poses, has imparted a few hints on acquiring grace. It appears from the confession of this candid woman that grace of figure is no more spontaneous than is, as a usual thing, beauty of face. She herself has acquired both, and she frankly tells at what cost. To acquire poetry of movement, she says, go to the theater and study the best actresses. Literally study them. More can be learned in one evening from a graceful woman like Miss Ellen Terry, who has really no other beauty, than from hours of practicing before the mirror. The mirror work should come afterward, when the principles of graceful motion and pose have been mastered by observation. The secret of a good walk is even simpler. Find a poem with a particularly graceful rhythm and say a stanza or two over and over as you walk. A rhythmic walk will necessarily develop as the result. A girl who walks with poetry in her mind and on her lips will show poetry in her walk. For a beautiful face the recipe is not so new, though it is the one that ever holds good. Read good books. These will lead to habits of mind which cannot but leave their imprint on the face. It is a rule that has never been known to fail.

Cause Hard Features.

A curious and often saddening story may be formed from the faces of the women one passes on the street. One woman purses up her lips, another screws her eyes into unnaturalness, while a third will wrinkle up her forehead and eyebrows until she looks absolutely ugly. The trick is an unconscious one, but it is none the less a trick and a bad one. There is no reason why a woman should look forbidding and bad-tempered just because she is annoyed about something. Deep-seated trouble has a way of writing itself upon the face, whether we will or not. Sickness, too, has its own handwriting, and will not be concealed by art. But the frown caused by superficial troubles should not be entertained by the face for an instant. We should strive to look as pleasant as possible for the sake of others; a corresponding cheerfulness of temperament will inevitably result and always to the sweetening of our nature. We cannot afford to go about with gloomy faces. To depress others is not for us; our work is to cheer, to raise up, to comfort, but we shall never do this unless we cultivate a pleasant demeanor and cheerful temper. It is a duty to put care, worry and fretfulness behind one.

Jewelry and Trinkets.

Pie dishes show antique silver mounts and china linings.

Reeded glass jugs with silver lip and cover are used for claret.

Crystal marmalade pots, resting on silver trays, please the eye.

Seal rings for women come in varieties of bloodstones, jasper, onyx, etc.

Chocolate spoons with decorated Dresden handles have silver gilt bowls.

Among popular sets, in cases, are the child's spoon, knife fork and napkin ring.

A rabbit's foot, mounted in gold, is evidently a popular charm with both sexes.

Hand engraved trays with pierced borders are in demand, and come in several sizes.

The most popular bracelet is flexible, being in gold chain pattern, with gems set in at intervals.

Newest Handwear.

The extravagant use of gloves is probably at its height just now, for there must be one kind for driving, another for bicycling, another for shopping and still others for calling and evening wear. Those of light-weight ed buckskin suede will be proper for driving, and gray is the preferred shade. Gloves to accompany any particular costume should thoroughly harmonize. The two-button length is the thing for driving, bicycling or in games or sports, and the correct color is either tan or gray.

Restless Children.

To keep a restless child quiet in church, an English paper advises, provide him—or her—with two pincushions, one full and the other empty of pins. "The process of taking all the pins out of the full cushion and sticking them into the empty one is," it gladly says, "an absorbing employment, and one which does not quickly pall. It has the merit, too, of being noiseless." Imagine a churchful of children quietly occupied thus.

American Suffragists.

Miss Anthony lately paid a visit to Frances Willard in Castile, N. Y. Miss Anthony is as bright and active as she was fifty years ago. She celebrated her seventy-seventh birthday the other day. She is as eloquent as of old and is now engaged upon a certain important literary work. Miss Anthony accounts for her remarkable health by the care she takes not to overwork and not to worry. She never reads or writes before speaking, but saves all her force for the platform.

Rev. Anna Shaw, a stanch White Ribboner and suffragist, has her home in Philadelphia. She is one of the wittiest speakers that ever lifted a voice for equal suffrage. She was born on St. Valentine's day fifty years ago and is not ashamed to own to her half century of useful life.

To Get Rid of Mosquitoes.

A correspondent writes that last year she was almost compelled to give up working in the garden by reason of mosquitoes, but a happy thought suggested itself. Getting some kerosene oil she smeared the fences near which she had to weed and trim her plants, and to her delight the insects took wings and departed, not to return till the odor of the oil had entirely gone. A second application rid the garden of them for the season.

Latest in Hand Shakes.

This is the very latest way to shake hands: Two persons meet and clasp hands in the ordinary way. Then, still holding hands, there is a perceptible pause for a few seconds, and each is apparently inspired by a sudden impulse to make the greeting more cordial and less conventional. As though by an afterthought, the two drag each other closer and give each other's hands a hearty squeeze.

Tax on Bachelors and Spinsters.

The legislators of the Argentine Republic introduced a law which says that every male from the age of 20 to 80 shall pay a monthly tax till he marries. Celibates of either sex who without legitimate motive reject the addresses of him or her who may aspire to her or his hand must pay the sum of 500 plasters for the benefit of the person refused.

Mrs. Marie Cumming Remick.

(New President of the Chicago Woman's Club.)

Brooklyn Women Discard Birds.

The members of the Civitas Club of Brooklyn have set their hearts and heads against the wanton destruction of birds to gratify the feminine desire for fine hats. The Civitas includes in its membership 200 young women and matrons from cultivated Brooklyn's most cultivated circles and has also a long waiting list of would-be members in sympathy with its aims.

Pointed Toes Out of Fashion.

Pointed-toed shoes have gone out of fashion, the dame who rules fashion says, but shoe dealers say people are not willing to go back to more sensible footwear. Round-toed shoes are fashionable, but pointed-toed shoes are sold. The chiropodists rejoice over this latter fact, for the shoes with sharp toes have done much for their business.

Delicacy of the Sense of Smell.

The delicacy of the sense of smell almost surpasses belief. A single grain of musk has been known to perfume a room for twenty years. At the lowest computation that grain of musk must have been divided into three hundred and twenty million particles, each individually capable of affecting the organs of smell.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Tight Lacing Passee.

Tight lacing has distinctly gone out in smart circles, the well-dressed woman of to-day sees no fascination in a wasp-like appearance, in fact, she considers it bad form, and the best modistes also hesitate to build a gown upon such a figure, knowing well that rounded waists and full chests are the true type of beauty.

Tailor-Made Coats.

The English tailor-made coat has no gathers at the top of the sleeve. It has a little fullness, which is arranged in small dart seams covered with fancy braiding. Many of the coats are elaborately braided, and several different kinds of braid are used on one garment.

Spring Carpet Scrubbing.

Many house cleaners do not know that an old carpet scrubbed with common yellow soap and hot water and afterward with clean cold water will be wonderfully improved.

PHYSICIANS BAFFLED.

Prof. R. S. Bowman, Instructor of Natural Science in Hartsville College, Cured of a Severe Illness by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People After Physicians Failed.

From the Republican, Columbus, Ind.

Prof. R. S. Bowman, the able instructor of natural science in the famous Hartsville (Ind.) college, is well and favorably known not only as an educator, but also as a minister of the gospel, as for a number of years he was pastor of the United Brethren Church at Charlotte, Mich., before coming to Hartsville.

Some time ago he had a severe illness, which was cured almost miraculously. A reporter, hearing of this, interviewed him regarding his experience. Prof. Bowman was in the midst of his work when the reporter called, but he cheerfully gave him a hearing.

"A year ago last fall," said the Professor, "I broke down with nervous exhaustion, and was unable to properly attend to my duties. I tried different physicians, but with no relief, and also used many different proprietary medicines, spending almost fifty dollars for these medicines alone. I then succumbed to a siege of the grip in the middle of winter, and was left in a much worse condition. My kidneys were fearfully disordered, and my digestion became very poor. I was indeed in a bad condition.

PROF. R. S. BOWMAN.

"A minister in conference learning of my condition advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I had heard much about the wonderful curative powers of this medicine, but it was with reluctance that I was finally persuaded to try it, as it seemed that nothing could do me any good. However, I procured three boxes of pills and took them strictly according to directions. By the time the last dose was taken I was almost cured, and in better health than I had been for years. I continued using the pills awhile longer and was entirely cured. I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."

Such was Prof. Bowman's wonderful story, which was further indorsed by the following affidavit:

Hartsville, Ind., March 16, 1897.

I affirm that the above accords with the facts in my case. R. S. BOWMAN.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 16th day of March, 1897.

LYMAN J. SCUDDER, Notary Public.

State of Indiana, ss.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are sold in boxes (never in loose form, by the dozen or hundred) at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or directly by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N.Y.

English Cycle Trade.

England imported $770,000 worth of bicycles and exported $2,305,000 worth during the first three months of this year, the first year in which account has been taken month by month of the trade in wheels at the custom house.—London Answers.

Drunk for Twenty Years.

A correspondent writes: "I was drunk on and off for over twenty years, drunk when I had money, sober when I had none. Many dear friends I lost, and numbers gave me good advice to no purpose; but, thank God, an angel hand came at last in the form of my poor wife, who administered your marvelous remedy, 'Anti-Jag,' to me without my knowledge or consent. I am now saved and completely transformed from a worthless fellow to a sober and respected citizen."

If "Anti-Jag" cannot be had at your druggist, it will be mailed in plain wrapper with full directions how to give secretly, on receipt of One Dollar, by the Renova Chemical Co., 66 Broadway, New York, or they will gladly mail full particulars free.

"I've just got a letter from ma telling me to come home," said a boarding school boy to his chum. "What made her send it?" "She thinks I'm sick. I wrote that I didn't eat all day yesterday." "But didn't you?" "Why, no, I never eat all day."—Texas Siftings.

There Is a Class of People

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over one-fourth as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15c and 25c per package.

Fame in France.

France has set about 300 monuments to more or less distinguished Frenchmen during the last twenty-five years, and there are now 127 committees collecting money for more.

Piso's Cure for Consumption has been a godsend to me.—Wm. B. McClellan, Chester, Fla., Sept. 17, 1895.

Russia produces 111,640 barrels of petroleum daily.

Wabash Railroad.
For the Christian Endeavor National Convention to be held in San Francisco July 7-12, the WABASH will make the lowest rates. Apply to any Agent Wabash Railroad for particulars.

Why Not

Patronize the Nickel Plate Road on your next trip to New York City or Boston. They operate solid through trains elegantly equipped with palace sleepers, fine day coaches, attended by uniformed colored porters, whose duty require them to look out for the comfort of passengers. Magnificent Dining Cars. The Popular Low Rate Short Line.

When bilious or costive, eat a Cascaret, candy cathartic, cure guaranteed, 10c, 25c.

Wabash Railroad.
Go to San Francisco to the Y. P. S. C. E. Convention Via the WABASH LINE. Very low rates and fast time. By taking the WABASH you are given a choice of several routes both going and returning. For details call on or address any Agent Wabash Railroad.

Dishonored Drafts.

When the stomach dishonors the drafts made upon it by the rest of the system, it is necessarily because its fund of strength is very low. Toned with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, it soon begins to pay out vigor in the shape of pure, rich blood, containing the elements of muscle, bone and brain. As a sequence of the new vigor afforded the stomach, the bowels perform their functions regularly, and the liver works like clock work. Malaria has no effect upon a system thus reenforced.

Luminous Paint.

And now our nights, as well as our days, are to be made hideous by the advertising fiend. Some German has patented, and is preparing to put on the market in this country, a new kind of phosphorescent paint for use in lettering all kinds of advertisements on city boardings and country fences. The letters show in common black, white, or other colors during the day, but at night they shine with a smoky, lurid and altogether weird brilliancy.

Shake Into Your Shoes
Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder for the feet. It cures painful, swollen, smarting feet, and instantly takes the sting out of corns and bunions. It's the greatest comfort discovery of the age. Allen's Foot-Ease makes tight-fitting or new shoes feel easy. It is a certain cure for sweating, callous and hot, tired, aching feet. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores. By mail for 25 cents, in stamps. Trial package FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

England has turned against its own sparrow. The birds are being slaughtered wholesale by the farmers, especially in Yorkshire, and great disgust is expressed at the matter of their taking off. The Board of Agriculture refuses to protect the birds.

Buckingham's Dye for the Whiskers is a popular preparation in one bottle, and colors evenly a brown or black. Any person can easily apply it at home.

Equal parts of lime water and sweet oil well mixed will form a kind of soap which is very efficacious in taking out or removing inflammation, as well as for healing wounds caused by burns or scalds.

Shun ointments and lotions for skin diseases, cuts, sprains, bruises, etc., and use Glenn's Sulphur Soap. Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye, black or brown, 50c.

We shall be more apt to "know each other there," if we do not forget each other here.

The efficiency of the Passenger Service on the Nickel Plate Road is meeting recognition on all hands. Solid through trains between Chicago and New York City; Elegantly Equipped Palace Sleeping Cars; an Unexcelled Dining Service; uniformed colored porters on through trains; Fast Time and Rates always the lowest, all combine to make it the Most Popular Line between Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo, New York and Boston.

Just try a 10c box of Cascarets, candy cathartic, finest liver and bowel regulator made.

Wabash Railroad.
If you are going to visit the Tennessee Centennial Exposition now open at Nashville, inquire into the superb time and low rates offered by the WABASH R. R. Communicate with any Agent.

Can't Sleep, Why?
Because the nerves are weak and easily excited and the body is in a feverish and unhealthy condition. Nerves are fed and nourished by pure, rich blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives sweet, refreshing sleep because it purifies and enriches the blood and builds up the system.
Hood's Sarsaparilla
Is the Best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1, six for $5. Get only Hood's.
Hood's Pills cure liver ills; easy to take, easy to operate. 25c.

The greatest obligation of the parent to the child, is to give it a safe example.

Better than All of Them.

Mocha coffee, from Yemen in Arabia, is reputed to be the best; but the principal supplies are now obtained from Ceylon, Java, the West Indies, Brazil and Central America. No matter where it comes from, every berry of it contains caffeine, which is a slow poison. The more coffee you drink the more your nerves are disordered and your digestion injured. Coffee makes you fidgety and wakeful, then you take sedatives to quiet you. A bad business all around. Break it up by using Grain-O instead of coffee. Made from pure grains, it is a true food and body-builder as well as a delightful beverage. Make this change and you will soon cease to realize that you have a nerve in your system. The coming table drink is Grain-O. Packages 15c. or 25c. each—one-fourth the cost of coffee.

MOST farms pasture too many fences.

Wabash Railroad.
Before making your arrangements to attend the Y. P. S. C. E. Convention in San Francisco July 7 to 12, find out what rates and fast time is made by the WABASH and its several trans-continental connection. The Wabash tickets will take you over the magnificent scenic country in the Rocky Mountains.

No-to-Bac for Fifty Cents.
Over 400,000 cured. Why not let No-To-Bac regulate or remove your desire for tobacco? Saves money, makes health and manhood. Cure guaranteed, 50c and $1, all druggists.

Located on the South Shore of Lake Erie contiguous to the Nickel Plate Road are many Country Homes that will accommodate Summer Boarders. Send to B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent of the Nickel Plate Road at Cleveland, O., and he will forward you a list on receipt of a two-cent stamp.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething: softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

Wabash Railroad.
The WABASH R. R. is making very low round-trip rates to the Nashville Exposition, and by many hours the quickest time. Write to Wabash Agents for information.

Cascarets stimulate liver, kidneys and bowels. Never sicken, weaken or gripe. 10c.

An Artistic Brochure entitled "Summer Outings" is published by the Nickel Plate Road, describing vacation resorts along that line. Address B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., for a copy.

London theaters employ about 12,000 people.

AN INCIDENT AT THE CITY HOSPITAL.

A Woman's Life Barely Saved by a Critical Operation—Her Health Destroyed.

There was a hurry call for the ambulance of the City Hospital. In the course of an hour a very sick young woman was brought in on a stretcher. She was pale as death and evidently suffering keen agony. There was a hasty examination and a consultation. In less than a quarter of an hour the poor creature was on the operating table to undergo the operation called ovariotomy.

There was no time for the usual preparation. Her left ovary was on the point of bursting; when it was removed, it literally disintegrated. If it had burst before removal, she would have died almost instantly! That young woman had had warnings enough in the terrible pains, the burning sensation, the swelling low down on her left side. No one advised her, so she suffered tortures and nearly lost her life. I wish I had met her months before, so I could have told her of the virtues of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. As it is now, she is a wreck of a woman.

Oh, my sisters, if you will not tell a doctor your troubles, do tell them to a woman who stands ever ready to relieve you! Write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., confide freely to her all your troubles, and she will advise you free of charge; and if you have any of the above symptoms take the advice of Miss Agnes Tracy, who speaks from experience and says:

"For three years I had suffered with inflammation of the left ovary, which caused dreadful pains. I was so badly affected that I had to sleep with pillows under my side, and then the pain was so great it was impossible to rest.

"Every month I was in bed for two or three days. I took seven bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and am entirely cured. I think there is no medicine to be compared with the Compound for female diseases. Every woman who suffers from any form of female weakness should try it at once." MISS AGNES TRACY, Box 432, Valley City, N. D.

CANDY CATHARTIC Cascarets CURE CONSTIPATION
REGULATE THE LIVER
10¢ 25¢ 50¢ ALL DRUGGISTS
ABSOLUTELY GUARANTEED to cure any case of constipation. Cascarets are the Ideal Laxative, never grip or gripe, but cause easy natural results. Sample and booklet free. Ad. STERLING REMEDY CO., Chicago, Montreal, Can., or New York. 217.

It Was Before the Day of SAPOLIO
They Used to Say "Woman's Work Is Never Done."

$75 $50
RIDE A CRESCENT BICYCLE
Western Wheel Works
MAKERS
CHICAGO ILLINOIS
CATALOGUE FREE

CURE YOURSELF!
Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous.
Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.
CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

PATENTS H. B. WILLSON & CO., Washington, D.C. No charge till patent obtained. 50-page book free.

When Writing to Advertisers say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

WHATEVER is worth doing, is worth doing well. Painting can only be done well by having the best materials—Pure White Lead and Pure Linseed Oil, properly applied. There is nothing else "just as good." Avoid "mixtures" and unknown brands of White Lead—the "sold-for-less-money" sort. (See list of the genuine brands.)

FREE By using National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors, any desired shade is readily obtained. Pamphlet giving valuable information and card showing samples of colors free; also cards showing pictures of twelve houses of different designs painted in various styles or combinations of shades forwarded upon application.

NATIONAL LEAD CO., CHICAGO BRANCH,
Fifteenth and State Sts. Chicago, Ill.

SOMETHING NEW

5¢

Large package of the world's best cleanser for a nickel. Still greater economy in 4-pound package. All grocers. Made only by
THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY,
Chicago, St. Louis, New York, Boston, Philadelphia.

HIGH GRADE WORK GIVES THE CONSUMER SATISFACTION,
Consequently is best for the Dealer to handle.

A Full Line of BUGGIES, SURREYS, PHAETONS, ROAD WAGONS, &c., &c.

Send for Catalogue and Prices.

All Work Guaranteed.

We also Manufacture DOVETAIL BODIES AND GEARS IN THE WHITE.

DOVETAIL COMPANY
CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND.

FACTORY, Cor. Oak & College Sts.
SALESROOM, 214 E. Main St.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—in Effect Nov. 29, 1896.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations	Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne	11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 40
New Era	12 12 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junction	12 25	5 28	7 58
Auburn	12 29	5 29	8 37
Waterloo	12 41	5 41	9 24
Summit	12 52	5 52	9 46
Steubenville	12 56	5 56	9 50
Pleasant Lake	1 03	6 03	10 12
Angola	1 13	6 14	10 50
Jackson	3 25	8 35	4 30 pm

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations	Fre'gt	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson dp	6 30 am	11 35 am	7 05 am
Angola	12 25	2 19 pm	9 26
Pleasant Lake	1 03	2 29	9 36
Steubenville	....	2 36	9 42
Summit	1 26	2 39	9 46
Waterloo	2 25	2 55	10 00
Auburn	2 53	3 10	10 20
Auburn Junction	3 14	3 14	10 14
New Era	4 05	3 24	10 26
Fort Wayne	5 25	3 55	11 00

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent Auburn.

Wabash Line

GOING EAST.

No. 2	5:53 am—Daily
No. 4	7:45 pm—ex Su
No. 70 (local freight)	3:18 pm—ex Su
No. 6	2:03 pm—ex Su

GOING WEST.

No. 5	7:27 am—Daily
No. 3	7:10 pm—Daily
No. 71, (local freight)	9:55 am—ex Su
No. 7	12:09 pm—ex Su

All these trains stop for passengers.
For rates, tickets, time tables, etc. apply to
I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind
Chas. M. Hays, V. Pres. and Gen't Manager.
G. S. Crane, Gen'l Pass'r and Ticket Agent

B. & O. R. R.

Schedule In Effect Nov. 22 '96
Leaves Auburn Junction.

WEST BOUND.

No. 3 Express, to Garrett only	8:53 p m
No. 15 Daily	2:00 a m
No. 5 Daily	4:30 a m
No. 7 Daily	4:18 p m
No. 17 Daily Except Suday	12:25 p m

EAST BOUND.

No. 4 Express	4:30 a m
No. 6 Daily	8:05 p m
No. 8 Daily	2:40 p m
No. 41 Daily	11:41 p m
No. 35, Daily, except Sunday	12:25 p m

D. S. MARTIN, Manager of Passenger Traffic.
G. H. YOUNG, Auburn Junction, Ind

J. H. JOHNSTON,
DENTAL SURGEON,
Auburn - Indiana.
OFFICE OVER PIONEER HARDWARE STORE.
SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO PLATE WORK

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS.
Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, Corner Main and Sixth Streets.
Professional Calls Promptly Answered.
Telephones: Western, 19; Central Union, 19
D. J. Swartz, M. D. Vesta W. Swartz, M. D

Lake Erie & Western R.R.
--ALL RAIL--
NIAGARA FALLS
Excursion
WAIT FOR THE OLD RELIABLE
Lake Erie & Western
Personally Conducted
NIAGARA FALLS EXCURSION
Thursday, August 5, 1897,
....ALSO....
Sandusky, Put-in-Bay, Cleveland and Buffalo,
WITH SIDE TRIPS TO
LEWISTON, TORONTO, THOUSAND ISLANDS, ETC.
For tickets, rate, time and pamphlet containg general information, call on any ticket agent of the above route, or address
C. F. DALY,
General Passenger Agent,
INDIANAPOLIS, IND

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
Capital and Surplus $60,000.
Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest, if left six months. County and town orders bought and sold. Money to loan.
C. A. O. McCLELLAN, PRESIDENT
CHAS. McCLELLAN, CASHIER.

ALBERT ROBBINS, PRES. J. C. HENRY, V. P
FARMERS BANK.
—INCORPORATED—
AND UNDER STATE CONTROL.
Capital and Surplus $50,000
Transacts a General Banking Business and pays Interest on time Deposits.
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

J. H. SPARLING, M. D., C. M
(Successor to Dr. Nusbaum)
Graduate Canadian University. Special Courses New York and Chicago on Diseases of Women and Children Five Years Experience in Practice, in Canada.....
Office Over Hebel Bros.' Store. Residence S. Main St., Formerly Occupied by Dr. Nusbaum.
AUBURN, IND.

F. W. HOFFMAN,
DENTIST,
AUBURN, - - - - - - INDIANA
Office in Grindy building, northeast corner of Square.....
CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.

Garrett's Graduates.

The Garrett High School held its graduation exercises last evening, May 27, in Wagner's Opera House. By five o'clock every reserved seat had been sold, and the non-reserves came into use. At 8 p. m. the audience filled the room. The stage was beautiful with flowers etc, and at the back and around the sides were the graduates, teachers and school board. The exercises began with prayer, by Rev. Haines, of the M. E. church, Mr. Kemp, who was to have done this, was kept away by ill health. The class motto was "Truth Shall be Our Shield," in large letters over the front of the stage. The first oration was, "Pharaoh's Chariot Wheel" by Bertha Schelter, who spoke well and had evidently given her subject much thought. Ida B. Hollopeter's subject was, "The Impending Question," a good subject, and excellently handled, and which created a good impression on her hearers. "The Victories of Peace," a well prepared oration, was delivered by C. I. Clark. Mr. Clark was earnest and forcible in his address, and had evidently furnished the matter of it from his own reflection and study. Miss Mabel Moore, gave, "The Dawning of the Twentieth Century," a very timely topic which gave her ample scope for saying many good things. The last was by Harry Hays, his subject being "Province of Solidarity," the aim being to show the value of that unity, which in all ways and all times, secures strength and consequent success. It should be said that all these young people did well. There was also, an abundance of choice music. The Garrett orchestra was present, and won high honors, as did also, the Garrett Male Quartet. But Garrett has her individual musicians, who are highly cultured. This was shown at the piano, by Miss Maud Sembower and Miss Flora Thompson. And there was a fine violin solo by Mr. C. M. Beyher, and a song of great sweetness and power, by Mrs. J. A. Moore. The speech made by the superintendent, Geo. M. Hoke at the close, was thoughtful and scholarly, full of good words and wishes for the class '97, to each of whom he presented the regular diploma. Mr Wagner, Mr. Frederick, Mr. Halter all of whom took great interest in the meeting, seem to be the right men on the school board. All in all, their 12th commencement was one to be proud of.

Auburn Man Again

Auburn is not often forgotten when plums are ripe and falling. Commander Dodge of the State G. A. R. has just been making his appointments for the different working committees all over the state. And we notice that in the committe on Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument the name of R. H. Weamer, of Auburn is quite prominent. And on the same list we find Cyrus Seiler, of Elkhart, a former DeKalb boy, with home in Fairfield.

And it might not be out of place if we add a few other familiar names, John W. Headington, colonel of the Old Hundredth Indiana is on the Soldier's Home committee. Judge A. O. Marsh, who sat in the case here against the commissioners and decided that even county courts must obey the constitution of the United States, is chairman of the committee on School Histories. T. J. Charlton of the State Reform School is on the same committee. James H. Cisney. of Warsaw, and Hon. Will Cumback, of are Greensburg are on the Morton Monument committee. Altogether, Mr. Dodge has made good selections as far as we know them.

La Grippe

If you have had the Grippe, you know its aches and pains, the fever, the chills, the cough, the depression—you know them all. The Grippe exhausts the nervous system quickly, lowers the vitality. Two things should be done at once:—the body must be strengthened, and force must be given to the nervous system. Cod-liver Oil will do the first; Hypophosphites the second. These are permanently and pleasantly combined in Scott's Emulsion.

It lifts the despondency and heals the inflamed membranes of the throat and lungs.

But you need not have LA GRIPPE.

You can put your system in a condition unfavorable to it. You can have rich, red blood; resistive strength; steady brain and nerves. Scott's Emulsion prevents as well as cures.

And whether you send or go for Scott's Emulsion, be sure you get the genuine.

SCOTT & BOWNE, New York.

Do You Use It?

It's the best thing for the hair under all circumstances. Just as no man by taking thought can add an inch to his stature, so no preparation can make hair. The utmost that can be done is to promote conditions favorable to growth. This is done by Ayer's Hair Vigor. It removes dandruff, cleanses the scalp, nourishes the soil in which the hair grows, and, just as a desert will blossom under rain, so bald heads grow hair, when the roots are nourished. But the roots must be there. If you wish your hair to retain its normal color, or if you wish to restore the lost tint of gray or faded hair use

Ayer's Hair Vigor.

SHULL LIBERATED.

Yesterday afternoon Frank Shull was liberated from the county jail. His attorney, Mr. Croxton came down from Angola and the necessary bonds were furnished.

Best Train In the World.

E. T. Delapp, the Lake Shore agent at Auburn was one of the fortunate few, who received a formal invitation to take a trip in that finest train in the world, which made its first run on Wendesday out of Chicago and over the C. B. & Q. road. The train is one built by the Pullmans, for this occasion, and no pains or expense have been spared to make it perfect in all its appartments.

There were five coaches in this train, and the road is to have two trains of them, and they start on regular runs next week. A compartment car like these, has a length of 69½ feet, with vestibules the full width. There are nine separate compartments, two being drawing rooms and some state rooms. All are fitted up in a luxurious manner, and with every convenience as to sofas, mirrors, toilet appliances and berths, equal to the accommodations at an expensive hotel. The train will be lighted by electricity and be prepared to have gas lighting should that be needed. Two of the staterooms are finished in St. Jago mahogany, two in Tobasco mahogany and two in Circassian walnut. The arms, etc. of the seats and lounges are in willow work, very elaborate. The sleeping cars are equally beautiful and luxurious, and all woodwork in both kinds of cars, is finely ornamented with marquetry work. The cost of materials alone, for one of these cars is over $500. There is also a dining car, and another fine buffet and smoking room car, all superbly fitted. And the number, variety and strangeness of the cigar and wine list on this particular occasion fairly bewildered Auburn's representative, for Mr. DeLapp neither smokes, drinks, cheews or swears, and we opine he felt like a cat in a strange garrett. Still there were things enough that he could enjoy, to make the trip a delightful one, and one long to be remembered. The speed of this particular trip should not be overlooked. The train ran from Chicago to Galesburg, the trip made Tuesday, in 3 hours and 15 minutes, the distance covered being 163 miles. A part of the way, the speed was over a mile a minute. Mrs. Delapp and little son, were also of the party, and enjoyed the trip greatly.

Brakeman Killed.

GARRETT IND. May 27—(Special to the Auburn COURIER:)—About 11 tonight word came over the lines to the offices here, that Brakeman Amos Best had been killed near Deshler. He was on the gravel train that left this place about 7 this evening for the east and it is supposed that in some way he fell off between the cars and the train ran over him. He was not missed till they reached Deshler, and when it was found there was one of the trainmen missing, and that it was Best. It was then remembered that they had felt the train running over something a few miles back. Best was unmarried and he and his brother, both were brakemen, have resided in Garrett for some time.

The Angola Matter.

We are informed that to-morrow there will be a mass meeting of taxpayers at Angola, to discuss the matter of investigating the county books. It is said that the chief cause of the discontent is the manner in which the commissioners and officers proceeded in the steps taken to secure Mr. Ernst to do the work. It is claimed that from the start, the officers seemed unwilling to proceed, but finally, under pressure, concluded to have the work done. Mr. Ernst was quietly notified to come up, and was met at the train by, Ex-auditor Don. Wood, one of the leading political managers of the county. He took Mr. Ernst home with him and the other leaders and the officers came in and had a secret meeting with him, not in the Commissioners' as it should have been, but in the grand jury room.

The Board hired Mr. Ernst, and he was to begin early in June. But the matter was kept still. It is told that on one occasion a leading taxpayer asked one of the commissioners fairly and squarely, if they had engaged any one to examine the books. He finally admitted they had and that it was Mr. Ernst, but told the man to keep it quiet. So it was kept quiet, and as it was believed no steps had been taken to examine the books, the taxpayers took the matter in hand, and hired another man, a thing they would not have done, had they known Mr. Ernst had been hired. But now, since he was taken in hand so quietly by the leaders of the court house officials, they fear the investigation will not be a fair one. So they have called a mass meeting for to-morrow, May, 28, at 10 o'clock, in the court square and will have speakers, pass resolutions, etc. It promises to make a lively fight, for the more the officials "hang back" the more eager are the taxpayers to find what causes this reluctance.

ODD FELLOWS' PICNIC.

At a meeting of representatives from all the I. O. O. F. and D. of R. lodges of DeKalb county, held in their hall, Auburn, Ind., Tuesday afternoon over which Sol Parner, of St. Joe, was called to preside, it was resolved that these orders hold a grand basket county picnic at the city of Waterloo, Ind., Saturday, June 19, 1897, on which occasion an interesting program will be arranged, consisting of music, vocal and instrumental, addresses, short talks and a general love feast, of which particulars will be furnished later. Committees were appointed as follows:

On invitations, S. G. Stone, M. Bronstetter and Mrs. S. B. Jones, Butler.

On program and arrangements, the I. O. O. F. and D. of R. lodges of Waterloo.

On finance, G. Bovee, Mrs. W. L. Penfield, Auburn; C. A. Jenkins, St. Joe; W. McNabb and Mrs. Behler, of Garrett.

On music, W. Curie and S. Barney, St. Joe; A. C. Cobbler, Garrett.

It is their purpose to make this a grand fraternal social gathering as already stated, and the people of Waterloo will extend a hearty welcome and do their utmost to entertain all who attend.

J. F. Shuman, of Waterloo, was the secretary and will answer any enquiries concerning this picnic.

It was requested that the newspapers of the county be furnished with the proceedings, and that they be invited to publish whatever they see fit. To do this will aid in making the picnic the success desired.

Mothers, Save the Babies.

Summer complaint, dysentery and diarrhœa carry many babies to the grave. Mothers, take warning and use in time Dr. John W. Bull's Baby Syrup to regulate the bowels and allay inflammation. "We have used Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup for thirteen years with the best result. We would as soon be without flour or sugar in the house as this remedy. A. N. Burgess, Grove, Ohio." Ask your dealer for Dr. John W. Bull's Baby Syrup. Price 25 cts.

Sold by F. E. Davenport, Auburn.

D'd You Ever.

Try Electric Bitters as a remedy for your troubles? If not, get a bottle now and get relief. This Medicine has been found to be peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all female complaints, exerting a wonderful direct influence in giving strength and tone to the organs. If you are loss of appetite, constipation, headache, fainting spells, or are nervous, sleepless, excitable, melancholy or troubled with dizzy spells, Electric Bitters is the medicine you need. Health and strength are guaranteed by its use. Large bottles only fifty cents at Robbins & McCord's. 8

CASTORIA
Fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

We do Job Printing Cheap and you don't have to pay cash either. We give you time

MARRIED TODAY.

Were Will Wile and Miss Laura Sawvel.

That would have been a nice joke, after a courtship of a few years, had Mr. Wile succeeded in quietly taking upon himself the solemn oath of marriage, and the awful responsibility of becoming a husband. But the COURIER never sleeps and when we saw Billy dressed in his best bib and tucker and driving out of town we surmised a wedding. And lest we might be wrong we consulted the records at the court house. The wedding took place today at Butler and the fortunate and handsome young lady is Miss Laura Sawvell, formerly a teacher in the Auburn schools. Miss Sawvel resides on a farm a few miles out of Butler. She is a refined and well educated young lady and Mr. Wile is to be congratulated in securing her for his partner through life. They will reside in Auburn. The COURIER is pleased to announce this happy event and with their many friends extends congratutions.

We'uns and You'uns.

We'uns met you'uns on the street one day,
And you'uns to we'uns had nothing to say.
We'uns said "mornin'" and "How-do-ye-do,"
You'uns saw something in the sky so blue.

We'uns passed on with our head inclined,
Wondering and thinking in our mind
How you'uns to we'uns might some day be.
If we'uns were lucky, and "up in G."

Suppose you'uns and we'uns then should meet
In private or public on the street,
Would you'uns to we'uns gladly fly?
Would we'uns see something in the sky?

O, Father of you'uns, lead we'uns aright.
Turn on to all'uns thine "X rays" of light
Cause you'uns and we'uns each other to see
As though we'uns were you'uns and you'uns were we.

J. G. PLOWMAN.

B. & O. Low Rates

On Tuesdays and Thursdays of each week the Baltimore & Ohio R. R. will sell excursion tickets to Nashville, Tenn., and return at very low rates, on account of the Tennessee Centennial and International Exposition. Tickets will be good for return ten (10) days from date of sale.

Excursion tickets limited for return twenty (20) days from date of sale, will be sold every day until October 15, inclusive.

Season tickets will be sold every day until October 15, and will be good for return until November 7, 1897. 20-26

For further information call on or address nearest B. & O. Ticket Agent, or L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Chicago, Ill. 20-22

None Equal to Dr Hand's So says Mother

Nelsonville; O., Dec. 20, '95.—Dr. Hand—Dear Sir:—"I have been using your remedies for my children for over four years. I have used many other medicines but have found none equal to yours. Have recommended Dr. Hand's Colic Cure to many other mothers and persuaded them to try it; they all say it proves satisfactory. I am the mother of nine children and am never without a bottle of all of Dr. Hand's Remedies in the house." At Fischler & Son's

DEER PARK
On the Crest Of the Alleghenies.

To those contemplating a trip to the mountains in search of health or pleasure, Deer Park, on the crest of the Alleghany Mountains, 3,000 feet above sea level, offers such varied attractions as a delightful atmosphere during both day and night, pure water, smooth, winding roads through the mountains and valleys, Cricket grounds, Golf links, Tennis courts, and all the most picturesque scenery in the Alleghany range. The hotel is equipped with all adjuncts conducive to the entertainment, pleasure and comfort of guests.

There are also a number of furnished cottages with facilities for housekeeping.

The houses and grounds are supplied with absolutely pure water, piped from the celebrated "Boiling Spring," and are lighted with electricity. Deer Park is on the main line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and has the advantage of its splendid Vestibuled Limited Express trains between the east and west. Season excursion tickets, good for return passage until October 31, will be placed on sale at greatly reduced rates at all principal ticket offices throughout the country.

The season at Deer Park commences June 21, 1897.

For full information as to rates, rooms, etc., address D. C. Jones, Manager, Camden Station, Baltimore, Md. 19-22

CATON'S-TANSY-PILLS-
A TRIED, TRUE AND SAFE WOMAN'S RELIEF. Always prompt and reliable. Avoid Imitations. Get CATON'S TANSY PILLS and SAVE MONEY. At drug stores, or send direct (sealed), price $1. CATON DRUG CO., BOSTON, MASS. Pamphlet 4c.

Mrs. Boullion, 222 Crane St. Writes:

Dayton, O., March 12, '96.—'My baby is two months old and from her birth has had severe attacks of wind colic. I tried almost everything, but nothing gave her any relief until I got Dr. Hand's Colic Cure. I have used two bottles and would not do without it. It surely is the best colic medicine ever made." Dr. Hand's Colic Cure and all of Dr Hand's Remedies at Fischler & Son's 25c.

CASTORIA.
The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.
Celebrated for its great leavening strength and healthfulness. Assures the food against alum and all forms of adulteration common to the cheap brands. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

THE ALUMNI

The Alumni Banquet meeting last evening was fairly well attended, and the exercises excellent. Forty-seven sat down to the banqet, which was a fine one, prepared by the ladies of the M. E. church. The lecture room, where the meeting proper, was held, was made lovely with flowers etc. and everything done to make the meeting pleasant. There were a number of addresses, including Flora Hoffman, D. M. Link, Edward Little, Mrs. Nannie Peterson, Stella Hague and perhaps others. Miss Mae Rose was toastmistress.

There is no Word so Full of Meaning
and about which such tender recollections cluster as that of "MOTHER"—she who watched our helpless infancy and guided our first tottering step. The life of every Expectant Mother is beset with danger.

"Mother's Friend"
so assists Nature in the change taking place that the Expectant Mother is enabled to look forward without dread to the hour when she experiences the joy of Motherhood. It insures safety to both Mother and Child, and she is found stronger after than before confinement—in short, it "makes Childbirth easy," as so many have said. Don't be persuaded. Use nothing but
"Mother's Friend"
"My wife suffered more in ten minutes with either of her other two children than she did altogether with her last, having previously used four bottles of "Mother's Friend." It is a blessing to anyone expecting to become a mother, says a customer." HENDERSON DALE, Carmi, Ill.
Sent by Mail, on receipt of price, $1.00 PER BOTTLE. Book "To Expectant Mothers" mailed free, containing valuable information and voluntary testimonials.
THE BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

William's Kidney Pills
Has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. Have you neglected your Kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your Kidneys and Bladder? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, groins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire pass urine? William's Kidney Pills will impart new life to the diseased organs, tone up the system and make a new man of you. By mail 50 cents per box.
WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props., Cleveland, O.
Sold By Fischler & Son.

"Complete Manhood AND How to Attain It."
A Wonderful New Medical Book, written for Men Only. One copy may be had free, sealed, in plain envelope, on application.
ERIE MEDICAL CO.,
66 Niagara St.,
BUFFALO, N. Y.

MADE ME A MAN
AJAX TABLETS POSITIVELY CURE
ALL Nervous Diseases—Failing Memory, Impotency, Sleeplessness, etc., caused by Abuse or other Excesses and Indiscretions. They quickly and surely restore Lost Vitality in old or young, and fit a man for study, business or marriage. Prevent Insanity and Consumption if taken in time. Their use shows immediate improvement and effects a CURE where all other fail. Insist upon having the genuine Ajax Tablets. They have cured thousands and will cure you. We give a positive written guarantee to effect a cure in each case or refund the money. Price 50 CTS. per package; or six pkges (full treatment) for $2.50. By mail, in plain wrapper, upon receipt of price. Circular free. AJAX REMEDY CO., 15 Dearborn St. Chicago, Ill.
Sold by F. E. Davenport, Auburn.

LIFE VIM VIGOR VITALITY DEATH
RESTORED IN 30 DAYS
NOW GOOD EFFECTS AT ONCE THEN
CATON'S VITALIZER
Cures general or special debility, wakefulness, spermatorhœa, emissions, impotency, paresis, etc. Corrects functional disorders, caused by errors or excesses, quickly restoring Lost Manhood in old or young, giving vigor and strength where former weakness prevailed. Convenient package, simple, effectual, and legitimate.
CURE IS QUICK AND THOROUGH.
Don't be deceived by imitations: insist on CATON'S Vitalizers. Sent sealed if your druggist does not have it. Price $1 per pkge, 6 for $5, with written guarantee of complete cure. Information, references, etc., free and confidential. Send as statement of case and 2c cts. for a week's trial treatment. One only sent to each person.
CATON MED. CO., BOSTON, MASS.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Recorder's Office

Volume XXVII | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, June 10, 1897. | Number 23.

RUN ESAY!

ECKHART BUGGIES,
CLEVELAND BICYCLES,
TURNBULL WAGONS,
McCORMICK MACHINES.

Brown, Culbertson & Roland,
Cash Hardware Store.

HIGH GRADE WORK GIVES THE CONSUMER SATISFACTION,
Consequently is best for the Dealer to handle.

A Full Line of BUGGIES, SURREYS, PHAETONS, ROAD WAGONS, &c., &c.

Send for Catalogue and Prices.

All Work Guaranteed.

We also Manufacture DOVETAIL BODIES AND GEARS IN THE WHITE.

DOVETAIL COMPANY
CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND.

FACTORY, Cor. Oak & College Sts.
SALESROOM, 214 E. Main St.

Free to the Ladies from the oldest and most reliable Tea House in the country.

A lady friend has sent us her photograph, displaying what she has earned from us—a watch and chain, dinner set and toilet set. We have reproduced her photograph, showing exactly what we are giving with Tea, Coffee, Spice and Baking Powder orders; and not only are our premiums of high grade, but the quality of our goods is such that the people want them, making the business pleasant and profitable. Square treatmnet has made the best ladies of the country our friends. It is them specially that we ask to write us for particulars. Address,

LIMA TEA CO., Lima, Ohio

DUANE WEBSTER

Escaped From the Michigan City Prison.

Thursday's Daily.

Duane Webster, who came near killing his parents near Newville, and who was sent from the DeKalb court to the prison north last November, for a term of eleven years, for assault with intent to kill, escaped, Wednesday morning from the prison, but was recaptured that evening. Webster is a cripple and was employed as a trusty outside the walls.

SANBAGGED.

The Fort Wayne Journal has the item:

Kendallville is again to the front with a sensational case. W. C. McKeller, the United States express agent, was sandbagged in his office Monday evening at 9:25 o'clock and $252 stolen from the safe. His clerk left the office at 9-20 and returned at 9:30, only to find his employer senseless on the floor, the back door to the room open and the safe looted. McKeller regained consciousness and said he was hit from behind just as he was depositing the money in the safe. This makes the second time he has been held up within a year. Early last fall he was held up on Mitchell street and relieved of a small amount of money. So smooth was the job last night that it leaves the officers no clew to work upon and no trace of the perpetrators has not yet been found.

Another Compliment.

The Chicago Presto is the leading musical Journal of the Central and Northwest States, and in its last issue is a very flattering account of the Jacobsohn Orchestral Club Concert at the Auditorium concert room, in Chicago, of which we recently made mention. After giving Professor Jacobsohn a high compliment as a musical instructor and leader, the editor alludes to several of the performers and their work that evening. And here is what he says of Estella Merica, of this place:

"Miss Estella Merica also scored a triumph for Mr. Jacobson as well as herself by her exquisite interpretation of the Vieuxtemps "Fantasie Caprice." She is a violinist of more than ordinary talent and ability and one of whom we shall hear later."

We also learn that Miss Merica has been engaged to go south and assist in furnishing music in the Woman's Building at the Nashville Centennial Exposition. This is a rare compliment and will, besides, give her an opportunity to see the country and the exposition, as well as afford valuable practice in her chosen work.

PAIL WAS EMPTY.

It is told of one of our prominent citizens, a story something like this:

He gets his milk of a neighbor, leaving a small covered pail there in the evening, and the pail is filled, the cover put on, and it sets on the porch till he gets up in the morning, and comes to get it. At least, this is in substance the process by which he secures a nice, rich mess of milk for daily use. The other morning, at about the usual hour he came out for his pail of milk. There it sat as usual, and he stooped and lifted it up, its lightness caught his attention and he gazed at it in blank astonishment. There he raised the cover. The pail was empty. Some tramp probably had got up earlier than he had.

The Bane of Beauty.

Beauty's bane is the fading or falling of the hair. Luxuriant tresses are far more to the matron than to the maid whose casket of charms is yet unrified by time. Beautiful women will be glad to be reminded that falling or fading hair is unknown to those who use

Ayer's Hair Vigor.

Auburn's New Railroad.

This forenoon there was a well-attended meeting at the grand jury room of many of the business men of Auburn. The object was, to organize a company and subscribe stock for the construction of a line of railroad from here to the Junction. This plan has been discussed for a number of years, more or less. At one time, a horse car line was contemplated. Later on, we talked up an electric trolley line. This time, as we understand it, it is to be a regular railroad with locomotive run by steam. At least, that is the way it was discussed at this meeting. The plan is to start the line at a point on South Jackson-st, where Eighth-st crosses it, and go west to the Body factory, thence south to the Junction. There it will connect, if built, with the B. & O. and probably an arrangement will be made to run in connection with a train or trains over the B. & O. at least as far as Garrett. Part of the needed stock has already been subscribed, and we believe steps will be taken to secure the rest of it. If so, the line will be built. We believe such a road will pay, as the hundreds who now walk back and forth from here to the Junction would gladly ride on a cheap fare.

IT IS JUDGE ROBY.

Last evening Mr. Roby received his commission as judge to succeed Judge Penfield on the bench of this circuit. This morning he was sworn in, and at once began work. He will no doubt make a working judge and will so far satisfy those who are interested court work. But there is naturally a good deal of feeling among the people in DeKalb against the appointment of man who is comparatively new in this county. There is also some dissatisfaction, because many have insisted ever since McKinley was elected, that Mr. Penfield would receive a federal appointment, and that there was an understanding that Mr Roby was to succeed him. People naturally dislike to see such an important office filled in such a way. They feel that their own wishes are not consulted. There have been, we are told, petitions extensively signed all over the county, but especially about Waterloo, asking Governor Mount to appoint Mr. Hartman. But it seems that Don Wood of Angola, who is chairman of this congressional district was in favor of Mr. Roby, and that no doubt had much to do in fixing the matter. And there are those who complain that Judge Penfield did much to control the appointment of his successor. Just how much truth there is in all these rumors we cannot say. But it is not our matter especially. The appointment would go to a republican anyway. The attorneys seem to be suited, and they are the ones who have the most to do with the judge. It will be the proper course to give the new man our confidence till we see how well he does. We hope he will feel that his time belongs to the people rather than to politics and make work at the court house go off in a business manner.

Our Lumber.

Laporte Argus.

It has developed that citizens of the United States own 4,235 square miles of lumber forest in Canada. These Americans are all opposed to a protective tariff on lumber. They want to send their product to this country and the people who want lumber want to get it as cheap as possible. A tax of $2 a thousand feet on Canadian lumber will add just that much to the price of it to the man who uses it, and it also adds to the price of the lumber from all Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota pineries. The man who uses the lumber finally pays the tax, and it therefore becomes a tax on industry and a bar to improvements.

WHY PAY RENT.

Better own a farm! Start now! Correspondence solicited from intending settlers. The North-Western Home-Seeker gives particular information to those interested in the pursuits of agriculture, dairying and cattle raising. Send for free copy to D. W. Aldridge, 127 The Arcade, Cleveland, Ohio, or W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago Illinois.

THE ORIGIN OF CORN

Boone Co., Neb., Argus.

The following beautiful little poem concerning the legend of the Indian corn, or maize, as told by Longfellow in his poem, "Hiawatha," was not composed by the versatile editor of the Blade, as some would naturally suppose, but was composed and written expressly for Mondamin, an Indian brave, who purchased a pair of beaded moccasions of Al-ex-Pringle, the shoemaker. in the early days of Boone county, and is supposed to have come from the pen of Tom-ma-so Wilkinson. After this explanation we will let-'er go-at-that:

Then the worthy brave Mandamin,
Pigeon-toed old cuss, Mandamin,
Put the beaded shoes upon his
Tootsie-wootsies; and he wore them
To the dance at Sing-sing-lu-lu.
To the dance at Polly-Jackson's;
And he danced in them at Kal-a
Ma-zoo, where the girls are cross-eyed;
Wore them, too, at South Chi-ca-go;
Wore them at a hop in Ken-wo-od;
Till his toes were sore and weary.
And his feet were mighty achey:
And he had upon his big toe,
On his big toe, Hurt-like-sixty,
Two big corns, and on the others
One corn each, and all were painful;
Very painful to Mondamin;
So he got his razor Keen-edge
For to trim his corns and prune them.
But alas! poor old Mondamin
Slipped upon a slick banana
Skin and cut his wheezy windpipe—
Cut his throat and died directly.
Then they buried old Mondamin,
Buried him at O-ko-bo-ji
By the river Pa-pa-ma-ma,
In the land of Hast-du-ge-sock,
And they went away and left him.
In the spring the rain and sunshine
Beat upon his grave, and soon there
Came a leaf of green from out the Ground just where his toe was buried,
And it grew into a cornstalk!
Thus the corns of old Mondamin
Gave the world the mighty maize-plant,
Off of which the Kansas farmers
Pluck the corn, and call it farming';
And they 'cuss' and 'cuss' in plenty,
For those toes of old Mondamin
Bring just 18 cents per bushel!"

WABASH EXCURSIONS.

For the National Convention Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, at SanFrancisco, Cal., July 7 to 12, the Wabash has made a very low rate from all stations and return for this occasion.

For Annual Meeting National Educational Association at Milwaukee, Wis., July 6 to 9, the Wabash will sell tickets to Milwaukee and return at one fare the round trip, plus $2.

The Third International Conference Epworth League, Toronto, Ont., July 15 to 18, the Wabash will sell tickets from all stations to Toronto and return at one fare for the round trip. For full particulars call on any Wabash agent.

A True Remedy.

W. M. Repine, editor Tiskilwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We wont keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you for just as good as Dr. King's new Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record for cures; besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy Trial bottles free at Robbins & McCord's Drug Store.

My Baby.

CANTON, O., 2-26-'96—Hand Medicine Co.—"My baby had been having wind colic since her birth and she was two months old when I procured a bottle of Dr. Hand's Colic Cure. In less than two weeks' time she was cured of having colic and has never had it since. We had tried several other medicines, but they did no good. I can cheerfully recommend your colic cure to be the best. Mrs. F. H. Rock," Sold by Fischler & Son, 25c.

CASTORIA.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Horrible! Horrible!

Innocent children by the thousand are constantly dying of diarrhœa whose life might be saved. How quickly the demon works! Flesh speedily wastes away as though subjected to fire. You try change of water, and change of food and change of air. The handiest and quickest and safest thing you can do is to procure at once a bottle of Dr. Hand's Diarrhœa Mixture, at any drug store, for 25c. It's wonderful how quickly it brings good results. Fischler & Son.

CASTORIA.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Our Weather

Man now promises us real, for sure, Summer. We think you will agree with us in calling this "Good News." We have other News in Store for you which are equally as good.

We Have Just Received

a very Large Stock of Summer Corsets of the celebrated "Royal Worcester" make. Our 39 cent corset is a hummer. For 50 cents we give you regular 75 cent quality. We are after your Corset Trade.

We Have Stacks

of Summer Underwear for Gentlemen, Ladies and Children. Our Men's Underwear at 25 cents are far ahead of what we had last year and we thought we had a good one. Our Ladies' Vest at 5 cents is quite good; 10 cents gets a better one, and 15 cents gets something extra nice.....

We Have a Magnificent Line

of Parasols and Fans. You can't afford to miss seeing them before making your purchase. It will do you good to see our Straw Hats. Every conceivable Style and at prices so low everyone can afford them. We have the line or.....

Summer Neckwear, String Ties,

All Colors and Figures, 25 cents for a dozen—just the thing for this season of the year. Band bows in endless variety, 10, 15 and 25 cents. Tecks, Clubs and Four-in-Hands to suit you. We want your trade; we are saving you money.....

Schaab & Bro.

THE REASON WHY

Thd Gilt Edge Furnace is the Best in the Market.

1. Because it has extensive radiation surface.
2. Because it is made of the very best material.
3. Because it has joints that are tight.
4. Because it is guaranteed to give satisfaction.
5. Because it is within reach of all.

These are some of the reasons why this furnace has become a favorite and so many are placed in the best houses. We have the exclusive agency in Butler, Auburn, Ashley and Waterloo. Call and see the sample furnace at J. C. DAY'S hardware store, Waterloo, or Write us for Catalogue, Estimates, Etc.

CLEMENS WOLF.

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

SEE THAT THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE —OF— Chas. H. Fletcher IS ON THE WRAPPER OF EVERY BOTTLE OF CASTORIA

Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk. Don't allow anyone to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose." See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

1897. JUNE. 1897.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
•	•	1	2	3	4	5
6	7	8	9	10	11	12
13	14	15	16	17	18	19
20	21	22	23	24	25	26
27	28	29	30	•	•	•
•	•	•	•	•	•	•

F. Q. 8th. F. M. 14th. L. Q. 21st. N. M. 28th.

THE NEWS RECORD.

SUMMARY OF A WEEK'S HAPPENINGS.

The Latest News as Flashed Over the Wires from All Parts of the World—Regarding Politics, Religion, Casualties, Commerce and Industry.

WILL TAKE ACTION.

Grave of President Lincoln's Mother to Be Put in Repair.

A special from Indianapolis says: The letter of President McKinley to Governor Mount calling attention to the neglected condition of the grave of President Lincoln's mother created much comment in official circles, and sentiment was pronounced that the State ought to take some action to preserve the spot in a sightly condition.

When Governor Mount was seen he said that he had not given the matter any attention yet, but intended to do so at once. "I have been at the grave," said he, "and it was in a very neglected condition, weeds growing over it, and the half acre in which it is situated having a weird, uninviting look.

"I would use a part of my office contingent fund to put the place in order, but I find that I will not be able to do so, as I must meet other obligations with it. The only plan I can adopt is to secure the money and expend it and trust the Legislature to reimburse me. I will devise some plan shortly to meet the case."

A MOB'S FURY

Would Not Be Stayed, Even in Face of Death.

A late dispatch from Urbana, Ohio, says: After the mob had failed in their attack on the jail to lynch the negro Mitchell, and in which two of their number were killed and several wounded, they withdrew. They returned again at 7:30 Friday morning, and succeeded in breaking down the doors of the jail, and, securing the brute, placed a rope about his neck and dragged him out to a tree in front of the Court House and hung him.

The men taking part in it made no attempt to disguise themselves, but it is not known who did the work, and the person who attempts to find out will get himself into serious trouble.

This much is known, however, they did their work well, and that is all the people wish to know.

Faure Is Careful.

Paris special: It is learned from an authorized French source that letters of credence presented to President Faure by Senator Edward O. Wolcott of Colorado, and his colleagues, of the United States monetary commission, designates them as Ministers Plenipotentiary to France, Great Britain and Germany, with a mission, in concert with the United States Ambassadors to those countries, to discuss monetary questions, and to come to some agreements for bi-metallism. President Faure carefully avoided making any statement to them which might be interpreted as a promise to take any steps in the matter.

Nominated by the President.

The President has sent the following nominations to the Senate:

Lawrence Townsend of Pennsylvania, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States to Portugal.

Ellis R. Roberts of New York, to be Treasurer of the United States; Conrad N. Jordan of New York, to be Assistant Treasurer at New York City; William L. Andrews of Nevada, to be Auditor of the Treasury Department; William W. Brown of Pennsylvania, to be Auditor of the War Department.

Labor Board Named.

Gov. Mount has appointed L. T. McCormack and B. Frank Schmid, both of Indianapolis, members of the State Board of Labor organized under the arbitration law passed by the last Legislature. The board is to arbitrate all labor difficulties that are submitted to it by the contestants in difficulty. The judge in whose circuit the dispute arises is also a member of the board.

War for Food.

A special from Havana, via Key West, says: The war for food has begun in Havana. In one street on June 2, four small shop-keepers were murdered most brutally, one being decapitated, the skulls of the others crushed with a hammer. The money was left in the tills. The crimes were committed for food.

Patients Roam the Country.

Greenville (Ohio) special: Fire at the Darke County Infirmary destroyed the structure, only the bare walls remaining standing. Many helpless creatures were wandering about the farm, some of them insane. The loss is total, with $13,000 insurance.

Calhoun Coming Home.

Havana special: Calhoun has left for the United States by the steamer Saratoga.

Cleveland Will Not Act.

A special to the New York Journal from Caracas says: "President Crespo has received a letter from ex-President Cleveland declining to act as counsel for Venezuela before the arbitration tribunal."

Blow May Kill His Wife.

George Klingle, a farmer who resides near Marion, Ohio, threw a stick at a cow, but instead of the cow it struck his wife in the face, inflicting a wound resulting in lockjaw, from which she will probably die.

This Pays $1,800 a Year.

The Civil Service Commission will hold a special examination on July 28 for establishing a register from which appointment may be made to the position of assistant chief in the division of soils in the Agricultural Department. The salary of this position is $1,800 per annum.

Crazed by His Wife's Death.

Edgar Harris, a Baltimore letter-carrier, shot and killed his 12-year-old son George and his daughter Ada, wounded his daughter Ella, aged 14, and then turned the pistol on himself. Harris is thought to have been mentally unbalanced by the recent death of his wife.

CHICAGO'S BIG ROAD RACE.

Won in 1:07:04 2-5 by a 51-Year Old Man Named Smedley.

W. D. Smedley, of the Calumet Cycling Club, whom some of the ambitious cracks called "papa" at the start, because he is 51 years old, made a twirling trail of dust ahead of them all the way from Wheeling to the finish in Garfield Park, winning the eleventh annual road race of the Associated Cycling Clubs of Chicago from the limit, 15 minutes, in 1:07:04 2-5. The time prize was won by Henry O'Brien, of the Lake View-Clarendon Wheelmen, from the one-minute mark, in 1:03:08. Fred Nelson, of the Independent Cycling Club, a brother of O. P. Nelson, who won first place in the road race last year, was the second in the time contest, being only six seconds slower. Following him, in order for time prizes, were O. Adams and Jim Lewy. E. Sickels, a Morgan Park man, rode second to Smedley for place, and fortune again favored the Calumets, for W. Roeder, another member of the club, took third, and almost captured second place, being beaten out by a narrow margin. The distance covered was close to twenty-five miles.

EARTHQUAKE IN MANY STATES.

Old Mother Earth Gives to Several Cities a Severe Shaking-Up.

Cincinnati was visited by an earthquake on Monday. Precisely at 1 o'clock, in different portions of the city, the vibrations were so plainly felt that typesetters engaged upon the seventh floor of newspaper offices were so startled that they left their work and ran to the floors below. In the telephone exchange the shock was keenly felt by the operators, and operators of the Western Union Telegraph Company also felt the building sway back and forth. The United States Weather Bureau reported that the shock was distinctly felt in the Government building. In several of the down-town restaurants the same thing was felt, and in the kitchens the tins on the walls rattled. The shock was felt in the Canadas, many Ohio cities, Washington, the Virginias, Maryland, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Tennessee and the Carolinas, though no damage was done.

FIVE MEET INSTANT DEATH.

Tally-Ho Struck by a Long Island Passenger Train at Valley Stream.

A Long Island passenger train crashed into a coach containing a picnicking party of twenty-one young people on the Merrick Road near Valley Stream, L. I., Monday afternoon. Of the twenty-one members of the Alpha Delta Theta Society of Green Avenue Baptist Church, Brooklyn, who were on the coach, five are dead, two fatally hurt, and eleven others are more or less severely injured. Only one man had time to jump. The others were piled up in the wreck. When the train steamed back to the scene of horror men and women were lying all about, four of them already still in death and fourteen others in agony. Even after the dead and wounded had been taken away human fragments were found among the shattered panels and twisted harness.

SULTAN MAKES A PROTEST.

Declines to Receive the Ann Arbor President as Minister to Turkey.

The Turkish Government has made formal objection to receiving Dr. Frank B. Angell of Michigan as minister from the United States, according to a Washington dispatch to the New York Sun. It is said the porte does not want as the diplomatic representative of this country a man who is in close touch and sympathy with the Christian missionary element in the Sultan's domain and strongly disapproves of the action of the porte in the Armenian massacres. Mustapha Bey, the Turkish minister in Washington, has notified Secretary Sherman of the position of his Government with respect to Dr. Angell. As an intimation of that character is final, Dr. Angell cannot go to Constantinople in his diplomatic capacity.

MURDERED BY BURGLARS.

Isaac J. Hill, of Farmington, Ohio, Killed by Unknown Thieves.

Isaac J. Hill, a farmer living at Farmington, O., was murdered Saturday night by burglars. Hill lived with his aged mother. The robbers broke into the house and, after binding and otherwise maltreating the old woman, they went upstairs, where Hill slept. They first clubbed Hill over the head and then shot him. There were evidences in the house in the morning of a terrible struggle, which goes to show that Hill made a desperate resistance. So far as known the robbers got nothing, as Mrs. Hill says there was no money in the house. There is no clew to the murderers.

RESTAURANT KEEPERS LIABLE.

Persons Who Lose Hats or Coats May Recover Twice Their Value.

According to a decision which Judge Daly of the New York Supreme Court handed down in a test case, the patron of a restaurant may with safety hang up his coat or hat, for if it be stolen he can recover from the proprietor twice the value of the stolen property—all this if previously he has not been given an opportunity to check his wearing apparel.

Wife Murder Charged.

Adolph L. Luetgert, the Chicago sausage manufacturer, who is charged with murdering his wife and destroying the body in a vat of chemicals, was held to the grand jury Tuesday afternoon by Justice Kersten. For a week the defendant has been before the police justice on a preliminary hearing. Nearly all of the time of the court has been consumed by the examination of the State's witnesses. The defense declined to present any testimony, and the attorneys battled for the release of the defendant on the ground that the State had not made out its case. When the court rendered the decision Luetgert sat at the rear of his attorneys. As the justice reviewed the case briefly the defendant leaned forward, his hand resting on a chair in front, and listened intently to every word spoken by the court. When the court reached that portion of his decision which sent the sausage-maker to the cell to await the action of the grand jury his face was like marble. As the justice stated that the evidence was sufficient to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that Mrs. Luetgert was dead and that there was sufficient circumstantial evidence to connect Luetgert with the case as the probable agent a slight tremor of the lip was all that was noticeable.

Children Killed by a Train.

At 8 o'clock Sunday evening, at Denver, Colo., a spring wagon, driven by Henry Marsau, a carpenter, and containing eight children, ranging in age from 3 to eight years, was struck by a special train on the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad, and as a result four of the children are dead and the others are terribly injured, two so badly that they will die.

Drowned in a Tank.

At Abbot, Texas, Mrs. Nannie L. Barr, her 4-year-old babe and her sister, Miss Mattie L. Alexander, aged 14, were all drowned in a tank. The boy was playing in the shallow water and inadvertently stepped off into a deep hole in the center of the tank, and the ladies were drowned in trying to rescue the little fellow.

Formosa Rebels Routed.

According to mail advices another crisis is precipitated in Corean affairs by the action of Russia in virtually forcing the acceptance of her officers as instructors after the Cabinet had decided to abandon the proposal. All the Ministers, including Kim Prong and Cho Pyong-Chong, who had opposed the scheme, have tendered their resignations. Twatutia, in the neighborhood of Taipeh, Formosa, was attacked by about 600 bandits the morning of May 8. The Japanese troops, police and gendarmerie, who had been preparing for the attack, engaged the bandits, and after a fight lasting two hours and a half repulsed them. In the encounter about 100 rebels were killed, including the ringleader, named Tau-Ching, fifty wounded and seventeen captured.

VERDICT IS FOR SEARLES.

Decision Rendered in Favor of Sugar-Trust Witness.

In the case of John E. Searles, the sugar trust witness, Judge Bradley ordered the jury to bring in a verdict of acquittal, holding that the questions asked the witness by the Senate Committee were not pertinent, and, if so, were not within the jurisdiction of the committee. The judge's opinion was exhaustive. It had been reduced to writing. He pointed out that Mr. Searles had testified specifically that no money had been contributed by the sugar trust to the national campaign or for the purpose of influencing legislation or the election of United States Senators. As to the local contributions, Mr. Searles had testified that he did not know how the contributions had been used, by whom or for what purpose. The questions put to the defendant were claimed to be pertinent to the second and third divisions of the Senatorial inquiry, namely, as to whether the sugar trust had contributed sums to campaign funds with the purpose of influencing the election of a United States Senator and whether any Senator had been a party to a compact with the sugar trust. Certainly, the judge said, a simple investigation as to whether the sugar trust had contributed to a campaign fund would be an unwarranted search into the private affairs of the company and plainly beyond the power of the Senate. The Senate Committee had reported that no testimony had been produced to show that the sugar trust had made any contributions to any national campaign fund or for the purpose of affecting legislation. If money had gone for the purpose of electing members of State Legislatures who in time would elect a United States Senator, it was beyond the power of the United States Senate to go behind the election of legislative members.

TURN HOSE ON CONVICTS.

Guards Drench Rebellious Prisoners at San Quentin.

So far as external evidences go things are in an improved condition at the penitentiary at San Quentin, Cal. The State Board of Prison Directors held a special meeting and authorized the warden to shoot down convicts if necessary to restore order. One hundred rifles were borrowed from the armory of Company D, at San Rafael, and sent to the prison. Ten extra guards were employed and placed on the prison walls. Capt. Birlem ordered out the fire hose. The nozzle was poked into the wicket of each cell and the convicts were thoroughly drenched. This operation was continued until 8 o'clock and finally the yelling and cursing ceased.

Uncertain About Tariff.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: "People are actually doing more business than they realize. They reckon by values, but these are much lower than in any previous year of prosperity and leave little margin for profits. In quantity there is almost as much business being done as in the years of greatest prosperity, and though the increase in population would call for a material expansion the comparison is not discouraging. The recovery is slow, hesitating and gradual, but more has been done on the whole in May than in April, while returns of April showed the volume of business only 10 per cent smaller than that of the best year heretofore. Yet hesitation is doing its work every week, and multitudes are waiting because of possibilities at Washington who ought to be filling the demand for labor and the products of labor."

Canovas and Cabinet "Get from Under."

Premier Canovas del Castillo and his conservative cabinet are out of office in Spain. The Queen Regent Wednesday night accepted the resignations, which were offered in the morning, and the destinies of Spain and of Cuba will be in new hands. While ostensibly the Tetuan-Comas face-slapping incident in the Senate is given as the cause of the cabinet crisis, it is well known that Cuba provoked the upheaval. Canovas saw that the island is lost to Spain, and he shirks the odium of being a party to the international transaction that will bring freedom to the island.

Canon Racicot for Archbishop.

It is said by a Montreal gentleman in close touch with the hierarchy that Canon Racicot had been named archbishop of Montreal, and that Mgr. Del Val had obtained promises of further concessions from the dominion and Manitoba governments.

Loot a Safe of $400.

Masked men entered the office of the United States Express Company at Kendallville, Ind., assaulted the messenger, and looted the safe, securing $40.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.50 to $5.50; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.00 to $5.00; wheat, No. 2 red, 68c to 69c; corn, No. 2, 23c to 24c; oats, No. 2, 17c to 18c; rye, No. 2, 33c to 34c; butter, choice creamery, 14c to 15c; eggs, fresh, 7c to 9c; potatoes, per bushel, 15c to 30c; broom corn, common growth to choice green hurl, $25 to $70 per ton.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.25; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, common to choice, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2, 76c to 78c; corn, No. 2 white, 24c to 25c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 23c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $3.00 to $4.75; wheat, No. 2, 83c to 84c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 22c to 23c; oats, No. 2 white, 16c to 18c; rye, No. 2, 31c to 32c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.50 to $4.75; wheat, No. 2, 79c to 81c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 23c to 26c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 20c to 21c; rye, No. 2, 34c to 36c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.00 to $4.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 76c to 77c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 24c to 26c; oats, No. 2 white, 23c to 24c; rye, 34c to 36c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 77c to 78c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 23c to 25c; oats, No. 2 white, 17c to 19c; rye, No. 2, 34c to 36c; clover seed, $4.20 to $4.30.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 70c to 71c; corn, No. 3, 22c to 24c; oats, No. 2 white, 20c to 22c; barley, No. 2, 28c to 33c; rye, No. 1, 34c to 36c; pork, mess, $7.50 to $8.00.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $3.00 to $4.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 80c to 81c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 27c to 28c; oats, No. 2 white, 24c to 26c.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, $3.50 to $4.50; sheep, $3.00 to $4.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 74c to 76c; corn, No. 2, 29c to 30c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 23c; butter, creamery, 14c to 16c; eggs, Western, 10c to 11c.

SENATE AND HOUSE.

WORK OF OUR NATIONAL LAWMAKERS.

A Week's Proceedings in the Halls of Congress—Important Measures Discussed and Acted Upon—An Impartial Resume of the Business.

The National Solons.

After a long period of silence Senator Tillman of South Carolina startled the Senate Friday by a speech no less dramatic in its delivery than sensational in its allegations. He declared the public statements that Senators were speculating in sugar stocks, pending the settlement of the sugar tariff schedule, were getting to be so persistent and forceful that it was a national scandal. He preceded his speech by presenting a resolution for the appointment of a special committee of five Senators to investigate the charges. The Senate then took up the tariff bill. The House did nothing. The Senate Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds agreed to report favorably the bills for public buildings at Baltimore, Md., to cost $1,500,000; Durham, N. C., $125,000; McKeesport, Pa., $200,000; Washington, Pa., $75,000; Wilkesbarre, Pa., $225,000; Butte City, Mont., $300,000, and Aberdeen, S. D., $100,000.

For the first time in many years a member of the United States Senate was Saturday afternoon directed to take his seat as a result of statements made in debate. The Senator who offended was Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, and the man who called him to order was Senator Hale, of Maine. Mr. Morgan was at the moment soundly berating Speaker Reed for his exercise of the one-man power in the House. The presiding officer at the time was Senator Gallinger, of New Hampshire, but after the spurt of indignation on the part of Mr. Hale was over, Mr. Morgan continued his speech declaring, for the first time during the twenty years he had served in the Senate, this was the only occasion on which he had been directed to cease debate and take his seat. He wanted the American people to know that such demands were made at a time when the Senator so dealt with was defending the Constitution. The whole day was consumed in a further consideration of the glass schedule. The Senate adjourned over Monday.

The Senate made good progress on the tariff bill Tuesday, advancing to the important metal schedule. During the day the paragraphs covering marble and stone, china, glass, brick and tiles were completed, with a few minor exceptions. The Senator from South Carolina, John L. McLaurin, who succeeded the late Senator Earle, was sworn in at the opening of the session. This establishes the personnel of the Senate as it will remain for some time—namely, Republicans, 43; Democrats, 34; Populists, 7; Silver Republicans, 5; vacancy, 1 (Oregon); total, 90. The House passed two minor Senate bills, but because of non-existence of committees could do no other work. However, a lively attack was made upon the policy of holding up appointment of committees until after the Senate finishes with the tariff.

The Senate Wednesday made greater progress on the tariff bill than in any day since the debate opened, completing more than half of the important metal schedule. Early in the day Mr. Tillman of South Carolina secured the adoption of a resolution directing the Judiciary Committee to inquire into the recent decisions against the South Carolina dispensary law, with a view to reporting such legislation as might be desirable. The Senate in executive session spent some time in discussing whether confirmations should be delayed because of the absence of a Senator opposing them. Without settling the principle involved the Senate allowed the nominations to go over. Senator Turner objects to the confirmation of these nominees because their predecessors were removed from office, which, he claims, was an unjustified procedure on the part of the executive.

The Senate again made good progress on the tariff bill Thursday, covering about ten pages of the metals schedule and almost completing it. The House proceedings were enlivened by the attempt of Mr. Terry (Dem.) of Arkansas to secure consideration, as a privileged matter, of a resolution for the immediate payment of the committee on foreign affairs. It was ruled out of order and an appeal taken from the decision of the chair was laid on the table by a strict party vote. Several bills were passed by unanimous consent. The Frye bill to prevent collisions on certain harbors, rivers and inland waters of the United States and the Senate resolution for the relief of the El Paso flood sufferers, amended so as to make the appropriation of $10,000 available out of the unexpended balance of the appropriation for the Mississippi flood sufferers, were passed and the conference report on the Indian appropriation bill was adopted.

Turnbull painted the four best historical pictures in the Capitol rotunda.

The state, war and navy building was begun in 1871 and cost $10,000,000 to complete.

The hall of the House of Representatives is the largest assembly room in the world.

The Congress of the United States has met annually in Washington since Nov. 17, 1800.

The Crawford bronze door of the Senate wing weighs 14,000 pounds and cost nearly $57,000.

A marble column surmounted by a statue of Lincoln stands in front of the district courthouse.

The new naval observatory at Washington is one of the finest scientific plants in the world.

General Winfield Scott fathered the soldiers' home, which was established by Congress in 1857.

It costs about $100,000 a year to run the White House exclusive of the President's salary of $50,000.

The columns of the eastern portico of the capitol are each solid blocks of sandstone thirty feet high.

The Rogers bronze doors at the main entrance of the capitol tell the history of Columbus and cost $28,000.

The treasury building was completed in 1869 at a cost of $8,000,000. It is the largest government department.

The bronze propeller of the famous flagship, the Hartford, was cast into the statutes of Admiral Farragut.

SETTLERS IN DANGER.

CHEYENNE INDIANS START ON THE WARPATH.

Rumors that at Least a Dozen White Men Have Been Killed—Further Slaughter Likely to Follow if Troops Do Not Interfere.

Cheyennes in Revolt.

The Cheyenne Indians have gone on the war path in Montana and are said to have killed almost a dozen men, including five United States soldiers. The Indians have no reservation, but roam over the southern part of the State. The white settlers are up in arms and the women and children are being sent into the northern towns for safety.

The Cheyennes make the Lame Deer agency their headquarters. Hoover, a sheep herder, was recently shot by Indians while herding sheep. He was killed because he caught several Indians killing sheep. This so incensed the stockmen that they have armed themselves and will fight to protect their homes, help and stock. Two companies of colored cavalry from Custer were ordered to the agency Wednesday, and Saturday a courier arrived from the agency with the information that George Walters, the postmaster, and Lou Alderson, a stockman, had been shot and killed; also that the Indians had shot into the cavalry and killed five men and had sixty armed cowboys surrounded. The cavalry from Fort Keough and Company E of the infantry left for the scene. There are certainly grounds for fear. The Cheyennes are determined and they are being re-enforced by renegade Crows. Rosebud ranchers received a consignment of rifles and ammunition at this point. Settlers have moved all their families from near the reservation.

Ranchmen and stockmen have organized at Cheyenne agency and demand the Indians who killed Hoover. The names of the Indians are known and they are protected by fifty bucks. Sheriff Gibbs and Coroner Bateman have returned from

INDIAN COUNTRY IS SHADED.

Barringer's ranch, in the neighborhood of which the inquest was held on the body of Hoover. The verdict was that he came to his death by two shots fired by Cheyenne Indians.

While the inquest was proceeding sixty men under Legislator James Brown arrived on their way to the agency. The Sheriff pleaded with them to return and told them sixty of them against 400 or 500 Indians armed and such fighters as the Cheyennes are would be helpless. The Sheriff learned that the crime was committed by three of the band led by White Bull, who said a day or so previous that his heart was bad; that he wanted to eat white man's heart. The agent said that he knew one of the murderers, and thought with a little time they could find the others, would arrest them, and turn them over to the civil authorities with what evidence they had. He had requested a sufficient force of soldiers to surround the Indians, and said he would cut off rations till the murderers were turned over. The Sheriff and committee went back to the main body, which had been augmented by twenty men from the Rosebud, and made report. Though there was much dissatisfaction at the turn affairs had taken, they agreed to disperse for two weeks to allow the agent time to make the arrest. If not then done the original plan of attacking the Indians is to be carried out. The women have been gathered at several ranches for protection under a guard of ten or twelve men in each instance.

Gen. Carlos Aguirre.

The Cuban leader who was dragged to death tied to the tail of a horse by the Spanish soldiers.

COLDEST MAY ON RECORD.

Month Just Closed Sets a New Mark for the Weather Bureau.

Last month will go down as the coldest May on record. In the records for the last twenty-six years, beyond which time the Weather Bureau can tell us nothing, no May can be found which gave as low an average temperature by two degrees as the month just ended. The lowest record on the weather man's books for May was in 1875, when the thermometer went down to 25 degrees, but this was an exception rather than the rule. In Chicago May 1 showed a temperature of 33 degrees and the following day went only one better. These were the coldest days of the month, and May 19, when the mercury ran up to 81 degrees, was the warmest.

Telegraphic Brevities.

Former Senator Dubois and Senators Cannon and Pettigrew will sail July 2 for China and Japan to study the financial question from the Oriental standpoint.

Dr. J. W. Prendergast, former health officer of Cincinnati, recently indicted for attempted blackmail, failed to appear when his case was called for trial and his bond of $1,000 was declared forfeited.

The Argentine congress has granted the sum of $1,000,000 for the purchase of seed to aid the farmers of Santa Fe, whose crops were destroyed by locusts and unpropitious weather.

Harry Singleton, who murdered Officer McCormick two years ago, and Thomas Milton, who murdered his mistress, both condemned murderers, had a desperate fight in jail at Tampa, Fla., and Milton was nearly cut to pieces.

The Chinese Government has decided to adopt the free delivery postal system and has honored a Chicagoan with an offer to assume charge of the undertaking, the same being Fred F. Stoll, formerly general superintendent of city delivery in that city.

INDIANA INCIDENTS.

RECORD OF EVENTS OF THE PAST WEEK.

Bloomfield Greatly Exercised Over the Mysterious Death of Grant Heath—Love-sick Boy Takes His Own Life—Wheelmen Too Numerous at Fires.

Dark Mystery at Bloomfield.

The little town of Bloomfield, the county seat of Greene County, is excited over the mysterious death of Grant Heath, a business man of that place. Saturday morning Mr. Heath was at his store and told his partner, Mr. Lehman, that he had been ill all the night before and felt very badly. He died Saturday night in great agony, saying that he had been poisoned. Mrs. Heath, wife of the deceased, was taken violently ill Sunday. Heath was a healthy and vigorous man of 27 years. He sat down to dinner Friday, and after drinking a cup of coffee complained of its bitterness, whereupon he was given another cupful by his wife, but no one else drank of it. The body of Heath has been exhumed and traces of arsenic have been found in the stomach. Neighbors of the Heaths entertain strong suspicions against certain persons, and officers fear that developments in the case may lead to a lynching.

Fire Alarms Abandoned.

As a measure of safety the Indianapolis Fire Commissioners were compelled to shut off the ringing of bells and sounding of fire alarms, and hereafter dependence will be placed upon gongs in the several fire houses. The cause lay in the habit of bicyclers, who have been making a mad plunge for the scene of activity every time a fire alarm was sounded, endangering not only themselves, but seriously interfering with the firemen in the quick answering of calls. Early the other evening fully 1,000 bicyclers, male and female, clustered on a street leading to a fire, and there were numerous minor casualties.

Seeks Relief in Suicide.

Harry Phillips, of Indianapolis, 20 years old, having been teased and tormented by his associates, who pretended that a rival had supplanted him in the esteem of Miss Nettie Huffman, placed her photograph by his own Friday, and after looking at both intently, suddenly shot himself through his lung near the heart. The wound is mortal. The shooting was done in his room, almost in the presence of his mother. The young man was a general favorite, the son of H. B. Phillips.

All Over the State.

Charles McDowell, aged 16 years, has disappeared from his Elkhart home and foul play is suspected.

At Brazil, Frank Clary, aged 28, was instantly killed while out hunting. In climbing a fence his gun was discharged.

James Six, of Logansport, has been arrested for having seven wives. And they actually propose to punish him further.

Miss Ola Brown has brought suit against Grier F. Gemmill of Pennville for $25,000 damages for breach of marriage contract.

At South Bend Jacob Reynlers, aged 61, made three unsuccessful attempts at suicide owing to despondency over being unemployed.

The Pennsylvania Railroad depot at Center has disappeared. Three years ago fire destroyed the station, postoffice, express offices, telegraph office and all the business houses of the village. The depot was not rebuilt, the company having used a box car for a ticket office ever since. The residents objected to the old car for a depot, and a few nights ago the old shack disappeared altogether from sight. To emphasize their indignation the villagers filed an affidavit against the company for failing to provide accommodations for waiting passengers. The magistrate fined the corporation $20 and costs.

The Rowland Zeigler Oil Company has disposed of its heavy holdings in the Indiana oil field to the Standard Oil Company, the consideration being close to a quarter of a million dollars. The holdings of the company selling out consisted of a thousand acres of leases, over one hundred producing wells, and a large amount of valuable drilling machinery. The Rowland company was one of the earliest operators in the field. It began poor, but persevered despite low prices and made many lucky strikes, taking 90,000 barrels of oil from one pool. The Standard is after the holdings of several other large producers operating in the Indiana territory.

Muncie officers are notified by responsible persons that a party of gypsies fed the remains of one of their infant children to a pet bear near Daleville. The informant says such deeds are commonly practiced by the gypsies.

Adam Crisse, an Anderson veteran, has been granted a small pension. It comes too late. He died two weeks ago in poverty, being physically disabled by war service. He lived in hopes of getting this recognition from the Government.

Fifteen years ago Sarah Bass, the wife of Leonard Bass, a prosperous farmer near Shelbyville, was taken suddenly and violently insane. Her relatives had her taken to an asylum, with the hopes that she would soon be restored, but her case seemed hopeless. A few days ago the husband was taken suddenly ill and died. Friends who went to town for an undertaker and to bring home the family mail found in the postoffice a letter from the long-absent mother, who wrote to her husband and children that she was authorized to say she would be released and return home that day. Not until she arrived home and was surrounded by her three children, a son and two daughters, was the news of her husband's death imparted. The blow was more than the unfortunate woman could endure and she again became unmanageable and will have to be returned to the asylum.

William E. Kirsten came all the way from Santa Barbara, Cal., to learn if Miss Zimmerman would marry him. He had corresponded with her and she had promised to marry him if on sight he proved to be all he had represented himself as to personal appearance. When he called at her home near Centerville, his first remark was: "Well, shall I go back to California alone, or do I suit?" He "suited." Mr. Kirsten is a dairyman and is about 40 years old. Miss Zimmerman is 23 years old and is the daughter of Henry Zimmerman, a well-known resident of the southern part of the county.

Fruit growers around Laporte say frosts ruined one-half the strawberry crop in Northern Indiana. A phenomenal yield was promised, and there is fear of a still further loss.

At a meeting of stockholders and depositors of the Logansport State National Bank, which, it is alleged, was wrecked by John F. Johnson, enough stock was subscribed to reorganize. Old stockholders took $100,000 of the stock and depositors and new investors over $100,000 more. John Gray, a wealthy merchant, will be president, and Bank Examiner Caldwell is urged for cashier. The bank will resume under the name of the City National Bank.

"Nothing else like it."
The most refreshing and pleasant Soap for the skin.

It lasts twice as long as others.
A trial will convince you of its great merit. Will please the most fastidious.
CHARLES F. MILLER,
Mfr. of FRENCH MILLED TOILET SOAPS AND PERFUMERY,
Lancaster, Penn.
ESTABLISHED, 1849.

WHY NOT BUY THE BEST?

A GOOD SADDLE is the most noticeable and taking point on a Bicycle.
When buying insist on getting a
BURNS SPRING SADDLE.
Take no other. Get a Burns and GET THE BEST.
Manufactured by the
GRAND RAPIDS CYCLE SEAT MFG. CO.,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Patton's House Painting Model
shows just how your house would look if painted any one of 20,000 artistic combinations of colors. Designed and made only for the manufacturers of PATTON'S PURE LIQUID PAINTS. Sent postpaid upon receipt of 10 cts. "How to Increase the Size of Your House With Paint" mailed free.
JAS. E. PATTON CO.,
Dep't X. MILWAUKEE, WIS., U.S.A.

ECLIPSE
Poultry Brooder.
BEST MADE.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR, which explains why you should use a BROODER, and why you should purchase the
ECLIPSE BROODER.
Also gives testimonials from MANY WHO HAVE USED THEM.
CAPACITY, 100 CHICKS.
Size: 32 inches long, 32 inches wide, 36 inches high. Weight, 135 lbs.
Price: Single one, $9.00.
Two or more, $8.50 apiece.
If not as represented, money refunded.
JOHN D. WINGERT,
MANUFACTURER,
FAYETTEVILLE, - PENN.

NIAGARA
BICYCLES

CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION.
CORRESPONDENCE INVITED.
Reliable Agents Wanted.
BUFFALO WHEEL CO.,
BUFFALO, N. Y.

OPPORTUNITY.

Master of human destinies am I!
Fame, love and fortune on my footsteps wait.
Cities and fields I walk; I penetrate
Deserts and seas remote, and passing by
Hovel and mart and palace, soon or late
I knock unhidden once at every gate.
If sleeping, wake; if feasting, rise before
I turn away. It is the hour of fate,
And they who follow me reach every state
Mortals desire and conquer every foe
Save death; but those who doubt or hesitate,
Condemned to failure, penury, and woe,
Seek me in vain and uselessly implore.
I answer not, and I return no more.

—The Watchman.

The Special Envoy.

BY CHARLES D. LESLIE.

When Pepworth Tring, the well-known South African millionaire, sent for me, and after inquiring if I was at liberty for a few weeks, said that he was about to commission me to take a small map to his Johannesburg representative, I was rather surprised that he should go to the expense of a special messenger when the postal service was available.

"It seems a very simple undertaking," I said.

But he speedily enlightened me.

"Ah, that's where you are wrong," he replied, giving me a shrewd glance. "In this case the post is not to be trusted, and an unscrupulous enemy will strain every nerve to defeat my intention."

My present employer, a well-known Kimberley man, who had lately turned his attention to the Witwatersrandt gold mines, was middle-aged, about fifty, but looked more, owing to the hard and adventurous life he had led. His tanned, weather-beaten face appeared commonplace enough, but behind the small steady gray eyes lay a quick brain and unerring judgment. Few, indeed, could boast with any degree of truth on ever having got the better of Pepworth Tring. As a judge of diamonds also he had barely an equal. All this I know from common hearsay.

"You anticipate there will be an attempt to rob me during the journey?"

"I am quite sure of it. The matter on the face of it is simple enough. This map,"—(he held up a small piece of parchment a few square inches in size—it appeared to represent the course of a river, some red crosses were marked on one portion, and some lines of writing ran along the bottom) "has to be given to Mr. Howard, of Fox street, Johannesburg. There your mission ends. But whether you will be able to accomplish it is another matter. Gibson, my old partner, is determined to obtain possession of this map by some means; he is rich, unscrupulous, and can command the services of men even more unscrupulous than himself. This is the reason I do not trust the post. The corruption prevalent among all Bore officials extends to the Post Office; my letters have been opened. He has creatures there in his employ. You must trust no one, and conceal the paper in such a manner that it cannot be found."

"But while on board ship it would surely be better to entrust it to the captain or purser?"

"That would be risky, and only postpone their attack on you. If you received the map back safely you would without doubt be robbed of it between Capetown and Johannesburg. No; when the boat reaches Capetown, they must be under the impression that you are not the bearer."

"When am I to leave London?"

"The Roman leaves the docks tomorrow and Plymouth on Saturday. Your berth is booked; Gibson is also a passenger, and several of his following. But perhaps I had better explain why this map is so important.

"Gibson, like myself, is an old Kimberley man. We both did very well there, and lately, like me, he has been dealing in Transvaal mining property. We have often gone partners in various undertakings. In the autumn of '94, being then in Johannesburg—about six months ago—and feeling the want of a holiday, I determined to go on a shooting expedition through the Transvaal towards the sea. Accompanied by two Zulus, I carried out my intention, and after some weeks' traveling we found ourselves in the low country bordering on Swaziland. Here quite by chance I made a remarkable discovery. In the dried-up channel of what had been a river I came upon traces of diamonds. The find to my eyes was most promising, but before I could pursue my investigations further, one of my Zulus dispatched to get food from a neighboring kraal, came hot-foot with the news that the Swazis were up in arms. Irritated by some act of Boer oppression, they seemed inclined to wreak their vengeance on me, and we fled forthwith for our very lives. Before leaving, I drew up a plan of the place, so that it could be found again.

"After various adventures I reached Durban, and took ship for England. Meeting Gibson in London, I acquainted him in general terms with my discovery, stating that in course of my journeying I had found diamonds. I had intended to take him into partnership in this affair, but the knowledge which I gained immediately afterward that he had swindled me in the matter of some gold mines changed my purpose, and I broke with him for good.

"Now the value of my find is problematical. Diamonds have not yet been found in paying quantity in the Transvaal. This place may be a second Kimberley, and shake the De Beers monopoly. It is quite possible. Therefore I want the ground pegged out in the usual way, and to register myself as the owner; but if Gibson could get hold of the map he would forestall me. It is not convenient for me to go myself just now, as I have some important business in hand; so not to delay obtaining the claims, I have ordered Howard to peg them out and register in my name, but he can do nothing until he has the particulars contained in this. Now, do you understand?"

"Yes; but how far is Gibson cognizant of your plans?"

"He has found out that I intend sending the map immediately to Johannesburg. This office is watched; you will be shadowed on leaving, and when they find that you are a passenger by the Roman they will conclude that you are my messenger. It will be your business to nullify that belief."

"I see."

"You had better pretend to be a new submanager sent out by me to represent my interests in Johannesburg. Now, can you, do you think, conceal the map in such a way that these thieves cannot get hold of it?"

I sat silent a few moments thinking over the situation, then my eyes strayed to some books lying on the table between us. I took up one. It was "Lock on Gold," a standard work.

"I will do my best," I said at length.

"Trust no one," concluded my employer, giving me money for my journey and the boat ticket. "Rely on yourself alone. Put the map in your breast pocket for the present, but find a securer hiding place before you go on board. Good-by, and good luck to you."

My preparations were soon made, and the following morning found me on board the Roman. I had reduced my luggage to as small a compass as possible. It consisted of two small portmanteaus which would go under my bunk, some wraps, and a few novels, with "Lock on Gold," the latter obtained from my employer to sustain my character as a mining manager, and with its covers encased in gray calico. I had joined the ship at the docks to avoid the crush at Waterloo, and to see the mouth of the Thames. There were two other men in my cabin, for the ship was full, every berth being taken, but they had not yet come on board, so I arranged my belongings at leisure, and then went on deck as we left the dock to smoke and view the river and the miles of wharves and shipping as we slowly and majestically steamed out to sea. The ship was nearly empty, and I passed a quiet twenty-four hours anticipating the coming duel which was to take place, and wondering if my simple scheme would be successful.

The mail bags and passengers came on board at Plymouth, and a scene of animation and confusion followed; but a rough sea and head wind calmed the exuberance of many of the company, and the dinner tables in the saloon that evening showed an abundance of empty seats. Both my cabin mates succumbed and I left them white and groaning. Fortunately I was a good sailor; and, having enjoyed my dinner, later in the evening found myself in the smoking room smoking one of "Jim" Gibson's cigars and engaged in a chat with that worthy, who was most friendly and evinced some curiosity about myself.

I told him my tale, which he accepted with perhaps suspicious readiness.

"Employed by Tring, are you? Peppery fellow; I know him well. We used to be friends; now he hates me like poison."

He introduced me to his friends, Spellman, Dunbarton and Vandermit, who severally expressed themselves delighted to make my acquaintance.

The first two or three days my adversaries only skirmished, tried to pump me, and dropped broad hints as to the advantages which would follow if I joined them—hints I ignored.

As, however, they felt pretty sure that I was the bearer of the coveted map, my portmanteaus were searched more than once, and my spare clothes when I was absent from my cabin. It was Spellman who was told off for this portion of the quest; finding I was not very cordial toward him, he struck up a friendship for one of my cabin mates, which gave him an excuse for entering at all hours. I did not think it advisable to enlighten the latter, as my attitude was to blandly ignore my adversaries' behavior.

Spellman's researches proving of no avail, the great endeavor to discover if I had the paper took place about a week after Madeira was passed. I was playing in a whist tournament, and noticed that Dunbarton and Vandermit were playing nap with the two men who shared my cabin. I guessed that Spellman was making a thorough search, and as soon as I was at liberty I hurried there.

It had indeed been thorough. Every article had been taken out of the portmanteaus and examined, and the portmanteaus themselves cut and hacked in search of a secret hiding place. Everything had been scrutinized; even the gray calico cover was pulled off "Lock" to make sure that nothing was between it and the binding. Nor was this all, for while I surveyed the wreck I became conscious of an overpowering feeling of drowsiness, and knowledge came to me that I had been drugged. Too late I remembered having just accepted a drink from Gibson; but I had only sense enough left to tumble into my bunk before falling into a heavy sleep.

They no doubt searched me to the skin that night, for I slept as the dead; but though I woke next morning with a bad headache, I felt well pleased, for no result had awarded their toil. Of course I made a fuss as to the conduct of some mysterious thieves, who had not even spared the lining of my boots, and certain inquiries were instituted which came to nothing. I innocently complained to Gibson as to the bad quality of his whiskey, and there apparently the matter ended, for I was molested no more.

I felt that I had won, as I saw by my enemies' manner that they had decided they were mistaken in imagining I had the map; but great cautiousness was still necessary till the journey's end. Never crow before you are out of the wood is an excellent piece of advice. Still, feeling that the worst was over, a sense of calm possessed me as I lounged in my Madeira chair, under the shade of the awning, for the tropical sun was very sultry, and made iced drinks a necessity instead of a luxury.

Gibson continued good friends with me, and often came and chatted as I languidly studied "Lock on Gold" in my deck chair. As a practical mineralogist, he pointed out the best parts to study, and I imbibed much information valuable enough had I designed to turn miner. He was an amusing man, and his creed simple enough—"Get money, honestly, if you can; but get money." A more efficient auctioneer for selling the numbers of the ship's run in the daily sweeps it would be impossible to find, and I enjoyed the privilege of acting auctioneer's clerk with "Lock" for a desk on my knee.

It was 4 o'clock on a Tuesday afternoon when we reached Cape Town, and Gibson managed to get away by that evening's train, leaving two of his followers to bring his luggage on next day when the rest of the passangers bound for the Rand travelled.

The third morning after landing found me in Fox street, Johannesburg, seeking Howard's office. I had just seen the name on the window, and had ascended the steps to the door of the building when a passer-by pulled up on recognizing me. It was Gibson.

"Hello!" he said, "where are you off to now?"

The time for caution was passed, victory was mine, and I could safely enjoy my triumph. I surveyed the baffled financier with a smile of infinite satisfaction, and replied:

"I am the bearer of a certain document from Mr. Tring to Mr. Howard."

From the expression on my face and the accent on my words, he read the truth, and knew I had baffled him, for he was taken quite by surprise, and bewilderment rendered him speechless.

Enjoying his discomfiture a few seconds, I turned and went in, leaving him on the pavement below the most unhappy man in Johannesburg.

Having entered the outer office and given my name to a clerk, I was speedily shown into Mr. Howard's private room. He greeted me warmly, and in the same breath inquired if I had been successful.

I said I had.

"That's good news. I've just got my mail and heard of your coming. Look—you see; the envelope has been tampered with! You are sure Gibson hasn't set eyes on the map?"

"Absolutely," I replied, then gave him a short account of the efforts made to secure it.

"Ay, ay, they wouldn't stick at much; you're fortunate to get here with a whole skin. But where is it after all?"

In answer I produced "Lock on Gold," and taking my penknife, cut off the gray calico cover, which I had put on again after it had been pulled off. Then inserting the point into the cover itself, I cut it open. There, snugly concealed, lay the precious map. I had, before leaving London, cut the cover open with a sharp knife, and placing the map in between, glued up the edges with great care. Being unable to absolutely conceal that the cover had been cut, I had put on the calico cover, and when it had been torn off by the eager searcher he had never noticed that the binding itself had been cut.

Thus safely and securely the map had travelled unseen by any eye, untouched by any hand, and now having placed it in the possession of Mr. Howard, my mission as a special envoy was over.

With the knowledge gained by the map, Howard took steps which very shortly made the land where Pepworth Tring found diamonds the property of that worthy, and I know no more, as nothing further has been heard of the discovery—no company has been publicly formed to work it. But I have a strong idea that the find turned up trumps, and that the reason of the silence is that it is too good a thing for the public to be admitted.—New York Journal.

Some Lawmaking Bodies.

In these days of belligerent small things, when almost any little insular nation may bob up and declare war against some other little nation too small to draw a bead on, it is essential that the general reader should recognize whether or not such a declaration is a forgery. If that declaration hasn't the endorsement of the legislative body it isn't loaded; but if the reader doesn't know the name of the legislative body, how is he to judge? Some of these lawmaking bodies which have the privilege of breaking a quorum and making pi out of English type may be named as below:

The reichsrath, Austria; the orzaggyules, Hungary; the chung chi ch'u, China; the nei wu fu, Korea; the rigsdad, Denmark; bureau des affaires Tunissiennes, Tunis; bundesrath and reichstag, German empire; landtag, Baden; reichsrathe, Bavaria; burgerschaft, Bremen; staatsministerium, Brunswick; diet, Mecklenburg-Schwerin; nerrenhaus and abgeordnetenhaus, Prussia; landstande, Wurttemberg; boule, Greece; senato and camera di deputati, Italy; imperiel diet, Japan; states-gentral, Netherlands; volkraad, Orange Free State; cortes geraes, Portugal; narodna-skhpshtina, Servia; senabodi, Siam; cortes constituyentes, Spain; storthing, Norway; standrath and nationlrath, Switzerland; ulema, Turkey.

In a good many of the lesser countries of the globe, of course the chief ruler is the whole thing, and a good deal harder to pronounce, as for instance, Shah Nasr-ed-din of Persia, and Chulalongkorn I. of Siam.

Where Engines are Curiosities.

In many parts of South Africa railways are comparatively a new departure, and in consequence a large proportion of the farmers are wholly ignorant of the way engines work, says London Answers.

One stalwart colonist who thought himself cleverer than his companions was standing on the platform at Bloemfontein, the capital of the Orange Free State, during shunting operations. He had been explaining the principles of steam motive power to an amused crowd, when suddenly the engine began to move backward, pushing a string of trucks.

His jaw dropped and he gasped out:

"I can understand how the engine pulls the trucks, but I'm blessed if I know how the trucks pull the engine back again!"

Then the crowd yelled.

YERKES OBSERVATORY, UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO, NEAR LAKE GENEVA, WIS.

THE great objective lenses of the Yerkes observatory at Lake Geneva have been placed in position and the world's greatest telescope is now a reality. It was five years ago that the two great glass disks of which the lens is made entered the factory of Alvin Clark & Son, at Cambridge, Mass. The glasses were in the rough at the time, and it was not until the following January that work was commenced upon them. Almost the entire work has been done by Mr. Clark and his chief assistant, Mr. Lundin. Two years and ten months of actual working time was spent in changing the disks from the rough into the completed lens. Fifty-four days was occupied in grinding and the remainder of the time was devoted to polishing. The crown lens, the smaller of the two disks, weighed 245 pounds in the rough, but when finished had been reduced to 205 pounds. It is double convex. The flint disk, the larger of the two, is plain concave, and weighed 356½ pounds in the rough. In its present condition it weighs but 310 pounds. The Yerkes lens, which is the largest in the world, has an exposed diameter of 40 inches. The two disks were placed 10 inches apart in the tube of the telescope, which has a focal length of 61 feet.

Alvin G. Clark, the maker of this wonderful lens, is an interesting character. In appearance he resembles somewhat both ex-President Harrison and the late James G. Blaine. He succeeded his father in the telescope business, and is justly proud of his latest accomplishment. Mr. Clark is, however, not satisfied to rest after this, but before he retires it is his wish to complete a yet larger lens, after his own idea. It would be fifty inches in diameter, and Mr. Clark thinks it possible to complete such a lens. If it could be done it would doubtless be sent to Paris where a purchaser could readily be found.

LIVES IN A TOMB.

Strange Vault, and Its Quick and Dead Occupants.

"Let those who seek not knowledge pass by this grave, but those who fain would learn the secret of life in death descend!" This remarkable inscription is engraved on a huge slab of black marble at the entrance to the strangest tomb in the civilized world It is in the Greek cemetery at Bucharest, and visitors are free to accept the invitation to enter.

At certain hours every day the visitor is sure to encounter the quick as well as the dead inside the tomb. It stands over the remains of Julia Hasden, a gifted young authoress, who died six years ago. Her father, Prof. Hasden, of the University of Bucharest, has spent several hours of each day since by the coffin of his beloved daughter. But he does not mourn her as one lost to him forever. He believes implicitly that he receives frequent communications from her, and often he surprises his fellow professors and friends by repeating some remark, which, in perfect good faith, he says his daughter made to him that day or the day before.

The tomb is not the gruesome place which the word usually implies. The floor is of black and white marble, and the sides are of the purest white marble, inlaid with inscriptions in letters of gold. The tomb was constructed, the professor declares, in accordance with plans outlined to him by his daughter after her death. Acting on suggestions from her additional inscriptions and decorations have been added from time to time. For instance, on a block of polished black marble some lines of music are inscribed in gold letters, and they are believed by him to constitute a melody composed by the girl in the spirit state.

FOR HOURS IN HIS DAUGHTER'S TOMB.

The airtight casket has a sliding glass head cover, and, pushing it back, the doting father can sit and look at the face of his child. The fresh air and sunshine stream in through the open doors, and with them come the perfume of sweet flowers, and the glad carols of the song birds. There is no suggestion of gloom, and there the old professor passes his leisure hours, often taking his coffee and smoking his cigarette there while he talks to his dead child. In the afternoon his wife sometimes joins him, and they walk home together. Visitors come and are welcome. A large album is provided for them to register their names in, and respecting what they believe to be the old gentleman's delusion, many inscribe the most touching expressions of sympathy. Such are found in every language in Europe.

A CUBAN RELIC.

El Templete, on the Site Where the First Mass Was Held.

The capital of Cuba is richer in historical material, of a certain class, than any other city in America. Its architecture is the Spanish—though it shows Moorish influence—of two or three centuries ago, and if the student wishes to study "architectural symphonies in stone" he need not cross the ocean; he need only hie himself to Havana. The oldest structure dates back to 1538 or thereabouts, and was built by orders of the great Don Hernando de Soto.

What has led many to state that Columbus landed here and laid the foundation of the city is the little temple, called El Templete, in front of which stands a bust of the navigator, and the building is only opened to visitors on the day of his nativity, November 16, on the occasion of the feast of St. Christopher. This temple, which was constructed after a Grecian model, covers the spot where the first mass was said on the site of Havana, in the year 1519—a date sufficiently remote, but thirteen years after the death of Columbus. In fact, Columbus never visited this portion of the island, and died in the belief that Cuba was part of the continent.

EL TEMPLETE.

He landed on the north coast, at or near Gibara, far to the east, in the year 1492, and thence coasted easterly to and beyond Baracoa, rounding Cape Maysi, and sailing across the channel to Hayti. On his second voyage he did not return to the north coast of Cuba, but after he had founded the city of Isabella, on the coast of Santo Domingo, he explored the southern shores of Cuba, from Santiago to Cienfuegos. Again, on his last voyage, he was forced by circumstances to visit the south coast, sailing thence to Jamaica, where his vessels were wrecked.

The Templete really commemorates the occasion of the first mass, held beneath the spreading branches of an immense ceiba, or silk-cotton tree. This tree has disappeared, but in its place is another of the same species, though not of large dimensions. The temple, or chapel, is empty, except for two paintings of some merit, one of which depicts the celebration of the mass in 1519, and the other a gathering in honor of this event a little more than 100 years ago.

The Mississippi Steamboat.

The river steamboat is a distinctly American feature. The ordinary packet plying the Father of Waters measures about 250 feet in length, about 40 feet high and 50 wide. There are 136 regular landings between Memphis and New Orleans, and as one may be on a high bank and the next in the mud, it is necessary to have landing planks adapted to such varying circumstances.

WATER TOWER OF STEEL RODS.

Singular Structure Designed and Erected by a Russian Engineer.

A unique water tower has been erected at Nishni-Novgorod by a Russian engineer, W. G. Schuchoff, who patented the system of its construction. The supporting frame of the tower consists of a trellis form of thin steel rods, the whole tower being shaped like a hyperboloid. The steel rods are riveted at all crossing points, and, in order to further increase the stolidity of the structure, horizontal steel rings are laid around the tower ten feet apart. The framework of the tower to the base of the water tank is ninety feet high. A small platform on the top of the water tank, to which access is had by winding stairs running through the center of the tank, is twenty feet higher.

The advantage of this construction is the economy of material. The trellis work being made of steel rods of the same diameter throughout, the material could be purchased in great quantities and applied to the objects as needed, simply cut to the proper length and provided with holes at the proper points to admit the rivets. The absence of specially designed castings or forgings of girders and rafters reduces the cost to a great extent. A further advantage is that the material can be closely packed and, therefore, transportation of it will be considerably cheaper. The Schuchoff structures have been shown to be reliable and satisfactory in every respect, besides being considerably cheaper than other methods of construction.

WATER TOWER.

A Black Forest Wedding.

It is a large square room with plastered walls, and unadorned, except by two or three coarse colored prints. It is only furnished with a number of long trestle tables and forms, and round these tables are crowded the wedding guests, stolidly and continuously eating enormous cherry tarts and drinking new wine. There is nothing festive about them, and they are not beautiful to behold. The women are dressed in an ugly fashion; they wear black bodices and short black skirts, plaited into an astounding thickness at the waist, and some of them have hideous tight-fitting black silk caps, tied closely under their chins with wide black strings. It would take a very pretty woman to stand the effect of this costume, and the requisite amount of beauty is not forthcoming in X. But the bride and her bridesmaids (about fifty in number) are more gorgeously arrayed, inasmuch as they wear crowns—monstrous erections of glass beads, glittering balls, artificial flowers and bits of tinsel, all fixed upon a cardboard foundation that towers a good foot and a half in height, and overshadows the wearer's head and face. It is wonderful how they can bear the weight of them. Some of the men are in peasant costume and some in ordinary dress; there is little of the picturesque mountaineer of our imagination.

Found Out.

"I sent a dollar last week," said the Good Thing, "in answer to that advertisement offering a method of saving one-half my gas bills."

"And you got——"

"A printed slip directing me to paste them in a scrap book."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Mean Thing.

Cynthia—Do you think Frank will love me when I am old, Maud?

Maud—Well, there's one thing, dear, you'll soon know.—Pick-Me-Up.

The man who gives advice that he doesn't take himself has a good precedent: The Lord ordained marriage, but He never married.

FLASHES OF FUN.

"Yes, her looks favor her mother's people." "Indeed?" "Oh, greatly. She doesn't look a bit like them."—Detroit Journal.

"Yes," said Uncle Jonas, "that boy o' mine allus wus fond o' books, an' now he's becom' a page in the legislatur."—Philadelphia American.

Quericus—Do you know why this is often called a cold world? Cynicus—To distinguish it from the next, I suppose.—New York Journal.

Robert—Is Harry fond of female society? Richard—Immoderately. I've known him to play whist with three women.—Boston Transcript.

"Did you read that magazine article on 'The Working of a Bank?'" "No. Is it by an ex-bank president or an ex-burglar?"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"The Turks seem to have a mighty poor opinion of the Greeks." "Yes; that accounts for them running 'em down."—Cleveland Plaindealer.

"Few men have any trouble in meeting their creditors," says the Manayunk Philosopher, "but they do have trouble in dodging them."—Philadelphia Record.

He—I must have a kiss for every caramel, dear. She—Some men would have bought a whole box instead of that measley little paper bag full.—Detroit Free Press.

"Julia, have you bought a new spring suit yet?" "No, I'll have to wait until next month; Dick had to buy a new spring gun and two new spring fishing rods this month."

He—Just listen how that hen cackles! She doesn't know how little one egg will sell for. She—Perhaps she does. She may be advertising a bargain.—Somerville Journal.

Mrs. Jones—Wake up, John! There's someone trying to get into the house! Jones—How do you know? Mrs. Jones—The dog has stopped howling. Hurry, John!—New York Journal.

Mr. Crimsonbeak—I don't believe a man ever stole anything but he lived to regret it. Mrs. Crimsonbeak—You stole my heart once, John. Mr. Crimsonbeak—Yes.—Yonkers Statesman.

"Joe got the inside track of his wife this year." "What did he do?" "He read her a whole lot of newspaper stories of men who had dropped dead beating carpets."—Detroit Free Press.

Kerrigan—Phat's good fer a cowld? Casey—Hov yez got th' proice uv two hot whiskies about yez? Kerrigan—Ol hov not. Casey—Will, thin, Kerrigan, ut wud be a mercy not t' tell yez.—Puck.

Walker Farr—I thought your next tour was to have been through South Africa. Count d'Ties—It was, but the company struck. One of them had read that an ostrich egg often weighs a dozen pounds.—Puck.

Amanda (alighting from her wheel at the roadside, where Mortimer awaits her)—Have I kept you waiting long, dear? Mortimer—Long? Many cycles have passed since the hour appointed for our meeting.—Judge.

"You see, it was this way: They were all three so dead in love with her and all so eligible that to settle the matter she agreed to marry the one who should guess the nearest to her age." "And did she?" "I don't know. I know she married the one who guessed the lowest."—Pearson's Weekly.

A hereditary liar: Mrs. Jackson—Dat's sebenteen lies yo's tole me toe-day, all diffrunt. Yo' am a reg'lar rapskillion. 'Rastus Jackson—W-whad am a rapskillion, mammy? Mrs. Jackson—A rapskillion am a young 'un dat's got his fadder's blood in him—dat's whad a rapskillion am.—Judge.

"You don't mean to tell me you have gone and got engaged to two women at once?" "Yes, but it really amounts to only one engagement—half an engagement for each girl." "Will you please explain." "Why, certainly. Each of 'em is engaged to another fellow."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

A vindication: "I don't understand why you dislike Herbert so," said Mabel to her father. "I don't think he has any ideas of finance." "I am sure you wrong him. He is devoted to it. He stopped right in the middle of his proposal to me to ask how your business was getting along."—Washington Star.

Mrs. Commonstalk (soberly)—Are you sure your fiancee will make a good home-body, Ell? Do you think she knows anything about mending, for instance? Cholly Commonstalk—About mending, mother? Why, that is her very strongest point. I saw her mend a busted tire once in just fourteen minutes by the watch.—Bazar.

Millionaire—You ask for the hand of my daughter. You are a journalist, I believe, and journalists, I am told, can scarcely earn their salt. Young Editor (with dignity)—You mistake, sir. I am a newspaper man. "Oh! Keep a news stand, I presume. Good, paying business! Take her, my son, and be happy."—New York Weekly.

"You know," she said with a little asperity, "that women have the reputation of being able to make money go further than men." "That's true," replied the man of small economies, "and it's just what I object to. What I want them to do is to let it keep still where it is and rest a little now and then."—Washington Star.

Publisher (impatiently)—Well, sir, what is it? Poet (timidly)—O—er—are you Mr. Jobson? Publisher (irritably—Yes. Poet (more timidly)—Mr. George Jobson? Publisher (excitedly)—Yes, sir, that's my name. Poet (more timidly still)—Of the firm of Messrs. Jobson & Doodle? Publisher (angrily)—Yes. What do you want? Poet—Oh—I want to see Mr. Doodle!—Punch.

What to Get Off.

Lowe Cummedy—I got off a good joke last night, but the audience was too dumb to see it.

Wright Wrouats (the critic)—So? There's another good thing you might get off if you want to make a hit with the public.

"What's that?"

"The stage."—Philadelphia Record.

If a woman cooks to please her husband, his wedding suit is so tight before the year is up that he can't get into it.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY..... June 10, 1897

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT.

H. E. Coe, of Butler, Gets the Position on First Ballott.

To-day being the day fixed by law for the election of county superintendent, the trustees of several townships, gathered in this forenoon for that purpose. There are fourteen of them only as the school trustees of the incorporated towns have no voice in the matter. There had been several men spoken of as candidates for the place. Mr. Coe. Mr. Provines. Mr. Eicholtz of the Spencerville schools, and at one time there was a talk of Mr. Urey of Fairfield and Mr. Kriebel, of Newville. As the day approached, however, all dropped out of the race except Mr. Coe and Mr. Provines. Mr. Coe is a republican, and eight of the fourteen trustees were also of that faith, which of course put him ahead from the start. There were five democrats, those from Stafford, Fairfield, Keyser, Richland and Union, and one populist, Mr. Dancer of Jackson.

At two o'clock in the afternoon, the trustees met in the office of the auditor and were called to order by Mr. Boland. Mr. Henderson, of Concord, nominated H. G. Provines. of Jackson township; Mr. Eakright, of Wilmington, nominated H. E Coe of the same township he being a resident, of Butler. The vote resulted: Coe, 8; Provines 6; and Coe will be the county superintendent for the next two years.

THE WINDSTACKER.

Franklin (Ind.) Democrat.

In our trade and agricultural exchanges we note some discussion concerning the merits of the Pneumatic or Wind stacker. We believe the farmers of Johnson county, situated as they are, in one of the best agricultural regions in the world, are to be felicitated for their excellent judgment in adopting improved methods in farming without being governed by prejudice or hearsay. To the farmers of Johnson county, who have been familiar with the Wind stacker since its introduction in 1891, discussions at this time concerning the merits of the Wind stacker must be amusing. When they know thot they have straw stacks that have stood for three, four and five years with the straw bright and clean a few inches below the surface, they certainly cannot help wondering why the Wind stacker could anywhere be condemned because the straw would not keep. The geographical position of the county, the whole of which lies within forty miles of the Capital City of the State, makes it readily accessible to the agents of all the agricultural impliment manufacturers. For that reason, this county is particularly favored in having the first opportunity to receive and judge new inventions. We suppose the contests by agents for sales of machinery are as keen here as they could possibly be anywhere. If, therefore, there should be any weaknesses or defects in a machine, the agents of competing machinery would be swift to discover them and point them out to buyers. The fact is, that a thresherman in this county today without a Windstacker, has very little to do, and none of them thinks of buyiug a new machine without it. Farmers will no longer endure the disagreeable and arduous labor requieed in stacking straw, nor can they secure hands in a busy season to do such work. The manufacturer of a threshing machine in this day, which is not adapted to work in connection with the Wind stacker, has no sale for his goods in this county, and we are surprised that farmers or threshermen in any locality would think of using old time methods or machinery not adapted for the best use of progressive improvements.

Tourist Sleeping Cars to San Francisco Via Wabash.

On June 20th and July 1st next the Wabash, in connection with the A., T. & S. F. and So. Pacific Rys., will run tourist sleeping cars from St. Loius to San Francisco without change for the accommodation of members of the Christian Endeavor Society and their friends enroute to San Francisco. Sleepers wil leave St. Louis at 9.00 p. m.

For particulars call on or address any agent of the Wabash R. R. or connecting lines.

Y. P. R. C. WOK.

The following tables shows the work done, in the Young People's Reading Circle work for the school years ending 1897, and 1896.

1897.

Corporation	No. of Pupils	No. of Books Read.
Butler Tp.	82	307
Concord	198	933
Fairfield	183	907
Stafford	57	202
Jackson	16	81
Wilmington	82	225
Ashley	150	451
Aubbrn	240	1011
Butler	118	362
Total in Co.	1126	4479

Books not belonging to this year's work were read as follows: Grant 33 pupils read 122 book; Keyser 8 pupils read 8 books; Newville 5 pupils read 8 books; Wilmington 26 pupils read 90 books and Garrett 220 pupils read 554.

1896.

	No. of Pupils	No. of Books Read.
Stafford	64	212
Newville	38	121
Auburn	85	681
County	187	1014

Books not belonging to the regular R. C. work were read as follows: Concord 54 pupils read 227 books; Jackson, 34 pupils read 120 books; Wilmington, 28 pupils read 127 books; Keyser, 28 pupils read 44 books; Grant, 34 pupils read 65 books; Richland 62 pupils read 222 books; Franklin, 41 pupils read 144 books; Troy, 56 pupils read 344 books and Fairfield 27 pupils read 150 books.

For the school year of 1894-5, 3064 pupils read 10,093 of the regular books adopted by the state for that year.

This outside reading adds greatly to the children's vocabulary and broadens their range of ideas. It leads them into broader fields of research and study, and enab'es them to grasp much more intelligently and rapidly all the other subjects of school study. It is claimed by our best educational authority that it is easier to influence the tastes of a child for reading at from nine to thirteen or fourteen years of age than at any other time of life. The Young People's Reading Circle aims to take advantage of this period and form in pupils the habit of home reading and study and a taste for true and healthful literature, It places the reading of the children under "intelligent guidance" and thus saves them from the sensational, vicious and trashy literature found in many places. It is to be hoped that teachers, school officers and the people will give their hearty support to this important work in the future. C. M. MERICA, Co. Supt.

COURT.

The work has been going on pretty steadily till Monday, when after getting through considerable of it the court adjourned till Thursday.

CRIMINAL DOCKET.

Perry Fair has filed an affidavit for a change of venue from this county.

The case against David W. Fair is set for next Monday, with Judge Adair on the bench. And on the following Monday, the same judge is to take up the conspiracy cases against Fairs, Sawvel, McIntosh and Borst.

In the case against Frank Shull, Croxton & Powers, of Angola, appear for him. In the case against the Newville men, Fusselman Richmond, Gen. Blair appears as counsel for the two defendants.

CIVIL DOCKET.

Hon. E. D. Hartman will be judge in the case of Ashley Furniture Co. vs R. H. McInturf, as judge Roby had been a counsel in the case.

The divorce case of Anna Hess vs Wm Hess was called up, Gen. Blair attorney for defense, and Gibson & Brink for plaintiff. But the case was finally withdrawn at plaintiff's cost.

The slander case between the Luttman women has been continued by agreement between the parties.

Judge Roby has withdrawn as counsel, from the case of Fair against Coffinberry. And also in the case of the Fort Wayne Light Co. vs Garrett Water Co. He also withdraws from the divorce of Mary Ellen vs J. J. Thomas and all the other cases in which he was employed as attorney.

In the attachment case of Rush R. Sloan vs Edward W. Kilbourn, a judgment was given Sloan of $479 and the property attached ordered sold to satisfy the claim.

Judge Lowry has been appointed to try the injunction case of Sparling vs Nusbaum.

The case of Kauffman vs H. P. Stroh Malzena Baltz and G. F. Baltz, injunction is made perpetual with costs against defendants.

In the case of Clark and Kahler vs the Clark and the Hilkert heirs, C. E. Emanuel was appointed guardian for the Clark children and D. M. Link for the Hilkerts.

The divorce case of Laura vs Alexander Sutley is to be called July 1.

The case of Gilbert Sanders vs Cora C. Sanders' to have marriage contract annulled, is to be called July 26.

Don't Waste Money.

Dr. John W. Bull's Baby Syrup is an excellent carminative for babies suffering from flatulency, wind-colic and griping. "I have used Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup in my family for a number of years and can cheerfully recommend it as being the best soothing syrup for children that I have ever used. Lawrence Horan, Fairmont, W. Va." Mothers, don't waste money on substitutes. Dr. John W. Bull's Baby Syrup costs but 25 cents; see that you get it. Sold by F. E. Davenport, Auburn.

BAD FIRE.

Lahnum Brothers have a close Call Last Night.

About one o'clock in the night, Watchman Baker discovered fire in the furniture store of Lahnum Brothers, and at once gave the alarm, ran to the engine house, firing his revolver as he ran. At the same time some guests at the Central House, on the block next east, were awakened by the explosion of the reservoir of a gasolene stove in the repair room in the rear part of the building. The fire department responded promptly and in a few minutes, the engine was at the cistern by the National Bank, and two strong streams were playing on the fire. It was short and sharp work, for a minute's delay would have caused the ruin of the entire frame part of the block and possibly of the hotel to the east, across the alley. The fire had started among some rags and waste in the repair room and as they were probably more or less soiled with grease and varnish, the flames had spread rapidly The heat soon exploded the reservoir of gasolene near by, and that assisted in giving the alarm. The whole interior of the tinder-likebuilding was a blaze and it was rapidly spreading to other parts. A stream was sent in at each end of the building, and by the desperate efforts of the firemen, the building and a part of the furniture were saved. Of course, the east end of the building, is ruined, but the main part is all right. The goods on the first floor were piled out in the street. The loss on goods is estimated at about $850, with $600 insurance, $300 in the Pennsylvania Co. of W. C. Hartman's agency, and $300 in the Scottish Union National of H. D. Weaver's agency. Too much praise cannot be given to the firemen. Their work was brilliant in the higest degree and whatever is saved, is to their credit. The town board should also have a good word for supplying the new hose, for it worked to perfection, Had the hose burst as it did at a fire a year or so ago, it would have been good by to half a block. Nightwatch Baker, deserves credit also, for the prompt and energetic way in which he gave the alarm. The goods will be kept in the room, till a new one can be secured.

Fine Berkshires.

Farmers sell finished products, and retain fertility of soil. Berk shire pigs utilive pasture to best advantage. Eight sows bred to barrow May to September. Price $10 and upwards. Plenty of good spring pigs, that must go to mgke room for later arrivals. All breeding stock recorded. Call or write your wants.

J. W. JACKMAN,
Two miles east of Waterloo, Ind

NOTICE.

Temporary office of Lahnum Bros. will be at Bates & Son's store.

To Detroit for $1.50

On Sunday June 20, the Wabash railroad will run a special excursion to Detroit Michigan and return. The fare for the round trip will be $1.50 Train will leave Auburn at 6.05 a. m., and arrive at Detroit at 10 o'clock. Return train will leave Detroit at 7 p. m. You can also visit Canada by steamboat at on additional cost of 10 cents.

STRAYED.

English setter, female dog. Color, white and small black spots. Reward for information or return.

G. A. BISHOP,
w-1t Auburn, Indiana.

$1.00 to Chicago.

An excursion will be run to Chicago over the B. & O. Sunday, the fare for round trip being $1.00. The train will start from Auburn Junction at 4:40 a. m. The return train will also carry passengers back to the Junction. This is a rare chance to visit Chicago.

Pioneers' Reunion.

The twentieth reunion of the old settlers association of DeKalb county will be held at Auburn. on Thursday June 17, inst. "All persons who have been residents of the county for the past forty years are eligible to membership."

Come everybody and enjoy a visit with the Pioneers and have a general good time.

L. J. BLAIR, Pres.

CALL FOR COUNTY ORDERS.

Holders of county orders issued prior to November 8, 1895, order No. 1093-O should present them at the County Treasurer's Office for payment. Interest on same will stop after June 5, 1897.

F. A. BORST,
Auditor.
By M. BOLAND, Deputy.

AFTER HONORABLE SERVICE

County Superintendent Merica Closes his Fourteen Years of School Work

Monday, C. M. Merica closed his fouteeen years of continuous service as county superintendent of the schools of this county. In point of time, it has been remarkble, for few, if any, of the ninety-two counties of the state ever had this office filled continuously by one man for so long a time. In point of successful achievement and faithful service, his record is in the highest degree satisfactory and honorable. And now, as a friend of the retiring officer and of the school interests of the county, it is fit that the COURIER should say a few words by way of recalling some incidents in his early school work, and his later valuable services.

The writer of this became acquainted with Mr. Merica when the latter was a young man, and issued to him his first license as a teacher. The first impressions he made were favorable and from that time a friendship has existed between us that has never for a moment been broken. By his first term as a teacher, his success was assured, and after a few years of such experience and of valuable preparation, he was elected to the difficult and honorable position of county superintendent, little dreaming that he would be held in the place for fourteen years. But he came to the office well equipped for the work. As a boy he always took a deep interest in schools. At the age of 14 he started in life for himself. He hired out to his brother William, with whom he staid four years, working on the farm in summer and attending the district schools in the winter, receiving a very fair common school education, for the time, before leaving the district schools. He then attended the Aubnrn high schools several terms and in the fall of 1872 he began as before noted his first term of teaching. It was at what was known as the "Knott School," in Butler township. Here, as in all his school work since that time, he met with marked success. He subsequently attended the Auburn high school several more terms preparing himself quite thoroughly for teaching. Then until he was married in March 1876 he taught school in the winter and attended the Northern Indiana Normal at Valparaiso during the rest of the year. From his marriage in 1876 till the summer of 1880 he taught school, during which time he also conducted two successful normals of ten weeks each at Cedar Creek, Ind. enrolling a large number of teachers from the west and south part of the county. In the summer of 1880 he with his wife and little daughter moved to Valparaiso, where he again entered the Normal remaining until the next summer when he was tendered the superintendency of the Garrett public schools. He accepted, came back and remained there two years and until he was elected county superintendent in June 1883. As Mr. Merica was without means, save that of his own labor, his work in the normal was necessarily irregular and when he left to take his position at Garrett he lackfull Normal College course ed several studies of completing the but by home study and by attending the Normal during summer vacations, he completed the course in the fall of 1882 and received his diploma of Bachelor of Science.

Since becoming county superintendent, the public have had full knowledge of his work, and no history of it is needed. His work speaks for him. He has the schools all well graded, and pupils all taking all the branches their grade requires, and 160 have this spring graduated in the common school course. He has established systematic, methods of teaching that are fully up with the best educational thought of the times. He has aimed to elevate the standard of teaching and the standard required, of teaching ability, to elevate the moral, by cultivating in pupils the taste for good reading and literature. Institutes, both township and county, have been made interesting and profitable. Hard work, close application, personal attention to details of the work, courteous and kind in his dealings with the teachers, as well as impartial and honest, he retires with the confidence of the people, the love of teachers and pupils, and high in the regard of school officers. His successor will have a worthy model.

Free Pills.

Send your address to H. E Bucklen & Co., Chicago, and get a free sample of Dr. King's New Life pills. A trial will convince you of their merits. These pills are easy in action and are particularly effective in the cure of consumption and sick headache. For Malaria and liver troubles they have been proved invaluable. They are guaranted to be perfectly free from every deleterious substance and to be purely vegetable They do not weaken by their action, but by giving tone to stomach and bowels greatly invigorate the system. Regular size 25c per box. Sold at Robbins & McCord's drug store.

A PITIFUL APPEAL

Comes to the Govrenor From a Crawford County Postmaster.

(Indianapolis Sun.)

Crawford county "white caps" have been at work if a letter received by the governor, this week, may be trusted. The letter contains an appeal, humorous and at the same time pathetic, for help. It shows a condition of affairs in communities that the law and governor may not be able to reach, but certainly the military and part of the finely uniformed staff should be sent at once to afford a temporary relief to the poor postmaster. It reads as follows:

"To Most Excelent Govnor of Ind My Honorbel Sir, I am in Dier distress me & my Wife & 3 Small Children I am the Post Master at this Place & My life & iamily is Biterly Thretened With a Drunken Mob I came here a Stranger Some years ago & Bought the Property Whare the P O was Kep & the Post Master Resined & gave me the Reckmend to Office & I petichened for the Office & on the 3 of last Nov Was a Pointed. So the people was a gain me Becus I got the a Poiptment & Some one Poisend a fine Gray Cow to Deth of mine then in a few days Mr. —— go a Old Barn Burnt. So tha had killed my fine Cow & becase tha Was guilty tha jump on me & Sa I burnt the Barn (Please Over)

"Now my most Excelent Gov Will you Send me aid to Save my Life & Wife & Children & Goverment Property in my Posision. Oh Please Send me help at Once or I be murdered me & famly. my poor Wife & Children is Screaming With Teras P S I Was a Soldier in the 4 Regt Ind Cavlry Co F 3 year an vary feebel & Draw a Pension.

"Oh for the love of the Puer Inesent & for Christians & for the love of Gods People Send me help to sove my Life & famly at once.

"I am yours With the Depest Sorow
(Signed) " —— "

"Notices This Mob That Ses Tha Murder me & famly Tha Call them Selves White Caps & Knights of Golden Sircle."

A suit of Clothes Given Away

ould no doubt make one man Extremely Happy. But where the price is cut down on every suit in the house it represents attractions of which you are quick to take advantage of, and divides the contributions among our customers. If you are inclined to be skeptical in regard to

Seemingly Windy Talk

in advertisements, favor us with your presence and we will endavor to agreeably entertain you, showing you the perceptical reduction of price in our Clothing Stock. The quality carried makes us doubly able to please you and of every pocket book. The continued cold weather makes straw hat business drop far from the standard, but the possibility of fitting you out in Caps, Stiff and Soft Hats has been taken advantage of by us, and have placed on our tables the most complete assortment that can be found. See us and we will benefit you financially.....

Satisfy the Conditions

G. H. YESBERA, CLOTHIER

FIRE! FIRE!

Wednesday morning fire beoke out in the rear of our store, and our entire stock of furniture was damaged by smoke and water, and a part burnt up entirely. As soon as the Insurance Adjustors arrive and adjust our loss, we will dispose of the damaged goods at.....

SMOKE and FIRE PRICES.

Business will be continued in Auburn, but we have not as yet selected a location.

Yours Respectfully,

LAHNUM BROS.

J. D. LAHNUM, Manager;
Formerly with A. H. Revell & Co., Chicago.

The above cut shows the style of the Ladies WINNER Bicycle, except that we use the Plew Saddle instead of the one shown in the cut. It is one of the best bicycles in the country; an up-to-date Wheel, having Fush Joints, etc. Don't fail to see it before making your purchase, It is manufactured by the Auburn Cycle Co., and sold by .....

F. J. YESBERA, the Auburn Jeweler.

AT HIS STORE, AUBURN, INDIANA.

THE CORRECTLY DRESSED GIRL

Is a living picture and only Needs one of our New Spring Hats to make a material angel of her. The picture isn't finished without it. It is the finishing touch that makes the American girl divine. The assurance that her headwear is chic, fits her face and suits her style is comforting to any woman. Our Hats and Bonnets are just such comforts.

Correct Styles, Dressy Appearance

Are noticeable features of our Spring Wraps. There are characteristics about them you don't commonly meet, peculiarities that just suit dressy people. The comfort of a light-weight wrap is in the assurance that it is stylish, and that comfort owns possesses from Best to Chespest.

Do You Want a Perfect Spring Suit?

Of course you do; every lady does who buys at all. It took expert makers and fittters to make each of our Ready-Made Suits and Skirts, Expert cutter, expert fitter, a sleeve expert, shirt expert, waist expert. All expert works from the cutting of the armhole to binding the skirt—each do their part and stick to that part. The result is perfection. If you want perfection, come here for it.....

Wash Dress Goods.

If you have an eye for exquisite color effects, you will be delighted with our new Wash Dress Goods, Dainty Organdies Chic Tissues and Natty Lawns, Fine French Productions, all at Very Lowest Cash Prices.

Some Folks Smile

when we talk about Stockings that Fit, but there is comfort in fit and satisfaction in the appearance of Ladies' and Children's Hosiery. Why do manufacturers labor to produce shapely Hosiery, regular made, full fashioned, if any old shape would do? Women who know the difference between good and bad hosiery will understand us, and will come here for Stockings that Fit.....

Because We Pay Cash.

There is a saving clause attached to this business that directly benefits every one who buys goods here. We Pay Cash. The influence of this cash on the mail policy effects the price of nearly everything we buy and sell. Prices shrink when measured in Spot Cash. We give our customers the benefit of this shrinkage and a little more besides.

The Bishop & Lackey Company.

....OUR.... SPECIALTIES

Carpets, Furniture, Baby Carriages, Curtains and Draperies.

We are showing five pieces of New Carpets (carpets made and bought this season) where any other store in town is showing one. We know the truth of this assertion. We have the Fort Wayne Agency of the best refrigerator known to trade.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Prices below all competition. Our line is all new and fresh.

—We—

are making things lively in the Funiture business this spring. We never had such a magnificent stock before, never sold it at such low prices and never sold so much of it.

This coming week we will get another car load of the

Great Estey Manufacturing Company's

Bed Room Suits. They are hummers, every one of them Prices on this great purchase of bed room suits will be $14.50 to $60.00.

Great opening of those Broad, Easy Couches, with spring edge all around. With us you can have sixty styles to select from. Why then attempt to choose at stores which only carry three or four of them? Prices from $5.90 up.

A Ten Dollar Bill

Buys as much funiture of us as $15.00 to $20.00 will elsewhere, you have only to try it and see for your-elves.

We are selling piles of baby carriages. No one else is in it. Every rubber tire wheel warranted. Best styles, best springs, best upholstering. Largest assortment.

D. N. Foster Furniture Co.

FORT WAYNE, IND.

MRS. MORRIS BOREN.

Mrs. Morris Boren died Sunday morning from heart failure at her home near Rehobeth church in Jackson township. Her funeral will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock and interment will be in Bear Creek cemetery.

NOTICE TO NON RESIDENTS.

State of Indiana, DeKalb county, ss:

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, May term, 1897.

Mary L. Phillips is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against her in said court, to foreclose a mechanic's lien by Jackson Burns and that the same will be heard and determined on the 2d day Aug. of 1897, being the 67th juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences May 1897.

Witness, the clerk of said court this 7th day of June, 1897. MICHAEL F. LONG Clerk.
L. J. GENGLER, Attorney.

GUARDIAN'S SALE.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned, Amiel J. Vernier, Guardian of the Estate of Jacob Vernier, a person of unsound mind, will sell, at private sale, pursuant to the order of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of DeKalb County, State of Indiana, made and entered on the 2nd. day of June 1897, all the right title and interest of the said Jacob Vernier in and to the following described real estate, to-wit:—The undivided two thipds of lots numbered one (1), two (2) and three (3), in block numbered seventeen (17), in the town (town (now city), of Garrett, DeKalb County, Indiana, including the flouring mill and machinery situate thereon.

The said real estate is appraised at twenty-five hundred dollars ($2,500.00).

TERMS OF SALE:—Two thirds of the purchase money to be paid in cash on day of sale, and the balance on or before one year from the date of sale with 6 per cent interest, and to be secured and evidenced to the note of the purchaser with good personal security to the approval of the said guardian.

Applications of intending purchasers will be received at the office of McClellan & Garwood Auburn, Indiana, until 10 o'clock a. m. June 14 1897.

AMIEL J. VERNIR,
Guardian.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Margaret Sheets deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 1st day of July, 1897, and show cause, if any, why my final settlement accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 3d day of June 1897.
ROBERT S. S. REED, Administrator.
J. E. & J. H. Rose Atty.

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Mary W. Mott deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 26th day of June, 1897, and show cause, if any, why my Final settlement accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, my name, this 4th day of June, 1897
JOHN G. MOTT,
E. D. Hartman, Atty. Administrator.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE.

In the matter of the estate of Jane Tefft deceased.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court of the State of Indiana, at the March term 1897 thereof, the undersigned, as administrator of the estate of Jane Tefft, deceased will offer for sale at private sale, at the office of McClellan & Garwood in Auburn, Indiana, on Saturday, July 10th, 1897, at 10 o'clock a. m the following described real estate, at not less than its appraised value. Same real estate is appraised at $1,550 00 to-wit:—

Lot number twenty-three (23) in the Western Addition to the Town of Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana.

TERMS:—One third cash at date of sale, one third in one year and one third in eighteen months, the deferred payments to be evidenced by promissory notes with six per cent interest waiving valuation and appraisment laws and secured by mortgage upon the real estate sold,

C. A. O. MCCLELLAN,
Administrator.

Wednesday's Daily.

—Miss Cora McEnterffer, of Waterloo is spending the day with her aunt Mrs. Mary McEnterffer.

—Mrs. Emma Pierson of Chicago is here visiting her parents and many acquaintances.

W. B. Johnson, Newark, O, says: "One Minute Cough Cure saved my only child from dying by croup." It has cured thousands of others suffering from croup, pneumonia, bronchitis and other serious throat and lung troubles. Davenport, the druggist.

—L. Bowers is re-siding his house. New siding is being put over the old and it will make it quite warm in the winter.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT:—It is a terrible accident to be burned or scalded; but the pain and agony and the frightful disfigurements can be quickly overcome without leaving a scar by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Davenport, the druggist

—Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Webster and son and Mrs. Torrence and little daughter all of Minneapolis, are guests of J. E. Rose and family.

Some for ten, some for twenty, and some for thirty years have suffered from piles and then have been quickly cured by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, the great remedy for piles and all forms of skin diseases. Davenport, the druggist.

—Dr. Nusbaum is prepared to prosecute the claims of veterans in regard to their pensions. Call on him at his office here, when needing any assistance to get what is justly due you.

—The Misses Buckley gave a tea Monday evening in honor of Miss Eveston of Butler and Miss Yates of Auburn who returns to her home in Reading Mich., Wednesday. There were twelve present.

Don't thin your blood with sassafras or poison it with blue-mass; but aid Nature by using DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, biliousness and stomach and liver troubles. They are purely vegetable. Davenport, the druggist.

—The Pike's Peak News will be the title of a new daily paper to be published at the top of the monarch of the Rockies. The new publication will be an eight page four-column paper, and will be issued twice a day. A portion of the paper will be published on Pike's peak and the rest of it in Manitou. Publicaion will begin about June 15.

—Bucklen's Arnica Salve.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay repuired. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For ale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Don't neglect a cough because the weather is pleasant; before the next storm rolls around, it may develop into a serious difficulty beyond repair. One Minute Cough Cure is easy to take and will do what its name implies. Davenport, the druggist.

Not only piles of the very worst form can be cured by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, but eczema, scalds, burns, bruises, boils, ulcers and all other skin troubles can be instantly relieved by the same remedy. Davenport, the druggist.

They "are dandies" said Thos. Bowers, of the Crocket, Texas Enterprise, while writing about Dewitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for sick headache and disorders of the stomach and liver. Davenport, the druggist.

—Mrs. W. B. Campbell came up today from Anderson and will visit her parents Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Tarney in Jackson township.

Sick headache can be quickly and completely overcome by using those famous little pills known as "DeWitt's Little Early Risers." Davenport, the druggist.

SPECIAL FRAME SALE:—Saturday June 12th at Lybarger's gallery. Clapp's old stand. Bottom prices.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair
DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE.
A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant
40 YEARS THE STANDARD

HUMPHREYS' VETERINARY SPECIFICS
500 PAGE BOOK MAILED FREE.
CONTENTS:
Part I.—Diseases of Horses.
Part II.—Diseases of Cattle.
Part III.—Diseases of Sheep.
Part IV.—Diseases of Hogs.
Part V.—Diseases of Dogs.
Part VI.—Diseases of Poultry.
Same book in better binding 50 cts.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., Cor. William & John Sts., New York

NERVOUS DEBILITY,
VITAL WEAKNESS
and Prostration from Overwork or other causes.
Humphreys' Homeopathic Specific No. 28, in use over 40 years, the only successful remedy.
$1 per vial, or 5 vials and large vial powder, for $5
Sold by Druggists, or sent postpaid on receipt of price.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., Cor. William & John Sts., New York

Thursday's Daily.

—Samuel Jones of Butler was is the city today, on some business matters.

—Mrs. James Farmer and children, Sidney and Clifton came up today from Bluffton for a few weeks visit with friends.

—Allen county farmers complain that a small, black bug is eating the leaves of their fruit trees. It may not merely ruin the fruit, but may kill the trees.

—Ben Trusdell, a tramp who was intoxicated, fell from a freight train near LaOtto last night. Both legs and his right arm were cut off.

—Married at the Lutheran Parsonage Wednesday, June 2, 1897, by Rev. J. D. Brosy, John Nickols and Sadie Showalter. Both were from Butler, Ind.

—S. U. Tarney is now putting on new paper in his business room and renewing and refitting it in every way. It will make a splendid room for some one.

—Mrs. Minnie Hyatt, of Denver, Colo., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. S. U. Tarney at their home on South Main-st. She is their niece.

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs and timber. Highest cost prices paid for same. Address Lesh, Sanders & Egbert Co. Goshen, Ind. 40-50

—Dr. Baxter is paying special attention to Diseases of Children also Diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Nervous system. tf

—Mrs. J. A. Barns visited the Westminister students at Ft. Wayne. The school year is drawing to a close, as the graduating exercises are next Monday and Tuesday.

—Home grown strawberries are getting ripe. L. E. Gregg picked a few off of his vines yesterday that were very nice. At this date last year, the season was about over.

—Albion New Era: Albion attorneys are poor but not as poor as Angola attorneys, where burglars recently were compelled to visit two residences in order to get peaches and cream, obtaining peaches from one attorney and cream from another.

—Mr. Meese wants 100 bicycle riders to attend his meetings at Sugar Grove below Auburn Junction. It will be a pleasant trip of about two miles from Auburn, and all will be made welcome. The location is a pleasant one and if the weather is good, everybody will enjoy this reunion meeting. All come.

—The Catholic German churches of Cincinnati have decided to give up the use of their mother tongue in their church services and use English only. They are forced to do this in order to hold their younger members, many of whom do not very well understand the German tongue, and don't care to attend services they cannot understand.

—At Elkhart this week Charles D. Henderson, late city judge of that place, was arrested on an indictment for larceny and embezzlement. He gave bonds and says he will fight the case. He says it grew out of some insurance collections he has been making and will be fully adjusted. He has long been a prominent citizen, and his arrest has caused a good deal of comment.

—There is a popular idea that June is the favorite month for weddings, and that the young woman who loves romance and wishes fortune to smile upon her nuptial in every way must choose this of all months. Cold and unromantic fact, however, shows that the three most popular months are October, November and December. Fifty years' records show this to be true and also demonstrate that the most popular months for marriage are January, February and March.

—Mr. Boland has returned from his trip to Indianapolis and Princeton. He went down last week to make the annual settlement of the county, with the state and while so far on the road, concluded to go down to Gibson county and spend Sunday at Princeton. He found Etta Heist well, and suited with her work. The Nickey Co. are doing a good business there, and the other former Auburn people are all right. Mr. Boland was quite pleased with the town, except for its narrow, old-fashioned streets, and the tendency to clay mud was offset by the abundance and beauty of the roses and other flowers, which were in profusion all over the town. Part of the country there is rough and hilly, and in the lighter soil they raise melons, strawberries and other fruits while on the first and second river bottoms, is excellent corn lands. He speaks of the trip as a very pleasant one all around.

—Garrett Herald:—Attorneys Link and Brown, of Auburn, were in our city last Saturday. We wonder if they have cleaned up all the cases at their city and are looking up the interests of litigants at Garrett. Well either and both of them are a credit to their profession and those who patronize them will get get good honest service.

—Garrett Herald:—We are frequently surprised to hear the most radical republicans of Garrett—men who wore yellow hats and "whooped-er-up" for the gold standard before election, now championing the cause of silver with enthusiasm more earnest than a veteran Greenbacker. The revolution in thought has already taken place, and free rides to Canton will not win the next election.

—The Garrett Herald has two lady poets, Zelma Lynn and Faith Murel, each of whom furnishes a poem in nearly every number. We know of still another citizen of that place, who has quite a fine literary taste, both in poetry and prose. Our sister city is getting quite a reputation in literature.

Friday's Daily.

Quin Altenberg has been here a few days visiting the relatives. How time goes! It is twelve or thirteen years since he located in Toledo.

—Ex-Marshal Frank Fisher, of Waterloo, was a caller today. He is giving his attention largely to collections now and we believe also to insurance matters.

—Miss Theresa Ashley went to Fremont, Ohio, yesterday, where she will remain till after June 10. On that date her cousin, Miss Mamie Baldy, is to be married. Miss Baldy will be remembered by our young people, as she has visited in Auburn at different times.

—M. E. Garrett, the grocer, was first to bring watermelons in the market this year. He received nine last evening and they are nice and large, and well ripened. A COURIER man sampled one of them.

—The many friends of Miss Bertha Shaffer, who was so long a resident of Auburn, will be interested to learn that she is living with her sister, Mrs. Carrie Cullers, in Chicago. She keeps house, for Mrs. Cullers who is employed as saleswoman in a large bicycle furnishing store.

—The best regulator to regulate a people, is Simmons Liver Regulator. It regulates the liver and the liver regulates the person. If the liver is regular then health is good, but if sluggish or diseased then there is constant Biliousness, Indigestion, Headache and all disorders of the stomach that one hears of. Try Simmons Liver Regulator and prove this.

—Henry Lesh has received a letter from Fairhope, O., his father's home, that the latter had a light stroke of paralysis Monday. At last accounts he was no worse, though not yet able to help himself much. There is a hope that he may recover.

—John McMillen yesterday sold his meat market to Sheffer & Chaney, and by midnight the stock and movables were all moved up to the room of the latter firm. Today early callers found McMillen's door locked and he was gone. He no doubt found that it would not pay to run six meat markets in a town the size of Auburn. This had been plain to most people from the start. About three or four meat markets could flourish here, but not six.

Saturday's Daily.

—BUY A HOME:—I will sell at a very low price, and on easy terms, a lot in the town of Ashley. Situated one square from the business part of the city and on one of the best high and dry streets. Now is your chance to get a home in this thriving city at a bargain.

JOHN C. LOCHNER,
Auburn, Ind

—Clyde Willis and wife were down from Waterloo yesterday.

—Dr. Newman, of Lagrange, was in the city yesterday. He is a relative of trustee Dancer of Jackson township.

—Mrs. Albion Shade of, Albion, is here here visiting her husband who bakes at Ed. Baker's bakery.

—Miss Harriet Dills came up today from St. Joe for a visit with friends.

—Mrs. E. T. Cochran has gone to Cincinnati where she will visit a sister residing in that city.

—Frank Osbun came home to-day from Upland, Ind., where he has been attending school.

—Mr. and Mrs. Joe Grover entertained a few of their friends at tea last evening it being little Miss Thelma's second anniversary.

—Fisher West, of Huntertown, was in the city to-day a guest of his son P. D. West, the attorney.

—MARRIED: This a. m. by Rev. F. C. Colvin, Frank H. Langley, of Chicago, a Lake Shore postal clerk, to Miss Jerusha Warner of St. Joe.

—Mrs. J. H. Wagner and children of Hudson, are visiting in the family of J. E. Ensley. The ladies are sisters. Mr. Wagner will join them here tomorrow.

—The Wabash railroad company has leased the use of the Grand Trunk railway tracks between Windsor and Suspension Bridge and the Erie railroad tracks between Suspension Bridge and Bluffalo, and commencing June 13, will run its trains, under Wabash management, though to and from Buffalo.

—Lewis B. Fretz was in the city last night. He left this morning for Art, Ind., where will attend the closing session of the regular annual convention of the Indiana Sunday School Association. He is to deliver an address to them, and next Monday goes to Toledo to represent the Sunday Schools of the township where Edon is.

—Wm. Kessler, is meeting with splendid success in the sale of his Standard Electric Cigar Lighters. He has a patent which is bound to make him some money. He has had many chances to sell them in large lots to jobbers, but he does not care to dispose of them that way, as the jobbers would probably give them away with merchandise, and the market would therefore soon become flooded. He has the only successful electric cigar lighter known and it is too valuable an article to have jobbers give them out as premiums. Further evidence that his product is a valuable one, may be found in the many lighters that more than a dozen of Auburn's dealers are using. He has great reasons to feel proud of his lighter for not only do they hang over many cigar cases in Auburn, but in every town in the county, and we judge by the inquiries coming in, they will soon be in every state in the Union. In another column may by seen a picture of the simple, yet valuable machine. We tip our hat to Billy and hope he may be eminently successful.

Monday's Daily.

—The commissioners meet today in regular session.

—Ex-auditor Tomlinson made us a brief but pleasant call Monday.

H. A. Winslow, was a welcome caller at the COURIER sanctum Saturday

—Another rain came up yesterday, turning fair weather into foul, and today is dark and chilly again.

—H. C. Shull has several fine Guernsey cattl, young ones. They are said to be a very valuable kind.

—Mrs. Hamilton and daughter Millie, of St. Joe, are guests of Alvin Baker and family.

—Alva Baker went to Wabash today in the interest of the Milwaukee binders and mowers.

—Ex-Recorder Williams came down from Fairfield this morning on some business.

—The Masons are in earnest about their new building. See the call for their meeting.

—T. C. Elson, of Berrien Springs, Mich., has been here a few days visiting the relatives, and the old home folks generally.

—Attorney Gengler was over from Garrett today having some business in court. He seems to be getting a big part of the legal work in that section.

—Cory Baxter spent Sunday with his parents at Hamilton. We don't know whether the fine lake up there is the attraction or one of Hamilton's fair young ladies.

—Mrs. D. T. Smith came in Saturday, to pay the subscription of Mrs. David Stonestreet, of Cedar Creek. Mrs. Stonestreet is not in very good health, yet we hope there is nothing serious.

—Mr. and Mrs. Charley Kinsey drove over to South Milford to-day, being called there by the serious illness of Mrs. Kinsey's mother, Mrs. John Ferguson.

—Our old-time friend Solomon Reincehl was here this forenoon and put his subscription ahead to 1898. His son Will, the telegraph operator, is now the night operator at Alida, where the B. & O. crosses the Monon.

—Prof. Gardner, the Hypnotist at Henry's opera house, commencing Wednesday evening. On Wednesday evening ladies will be admitted free if accompanied by one reserved seat. Price 10 and 20 cents.

—C. P. Houser, of Indianapolis, was in town over Sunday, and calling on his old friends. He had been making a business trip up as far as Columbia City, and so came up here. His family are well.

—A Kinsey and family, of St. Joe, were in the city over Sunday the guests of his son Chas Kinsey and family. The latter is clerk in Olds Bros. store and his father runs a general store at St. Joe.

—Miss Katie Reinig, and Misses Lena, Gertrude and Rosie Schiffli, were up at Summit over Sunday, to visit their homes, and parents, as well as the young people of their neighborhood. They returned today.

—Our young friend John Skilling was here today having come over from Garrett this morning. His home is in South Chicago, where he is timekeeper for the B. & O. road, a good job for a young man like him. We prophesy he will rise in his line of work. He is now on a visit with his parents Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Skilling and the other friends at Garrett.

—Indiana School Journal:—"The Board of Education of DeKalb county at its May meeting listened to Superintendent C. M. Merica's report which was in part a review of the work done in the schools in his fourteen years of service. The total number of high school graduates for the county this year is twenty-eight, and number of common school graduates is one hundred sixty. The date fixed for the county institute is Aug. 23-7. Superintendent Merica is not a candidate for re-election and so will close his long and honorable term of service when his successor has qualified."

—Second hand machines.
1 McCormick Binder.
1 Champion "
1 Wood "
1 Pony Deering "
1 Champion mower.
1 Buckeye "
1 McCormick "
at bargain prices. Two of these binders and one mower almost new.
2t BROWN CULBERTSON & BOLAND

—The rug peddlers are at work, again selling goods through town it is said. How long will our people pay more money to these men, than the same goods would cost at our regular stores.

—Miss Mollie Wilson entertained four little misses to 5 o'clock tea Monday at the residence of James Griswold on West Seventh-st. They were Mabel and Vera Zerwis and Gladys and Marie McDowell, and they had a grand good time.

—Memorial exercises were held at Cedar Chapel, Saturday last. The church was filled. The exercises were interesting. The address was delivered by Rev. Guild of the M. E. church, Auburn, and the people were gratified to hear this able speaker. There were about twenty-five ex-soldiers present who in the neighboring cemetery quietly decorated the graves of its dead, and then were dismissed by benediction.

—Trustee Madden, of Union and Trustee Eakright, of Wilmington have arranged for a joint commencement for their schools. It will be held at Norris Chapel east of Auburn, June 25.

—Among the DeKalb folks who have been favored by the Pension Department lately, were A. H. Blaker, of Newville and John M. Stewart of Spencerville.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

PURELY VEGETABLE.

The cheapest, purest and best family medicine in the world! An effectual specific for all diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Spleen. Regulate the Liver and prevent Chills and Fever, Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice and Nausea.

BAD BREATH!

Nothing is so unpleasant, nothing so common, as a bad breath; and in nearly every case it comes from the stomach, and can be so easily corrected if you will take Simmons Liver Regulator. Do not neglect so sure a remedy for this repulsive disorder. It will also improve your appetite, complexion and general health.

CONSTIPATION

should not be regarded as a trifling ailment—in fact, nature demands the utmost regularity of the bowels, and any deviation from this demand paves the way often to serious danger. It is quite as necessary to remove impure accumulations from the bowels as it is to eat or sleep, and no health can be expected where a costive habit of body prevails.

SICK HEADACHE!

This distressing affliction occurs most frequently. The disturbance of the stomach, arising from the imperfectly digested contents, causes a severe pain in the head, accompanied with disagreeable nausea, and this constitutes what is popularly known as Sick Headache, for the relief of which take Simmons Liver Regulator.

EVERY PACKAGE

Has the Z Stamp in red on the wrapper.
J. H. ZEILIN & CO., Philadelphia.

Tuesday's Daily.

—Washington Bettz was in town yesterday on business matters.

—Mrs. Roy Garrett returned Sunday from Cedarville after a visit with Mr. Garrett's parents.

—Capt. W. P. Myers, of Kendallville, was here yesterday. He is looking the picture of good health and reports the family well.

—Henry Deetz, of Fairfield, called Monday and has thanks for subscription for himself and his brother Solomon.

—Cash! Cash!! Cash!!! To loan on good security only in Auburn at very low cost. WALTER C. HARTMAN —Co. Supt. Coe, came over from Butler this morning. He will soon move into the Thrush residence on West Fourth-st.

—Mrs. John Clark and little son returned home yesterday after a short visit with her sister, Mrs. Ambrose Heitz near Butler Center.

—There are graduating exercises in the county every evening for the rest of this week, but as Mr. Coe could not get ready, Mr. Merica has consented to take charge of this work.

Wednesday's Daily.

—See notice of special frame sale at Lybarger's.

—Levi Kessler, of Hudson, was in town on a business trip today.

—Ex-commissioner, John Hoffelder was in the city yesterday on business.

—There was quite a frost yesterday morning so we are told by early risers. But we presume it did no harm.

—W. D. Johnson, of Concord, was among the COURIER friends who called yesterday.

—Tell Elson gave the COURIER a short visit yesterday. He is the same live fellow he used to be.

LOST:—May 29th, somewhere on the road between Garrett and Leo, a bundle containing several pieces of ladies' wearing apparel. Finder will be suitably rewarded by leaving at this office or at City Hotel in Garrett.

Wm. Schoup, of Richland, and his son were in town yesterday. Mr. Schoup is in rather feeble health, and gets about with difficulty, but he is as genial and neighborly as ever.

—Mrs &. D. McGown in company with Mrs. Mahlon Borem, were callers yesterday. The former came in to pay her COURIER way ahead. Mrs Borem is the enterprising lady who carries the mail out to Mt. Hope and back.

—Carson Hadsell, of Ohio was in to see the editor today. He is not only a printer, but was at one time a teacher in this county. We are always pleased to meet him.

—Nathan Elliot, one of the solid farmers of North Smithfilld, was here yesterday, and purchased a large bill of goods of Lahnum Bros. He read their ad in the COURIER, and came down to try them. He found he could do better with them than anywhere else, and was well pleased with his bargain.

Rather Young.

Mrs. G. H. Yesbera was somewhat startled the day the show was here, by the sudden appearance of a scared sort of a little lad, who sadly asked her for something to eat. She questioned the boy as to who he was and where he came from. He admitted he was from Garrett and that he and another little boy had run away to come over to the show, and that both were very hungry. The other lad kept back out of sight, but Mrs. Yesbera fitted the boy out with a big lunch that no doubt made both little fellows happy. But it was a discouraging thing to see lads as small as these, going through their first experience in tramp life.

You Should Not Hesitate.

If you are troubled with dyspepsia, or liver and kidney trouble, Dr. John W. Bull's Pills will cure you. "I find Dr. Bull's Pills a good remedy for dyspepsia and biliousness, and I do not hesitate to recommend them to every one in need of such a medicine. T. J. Burke, Davenport, Ia." Dr. John W. Bull's Pills (sixty in a box) cost but 25 cents; trial box, 10 cents, at all dealers, or by mail. A. C. Meyer & Co., Baltimore, Md. Don't buy a counterfeit. Sold by F. S. Davenport, Auburn.

Topics of the Times

Every room in the Hotel Cecil, London, has a telephone in it.

It is London now that has the button fever. The department stores are selling the motto nuisances by the thousands.

A Bradford, Pa., bachelor says marriage is illegal and gives for a reason that alleged fact that it violates the anti-lottery law.

When a dog barks at night in Japan the owner is arrested and sentenced to work a year for the neighbors that were disturbed.

Connecticut is casting about for some way of raising more revenue, and is considering a proposition to establish an inheritance tax.

Sir James Grant predicts that the gold output of Canada, especially of British Columbia, will astonish the world at no distant date.

South Australia has not realized enough wheat from her late crop to supply bread for her population, and has had to import over 500,000 bushels.

A woman, Mrs. Nellie V. Crowley, who has done the indexing of the Boston city council proceedings for several years past, has just been reappointed. Her salary is $1,200 a year.

In consequence of the increasing distress and poverty in Spain the migration has increased enormously within a few months. Most of it, however, is by way of the French and Portuguese harbors.

The sum of $350,000, which the Senate committee on international expositions proposes to have Congress provide for the Paris exposition of 1900, is much the largest sum ever devoted to such a purpose.

Wheat grown in the north of France has from 11 to 26 per cent. less nitrogenous elements in it than that raised there fifty years ago, according to a recent report made to the Academie des Sciences.

The indications at present are that the crop of wheat this year in Maryland will be the heaviest ever known. The growth is particularly good in Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne's and Talbot Counties.

The city of Banian, in Great Bucharia, is cut in the side of a mountain. There are 12,000 artificial caves, some very large, and two statues, one 90 and the other 20 feet high, each hewn from a single stone.

An umbrella dealer cautious against the double use for sun and rain of a rain umbrella. Silk wears, he says, as long as its oil lasts, then it splits and cracks and is gone. The sun dries out the oil—hence its harm.

An electric mouse trap is something new. A bit of cheese is attached to an electric wire. The mouse or rat to get at the bait must stand on a metal plate, and the moment he touches the cheese he is shocked to death.

At a meeting of the British Royal Botanic Society it was stated that several of the streets of Basingstoke had had to be repaved, owing to the flagstone having been forced out of position by an undergrowth of fungi.

The great universities of Oxford and Cambridge are getting too poor to pay salaries and expenses these days and it is confidently predicted that they will soon have to ask the British government for annual appropriations.

Spain's poverty interferes in no way with its national sport. During the bull fighting season from April 5 to Oct. 20, 1896, there were 478 fights in Spain and 1,218 bulls, valued at $300,000, and 5,730 horses, valued at $200,000, were killed.

A seven-dollar bill has come into the possession of the Westmoreland National Bank, Westmoreland, Pa. It is about 3x3½ inches in size and in a good state of preservation. It was issued by resolution of Congress sitting at Philadelphia in 1778.

The new Paris hippodrome, which is to be built on the Boulevard de Clichy, near Montmartre, will have seats for 6,000 or 7,000 people, besides standing room for many more, and will be provided with cafes, restaurants and a roof garden overlooking the city.

John Gibblin, of Columbia, Pa., a somnambulist, while walking in his sleep, fell out of his bedroom window to the ground twenty feet below and broke his ankle and sustained other injuries. He was seated on a bench in the yard still asleep, but moaning with pain, when discovered by his wife.

A registered letter from abroad, which reached San Francisco, was tampered with in a peculiar way. Bank notes which it contained were extracted by washing off the stamps and then cutting a slit in the envelope. When the stamps were again pasted on the envelope bore no signs of the cut.

American manufacturers, encouraged by the fact that paper railroad rails have been successfully introduced in Germany and Russia, are experimenting along the same lines. Paper car wheels have given satisfaction for many years, and results so far attained indicate that rails made from the same material will be equally desirable.

The coin-in-the-slot has now been applied to the bicycle, a public stand in Glasgow having machines so fixed that the person who hires them can only ride them so far without feeding them the required coin. A penny is good for five miles, and if a wheelman neglects to drop in his penny at the end of that distance the wheels refuse to turn.

In the years gone by there was a branch mint at Dahlonega, Ga., that was suspended because the gold production in that part of the country became insufficient to justify its continuance. But improved machinery and new discoveries have of late years greatly improved the gold product in that region, and there is now a movement to revive the mint.

The fiction that most Bostonians are descendants of the men and women who "came over in the Mayflower" has not yet been exploded, as recent comments indicate. As a matter of fact, the old Boston families were not of the Mayflower party. Most of them came from Suffolk with Winthrop, and settled, first at Salem, then at Boston, eight and ten years after the Plymouth colony had been founded. Yet the Mayflower legend is still vigorous, like some other legends that pass as history.

The new constitution for the little State of Delaware is practically completed, and is longer than any other of our State constitutions. It contains over 10,000 more words than the constitution of the United States. Instead of being a general declaration of rights and limitations, it is filled with matters that have their proper place only in the body of statute law.

Statistics do not bear out the assertion that machinery is detrimental to labor. In no industry, perhaps, has machinery been so largely introduced as in the making of shoes. Yet, according to the figures of the census, 85,000 people were employed in this industry in New England in 1890, against 313,000 in 1860, while the average wages per capita have risen from $246 to $409.

An advertisement recently appeared in a London newspaper, "Wanted, one who will write a history of California from material at British Museum, etc., for £10." The further information is vouchsafed that the history must contain 400,000 words, and that the advertiser, apprehensive of an army of applicants, will listen to no personal appeals, but must be informed by letter of qualifications.

The United States penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., is to be built by the 500 convicts in the old prison near which it will stand. The stone will be quarried and the bricks made on the government reservation, and the new prison will represent the furthest advance of such institutions. It will contain baths, a gymnasium, rooms devoted to night schools, and the reforming and civilizing influences will be emphasized.

British dogs will continue to be muzzled, the board of agriculture having overruled the action of the London common council and other local authorities in repealing the law. It justifies its decision by statistics. The number of cases of rabies in 1889 was 312. In that year a muzzling order was passed and the cases diminished to 129 in 1890, and to 38 in 1892. Then the restraint was removed, and in 1894 there were 248 cases, and in 1895 672 cases of rabies, and 20 deaths of human beings registered as from hydrophobia.

London has over 1,000 ships and 10,000 sailors in its port every day; has as many beer saloons and gin places as would if placed side by side extend from Charing Cross to Portsmouth, a distance of seventy-eight miles; has 38,000 drunkards annually brought before its magistrates; has seventy miles of open shops on Sunday; has 300,000,000 letters from all parts of the world delivered in its postal districts yearly; has 618 railway stations, and trains that carry 12,000,000 passengers yearly, and 1,020 omnibuses, which carry 50,000,000 passengers annually.

A good example of a modern steam traveling crane just constructed in England for the Vera Cruz Harbor Works weighs 126 tons, and moves on a track of 11-foot gauge, the rails weighing 106 pounds per yard. It is intended for lifting and placing 30-ton concrete blocks, and also for working a dumper to consolidate the rubble upon which the blocks are to be built. A four-part extra flexible steel wire rope lifts the load and winds in two parts over sheaves and drum of large diameter, and is long enough to descend 60 feet below the level of the rails. The derricking gear is also worked by steel wire ropes. It is driven by two vertical steel cylinders, all the parts are readily accessible, and all the motions under easy control of the attendant. It was recently tested with a load of forty tons at 35 feet radius, and performed all its movements easily under those conditions.

ONCE PETTED BY ROYALTY.

Now This Noble Spaniard Is in Direst Poverty.

He who wishes to hear strange romances, stories of life begun in the old world amid luxury and magnificence and ended in the new in poverty and wretchedness, can not do better than frequent the hotels and cafes of New York's foreign quarters. It was in one of these places that a typical story was told the other day. It concerned Don Manuel Bustillo, who thirty years ago was the Beau Brummel of Madrid. He was the glass of fashion and the mould of form of the young exquisites of the day, who copied his dress and imitated as nearly as they could the manner which had won his distinction, and had even gained for him the admiration of the Queen herself.

To-day Don Manuel walks the streets of New York poor and ill-dressed. Often he is without the price to buy the necessities of life. That he has a small room in which to sleep is owing to the generosity of a few friends. No one could guess that the bent and pitiful-looking figure, familiar on Broadway, was once the proud leader of fashion in the gay Spanish capital.

It was not alone as such a leader that Bustillo gained distinction. He was secretary of the Spanish legation at London and occupied the same position at Mexico. Bustillo is now about 60 years old. He comes of a noble Spanish family and was well educated. He inherited a fair amount of property and his prospects appeared brilliant. He lived beyond his means, however, and when he saw that his money was going too rapidly he attempted to relieve his fortunes by obtaining certain valuable concessions from the Spanish government with the hope of selling them at a profit.

But luck did not come his way and Dame Fortune refused to smile upon him. He has been many times on the point of making a sale which would make him independent, when the affair has fallen through owing to some political event. Just as he was about to close a sale of a valuable charter came the Cuban revolution and his plans were knocked out. He has been living in New York about ten years.

An Exception.

Digby—Did I ever tell you of my adventures on Mount Washington?

Bigby—I'd be an exception to all the people you know if you had not told me.—New York Tribune.

What has become of the old-fashioned tumble bug?

THAT "FREE BREAKFAST TABLE."

Heavy Duties on Linens.

The following are some of the comments of a man well acquainted with linens and the linen industry upon the senate doctored Dingley bill:

The proposed duties on linen goods under the amended Dinlgey bill are heavier than ever, although it has been claimed that the senate had reduced rates. These goods paid for many years 35 per cent and yielded a steady revenue to the government. The rates now proposed vary from 50 to 109 per cent, and the burden falls heaviest on low and medium goods, which are chiefly used in the homes of the poorer people.

A cheap tablecloth now selling at retail at 25 cents per yard will have to be sold at 37½ cents to 40 cents if the quality be kept up.

Medium linen for children's summer blouses will be assessed 99½ per cent, and the retail price will have to go up accordingly.

Linen forms the raw material for many American industries, as linings for clothing and other purposes where strength and durability are required. Such goods will be advanced 20 to 30 per cent.

It is claimed that this advance is necessary for revenue, but the effect will be that the people will in many cases substitute something cheaper, and thus be deprived of this useful fabric, and the revenue will be correspondingly diminished. It is said that linen goods can be made here, but this has been tried again and again, and except in the case of a few low grades has been a failure, owing to the climate and other difficulties, but even if they could be made here the rates are unnecessarily oppressive. The entire cost of weaving linen goods in Europe is about 7½ to 10 per cent the selling price of the article here, and in America the cost should not be at the very outside more than double this percentage, so that, even if Republican theories be true, a protection of 35 per cent should be ample to allow for higher wages and extra profits for our manufacturers.

It is possible speculators may start mills on the strength of these excessive rates, sell the stock, and then step out, leaving the unfortunate laborer and manufacturer to face the difficulties of the situation as best they can. The laborer probably, having been brought here from Europe (for labor is on the free list), with unreasonable expectations, will be left to join the army of disappointment and discontent. Why should these exorbitantly high rates be assessed on an article more or less in use in every household in the land, and the cost of living so much increased in these days of keen competition and small profits? Why should the plain people be taxed to put more money in the pockets of the rich? If the wealthy manufacturers want to make experiments, let them do so at their own cost, not tax the poor for that purpose.

Pettigrew's Amendment.

Senator Pettigrew has introduced an amendment to the Dingley bill which provides for the admission free of duty of articles controlled by trusts. Should it become law and be carried out honestly, how much revenue would the bill yield? There are trusts in sugar, coal, window and plate glass, lumber, pottery, wall paper, rubber, cutlery and in nearly all kinds of hardware. There is no trust in tea, but that is probably because there has been no duty to encourage it. There are also trusts in the woolen and cotton industries. Revenue will be scarce if such a law should be enforced. But will those elected by trust funds destroy the system which fosters trusts? They may pass some such law, as they did the Sherman antitrust law in 1890, but it will be only another dummy.

Economy a Lost Art.

There is great depression throughout the country, and people of all classes and conditions are suffering from reduced incomes, while many who depend entirely upon their labor are without employment and of necessity without bread. This condition has enforced economy among the people and it should logically enforce economy in the administration of public affairs.

Instead of enforcing economy in either State or nation, both Congress and State Legislatures seem to regard public economy as one of the lost arts of the republic. There is a large deficit in the national revenues, chiefly because of the increased expenditures put upon the government by Congress when prosperity was unknown in any of our leading channels of industry and trade, and the present Congress seems to be interested only in increasing taxation to meet present profligate expenditures, and even to increase them instead of seeking to reduce public expenditures and enforcing practical economy in the administration of the government.

The present revenues would be sufficient for all legitimate government expenses if administered with reasonable economy, but neither branch of Congress has exhibited any disposition to curtail public expenditures even in the face of the threatened deficit in the treasury.

We have had four years of industrial and commercial depression with increasing severity from the time it begun until now, and yet there has been no attempt made by Congress to enforce the economy in public expenditures that would have been naturally suggested by the conditions which oppress the whole people. The government should be an exemplar in economy when necessity dictates it, and especially should Congress avoid increased taxation at a time when all business and property interests are least able to bear such exactions.

The attitude of Congress is not creditable. It is not in accordance with the spirit of our free institutions. When the people are suffering and are compelled to enforce the severest economy, and many even wanting the necessaries of life, both State and nation should bow to the conditions which are felt by the people, and enforce economy until increased revenues by reason of increased prosperity would give additional revenues and warrant additional expenditures. However Congress may treat public economy as a lost art in our free government the people who must suffer the severe stringency that now prevails in all channels of industry and trade will surely criticise the tendency to profligacy exhibited at Washington by studied efforts to invent new taxes to be imposed upon the people. Economy is a virtue among the people in times of business distress and it must become a virtue in a government that is a government of the people. Let rulers at Washington be admonished that however they may regard economy as a lost art the people will strongly incline to enforce it even to the extent of political revolution if necessary.—Philadelphia Times.

Who Pays the Tax?

The Republican claim that "the foreigner pays the tax" is amply proved by the following letter, which will appeal to the people of Nebraska and Iowa, as it interests them particularly:

OMAHA, April 10.

The Albion Milling Company, Albion, Neb.:

GENTLEMEN—Answering your inquiry of the 7th inst. The explanation of the recent marked advance in the price of burlap bags is in the prospective changes in the tariff. Under the Wilson bill they are on the free list, but the Dingley bill provides for a duty which would amount to something over 1 cent per bag on the 60 inch eight ounce burlap. The price made you on your recent invoice is the lowest which we can offer on the present market. Yours truly, BEMIS OMAHA BAG COMPANY.

M. C. PETERS, Manager.

The consumers of burlap bags who live in this section of the country need not imagine that the increased price of bags concerns them. The foreigner has to pay it.

Congressman "Champ" Clark, in his speech on the Dingley tariff bill, said "the passage of the bill will force every merchant in the land to make a tariff for revenue only speech every time he sells a bill of goods across the counters." The above letter is only one of the tariff speeches referred to by the eloquent and witty Missouri congressman.—World-Herald.

Elkins on Wages.

"Wages must go down," says Senator Elkins in a recent interview published in the Cincinnati Enquirer. "Wage earners," continued the senator, "do not wish to see it or believe it, but it is so." And again he said, "Wages in America stand against any revival of business."

He was discussing the coal trade. He said, "We do not export coal to Europe because we have wages against us, and that is the whole kernel of the coal trade."

Being asked whether black labor was settled in the mines of West Virginia, he said:

"Firmly. It is as effective as white labor and does not combine and conspire, and the negro spends all he makes, while the Italians and Poles send every cent out of the country."

The senator has just as decided ideas on the tariff question. He is firmly convinced that protective duties, especially those on coal, should go up. Tariff up, wages down. That is what happened under the McKinley bill and is what will happen and in fact is happening under the Dingley bill. It is all done in the interest of labor.

Miss Columbia's Overgrown Infant.

I believe in protecting infant industries, but when the infants get to be six feet high and grow whiskers, and when they threaten to kick the end out of the cradle if they don't get more pap, I think it's about time to take the bottle away from them.—Colonel R. G. Ingersoll (Rep).

Mexico's New Rabbit.

A new species of rabbit has been found in Mexico at an altitude of 9,000 feet, on the volcano Popocatapetl. It is very small, has short ears, and no tail.

LAPAROTOMY ON A SNAKE.

Performed for the First Time on Record to Recover a Blanket.

Laparotomy on a snake is the latest surgical operation of note. There have been cases on record heretofore of big snakes in captivity, waking up hungry and devouring their blankets before any one discovered their appetite. In such cases the snake has generally succumbed to acute indigestion. But in these days of advanced surgery the snake with more appetite than judgment need not let the blanket be his last meal. Laparotomy to remove foreign substances from the stomach can be performed as readily on snake as on human beings. This has been demonstrated.

Mrs. Rade Harden, of Kansas City had a pet boa constrictor. There is no accounting for tastes in the matter of pets. After the manner of its kind the boa after dining on a few rabbits fell into a deep slumber. The boa constrictor makes its life even more sans souci than does the typical Weary Willie. The latter does not work, but he has to hustle for meals, while the boa sleeps from one meal till the next and as soon as he wakes he is ready for dinner. Mrs. Harden's snake, whose pet name is Babe, woke up when no one was around and proceeded to get outside of its blanket in default of finding any other dainty article of food. The blanket disagreed with it and its condition became serious. Mrs. Harden became alarmed and after consulting leading physicians decided on a surgical operation.

Babe was taken to the University Medical College, and a large number of students assembled to see, for the first time on record, the operation of laparotomy performed on a snake. The snake responded to chloroform easily, and when unconsciousness was complete an incision was made through the abdominal wall, the peritoneum and the stomach. The blanket was there and was extracted without trouble, and with scarcely any loss of blood. The blanket was rolled up into a cigar shaped roll and compressed as tightly as though done by machinery. It was as hard as brick and had to be thoroughly soaked in water before it could be unrolled.

OPERATING ON A SNAKE.

The incision was then closed with stitches, and the snake was carried outside to let the fresh air revive him. There he was surrounded by an assemblage of students and boys of the street, and in due time the snake began to "come around." He did not say "where am I?" after the manner of people, but he looked it. He looked around in a dazed, helpless sort of way, while his tongue darted in and out inquiringly. The snake was then rolled in a blanket and taken home. He was put on a diet of eggs exclusively for a season until recovery should be complete. Then he ate most anything except blankets.

Mrs. Harden keeps a restaurant and she acquired the snake in payment of the board of an embarrassed snake charmer. It would have cost less perhaps to go on boarding the snake's owner free, but as before remarked that is a matter of taste.

SCORES OUR WOMEN.

A Young Brahmin Who Seems to Be an Ungrateful Blatherskite.

Swami Vivekananda, the Brahmin who won much attention during the Fair at the world's congress of religions in Chicago, seems to be giving poor return for all the courtesy he received while here. He is particularly vigorous in his attack on American church women. The young Brahmin goes on to insist that the congress of religions in Chicago was a fine thing for the oriental religions and made Christianity a ridiculous claim. He further launches viciously at the missionaries sent by England to India and has done all he can to retard the spread of Western ideas in his native country.

Vivekananda has succeeded in getting into dire trouble, however, by the fact that, while he was in the American continent, he broke his fast by too free intercourse with the people of this country. Consequently he is said to be hated by his own people as vigorously as he hates the countries of the West.

SWAMI VIVEKANANDA.

Downright Robbery.

Wife—Why did you send the doctor away before allowing him to do anything for you?

Husband—The fool said he could cure me in three days. Why, say, I'm insured for $40 a week and my salary's only $20. I wonder what he takes me for!—Cleveland Leader.

How Wax Matches Are Made.

The body of a wax match is made by drawing cotton strands, twenty or thirty at a time, through melted stearine.

BETTER THAN GOLD

ARE THE STEEL PENS shown below, we say our Customers.

OVER FIVE THOUSAND NATIONAL, STATE AND PRIVATE BANKS IN THE UNITED STATES are constantly being supplied with our pens, which fact alone guarantees their excellence.

PATENT APPLIED FOR.

Cut of inkstand shows our Popular No. 3, Automatic. Write us, enclosing stamps, and we will send you sample pens and tell you how to get the above stand without cost.

THESE ARE THE STRONG POINTS:

DURABILITY,
QUALITY,
SMOOTHNESS,
UNIFORMITY,

Take No Substitute.

If your dealer cannot supply you, send to this office, enclosing price, and we will fill your order, and guarantee safe delivery.

Price, per gross (1 box) $ 1.00
" 1-2 doz. boxes, 5.40
" 1 doz. boxes, 10.00

W. L. MASON & CO.,
(INCORPORATED.)
MANUFACTURERS STATIONERS' SUPPLIES.
KEENE, N. H.

ESTABLISHED, 1848.

D. A. ALTICK'S SON,

Manufacturer of High Grade Buggies, Surries, Phaetons, &c.

We claim to build, not the CHEAPEST, but the BEST for the money.

All we ask is, a TRIAL ORDER.

Send for catalogue, and by mentioning this paper we will allow you an EXTRA DISCOUNT.

D. A. ALTICK'S SON,
LANCASTER, PENN.

The Chamberlin Improved
Screw Stump Puller.

The only practical stump puller made, pulls any and all classes and sizes of stumps. Four different sizes always in stock. When you buy get the best. Manufactured and sold by the Chamberlin Manufacturing Company of Olean, N. Y.

Write for catalogue and prices.

Chamberlin Manufacturing Company, - Olean, N. Y.

Relay Bicycles

Have more points of merit, than any other High Grade Bicycle.

FULL OF GRACE AND BEAUTY.

Every Wheel Guaranteed. Send for Catalogue.

Relay M'f'g Co., Reading, Pa.

NATURE'S REMEDY

CURES IN THE RIGHT WAY, BY REGULATING THE LIVER AND KIDNEYS, AND PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

It is a positive cure for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, Chills, and all diseases arising from a diseased liver or the kidneys, or impure blood.

YOUR MONEY BACK Is the plan on which it is sold. If after taking the entire box of medicine you do not think you have had your money's worth, send us back the guarantee, which you will find in the box, and we will send you a check for $1.00 by return mail.

It is put up in two forms, powder and tablets. The tablets are the easier to take, requiring no mixing. Price $1.00 for 180 doses of either kind. Sent post paid upon receipt of price. Send 10 cents for ten days' treatment and copy of Nature's Guide to Health.

A. H. LEWIS MEDICINE CO., - Bolivar, Mo.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

WHO'S UP — CURED — WHO'S LATER

Made This Change.

DO YOU suffer from Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emission, Shrunken or Undeveloped Organs, Youthful Errors, Excessive Use of Tobacco or Opium? Sent by mail on receipt of price. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

WE GUARANTEE to cure you or refund money, and we stand by our guarantee.

Sold at $1 per Box, 6 Boxes for $5.

Sold By Fischler & Son

WHY NOT BUY THE BEST?

Sterling positively will not injure your hands or the finest fabric. This has been proven by actual tests. Clothes washed with it become white and odorless. Matchless for flannels. Superb for glassware. Will remove stains from marble and make your floors white as chalk.

Try it that it may speak for itself.

$2.50 Cleveland TO BUFFALO

....Also Daily Line Between....

Cleveland and Toledo,
Via "C. & B. LINE."

Steamers "City of Buffalo," (new) "State of Ohio" and "State of N. Y."

DAILY TIME TABLE.
Sunday Included May 30 to Oct 31

Lv Cleveland 7:00 p. m.	Lv Buffalo 7:30 p. m.
Ar Buffalo 7:30 a. m.	Ar Cleveland 7:30 a. m.

Central Standard Time.

Take the "C. & B. Line" steamers and enjoy a refreshing night's rest when enroute to Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, New York, Boston, Albany, 1000 Islands, or any Eastern or Canadian Point.

Cheap Excursions Weekly to Niagara Falls.

Send 4 cents for tourist pamphlet.
For further information ask your nearest Coupon Ticket Agent, or address.

W. F. HERMAN, Gen. Pass. Agt.
T. F. NEWMAN, Gen. Manager.
Cleveland, Ohio.

DR. MOTT'S
PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies. Especially recommended to married Ladies. Ask for DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler — Son.

JOB PRINTING

LETTER HEADS, BILL HEADS, CARDS, ENVELOPES, CIRCULARS.

The Next Thing to It.

The coffee habit is not as bad as the liquor habit, but it is the next thing to it. Coffee and tea drunkards are getting to be a noticeable type. These beverages injure both the nerves and the digestion. Nervous diseases are often produced, and always aggravated, by indulgence in coffee and tea. Yet people fancy they can't get along without these drinks. Perhaps you think so. Try Grain-O for a change. It tastes like coffee. It is a new food drink, made from pure grains. It is full of cheer, warmth and nourishment, without a particle of narcotic stimulant. The old, the middle-aged and the children can drink Grain-O freely, day or night. Use it awhile and you will want no more coffee. And it costs only a quarter as much. Ask your grocer for it. Sold in 15c. and 25c. packages.

Effie Crooker, a pretty girl of 32, has captured a star route contract at Port Washington, N. Y.

Nearly all women have good hair, though many are gray, and few are bald. Hall's Hair Renewer restores the natural color, and thickens the growth of the hair.

He that takes no holiday hastens a long rest.

Dyspepsia

Is weakness of the stomach. It is the source of untold misery. It may be cured by toning and strengthening the stomach and enriching and purifying the blood with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Many thousands have been cured by this medicine and write that now they "can eat anything they wish without distress." Remember

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier.

Hood's Pills act easily, promptly and effectively. 25 cents.

A COOL BOTTLE

of Hires Rootbeer on a sweltering hot day is highly essential to comfort and health. It cools the blood, reduces your temperature, tones the stomach.

HIRES Rootbeer

should be in every home, in every office, in every workshop. A temperance drink, more healthful than ice water, more delightful and satisfying than any other beverage produced.

Made only by the Charles E. Hires Co., Philadelphia. A package makes 5 gallons. Sold everywhere.

New Fork Crown

In the 1897 Columbia models a feature of special importance is the double fork crown. It is a special construction which we have tried and found to be the strongest. The crown is encased in nickeled escutcheons, excluding dust or dirt, and giving a rich, distinctive finish, so that at a glance the fact that the wheel is the Columbia is apparent.

A DISTINGUISHING COLUMBIA FEATURE FOR 1897.

1897 Columbia Bicycles

STANDARD OF THE WORLD. $100 TO ALL ALIKE.

1896 Columbias, $75.

HARTFORDS, next best, $60, $50, $45

POPE MFG. CO., Hartford, Conn.

CATALOGUE FREE FROM ANY COLUMBIA DEALER; BY MAIL FROM US FOR ONE TWO-CENT STAMP.

EARN A BICYCLE

600 Second Hand Wheels. All Makers. Good as new. $5 to $15. New High Grade '96 models, fully guaranteed. $12 to $25. Special Clearing Sale. Ship anywhere on approval. We will give a responsible agent in each town free use of sample wheel to introduce them. Our reputation is well known throughout the country. Write at once for our special offer.

H. P. MEAD & PRENTISS, Chicago, Ill.

$75 $50

RIDE A CRESCENT BICYCLE.

Western Wheel Works. MAKERS CHICAGO ILLINOIS

CATALOGUE FREE

PATENTS. TRADE-MARKS.

Examination and advice as to Patentability of Inventions. Send for INVENTORS' GUIDE, OR HOW TO GET A PATENT. Patrick O'Farrell, Washington, D.C.

PATENTS H. B. WILLSON & CO., Washington, D.C. No charge till patent obtained. 50-page book free.

MINERAL Specimens, Prospectuses, etc., of Gold Mines of Washington free to hustling Agents who can sell mining shares. MARTIN & CO., Seattle, Wash.

Current Condensations.

In New York the average number of persons to a dwelling is eighteen and one-half.

Many of the mediaeval churches were originally constructed to serve also, when occasion required, as fortresses.

The Pasteur institute in Paris is still as popular a resort for hydrophobic patients as it was when the fame of the scientist's cures by inoculation was at the flood-tide.

The Chinese have bred a whole colony of goldfish, each having two well-developed tails and two sets of anal fins. Biologists say it would be equally easy to breed quadrupeds with eight legs.

In Wyoming is a mound of rock and earth standing alone in the middle of a plain, called Church Butte. It is of most fantastic shape and looks in the distance like the ruins of some grand old cathedral.

A Danish author told Dr. Felix Oswald, of the case of a relative who would steal from himself. He used to tiptoe into his own pantry and make off with uncooked prunes, raw onions or anything of the kind.

The flagstaff upon which the first secession flag was hoisted in South Carolina when the State seceded in 1860 is still standing. It is fastened with iron cuffs to the gable end of an old storehouse at Skull Shoals post-office.

The United States, which produce the best rice in the world, and which have millions of acres of wet lands which are especially adapted to its growth, raise only about one-half of the amount of that cereal which is consumed in this country.

C. L. Maxwell, of Oakland, Cal., owns a bulldog that has always been very fond of music. Several days ago an Italian stopped in front of his master's house and played some topical melodies. This was all very well until the organ began to screech "Ta-ra-ra Boom-de-ay," which was more than the dog could stand, so he proceeded to chew the organ into fragments.

The liqueur called Maraschino, according to a correspondent of the Revue de l'Horticulture Belge, is a product of a bitter cherry, cerasus aciduus, which is locally called amarasca or marasca. The fruits are carefully freed from their stones and each separately macerated, together with a certain quantity of the leaves of the tree. When the maceration has lasted some time sugar, in the shape of a sirup, is added, and finally spirits of wine. The long and complicated method of manufacture includes special processes, of which each manufacturer professes alone to know the secret.

The map of New Jersey is a polyglot spelling-book, for the local names are Indian, Dutch, English, French and even Hebraic. The Indian names survive in great natural features, and the "congs" of various kinds are scattered all over the northern half of the State. The Dutch "vly" for meadow, sometimes corrupted into "fly," is of frequent ocurrence. Scriptural names are scattered far and wide, and "villes" in all sorts of incongruous syllable combinations are found everywhere. A few gems of the map are Tranquillity, Success and Comical Corners.

The mother of Tesla, the famous electrician, found her lot cast in a very wild country, far from any of the conveniences of civilization. She had, however, inherited an inventive spirit from her father, an inventor and constructor of machinery, and she resolutely made good the deficiencies in her home by constructing nearly all the articles needed in the household, and without objects from which to copy. She planted hemp and flax, took out the fiber, spun the thread and then made her own loom preparatory to weaving. This cloth produced by her varied from the heaviest grades suitable for winter clothing to fine pieces suitable for embroidery.

Coffee Blindness.

Dr. Snaitken says: "It is well kno that the Moors are inveterate coffee drinkers, especially the merchants, who sit in their bazaars and drink coffee continually during the day. It has been noticed that almost invariably when these coffee drinkers reach the age of forty or forty-five their eyesight begins to fail, and by the time they get to be fifty years old they become blind. One is forcibly impressed by the number of blind men that are seen about the streets of the city of Fez, the capital of Morocco. It is invariably attributed to the excessive use of coffee."

Terms of an Oath.

The following curious oath was, until recently, administered in all the courts of the Isle of Man:

"By this Book, and by the holy contents thereof, and by the wonderful works that God has miraculously wrought in Heaven above and in the earth beneath in six days and seven nights, I do swear that I will, without respect of favor or friendship, love or gain, consanguinity or affinity, envy or malice, execute the laws of this side and between party as indifferently as the herring's backbone doth lie in the middle of the fish."

SHE'S AN ODD "HOBO."

SILVER NELL, A FEMININE EXPONENT OF GAMBLING LIFE.

Career of a Western Adventuress Who Has Encountered All the Ups and Downs of the Poker Table—Travels on the "Blind Baggage."

Gambler and Sport.

When the Northwestern limited train from the East pulled into the station at Superior, Wis., the other morning, there alighted from the platform of the "blind baggage" a woman plainly but shabbily dressed, carrying a small traveling bag in one hand and a newspaper in the other. There was a large crowd at the station, and scores of eyes followed her wonderingly as she walked gracefully up the platform and entered the waiting room. The brakeman paused in his work to scrutinize the female who had dared to steal a ride in genuine hobo style.

The woman said her name was Silver Nell, and that she had come from

SILVER NELL ON THE ROAD.

New York City and was on her way to Butte, Mont., where she intended to go into the gambling business. She said she had lost over $1,000 on the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight and was almost entirely without money, so that it was now necessary for her to travel a la hobo.

Silver Nell is one of the strangest and most interesting characters in the country. For ten years she has traveled afoot, by rail, by water and by coach, and has probably covered as much ground as any drummer in America. As an adventuress she has had more varied and trying experiences than any other woman of modern times, and as a society woman she has also enjoyed popularity.

She is a gambler by profession, and as a side issue indulges frequently in speculation on the outcome of sporting events of all kinds. She is called Silver Nell because she invariably uses silver dollars instead of poker chips when playing poker. She has never been known by any other name—at least, not during the last ten or fifteen years—and she claims to possess no other. She has spent most of her time in the West during the last ten years, but nearly every town of any size in the East has been honored with her presence, and the sporting man East or West who has not heard of Silver Nell must necessarily be a new recruit. She claims to be only 28 years old, but looks a trifle older. She also claims to be of French descent.

Silver Nell began her career as a gambler in Helena, Mont., ten years ago. Her father, whose only name known to the community was Faro Pete, had opened a gambling house, and the girl was installed as "lookout" for the roulette and dice tables. The business of Faro Pete flourished, and the old man's pockets bulged with bank rolls. In the meantime the daughter worked faithfully at her post and lent to the establishment the attraction of her presence. During "off watch" hours Nell was always in readiness to take a seat at the poker table. When she played, the stakes were high and the game fair, for no one dared risk a "shift" before the watchful eyes of the lookout girl.

One day Faro Pete died, and the place was closed. The girl, who was then 20 or 25 years of age, taking the few thousand dollars left by her father, left Helena for parts unknown. A few months later she turned up as the proprietor of a gambling house in San Francisco. The novelty of a woman proprietor drew a large patronage, and money literally flowed into the girl's hands for a few months. But the police interfered at last, and Silver Nell was compelled to seek another field. With a "roll" said to amount to $10,000, she reached Denver and remained there a few weeks, occasionally sitting in a game of poker. In this way she lost several thousand dollars and concluded to try her luck elsewhere. She traveled from town to town through every Western State, always ready for a game of poker, always with a well filled purse, and always attracting the attention of the sporting fraternity and at the same time commanding its respect.

MISS FLORA WILSON.

Who Presides Over the Household of the Secretary of Agriculture.

While Postmaster General Gary has a family of seven daughters and one son, Secretary of Agriculture Wilson almost counterbalances it by a family of five sons and one daughter. And Miss Florence Hazel Wilson, the charming subject of this sketch, is such a daughter as any man might be proud to own. Two or three years ago Secretary Wilson lost his wife, and since that time the one motive which has influenced his daughter's life has been to make up to her father, in a measure, his irreparable loss. She has been the home-maker, and has kept the hearthside bright and cheery, and to her brothers she has been both mother and sister. It would be hard work to persuade any of those boys that there is another sister in the world like her.

MISS FLORA H. WILSON.

Miss Flora is a slender, graceful girl with dark hair and blue eyes, and the clear white skin which is the usual accompaniment of that combination. During the years her father has taken such an interest in the Iowa Agricultural College she has been one of its students, and later one of its officers. Miss Flora's has been a busy life; her household duties are much more arduous than those which usually fall upon a young girl, and, added to this, she has held the position of the college librarian, besides being an active church worker (the family are devout Presbyterians), and this with her books and music has left but little time for the frivolities. And her books and music have not been neglected, for she is a devotee of St. Cecilia, and plays on almost any instrument that comes under her hand, which she has a beautiful clear soprano voice, which has had careful training. But her music is not her only talent; she is a book lover, a careful, discreet reader who learns to love her books as she does her friends, and she has a very facile pen and has written some excellent short stories and sketches which have commanded more than local reading.

THE HARRISON BABY.

"Grandpa's Hat" Makes a Lovely Nest for the Little Shaver.

Among the few babies which the nation feels itself at liberty to take a deep interest in is Miss Elizabeth Harrison. The young lady, who weighed 8¾ pounds on her arrival, has been growing fast ever since. She is a healthy, good-natured baby and "the general," as Mrs. Harrison calls her husband, has not had to walk the floor with Elizabeth a single night.

Baby Elizabeth's eyes are blue, not an uncommon color, and her hair is of that unimportant shade affected by babies in general as a temporary growth. Her nose is as yet very insignificant, but Mrs. Harrison has been assured that Elizabeth will develop a good profile later on. Like other modern mothers, Mrs. Harrison is the owner of a "baby book," and in it she is keeping an account of the blossoming of this infantile bud.

Mrs. Harrison appears to be serenely happy in her motherhood and talks confidently about the way in which she will have her daughter educated. She does not intend that Elizabeth shall grow up to be a new woman, and her fondest wish is that eighteen years hence her daughter shall be possessed of an education liberal enough for her to make her own way in the world if necessary, and have an ambition to shine, not in public life, but in the home circle.

THE HARRISON BABY.

Quite a Difference.

The fabulist of the Chicago World has invented a little tale of two men and a dog. Its lesson is too obvious for comment, perhaps, but cannot be learned too often. It is commended to all readers, both to those who keep dogs and to those who do not.

Johnson and Thompson were next-door neighbors. Johnson had a dog that barked a considerable part of every night. Finally Thompson said to Johnson:

"Look here, Johnson, we have always been friends, and I hope you won't take offense if I tell you that the barking of your dog is driving me and my family mad for want of sleep."

"Dear me!" said Johnson. "That's queer. I haven't noticed that Leo ever barked any to speak of."

Two or three evenings afterward Thompson came home leading a dog—the dog—by a string.

"Now, then," said he to Mrs. Thompson, "we will soon have a chance to sleep. I didn't like to shoot the beast while belonging to Johnson, so I bought him. Nobody can blame us for killing our own dog. I'll get some chloroform to-morrow."

A month passed, and Johnson and Thompson met.

"Well, Thompson, you haven't chloroformed that dog yet."

"No," replied Thompson. "The truth is we have become rather fond of the fellow. He is so lively and playful."

"But doesn't his barking at night annoy you now?"

"I haven't noticed it."

"H'm!" said Johnson. "The brute keeps us awake half the night. I do not see how you can put up with it."

My Thought—And Hers?

The gray of the sea and the gray of the sky,
A glimpse of the moon like a half-closed eye;
The gleam on the waves and the lights on the land,
A thrill in my heart—and my sweetheart's hand.

She turned from the sea with a woman's grace,
And the light fell soft on her upturned face,
And I thought of the floodtide of infinite bliss
That would flow to my soul with a single kiss.

But my sweetheart is shy, so I dared not ask
For the boon, so bravely I wore the mask;
But into her face there came a flame—
I wonder could she have been thinking the same?
—Ladies' Home Journal.

GRANT'S SADDLE AND BRIDLE

Interesting Relic Presented the Chicago Historical Society.

Of the many treasures of the Chicago Historical Society the society prizes none higher than the saddle and bridle which Gen. U. S. Grant used during the civil war.

The saddle and bridle is the gift of ex-Mayor Hempstead Washburne, of Chicago. It was handed down to him through his father from his grandfather, Israel Washburne, of Maine, who was a great admirer of the General and his prowess in war. At the close of the war Elihu B. Washburne, father of Hempstead Washburne, was a warm personal friend of Gen. Grant. This bond of friendship grew out of Elihu Washburne's efforts in Congress, of which he was a member in 1864, in behalf of Grant. It was a bill introduced by Washburne in the National Legislature and afterward passed that created the rank of lieutenant general, and Grant was appointed to command the entire army. This was done to relieve the General of the "strings" at Washington, which had hampered him in his progress. In return Grant when President, prompted by his friendship for Elihu Washburne as well as his fitness, appointed him Minister to France in 1870.

As a mark of esteem and appreciation for the father, Israel Washburne, the general at the close of the war, presented the latter, through his son with the saddle and bridle. In his will the father bequeathed them to his son, Hempstead Washburne. The articles remained in the old homestead in Maine until the World's Fair, when they were brought to Chicago and exhibited. Recently they were presented to the Chicago Historical Society.

GRANT'S SADDLE AND BRIDLE.

Gen. Grant secured the saddle and bridle in 1861, immediately after his promotion to major general of the volunteers. They are regulation army make, the saddle being a McClellan—so termed because Gen. McClellan designed it after his own liking and comfort. It was upon this saddle that the nation's great soldier rode to victory at Fort Donelson. It saw constant service under him as commander of the department of West Tennessee. At Shiloh, and previously at the siege of Vicksburg, did the Illinois son ride to victory on it. With his promotion to the major generalship of the regular army came a similar promotion to this equestrian seat. It continued with him to Chattanooga and escaped from the bloody strife there like its owner, without injury. He also took it in service as lieutenant general and commander of the entire army, and rode upon it in his last and greatest campaign down the Valley of the Potomac against Lee. It was mustered out of service shortly after the surrender at Appomattox court house in 1865, and was carefully preserved by its owner until he parted with it to Israel Washburne, of Maine, who preserved it with equal care.

A Wonderful Sign.

Prussia fifty years ago had a State lottery, and in every town, large or small, was a collector, appointed to sell the tickets. One day a servant girl came to the collector in Hagan, and asked if she could buy No. 23.

He did not have it in his possession, but as the girl seemed very much in earnest and refused to be put off with any other number, he tried to obtain it from some of the other collectors in town and finally succeeded.

The drawing took place and Hagan rose to a state of feverish excitement when it was known that this girl had become a winner of a large sum of money. She found herself, for a time, the chief object of interest in the town.

She was, of course, asked how she came to fix upon No. 23. Thereupon she gave this simple and lucid explanation:

"I dreamed one night No. 7, and a second night I dreamed No. 7, and a third night again. So I thought, 'Three times seven makes twenty-three,' and I bought that number!"

Rare in a Wild State.

There are a number of our best known and most valuable cultivated plants which are already extinct in a wild state, or fast becoming so. Of plants of this mlass the following may be mentioned: Bean, chick-pea, lentil, tobacco, wheat, Indian corn and probably sweet potato. Some of these never have been seen in a wild state, while others have become so exceedingly rare that apparently it is only a question of a comparatively short time when they will have disappeared absolutely. They have been so long in cultivation, and are so profundly modified, that they have not the faculty of sowing themselves and propagating indefinitely outside of cultivated ground, so that if they should cease to be cultivated they would soon disappear from the face of the earth.

Beneficial.

Again the statement is repeated that yawning, besides being a healthy function generally, has a very salutary effect in complaints of the pharynx and Eustachian tubes. According to the results of late investigations, yawning is the most natural form of respiratory exercise, bringing into action all the respiratory muscles of the chest and neck. It is recommended that every person should have a good yawn, with stretching of the limbs, morning and evening, for the purpose of ventilating the lungs and tonifying the muscles of respiration. Throat and ear troubles are sensibly relieved by this form of gymnastics.

There is one thing about having trouble; only live men are bothered. Dead men never have anything to worry about.

A Veil of Mist

Rising at morning or evening from some lowland often carries in its folds the seeds of malaria. Where malarial fever prevails no one is safe, unless protected by some efficient medicinal safeguard. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is both a protection and a remedy. No person who inhabits or sojourns in a miasmatic region or country should omit to procure this fortifying agent, which is also the finest known remedy for dyspepsia, constipation, kidney trouble and rheumatism.

Hissing.

Hissing is not invariably an expression of disfavor. In West Africa the natives hiss when they are astonished; in the New Hebrides when they see anything beautiful. The Basutos applaud a popular orator in their assemblies by hissing at him. The Japanese show their reverence by a hiss.

AN EXCELLENT SCHEDULE.

The Nickel Plate Road Starts an Improvement and Special Service.

The new train service on the Nickel Plate Road is a great improvement on fast service and is a special benefit to Fort Wayne people. Three through trains daily for all points east or west. Hereafter passengers for Cleveland or Chicago may go and return on the same day with ample time for business at either Chicago or Cleveland.

Elegant drawing rooms, sleeping cars to New York City and Boston, Nickel Plate express east at 3:27 p. m., carriage coaches, baggage cars and sleeping cars through to New York City without change of cars. East-bound train leaving Fort Wayne 3:33 a. m., via Nickel Plate road arrives at New York City at 7:40 a. m., at Boston at 10:15 a. m. the following day, train leaving Fort Wayne at 3:27 p. m. reaches Cleveland at 8:40 the same evening, New York City 3:30 p. m., Boston 5:30 p. m. following day. The train leaving Fort Wayne at 8:30 p. m. reaches Buffalo at 8:00 a. m., at New York at 8:50 p. m. of the following day. Also at convenient hour for Saratoga Springs, Troy and other interior New York State points.

Electric Railways.

Philadelphia has a greater mileage of electric railways than the whole of Germany, according to the Electrical World.

Shake Into Your Shoes

Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder for the feet. It cures painful, swollen, smarting feet, and instantly takes the sting out of corns and bunions. It's the greatest comfort discovery of the age. Allen's Foot-Ease makes tight-fitting or new shoes feel easy. It is a certain cure for sweating, callous and hot, tired, aching feet. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores. By mail for 25 cents, in stamps. Trial package FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

Domestic servants from Germany are obtaining each day a greater footing in London.

A list of Country homes along the South Shore of Lake Erie open to Summer Boarders will be mailed to any one enclosing a two-cent stamp to B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent of the Nickel Plate Road, Cleveland, Ohio.

Wabash Railroad.

For the Christian Endeavor National Convention to be held in San Francisco July 7-12, the WABASH will make the lowest rates. Apply to any Agent Wabash Railroad for particulars.

When bilious or costive, eat a Cascaret, candy cathartic, cure guaranteed, 10c, 25c.

Wabash Railroad.

REMEMBER that if you want to visit the Pacific Slope this summer the WABASH will take you out to San Francisco and back at astonishingly low rates. Ask Wabash Agents about it.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink without injury as well as the adult. All who try it like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha and Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. One-fourth of the price of coffee. 15c and 25c per package, sold by all grocers.

North Carolina is said to have a successful moonshiner who is but 15 years old. They take to it naturally in the "Old North State."

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is a constitutional cure. Price 75 cents.

The most skillful military tactican was Napoleon. His victories were won more by skill and tact than by strength.

NATIONAL CONVENTION YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY OF CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

San Francisco, Cal., July 7 to 12, 1897.

The Wabash Railroad has made a very low rate from all stations to San Francisco and return for this occasion.

For particulars, call on any agent of the Wabash or connecting lines.

No-to-Bac for Fifty Cents.

Over 400,000 cured. Why not let No-To-Bac regulate or remove your desire for tobacco? Saves money, makes health and manhood. Cure guaranteed, 50c and $1, all druggists.

Wabash Railroad.

Before making your arrangements to attend the Y. P. S. C. E. Convention in San Francisco July 7 to 12, find out what rates and fast time is made by the WABASH and its several trans-continental connection. The Wabash tickets will take you over the magnificent scenic country in the Rocky Mountains.

Two bottles of Piso's Cure for Consumption cured me of a bad lung trouble.—Mrs. J. Nichols, Princeton, Ind., Mar. 26, '95.

Wabash Railroad.

Go to San Francisco to the Y. P. S. C. E. Convention Via the WABASH LINE. Very low rates and fast time. By taking the WABASH you are given a choice of several routes both going and returning. For details call on or address any Agent Wabash Railroad.

Located on the South Shore of Lake Erie contiguous to the Nickel Plate Road are many Country Homes that will accommodate Summer Boarders. Send to B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent of the Nickel Plate Road at Cleveland, O., and he will forward you a list on receipt of a two-cent stamp.

Just try a 10c box of Cascarets, candy cathartic, finest liver and bowel regulator made.

Wabash Railroad.

The WABASH R. R. is making very low round-trip rates to the Nashville Exposition, and by many hours the quickest time. Write to Wabash Agents for information.

An Artistic Brochure entitled "Summer Outings" is published by the Nickel Plate Road, describing vacation resorts along that line. Address B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., for a copy.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

Cascarets stimulate liver, kidneys and bowels. Never sicken, weaken or gripe. 10c.

Wabash Railroad.

If you are going to visit the Tennessee Centennial Exposition now open at Nashville, inquire into the superb time and low rates offered by the WABASH R. R. Communicate with any Agent.

THE "GROWN-UP" DAUGHTER'S DUTY TO HER MOTHER.

You can only have one mother; therefore, when her step is growing slow and her mind gloomy with forebodings, and you can see that her whole nervous system is upset, it is your filial duty and privilege to attend to her in time! Mother is approaching the most critical period of her life.

The change of life, that is what mother is dreading, and no wonder, for it is full of peril to all but the strongest women.

There are some special and very wearing symptoms from which mother suffers, but she will not speak of them to any one. Help her out; she doesn't know what to do for herself!

Shall I advise you? First, send to the nearest drug store and get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and see that mother takes it regularly, then write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., giving all the symptoms and you will receive a prompt reply telling mother what to do for herself. In the meantime the Vegetable Compound will make life much easier for her. It tones up the nervous system, invigorates the body, and the "blues" vanish before it as darkness flees from the sunlight. You can get it at any reliable druggist's.

Mrs. Louis Strong, Harris Hill, Erie Co., N. Y., says: "I have been troubled with falling of the womb for years, was advised to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took thirteen bottles and received great benefit. When the time for change of life came I suffered a great deal with faintness and palpitation of the heart. I got one bottle of the Vegetable Compound and one of Blood Purifier and was relieved again. I was thereby enabled to pass through that serious period very comfortably."

CANDY CATHARTIC Cascarets CURE CONSTIPATION

REGULATE THE LIVER

10¢ 25¢ 50¢ ALL DRUGGISTS

ABSOLUTELY GUARANTEED to cure any case of constipation. Cascarets are the Ideal Laxative, never grip or gripe, but cause easy natural results. Sample and booklet free. Ad. STERLING REMEDY CO., Chicago, Montreal, Can., or New York. 317.

"The More You Say the Less People Remember." One Word With You,

SAPOLIO

PENSIONS, PATENTS, CLAIMS. JOHN W. MORRIS, WASHINGTON, D. C. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs. in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty. since.

Sore Eyes? Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request. CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A. Trade Mark. BIG G. $1.00.

When Writing to Advertisers say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

IGNORANCE in regard to paint materials or painting would seem in this age to be inexcusable, when full information can be had free. If interested, it will pay to get pamphlet and color cards, also twelve pictures of houses painted in different shades or combinations of colors, free. Send your address.

NATIONAL LEAD CO., CHICAGO BRANCH,
Fifteenth and State Sts. Chicago, Ill.

Largest package—greatest economy. Made only by
THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY,
Chicago. St. Louis. New York. Boston. Philadelphia.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—in Effect Nov. 29, 1896.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations	Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne	11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 40
New Era	12 12 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junction	12 25	5 25	7 58
Auburn	12 29	5 29	8 37
Waterloo	12 41	5 41	9 24
Summit	12 52	5 52	9 46
Steubenville	12 56	5 56	9 50
Pleasant Lake	1 03	6 03	10 12
Angola	1 13	6 14	10 50
Jackson	3 25	8 35	4 30 pm

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations	Fre'gt	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson dp	6 30 am	11 35 am	7 05 am
Angola	12 25	2 19 pm	9 26
Pleasant Lake	1 03	2 29	9 36
Steubenville		2 36	9 42
Summit	1 26	2 39	9 46
Waterloo	2 25	2 55	10 00
Auburn	2 53	3 10	10 20
Auburn Junction	3 14	3 14	10 14
New Era	4 05	3 24	10 26
Fort Wayne	5 25	3 55	11 00

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on, or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent Auburn.

Wabash Line

GOING EAST.

No. 2 ..... 5:53 am—Daily
No. 4 ..... 7:45 pm—ex Su
No. 70 (local freight) ..... 3:18 pm—ex Su
No. 6 ..... 2:03 pm—ex Su

GOING WEST.

No. 5 ..... 7:27 am—Daily
No. 3 ..... 7:10 pm—Daily
No. 71, (local freight) ..... 9:55 am—ex Su
No. 7 ..... 12:00 pm—ex Su

All these trains stop for passengers.
For rates, tickets, time tables, etc. apply to
I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind
Chas. M. Hays, V. Pres. and Gen't Manager.
G. S. Crane, Gen'l Pass'r and Ticket Agent

B. & O. R. R.

Schedule In Effect Nov. 22 '96
Leaves Auburn Junction.

WEST BOUND.

No. 3 Express, to Garrett only ..... 8:53 p m
No. 15 Daily ..... 2:00 a m
No. 5 Daily ..... 4:30 a m
No. 7 Daily ..... 4:18 p m
No. 17 Daily Except Suday ..... 12:25 p m

EAST BOUND.

No. 4 Express ..... 4:30 a m
No. 8 Daily ..... 8:05 p m
No. 6 Daily ..... 2:40 p m
No 41 Daily ..... 11:45 p m
No 16, Daily, except Sunday ..... 12:25p m

D. B. MARTIN, Manager of Passenger Traffic.
G. H. YOUNG, Auburn Junction, Ind

Lake Erie & Western R.R

--ALL RAIL--

NIAGARA FALLS

Excursion

WAIT FOR THE OLD RELIABLE
Lake Erie & Western
Personally Conducted
NIAGARA FALLS EXCURSION
Thursday, August 5, 1897,
.....ALSO.....
Sandusky, Put-In-Bay, Cleveland and Buffalo,
WITH SIDE TRIPS TO
LEWISTON, TORONTO, THOUSAND ISLANDS, ETC.

For tickets, rate, time and pamphlet containg general information, call on any ticket agent of the above route, [or address

C. F. DALY,
General Passenger Agent,
INDIANAPOLIS, IND

ALBERT ROBBINS, PRES. J. C. HENRY, V. P.

FARMERS BANK.

—INCORPORATED—
AND UNDER STATE CONTROL.
Capital and Surplus $50,000
Transacts a General Banking Business and pays Interest on time Deposits.
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE

We need a Secretary of Agriculture at Washington about as much as a wagon needs five wheels. It has proved a disappointment to those who thought such a department would prove useful. Its chief object is to furnish another office for many friends of a new president, though the supposed object is to help the farmers. But we do not know of a farmer who has been benefited by it. Even the free packages of seeds could have been procured from the members of Congress. It would be as sensible to have a secretary of buggy making or a secretary of windmill making, or of bicycle making as to have a secretary of farming. For even if the Secretary of Agriculture happens to be a farmer, he is probably not as well posted in that line as the average country farmer who makes his living off his farm.

A secretary of manufactures might be an eminent man in some way, but he might not know a thing about making bicycles or buggies for as in the case of the farmer, a man who is engaged in making these articles knows better how to make them and to control the business, than any politician. A Secretary of Foreign commerce might do us some good, and we have often suggested that we have one and drop the secretary of agriculture. Such a secretary could give his attention to the opening of foreign markets to our various products, and entering into business relation with nations that could give us the most profitable trade. And it is foreign markets that we need. We can manufacture more goods of all kinds than we can use. We can raise more farm products than we can consume. Give us a wider foreign market for our wheat, for we can raise twice as much as we now do. Give us back our merchant vessels and their ocean trade. That will employ a million or so of our idle men, and furnish a profitable investment for our capital. But a secretary of agriculture never made two blades of grass grow where only one grew before that.

LaPearl's Show.

LaPearl's show drew a good attendance both afternoon and evening, for their tent which is nearly as large as the largest shows carry, was well filled. Their attractions, many of them entirely new, and very fine, and the music excellent. Their show is big enough, as much as anyone can take in one session, and when the prices are considered, it is the cheapest we know of. They went from here to Fort Wayne, where they are this afternoon and evening. From there they go to Bluffton.

State Club's Meeting.

Miss McTighe and Mrs. Zimmerman returned on the evening Wabash train yesterday, from the Warsaw meeting of the State Union of Literary Clubs. They were delegates to that body from the Auburn L. L. C. and speak enthusiastically of the meeting and of the hospitality of the people of Warsaw. The clubs elected a man for president, the first time they ever did so. He is James B. Wisely, of Terre Haute. The association includes clubs of the men as well a of women. Miss McTighe was made chairman of a committee to draft resolutions of condolence for as member, Mrs. DeWitt Banes, of Connersville who received a telegram that her husband had died suddenly. M. W. Harrison, formerly of the Auburn schools, was not able to be present to read his paper, but it was read by a gentleman from Indianapolis. The next meeting is at Bloomington.

S. B. JOHNSTON,
DENTIST.
AUBURN - - INDIANA
Office, 25 North Main Street.
Most Difficult Operations, a Specialty.
Telephone No. 27, Western.

F. W. HOFFMAN,
DENTIST,
AUBURN, - - - - - - INDIANA
Office in Gandy building, northeast corner of Square.....
CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
AUBURN, INDIANA.
Capital and Surplus $60,000.
Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest, if left six months. County and town orders bought and sold. Money to loan.
C. A. O. McCLELLAN, PRESIDENT
CHAS. McCLELLAN, CASHIER.

J. H. JOHNSTON,
DENTAL SURGEON,
Auburn - Indiana.
OFFICE OVER PIONEER HARDWARE STORE.
SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO PLATE WORK

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS.
Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, Corner Main and Sixth Streets.
Professional Calls Promptly Answered.
Telephones: Western, 19; Central Union, 19
D. J. Swarts, M. D. Vesta W. Swarts, M. D

I. O. BUCHTEL, HOMEOPATHIC
Physician and Surgeon.
Special attention given to Chronic and Obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.
Office and residence over Madden Bros Marble Works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, day or night.

MATHENY & STAMETS,
Physicians and Surgeons.
OFFICE on 9th St., opposite Swineford House:
Calls responded to from the office at all hours of day or night.

ZYCOPHORUS!
ZYCOPHORUS Is the latest, and greatest, scientific composition of medicines for the cure of all Kidney, Bladder, Sexual and Nervous Diseases. It is purely vegetable and has an immediate marvelous action. Hundreds have been cured by Zycophorus after the failure of all other methods. We do not offer a large reward for cases it will not cure, but give a written guarantee to cure or refund money. Cures all kidney and bladder diseases such as painful, dribbling, burning or difficult urination, dropsical swellings, gravel, cystitis, albumen, sugar, mucus, blood, and other deposits and discharges, and such sexual and nervous disease is emissions, vital drain in urine, varicocele, impotency, impaired memory, weak back, melancholy, premature decline of the manly powers, etc. Renews sexual life in both sexes, and builds up the nerve and brain tissues. One package will prove its efficacy. Six packages guaranteed to cure or money refunded. Price per package, 50 cents. Six packages, $2.50. For sale at drug stores or sent prepaid to any address on receipt of price. Send for circular.
TILMAN CHEMICAL CO.,
Toledo, O.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Before Retiring....

take Ayer's Pills, and you will sleep better and wake in better condition for the day's work. Ayer's Cathartic Pills have no equal as a pleasant and effectual remedy for constipation, biliousness, sick headache, and all liver troubles. They are sugar-coated, and so perfectly prepared, that they cure without the annoyances experienced in the use of so many of the pills on the market. Ask your druggist for Ayer's Cathartic Pills. When other pills won't help you, Ayer's is

THE PILL THAT WILL.

Meeting at Garrett.

Garrett business men held a rousing meeting last evening, to make arrangements for their celebration. They appointed a committee of five on general arrangements and also a finance committee. The latter are now making an active canvass of the town and its business men, to secure ample means to make this one of the best celebrations the county ever had. We hope to see it a success every way. As the 4th comes on Sunday, they will celebrate on Saturday July 3.

RUG MEN GO FREE.

Yesterday Judge Lowry was called up from Fort Wayne to hear the application of the rug peddlers for a writ of habeas corpus. They took this means of testing validity of a recent ordinance made by the Auburn council, by which all peddlers and transient business men were called on to pay a license of $25 a day. The men had refused to pay and were arrested brought before 'Squire Walter, who sent them to jail as they refused to pay their fine. D. M. Link as their attorney got the Judge to issue a writ of habeas corpus, a process called into use by men who claim to be wrongfully imprisoned, and who therefore wish to be called into court at once and if wrongfully imprisoned, to have that fact established and so they can be set free. Baxter & Brown, and Welsheimer, were attorneys for the town. After exhaustive arguments on both sides, Judge Lowry, this forenoon gave a decision in favor of the prisoners and they are free. The town ordinance was pronounced defective as the license was put so high as to be prohibtive. The peddlders may now possibly sue the town for damages, for false imprisonment. We think the town should now frame an ordinance that will avoid the defects in this one, for these transient business houses and peddlers are a damage to any town or its people. Take this one case. The rugs they sold could have been bought for much less money at own stores. Those who buy of strangers are pretty sure to be cheated. And in this connection, we hope our busines men will sustain the board in its action, as the ordinance was made for the sole purpose of protecting home business. Not a member of the board is in business that could be affected by by traveling salesmen. Business men who will not stand by the boasd that is trying to protect them will have little sympathy in their efforts to escape the evils of traveling fakirs.

—Auburn is to be congratulated on her many wide-awake and successful business men who are manufacturing as a side line to their business. In another culumn we speak of the wonderful little machine, the Standard Electric Cigar Lighter, of Wm. Kessler, which he is pushing in connection with his business in manufacturing cigars. And right in the same block, our enterprising groceryman, M. E. Garrett, is manufacturing an article which has become a household necessity, and is well known in every home in Auburn—"Quick Work Washing Powder." For several years these goods have been tested and there is now no article on the market that gives better satisfaction. Every grocer handles it and the jobbers in Fort Wayne, Toledo and many other cities are disposing of it by the case lots. Had Mr. Garrett the time to devote to this side line, he no doubt could build up a trade sufficient to justify the employing of several men. But Quick Work is a winner and sells on its merits. Try it.

Poor Blood

When a horse is poor in flesh, a new harness won't give him strength. If a house is cold new furniture won't warm it. If your strength is easily exhausted; work a burden; nerves weak; digestion poor; muscles soft; if you are pale and worn out, the trouble is with the blood. It is not so much IMPURE blood as POOR blood. Pills won't make this blood rich; nor will bitters, nor iron tonics, any more than a new harness will give strength to the horse, or new furniture will make a house warm. For poor blood you want something that will make rich blood.
SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites is the best remedy in the world for enriching the blood.
We have prepared a book telling you more about the subject. Sent Free.
For sale by all druggists at 50c. & $1.00.
SCOTT & BOWNE, New York.

POPULAR DELUSIONS.

Regarding the Profitableness of Party Newspapers During Campaigns

South Bend Times.

There are a great many people who labor under the delusion that a presidential campaign is a bonanza to the average newspaper publisher. This delusion is effectually dispelled by the subjoined testimonials of two prominent newspaper men of Northern Indiana. We quote from the Goshen Times:

"The editor of the Warsaw Union thus sums up the profit accruing to a newspaper publisher during a heated political campaign, and we can truthfully substantiate every word he says: "We have made nine presidential campaigns in this county and we can remember but a single one that sustained itself in a financial way. We do not mean by this, pay for the extra work a campaign entails upon the average party newspaper, crowding out of regular business, and the loss of patronage always incident upon a hot contest, such as we always have here. Then when the campagn is over and matters settle back into their old routine with everybody else, the newspaper man is kindly permitted to repair his own damages the best he can, while some of his political associates bestow their patronage elsewhere. Is it not the experience of our craft generally?"

We should like to hear from all the newspaper men of Northern Indiana as to their business experience during presidential campaign years. There is but little doubt that it is uniform with that of our Goshen and Warsaw contemporaries. So far as the Times is concerned it may be truthfully stated that from $800 to $1,000 would be a moderate estimate of the loss entailed in various ways by a presidential campaign. And yet there are people who imagine that such years furnish a harvest to newspapers. No greater delusion has ever found lodgment in the public mind.

It is different in the larger cities. There every announcement for meetings and conventions, is paid for at high rates. If the ticket goes into the paper all it is done at a good round figure—not at the head of the editorial department but in the advertising department. Much of the matter that appears as special politics is furnished by committee and liberally paid for. To papers in the larger cities a campaign is thus made a source of considerable revenue. In South Bend things are different. Not a dollar, yes, not a cent has ever been paid this paper under its present management for any of the work above mentioned. And yet there are any number of people who affect to believe that a newspaper man here yearns for nothing so earnestly as he does for a political campaign with all its attendant vexations, annoyances and perplexities. What a satisfaction it would be if such persons could "pass through the mill" once or twice. They might probably be somewhat disfigured, but like the boy that twisted the mule's tail, they would know a good deal more.

HIGHER TARIFF.

How the People Pay for Every Contribution Made to the Campaign Fund.

It does not require much liberality to make a big contribution fund, if you know the money will be put back into your pocket, with a big interest. Here is a case in point. The Chicago Chronicle says:

"Phil" Armour, the Chicago packer has been represented to Mark Hanna as being "very hot" over the pending tariff bill.

"Armour," said this representative to Hanna "made through his railroads, packing, manufacturing and other interests one of the largest, if not the largest, contributions to your national campaign fund."

Hanna nodded.

"Well," the representative continued, "Armour has invested a lot of money in a big manufacturing plant, and you have gone to work and put the stuff he is to manufacture against foreign competition on the free list."

Hanna nodded again.

"Well," concluded the representative 'the next time you want a political contribution just make another call on Armour. He'll be tickled to death to see you.'

Armour's representative walked away.

Hanna bent his head in thought.

It is deemed not unlikely that the power behind McKinley's throne will use his influence to have at least a small duty on Armour's goods.

The May Festival

Last evening the May Festival at the M. E. church closed with one of the finest concerts ever given in Auburn. And we wish to say right here, that the entire course of lectures and work of festilal has been a splendid success. The management was excellent and the best of judgment used in the selection of the lecturers. The COURIER has already day by day, spoken of the different evenings and has now only to add something for the grand final effort of last evening.

We can only mention very briefly, the many good things presented. The vocal solos of Mrs. Cuppy, Maud Trover, Mrs. Sadie Yesbera and Morris Widney were fine and elicited great applause. Dr. Buchtel's violin solo, was like all his pieces, grand, and greatly enjoyed. The same may be said of James Eddrige's piano solo. Calkin and Fanning rendered a wonfully fine cornet duet and were called back to play it over again. Buchtel and Calkin played a sweet violin duet gaining hearty cheers. The ladie's quartet, Mrs. Shull, Miss Weaver, Mrs. Eckhart and Miss Trover, sang "Comin' Tho' the Rye" with great effect. Morris Widney's "Hundred Fathoms Deep;" gained him a persistent call to come back, which he did, singing one of his old favorites "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep."

The chorus work was grand, too grand to admit an adequate description One must hear a chorus, to get any idea of its excellence. There were five of them, all excellently produced. The names of those in the chorus are:

Mrs. Nettie Eckhart, Miss Maude Trover, Miss Belle DePew, Mrs. I. M. Zent, Miss Lydia Teeters, Mrs. W. H. Nusbaum, Mrs. B. M. Hastings, Mrs. Callie Zimmerman, Mrs. T. J. Cuppy, Mrs. A. Lewis, Miss Mary Teeters, Mrs. Ada Lane, Miss Blanche Shilling, Mrs. Geo. Lanning, Mrs. R. Shull, Mrs. D. A. Garwood, and Messrs. Wm. Warrick, Geo. Quince, Dr. J. C. Baxter, Ves Zimmerman, Oscar Hoffman, John Zimmerman, W. B. Brown, Will Dirk, M. F. Long, Bert Beidler, E. T. DeLapp and John Morris Widney.

Miss Flora Hoffman as organist did much to make the entire program a success. She gave two selections on the pipe organ, and played several accompaniments. She has no superior as an organist and accompanist in this part of the country. Mr. Hastings, also, should have full credit for managing and directing the chorus work all though. All parts of the program were filled just as called for on the printed list. Mrs. Hovey Hanna played the accompaniment for Mrs. Yesbera.

At the close, Mr. Guild made a pleasant little talk expressing his gratitude to all who had assisted to make this May festival a success, and that it would be hereafter a permanent annual feature.

GOOD FOR MINER.

The COURIER always rejoices over the good fortune of the old soldiers, and is particularly glad today. We are just informed that Editor Miner of the Garrett Herald has just received word from Washington, that his claim for a pension has been allowed. His back pension will foot up about $1200. Mr. Miner, at the age of eighteen enlisted in the Twelfth Ind. Regiment, Gen. Reub Williams', at Angola, in 1863, and served continuously from then until the close of the war. He was in every battle and skirmish in which the regiment took part, amounting in number to about 100. He never had applied for a pension till May 20, 1891, when he filed an original claim acting as his own agent, furnishing full proofs Feb. 5, 1896, was the date of his last examination before the Pension Board here in Auburn. The pension he gets now is rated at $14 a month, from the date of his claim till that of his last examination. Since than he gets $20 a month, and that is the rate he will hereafter get. Though Mr. Miner managed this claim himself, Senator Turpie and Congressman Robinson both stood by him faithfully and left no effort untried to assist him, and he feels deeply grateful to them and to all the other friends who in any way astisted him. We rejoice at his good fortune. This money will come very good in these hard times and do much to smooth the rest of life's rugged pathway.

NO PAY—NO CURE

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Chills and Malaria. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price 50c. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

CATON'S-TANSY-PILLS.
A TRIED, TRUE AND SAFE WOMAN'S RELIEF. Always prompt and reliable. Avoid Imitations. Get CATON'S TANSY PILLS and SAVE REGRETS. At drug stores, or sent direct (sealed), price $1. CATON DRUG CO., Boston, Mass. Pamphlet free.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.
Celebrated for its great leavening strength and healthfulness. Assures the food against alum and all forms of adulteration common to the cheap brands. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

HE SHOULD HAVE IT.

Samuel Ford Camp will present to the new Division Commander to be elected at the Marion Encampment in July, the name of George A. Bishop for appointment as Division Quartermaster. Mr. Bishop is a young business man of sterling qualities and imbued with the necessary vim to accomplish required ends. He has held the position of Quartermaster Sergeant for the past four years, has proved a very efficient officer, and has shown himself competent to assume the responsibilities of the office named. If appointed, he will serve his constituents with credit, and in a manner to which every member of the Division can look with a just pride. Samuel Ford Camp has been organized nearly ten years. It has never asked for any honor before. Surely this, one of the strongest and livest camps in the state is justly entitled this recognition.

Who Can Measure

The influence of the mother! It shapes the course of unborn generations—goes sounding through all coming ages and enters the confines of Eternity.

With what care, therefore, should the Expectant Mother be guarded, and how great the effort be to ward off danger and make her life happy.

"Mother's Friend"

Allays Nervousness, relieves the Headache, ...Cramps and Nausea, and so prepares the system that Child-Birth is made easy and the time of recovery shortened—many say "stronger after than before confinement." It insures safety to life of both mother and child. All who have used "Mother's Friend" say they will never be without it again. No other remedy robs confinement of its pain.

"A customer whose wife used 'Mother's Friend,' says that if she had to go through the ordeal again, and there were but four bottles to be obtained, and the cost was $100.00 per bottle, he would have them." GEO. LAYTON, Dayton, Ohio.

Sent by Mail, on receipt of price, $1.00 PER BOTTLE. Book, TO "EXPECTANT MOTHERS" mailed free containing valuable information and voluntary testimonials.
THE BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

William's Kidney Pills
Has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. Have you neglected your Kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your Kidneys and Bladder? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, groins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire pass urine? William's Kidney Pills will impart new life to the diseased organs, tone up the system and make a new man of you. By mail 50 cents per box.
WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props., Cleveland, O.
Sold By Fischler & Son.

THE TRIUMPH OF LOVE!
Happy and Fruitful Marriage.

Every MAN who would know the GRAND TRUTHS, the Plain Facts, the Old Secrets and the New Discoveries of Medical Science as applied to Married Life, who would atone for past follies and avoid future pitfalls, should write for our wonderful little book, called "Complete Manhood and How to Attain It." To any earnest man we will mail one copy Entirely Free, in plain sealed cover.
ERIE MEDICAL CO., 66 NIAGARA ST. BUFFALO, N. Y.

MADE ME A MAN

AJAX TABLETS POSITIVELY CURE ALL Nervous Diseases—Failing Memory, Impotency, Sleeplessness, etc., caused by Abuse or other Excesses and Indiscretions. They quickly and surely restore Lost Vitality in old or young, and fit a man for study, business or marriage. Prevent Insanity and Consumption if taken in time. Their use shows immediate improvement and effects a CURE where all other fail. Insist upon having the genuine Ajax Tablets. They have cured thousands and will cure you. We give a positive written guarantee to effect a cure with each case or refund the money. Price 50 CTS. per package; or six pkges (full treatment) for $2.50. By mail, in plain wrapper, upon receipt of price. Circular free. AJAX REMEDY CO., 79 Dearborn St. Chicago, Ill.
Sold by F. E. Davenport, Auburn.

LIFE VIM VIGOR VITALITY RESTORED IN 30 DAYS GOOD EFFECTS AT ONCE DEATH
NOW THEN
CATON'S VITALIZER
Cures general or special debility, wakefulness, spermatorrhœa, emissions, impotency, pareesis, etc. Corrects functional disorders, caused by errors or excesses, quickly restoring Lost Manhood in old or young, giving vigor and strength where former weakness prevailed. Convenient package, simple, effectual, and legitimate.
CURE IS QUICK AND THOROUGH.
Don't be Deceived by Imitations; insist on CATON'S Vitalizers. Sent sealed if your druggist does not have it. Price $1 per pkge, 6 for $5, with written guarantee of complete cure. Information, references, etc., free and confidential. Send us statement of case and 25 cts. for a week's trial treatment. One only sent to each person.
CATON MED. CO., BOSTON, MASS.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Volume XXVII. Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, June 17, 1897. Number 24.

RUN ESAY!

ECKHART BUGGIES,
CLEVELAND BICYCLES,
TURNBULL WAGONS,
McCORMICK MACHINES.

Brown, Culbertson & Boland,
Cash Hardware Store.

Free to the Ladies from the oldest and most reliable Tea House in the country.

A lady friend has sent us her photograph, displaying what she has earned from us—a watch andchain, dinner set and toilet set. We have reproduced her photograph, showing exactly what we are giving with Tea, Coffee, Spice and Baking Powder orders; and not only are our premiums of high grade, but the quality of our goods is such that the people want them, making the business pleasant and profitable. Square treatmnet has made the best ladies of the country our friends. It is them specially that we ask to write us for particulars. Address,

LIMA TEA CO., Lima, Ohio

HIGH GRADE WORK GIVES THE CONSUMER SATISFACTION,
Consequently is best for the Dealer to handle.

A Full Line of BUGGIES, SURREYS, PHAETONS, ROAD WAGONS, &c., &c.

Send for Catalogue and Prices.

All Work Guaranteed.

We also Manufacture DOVETAIL BODIES AND GEARS IN THE WHITE.

DOVETAIL COMPANY
CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND.

FACTORY, Cor. Oak & College Sts.
SALESROOM, 214 E. Main St.

YE WICKED PREPARE.

World Coming to an End Next Saturday.

The world is coming to an end next Saturday, June 12th, says John Callicot, the prophet of the Wabash Valley, located at Lafayette, Indiana. In a sermon Sunday, he announced that the world would come to an end next Saturday. He basis his predictions according to the eighth chapter of Amos, where the judgment is set and how it will come. The sun is to go down at high noon, ann the world is to be darkened in the clear. Cold weather will prevail until the fateful hour, etc, etc.

AFTER MANY YEARS,

"Another old landmark gone." "Another long-felt want is filled," should be posted up in big letters at each end of the old crossing place from the marble shop west to Mrs. Kiblinger's residence. This paper has been for years, calling for a better crossing, "rising early and calling," but one administration after another winked as they entered office and as theywent out. The street would be filled till another crossing was put on top of the old one. People slipped and fell, or plunged off into mud and water, but the old crossing still defied the weary citizens. No other crossing in town had so many people use it. Yesterday morning the west siders were paralized to find workmen tearing it up, and piles of gravel lay ready to build a cement one. The people out that way are thankful and happy. We welcome the new crossing and speed the parting one. Peace to its ashes.

WHY PAY RENT.

Better own a farm! Start now! Correspondence solicited from intending settlers. The North-Western Home-Seeker gives particular information to those interested in the pursuits of agriculture, dairying and cattle raising. Send for free copy to D. W. Aldridge, 127 The Arcade, Cleveland, Ohio, or W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago Illinois.

CASTORIA.
The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

RUN AWAY.

Last evening about dusk one of the largr gray teams of Cal. Husselman attached to the dairy wagon, became frightened, down in the south part of town while his son Roy was delivering milk and was out of the wagon for a moment, the team started north on Main-st. and ran the entire way home. Mrs. Jno. Aber telephoned him what had happened and he was on the lookout for them and had no trouble in stopping them. He immediately turned them around and started back to town faster than they went out, until he met some wheelmen who had ridden out towards the house, and he asked them if Roy was hurt, and receiving the answer that he had not been in the wagon and was not hurt, he pulled the horses down to an easy gait and came back and finished making deliveries.

CASTORIA.
The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

SHEETS ORCHESTRA.

Auburn has another orchestra, known as the Sheets Orchestra. It is composed mostly of members of the Trumpet Note Band. They furnished music for the Lutheran church last night, and did excellent. A little more practice and they will rank with similar organizations. They are: E. C. Sheets, Cliff Caldwell, Arti Brandon, Frank Campbell, Ed. Sheets, Tom Knoder, Myron Brandon, Will Thomas and Burley Smith.

AYER'S PILLS
THE PILL THAT WILL CURE HEADACHE
INDIGESTION
BILIOUSNESS
CONSTIPATION

A WOMAN'S OPINION.

I like to read the bargain ads
In all the daily papers;
The newest wrinkles, styles and fads
From all the fashion shapers.
I like to study, page by page,
And see what fancies are the rage
In gowns and things of every age
By dry-goods men and drapers.
I like to know just where to go
For articles I'm needing,
And I am every day, you know,
To bargain sales proceeding.
I like to get the very best
Of goods, that stand hard trial's test,
About as cheaply as the rest—
Such "snaps" I'm always heeding.
Of course I like to read the news
That every day is printed;
And all the items I peruse
Wherein a scandal's hinted.
But I confess I like to pore
Through ads of every dry-goods store,
The more I read of them, the more
I wish they were less stinted!

Town Improvements.

In a former article I mentioned some of the requisites for good streets. There are others. No amount or thoroughness of drainage or grading up will make good streets.

We must have a thining out of trees and shade for payed streets. I would think that our people had a serious lesson on the danger of raising forest trees in town during the young cyclone that struck us last summer.

If each property owner would head back his trees and not let them grow so tall, a large part of this danger to property and even life would be averted in future from these storms. Many loads of brush might be spared to the advantage of the trees and streets and still save plenty of shade. But now if one will walk through town, and especially where lot owners on both sides have boulevarded out to the proper width, he can see what a beautiful little town we would have if this were generally done on all the less-used streets, then have a center roadway of 16 or 18 f. Then the scheme worthy of serious and prompt consideration is, to soon begin a systematic paving of the few main streets from curb to curb, the boulevarding and gradual paving of a central roadway on the less used streets. This is no new idea, as many cities of one, to three hundred thousand have been doing it for years, but it is especiall the scheme for towns of our size. Try to begin now a systematic plan of improvement of streets and the clearing and cleaning of alleys, shaping and thining of too dense shade and the good work once begun will go on until we have the most beautiful little city in the whole country full of pretty little cities.

CITIZEN.

Go to the N. E. A Convention, Milwaukee,

July 6-via the Northwestern Line, "The Lake Shore Route." Excursion rates, frequent trains, quick time, Parlor Cars and Dining Cars. See that your tickets read from Chicago via the Chicago & North Western R'y. For full information apply to ticket agents of connecting lines or address D. W. Aldridge, T. P. A., 127 The Arcade, Cleveland, Ohio. Or W. B. Kniskern, G. P. & T. A., Chicago, Ill.

SMALL RIOT AT WATERLOO.

Last evening 6 or 8 tramps whe had imbibed to much corn juice, wanted to take charge of a freight train, but after a couple of knock-downs, the party were locked up in the calaboose by the marshal and several deputies. They had money and Atty. Wm. XX McDonald hurried himself to their place of confinement for the purpose of obtaining an interview, and if possible get the job of defending them but the deputies on guard refused him admittance and a war of words followed and resulted in placing the attorney in with them, with plenty of time to make notations, affidavits, etc., to his heart's content. They kept him locked up until nearly morning and he is threatening to sue the town for damages or false imprisonment.

Minneapolis and Return at Half Rates.

Account of the meeting of the B. P. O. E. the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. will sell excursion tickets at all its stations to Minneapolis and return at half rates, plus 50 cents, on July 3 and 4, tickets good returning to leave Minneapolis until July 31st. Write to A J. Smith, G. P. and T. A. Cleveland, O., for pamphlet of information about this and other cheap excursions, or apply to ticket agents.

Distribution of County Funds.

Butler Tp.	$2,916.88.
Jackson "	4,098.66.
Concord "	3,985.77.
Newville "	2,315.53.
Stafford "	2,430.05.
Wilmington	3,714.93.
Union Tp	2,935.83.
Richland "	4,650.09.
Fairfield "	2,941.30.
Smithfield	3,188.11.
Franklin "	2,857.72.
Troy "	1,931.91.
Keyser "	3,142.25.
Grant "	3,357.05.
Auburn Corp.	3,513.19.
" School Town	3,267.76.
Waterloo " "	986.26.
Butler " "	571.83.
" Corp.	3,157.75.
Garrett "	5,412.51.
" School Town	1,587.38.
Ashley Corp.	134.39.
" School Town	570.41.
Steuben County	18.78.

Never Advertised.

John H. Wertz, the "man who never advertised," died penniless in the lunatic asylum April 30, aged eighty-four, says the New York Journal. He was the oldest clothing manufacturer in America, and was once worth $300,000.

THAT ROSE BILL

Allowed By the Commissioners Creates Considerable Talk.

There has been considerable talk on our streets concerning the bill of J. H. Rose, county attorney, which was allowed by the commissioners this week For the benefit of those who are talking and don't know what they are talking about, we publish below the bill, that all may see it:

To extra services with the board since the December session 1896 with reference to the investigation of the books and financial affairs of the county, including the collection of monies paid into the treasury by Sawvel et al $300.00

To fees in State vs Borst, and Fair et al 100.00

To fees at Ft. Wayne in change of venue matters including the re-auditing of costs against DeKalb county and the collection of costs due DeKalb county from Allen county ..... 10.00.

To expenses to Ft. Wayne, R. R. fare ..... 1.05.

To dinner ..... 50.

" cash paid for telegram to Indianapolis for copy of new Statute in Fair case ..... 33.

To telephone to Ernst in Fair case ..... 50.

To telegraph Ernst in Fair erse ..... 25.

To quarterly salary as county Atty. for quarter ending June 1st 1897 ..... 25.00.

Total 437.63

Something to Depend On.

Mr. James Jones, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says that last winter his wife was attacked with LaGrippe, and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into Hasty Consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store, and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home, and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it Free trial bottles at Robbins & McCord's rugstore. 5

HALF RATES TO PITTSBURG, PA. VIA THE BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R.

On June 12, 13 and 14 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell excursion tickets to Pittsburg, Pa., at rate of one fare for the round trip, account Junior Order United American Mechanics' National Council. Tickets will be good for return until June 21, 1897.

For further information call on or address nearest B. & O. Ticket Agent, or B. N. Austin, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Chicago Ill.

CASTORIA.
The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Our Weather

Man now promises us real, for sure, Summer. We think you will agree with us in calling this "Good News." We have other News in Store for you which are equally as good.

We Have Just Received

a very Large Stock of Summer Corsets of the celebrated "Royal Worcester" make. Our 39 cent corset is a hummer. For 50 cents we give you regular 75 cent quality. We are after your Corset Trade.

We Have Stacks

of Summer Underwear for Gentlemen, Ladies and Children. Our Men's Underwear at 25 cents are far ahead of what we had last year and we thought we had a good one. Our Ladies' Vest at 5 cents is quite good; 10 cents gets a better one, and 15 cents gets something extra nice.....

We Have a Magnificent Line

of Parasols and Fans. You can't afford to miss seeing them before making your purchase. It will do you good to see our Straw Hats. Every conceivable Style and at prices so low everyone can afford them. We have the line or.....

Summer Neckwear, String Ties,

All Colors and Figures, 25 cents for a dozen—just the thing for this season of the year. Band bows in endless variety, 10, 15 and 25 cents. Tecks, Clubs and Four-in-Hands to suit you. We want your trade; we are saving you money.....

Schaab & Bro.

THE REASON WHY
Thd Gilt Edge Furnace is the Best in the Market.

1. Because it has extensive radiation surface.
2. Because it is made of the very best material.
3. Because it has joints that are tight.
4. Because it is guaranteed to give satisfaction.
5. Because it is within reach of all.

These are some of the reasons why this furnace has become a favorite and so many are placed in the best houses. We have the exclusive agency in Butler, Auburn, Ashley and Waterloo. Call and see the sample furnace at J. C. DAY'S hardware store, Waterloo, or Write us for Catalogue, Estimates, Etc.

CLEMENS WOLF.

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

SEE THAT THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE —OF— Chas. H. Fletcher IS ON THE WRAPPER OF EVERY BOTTLE OF CASTORIA

Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk. Don't allow anyone to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose." See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

1897. JUNE. 1897.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
•	•	1	2	3	4	5
6	7	8	9	10	11	12
13	14	15	16	17	18	19
20	21	22	23	24	25	26
27	28	29	30	•	•	•
•	•	•	•	•	•	•

F. Q. 8th. F. M. 14th. L. Q. 21st. N. M. 29th.

DOINGS OF THE DAY.

SUMMARY OF THE NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Eventful Happenings in Every Hemisphere—Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Politics, Religion, and Commerce, Sandwiched with Minor Affairs.

Gain in Business.

Bradstreet's weekly report says: "Notwithstanding the cool wet weather, which checked the distribution of seasonable goods, disappointment at the restriction of the distribution in the spring and early summer is giving way to hopefulness for fall trade. Business is better than a year ago. The volume is larger, and there are more people employed than prior to the last presidential election. Encouraging features announced are improvement in May railway earnings and an advance in the price of Bessemer pig iron. Manufacturers of woolens are more hopeful at the outlook for higher prices stimulating speculative demand for both raw and manufactured products. Crop prospects continue favorable. Hot and forcing weather has had an excellent effect upon cotton and corn. This week's price movement includes advances for tea, wheat, Indian corn, oats, coffee, sugar and pig-iron, a steadiness on the part of prints, coal, lumber, steel billets, petroleum, pork and flour, and declines for cotton, lard, turpentine and rosin, pointing to a tendency to reverse last month's weakness in quotations."

Cyclone's Fury.

A cyclone struck northwest of Lyle, Minn., recently, taking a southeasterly course. Several people are reported killed and others injured. The cyclone tore up houses and other buildings in its course and the territory is now bare. Its path was about half a mile in width. All telegraph lines north are down and box cars on sidings were smashed into kindling. The cyclone passing over the town of Kandiohi, Wilmar County, Minn., entirely demolished the buildings on the farm of John Berquist. A special from Osago, Iowa, says the cyclone there killed six persons and injured a number.

Constitutional.

The Supreme Court of Indiana has decided that the 3 cent street car fare law is constitutional. It relates to Indianapolis only. In the Federal Court recently the same law, passed by the last Legislature, was declared unconstitutional and injunctions were granted by Judge Showalter against its enforcement. The State will insist on 3 cent fares unless the street car company secures an injunction, pending an appeal to the Federal Supreme Court.

Capitalist Kills Himself.

Philip Reilly, President of the John Martin Lumber Company, and Vice President of the St. Paul National Bank, St. Paul, Minn., committed suicide by shooting. No reason is known except continued ill health. Mr. Reilly was 58 years old and went there many years ago from West Virginia.

No Sunday Base Ball.

The jury in the case of John Powell, the member of the Cleveland Base Ball Club, charged with playing ball on Sunday and also exhibiting the same, returned a verdict of guilty in both counts. This settles the fate of Sunday base ball in Cleveland.

Shot While Hunting.

Frank and Cleve Magee of Shelbyville, Ind., went out hunting and soon after leaving home the rifle they had was accidentally discharged, the bullet entering the head of Cleve, aged 14 years, killing him almost instantly.

More Than One Hundred Perish.

More than a hundred perished at Tien Tsin, China, in the burning of a temple dedicated to the Queen of Heaven. A festival was in progress and the edifice was crowded, mostly with women and children.

Fatal Explosion.

At Pueblo, Col., Mrs. John Cameron, a society lady, was fatally burned by an explosion of a can of benzine, with which she was cleaning furniture. Her son, 18 years old, was badly burned trying to save her.

Child Drowned in a Kettle.

A 7-months-old child of William Poland, residing near Fallen Timber, Ohio, was drowned recently. A chair on which the child was sitting toppled over and threw it into a kettle of water.

Carabre Pardoned.

Havana special: A cable message has been received from the Queen Regent granting a pardon to Jose Carabre, who was sentenced to be shot.

Fatal Fall.

G. C. Emslie, manager of the encyclopedia department of the Chicago Times-Herald, fell off of a cable car in the tunnel in that city and received injuries which will prove fatal.

Slowly Tortured to Death.

The case of Henry Huff of Brumfield, Ind., is claiming the attention of the medical fraternity. Huff was stung on the head by a bee. Dizziness developed, followed by total blindness, and to add to his terrible suffering his entire body is in a state of convulsion. He is being slowly tortured to death.

Wife Murderer Hanged.

James M. Gordy was hanged at Georgetown, Del., for the murder of his wife. He died game protesting his innocence to the last.

Monster Meteor.

Lansing (Ia.) special: An explanation of Sunday's supposed earthquake has been found. Farmers residing west of this city report seeing a large ball of fire sailing through the sky in a northerly direction about the time the shock was felt Sunday morning here, and at Wauken, Decorah, Elkader and other places. Immediately following the disappearance of the ball of fire there was a heavy explosion.

Boy Crushed by a Freight Train.

George, aged 10, son of Al. Griffin of Richmond, Ind., was instantly killed by falling beneath the wheels of a freight train.

NANCY CLEM IS DEAD.

Central Figure in Indiana's Most Noted Criminal Case.

Indianapolis special: Mrs. Nancy E. Clem is dead. She was the central figure in Indiana's most famous criminal case; was tried five times for murder, was sentence to hang twice and finally escaped on a technicality. Mrs. Clem was finally convicted of perjury and served four years in the State Female Reformatory.

Mrs. Clem was arrested and tried for the murder of Jacob Young and his wife in 1868, who were found dead in their home in Indianapolis. The murders were supposed to have resulted from large money transactions. For the Young murders W. J. Abrams was sentenced to life imprisonment and was pardoned after a confinement of several years. "Syke" Hartman, a brother of Mrs. Clem, was also arrested for complicity in the crime, and committed suicide in jail. Another suspected brother was never captured. Before her death Mrs. Clem said she was not guilty of the Young murders. She was 65 years old.

SERIOUS WRECK.

Two Illinois Central Trains Crash Together.

A serious railroad wreck occurred at Bradford, Tenn. Two Illinois Central freight trains going in opposite directions crashed into each other at a slight curve just at the end of town and about 400 yards from the depot. All of the injured were taken to Thomas and a special train arrived from Jackson with medical aid. It is said that at least three, and possibly more, are in the burning ruins of the trains. All of the trainmen have been accounted for. The injured are:

Ed Benz, engineer, collar bone and shoulder broken.

G. H. Bobtry, fireman, ankle sprained and bruised about the head.

Ed. Powers, slightly bruised.

Liob Burke, back and leg hurt.

Jim Northcut, both legs and arm broken.

Benz and Northcut are fatally hurt.

Cox Will Decline.

A Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune reporter saw Gen. Jacob D. Cox and asked him if he was going to accept the offer of an appointment as Minister from the United States to Spain. Gen. Cox answered promptly: "I am not." He then stated he had received no official notice of this offer, but had been semi-officially informed of the offer to be made if he desired the place. His principal reason for declining the position is that he for several years has been engaged in literary work that will take some years to complete and he cannot afford to abandon it.

Hundreds of Fishermen Perish.

Victoria (B. C.) special: Meager particulars were brought by the Empress of Japan of a disaster which befell the fishmen of Chusan Archipelago, off the coast of China. Recently, when all or at least most of the fishing boats were out on the fishing banks, a terrible gale sprung up. Of the several hundred boats out at the time very few returned, and it is estimated that 500 men lost their lives. The storm swept over the entire archipelago, which extends across the mouth of Hangchow Bay, on the eastern coast of China. Several large junks were out, in which scores perished.

Probable War with Japan.

The St. James Gazette, commenting upon the dispute between Japan and Hawaii, which is described as a "corrupt little Republic run by a handful of American filibusters," says: "As Hawaii has no resisting power, the question arises, will the United States Government see its protege through its trouble? The Japanese may land an armed party at any moment. Then what will the Philadelphia do? Japan, since she smashed the Chinese, is believed to be spoiling for a fight with a white power, and she may find America ready to oblige her sooner than she expects."

Fearful Powder Explosion.

Munich special: Lightning struck a powder factory situated about three miles from Rosenheim, exploding 11,000 pounds of gunpowder. The doors of the houses of Rosenheim and at Stephan's Kirchen, about one and one-half mile from Rosenheim, were torn from their hinges, big trees were uprooted, and eleven houses shattered; but, in spite of the fearful force of the explosion, there was no loss of life.

Sunk in Collision.

A French schooner which has just arrived at Swansea, Wales, reports that through the haze she saw two vessels in collision off the Lizard, with tremendous impact. Both vessels sunk and all on board, according to the crew of the schooner, were drowned. The schooner further reports that the vessels sank so quickly that she had no time to go to their assistance.

Costly Fire.

Fire at Cairo, Ill., wiped out $80,000 worth of property, including the new Baptist Church and annex, the Halliday warehouse and its contents, Glynn's transfer stables and contents, and several dwellings. The losses are partially covered by insurance.

Monks Roasted by Rebels.

Vancouver (B. C.) special: Further interviews with officers of the steamer Rupeh, now in port, elicit the fact that twenty-five Catholic monks were roasted by the rebels in the Phillippine Islands and not by Spanish troops, as previously reported.

MARKET QUOTATIONS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.50 to $5.50; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.00 to $5.00; wheat, No. 2 red, 69c to 70c; corn, No. 2, 23c to 25c; oats, No. 2, 17c to 18c; rye, No. 2, 33c to 34c; butter, choice creamery, 14c to 15c; eggs, fresh, 8c to 9c; potatoes, per bushel, 25c to 35c; broom corn, common growth to choice green hurl, $25 to $70 per ton.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.25; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, common to choice, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2, 75c to 77c; corn, No. 2 white, 23c to 25c; oats, No. 2 white, 20c to 22c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2, 83c to 85c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 22c to 24c; oats, No. 2 white, 17c to 18c; rye, No. 2, 31c to 33c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.50 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2, 80c to 82c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 25c to 26c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 20c to 21c; rye, No. 2, 35c to 37c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 78c to 79c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 24c to 25c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 23c; rye, 34c to 36c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 78c to 80c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 24c to 26c; oats, No. 2 white, 18c to 20c; rye, No. 2, 34c to 36c; clover seed, $4.15 to $4.20.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 70c to 71c; corn, No. 3, 23c to 25c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 23c; barley, No. 2, 28c to 33c; rye, No. 1, 34c to 36c; pork, mess, $7.25 to $7.75.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 82c to 83c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 27c to 29c; oats, No. 2 white, 24c to 25c.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, $3.50 to $4.25; sheep, $3.00 to $4.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 75c to 76c; corn, No. 2, 30c to 31c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 23c; butter, creamery, 12c to 16c; eggs, Western, 10c to 12c.

SECRETARY OF STATE

HOW SHERMAN DISPOSES OF A DAY'S BUSINESS.

He Is Methodical at All Times—Saves Himself by Relying Upon His Assistants—Meeting Office Seekers and Dealing with Diplomats.

Mr. Sherman's Day.

Washington correspondence:

SECRETARY OF State John Sherman works at his desk from 9 o'clock in the morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon; then he goes home and reads novels. He is an omnivorous consumer of novels of all degrees of merit, of all colors of binding—yellow preferred. He says they rest his mind. He considers that at the age of seventy-four he has earned a rest from the heavy literature of finance, of economics, of statesmanship, and Mr. Babcock, his secretary, says that he follows the woes of the latter-day heroine, the truly good stiltings of the modern hero, and the sulphurous ejaculations of the fin de siecle villain with a really remarkable interest, even if he does smile a good deal through his spectacles over what he reads. But all this happens after 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when Mr. Sherman is Mr. Sherman, and not the Secretary of State, and it is with his manner of putting in his time as Secretary of State that this article is concerned.

When Mr. Sherman became the Secretary of the Treasury a matter of twenty odd years ago he was confronted by one of the most herculean tasks that ever loomed up before an American statesman—the resumption of specie payments—and Mr. Sherman worked away at that job, and accomplished it, from 9 o'clock in the morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon—no more, no less.

"I first became connected with Mr. Sherman at that time," said Mr. Babcock, his secretary, "and I never knew him to work longer than the office hours of his clerks. Mr. Folger permitted the secretaryship of the treasury to kill him; probably Mr. Manning did also. Neither of these gentlemen was generous to himself. A whole generation of political experience taught Mr. Sherman that lesson before he assumed the reins of the treasury, and, accomplishing more work in that capacity than did Hamilton, he emerged from the ordeal with his health and strength. The secret of it? He trusted his assistant secretaries; he allowed his subordinates to do the work they were appointed to do. He never permitted a paper to lie on his desk for ten minutes, and made disposition of his affairs as they came up. His desk was clean down to the blotting pad when he put on his hat and quit his office at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The Secretaries of the Treasury who allowed the position to give them nervous prostration attempted to do the whole thing themselves; and no secretary of any government department can do that and live through his term.

"As was his rule, when Secretary of the Treasury, so is Mr. Sherman's rule as Secretary of State. When he came here he found, as he expected he would, that the State Department is filled with men who have been here a long time, and who have every detail of the department's routine at their fingers' ends. Mr. Sherman perfectly appreciates the fact that these men know more about the practical workings of their respective branches of the department than he himself could hope to acquire in a period of service here twice as long as that for which he was appointed, and he is a strong believer in the value of routine. So he lets them go ahead, keeping an eye on their work, but in no wise interfering with it without good occasion. And I guess this is the reason that he has all the hair he had when he was twenty years old, that he is as straight as a string at seventy-four, and that his eyes are just as good to-day as they ever were."

For instance, to elaborate a little on Mr. Babcock's talk, the country in general probably fancies that all the sounding diplomatic documents that are occasionally published in the newspapers are written by the hand of the Secretary of State himself; that he sits down under a gas lamp and gnaws his finger nails and tousles up his hair in doing it, like any youthful member of a school of journalism preparing an essay thickly sown with "we's." For any Secretary of State to do this, or anything like it, no matter what the degree of his volubility, would be a sheer impossibility. Tens of thousands of words of this sort of correspondence are sent broadcast throughout the world from the American Department of State every day, always over the signature of the Secretary of State; but the Secretary of State himself no more revises it and shapes it up than does the editor of a newspaper write the police court news that appears in his paper. The momentous documents, those bearing upon great international questions, the Secretary of State does write himself; but all the other diplomatic correspondence, even that relating to affairs of very considerable importance, is gotten up in the diplomatic bureau of the State Department, of which Mr. Cridler is now the hard-working head. All this formally and elaborately courteous correspondence, with its "renewed assurances of profound, distinguished consideration," and so on, of course, pass over the Secretary of State's desk, and is subject to his revision before he signs it; but it is very rare that he finds it necessary to make any changes in it, so carefully and thoroughly is this work done.

Whenever any document reaches Mr. Sherman's desk that does not absolutely require his personal attention, he sends immediately for the official to whose branch of the department the document properly belongs, and turns it over to him with a few succinct instructions. He does not lay it aside for future consideration, and thereby accumulate a monumental pile of papers filled with possibilities of grief and labor to come. It is really quite entertaining to see Mr. Sherman cut open an official letter as it reaches him hot from the mail, glance it over and grasp it within the compass of sixty seconds, and then either send for the proper official or else shoot it out by messenger to the place it belongs.

The only occasions upon which Mr. Sherman feels called upon to grow a little expansive are the diplomatic days—Thursday. This is the especial day that he sets aside for the reception of the diplomats, to talk over things with them confidentially, and on this day other visitors have a very slight chance of being received by him. The Secretary of State receives the diplomats in a room adjoining his office, and called the "diplomatic room"—by all odds the most gorgeously furnished governmental chamber in Washington. Running its entire length is a carved ebony table, and it is at the head of this table, seated in a tall revolving chair, that Mr. Sherman receives the diplomats, one by one. They string int othe anteroom for their audience with the Secretary of State all the way from 10 to 1 o'clock, and in receiving them no matter of precedence is observed. The first to arrive is the first to be received. The Secretary of State gives these audiences for a general resume of each diplomat's business, and it is for this reason that he only receives them one at a time. He leans back in his revolving chair, with his spectacles pushed up on his forehead, taking in what each of them has to say, and occasionally jotting down a note on a scratch pad in front of him. Mr. Sherman is not a linguist. The only language he can speak is English. But as there is not now in Washington a single representative of another nation who cannot also speak English, the Secretary of State has no trouble in carrying on these conversations.

SECRETARY OF STATE SHERMAN.

NEW UNITED STATES TREASURER

Ellis H. Roberts, a New York Banker, Recently Appointed.

Ellis H. Roberts of New York, who has just been appointed treasurer of the United States by President McKinley, is the president of the Franklin National Bank of New York. He has long been prominent in national affairs. He was a delegate to the Republican national conventions of 1864, 1868 and 1876. In 1866 he was a member of the New York Legislature and in 1870 he was elected a member of Congress from the Oneida district and was re-elected in 1872. Mr. Blaine, then Speaker of the House, made Mr. Roberts, a new member, a member of the Ways and Means Committee, an unusual honor. In 1889 President Harrison appointed Mr. Roberts assistant United States Treasurer at New York City. In 1893 Mr. Roberts was offered the presidency of the Franklin National Bank, and accepted the place. Mr. Roberts is a widely known traveled man and has written several books, not only on finance but on other subjects; among them may be mentioned "Greece and Beyond," "Planting and Growth of the Empire State" and "Government Revenue," "Especially the American System." He is 70 years old.

ELLIS H. ROBERTS.

John A. Colson, a brother of Congressman David S. Colson, was shot and instantly killed by John Dougan, who ran a saloon at Middlesboro, Ky. Dougan has been arrested.

Isaac Hoffman, one of a firm of wholesale clothiers in San Francisco, was found in his office in a dying condition, with two bullet holes in his head. The police believe it to be a murder.

The Pennsylvania road reports net earnings as $708,767 less than last year.

WORK OF CONGRESS.

THE WEEK'S DOINGS IN SENATE AND HOUSE.

A Comprehensive Digest of the Proceedings in the Legislative Chambers at Washington—Matters that Concern the People.

Lawmakers at Labor.

The Senate had a period of speech making Friday, and as a result little progress was made on the tariff bill. The advance covered about two pages or seven paragraphs, and brought the Senate up to the wool schedule, the first item of which was considered but not completed.

When the Senate laid aside the tariff bill Saturday night it had reached the sugar schedule, which has been the subject of so much interest and conflict. During the day many of the paragraphs of the wood schedule had been agreed to, but that restoring lumber to the dutiable list at $2 per 1,000 feet proved the greatest stumbling block since the debate began. Mr. Bacon (Dem.) of Georgia gave his support to the committee rate, saying it was essential to the lumber industry of the South. He also spoke in favor of a revenue tariff so adjusted as to give equal benefit to all industries. Mr. Bacon and Mr. Vest clashed several times on tariff doctrine, Mr. Vest expressing his regret that a Democratic Senator would aid in restoring to the dutiable list one of the three products—lumber, salt and wool—which the Wilson bill put on the free list. Mr. Clay of Georgia also spoke at length on the tariff bill, criticising the sugar schedule and other features of the bill.

The Senate Monday defeated the motion to put white pine on the free list, and the entire lumber schedule was agreed to as reported. In the House the Senate bill to amend the act to authorize the construction of a steel bridge across the St. Louis river was passed. A Senate bill to authorize the construction of a bridge across Pearl river, Mississippi, was passed. The House adjourned until Thursday.

By the decisive vote of 42 to 19 the Senate Tuesday adopted an amendment to the tariff bill placing raw cotton, the great product of the South, on the dutiable list at 20 per cent. ad valorem. It is the first time in the history of tariff legislation that a duty on cotton has been incorporated in a bill. The amendment was proposed by Mr. Bacon (Dem.) of Georgi. He said the omission of this article from the dutiable list was a violation of the principle of the Democratic platform that tariff taxation should be so imposed as to discriminate against no section. The tariff as a whole fell like a dead weight on the producer of cotton, raising the prices of all articles essential to his use and yet on his article of production, raw cotton, he was "left in the lurch." Several other items were discussed, but nothing further was settled.

The Senate had a period of tariff speeches Wednesday, and as a result little progress was made on the bill. Mr. Rawlins of Utah and Mr. Mills of Texas discussed the Democratic attitude on the tariff from their respective standpoints. Later in the day Mr. Cannon of Utah proposed an amendment placing an export bounty on agricultural products. He spoke for two hours on the need of giving the farmer a share of the benefits of the tariff. Mr. Butler of North Carolina also spoke in favor of giving the farmer equal benefits with other classes under the bill. Only half a page of the bill, covering four brief and comparatively unimportant paragrapns, were disposed of during the day.

The long-deferred debate on the sugar schedule of the tariff bill came on Thursday, after the Senate had disposed of the cereals in the agricultural schedule. Nothing definite was accomplished. James T. Lloyd, who was recently elected to succeed the late Representative Giles, of the First Missouri District, took the oath at the opening of the House. Mr. Hitt asked unanimous consent for the consideration of a joint resolution for the payment of the salaries of certain consuls general and consuls, the names of whose posts were changed in the last consular and diplomatic bill. The resolution was passed. Mr. Payne then moved an adjournment, which was resisted by the minority. The rising vote resulted in a tie—87 to 87. Speaker Reed saved the motion by voting aye, and the House adjourned until Monday.

CURRENT COMMENT

The next time Broker Chapman will try Mr. Havemeyer's receipt for defying Senatorial interrogation points.—Washington Post.

Mr. Bailey's aspersive remarks about full dress are somehow recalled by the Logan-McCook embroglio.—Indianapolis News.

An earthquake shock has shaken Greece. All sorts of powers seem to be against the little kingdom.—Baltimore American.

It is to be hoped that Senator Tillman won't snap the tines off his pitchfork by a jab on the back of the sugar octopus.—New York Press.

The latest society item is to the effect that Broker Chapman is passing a few weeks as the guest of the nation, in jail.—Providence News.

Weyler should obtain from the Sultan his recipe for securing the aid of the powers. He may want it soon.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Spain is buying cannon from Krupp. The explosions of the big guns in the United States Senate evidently worry her.—Kansas City Journal.

As to talking being cheap, let us hope that the Senate will not make it too expensive for the United States.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Kentucky views with scorn the colonels that are being made to order in South Carolina and Illinois. In Kentucky colonels are born and not made.—Chicago Record.

So the weather bureau is going to undertake to forecast the weather twelve hours earlier than usual. That is certainly a case of hunting for trouble.—Baltimore News.

"Is this a circus?" asked Mr. Hoar in the Senate. In getting through with its program and folding its tents it is safe to say that the Senate is not a circus.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"Cut it short" is the unanimous advice of the country to the Senate, now that it has begun to debate the tariff bill.—Indianapolis Journal.

It is not enough to know that Mr. Havemeyer whistled in low notes through one day of his trial. What did he whistle? Something sad or something contumacious?—Boston Journal.

Technically, Havemeyer is not guilty of contempt. However, that gives no clew to his real opinion of the United States Senate.—Chicago Post.

Mr. Havemeyer has not gone so far as to declare that the result of his trial ought to be a lesson to the Senate to curb its curiosity.—Washington Star.

RECORD OF THE WEEK

INDIANA INCIDENTS TERSELY TOLD.

Important Ruling Affecting Waste of Gas—Loss to State Has Reached Millions—Great Eastern Fields Ruined by Profligate Waste of the Fluid.

No More Flambeaus in Indiana.

The Supreme Court ruling, which has just been handed down by Judge McCabe, establishing the constitutionality of the anti-waste gas laws of Indiana, 1891 enactment, and in this instance, especially, in regard to the flambeau, forever wipes out the flaming torch, which, since the first discovery of natural gas in this nation, has sucked life from the great and small gas fields. This ruling, had it come years ago, would have saved gas fields which are to-day in the list of the past. In 1891, when the Indiana Legislature enacted laws against the waste of gas, and especially against the flambeau, there was an open revolt, and the owners openly defied the law. When State Gas Inspector Leach was appointed he took the stand that was needed. He served warning, and a few days later caused the arrest of Andrew J. Townsend of Blackford County. Townsend was found guilty and fined in the justice courts. He appealed to the Circuit Court and was again found guilty. Then the case was appealed for a ruling on the constitutionality of a law which would not permit a man to burn his own gas on his own premises, after his own idea. The decision of Judge McCabe is complete and concise. He holds that the right of the owner of a gas well to draw from a common reservoir beneath the ground is analogous to his right to take wild animals or fish on his own land, and he may be restrained by law from needlessly and wastefully destroying that part of the common stock which is drawn to the surface through his well. State Geologist Jordon, who occupied the office prior to Mr. Leach's appointment, makes the statement that the waste of gas during his first four years in Indiana amounted to $20,000,000. Almost all of this he attributed to the flambeau. If this was the case, the flambeau waste for the entire ten years in Indiana would be not less than $50,000,000, while the total for the nation during all of the years since 1824 would foot up not less than $200,000,000. Had it not been for the flambeau the great fields of Pennsylvania and Ohio would yet be producing, and Pittsburg and Pennsylvania and Ohio cities and towns would not to-day be burning coal for domestic as well as manufacturing purposes. The statement has often been made that nineteen-twentieths of the gas taken from the ground has been wasted, and close analysis shows that it is not far from correct. Government figures for the last fifteen years place the value of natural gas consumed at about $300,000,000. The statement that nineteen-twentieths has been wasted would place the waste alone at billions of dollars.

All Over the State.

The Marion Pressed Brick Company has closed its plant, throwing 100 men out of employment, rather than cut wages.

John Yountz of LaGrange, while driving home, collided with a runaway team and was thrown heavily against a fence and killed. Yountz was a prominent pioneer.

Joseph Hallanan, a Logansport physician, drove to the office of M. Mahoney, a lawyer, and remonstrated with the attorney, who appears for Mrs. Hallanan in a suit for divorce. Mahoney seized a buggy whip and lashed the doctor.

Charles Pinkerson of La Porte, charged with killing his nephew, attempted suicide. He cut his throat with the shank from his shoe, and would have bled to death but for the alarm given by a fellow prisoner. His condition is precarious.

H. E. Obersten, a preacher of the Christian denomination, was declared insane at Indianapolis. Until recently he was in charge of a church at Kewanna. The church could not pay a living salary and he and his wife were found trying to make a living out of a little candy store. His poverty induced his mental disease.

Since the letter of President McKinley to Gov. Mount, calling attention to the neglected grave of the mother of Abraham Lincoln, was received the State executive has received a number of letters from prominent Grand Army men expressing a desire to assist in making the site of the grave attractive, and there are indications that a popular subscription will result unless action is taken at once. Z. A. Smith, recorder for the Indiana commandery of the Loyal Legion, has written to the Governor that the legion will gladly assume the responsibility of caring for the grave. Gov. Mount thinks it would be best for the State officials, in connection with the Spencer County officials, to make the changes necessary to preserve the burial site in good condition.

Mrs. Henrietta Wilkie of Madison County was admitted to the Circuit and Superior bars. Her admittance was protested and contested by Attorney John Beeler of Anderson, who cited several sections wherein there seemed to be discrimination against women entering the practice of law. The principal one, however, placed it upon the ground that a member of the bar is required to be an enfranchised citizen in good standing. Mrs. Wilkie was allowed to argue her own case, and her plea was so eloquent and convincing that the court at once admitted her to practice. This is the first time this question has ever been raised in this State, and the precedent is a most important one. Mrs. Wilkie is a woman of middle age and is very comely. She is well read in law, an eloquent speaker and possesses a practical knowledge of matters and affairs which is seldom found in women. She has been a notary public for several years. Her husband is a well-known attorney. They will practice together.

At Wanatah, a runaway team dashed into a crowd of school children. Freddie Greiger, aged 10 years, was fatally hurt. Half a dozen others were also injured.

At Indianapolis, Jesse Way has been sentenced to seven years in the State prison for counterfeiting. He is 80 years old and has spent forty-five years in prison.

John Rufert, a wealthy bachelor living near Metz, was bound, gagged and tied to his bed and robbed of $157. Rufert will not trust the banks with his money, but hides it about his farm.

James Butts, a farmer living east of Terre Haute, was struck by a street car, but mutilation of the body leads to belief that he may have been murdered and his body placed across the track.

The Indiana weekly crop bulletin says: "Frost formed several nights and did some damage to corn, beans, tomatoes and potatoes. Warmer wather and more sunshine are needed for the corn. In many fields it is being replanted. Wheat still improves; it is heading well in all sections, but in some fields the fly is doing injury. Rye is heading out well on tall straw. Oats are coming on slowly, but well. Potatoes are in good condition. Meadows promise a very heavy hay crop."

"Nothing else like it."

The most refreshing and pleasant Soap for the skin.

It lasts twice as long as others.

A trial will convince you of its great merit. Will please the most fastidious.

CHARLES F. MILLER,

Mfr. of FRENCH MILLED TOILET SOAPS AND PERFUMERY.

Lancaster, Penn.

ESTABLISHED, 1849.

WHY NOT BUY THE BEST?

A GOOD SADDLE

is the most noticeable and taking point on a Bicycle.

When buying insist on getting a

BURNS SPRING SADDLE.

Take no other. Get a Burns and GET THE BEST.

Manufactured by the

GRAND RAPIDS CYCLE SEAT MFG. CO.,

Grand Rapids, Mich.

Patton's House Painting Model

shows just how your house would look if painted any one of 20,000 artistic combinations of colors. Designed and made only for the manufacturers of PATTON'S PURE LIQUID PAINTS. Sent postpaid upon receipt of 10 cts. "How to Increase the Size of Your House With Paint" mailed free.

JAS. E. PATTON CO.,

Dep't X. MILWAUKEE, WIS., U.S.A

ECLIPSE Poultry Brooder.

BEST MADE.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR, which explains why you should use a BROODER, and why you should purchase the

ECLIPSE BROODER.

Also gives testimonials from MANY WHO HAVE USED THEM.

CAPACITY, 100 CHICKS.

Size: 52 inches long, 32 inches wide, 26 inches high. Weight, 135 lbs.

Price: Single one, $9.00.

Two or more, $8.50 apiece.

If not as represented, money refunded.

JOHN D. WINGERT,

MANUFACTURER,

FAYETTEVILLE, - PENN.

NIAGARA BICYCLES

CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION.

CORRESPONDENCE INVITED.

Reliable Agents Wanted.

BUFFALO WHEEL CO.,

BUFFALO, N. Y.

OUR HOMEMAKER.

In the old, wide-open doorway,
With the elm boughs overhead,
The house all garnished behind her,
And the plentiful table spread,

She has stood to welcome our coming,
Watching our upward climb,
In the sweet June weather that brought us,
Oh! many and many a time.

Again is her doorway opened,
And the house is garnished and sweet,
But she silently waits for our coming,
And we enter with silent feet.

The smile on her face is quiet,
And a lily is on her breast;
Her hands are folded together,
And the word on her lips is "rest."

But we cannot think of her idle;
She must be a homemaker still;
God giveth that work to the angels
Who fittest the task fulfill.

And somewhere yet in the hilltops
Of the country that hath no pain,
She will watch in her beautiful doorway
To bid us a welcome again.
—Adeline D. T. Whitney, in the Housewife.

A WOMAN IN THE SADDLE.

"Oh, yes, there was good sport and plenty of it in Australia in the early sixties, and hard lines for impecunious younger sons like myself, shipped off with neither trade, craft nor commercial knowledge. I think I was born with a deep-rooted aversion to anything that resembled work. I had health and strength and a light heart, and I rubbed along for years, but never did myself any good, until one day I took a girl to a wooden church and married her. She is my wife today, thank God. On that auspicious morning I touched the very mint itself. I was poorer than a pauper, for I had nothing, neither had she or her father—though he put on all the side of a millionaire dowering his daughter and son-in-law with a fortune

"'Jim Layman,' he said, 'you've married untold wealth to-day; you've got my Carrie away from me, the smartest girl of my bunch. She's worth her weight in gold ingots; she'll pull you through; she'll make a man of you, she will.'

"He was right. Carrie's father was right. She wasn't 20, but she had the head for business of a Chancellor of the Exchequer, and a perseverance and self-confidence that were just amazing. In less than no time we had a place that developed into a general store, a good trade and money in hand. I could lean again the door-post, smoke a cigar and feel big, while Carrie bossed the lot. We were up Doctor's Creek. I left the digging severely alone, preferring to rely on Carrie, who sold yellow soap and shirts at a startling profit. There never was such an ambitious girl as Carrie. She was Australian born; and it made me laugh to hear the way she talked about the visit we were to pay to Europe, and what a dash we would cut in London when we had secured our pile.

"One day a roguish sort of old fellow turned up at our saloon asking for accommodation. He had with him a thoroughbred chestnut horse, hooded and muzzled, and a ragged black boy as groom and jockey. The horse was as fine a type of the highest class racer as ever stepped on Newmarket Heath, and how old Charlie Gover got hold of him is a mystery to this day. Nightjar—that was his name—was the most savage brute I ever saw or heard of. He would strike with his forelegs, like a puglist and he could manipulate his heels with such precision that he was credited with the feat of kicking the eye of a gnat. He would rush at any stranger open-mouthed, like a wild beast; he was a dangerous man eater, and Gover owned to his having killed at least two men. You can imagine no one cared to go near him, let alone attempt to mount him. With the lad only he was as quiet as a sheep and as playful as a kitten. He would snuffled in the boy's woolly hair, rub his nose up and down his back, and purr like a cat. Martin Thomas was Nightjar's one absolute and only master, and a clever, painstaking rider at eight stone.

"Gover's idea in visiting Doctor's Creek was to utilize our spacious turf flats as a training ground, with a view to capturing the Tookooboola Cup—two miles, value £2,000, the greatest racing event in our district.

"Nightjar was in at 8 stone 9 pounds, and he became the idol of Doctor's Creek. We had some bits of blood among us that had the gift of going, and they were jumped in one after the other, to persuade the mighty Nightjar to gallop his best over our two miles. With Martin Thomas in the saddle he was docile and always did his best, but would allow no other man or woman to touch him at the peril of their lives. Carrie, of course, managed everything. The boys got up a huge sweep, first prize £1,000, and it did not surprise me in the least that Carrie drew Nightjar.

"As the eventful day approached, the perturbation became painful in its intensity, and the dwellers on Doctor's Creek decided to suspend their operations entirely over the race week. It was a four days' journey to Tookooboola. Every hale and hearty man turned out.

"Our own personal venture was a desperate one. We stood to win £1,000 in betting, and another £1,000 on the sweep. I had £120 in my pocket, representing all our ready—behind us was the store and its stock, balanced against liabilities to the merchants.

"What guileless children of the desert we were! No sooner had our party arrived at the scene of action, than some of our 'boys' began bluffing about the bars, boasting that Doctor's Creek had the winner up its sleeve. There were many astute racing men about, interested in one or other of the twenty-eight probable starters. They must have carefully ascertained that Nightjar was a one-boy horse, and that by extinguishing Martin Thomas they also extinguished any danger threatened by his mount.

"It was only two hours before the race that Martin Thomas developed alarming symptoms of colic or lead poisoning. To our agonized inquiries of the indispensable jockey, we learned that he had been prevailed upon to take 'only one little glass of champagne with some swell gents up the town.'

"The boy grew rapidly worse, and was laid on a bed in a state of helpless collapse. Gover and ourselves occupied one shanty, with Nightjar in a shed at the rear.

"You can imagine our consternation as we three looked at each other and realized the situation. Old Gover broke down, and shed pitiable tears of rage and despair. At my feeble suggestion of fetching a doctor, Carrie flew to the door and bolted it. 'Does any one know,' she panted, 'that Martin Thomas is poisoned—is nobbled?'

"Martin Thomas, in the throes of violent retching, assured 'missus he never said nothing to nobody 'bout feeling sick.'

"'Then be hanged to fetching a doctor! This stupid boy won't die. Serve him right if he does! Just like you careless men letting him out of your sight! Now, I'll just show you what a woman can do—you, Charlie Gover, you snivelling old fool, scrape some soot out of that chimney—catch hold of these scissors, Jim, and cut off my hair, leaving it only an inch long over all.'

When I hesitated to shear off the beautiful black hair, she quickly ordered me do what I was told, or she would do it herself. Gover, after gathering the soot, was instructed to heat two iron skewers. One by one her lovely dark tresses yielded to the scissors, and the fall of each to the floor was a stab to my very heart. A few turns of the hot skewers in her clever fingers twisted the short ends of hair into scrubby little curls.

"Now, you men, strip Martin Thomas of all his clothes, put the things in that corner and clear out while I undress.'

"She plastered her bonny face and neck and arms with a decoction of soot and grease. With infinite courage she even got into Martin Thomas's shirt. The cap and jacket, boots and breeches fitted to a nicety, and when she strutted about with them all on, slapping her boot with her whip, the wonderful impersonation of the African jockey made us gasp with astonishment.

"'I've ridden horses cross-legged many a time,' she said. 'I can scale the weight, and I am going to give the boys a run for their money, that's what I am going to do.'

"'Talk him, Missy Layman, talk de horse all de time,' was Martin Thomas's faint adjuration, as we locked him in to take his chance of recovery until our return.

"'You keep out of sight, don't let him see you,' hissed Carrie as we approached the stable,

"He whinnied a welcome as she opened the door, bridle in hand, and as he lowered his corky head to snuffle at her, she slipped it on him, all the while chattering in splendid imitation of the boy's guttural tones. He appeared slightly perplexed and inclined to resent advances, but in a second his hood and muzzle were on, and she led him out, snorting suspiciously, and stamping his wicked feet.

Gover soon adjusted the saddle.

"'Throw me up, Jim, and don't stand staring like a booby.'

"'My dear life,' I said, 'don't risk your pretty self for winning a stake. What do I care if our money is lost? And, for heaven's sake, if you will have your own way, keep those spurs off him.'

"Well, to our surprise, Nightjar perambulated the paddock quietly enough. She sat him saucily while he was walking, showing her white teeth, slanging the other jockeys, and grinning for all the world like Martin Thomas. Nightjar's splendid appearance made him many friends, and he even touched 10 to 1.

"In the preliminary canter the trouble began. Gover slipped the hood and muzzle at the paddock gate, and away went Nightjar in front of the grand stand, bounding and bucking, and kicking flashes. The missus's horsemanship was not promising. There was a grand panorama of the open country between the saddle and the rider, and her arms were mostly round Nightjar's neck. Never was there such a humiliating spectacle. Shrieks of laughter and biting sarcasm filled the air.

"'Call that drunken Kafir a jockey!'

"'Get inside, Snowball, you'll be safer.

"'Let go of his neck, you'll choke him!' and so on and so on.

"'Here! Any price Nightjar—who wants to back Nightjar?' yelled the delighted bookmakers.

"In this storm of ridicule, I tasted the bitterness of every heartrending emotion. Suddenly, however, Nightjar took it into his head to cease hostilities, and canter away to join his horses at the post, his jockey riding very loose, and still the butt of the merry multitude.

"We had a good view of the start. They went away at the first time of asking, all but one, Nightjar, who remained on his hind legs, the missus hanging on to him with outstretched arms, as if she were climbing a thick tree.

"More ridicule, more laceration of my tortured feelings.

"A bookmaker from Melbourne yelled out, 'A hundred to 1 against Nightjar!'

"Three times the horse reared, then plunged forward after the field, Carrie well on his neck as if whispering to him, but pulling himself together he began to stride and extend himself as he would do when sweeping over the flats at home. 'My word,' I thought; "if he can keep that pace he'll trouble the winner yet.'

"'A hundred to 1 on Nightjar!" still roared the bookmaker.

"It sounded like a mocking challenge to my girl's invincible pluck. It maddened me. In a moment of reckless passion I hauled out £100 of our slender boodle, and shouted him louder:

"'Here, I'll take you to 100!'

"'Right, sir—thank you, sir; £10,000 to £100 Nightjar; and the number of the ticket is 4,457. Any one else want to back Nightjar? 100 to 1 Nightjar—100 to 1 bar 27."

"Round they thundered for the first time. The sun blazed with furnace heat, the hoofs rattled on the hard ground, the dust flew, Reddesdale, the favorite, making the running, and leading the field at a fearful cracker, Nightjar had caught the whipper-in and passed him; then he began to steal through the field, his splendid action telling its tale. One by one they dropped away from the game chestnut, who was moving like a machine, and increasing his speed at every stride. And then, before you could hardly realize what was happening, there were only two in it, and the astonished crowd reeled and swayed in a delirium of excitement.

"The voices of the bookies were silenced, and the rider of Reddesdale was hard at work slashing and spurring, for Nightjar was at his girths, shooting his head through his bridle and spurting with every spiteful nerve in him. Like one mighty shout the voices went up, 'The favorite's beat—the favorite's beat—Nightjar wins!—Nightjar wins!'

"I was hanging on the rails as they flew past the judge, and above all the rattle and racket I heard her clear voice conjuring him in the notes of the negro, 'Nightjar, now then, lay into it! Nightjar, bully boy, for God's sake faster yet. For Jim's sake squeeze home, Nightjar! Now—now—now! Won—won, by gum!

"Yes, she pulled it off right on the post by a short head, and passed the scales all right.

"We got her safely back to the shanty, where for a long time I held her in my arms and kissed all the black off her face. It was a grand day for us—a real jump into a gold mine. Oh, yes, Martin Thomas soon got well, and no one has ever suspected he had a substitute at the great race for the Tookooboola Cup."—London Truth.

WHERE NATIVES HUNT HEADS.

The Dangerous Life of a Trader in the Solomon Islands.

Captain Prat is a well known trader in the Solomon islands, where he has lived for the last fourteen years. He says that he does not think that the copra trade is increasing so much as might be expected. The present output of the islands he estimates at between 1800 and 2000 tons. Ivory nuts, black-edge pearl shell and tortoise shell are also obtained from the natives. Captain Prat's headquarters are at Rubiana island, one of the largest of the group. The climate is healthy for Europeans so long as one remains on the sea. On the land it is apt to be feverish. Captain Prat always resides on board his schooner, and other traders live on their boats. It is more healthy and more safe. The natives, he says, are not to be trusted. Their favorite pastime is "head hunting." They form large parties and go in canoes to the other islands. If they come across a few isolated natives they interview them and return with their heads as mementoes of the visit. The head of a white man is specially welcome on such occasions. Captain Prat says that he knows the natives well and has many friends among them. But he declines to trust them. He seldom leaves the schooner, living on board from one year's end to the other. He finds it more convenient for trading purposes. Trade is done by barter. He gives away knives and axes and tobacco. The latter, he says, is the real currency of the island.

Captain Prat trades for about 150 miles east and west, and from 70 to 100 miles north and south of Rubiana. The islands which he visits are the western portion, and in these the natives are more savage. In the eastern islands many of the traders live on shore in apparent security. The Germans have control of about half the group; but there does not appear to be any conflict between the English and German traders. Care is taken on both sides not to encroach upon each other's territory. Captain Prat points out politics on the island are unknown. So far as he can observe the natives are not becoming much more civilized. They are almost the same, he says, as they were when he first went among them. They are becoming quieter, perhaps, and are getting a little more used to trade. By becoming quieter he means that there is not quite so much "head-hunting" now as there used to be. The community, too, is diminishing in numbers. He does not attribute this to the use of gin, but rather to disease. The natives take very little care of themselves; they wear no clothes and, being exposed to the rain, soon catch cold. Large numbers of them die from consumption. Many others suffer from rheumatism. They live half their time in salt water, attending to their canoes, and soon contract the disease. There have been no murders of Europeans that Captain Prat has heard of—at least not lately. The visits of the war ships to the islands have a very salutary effect upon the natives; but it is very difficult to catch the real culprits.—Sydney (New South Wales) Herald.

Hard to Please.

The son of a well-known Providence lawyer came home at the end of his first term in college exulting in the fact that he stood next to the head of his class. His father was less easily satisfied. "What! Next to the head?" he exclaimed. "What do you mean, sir? I'd like to know what you think I send you to college for! Next to the head, indeed! Humph! I'd like to know why you aren't at the head, where you ought to be!" The young man was naturally crestfallen, but upon his return to college he went about his work with such ambition that the end of the term found him in the coveted place. He went home very proud indeed. It was great news. The lawyer contemplated his son for a few moments in silence; then, with a shrug of his shoulders, he remarked: "At the head of the class, eh? Humph! That's a fine commentary on Brown University!" —Youth's Companion.

Painted Black by Lightning.

John Beasley, a pedler, was killed by lightning at "The Lick," on Salt River, twenty-two miles south of Louisville, Ky., one day recently. At about five o'clock Beasley was passing a small stream when there was a vivid flash of lightning which was noticed by all the people in the neighborhood. A few minutes later he was found lying on the ground dead. The body was still warm, but one side of it was scorched black from the lightning and it was horribly swollen. Beasley was twenty-eight years of age, had been a pedler for years, and was widely known in the section in which he met his death, having been accustomed to visit it regularly.

TIRE PUNCTURES AND THE BEST WAY TO REPAIR THEM.

—New York World.

MONUMENT TO CABOT.

People of Bristol, England, to Honor the Navigator's Memory.

John Cabot, the discoverer, is to have a monument erected to his honor and memory by the people of the city of Bristol in England. This year is the 400th anniversary of the discovery of the North American continent, and Bristol considers herself especially concerned, because it was from that famous port that Cabot and his colleagues sailed in the Matthew on her most successful voyage, on which she sighted the North American continent. The site for the monument is the summit of Brandor in the heart of the city. The hill is twenty-five acres in extent and has been donated by the town council to the purpose. The monument will take the form of an ornate tower, which has been designed by W. V. Gough, the eminent English architect. The movement is under the guidance and patronage of the Marquis of Dufferin. The Cabot monument committee, before appealing for funds, was already in possession of $10,000, which is one-fifth of the amount necessary for the building of the memorial tower.

MONUMENT TO JOHN CABOT.

SELF-OPERATING PUMP.

Young Indiana Farmer Has One on Exhibition.

Oscar Jones, a young farmer, living one mile northeast of Hagerstown, Ind., has now on exhibition a pump with which he expects to save people, who get water by pumping, many a weary hour. It is in fact a self-operating pump. The accompanying draft presents it as it may now be seen at the smithy of the carriage works in Hagerstown, where, for some time, it has been building and now stands.

The drive wheel (A) is eight feet in diameter and rests on ball bearings. Its rim is a metal trough six inches wide and four inches deep, with metal strips (indicated by dotted lines a, a, etc.), so placed as to form pockets or brackets every four inches. On this same axle are two more wheels (B and E). B is an eighteen-inch cog wheel which, by a cog chain, is conected with a five-inch wheel (C) on the upper axle. On the same axle with C and propelled by it is the chain wheel (D), which is just the same as is seen on all chain pumps for the purpose of drawing the rubber buckets or sucks.

SELF-OPERATING CHAIN PUMP.

The pumpstock (c) is just an ordinary two-inch tube, which reaches to the top of the drive wheel, and empties the water into its bucketed rim. The weight of the water in the rim turns the drive wheel, and so puts the machine in motion, and as it reaches the bottom empties into a trough placed for that purpose. This trough (F) is sectioned, four-fifths being on one side of the division and one-fifth on the other. The water caught in the smaller section is for use, that in the larger section, or four-fifths of the water pumped, is by a neat device emptied into a chain of buckets which hang on wheel E. Of course, these full of water will cause it to turn with a pour equal to the weight of four-fifths of the water pumped. Each bucket as it reaches the bottom of the well inverts and comes up empty. As wheel E is fast on the axle of the drive wheel this extra weight adds power.

CAUGHT ON THE PILOT.

Thrilling and Remarkable Experience of a Denver Wheelman.

Louis Riethmann, a Denver bicyclist, is daily receiving letters asking him what make wheel he rides. The present unwonted accession to his daily mail comes as the result of a thrilling experience he had while out riding with his friend Louis Philbeck, a visitor from Indianapolis. The two took a spin along beyond Sand Creek in the afternoon, and about 5 o'clock started on the return journey. On nearing the Union Pacific, Denver and Gulf tracks they heard the rumble of an approaching train. Philbeck, who was in the lead, saw that there was not time to safely cross the railroad and stepped off, at the same time giving a warning to his friend. The latter did not fully understand, and throwing all his leg power into action made a dash. The train was coming thirty miles an hour and caught Reithmann just as he was on the center of the track. The engineer saw the inevitable smash coming, but was unable to slow up until he had passed the spot several hundred feet. Then he, the train crew, the passengers and Philbeck began looking under the cars for the mangled remains of Riethmann. None thought to look on the cowcatcher until a wavering cry from that point attracted their attention. There they found the supposed victim, one hand firmly clasping the flagstaff of the engine and the other hanging on to the bicycle. He was in a half-dazed condition from the shock, but close examination showed that neither he nor his wheel was in the least damaged.

HE CAUGHT THE PILOT.

The majority of people display their individuality most in the kind of fool they become.

"THE TOMBS."

For Over Half a Century Connected with the Crimes of New York.

The most famous prison in the United States is the Tombs, of New York which is now being demolished to make room for a more commodious structure. The building, which was constructed of gray granite, was erected between 1833 and 1828, being completed in the latter year. It has housed during its less than three score years of existence half a million prisoners; some famous or infamous in the history of crime, other unfortunates who were glad to be confined there during the winter months, regaining their freedom in the spring.

Before the passage of the law fixing electrocution as the official means of ending forfeited lives in the State, there were many executions in the Tombs. All told, there were sixty hangings. Among the inmates of the Tombs who suffered the extreme penalty of the law within its walls was Capt. Nathaniel Gordon, the slave trader. Gordon sailed from Havana in the summer of 1860 in the ship Erie, bound for the west coast of Africa, and was captured on his return voyage with nearly 900 negroes packed in the hold, by the United States cruiser Monongahela, in which he and his mates were brought prisoners to New York, and after a short detention in the Eldridge street jail, were transferred for safekeeping until trial to the Tombs.

After two trials he was convicted and sentenced to be hanged in the court yard of the prison on February 21 1862. On the day before the execution he attempted suicide by poison, but was resuscitated. At the last moment he broke down utterly, and it was only by the administration of stimulants that he was enabled to walk, supported to the scaffold, where he was hanged surrounded by a strong guard of United States marines.

THE TOMBS, NEW YORK'S FAMOUS PRISON.

At one time three men were hanged in the Tombs at the same time and at another, four. Suicide has also been frequent among men condemned to death; but of recent years, owing to the isolation of such prisoners and the strict watch kept on them, few attempts at self-destruction had been successful.

Cigarettes Known to the Aztecs.

"Civilization should hold the aboriginal Aztec accountable for the baleful influences of the cigarette," declared Ramon G. Garcia of the City of Mexico, who is stopping at the St. Nicholas. "It is wrong to attribute the origin of the cigarette to the Spaniards I have given the matter a good deal of investigation, and I have established beyond doubt that the Spaniards first got a whiff of the cigarette when they invaded Mexico under Cortez. The Aztecs then used tobacco in no other form, and the Spaniards learned from them how to roll the little package into smokable shape. They introduced the cigarette into Europe, and by that route it found its way into America, though it was nearly 200 years reaching here. The Aztecs were also using cocoa and its product, chocolate, when Cortez conquered them, and it was not long till the whole of Europe was eating the various preparations of this bean. When the Spaniards first tasted they named it thoebromus, from the Greek words meaning 'food of the gods.'"—St. Louis Republic.

The Use of Matches.

An average of eight matches for each man, woman and child is used in the United States daily.

OLD RAILS MADE AS NEW.

Cheap Method of Renewing Worn Out Railroad Tracks.

A new method of treating worn out steel rails, and one that has received the indorsement of a practical steel rail maker, Capt. R. W. Hunt, is described by him in Cassier's Magazine. This is the invention of Mr. E. W. McKenna, for years identified with large railway systems. His idea was to heat the worn rail in its entirety and cause as little reduction of weight of section as possible, and restore it to perfect section and make it suitable for its original main track use. Experiments with the renewed rails in actual service proved eminently satisfactory.

SECTIONS OF OLD AND REROLLED RAILS.

In the accompanying illustration are shown three sections of worn rails. The sections given show the different ways in which steel rails wear, together with flowage of metal—i. e., excessive curve wear, ordinary curve wear, and tread wear. The fact that these different forms of worn rails, varying in weight from 54.6 pounds to 55.6 pounds per yard, were all renewed to the standard C, weighing 53 pounds per yard, demonstrates that the maximum reduction due to the process need not exceed 2.5 pounds per yard and the resultant product of any lot of worn rails will be within five pounds of the original weight.

In sections of rails shown in the second illustration the original rail was of English make, and was in the track twenty-nine years. In the rerolling process the rails were altered to admit the use of modern joint material.

In operating the process the rails were charged into a furnace that was sufficiently long to accommodate the whole rail. After being brought up to a bright red heat the rails were drawn from the end of the furnace opposite to that used for charging, and carried by a steam-driven carriage to the back side of a three-high set of rolls, and entered between the top and middle rolls. After passing through they fell upon driven rollers, and by them entered into the final or finishing pass between the middle and bottom rolls. They were then carried to the hot saws in the usual way, and after being cut to the desired lengths, were put on the hot bed to cool, subsequently being cold-straightened and drilled for splice bolts. The loss in heating and rolling ran from .05 per cent. to .08 per cent. With one heating furnace the product was over 100 tons per turn. A plant is being built at Joliet, Ill., to renew rails by this process.

A REROLLED ENGLISH RAIL.

AGED ILLINOIS PREACHER.

Father Rupp, of Clarke County, Was Born Ninety-two Years Ago.

Rev. Father Henry Rupp, of Clarke County, Illinois, is the oldest active clergyman in the State, if not in America. At 92 years of age he is still preaching the glad tidings. He walks into town three or four times a week. He has a kind or a pleasant word to say to everybody, and he is beloved by all who know him. Father Rupp was born ninety-two years ago in Lebanon County, Pennsylvania. In 1832 he immigrated to Wayne County, Ohio, and in 1847 he came to Illinois. At this time this part of the country was very thinly settled, and as the people here spoke English, of which Father Rupp was ignorant, he was compelled to set to work to master it in order that he might continue his ministerial duties. His circuit covered many miles, and the roads were new and rough. Many times he trudged over miles of country on foot in order not to disappoint his congregations. For more than sixty years he has been a preacher and has brought a great multitude of people into the Christian religion. On a recent Sunday he preached in Martinsville, and the church was filled with his old-time friends and admirers. Father Rupp is still hale and hearty. His favorite pastime is fishing, and when he has earned a vacation he spends it in that recreation.

REV. HENRY RUPP.

The world demands that a poor wife be loved by her husband as much as a good one.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY..... June 17, 1897

Editorial Meeting Third Letter.

TO THE COURIER.

WEST BADEN, IND., June 13, 1897:—As we could not get home over Sunday, owing to lack of trains that day, it was decided to see the more famous mineral springs of West Baden and French Links. Both are on the branch of the Monon road running from the main line, to the southwest from Orleans. West Baden is about seven miles from Paoli, the railroad going at that point south by a few degrees to the west. The grounds altogether occupy many hundreds of acres, but the resort proper is a lovely semi-circle of wooded slopes facing east, and having a high half circle of wooded hill for a back ground. As one leaves the train, the view is beautiful. Across and beyond a level stretch of low lands. filled with rows of planted maples, many natural trees, with walks in various directions, we see the first grounds, in which is probably the best spring, "No. 5." But immediately in front the grounds rise to the main hotel, to which new annexes have been made till its symmetrical front, covers the whole of the nearest rise of ground. We enter these grounds, if afoot, through one of three entrances. The first entrance is by going up steps between two lions carved in the native limestone; the second, between two large turtles carved in limestone, each bearing a flower urn of cement, with limestone bases; the third, between two soldiers carved in limestone, with their guns at "parade rest." The hotel is several stories high, with three tiers of verandas, the upper one being enclosed in glass for convenience in bad weather. If one approaches this building in the hotel hack, he will be driven past the stone entrances, and going up for several rods under a covered colonnade, will reach the main steps of the rear entrance under cover. It will be impossible to describe this hotel fully. It is a small city in itself, and has at present several hundred guests. At the height of the season, it will have about 800, and one can easily see they are never crowded, for they are everywhere, in small groups of families or acquaintances, and when one thinks he has seen all of them, he will suddenly come upon other groups, he had not been aware of, they being in some nook, or room or portico he had forgotten or overlooked. To the south we go under the long colonnades provided for the hot or the rainy weather, and pass numerous springs, and soon after passing a printing office, theater, and billiard room, we reach the largest mineral spring, "No. 7." Here is a big bottling establishment, where we see car loads of mineral water ready to ship. In one of the rooms here, is a finely equipped gymnasium, where one can pull ropes, climb ladders, swing on rings and poles, or "punch the bag" to his heart's content. Near by is a room in which they serve out the water either hot or cold. And he who tastes it for the first time, finds difficulty in deciding which way tastes the meanest. For the accommodation of drinkers, a cup of salt is standing near all drinking places, for though all this water has salt in it, we were confidentially informed by a drinker, that a little more salt helped to disguise the "d—d rotten egg taste." We tried some with salt, and some without but cannot decide as yet, which we prefer. A little farther south, we come to base ball grounds, with extensive grand stands. Around the ball grounds runs a two-story track ¼ mile. The ground track is for pony riding etc. The elevated track is for bicycles. The entire distance around is covered by a good roof, has wire netting on the outside and the boards of the floor being laid lengthwise, makes easy and smooth running. If hot weather, they get a breeze and shade; in wet weather, they have shelter. New buildings are all the time going up, and on the slopes, up the hills to the rear are springs with pavillions over them, or rustic seats, bridges, walks, etc. About a mile in the rear. is Mt. Airie observatory, which with its tower, is the second highest point in Indiana. Across the railroad to the east, is the village of West Baden, a small, cluster of buildings recently made. The extent and beauty of these grounds, buildings and springs cannot be told. They must be seen. And here as elsewhere over Orange county, big masses of limestone are visible everywhere. especially on the slopes and in the bottom of Lick Creek, that comes along here from the county seat, Paoli.

CLAIMS FOR DAMAGES.

They Must Be Quickly Paid By Spain.

Judge Penfield Will Press for $100,000,000.

Claims estimated in the aggregate to exceed $100,000,000, filed by Americans against Spain on account of personal and property damages, caused by the Cuban War, are to be vigorously pressed without further delay.

The first step was taken yerterday morning when Judge W. L. Penfield of Auburn, Ind., was sworn into office as Solicitor of the department of state, which is the bureau of legal matters of that department. Judge Penfield will at once take up the task of arranging the cases for presentation at Madrid, where the American minister will be instructed to demand for them expeditious consideration.

If a reasonable disposition towards many of these claims is not promptly evinced by the Spanish authorities, a crisis in the relations of the two governments will speedily follow.

None Equal to Dr Hand's Sa says Mrs

Nelsonville; O., Dec. 20, '95—Dr. Hand—Dear Sir:—"I have been using your remedies for my children for over four years, I have used many other medicines but have found none equal to your. Have recommended Dr. Hand's Colic Cure to many others mothers and persuaded them to try it; they all say it proves satisfactory. I am the mother of nine children and am never without a bottle of all of Dr. Hand's Remedies in the house." At Fischler & Son's 1

COURT.

Judge Adair came up yesterday to hear arguments in the Fair cases as to change of venue, etc. It was finally decided that he would be tried in Auburn. This is the proper course in all cases. If a man cannot get justice at home, he cannot elsewhere. It is set for Friday of next week. The forgery case against Perry Fair goes to Whitley county. Those against Trustee Blake go to Steuben, but cannot be tried till some time in their next term, which begins in September. The conspiracy case against McIntosh, Borst, the Fairs and Sawvel comes up on Wednesday of next week in the court here. It will be before Judge Adair. Of course, this case is largely to test whether Mr. McIutosh had any knowledge of the forgeries going on at the court house for the past few years. He was accused off and on by thoughtless people, all through the exciting days of the other trials, till the grand jury thought they were justified in calling him into court. We do not believe that people, on sober second thought, will connect him with those crimes or believe that he had ny knowledge of what was going on. But public outcry was for more victims. Of course if he is guilty we have nothing to say why he should not be punished. But a long and most intimate acquaintance with him forces us to believe he has been guilty of no wrong doing—not even a knowledge of wrong doing by others. Instead of gaining by those criminal transactions he is the loser, having several of those forged orders on his hands. Does anyone believe a man would buy forged orders, if he knew it, when he could just as well buy good ones, good orders on which he was sure of his money and which could not get him into trouble? We have, much out of our usual course, commented thus freely on this case, not only because we sincerely believe him innocent and himself the victim of an unfortunate but purely accidental connection with the troubles, but because one ortwo papers have persistently attacked him for personal reasons alone. If one side has a right to be heard through the public press, surely the other has. If on trial it shall appear that our position is wrong we shall frankly own our mistake.

Monday the case of Kring vs Refner was finished. Kring sued Refner for extra work on the latter's house. Refner brought into court Kring's receipt in full and so got a judgment in his (Refner's) favor.

To-day, Tuesday, Judge Adair and a jury are trying the case between Showalter and Ianson, of Butler, which is a disagreement about a horse.

Meese Reunion.

The Rev. W. L. Meese reunion is progressing. Sermon this evening will be by Rev. Pearce, of Garrett; Wednesday afternoon and evening by Rev. Colvin, of Auburn. In all probability the meeting will continue over next Sunday. They will be pleased to see many of our people attend.

ONLY $25.00 TO SANFRANCISCO,

From Chicago via the North-Western Line (Chicago & North-Western Railway), the famous "California in 3 days" Route, June 29 to July 3, inclusive, on account of the C. E. Convention. Similar rates will be made eastbound. For full information apply to ticket agents of connecting lines or address. D. W. Aldridge, T. P. A., 127 The Arcade. Cleveland, Ohio Or W. B. Kniskern, G P. & T. A., Chicago, Ill. 22-24-25

EXCEPTIONAL LOW RATES TO MINNEAPOLIS

Via the North-Western Line, on account of the convention B. P. O. Elks, July 6. The Chicago & Western R'y is the route of the world-renowed "North-Western Limited," equipped with Compartment and Standard Sleeping Cars, Buffet Smoking and Library Cars, Dining Cars and coaches. For full information apply to ticket agents of connecting lines or address D. W. Aldridge, T. P. A., 127 The Arcade Cleveland, Ohio. Or W. B. Kniskern, G. P. &. T. A., Chicago, Ill.

Spend the Glorious 4th of July on the Wabash.

Low Rate Round-Trip Tickets will be sold between all stations on the Wabash Line, within 200 miles. July 3, 4 and 5, 1897. Particulars can be had of any ticket agent.

WABASH EXCURSIONS.

For the National Convention Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, at SanFrancisco, Cal., July 7 to 12, the Wabash has made a very low rate from all stations and return for this occasion.

For Annual Meeting National Educational Association at Milwaukee, Wis., July 6 to 9, the Wabash will sell tickets to Milwaukee and return at one fare the round trip, plus $2.

The Third International Conference Epworth League, Toronto, Ont., July 15 to 18, the Wabash will sell tickets from all stations to Toronto and return at one fare for the round trip. For full particulars call on any Wabash agent.

BUTLER.

Warm weather and better roads has done much to revive the stagnant condition of business.

Some of our farmers are already trying to make hay.

John Crouse is repairing the Pinchin house on corner of Canal and Green-sts.

J. A. Campbell is making a new barn out of an old one on his residence property.

George Dunn, living on the old Rude farm, on the Hamilton road, died very suddenly last week.

Dan Tomlinson, in a somnambulistic condition, or in some such way, walked rolled, or fell off the roof of a shed connected with the Oberlin saloon, last Saturday. He fell about eight feet, and how he escaped with his life is only explained by the fact that men in a certain condition hardly ever hurt themselves by tumbles or falls.

A Mrs. Haskins who moved here recently from Waterloo, died very suddenly last Saturday morning. Her husband discoved her in a dying condition some time in the night, she died before help could be summoned.

A large quantity of wool is being marketed here, prices ranging about twice what they were last year.

Mrs. Joseph Brown living two miles east of town is dangerously ill. She is over 80 years of age, and her recovery is doubtful.

Mother Hollinger, on the old homestead is also rapidly approaching her end. Her complaint is cancer of a virulent form.

OBITUARY.

Wm. Swander was born in Stark Co. Ohio, Sept. 28, 1831. Died June 10, 1897, age 66 years 8 month 12 days. He was first married to Harriet Treesh which union was soon severed by her death. He was again married to Miss Florida Groh in 1862. To this union were born six children, all having preceded him to the spirit world with exception of one son. Mr. Swander was a member of the Lutheran church from his childhood. He was a faithful christian until his death and an officer in the church for a number of years. He died in a few hours after he complained of not feeling well.

He leaves a sorrowing widow, one son, a brother, a sister and a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn his departure.

The funeral services were conducted Sunday, June 13, by Rev. Burkett, in the presence of an immense congregation.

Mrs. Boullion, 222 Crane St, Writes:

Dayton, O., March 12, '96.—"My baby is two months old and from her birth has had severe attacks of wind colic. I tried almost everything, but nothing gave her any relief until I got Dr. Hand's Colic Cure. I have used two bottles and would not do without it. It surely is the best colic medicine ever made." Dr. Hand's Colic Cure and all of Dr Hand's Remedies at Fischler & Son's, 25c. 1

CHICAGO EXCURSION.

As Usual Pleasure Marred By Sadness.

To Chicago and return for $1, was a temptation that but few could resist. It afforded an opportunity for hundreds of people to see the White city who heretofore had been barred owing to the round-trip rate being nearly $9. When the B. & O. road offered the reduced rate they certainly expected to have a crowd. The train at first was to start from Garrett but later it was announced that they would back down to the Junction for the accommodation of Auburn people. At 11 o'clock Saturday night people started from Angola and drove to Auburn, They also came from Fairfield township, from St. Joe, Coburntown and vicinity, in the east, from Collingwood and vicinty in the east, from Collingwood and vicinity from the south and when the special backed into the Junction, there was a mass of people. The agent at the Junction sold 287 tickets while Thos Sprott, the uptown agent sold 107, making a total of 394 persons who took the train at Auburn Junction Another train started from Garrett with 480 passengers and both trains went into Chicago with nearly 2300 passengers. Here they soon scattered and hunted up the sights. The COURIER representatives visited the old Libby Prison, Lincoln Park. The Ferris Wheel, etc. etc. and were tired enough when it was time to take the train home.

The return trip was pleasant until near the Kankakee swamps when one of the party was run over and probably killed. The report is that he fell from the first section and was mangled by the second section. As to the truthfulness of the statement we cannot vouch. We were also unable to learn his name, Some say he was killed instantly and others say he is still living.

Make the Baby Smile.

To hear a crying baby suffering from colic and griping pains is not inspiriting. You can relieve and soothe the baby at once with Dr. John W. Bull's Baby Syrup and make her smile again. "I gave Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup to my baby who suffered and rested badly; after the first dose she became quiet and slept peacefully. It is a blessing to mothers. Annie E. Burkhart, Reamstown, Pa." Dr. John W. Bull's Baby Syrup costs only 25 cents.

Sold by F. E. Davenport, Auburn.

Found His Dog.

In every paper in the county last week appeared an ad for a lost dog. It was G. A. Bishop's English Setter pup, and a reward was offered for its return, To-day a Mr. Woods, who lives three miles south of Butler, brought in the identical dog and received the reward. He had read the ad in the Butler Record. The dog knew his master at once and seemed glad she was returned to the original owner. And Mr. Bishop was thrice glad that he had found the dog which he prized so highly.

Noted Tramp Dog Killed at Toledo, O.

"Ownie," the tramp dog which has toured the country in mail cars, is no more. The pet of postoffice employes was shot and killed, late Friday, by order of Postmaster Brand, of Toledo. Notwithstanding the order that the dog should not be carried longer in mail cars, he was smuggled into Toledo by clerks and lodged in the postoffice basement. There he showed his ungratefulness by dangerously biting Clerk W. W. Blankert.

"Ownie" had been sick in St. Louis until a few days ago, but was started on his travels again in defiance of the official edict warning postal clerks from carrying him. He had lately grown quite cross and some time ago badly bit a lady who attempted to pet him. Ownie's skin was ordered mounted by the Toledo clerks and will be forwarded to the postal museum in Washington.

Notice to Farmers.

Having purchased a thoroughbred short horn Durham bull, he will be for service at my farm.

A. D. MOORE.

Old People.

Old people who require medicine to regulate the bowels and kidneys will find the true remedy in Electric Bitters. This medicine does not stimulate and contains no whisky nor other intoxicant but acts as a tonic and alterative. It acts mild on the stomach and bowels, adding strength and giving tone to the organs thereby aiding Nature in the performance of the functions. Electric Bitters is an excellent appetizer and aids digestion. Old People find it just exactly what they need. Price 50c. a bottle at Robbins & McCord's Drug Store. 35

A Suit of Clothes Given Away!

ould no doubt make one man Extremely Happy. But where the price is cut down on every suit in the house it represents attractions of which you are quick to take advantage of, and divides the contributions among our customers. If you are inclined to be skeptical in regard to

Seemingly Windy Talk

in advertisements, favor us with your presence and we will endavor to agreeably entertain you, showing you the perceptical reduction of price in our Clothing Stock. The quality carried makes us doubly able to please you and of every pocket book. The continued cold weather makes straw hat business drop far from the standard, but the possibility of fitting you out in Caps, Stiff and Soft Hats has been taken advantage of by us, and have placed on our tables the most complete assortment that can be found. See us and we will benefit you financially.....

Satisfy the Conditions

G. H. YESBERA, CLOTHIER

The above cut shows the style of the Ladies WINNER Bicycle, except that we use the Plew Saddle instead of the one shown in the cut. It is one of the best bicycles in the country; an up-to-date Wheel, having Fush Joints, etc. Don't fail to see it before making your purchase, It is manufactured by the Auburn Cycle Co., and sold by.....

AT HIS STORE, UBURN, IND INA. F. J. YESBERA, the Auburn Jeweler.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—in Effect Nov. 29, 1896.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations	Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne.....	11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 40
New Era	12 12 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junction.	12 25	5 25	7 58
Auburn	12 29	5 29	8 37
Waterloo	12 41	5 41	9 24
Sunmit.....	12 52	5 52	9 46
Steubenville.....	12 56	5 56	9 50
Pleasant Lake. ...	1 03	6 03	10 12
Angola	1 13	6 14	10 50
Jackson	3 25	8 35	4 30 pm

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations	Fre'gt	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson .....dp	6 30 am	11 35 am	7 05 am
Angola	12 25	2 19 pm	9 26
Pleasant Lake.....	1 03	2 29	9 36
Steubenville.....	.....	2 36	9 42
Summit..	1 26	2 39	9 46
Waterloo.....	2 25	2 55	10 00
Auburn.....	2 53	3 10	10 20
Auburn Junction.	3 14	3 14	10 14
New Era	4 05	3 24	10 26
Fort Wayne.....	5 25	3 55	11 00

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on, or address E. T. DELAPP, Agent Auburn.

Wabash Line

GOING EAST.

No. 2.....	5:53 am—Daily
No. 4.....	7:37 pm—ex Su
No. 70 (local freight).....	3:00 pm—ex Su
No. 6.....	2:06 pm—ex Su

GOING WEST.

No. 5.....	7:27 am—Daily
No. 3.....	7:10 pm—Daily
No. 71, (local freight).....	9:55 am—ex Su
No. 7.....	12:00 pm—ex Su

All these trains stop for passengers.
For rates, tickets, time tables, etc. apply to
I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind
Chas. M. Hays, V. Pres. and Gen't Manager.
G. S. Crane, Gen'l Pass'r and Ticket Agent

B. & O. R. R.

Schedule In Effect Nov. 22 '96

Leaves Auburn Junction.

WEST BOUND.

No. 3 Express, to Garrett only..	8:53 p m
No. 15 Daily.....	2:00 a m
No. 5 Daily.....	4:30 a m
No. 7 Daily	4:18 p m
No. 17 Daily Except Suday.....	12:25 p m

EAST BOUND.

No 4 Express.....	4:30 a m
No. 6 Daily.....	8:05 p m
No. 8 Daily.....	2:40 p m
No 41 Daily.....	11:41 p m
No 16, Daily, except Sunday.....	12:25p m

D. S. MARTIN, Manager of Passenger Traffic.
G. H. YOUNG, Auburn Junction, Ind

To Detroit for $1.50

On Sunday June 20, the Wabash railroad will run a special excursion to Detroit Michigan and return. The fare for the round trip will be $1.50. Train will leave Auburn at 6.05 a. m., and arrive at Detroit at 10 o'clock. Return train will leave Detroit at 7 p. m. You can also visit Canada by steamboat at on additional cost of 10 cents.

SATURDAY

JULY 3, 1897,

WILL BE A GREAT DAY IN

GARRETT

The citizens over there are arranging ...for one of the Biggest...

CELEBRATIONS

Ever Held in That City.

Next week the Courier will give the Program in full

Tourist Sleeping Cars to San Francisco Via Wabash.

On June 20th and July 1st next the Wabash, in connection with the A., T. & S. F. and So. Pacific Rys., will run tourist sleeping cars from St. Loius to San Francisco without change for the accommodation of members of the Christian Endeavor Society and their friends enroute to San Francisco. Sleepers wil leave St. Louis at 9.00 p. m.

For particulars call on or address any agent of the Wabash R. R. or connecting lines.

All the way from the Missouri River to Buffalo, the Wabash Railroad Operates trains over its own Tracks.

Having leased the tracks of the Grand Trunk Railway between Detroit and Suspension Bridge, and those of the Erie R. R. from Suspension Bridge to Buffalo, the Wabash R. R. will run its own trains from Kansas City, Omaha, Des Moines, St. Louis, Quincy, Hannibal, Keokuk and Chicago to Buffalo, being the only road from Missouri and Mississippi River points having its own line and trains running into Buffalo. Through cars from Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago to Buffalo without change.

Half Rates—Fourth July.

Excursion tickets at half rates will be sold by the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. at all stations on July 3, 4 and 5, to points within 200 miles of selling point, good returning until July 6th inclusive.

Fine Berkshires.

Farmers sell finished products, and retain fertility of soil. Berk shire pigs utilive pasture to best advantage. Eight sows bred to barrow May to September. Price $10 and upwards. Plenty of good spring pigs, that must go to make room for later arrivals All breeding stock recorded. Call or write your wants.

J. W. JACKMAN,
Two miles east of Waterloo, Ind

DeKalb County's Greatest...

Ribbon Sale

Saturday, June 19th.

100 Pieces New Fancy Silk Ribbons, worth from 40 to 75 Cents Per Yard;

Your Choice 23C Your Choice

Ribbons were never more Fashionable and Desirable than at present. This is your greatest opportunity.

No Ribbon Sold Uuntil Saturday Morning.....

The Bishop & Lackey Co.

LEADING MERCHANTS.

....OUR....

SPECIALTIES

Carpets, Furniture, Baby Carriages, Curtains and Draperies.

We are showing five pieces of New Carpets (carpets made and bought this season) where any other store in town is showing one. We know the truth of this assertion. We have the Fort Wayne Agency of the best refrigerator known to trade.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Prices below all competition. Our line is all new and fresh.

—We—

are making things lively in the Funiture business this spring. We never had such a magnificent stock before, never sold it at such low prices and never sold so much of it.

This coming week we will get another car load of the

Great Estey Manufacturing Company's

Bed Room Suits. They are hummers, every one of them Prices on this great purchase of bed room suits will be $14.50 to $60.00.

Great opening of those Broad, Easy Couches, with spring edge all around. With us you can have sixty styles to select from. Why then attempt to choose at stores which only carry three or four of them? Prices from $5.90 up.

A Ten Dollar Bill

Buys as much funiture of us as $15.00 to $20.00 will elsewhere, you have only to try it and see for yourselves.

We are selling piles of baby carriages. No one else is in it. Every rubber tire wheel warranted. Best styles, best springs, best upholstering. Largest assortment.

D. N. Foster Furniture Co.

FORT WAYNE, IND.

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Mary W. Mott deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 25th day of June, 1897, and show cause, if any, why my Final settlement accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, my name, this 4th day of June, 1897

JOHN G. MOTT,
Administrator.

E. D. Hartman, Atty.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE.

In the matter of the estate of Jane Tefft deceased.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court of the State of Indiana, at the March term 1897 thereof, the undersigned, as administrator of the estate of Jane Tefft, deceased will offer for sale at private sale, at the office of McClellan & Garwood in Auburn, Indiana, on Saturday, July 10th, 1897, at 10 o'clock a. m the following described real estate, at not less than its appraised value. Same real estate is appraised at $1,550 00 to-wit:—

Lot number twenty-three (23) in the Western Addition to the Town of Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana.

TERMS:—One third cash at date of sale, one third in one year and one third in eighteen months, the deferred payments to be evidenced by promissory notes with six per cent interest waiving valuation and appraisment laws and secured by mortgage upon the real estate sold.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN,
Administrator.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of William McKinley deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 9th day of July, 1897, and show cause, if any, why my final settlement accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 9d day of June 1897.

JAMES CARNAHAN Administrator.

J. E. & J. H. Rose Atty.

Observation Cars.

On Monday, June 14, the Baltimore & Ohio R. R. will inaugurate daily observation car service on the afternoon vestibuled limited train, leaving Grand Central Passenger Station, Chicago, at 3:30 p. m. for Pittsburg, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York, thus affording patrons exceptional facilities for enjoying the superb scenery which has earned for the line its popular sobriquet, "Picturesque B. & O."

These cars will run through without change between Chicago and Baltimore via Pittsburg and Washington. 3t

—Bucklen's Arnica Salve.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay repuired. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For ale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Wednesday's Daily.

W. B. Johnson, Newark, O, says: "One Minute Cough Cure saved my only child from dying by croup." It has cured thousands of others suffering from croup, pneumonia, bronchitis and other serious throat and lung troubles. Davenport, the druggist.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT:—It is a terrible accident to be burned or scalded; but the pain and agony and the frightful disfigurements can be quickly overcome without leaving a scar by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Davenport, the druggist

Some for ten, some for twenty, and some for thirty years have suffered from piles and then have been quickly cured by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, the great remedy for piles and all forms of skin diseases. Davenport, the druggist.

—Dr. Nusbaum is prepared to prosecute the claims of veterans in regard to their pensions. Call on him at his office here, when needing any assistance to get what is justly due you.

Don't thin your blood with sassafras or poison it with blue-mass; but aid Nature by using DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, biliousness and stomach and liver troubles. They are purely vegetable. Davenport, the druggist.

Don't neglect a cough because the weather is pleasant; before the next storm rolls around, it may develop into a serious difficulty beyond repair. One Minute Cough Cure is easy to take and will do what its name implies. Davenport, the druggist.

Not only piles of the very worst form can be cured by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, but eczema, scalds, burns, bruises, boils, ulcers and all other skin troubles can be instantly relieved by the same remedy. Davenport, the druggist.

They" are dandies" said Thos. Bowers, of the Crocket, Texas Enterprise, while writing about Dewitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for sick headache and disorders of the stomach and liver. Davenport, the druggist.

Sick headache can be quickly and completely overcome by using those famous little pills known as "DeWitt's Little Early Risers." Davenport, the druggist.

—George B. Taylor and his sister Julia Marie, of Fort Wayne rode up this morning on their bicycles to spend the day here with their father Chas. Taylor, who is here looking after the interests of the Home Telehphone Co. They left Fort Wayne this morning at about 6:30 and made the trip here in a little over two hours. When six miles from the city they were caught in a rain and this delayed them somewhat. Miss Taylor made the trip with perfect ease, though it was quite a long distance.

—Dr. Nusbaum left today for the Southwest. He will visit New Mexico, Arizona and other states. He will be absent about five weeks. Upon his return he will take up his practice again and will be pleased to meet all of his old friends. During his absence the DAILY COURIER will visit him regularly at Elizabethtown, New Mexico.

—Milo Thomas the Hardware merchant, of Corunna was in the city today.

—Seven well dressed men endeavored to hold up an east bound Lake Shore train at Whiting yesterday morning. Had the Auburn Rifles been there they would of soon had them in toe. Whiting was the scene of the first battle fought by Co. K. under command of Major Kuhlman.

—Dr. Phillips was down yesterday from Corunna.

—G. H. Northan, the newly appointed postmaster at Rome City was in the city yesterday.

—Dr. Cary was here yesterday attending the meeting of the Medical Association. Lucus Barney came up with him.

—Trustee J. J. Eakright, of Butler was in the city today attending to business connected with his office.

—Hicksville News:—Orla Lybarger has taken possession of his purchase, a photograph gallery, at Auburn. As Orla is a student of C. A. Blodgett, and thoroughly learned the business, we can promise, in his name, some fine work for the Auburn people. Mr. Lybarger is a model young man and while we have none such to spare, we congratulate Auburn on the fact of his locating there.

—July 16 and 17 are the dates of the Bishop & Lackey Co. grand anniversary sale

—Miss Helen Ralston, Miss Myra Watson, Miss Mamie Trentman and Misses Lenore and Louise Long went to Milford Junction on the B. & O. excursion Sunday and there were met by Ev Watson and were driven to Warsaw in the tallyho. They report a very pleasant visit with Mr. and Mrs. Watson. Miss Myra did not return home with the party but will remain for a visit.

Awarded Highest Honors—World's Fair

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Thursday's Daily.

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs and timber. Highest cost prices paid for same. Address Lesh, Sanders & Egbert Co. Goshen, Ind. 40-50

—Dr. Baxter is paying special attention to Diseases of Children also Diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Nervous system. tf

—Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Barns left this morning for the southern part of the state where they will be in attendance at the Democratic Editorial Association which is held at Paoli this week.

—Mrs. S. B. Ward is visiting her son at Kendallville.

—Albion Democrat:—Fred Shaffer of Auburn, was visiting his brother Elza and taking in the "big" time last Wednesday and Thursday.

—You can't afford to use envelopes without your return card printed on them. They are liable to get lost and never returned to you. The COURIER job department will print you 500 or 1,000, at about what you are paying for the blank envelopes. We have just received a case of 25,000 and can afford to print them at a low price. If you need envelopes, let us show you the goods and make you a price.

—Brown, Culbertson & Boland show window is uneque. Sherman-William paint covers the world.

—F. N. Beidler and wife were down from Waterloo yesterday.

—Mrs. Chris McNabb went over to Butler yesterday where she will remain a guest of her husband who runs a meat market there,

—B. B. Harrison and his son Blaine started this morning for the old home at Lagrange, Ohio, for their usual summer vacation visit. Mrs. Harrison and the others go by rail, leaving here Saturday. They will return about the middle of August. Their hosts of friends here wish them a pleasant vacation.

—Section foreman John Lumm left today noon over the Wabash for Marion, Indiana.

STATUE OF RUFUS CHOATE.

He might have been great as a lawyer had he had the ambition to pursue politics. His career as Congressman and Senator was remarkable in —Mrs Simon Dickenson, of Waterloo died last evening about 6 o'clock and will be buried tomorrow at 2 o'clock.

—Last night Chas Comesky had occasion to come to town in a hurry and backed his road wagon out of the barn, hitched up and started, came to town, turned around and on his way home, near Frank Myer's house, one of the wheels came off, he lit matches and finally borrowed Mr. Myer's lantern to hunt for the bur but could not find it. One of the burs from a similar rig belonging to Mr. Myers fit and Charley started on his way rejoicing after having agreed to return the bur early this morning, and upon going to the barn, there to his amazement lay the missing bur. He had traveled about 14 miles and gone through some very rough places at a good speed without the wheel coming off, and the spot where it did run off was smooth and level.

—John Treesh moved his cement sidewalk building outfit to Garrett this morning where he has several week's work.

—Garrett's civil Engineer J. J. VanAuken is kept busy these nice days, completing sewers, etc.

—Virgil DeWitt and son have their new office completed and are putting the finishing touch on by giving it a coat of paint.

—Arthur Olds and family drove down to St. Joe this morning to spend the day visiting his sister.

—The COURIER is in receipt of the 50th anniversary number of the Chicago Tribune, which occurred yesterday. It is a 32 page paper, eight pages being handsomely illustrated by color work. Illustrations show the various offices the Tribune has occupied during the past 50 years, also a facsimile of the first page of the Tribune after the great Chicago fire. It should be filed away and read at your leasure.

—The ladies of the Presbyterian church will serve ice cream and lunch on the court house lawn Old Settler's Day, June 17.

—J. S. Olinger west of town has thanks for recent favors.

—Joseph Huet, trustee, of Richland township, was in the city yesterday. He had commencement programs turned out in the COURIER job department.

—Second hand machines.
1 McCormick Binder.
1 Champion "
1 Wood "
1 Pony Deering "
1 Champion mower.
1 Buckeye "
1 McCormick "
at bargain prices. Two of these binders and one mower almost new.
2t BROWN CULBERTSON & BOLAND.

—Mrs. T. S. Lewis, of Albion, mother of our townsman Jim Lewis, will arrive tonight from Chicago Junction, O., where she has been visiting her son, Clint. She will be accompanied by Mrs. Clint Lewis and while here they will be guests of Mr. Lewis and wife.

—The first car load of wool is being loaded today for Ligonier by Schaab Bros.

—Miss Cora McEntarffer, who has been visiting her Aunt Mary McEntarffer, returned to her home last evening

—G. S. McCord, of the Schaab Furniture Co., informs us of the death of Mrs. Shelby Hine's son at Fairfield Center.

—Mr. and Mrs. Latteiett, of Arl, Ind., were in the city to-day. They were guests a while of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Potter. Before returning they purchased a fine carriage of the Eckhart Carriage Co.

—W. H. Leedy, of Indsanapolis, Grand Secretary of the Odd Fellows was the guest of his cousin, Wm. Leedy today for dinner, having came from Angola this morning.

—According to the home papers Butler will celebrate July 3rd in grand style. Garrett will do likewise and Auburn people may all see the fire works in the east and west.

—Prof. W. C. Latta of Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., together with his family spent yesterday and part of today with Cal. Husselman.

—Sheriff Stroh, Mr. Pommert and family, Mrs. Mary McEnterfer, Mrs. Ulrick, and Miss Naylor, of Sharpsville, and Miss Cora McEnterffer, of Waterloo were at Hamilton yesterday for a day's outing.

—The ladies of the Eastern Star attended the funeral of Mrs. Simon Dickenson at Waterloo this afternoon in a body.

—Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Boyle of Butler, were in town to-day.

—Yesterday The Pennsylvania and Scottish Union insurance companies paid Lahnum Bros. loss in full to the satisfaction of the firm.

—Mr. and Mrs. Mountz, grandparents of Mrs. Tom Knoder, came this morning and will visit her and her parents over Sunday.

—The COURIER is pleased to announce the arrival this afternoon at 1:45, of a bright little ten pound girl at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schaab on North Main-st. The COURIER in behalf of their many friends, extends the warmest congratulations to Mr. Schaab and his estimable wife.

—Miss Liza Fretz and little sister went to Ft. Wayne this morning, to be gone until Tuesday.

—The next meeting of the DeKalb County Sunday School Association will be held at Auburn next year.

—One of the main features of the State Fair to be held at Indianapolis will be a competive drill between companies of the Indiana National Guard. The first prize will be $300 and the second $200; not less than four companies to enter, Co. K., won first prize in the competitive drill at Ft. Wayne. They no doubt could win the $300 at the State Fair.

—Huntington Herald:—Judge Roby, of Auburn, was an arrival this afternoon to hear the case of Thomas, administrator of the Platt estate, vs. the Chicago & Erie railway. Platt was a brakeman who was killed on the road at Markle. Suit was brought against the company and the case was tried. Judgement was rendered in favor of the plaintiff in the sum of $8,000. The case was appealed to the Supreme court and the decision was reversed. The case was called for a second hearing in circuit court this afternoon, and $10,000 damages are asked.

—"In Switzerland" at the Lutheran Church last night was not a success financially, or in point of excellence. Many people thought the lady had really visited Switzerland and would give something original, but she only recited a monologue, taken from some book. Her humorous sketches, however, were good. The songs advertised were not given. Her peculiar way of closing was a surprise to an Auburn audience, and not until she appeared a second time and said "good night" was there a stir. Music for the occasion was furnished by Sheets orchestra.

—W H. Pepple, of Concord, was a caller to-day. He has thanks for a liberal contribution on his subscription.

—Mrs. C. W. Kaley, of Red Cloud, Neb., is in the city, the guest in the family of A. Lewis. The ladies are sisters. She will remain here for some time visiting relatives.

—G. W. McClellan down at Bippus, Ind., sent in his subscription to Feb. 12, '98. We have a hundred or two other readers who should do likewise.

—Barney Rainier, Jim Dills, Frank Lahnum and Ossie Bachtel took the B. & O. excursion train to Alida Sunday and from there drove over to Michigan City, and visited the DeKalb folks a couple hours. They went to the prison and Messrs. Borst, Sawvel, Moody, Dills and Knepper, were all called into one room and allowed to visit nearly two hours with the boys. They had a very pleasant time. Frank Dills seems to be in his usual jolly spirits, and has nicknamed the other men. Borst, who works in the hospital is the "Doc." Moody who sprinkles the lawns is "Park Policeman," and Sawvel, who works on the farm is known as "Sankey." Dills himself is bookkeeper in the chair factory, and has a good job, though his grub is not quite equal to that of other prisoners, yet he is getting fat. When the boys left Dills said: "Well, boys come back again, we'll be in here for some time yet."

—Chicago Record:—G. H. Reinhardt secretary of the Independent Order of Odd-Fellows of Houston, Tex., has telegraphed to the central police at Chicago concerning C. C. Walmsley, chief train dispatcher for the Texas & New Orleans railway, who was found wandering helplessly about the neighborhood of 76th street and Lake avenue Wednesday. Reinhardt requests that the police show Mr. Walmsley all the attention possible and to give him into the charge of the relief committee of the Independent Order of Odd-Fellows of this city. The police have answered that Walmsley is in a bad condition, there being no doubt that he is insane and violent." Mr. Walmsly is the son of Chris Walmsley, who was at one time a partner of J. C. Henry, and well known to many of Auburn's older residents.

—Dr. Cary was up this morning from Spencerville.

Monday's Daily.

—Mr. and Mrs. Wood of Canton, O., were guests over Sunday, of Geo. Steele and family.

—Obe Cool, of Logansport, is in the city calling on his many friends.

—J. D. Lahnum took advantage of the cheap rate to Chicago yesterday and visited his wife and children. He found them well, and also Henry Sherlock and family.

—Irvin Pommert was running in the streets Saturday and accidentally fell down. He bruised his lip terribly, and it has swollen quite large and gives him considerable pain.

—An over sight on the part of the proofreader Saturday, made us say that a daughter had arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Schaab. It should have been Mr. and Mrs. Will Schaab. We cheerfully correct the error.

—Isaac Speer, of Waterloo, called in on Wednesday and had just returned from a visit to Kansas, where he met a number of the DeKalb county colony. He met Henry St. Clair, Elzy Speer, Ed. Wolf, Jake Tate, Dell Stewart, the McEntaffers, C. K. Baxter and Peter Colgrove and family. At the time he left there all bid fair to reap good crops. There is an immense crop of wheat that will soon be ready for the reaper. He gives a good report of the DeKalb county people, and says as long as they live as well as while he was there, there is no danger of starvation, and assures us that he gained several pounds while visiting among these people.

—There will be preaching at the Lutheran church next Sabbath, both morning and evening, at the usual hours by the pastor, Rev. J. D. Brosy.

—Dr. V. C. Bronson, of Newville, was in town to-day. He is looking up the matter of making a bid for doctoring the county poor, —Jack Beams, the postmaster at Spencerville had something like a sunstroke while in town today. At about three o'clock he was going along the public square, when he started into the shade of the trees and fell. He was helped up, and after a time taken to Hollister's.

—Rev. J. N. Wilson who has been at St. Louis Mich., preaching, has been called to Benton, Harbor. He preached there Sunday morning and evening and after the evening service a consultation was held by the members and he was then and there hired. We are glad to note the popularity of our former townsman and friend.

—If there is any one thing that needs to be purified, it is politics, so the reformer says, and many agree thereto. But blood tells, and as a blood purifier and liver corrector Simmons Liver regulator is the best medicine. "I use it in perference to any other."—So wrote Mr. S. M. Hysell. of Middleport, Ohio. And Dr. D S. Russel, of Farmville, Ta., writes, "It fulfills all you promise for it."

—Gen. and Mrs. L. J. Blair drove over from Waterloo Monday evening calling on friends. He was also looking up some court matters.

—John G. Ashley, was here yesterday on his way home to New Haven, his present home. He is full of business in the line of wind engines, refrigerators and several other articles of prime necessity.

—Lahnum Bros store was closed yesterpay morning and will remain closed till Saturday morning. This has been done in order that the building might be repaired and some of the furniture cleaned up.

—The missionary society of the Lutheran church will meet with Clara McClellan Friday afternoon. All members urged to be present.

—Clara McClellan and Maude Link go to Lagrange Wednesday, as delegates from the Lutheran church to the Christian Endeavor Convention.

—All L O. T. M's are urged to be present to lodge Monday evening.

—Mrs. Dr. Johnston has a lovely tree hibiscus now in full bloom on the porch at her residence. These shrubs are natives of Syria, and though they do not grow as tall here as in their native land, they are quite hardy, and being so beautiful, we wonder people do not have more of them.

—Dr. Chas. E. Miller, optician, will again be at F. J. Yesbera's jewelry store Monday, June 21st. All glasses guaranteed to be correct.

—David B. Nickey, a prominent and wealthy farmer near Churubusco, died at his home Tuesday. He was a brother of A. B. Nickey.

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the County Board of Review will meet at the office of the county commissioners in the court house in the town of Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, on Monday, June 21st, 1897, and remain in session not to exceed twenty days for the assessment, review and equalization of personal property for the various towns and townships in said county.

F. A. BORST, Auditor.

Per M. Boland, Deputy.

Want to Marry.

Twelve teachers in the Valparaiso schools have refused to sign a contract to teach the coming year, as the board insisted the contract should contain a clause agreeing not to marry during the school year. This reminds us that a couple of good looking ladies in our school are going to get married soon. Everything gives way for a wedding.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

PURELY VEGETABLE.

The cheapest, purest and best family medicine in the world! An effectual specific for all diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Spleen. Regulate the Liver and prevent Chills and Fever, Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice and Nausea.

BAD BREATH!

Nothing is so unpleasant, nothing so common, as a bad breath; and in nearly every case it comes from the stomach, and can be so easily corrected if you will take Simmons Liver Regulator. Do not neglect so sure a remedy for this repulsive disorder. It will also improve your appetite, complexion and general health.

CONSTIPATION

should not be regarded as a trifling ailment—in fact, nature demands the utmost regularity of the bowels, and any deviation from this demand paves the way often to serious danger. It is quite as necessary to remove impure accumulations from the bowels as it is to eat or sleep, and no health can be expected where a costive habit of body prevails.

SICK HEADACHE!

This distressing affliction occurs most frequently. The disturbance of the stomach, arising from the imperfectly digested contents, causes a severe pain in the head, accompanied with disagreeable nausea, and this constitutes what is popularly known as Sick Headache, for the relief of which take Simmons Liver Regulator.

EVERY PACKAGE

Has the Z Stamp in red on the wrapper.

J. H. ZEILIN & CO., Philadelphia.

DeKalb Man, of Course.

The two great dental associations, the Northern Indiana and the Southern Michigan, have their joint meeting at Benton, Harbor, Mich., June 14 and 15. Dr. S. B. Johnston, of this place is the vice-president, and has just been notified of the death of the president and informed that he will be expected to preside at the meeting. This is an honor fitly bestowed, for the Doctor is not only one of the foremost dentists of the state, but a good parliamentarian. We predict he will preside with ability and dignity.

W. H. TRUMBULL DEAD.

W. H. Trumbull, who was for some years station agent at Corunna, was buried there yesterday. He and his wife, formerly Miss Husselman, had been a few years in the west for his health, he being consumptive. But he lately grew worse and they came back to his brother's, at Montgomery, up the Jackson branch, and there he died.

He was brought to Waterloo yesterday and from there to Corunna. He leaves a wife and family of small children.

IS LIVING.

Word comes that the man who was run over by the B. & O. excursion Sunday night is not dead. It appears that he got off from the first section at Wellsboro and started for his home at Union Center. It is believed that he got tired and sat down on the track to rest and may have gone to sleep and the second section ran over him. His arm was cut off, but after being cared for he was sent home.

A Wonder Worker.

One of the greatest, medical discoveries is Dr. John W. Bull's Pills for the cure of indigestion, sick headache, sick stomach and constipation. They do not purge violently, but gently promote internal cleanliness without debilitating the system; nor do they nauseate the stomach. Dr. John W. Bull's Pills (60 in a box) cost but 25 cts; trial box, 10 cts., at all dealers, or by mail from A. C. Meyer & Co., Balto., Md. Buy the genuine Dr. John W. Bull's Pills. Sold by F. E. Davenport, Auburn.

EX-SHERIFF PLUM DEAD

News reached here yesterday that Ex-Sheriff Jerry Plum was dead. He had been in declining health for a long time and it had been seen that he was gradually nearing the grave. The end came yesteaday morning at about 7:00 o'clock. The funeral will be from the U. B. church in Waterloo at 2 p. m. to-morrow, June 16. The interment will be in Waterloo. He was over 84 years old. We are to have a full obituary next week.

HUMPHREYS'

No. 1	Cures	Fever.
No. 2	"	Worms.
No. 3	"	Infants' Diseases.
No. 4	"	Diarrhea.
No. 8	"	Neuralgia.
No. 9	Cures	Headache.
No. 10	"	Dyspepsia.
No. 11	"	Delayed Periods.
No. 12	"	Leuchorrea.
No. 14	"	Skin Diseases.
No. 15	Cures	Rheumatism.
No. 16	"	Malaria.
No. 20	"	Whooping Cough
No. 27	"	Kidney Diseases.
No. 30	"	Urinary Diseases
No. 77	"	Colds and Grip.

Sold by Druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price, 25c., or 5 for $1.

DR. HUMPHREYS' HOMOEOPATHIC MANUAL OF DISEASES MAILED FREE.

Humphreys' Med. Co., 111 William St., N. Y.

Topics of the Times

Lester Philbrock, of Laconia, N. H., owns a bull's-eye watch made by Jonathan Wadleigh, of London, England, in 1610.

A one-armed man jumped into the river at New Orleans the other day and, after a hard struggle, saved a child from drowning.

Dr. Golokow, a Russian physician, we are told by Modern Medicine, announces that he has found the cholera germ in the interior of eggs.

There are nearly 4,000 building societies in the United Kingdom, with an aggregate membership of nearly three-quarters of a million.

In Ireland a belt of a woman's hair is placed about a child to keep harm away, and garlic, salt, bread and steak are put into the cradle of a new-born baby in Holland.

Portland, Ore., has formed a Citizens' Protective Association. The city has been steadily losing population and wealth and the object of the association is to encourage home trade and industries.

In 1894 Costa Rica exported 1,576,650 bunches of bananas, a first-rate bunch being shipped at a cost of about 25 cents. A single acre of this incredibly rich soil may yield 200 excellent bunches. One Costa Rica banana plantation covers 2,471 acres.

In Brooklyn there is a "shaving palace" which holds out the following inducements to customers: "Physiognomical Hairdressers, Facial Operators, Cranium Manipulators and Capillary Hair Cutting. Shaving with Ambidextrous Abridged Facility."

The attempt to export corn via Galveston is said to have proved a losing business. This grain will not stand the Southern route. The elevator companies at Galveston have expended large amounts in trying to keep it in condition, but it will spoil in spite of their best efforts.

A Chelsea (Me.) cow found wire to be extremely indigestible, especially parasol wire. One and one-eighth inches of it was recently taken from the cow's fore shoulder, where it had been apparently for some time. A swelling formed and the discovery of the parasol steel resulted.

John G. Marshall, of Baltimore, has a farm in Talbot County, Maryland, which he has made a refuge for birds. They seem to know that they will be safe on it and large numbers of them have made it their home, some of them having become so tame that they feed with the chickens.

Convict labor in road building is being employed in Duval County, Florida, and in North Carolina. In the latter case 21½ cents per day per head is said to cover the cost of food, clothes, medical attendance and guards, compared with 28 cents per day for maintaining the same prisoners in jail.

The American system of checking baggage has been adopted for the benefit of travelers from the United States by several European railway companies. A London road was the first to accept the innovation, and hereafter all luggage passing through New York may be checked to almost any point in Europe.

French society people have started the fad known to American sophomores of appearing as supernumeraries on the stage. A crowded society scene in one of the latest plays brought out by Sarah Bernhardt gives them the opportunity, the names of those seen being printed in the newspapers next day.

The De Beers Company, which was formed under Cecil Rhodes to work the Kimberly diamond mines, has a capital of $90,000, which is held at par. Last year it paid dividends of 40 per cent., besides undertaking the Matabele war and the expense of the Jameson raid and the fines of Cecil Rhodes in connection therewith.

Britain has just beaten back a German invasion. The Alster, a German trawler, not only caught fish within the forbidden waters of Moray Frith, but undertook to land its catch at Aberdeen. Fifteen bluejackets from a British man-of-war had to use force in pushing back the German fishermen and throwing their fish back into their boat.

A novel use of the X rays has transpired in Massachusetts. A lady last week, while baking some cakes, lost her ring in the paste, but did not discover the loss until the cakes were out of the oven. Afraid of choking some member of her family, she was struck with the happy expedient of taking the cakes to a photographer, who placed them under the X rays, with the result that the ring was immediately discovered.

Dr. Bueb, chemist of the Continental Gas Company of Dessau, Germany, has found a plan for preventing the freezing of water in gas pipes. It consists in the introduction of alcohol fumes into gas mains where they leave the gasometers. Only infinitesimally small quantities are necessary, at a temperature of 15 degrees Fahrenheit. Five drachms of alcohol is found to be sufficient for each 1,000 feet of gas.

Manufacturers of news paper are making an effort to develop a market in Great Britain, and with very good success. Something like 15,000 tons of this paper is said to have been sold in the British market within three or four months and at prices about as high as are charged at home. American makers have an advantage in the possession of better water power and larger supplies of raw material, which is now almost exclusively wood.

"It is stated that horseflesh continues to hold its own as an article of food with the poorer classes in Belgium," says the Lancet. "Recent statistics show that in Antwerp alone nearly 4,000 horses were slaughtered last year for human consumption, and the number of shops dealing exclusively in horseflesh in the Belgian port exceeds thirty. Over 100,000 horses were imported during the year for conversion into meat, this number being largely in excess of the imports of cattle."

The really great American tree of today is the big tree at Tule in Mexico, in the State of Oaxaca. That tree, cypress, still in full vigor and active growth, is 154 feet in circumference. If a section of this tree were taken for a table there is no house that it could be taken into. Mr. Astor proposes to put forty of his fellow Englishmen at forty-five front feet of table. That's the very tight squeeze of a foot and an eighth apiece. Similarly jammed you could put 136 people at the Tule tree table.

Sir James Crichton Browne, the expert on brain diseases, holds that insomnia is not attended with such disastrous consequences as is commonly supposed. It is not as dangerous as the solicitude of the sufferer. He suggests that the brains of literary men, who are the most frequent victims, acquire the trick of the heart, which takes a doze of a fraction of a second after each beat and so manages to get six hours' rest in twenty-four. Some brains, in cases of insomnia, sleep in sections, different brain centers going off duty in turn.

Military journals are at present interested in a new self-moving car, which is to be a veritable carriage of death. It is to be driven by a sixteen-horse-power engine at the rate of forty miles an hour over a country reasonably level, and, of course, free from fences. It has four broad-tired wheels. But the climax and purpose of this remarkable machine is to carry two rapid-fire cannon, arranged on pivots, to sweep the entire horizon. One man only is needed to run this terrible wheeled weapon of war and this same man also attends to the firing, loading, etc.

The dogs are to the foreigner the worst pest in Turkey. The streets of Constantinople are given up to the mangy, malmed, famished droves which insist upon occupying the best parts of the pavement and snarl at the feet of the passers-by. There is a rule that no one shall kill these miserable creatures, but, on the other hand, no one ever pets or cares for them. They are left to fight among themselves for their precarious existence and, as a consequence, they are generally tailless, with their ears torn and their coats ragged. Their only good seems to lie in the fact that they are a useful supplement to the city's ineffectual scavenger force.

His Wishes Not Considered.

A man with a bundle under his arm made his way to the gas and oil stove counter in one of the big department stores the other day and addressed the girl in charge.

"Here is a ten-foot piece of flexible gas pipe I got from you last Thursday," he said. "I should like to exchange it for a longer one and pay the difference."

"There is only one longer size in stock," she replied, "and it's only two feet longer. What did you pay for this?"

"Seven cents a foot."

"It's two cents cheaper now. We reduced the price to-day."

"Then a twelve-foot piece would be only 60 cents?"

"Yes."

"Well, I ought to pay the 10 cents' difference just the same. All I want is——"

"That's all right. Just take it to the exchange department on the next floor and they'll give you an exchange check."

The customer followed directions.

"I want to exchange this piece of flexible gas pipe for a longer one," he said to the girl behind the counter, "and I was sent to you."

"What did you pay for it?" she asked.

"Seventy cents; but I bought it last Thursday, and the price has been reduced since then. I only want——"

"All right. Name, please?"

He gave his name.

"Address, please?"

He gave his address.

"Here is your exchange check. Take it back to the department where you got it, and the lady will make the exchange for you."

He took it back.

The salesgirl at the gas pipe counter wrapped up the twelve-foot piece, made out a regular sale check for 60 cents, and sent the two slips of paper to the cashier. Ten cents came back.

"Here is your gas pipe," she said, "and here is your change."

"But I don't——"

"Are you waited on, lady?"

He took the 10 cents and made his devious way out of the building, more deeply impressed with the inexplicable mysteries of the department store exchange system than he had ever been before.

Answered Conscience's Promptings.

"So strong is the influence wielded by conscience, and so frequently does it cause the wrong-doer to atone for his sin, that for the past eighty-five years the Conscience Fund has been officially recognized as one of the regular sources of revenue for the United States Government," writes Clifford Howard, in the Ladies' Home Journal. "During this time the consciences of the American people have added to Uncle Sam's resources at the rate of about $300 a month, or a total sum up to the present year of something over $300,000—the amounts of the individual contributions varying from a few cents to several thousand dollars. The smallest contribution ever made to the Conscience Fund was received in May, 1896, and consisted of a 2-cent stamp, which was inclosed in the following letter of explanation: 'I once sent a letter in with a photograph (unsealed), which I have since learned was not lawful. I inclose stamp to make it right.' By a curious coincidence the largest sum ever contributed reached the Treasury Department about the same time that the stamp was received. This was a bill of exchange for $14,225.15, which had been sent to the Secretary of State by the Consul General at London, to whom the money had been given by a clergyman on behalf of a person unknown, no name being given."

How Not to Boil Eggs.

Miss Stella Evans, of Colorado Springs, Col., was boiling a can of lard over a cook stove and, picking up an egg, thought she would boil it in the red-hot grease. The egg no sooner touched the boiling lard than a loud explosion occurred and the young lady was literally covered with the flying lard.—Denver Republican.

Every Spring.

Mrs. Yeast—I see a Persian carpet has been in use for 200 years at the shah's palace in Teheran.

Mr. Yeast—I wonder if anybody can beat that?—Yonkers Statesman.

A TWENTY-THREE MILLION DOLLAR CAPITOL BUILDING.

NEW YORK'S State capitol building has cost more money than any other structure in America, and it is by no means finished yet. The people of the State have thus far been taxed the stupendous sum of $22,250,000 for the mere building. Its maintenance is quite another item, costing upward of $100,000 a year. This building, with its porticos, occupies an area of three acres. The national capitol building at Washington covers an area of four acres and cost only $13,000,000. Seldom does the Legislature of New York adjourn without appropriating a sum of money, ranging from $100,000 to $1,000,000, for the carrying forward of the work. Into this insatiable vortex of jobbery enough money has thus far disappeared to have built ten state houses of magnificent design and material.

The match for this capitol project cannot be found among the historic churches and palaces of Europe, and it is doubtful whether the tombs of the Rameses dynasty, constructed to preserve the memory of Egypt's kings, cost as much as it has cost the people of the Empire State to have a headquarters for their business. The state house was begun in 1867. Since that time nine Governors have sat in the chair of New York. Nine Governors have attempted to do something with the incubus, and nine Governors have failed. The size and cost of the capitol are not its sole claims to notoriety. No public institution in the country has been so prolific of scandals. Occasionally the Legislature ordered an investigation into the way in which the work was being pushed ahead, and then another scandal was almost sure to be added to the list of those with which the history of the building is checkered. Inasmuch as some half a dozen architects have had to do with the construction of the capitol down to the present time, it is not at all surprising that the result has been a mixture of ideas that makes it difficult to determine just what particular style of architecture is most in evidence.

HINDOO CYNIC HERE.

Declares that the Women of the West Are Savages.

"The women of the West are savages. Will you tell me what is the difference between an Indian who puts war feathers in his hair and a woman who puts feathers and flowers in her hat?"

These words fell like a bombshell [illegible] the recent woman's congress at S[illegible] Francisco, says the Examiner, wh[illegible] their author had been coddled a[illegible] lionized with the admiring deferen[illegible] which impressionable women are prone to pay to handsome young men who wear a strange garb and an air of romance and mystery.

To say that the women were startled when Bramacharin Bobhabhiskshu, the BRAMACHARIN BOBHABHISKSHU.

Hindoo hero, opened his vials of wrath upon them is putting it mildly. He said the congress was a humbug and the women were insincere. "You build fine churches," he said, "but merely through vanity. You go to church to display your clothes. The religious motive is lacking. You put fine organs in the churches, and the aim is to have the best and biggest organ, in order to draw the biggest crowd. These things are not so in India. Whatever is done by the Hindus is done in the spirit of religion and without the desire to show off."

It is safe to say that it will be a long time before the women of the congress again take up a wandering Oriental, however picturesque his garb may be.

MISTAKE OF A TYPEWRITER.

She Nullified a New Jersey Law by an Error in Transcribing.

The "typewriter girl" has been held responsible so long for all kinds of errors, either grave or ludicrous, that the imputation is no longer meant as a reflection upon the ability, but only a little pleasantry at her expense. But Miss Margaret Williams, of Trenton, N. J., recently made an error in transcribing which is both grave and ludicrous, and is by no means a pleasantry to those concerned. She has the unique distinction of being the first "typewriter" who, by the mistake of a single word, could bring about the nullification of a law or the recalling of a session of the Legislature. Miss

MISS MARGARET WILLIAMS.

Williams was called upon recently to write the draft of a proposed constitutional amendment to the lottery and gambling laws of New Jersey. By changing the word "prohibited" to "provided" she altered the intent of the whole law, and the mistake was not noticed until after the amendment had been passed upon by the Senate and become a law, and an extra session of the Legislature must be called to rectify the mistake. It is only fair to Miss Williams to explain how easily an error like this may occur in stenographic work, the characters for the words being so similar that the mistake might have happened to the most expert stenographer, only with results less serious.

[illegible] T.

TUE OF RUFUS CHOATE.

[illegible] ight have been great as a [illegible] had he had the ambition to [illegible] ities. His career as Congress- [illegible] In take [illegible] nes in- [illegible] B. [illegible] on the news at the [illegible] Smith's mansion at Smithville, N. J., was broken into thousands of pieces the other day. The wreckage of this remarkable work of art was then cast in Rancocas Creek, and the testimonial to Congressman Hezekiah B. Smith's folly went out of sight forever.

The story of Smith and Agnes Gilkerson is one of extraordinary romance and wrong, and, when first made public, stirred the whole country. The man had deserted his rightful family at Woodstock, Vt., and made a new home at Smithville with the woman of his infatuation. He became a millionaire manufacturer, creating a great industrial plant in the out of the way retreat he had selected. He also went to Congress and grew to be a political figure in the State. Agnes Gilkerson, known to those who knew Smith then as his wife, pushing him onward and upward. He would doubtless have won higher political honors, but his past became known. When the woman died the inconsolable and aged manufacturer had a statue of her made in Italy and placed it on his front lawn, where he could see it always.

Captain Elton Smith, one of the manufacturer's surviving children, recently come into the great property of his father, and one of his first acts was to order the statue of Agnes Gilkerson destroyed, so it should never more plague him or his. A dozen stalwart men armed with sledges and axes sent the white statue crashing to the ground and hammered the marble fiercely until nothing but a pile of debris remained. Some of the villagers tried to secure pieces of the statue as souvenirs, but a cart took the whole mass to the creek, where it was dumped into ten feet of water and covered with stones.

THE AGNES GILKERSON STATUE.

1,800 Years After Death.

Whenever the pick used by one of the excavators at Pompeii gives forth a hollow sound upon striking the great bed of lava, care is immediately taken to open the cavity that is known to be near. Into this liquid plaster of Paris is poured. The cavity serves as a mould and the plaster soon hardens. When the lava has been removed the statue obtained usually proves to be that of a woman or man in the agonizing convulsions of death, the limbs contorted and the features drawn out of shape just as they were when he or she was overtaken by the flood of red-hot lava somewhere about eighteen hundred years ago.

The Duograph.

A new device has been brought out in France for enabling direct correspondence between blind persons and those who can see. It is called the "duograph." It is a kind of typewriter, which prints the letters in relief so that they are both visible to the eye and sensible to the touch. The whole mechanism is described as remarkably simple.

Two Race-Track Proverbs.

"Nothing ventured, nothing gained,"
He caroled as he started.
When he returned he sighed, "A fool
And his money soon are parted."
—Washington Star.

SWEPT BY A STORM.

LYLE, MINN., LAID WASTE BY A CYCLONE.

One Man Is Killed and Fifteen or Twenty Badly Injured—Farmers by the Score Lose All of Their Earthly Belongings.

Track of a Twister.

Loss of life and great damage resulted from a cyclone which swept the district near Lyle, Minn., Thursday evening. One man was killed and the list of injured will reach fifteen or twenty. Hanson, the man who was killed, was a prosperous farmer near Lyle. He had just returned home from town and was caring for his team when the storm struck the barn, completely demolishing it, killing the team and other stock. Hanson was carried forty rods east, where the body, badly mutilated, was found. He leaves a widow and a child.

As near as can be ascertained, the storm originated four miles west of the village and half a mile north of the Iowa line and pursued a zigzag course toward the northeast, sweeping everything before it over a strip fully half a mile wide. Trees were uprooted, telephone and telegraph poles were broken off, barns, houses, orchards, groves and gardens swept away before the storm. Several loaded cars on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway were lifted bodily from the track. Lumber in the yard of L. W. Sherman was scattered promiscuously about the country and windmills without number were destroyed.

As most of the damage is in the country, it is difficult to get accurate information, but as nearly as can be learned from fifteen to twenty persons are more or less injured. The school house known as the Minnerka, near the Iowa line, was completely obliterated. The damage to property is variously estimated at from $25,000 to $75,000. A special train with surgeons, linemen and workmen was sent to Lyle from Waterloo, Iowa, within an hour of the time of the storm.

VANDALS IN A CEMETERY.

Relic-Seekers Deface Stones Over Famous Dead in Boston.

There is no length to which the rapacious relic seeker will not go in his mad desire for souvenirs of the curious, famous and antique, and three of the oldest and most highly venerated tombstones in the Old Granary burying ground on Tremont street, Boston, those of Revere, Hancock and Increase Sumner, bear ample evidence of the truth of this statement.

In accordance with custom, the Old Granary was opened to visitors on Memorial Day, and, during the day hundreds of sightseers visited the grounds to see the last resting places of Boston's famous dead. Among them was one, perhaps more, who, not satisfied with the privilege of viewing the tombs, carried away the fragments of the sacred stones as mementoes. Who the vandals were nobody knows, for no one witnessed the work of destruction, but the disfigured shafts now stand in silent reproof of the wanton destruction.

DESECRATED BY VANDALS.

Over the grave of Revere stands an unpretentious shaft, which for years has remained undefaced. Now the smooth surface is marred by a ragged cut fully three inches long, the disfigurement showing the white marble in bold relief to the weather-stained stone. The tomb of Increase Sumner suffered a similar disfigurement, in exactly the same spot where it was defaced two years ago, during the visit of the Masons and Christian Endeavorers to the hub. The plain slab over the grave of John Hancock is badly mutilated, almost the whole right-hand side of the stone being hacked and broken.

INDIAN RIDES A WHEEL.

Chief Numa Tiple of Nevada, Who Is an Excellent Cyclist.

CHIEF NUMA TIPLE.

This Indian chieftain is on his first visit to San Francisco, and is the guest of T. H. B. Varney. He is a graduate of the Carson Indian school, being now employed by the Government as an interpreter and special officer. He was taught to ride last year, and is an excellent bicyclist.

FIGHT WITH TRAMP ROBBERS.

Deputy Marshals at Whiting Wound One and Capture Eight.

In the thick gloom of the Michigan Southern Railroad yards at Whiting, Ind., the scene of many petty crimes, a half-dozen or more alleged freight car robbers and highwaymen engaged in a fierce battle early Thursday morning with the town officials. Revolvers were freely used by both the alleged outlaws and the officers and about thirty shots were exchanged. One of the men, who gave his name as William O'Connor, was shot through the right hand. Ther esidents in the vicinity of the shooting were aroused by the fusillade and before eight men were finally arrested the entire town of Whiting had been terrorized. The authorities at Whiting believe that they came as an organized gang to pilfer freight cars.

BETTER THAN GOLD

ARE THE STEEL PENS shown below, so say our Customers.

OVER FIVE THOUSAND NATIONAL, STATE AND PRIVATE BANKS IN THE UNITED STATES are constantly being supplied with our pens, which fact alone guarantees their excellence.

PATENT APPLIED FOR.

Cut of inkstand shows our Popular No. 3, Automatic. Write us, enclosing stamps, and we will send you sample pens and tell you how to get the above stand without cost.

THESE ARE THE STRONG POINTS:
DURABILITY,
QUALITY,
SMOOTHNESS,
UNIFORMITY.

Take No Substitute.

If your dealer cannot supply you, send to this office, enclosing price, and we will fill your order, and guarantee safe delivery.

Price, per gross (1 box) $ 1.00
" 1-2 doz. boxes, 5.40
" 1 doz. boxes, 10.00

W. L. MASON & CO.,
(INCORPORATED.)
MANUFACTURERS STATIONERS' SUPPLIES.
KEENE, N. H.

ESTABLISHED, 1848.

D. A. ALTICK'S SON,

Manufacturer of High Grade Buggies, Surries, Phaetons, &c.

We claim to build, not the CHEAPEST, but the BEST for the money.

All we ask is, a TRIAL ORDER.

Send for catalogue, and by mentioning this paper we will allow you an EXTRA DISCOUNT.

D. A. ALTICK'S SON,
LANCASTER, PENN.

The Chamberlin Improved Screw Stump Puller.

The only practical stump puller made, pulls any and all classes and sizes of stumps. Four different sizes always in stock. When you buy get the best. Manufactured and sold by the Chamberlin Manufacturing Company of Olean, N. Y.

Write for catalogue and prices.

Chamberlin Manufacturing Company, - Olean, N. Y.

Relay Bicycles

Have more points of merit, than any other High Grade Bicycle.

FULL OF GRACE AND BEAUTY.

Every Wheel Guaranteed. Send for Catalogue.

Relay M'f'g Co., Reading, Pa.

NATURE'S REMEDY

CURES IN THE RIGHT WAY, BY REGULATING THE LIVER AND KIDNEYS, AND PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

It is a positive cure for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, Chills, and all diseases arising from a diseased liver or the kidneys, or impure blood.

YOUR MONEY BACK Is the plan on which it is sold. If after taking the entire box of medicine you do not think you have had your money's worth, send us back the guarantee, which you will find in the box, and we will send you a check for $1.00 by return mail.

It is put up in two forms, powder and tablets. The tablets are the easier to take, requiring no mixing. Price $1.00 for 180 doses of either kind. Sent post paid upon receipt of price. Send 10 cents for ten days' treatment and copy of Nature's Guide to Health.

A. H. LEWIS MEDICINE CO., - Bolivar, Mo.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

Made This Change. BEFORE TAKING. AFTER TAKING. CURED. LADY LYSTON.

DO YOU suffer from Nervous Prostration, Falling or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emission, Shrunken or Undeveloped Organs, Youthful Errors, Excessive Use of Tobacco or Opium? Sent by mail on receipt of price. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

BEFORE TAKING. AFTER TAKING. LOST 20 LBS. BITTER.

WE GUARANTEE to cure you or refund money, and we stand by our guarantee. Sold at $1 per Box, 6 Boxes for $5.

Sold By Fischer & Son

WHY NOT BUY THE BEST?

Sterling positively will not injure your hands or the finest fabric. This has been proven by actual tests. Clothes washed with it become white and odorless. Matchless for flannels. Superb for glassware. Will remove stains from marble and make your floors white as chalk.

Try it that it may speak for itself.

$2.50 Cleveland -TO- BUFFALO

....Also Daily Line Between....

Cleveland and Toledo, Via "C. & B. LINE."

Steamers "City of Buffalo," (new) "State of Ohio" and "State of N. Y."

DAILY TIME TABLE.
Sunday Included May 30 to Oct 3d

Lv Cleveland 7:00 p. m. | Lv Buffalo 7:30 p. m.
Ar Buffalo 7:30 a. m. | Ar Cleveland 7:30 a. m.

Central Standard Time.

Take the "C. & B. Line" steamers and enjoy a refreshing night's rest when enroute to Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, New York, Boston, Albany, 1000 Islands, or any Eastern or Canadian Point.

Cheap Excursions Weekly to Niagara Falls.

Send 4 cents for tourist pamphlet.
For further information ask your nearest Coupon Ticket Agent, or address.

W. F. HERMAN, Gen. Pass. Agt.
T. F. NEWMAN, Gen. Manager.
Cleveland, Ohio.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies. Especially recommended to married Ladies. Ask for DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler — Son.

PROMPT JOB PRINTING

LETTER HEADS, BILL HEADS, CARDS, ENVELOPES, CIRCULARS.

Nervous Weak Tired Thousands are in this condition. They are despondent and gloomy, cannot sleep, have no appetite, no energy, no ambition. Hood's Sarsaparilla soon brings help to such people. It gives them pure, rich blood, cures nervousness, creates an appetite, tones and strengthens the stomach and imparts new life and increased vigor to all the organs of the body.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the Best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier. Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5.

Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills; easy to take, easy to operate. 25c

Rebuses.

It was about the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries that the monogram or rebus form of expressing names came most into vogue in England. How general was once this fashion the visitor at many an obscure village church, many an ancient charitable foundation, can note for himself. There is a little Sussex church where the name of a sixteenth-century builder of a porch is commemorated by the carved figure of a woman—half-length—holding a churn—a somewhat clumsy rebus on the builder's name, "Alchorne." A well-known author relates that he was greatly puzzled by an antique carving, designed to give the name of the town, "Watton," but which represented a hare seated upon a tun. An aged inhabitant, however, explained, "We calls hares 'wats' in these parts," the old local word lingering in the district for centuries.

Simply Done.

An entertaining optical illusion is produced in a very simple manner. Wind some strong thread several times about the extremities of a chicken's wishbone, and tie the two ends together. Introduce a match between the two strands of thread and turn in a circle several times until the thread is very tight and the ends of the wishbone are drawn tightly together. If you let the match go, it will describe a complete circle and at the same time a curious optical illusion is effected. The rotary movement of the match is so quick that no eye can follow it and it seems as though the free end of the match actually cleaved the wishbone in passing from one side to the other. Strange to say, no matter how often the trick is done, or how closely the people are watching, the optical illusion will still remain.

Moonlight in Zululand.

In Zululand, when the moon is at the full, objects are distinctively visible at as great a distance as seven miles. By starlight one can see to read print with ease.

WOMEN! DON'T WAIT.

If You Have Any of These Symptoms Act at Once.

Do you know the reason why you will go to the hospital, my poor friend?

Because you have allowed yourself to go from bad to worse. You did not know that that heat, swelling and tenderness in your left side were all signs of congestion of the ovary.

Any intelligent woman could have told you that congestion is fatal to the uterine system, and that an ovary congested leads to tumor formation, and that you were in awful danger. Now you will have to undergo the operation of ovariotomy, the cutting out of the ovary.

Yes, you will recover, at least I hope you will; but you will never be quite the same woman again. Congestion of the ovaries is fatal to health. If you have any such symptoms be advised in time; take a medicine of specific powers! You can find none better than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, prepared especially to meet the needs of woman's sexual system. You can get it at any good druggist's.

Following we publish a letter from a woman in Milwaukee, which relates how she was cured of ovarian trouble: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I suffered with congestion of the ovaries and inflammation of the womb. I had been troubled with suppressed and painful menstruation from a girl. The doctors told me the ovaries would have to be removed. I took treatment two years to escape an operation, but still remained in miserable health in both body and mind, expecting to part with my reason each coming month. After using one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a package of Sanative Wash I was very much relieved. I continued to use your remedies until cured. The last nine months have been passed in perfect good health. This, I know, I owe entirely to the Vegetable Compound. My gratitude is great, indeed, to the one to whom so many women owe their health and happiness."—MRS. F. M. KNAPP, 563 Wentworth Ave., Milwaukee, Wis.

On a red hot day Hires Rootbeer stands between you and the distressing effects of the heat.

HIRES Rootbeer

cools the blood, tones the stomach, invigorates the body, fully satisfies the thirst. A delicious, sparkling, temperance drink of the highest medicinal value.

Made only by The Charles E. Hires Co., Phila. A package makes 5 gallons. Sold everywhere.

DUEL TO DEATH ON HORSEBACK

IT is not always when an act is first committed and is fresh in our minds that we receive our most vivid impressions of it. It is when we recall our recollections of the event a long time afterward that the images and circumstances surrounding everything done by the participants come back to us like a dream almost, yet withal clean-cut and clear as a cameo. Passing through Livermore valley on the train a few weeks ago I recognized standing at the depot a person whose face brought instantly to my mind a flood of reminiscence. An event which occurred in 1866—just thirty-one years ago this summer—in which the person I then saw was the principal actor flashed rapidly before my vision. He was a boy then. He is a man now, and time is telling upon him. His small figure is now slightly bent and the hair and mustache are tinged with the frost of passing years. The little gentleman I have reference to is Simon Foscalina, now a resident of Livermore, and the circumstances in which he figured are as follows: There had been a fandango at the house of Joe Livermore, otherwise known as "Positas," at the Rancho Agua Puerco, in the Livermore valley. The party was given in honor of the birthday of one of the children of Joe Livermore, who at that time was a well-known character in Alameda county.

The friends and relatives of the family always gather on occasions of this kind, and generally manage to keep up the festivities for three or four days. Everything is free to those who honor the occasion with their presence. Hilarity is the order of the day and night. Wine and other liquors are dealt out with a free hand, and where such is the custom trouble cannot always be avoided, however desirous the host may be to preserve the peace. Whenever it is given out that such a party is to be held all disreputable characters for miles around gather and make day and night hideous with wild debauchery, drunkenness and quarreling. Pistols and knives are flourished in the most reckless manner. The more reputable persons present dislike to interfere for the preservation of order through fear of being harmed personally or of having their houses or crops burned, so the desperate class of persons who congregate on such occasions are received with as good grace as an unwelcome visitor prone to mischief can be, and are, perforce, permitted to enjoy themselves in their own peculiar way with the rest of the company.

Among those who made it convenient to be at the christening at Joe Livermore's house that night and also to get murderously drunk was one Mocho Feliciano, a notoriously bad character, an ex-convict, murderer and stage robber. I prevented Feliciano from pulling the head off a Mexican at the Alisal one day. He had lassoed his victim around the neck and started to drag him. I took hold of his horse's bridle and told him to stop, whereupon Feliciano dropped his riata and, turning fiercely toward me, attempted to jump his horse upon me. Retreating to where my buggy was standing, I took from the socket a good, bone and gut whip and, returning to Feliciano, I again seized his horse's bridle and vigorously laid the whip upon his thinly clad body until he cried "bastante," and I ended by forcing him to ride out of town crestfallen and badly punished.

Before I left Alisal—now Pleasanton—that night a Mexican friend cautioned me to beware, as Feliciano had cursed me as he rode away and made all sorts of threats about getting even for the whipping I had given him. I always remembered the threat of Feliciano thereafter and kept a sharp lookout that no harm came to me through him. On the particular night of which I write, at Joe Livermore's house, Feliciano opened the ball by flourishing a large knife and boasting in a loud tone of voice that he was "mucho valiente" (very brave), and wanted every person he met to test his courage.

Among the guests was a young Italian named Simon Foscalina, a lad of about 16 years of age, small in stature but brave as a lion. He was an excellent pistol shot and a splendid horseman—in fact, none of the native Californians could excel him in equestrian exploits. It was about 10 o'clock in the forenoon that Simon came riding up to the Agua Puerco rancho. Feliciano at once caught sight of the young man, and forthwith began abusing him, calling him all sorts of vile names in Spanish. Simon at first good-naturedly laughed over his rough reception, telling the desperado that he was intoxicated and did not know what he was saying.

"I am drunk, am I?" exclaimed Filiciano, and hobbling to his horse (he had been shot through the hips once in an attempt at stage robbing, and could not walk very well, but was at home all the same, in the saddle), which was standing at a short distance from the house, he hastily untied him, and in an instant was on the animal's back, knife in hand, and dashing furiously toward Simon Foscalina.

"Hombre de dos caras" (two-faced man), he cried, "I will show you whether I am drunk or not. Stop and defend yourself!"

Simon simply reined his horse aside to avoid being struck, and laughingly told Filiciano to behave himself and act like a man. The quarrelsome fellow ran his horse after Simon about 300 yards, and, finding that the youth had the most agile steed and could not be caught, turned his mustang toward the house. Simon slowly followed, and as he approached Filiciano suddenly wheeled about and made another dash toward him.

Again the young man eluded the desperate knife-thrust. The wily Mexican again essayed to draw Simon within his clutches by pretending to have given up his treacherous design. He rode toward the building, and Simon followed as before. Once more the would-be murderer turned and poured forth a volley of scurrilous abuse.

Simon's patience was evidently becoming exhausted. "I do not deserve such talk from you, Mocho," said he, "and if you run after me again I will protect myself!" Upon hearing this Filiciano became very much enraged, and, exclaiming, "Usted no tengas valor!" (You have no courage), started after Simon at full speed. This time the young man could not avoid a collision. As Filiciano ranged his horse alongside of Simon's he made a savage lunge at Simon with his knife, cutting through his coat. Had the youth been less alert the knife would have been driven to its very hilt in his body. The lad was now somewhat alarmed at the persistence of Filiciano, and began to believe that the fellow was in downright earnest and meant to have his life. So, riding off about a hundred yards, he turned and warned the desperate man that if he assaulted him again it would be at his peril.

Filiciano at once made another charge toward his intended victim, and a lively skirmish followed, Simon endeavoring to keep out of the fellow's way, and the other wildly bent upon killing him. Finally Simon drew his pistol and fired at his adversary. The bullet struck Filiciano's horse in the neck. The animal, smarting under the wound, jumped and tried to run away, but the ever-ready spurs were plunged into its sides, and it was headed again toward the boy.

On man and rider went, regardless of the almost certain death that was staring the former in the face. As he dashed forward Simon again fired, but missed his aim. Still the enraged Mexican dashed on toward him, once more the boy fired, this time evidently with better effect, for Filiciano rose in his stirrups and placed his hand on his side. Then turning his horse he rode, in a walk, toward the house of Joe Livermore. He had gone about sixty yards when he suddenly halted, commenced to sway from side to side in his saddle, and an instant later fell from his horse to the ground.

Simon, with the impulse of a generous heart, ran forward to assist his fallen foe, but before he could reach him Filiciano staggered to his feet and attempted to remount his horse, which had remained motionless beside him. He was then himself again. Straightening himself up, he flashed a defiant look at Foscalina and, exclaiming, "Yo muy hombre" (I am a man of courage), rode on about twenty yards. Suddenly he stopped, sat perfectly still for a moment, and then began to sway again in his saddle, and finally pitched headlong to the ground—dead.

Thus ended the career of a reckless, malignant, dangerous man. There was an inquest held and the coroner's jury found it a case of justifiable homicide. I must say I felt a great sense of relief when I learned of this desperado's death, as there was no telling at what time he might have taken a notion to ambush and kill me. It would have been an easy matter for him to have done so, and that, too, without the least chance of detection or discovery, as I was compelled as sheriff of the county to travel through that part of my bailiwick at all hours of the day and night.—San Francisco Chronicle.

THE FATAL SHOT.

STATUE OF CHOATE.

The Historic Jurist and Statesman to Be Honored.

The memory of Rufus Choate, the historic jurist and statesman, is to be honored with an appropriate monument in bronze. David C. French, the noted New York sculptor, has just completed a life-size statue of Choate, which is to erected in the newly built court house in Boston. The staute in the clay has been inspected by Joseph Choate, the distinguished nephew of the great man, and it is said that he has pronounced it a most admirable portrait, both in feature and figure. The statue depicts Mr. Choate in one of his characteristic attitudes. He is standing erect, one hand grasping the lapel of his Prince Albert coat, the other holding a number of pages of notes, from which he is speaking. The pedestal on which the bronze figure will rest is to be of marble, and the total height of pedestal and statue will be about fourteen feet. The monument is a gift to the city of Boston by some person who does not desire that his name shall be known. Rufus Choate was a native of Massachusetts and was born in 1799. He was a descendant of the old Puritan stock. He was educated at Dartmouth, studied law, and, like his nephew, devoted the best work of his life to its practice. As a lawyer he was pre-eminent. He wrote some memoirs that are still read, and he might have been great as a statesman had he had the ambition to pursue politics. His career as Congressman and Senator was remarkable in an era of great men. He died in 1850.

STATUE OF RUFUS CHOATE.

A FLOWING PETROLEUM WELL.

Powerful Explosive Is Lowered and Forces Out a Torrent of Oil.

Among the impressive oil region spectacles the shooting of an oil well always takes front rank. The well that is to be shot has been drilled to the oil producing strata of sand rock, and there the oily fluid is held in the pores of the rocky formation. In some instances the gas pressure is sufficient to blow the oil into the hole drilled in the rock, and no other means is required to get the oil to the top of the ground. This is only in exceptional cases. The general way is to lower a long torpedo so as to pass inside of the casing, down to the bottom of the hole. The torpedo is a tin can of probably 10 feet in length. Inside the can the space is filled with nitro-glycerine. A percussion cap on the top of the can is so arranged that the dropping of a weight or go-devil causes the device to explode.

WHEN THE TORPEDO EXPLODES.

The rock is rent over the bottom of the well, and a basin is formed which becomes a reservoir to pump from when the well is ready for that part of the business. The cut shows the torrent of oil that rushes from the subterranean depths when the torpedo or "shot" is exploded.

Fireproof Paper.

Fireproof paper for writing and printing purposes is now manufactured in Berlin by a new patented process. Ninety-five parts of asbestos fiber of the best quality are washed in a solution of permanganate of calcium, then treated with sulphuric acid as a bleaching agent. Five parts of wood pulp, as used in paper factories, are added, and the whole is placed in the agitating box with an addition of lime water and borate of soda. After being thoroughly mixed, the material is pumped into the regulating box and allowed to flow out of the gate on an endless wire cloth, where it enters the usual paper-making machinery. It is easy to apply water marks to this paper, which ordinarily has a smooth surface, which can be satin finished for writing purposes. Paper thus produced is said to resist even the direct influence of flame and remains uninjured, though subjected to a white heat.

Novelty in Headgear.

Aluminum helmets have not proved successful in the German army, the saving in weight being more than offset by the metal's storing heat, even to blistering the foreheads of the wearers.

Food and Odor.

Food that has little odor and food that readily absorbs odors should be placed at the bottom of the refrigerator. All foods with a strong odor should be kept on the top shelves.

HAD TO USE MORPHINE

MRS. JOHN BEARD WAS AT ONE TIME VERY NEAR DEATH'S DOOR.

Neuralgia of the Heart and Stomach, and Sleeplessness, Made Her Life One of Misery—After Suffering Ten Years and Given Up to Die by Physicians She Finds a Cure.

From the New Era, Greensburg, Ind.

Mrs. John Beard, of Jackson, Mich., was for many years a great sufferer with neuralgia of the heart and stomach. She was indeed considered hopelessly ill, and considerable surprise has resulted from the lady regaining her health in a marvelous manner. A reporter called on Mrs. Beard, who stated as follows:

"I have been a sufferer from neuralgia of the heart and stomach for many years, originally brought on by exposure. It is just ten years ago since I experienced the first neuralgic twinges in my head and stomach, which were so severe that my screams could be heard for several blocks, and morphine was the only thing that would give me any relief.

"These attacks usually lasted about two hours and came very frequently. I had no appetite, I could not walk, and at times my jaws became so firmly set that they could not be opened.

"Several specialists and many physicians were consulted, but to no purpose, for they did me no good. I had almost lost hope, when I read a testimonial of Mrs. Henry Osting, of Sunman, whom I knew, regarding Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and decided to give them a trial. The first box had not been used, when all pain left me, and after using the rest of the half dozen boxes I was as well as ever I was in my life."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are sold in boxes (never in loose form, by the dozen or hundred) at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

An Astute Jurist.

The judge, addressing himself to a witness of the female persuasion who is visibly afflicted with at least forty years:

"Mademoiselle, your age, if you please."

(After a long and interesting hesitation)—"Twenty-four, your honor."

(To the clerk)—"You may administer the oath."

She takes the oath.

"And now, mademoiselle, remember that you must tell the truth."—L'Illustre de Poche.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is taken internally. Price 75 cents.

A Monster Steel Plate.

A steel plate has just been turned out by an English firm that is said to be the largest made. After shearing it measures 76 feet 8 inches by 5 feet, and is six-tenths of an inch thick; it is without a flaw and weighs five and a half tons.

Hall's Hair Renewer renders the hair lustrous and silken, gives it an even color, and enables women to put it up in a great variety of styles.

McGill's Big Gift.

McGill University, in Montreal, has just received a gift of $25,000 from Mr. Walter Drake of that city for the endowment of its chair of physiology.

What Dr. Rauwolf Did.

Coffee is said to have been introduced into Europe by Dr. A. Rauwolf, a German physician, about the middle of the sixteenth century. He got it from Arabia, after it had passed into that country from Abyssinia. It is a pity, for coffee is one of those seductive stimulants which do harm under the disguise of seeming to do temporary good. It is a nerve poison on the same principle that alcohol is, and opium. Hence the public are to be congratulated on the prospect of the new food drink, Grain-O, taking its place. The latter is prepared from pure grains, is nourishing, sustaining and healthful, and never affects the nerves. Those who have tried Grain-O say nothing can induce them to resume the use of coffee. Good for children as for adults. Cost, one-fourth that of coffee. Packages 15c. and 25c. Ask your grocer for it.

The stargazers of the Mount Hamilton Observatory say that there are five hundred million burning suns in the milky way.

Shake Into Your Shoes

Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder for the feet. It cures painful, swollen, smarting feet, and instantly takes the sting out of corns and bunions. It's the greatest comfort discovery of the age. Allen's Foot-Ease makes tight-fitting or new shoes feel easy. It is a certain cure for sweating, callous and hot, tired, aching feet. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores. By mail for 25 cents, in stamps. Trial package FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

First Actor—Many a time my poor old father implored me not to become an actor. Second Actor—Don't worry, old man, you didn't.—Tid-Bits.

What's the best disinfectant and remedy for skin irritations and defects? Glenn's Sulphur Soap.
Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye, black or brown, 5c.

The shine in the saloon is made from roses taken out of the faces of women and children.

Wabash Railroad.

Go to San Francisco to the Y. P. S. C. E. Convention Via the WABASH LINE. Very low rates and fast time. By taking the WABASH you are given a choice of several routes both going and returning. For details call on or address any Agent Wabash Railroad.

Located on the South Shore of Lake Erie contiguous to the Nickel Plate Road are many Country Homes that will accommodate Summer Boarders. Send to B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent of the Nickel Plate Road at Cleveland, O., and he will forward you a list on receipt of a two-cent stamp.

NATIONAL CONVENTION YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY OF CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

San Francisco, Cal., July 7 to 12, 1897.

The Wabash Railroad has made a very low rate from all stations to San Francisco and return for this occasion.

For particulars, call on any agent of the Wabash or connecting lines.

A list of Country homes along the South Shore of Lake Erie open to Summer Boarders will be mailed to any one enclosing a two-cent stamp to B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent of the Nickel Plate Road, Cleveland, Ohio.

Wabash Railroad.

REMEMBER that if you want to visit the Pacific Slope this summer the WABASH will take you out to San Francisco and back at astonishingly low rates. Ask Wabash Agents about it.

A Stout Backbone

Is as essential to physical health as to political consistency. For weakness of the back, rheumatism, and disorders of the kidneys, the tonic and dietetic action of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the one thing needful. The stomach is the mainstay of every other organ, and by invigorating the digestion with this preparation, the spinal column, and all its dependencies, are sympathetically strengthened. The dyspeptic and bilious will find it a pure vegetable stimulant and tonic.

Hens Hatch Them.

The hens of China lead busy lives. When not engaged in hatching out a brood of their own kind they are put to the additional and novel task of hatching fish eggs. Chinese cheap labor collects the spawn of fish from the water's edge, put in an empty eggshell, which is then hermetically sealed with wax and placed under the unsuspecting setting hen. After some days the eggshell is removed and the spawn, which has been warmed into life is emptied into a shallow pool well warmed by the sun. Here the fish that soon develop are nursed until strong enough to be turned into a lake or stream.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink without injury as well as the adult. All who try it like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha and Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. One-fourth of the price of coffee. 15c and 25c per package, sold by all grocers.

There is no man so poor as the man who dreads poverty the most.

Piso's Cure for Consumption is the best of all cough cures.—George W. Lotz, Fabacher, La., Aug. 26, 1895.

Intelligence is largely in knowing what we do not know.

Wabash Railroad.

Before making your arrangements to attend the Y. P. S. C. E. Convention in San Francisco July 7 to 12, find out what rates and fast time is made by the WABASH and its several trans-continental connection. The Wabash tickets will take you over the magnificent scenic country in the Rocky Mountains.

AN EXCELLENT SCHEDULE.

The Nickel Plate Road Starts an Improvement and Special Service.

The new train service on the Nickel Plate Road is a great improvement on fast service and is a special benefit to Fort Wayne people. Three through trains daily for all points east or west. Hereafter passengers for Cleveland or Chicago may go and return on the same day with ample time for business at either Chicago or Cleveland.

Elegant drawing rooms, sleeping cars to New York City and Boston, Nickel Plate express east at 3:27 p. m., carriage coaches, baggage cars and sleeping cars through to New York City without change of cars. East-bound train leaving Fort Wayne 3:30 a. m., via Nickel Plate road arrives at New York City at 7:40 a. m., at Boston at 10:15 a. m. the following day, train leaving Fort Wayne at 3:27 p. m. reaches Cleveland at 8:40 the same evening, New York City 3:30 p. m., Boston 5:30 p. m. following day. The train leaving Fort Wayne at 8:30 p. m. reaches Buffalo at 8:00 a. m., at New York at 8:50 p. m. of the following day. Also at convenient hour for Saratoga Springs, Troy and other interior New York State points.

Wabash Railroad.

If you are going to visit the Tennessee Centennial Exposition now open at Nashville, inquire into the superb time and low rates offered by the WABASH R. R. Communicate with any Agent.

An Artistic Brochure entitled "Summer Outings" is published by the Nickel Plate Road, describing vacation resorts along that line. Address B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., for a copy.

Wabash Railroad.

For the Christian Endeavor National Convention to be held in San Francisco July 7-12, the WABASH will make the lowest rates. Apply to any Agent Wabash Railroad for particulars.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething: softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

Wabash Railroad.

The WABASH R. R. is making very low round-trip rates to the Nashville Exposition, and by many hours the quickest time. Write to Wabash Agents for information.

AN OPEN LETTER To MOTHERS.

WE ARE ASSERTING IN THE COURTS OUR RIGHT TO THE EXCLUSIVE USE OF THE WORD "CASTORIA," AND "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," AS OUR TRADE MARK.

I, DR. SAMUEL PITCHER, of Hyannis, Massachusetts, was the originator of "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," the same that has borne and does now Chas. H. Fletcher on every bear the fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. This is the original "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," which has been used in the homes of the mothers of America for over thirty years. LOOK CAREFULLY at the wrapper and see that it is the kind you have always bought Chas. H. Fletcher on the and has the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. No one has authority from me to use my name except The Centaur Company of which Chas. H. Fletcher is President

March 8, 1897. Samuel Pitcher, M.D.

Do Not Be Deceived.

Do not endanger the life of your child by accepting a cheap substitute which some druggist may offer you (because he makes a few more pennies on it), the ingredients of which even he does not know.

"The Kind You Have Always Bought"

BEARS THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE OF

Chas. H. Fletcher.

Insist on Having The Kind That Never Failed You.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY

BE BEAUTIFUL! IF YOUR BLOOD IS BAD YOUR FACE SHOWS IT.

It's nature's warning that the condition of the blood needs attention before more serious diseases set in. Beauty is blood deep.

HEED THE RED FLAG OF DANGER,

Cascarets

When you see pimples and liver spots on your face.

Make the COMPLEXION Beautiful, by Purifying the BLOOD.

If the blood is pure, the skin is clear, smooth and soft. If you take our advice, you will find CASCARETS will bring the rosy blush of health to faded faces, take away the liver spots and pimples. Help nature help you!

ALL DRUGGISTS. 10c., 25c., 50c. YOU CAN, IF YOU ONLY TRY. No. 239

Are you sure that you're using the right thing for washing? If the work is slow and hard, and you have to depend upon rubbing, then you ought to get something else. And even if you have something that saves work, it may be bad for the clothes. You may be ruining them.

Pearline gives the easiest, quickest, most economical washing, of anything that's safe to use. The more you investigate, and inquire and compare, the surer you'll be that Pearline is the only right thing to wash with. 540

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. JAMES PYLE, New York.

Bear in Mind that "The Gods Help Those Who Help Themselves." Self Help Should Teach You to Use

SAPOLIO

EARN A BICYCLE 500 Second Hand Wheels. All Makes. Good as new. $5 to $15. New High Grade '96 models, fully guaranteed, $11 to $25. Special Clearing Sale. Ship anywhere on approval. We will give a responsible agent in each town sample wheel to introduce them. Our reputation is well known throughout the country. Write at once for our special offer.

H. P. MEAD & PRENTISS, Chicago, Ill.

$75 $50 RIDE A CRESCENT BICYCLE. Western Wheel Works MAKERS CHICAGO ILLINOIS CATALOGUE FREE

DRUNKARDS can be saved without their knowledge by ANTI-JAG, the marvelous cure for the drink habit. Write RENOVA CHEMICAL COMPANY, 66 Broadway, New York. Full information (in plain wrapper) mailed free.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

BIG G CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A. $1.00

When Writing to Advertisers say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

WHAT has been your experience? That the "just-as-good," "sold-for-less-money" kinds are the most expensive? That the best, or standard, in all lines is the cheapest? The best in paints is Pure White Lead and Linseed Oil. (See list of the genuine brands.)

FREE By using National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors, any desired shade is readily obtained. Pamphlet giving valuable information and card showing samples of colors free; also cards showing pictures of twelve houses of different designs painted in various styles or combinations of shades forwarded upon application.

NATIONAL LEAD CO., CHICAGO BRANCH,
Fifteenth and State Sts. Chicago, Ill.

The Woman Who Uses

GOLD DUST

Washing Powder

finishes her work as fresh and bright as her house is clean.

Largest package—greatest economy.

The N. K. Fairbank Company,
Chicago. St. Louis. New York.
Boston. Philadelphia.

F. W. HOFFMAN,
DENTIST,
AUBURN, - - - - - - INDIANA
Office in Gandy building, northeast corner of Square.
CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
Capital and Surplus $60,000.
Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest, if left six months. County and town orders bought and sold. Money to loan.
C. A. O. McCLELLAN, PRESIDENT
CHAS. McCLELLAN, CASHIER.

S. B. JOHNSTON,
DENTIST.
AUBURN - - INDIANA
Office, 25 North Main Street.
Most Difficult Operations, a Specialty.
Telephone No. 27, Western.

J. H. JOHNSTON,
DENTAL SURGEON,
Auburn - Indiana.
OFFICE OVER PIONEER HARDWARE STORE.
SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO PLATE WORK

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS.
Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, Corner Main and Sixth Streets.
Professional Calls Promptly Answered.
Telephones: Western, 19; Central Union, 19
D. J. Swarts, M. D. Vesta W. Swarts, M. D

ALBERT ROBBINS, PRES. J. C. HENRY, V. P.
FARMERS BANK.
—INCORPORATED—
AND UNDER STATE CONTROL.
Capital and Surplus $50,000
Transacts a General Banking Business and pays Interest on time Deposits.
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

I. O. BUCHTEL, HOMEOPATHIC
Physician and Surgeon.
Special attention given to Chronic and Obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.
Office and residence over Madden Bros Marble Works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, day or night.

MATHENY & STAMETS,
Physicians and Surgeons.
OFFICE on 9th St., opposite Swineford House:
Calls responded to from the office at all hours of day or night.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Margaret Sheets deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 1st day of July, 1897, and show cause, if any, why my final settlement accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 3d day of June 1897.
ROBERT S. S. REED, Administrator.
F. & J. M. Ege Atty.

ZYCOPHORUS!

ZYCOPHORUS Is the latest, and greatest, scientific composition of medicines for the cure of all Kidney, Bladder, Sexual and Nervous Diseases. It is purely vegetable and has an immediate marvelous action. Hundreds have been cured by Zycophorus after the failure of all other methods. We do not offer a large reward for cases it will not cure, but give a written guarantee to cure or refund money. Cures all kidney and bladder diseases such as painful, dribbling, burning, or difficult urination, dropsical swellings, gravel, cystitis, albumen, sugar, mucus, blood, and other deposits and discharges, and such sexual and nervous disease is emissions, vital drain in urine, varicocele, impotency, impaired memory, weak back, melancholy, premature decline of the manly powers, etc. Renews sexual life in both sexes, and builds up the nerve and brain tissues. One package will prove its efficacy. Six packages guaranteed to cure or money refunded. Price per package, 50 cents; Six packages, $2.50. For sale at drug stores or sent prepaid to any address on receipt of price. Send for circular.

FILMAN CHEMICAL CO.,
Toledo, O.

NOTICE TO NON RESIDENTS.

State of Indiana, DeKalb county, ss:

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, May term, 1897

Mary L. Phillips is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against her in said court, to foreclose a mechanic's lien by Jackson Burns and that the same will be heard and determined on the 2d day Aug. of 1897, being the 67th judicial day of the next term of said court, which commences May 1897.

Witness, the clerk of said court this 7th day of June, 1897. MICHAEL F. LONG Clerk.
L. J. GENGLER, Attorney.

EXCURSION TO CHATTANOOGA.

Less than Half Rates to the South.

All lines leading to Louisville, in connection with the Southern Railway will sell excursion tickets to Chattanooga and return at less than one fare for the round trip. Tickets will be sold July 13-15th, good returning until July 21st inclusive. Tickets can be extended to August 15th by depositing with Joint Agent at Chattanooga prior to July 19th. The Southern Railway is the only through car line Louisville to Chattanooga. For schedule of trains and further information, apply to nearest ticket agent or address Wm. H. Taylor, Ass't. Gen'l. Pass. Agent, Louisville, Ky. 23-27

NO PAY—NO CURE

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Chills and Malaria. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price 50c. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding, Ulcerated and Itching Piles. It abs bs the tumors, allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and Itching of the private parts and nothing else. Every box is guaranteed. Sold by druggists, sent by mail for 50c and $1 per box.

WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props. Cleveland O. Sold by Fischler & Son.

4th July Excursion.

On July 3, 4, and 5 the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. will sell excursion tickets at half rates at all its stations to points within 200 miles of selling station, good returning until July 6th inclusive.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

SIT ON THE FENCE

And Wait for the Mail Carrier to Come Along.

Agricultural Advertising.

Show me the farmer that combines the raising of livestock with grain raising and I'll show you a prosperous and happy man. Livestock husbandry and farming go together as naturally as water flows down hill. It may be going too far to say "useless one without the other," but certain it is that one plays into the hand of the other in such a way that a farmer who wants to make the most of his opportunities must combine the two.

It is a good scheme for us country "yahoos" to grow livestock as well as grow crops for the variety of the thing if for nothing else. It is not a good thing to tread the wine press from one year's end to another, and by breeding and feeding as well as seeding a nice little variety is introduced which makes life worth living. Ever since the time of Cain and Abel, the raising of livestock has seemed to have divine sanction. Cain "brought of the fruit of the ground," and Abel brought of the "firstlings of his flock." Cain may brought the best he had, but we are certainly to understand that Abel selected closely as to quality for his offering. The lesson in this to my mind is in the culling process. Even at that early day there were different degrees in the quality of flocks and herds. This being true it is not hard to understand how great a variety in all kinds of livestock may be found today.

Six thousand years is a long time. It is long enough to run a retrograding strain of blood clear into the ground. Yet when I see some of the animals that some of our farmers are trying to perpetuate, I feel that they are the tail end of some of of the culls that Abel threw out when he was sorting out for the annual fall fairs that were held at that time.

Altho' Abel was young and inexperienced he seemed to have the right idea of breeding. He could not go to his neighbors and discuss the merits of the Merino, Shropshire, Horned-Dorset or Southdown sheep. He could not swap yarns with his brother breeder as to the weights and early maturing qualities of Poland-China, Berkshire or Samworeh pigs. He could not listen to his neighbor blow about the great milk and butter records of his dairy cows, and then slip back home and beat all previous productions by changing the score of his own cows. He could not buy up the judges and get his tin cup records for his trotting or pacing "horses" or for a twenty,five cent tip get the judges at the poultry show to score his fowls up as near the perfection mark as he thought the suffering public would stand. All these things were against the young man, yet we are led to believe that he had carefully culled his flocks and herds, and kept nothing but the best for breeding purposes.

We are also led to infer that this young man believed in advertising. He certainly managdd to get his name in print and it has been carfully kept before the public ever since. Some of us may not see it as often as we might, but that is our fault, not his. While he did not occupy much "space" he kept constantly at it until his name became familiar in every household, an example that every breeder of livestock can follow to a decided advantage.

I like to see men have the courage of their convictions. If they honestly think they have the best stock in the country I like to hear them say so. We do not need to believe them if we do not want to and it seems to do them lots of good to make the claim. After they have come out with such statements they are liable to put forth greater efforts to excel everybody else and that means improvement. The publisher of a paper who allows advertisers to blow a little about what they have may unconscious be doing greater good than he knows. A little enthusiasm is a great thing if it leads on to improvement. Advertisements are bordering on the sensational or "whoop-em-up" order more and more right along and if livestock men want to keep up with the procession they must at least put some spice in their advertisements.

I long to see the day when we will get free mail delivery in the country. When this comes to pass we will see quite a change in the character of business done in the rural districts. It will obviate the necessity of letters lying in the postoffice for a week or two when farmers havn't time to go after them. It will prevent answers to these letters lying on the mantle or behind the clock for a month or two when no one has time to take them to the postoffice. It will open up new fields and relieve old ones for advertisers who are after the farmers' trade.

I long to see the time when I can sit on the fence for an hour or two waiting for the mail carrier to come. If we have the right kind of carriers they can make themselves useful as well ornamental. They can do the milking or churning for the farmers while the family is reading the postal cards that belongs to their neighbors. They can gather the eggs and "tote" them to market. They can chop wood on the wood pile when the supply is low and thus win the hearts of women. They can carry the gossip from one neighbor to another and thus save time for the gossipers. It will be a great day when Uncle Sam sends his uniformed boys into the rural "deestricts" and gives the busy farmer an equal chance to do business with his city "breteering."

Shakespear said many wise things but none wiser and truer than "the good which men do live after them." I can now recall the struggles and discouragements of some of the early breeders of live stock. Some of them never lived long enough to reap the benefits of their labors, but the present and future generations are and will be the beneficiaries. The improvement in all kinds of stock in the past forty years is greater than we can realize. This change is all due to the patience and perseverence of pioneer breeders. The seed has been well sown The harvest is now ripe and ready to be gathered by those who are in the ranks. The way to make the most of it is to continue to improve and scatter the seed by persistent and judicious advertising.

A. JAY.

THE EDITORS.

SPECIAL TO COURIER.

PAOLI, IND., June 10, 1897.—The State Democratic Editorial Association assembled here to-day, after a tedious trip through hot dusty weather. A rather full attendance is on hand and a good program began to-night with the address of welcome given by Maj. Simpson of this place.

Paoli is the county seat of Orange county, and probably the most picturesque little city in the state. It is on a series of slopes and hills facing south—has but one little railroad; a branch of the Monon, that runs west crossing the main line at Orleans, and ends at 18 miles at French Lick Springs, going through West Baden; both noted health resorts. But Paoli also has mineral springs, of the sort called "lithia water," which are said to be very effective in many diseases. Here is the queerest old court house in the state, modeled exactly after the old state house in Indianapolis, with a very pillared portico in front and heavy pilasters all along each side. It is built on a foundation of solid rock. You only have to scrape away the dirt here to get a bed rock. We have had this evening the best business talk I ever heard, in the address of the president, Mr. Wilson of the Lafayette Journal. The speaking was intermingled with fine orchestra music, by the Eckels Enterprise Orchestra, of Worthington, Greene county, who had to come nearly 100 miles to be with us. We are now over 300 miles from Auburn, the way we came. Only the COURIER and Butler Herald are represented here. The hot wave has come, and who knows but we are the men who will bring "prosperity," by bringing on the hot weather? We expect to go to West Baden and French Licks before our return.

B.

"The Foot of a Fly"

says an eminent English doctor, "will carry enough poison to infect a household." In summer-time, more especially, disease germs fill the air, multitudes are infected, fall ill, die; multitudes escape. These messengers of mischief do not exist for millions. Why not? Because they are healthy and strong—protected as a crocodile is against gunshot. It is the weak, the wasted, the thin-blooded who fall; those who have no resistive power so that a sudden cough or cold develops into graver disease. We hear of catching disease! Why not catch health? We can do it by always maintaining our healthy weight.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, is condensed nourishment; food for the building up of the system to resist the attacks of disease. It should be taken in reasonable doses all summer long by all those whose weight is below the standard of health. If you are losing ground, try a bottle now.

For sale by all druggists at 50c. and $1.00

Our I's and.... ....Other Eyes.

Our I's are just as strong as they were fifty years ago, when we have cause to use them. But we have less and less cause to praise ourselves, since others do the praising, and we are more than willing for you to see us through other eyes. This is how we look to S. F. Boyce, wholesale and retail druggist, Duluth, Minn, who after a quarter of a century of observation writes:

"I have sold Ayer's Sarsaparilla for more than 25 years, both at wholesale and retail, and have never heard anything but words of praise from my customers; not a single complaint has ever reached me. I believe Ayer's Sarsaparilla to be the best blood purifier, that has been introduced to the general public." This, from a man who has sold thousands of dozens of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, is strong testimony. But it only echoes popular sentiment the world over, which has, "Nothing but words of praise for Ayer's Sarsaparilla."

Any doubt about it? Send for "Curebook" It kills doubts and cures doubters. Address J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

PAOLI, IND., June 11, 1867.—To-day's session of the Indiana Democratic Editors has been one of unusual interest and value. An intensely interesting paper was read by Dan McDonald of the Plymouth Democrat, on the early editors of Indiana. He gave brief sketches of the first editors of the Indianapolis Sentinel, Vincennes Sun, South Bend Register (Schyler Colfax) and many others, a valuable resume of which will be given in the COURIER later. Several of the early editors have been lost to view, and a general line of remarks followed, in which some of the lost ones were located and their biographies will be added. There was also an able paper on "Country Correspondends, how to get and how to keep them," by R. E. Purcell of the Vincennes Sun. It was followed by an exhaustive discussion. A. H. Dipboys of the Columbus Herald had an able paper on "Local Advertising," in which he gave much information as to the laws in other state. A general discussion followed. Various committees made reports, which were fully discussed, especially the one by which several articles in the society's constitution were changed. Three of the most important changes are: 1, permitting annual dues to be paid at either meeting, "summer" or "midwinter," instead of midwinter only, as at first fixed. 2, Making executive committee consist of one from each congressional district, instead of having only five as heretofore. 3, Defining with more exactness the limit or requirements of membership. It was also decided to print 500 copies of the constitution for the use of the members, as they may require. The hard work of the session is done. But after the banquet this evening there is to be an address by Gil Shanklin, the brilliant editor of the Evansville Courier.

Tomorrow, the citizens have laid out a program for us, including a trip to famous places, such as West Baden, French Licks and some famous but undeveloped mineral springs in the woods a mile or two from here. People take great pride in the mineral water here, but you have to hold your nose gently, yet firmly, the first few times you indulge in it. Only three members are here from that part of the state north of Peru. They are Dan McDonald of Plymouth, Mr. Gardiner of Butler and myself, the first and last having their wives with them. Quite a number have brought other members of their families, and all are enjoying themselves, except that the weather is pretty warm.

Milwaukee and Return—Low Rates

On July 3, 4 and 5 account National Educational Association meeting, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. will sell excursion tickets at all its stations to Milwaukee, Wis., and return at half fare, plus $2.00. Tickets good for return, leaving Milwaukee until August 31st. Apply to ticket agents or write to A. J. Smith, G. P. and T. A. Cleveland, O., for pamphlet of information about this and other cheap excursions.

Less Than Half Rates to San Francisco.

On June 28, 29 and 30 and July 1, 2 and 3 the Lake Shore & Michigan Ry. will sell excursion tickets to San Francisco and return at less than half rates. Tickets will be good to return to leave San Francisco until August 9th.—Stopover privileges apply at certain points in the west both going and returning. For full information call on ticket agents or write to A. J. Smith G. P. and T. A. Cleveland, O., for pamphlet of information.

ABOUT OUR BUSINESS.

Some Very Unpleasant Things in Newspaper Life.

Those persons who think the editing and publishing of a newspaper, especially a daily in a small city, such delightful and profitable business would soon change their minds had they once the trial or a little experience. There is no other business which is so much meddled with or dictated to, everybody seeming to think he has a perfect right to criticise and find all the fault he wishes, if he is only a subscriber.

Try ever so hard to get out a good paper, get in all the news, both local and general, speak kindly and well of people and things, take extra pains to keep out errors and to puff some one, but don't take it to heart that you have made a success or any great hit, for ten to one you will get 'blown up' a half dozen times before you get home to supper. You will hear of the mistakes, however small, but no one will mention the many good things you may have in, nor say that is a nice notice or thank you for the puff. And strange as it may seem, if there is a possibility of attaching a wrong meaning to your well meant article, it is sure to be done.

Everyone likes to read items of local interest about others but nothing must be put in about him, or there is trouble and your ten cents a week are gone, notwithstanding you are expected to publish a newspaper and give all the news. How sensible! Then, when something happens in a family that you would gladly leave out if you could (and you are sure to be asked to do so,) but it has already been told around town and you know your patrons will expect to read the particulars in the paper, or say it is worthless, and therefore you decide it must go in, but out of kindness to the parties you conclude to withhold the names and only give the bare facts without an unkind remark, instead of being thanked for consideration you will get a personal tongue-lashing or an impudent, mean and threatening letter, showing plainly that some people do not appreciate generous treatment, and have no true idea of the proper conduct of a newspaper, although they think they know more about it than you do.

The best way for all concerned is to give the editor or reporter the facts at once and let the truth be told, as it cannot be concealed and is sure to come out, and thus you will prevent an incorrect account, which is liable to be the case where the facts are withheld.

WANT TO BUY

A good second hand, 12-horse power boiler and engine. A thresher engine will do. Must be cheap. Call here.

WILL BE PROMOTED

Ft. Wayne Journal.

Upon excellent authority the Journal makes a few predictions, relative to changes in the department of state at Washington. They are as follows:

Senator Sherman, owing to ill health, will resign the secretary of stateship, within the next six weeks.

Judge Day, of Canton, present assistant secretary of state, will succeed him, as secretary of state.

Judge Penfield, of Auburn, recently appointed solicitor for the state department, will succeed Day as assistant secretary.

These changes will be made within the next six weeks or two months. Secretary Sherman's health is rapidly failing. His memory is becoming impaired, and in a general sense his days of usefulness are at a end.

He will undoubtedly wind up his career as the premier of the McKinley cabinet, and retire from public life to the quietude of his home at Mansfield.

When Judge Penfield left a $3,000 per year job as judge, to accept a Washington, place the tenure of which is of doubtful length, and the salary of which is but $3,500, many people wondered, and some doubted his wisdom in accepting such a position.

It would appear, however, that the ex-judge, builded wiser than the people knew, and is ready to fall into one of the softest snaps within the gift of the president.

The information which is conveyed in this announcement is positively authentic, and absolutely correct. It may be banked upon as being reliable, and northern Indiana can soon claim the honor of producing the first assistant secretary of state for the McKinley administration.

CATON'S-TANSY-PILLS-
A TRIED, TRUE AND SAFE WOMAN'S RELIEF. Always prompt and reliable. Avoid Imitations. Get CATON'S TANSY PILLS and SAVE REGRETS. At drug stores, or sent direct (sealed), price $1. CATON MED. CO., Boston, Mass. Pamphlet free.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

Celebrated for its great leavening strength and healthfulness. Assures the food against alum and all forms of adulteration common to the cheap brands. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

MEESE REUNION.

The first meeting of the Meese reunion last night was largely attended. The sermon by Rev. Guild was one of his masterly efforts and was listened to attentively by the audience. The sermon this evening will be by Rev. Haines, of Garrett. We hope this reunion may prove a grand success.

CALL FOR TOWN ORDERS.

Upon presentation I will pay all outstanding orders up to and including No. 1119 Jan. 18, 1897. Interest will stop June 17, 1897.

MILES BAXTER,
Treas. Town of Auburn.

It is Thought by Many

when the Creator said to woman "in sorrow shalt thou bring forth children," that a curse was pronounced, but the joy felt by every Mother when she first presses to her heart her babe, proves the contrary.

Danger and suffering lurk in the pathway of the Expectant Mother, and should be avoided, that she may reach the hour when the hope of her heart is to be realized, in full vigor and strength.

"Mother's Friend"

so relaxes the system that the natural and necessary ..... change takes place without Nausea..... Headache, Nervous or Gloomy..... Foreboding and at the trying hour makes Child-birth easy, as so many happy mothers have experienced. Nothing but "Mother's Friend" does this. Don't be deceived.

"Mother's Friend" is the greatest remedy ever put on the market, and all my customers praise it highly."—W. H. KING & Co., Whitewright, Tex.

Sent by Mail, on receipt of price, $1.00 PER BOTTLE. Book "To Expectant Mothers" mailed free, containing valuable information and voluntary testimonials.

THE BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

William's Kidney Pills

Has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. Have you neglected your Kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your Kidneys and Bladder? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, groins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire pass urine? William's Kidney Pills will impart new life to the diseased organs, tone up the system and make a new man of you. By mail 50 cents per box.

WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props., Cleveland, O.

Sold By Fischler & Son.

Weakness of Men

Quickly, Thoroughly, Forever Cured

by a new perfected scientific method that cannot fail unless the case is beyond human aid. You feel improved the first day, feel a benefit every day, soon know yourself a king among men in body, mind and heart. Drains and losses ended. Every obstacle to happy married life removed. Nerve force, will, energy, when failing or lost, are restored by this treatment. All weak portions of the body enlarged and strengthened. Write for our book, with explanations and proofs. Sent sealed, free. Over 2,000 references.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., 66 NIAGARA ST. BUFFALO, N. Y.

MADE ME A MAN

AJAX TABLETS POSITIVELY CURE ALL Nervous Diseases—Failing Memory, Impotency, Sleeplessness, etc., caused by Abuse or other Excesses and Indiscretions. They quickly and surely restore Lost Vitality in old or young, and fit a man for study, business or marriage. Prevent Insanity and Consumption if taken in time. Their use shows immediate improvement and effects a CURE where all other fail. Insist upon having the genuine Ajax Tablets. They have cured thousands and will cure you. We give a positive written guarantee to effect a cure in each case or refund the money. Price 60 CTS. a per package; or six pkges (full treatment) for $2.50. By mail, in plain wrapper, upon receipt of price. Circular free. AJAX REMEDY CO., 19 Dearborn St. Chicago, Ill.

Sold by F. E. Davenport, Auburn.

LIFE VIM VIGOR VITALITY DEATH
RESTORED IN 30 DAYS
NOW GOOD EFFECTS AT ONCE THEN

CATON'S VITALIZER

Cures general or special debility, wakefulness, spermatorrhœa, emissions, impotency, paresis, etc. Corrects functional disorders, caused by errors or excesses, quickly restoring Lost Manhood in old or young, giving vigor and strength where former weakness prevailed. Convenient package, simple, effectual, and legitimate.

CURE IS QUICK AND THOROUGH.

Don't be deceived by imitations! Insist on CATON'S Vitalizers. Sent sealed if your druggist does not have it. Price $1 per pkge, 6 for $5, with written guarantee of complete cure. Information, references, etc., free and confidential. Send us statement of case and 25 cts. for a week's trial treatment. One only sent to each person.

CATON MED. CO., BOSTON, MASS.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Volume XXVII | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, June 24, 1897. | Number 25.

SCHAAB & BRO.

SECOND ANNUAL CLEARANCE SALE!

One Week, Commencing Monday, June 28th, and Closing Saturday, July 3rd.

This, our Second Annual Sale, Shall far surpass our sale of last year. We give this sale, not alone for the purpose of reducing our stock, but more especially to make new customers and to please our many friends, whose trade we already nj oy. Our store is much larger than last year. We will arrange our stock to much better advantage; we will have a much larger number of clerks, and will try hard to please you in every regard. We will quote you prices on a few of the many attractions we will have in store for you:

WASH DRESS GOODS.

25 Pieces Scotch Lawn, sold at 6 cents, while they last.....3 cents per yard
50 Pieces Dimities and Lawns, sold at 10 cents, while they last.....5 cents per yard
All 15-cent Organdies, while they last.....9 cents per yard
All 20-cent Organdies, Mulls and Lace Effects, while they last.....12½ cents per yard
All 25 cent Organdies, while they last.....15 cents per yard

50 Pieces Amoskeag and Lancaster Ginghams (fresh from the mill) ..only 4½ cents per yard
All 6-cent Prints (we have nearly a cord).....only 4 cents per yard
All 5-cent Prints (thousands of yards).....only 3 cents per yard

WOOL DRESS GOODS.

All 25-cent Worsteds and Novelties.....we will mark 19 cents
All 40-cent Worsteds and Novelties.....we will mark 31 cents
All 50-cent Serges, Henriettas and Novelties.....we will mark 38 cents
All 75-cent Serges, Henriettas and Novelties.....we will mark 57 cents
All $1.00 Serges, Henriettas and Novelties.....we will mark 75 cents

1,000 Yards Extra Heavy, fine quality Shirting, were 10 cents.....sale, 7 cents per yard
1,500 Yards Extra Quality, nice weight Shirting, were 8 cents.....sale, 5 cents per yard
Entire Stock 12½-, 15- and 18-cent Silkaline.....we will sell at 10 cents per yard

J. & P. Coats' Best Spool Cotton, Two Spools Limit 1 Dozen. ..... 5 CENTS

Full pound roll Elegant Cotton Batt, regular 15-cent quality.....sale price, 10 cents
1,000 yards good weight Cottonade, sold everywhere at 15 cents.....sale price, 10 cents

We wish to sell you MUSLINS, and the excellent brands we offer at the prices we quote ought to sell every yard we have.

4,000 Yards Genuine Lonsdale Bleached Muslin.....we will offer at 6 cents per yard
2,700 Yards Farmers' Choice and all other 7-cent Muslin.....we will offer at 5 cents per yard
8,000 Yards Extra Nice Bleached Muslin.....we will offer at 4½ cents per yard

Two Bales Lawrence L. L. Unbleached Muslin.....we will offer at 3¾ cents
One Bale Aurora C. Unbleached Muslin.....we will offer at 2¾ cents
One Bale Pacolet Unbleached Muslin.....we will offer at 4 cents

A sweeping reduction on all wide SHEETINGS, both bleach and unbleach, also on all ready made Sheets and Pillow Cases.

1 case Ladies' Fast Black Hosiery, regular price 15c per pair; during this sale 9c per pair---$1 per dozen pairs.
We have made a decided reduction on all lines of Hosiery. Haven't the space to give prices on all

SHIRT WAISTS.

All 50-cent Shirt Waists, while they last.....25 cents
All other Shirt Waists will be sold at.....Actual Cost

TABLE LINENS.

25 cent Turkey Red Table Linen, reduced to.....13 cents per yard
Fine Unbleached Table Linen, 35-cent quality, reduced to.....21 cents per yard
We have greatly reduced the prices on all Table Linens.

CLOTHING

We are recognized leaders in clothing throughout this section of the state. What you buy from us you can depend upon as being absolutely right. Right in style, fit, quality, workmanship and price. We are going to give you a chance to buy clothing almost at your own price.....

We will offer all our Men's $ 8.00 Suits at.....$ 5.00
We will offer all our Men's $10.00 to $13.00 Suits at.....7.50
We will offer all our Men's $14.00 to $18.00 Suits at.....10.0

Boys' Knee Pant Suits that were $1.50 will go for.....$1.00
Boys' Knee Pant Suits that were 2.50 and $3.00 will go for.....1.75
Boys' Knee Pant Suits that were 4.50 and 5.00 will go for.....3.25

All Boys' age 14 to 19, $5.00 to $6.00 Suits will go at.....$3.50
All Boys', age 14 to 19, 7.00 to 8.00 Suits will go at.....5.00
All Boys', age 14 to 19, 9.00 to 12.00 Suits will go at.....7.00

OUR ENTIRE STOCK OF HATS AND CAPS WILL BE OFFERED AT ONE-FOURTH OFF.

All New Style All-Wool Ingrain Carpets, sold at 60 cents, will go at.....46 cents per yard
All Lace Curtains, endless variety, will be offered at.....⅓ Off

CARPETS

All Portierres, from Cotton to Silk, will be offered at.....¼ Off
All Rugs will be offered at.....¼ Off

During this sale the entire Furniture Stock belonging to the Schaab Furniture Co., will be offered for sale 1-4 off regular prices. This will be a golden opportunity to buy nice, clean up-to-date furniture at greatly reduced prices. We invite you to attend this sale. Yours Respectfully.....

Schaab & Bro.,
AUBURN, INDIANA.

DON'T KICK

But buy a good Thomas Tedder to do that for you. After it is kicked enough, then use a Rock Island Hay Loader to load it. The most important thing to do is to buy them of

Brown, Culbetrson & Boland,

Cash Hardware Store, where can be found Binder Twine CHEAPER than any place in Northern Indiana

THE OLD SETTLERS.

The twentieth reunion of the DeKalb County Old Settlers was held here today. The meeting was held in the court house park and was largely attended. Persons who have been residents of the county over 40 years were eligible to membership, and each registered his name and received a badge which contained the words, "DeKalb Pioneers, 1897."

After noon, several selections were played by the Auburn Military Band and our elderly friends, many of them accompanied by their wives, assembled and listened to an interesting session. The meeting was called to order by the president, Gen. Blair, of Waterloo. Rev. Colvin then led in prayer after which the president name some committees. James E. Rose read the list of those who had passed to their heavenly home. During the past year 39 of the Pioneers have passed away. Nearly twice as many as died in the previous year. Hon. E. D. Hartman then made an able and eloquent address which was very interesting and full of good things to cheer the hearts of early settlers. Then followed P. B. Nimmons with an interesting address also.

The officers chosen were: C. A. O. McClellan, President; James Platter, Vice-president; D. Z. Hoffman, Secretary; R. G. Danniels, Treasurer; J. E. Rose, biographer.

It is a pleasure and the town should take great pride in having the old pioneers meet with us. They are the men, with the old soldiers, who have made this country what it is, but they are rapidly passing away. Do you old settlers notice that the years come around quicker than they used to? Somehow the old world spins around too fast for us. The threads of life become tangled in the warp and woof of modern days. Even the governor of the weather mixes things up wrong and December is about as pleasant as May. Thanksgiving, Christmas, New Years and Decoration Day seem now to come as often as assessments and installments in a mutual insurance company. Faster and faster the anniversary days go by. The years of our pilgrimage up to date number half a century. We are now in the nineties of the present century. The eighties have gone, and the seventies, and the sixties, and the forties, when a babe we slept on a mother's breast "at home" in a typical Hoosier log cabin.

The following is a list of names of those who were here today and registered, including the year in which they came to the county:

William Embry.....1841
D Z Hoffman.....1845
H P Stroh.....1848
E D Hartman.....1847
Isaac Gunsenhouser.....1838
G N Smurr.....1842
M F Long.....1849
Frank Scholes.....1855
P B Nimmons.....1844
Jacob Link.....1852
C E Emanuel.....1851
G W Gordon.....1841
John Feagler.....1840
Geo. Moore.....1856
M B Willis.....1843
H R Culberteon.....1853
M L Hoffman.....1857
Sylvester Wiseman.....1851
C A O McClellan.....1856
Mrs C A O McClellan.....1840
J E Rose.....1836
Andrew Baxter.....1846
James McClellan.....1853
Joseph Link.....1853
Jacob Gunsenhouser.....1836
L J Blair.....1635
Isaac Hague.....1838
P J Showalter.....1857
Charles Stimely.....1842
Christian Smith.....1856
N T Fuller.....1848
D W Fair.....1838
M T Bishop.....1850
A J Ralston.....1842
Charles Glazier.....1855
C B Kagey.....1852
John Taylor.....1846
William Fair.....1843
Mrs Wm Fair.....1845
Robert Showers.....1839
R G Daniels.....1837
Philip Noel.....1839
John Crowl.....1853
Andrew Duncan.....1852
Mrs A Duncan.....1840
M Whetsel.....1837
Wm Feagler.....1346
Mrs Wm Feagler.....1846
Mrs M Whetsel.....1841
E C Foltz.....1848
G B Monroe.....1836
Wm Carr.....1839
Baylis Boyer.....1840
John Miser.....1847
Henry Gunsenhouser.....1836
Frank Miser.....1846
Wm McClellan.....1845
G I Patterson.....1842
Mrs G I Patterson.....1844
G Mathews.....1843
Geo Bleeks.....1854
Mrs G Bleeks.....1847
Mary E Thomas.....1844
J W Baxter.....1849
Martin Tustison.....1855
Simon Rohm.....1847
Fred C Waterman.....1843
Henry Rohm.....1845
M C Jones.....1842
E R Shoemaker.....1840
Mrs M C Jones.....1843
J R Steves.....1851
Mrs J R Steves.....1849
Mrs F Miser.....1849
Geo Bryan.....1838
Mrs Ann Gunsenhouser.....1849
Ellen Waterman.....1843
C H Baker.....1856
Geo Draggoo.....1842
Harrison Jones.....1845
Arnold Blodgett.....1842
Frank Grambling.....1849
Rev W L Meese.....1855
Mary Fisk.....1841
Harmon Gee.....1840
J J Latson.....1854
David Maxwell.....1842
Steward Wartenbee.....1859
A C Osbun.....1842
G W Stah'.....1850
John Stonebreaker.....1850
W S Carnahan.....1855
J H Ford.....1844
R J Fisk.....1858
C C Walter.....1846
Wrs Wm Valleu.....1853
Mrs D Altenburg.....1845
Jane Osbun.....1844
John Pyle.....1847
James Platter.....1836
R Shull.....1854
Mrs Mary Shull.....1844
Wm Brown.....1846
S G Shook.....1845
Lew Hosler.....1854
H J Foltz.....1853
Jos Rainier.....1849
Sara Husselman.....1842
Anna Deetz.....1850
John Deetz.....1855
John Cramer.....1858
Mrs John Cramer.....1841
James McDaniel.....1843
Mrs McDaniel.....1856
Ella Blaney.....1856
Mary A Feagler.....1849
Henry Harvey.....1849
Wm Latson.....1854
Milton Chaney.....1853
John Height.....1854
G W Woodcox.....1837
Willis Bishop.....1838
John Baird.....1851
Wilbert Zimmerman.....1854
Anna Z McIntosh.....1841
Charles Raut.....1854
Lydia Feagler.....1843
Mary A. Kagey.....1853
Mary J Cherry.....1842
Mary Wycoff.....1855
Samuel Maurer.....1842
Mrs M Kline.....1841
Mrs D Lawrence.....1841
Barbara Knepper.....1842
Matilda Soule.....1845
Lucie Link.....1842
Mrs Ginder.....1843
Mrs Winslow.....1849
Henry Husselman.....1842
Mrs Willis Bishop.....1842
Hellen Baxter.....1854
Samantha Draggoo.....1835
Daniel Gingrich.....1842
Wm Valleu.....1853
Mrs G W Gordon.....1852
David Goodrich.....1848
Mary E Lockwood.....1842
Elizabeth Gee.....1839
Mrs Henry Knott.....1839
Amos Walsworth.....1856
Eliza Chaney.....1844
Wm J Walsworth.....1838
Mrs Walsworth.....1848
D D Miser.....1844
Eliza Miser.....1845
Harmon Luce.....1856
Daniel Maginnis.....1842
Mary Boyer.....1854
H H Cupp.....1842
Dock Stafford.....1849
Mrs John Stonebraker.....1844
Charles W Widney.....1836
John Widney.....1836
Joseph Prosser.....1853
John Geisinger.....1846
S H Nugent.....1857
Sarah A Maxwell.....1853
Mrs Peter Ditmars.....1842
Mary McAnnally.....1845
Lizzie Klotz.....1855
Ida Foster.....1853
Sarah Esselburn.....1851
Mary Brown.....1857
Jane Clark.....1844
Mrs Marsh.....1843
M B Masters.....1845
Sarah Masters.....1853
Caroline Boyer.....1853
S Lige.....1843
Anna Flint.....1841
Mrs Lige.....1842
Geo W Husselman.....1845
Wm Wallace.....1849
Henry Shull.....1844
James R Cosper.....1841
I N Johnson.....1837
Mrs Geo Husselman.....1846
Mrs Clouse.....1847
Isaac Ditmars.....1853
Mrs C Smith.....1856
John Sheffer.....1845
Jacob Carper.....1853
Priscilla Barclay.....1842
Mrs Wm Swander.....1844
Mrs Bates.....1856
Mrs H Burtnett.....1856
Uriah Johnson.....1837
Mrs M E Kosht.....1850
John Olinger.....1846
John Robbins.....1852
Albert Robbins.....1851
John Fretz.....1853

HIGH GRADE WORK GIVES THE CONSUMER SATISFACTION,
Consequently is best for the Dealer to handle.

A Full Line of BUGGIES, SURREYS, PHAETONS, ROAD WAGONS, &c., &c.

Send for Catalogue and Prices.
All Work Guaranteed.

We also Manufacture DOVETAIL BODIES AND GEARS IN THE WHITE.

DOVETAIL COMPANY
CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND.

FACTORY, Cor. Oak & College Sts.
SALESROOM, 214 E. Main St.

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

SEE THAT THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE —OF— Chas. H. Fletcher IS ON THE WRAPPER OF EVERY BOTTLE OF CASTORIA

Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk. Don't allow anyone to sell you anything else on the plea or pretense that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose." See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

1897. JUNE. 1897.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
•	•	1	2	3	4	5
6	7	8	9	10	11	12
13	14	15	16	17	18	19
20	21	22	23	24	25	26
27	28	29	30	•	•	•
•	•	•	•	•	•	•

F. Q. 8th. F. M. 14th. L. Q. 21st. N. M. 29th.

THE NEWS RECORD.

SUMMARY OF A WEEK'S HAPPENINGS.

The Latest News as Flashed Over the Wires from All Parts of the World—Regarding Politics, Religion, Casualties, Commerce, and Industry.

THE EDITORS.

A Most Interesting Session of the Northern Indiana Association.

The Northern Indiana Editorial Association held its twenty-eighth annual session at Rome City, Ind. An interesting and instructive program was rendered. Marion was selected as the next place of meeting.

The following officers were elected:

J. B. Stoll, President.

Mrs. F. W. Willis, First Vice President.

Mrs. Daniel McDonald, Second Vice President.

Mrs. J. E. Buchanan, Third Vice President.

J. S. Conlogue, Secretary.

Dr. A. S. Parker, Treasurer.

Executive Committee, J. E. Sutton, J. D. Rerick, J. W. Baker.

Delegates to the National Editorial Convention at Denver, Col., J. Walker and Peter Walrath.

Appalling Ruin.

Calcutta special: Almost the whole of the Province of Assam has been devastated by the earthquake. The ruin is appalling. The courts, treasuries, jails and hospitals have collapsed. The loss of food supplies is enormous. The crops are mostly ruined and great scarcity of food is expected. All traffic is difficult as numbers of the roads have been completely demolished. Earthquake shocks still continue to be felt in the Province of Assam, and much alarm is felt as renewed shocks have been reported from various places in Bengal. Heavy rains are immensely increasing the damage.

Tea Coming In.

Tacoma (Wash.) special: More tea is now afloat on the Pacific Ocean than ever before at one time. The importers of New York and other eastern cities have made large purchases in China and Japan for immediate delivery and have received special orders to enter it before the Dingley bill goes into effect. A thousand tons of new crop tea has been landed here and 12,000,000 pounds is on the ocean between Yokohoma and this port. This comprises the cargoes of the steamers Braemer, Mogul, Tacoma and Victoria. The Canadian line is also bringing heavy shipments.

Ohio G. A. R.

The annual encampment of the Ohio department of the G. A. R. was held at Chillicothe. On account of the heat in June it was decided to hold the encampment at Mt. Vernon next year and all encampments hereafter not later than May 15. Resolutions were adopted for 18 pension to all, and a service pension of one cent per day, payable monthly. The Bushnell plan of paying pensions direct to the beneficiaries was also indorsed.

Furnace to Resume.

A special from Youngstown, Ohio, says: Within a short time three furnaces in the Mahoning Valley, which have been out of blast for some time, will resume. They are the Struther's furnace at Struthers, the Andrews Bros. & Co.'s furnace and the furnace of the Youngstown Steel Company of this city. The Andrews & Hitchcock furnace at Hubbard resumed operations last week.

Woodford's Promise.

It is formally announced that Stewart L. Woodford's selection as Minister to Spain was influenced by the fact that he agreed to go to his post immediately upon confirmation, something very much desired by the President, and also remain there throughout the present administration, an arrangement not subscribed to by some other possible appointees.

Oldest Postmaster Goes.

Wesley G. Scott, Postmaster at Scottsville, Ind., the oldest Postmaster in point of service in the country, has just been succeeded by Jacob Schmidt. Mr. Scott was appointed in 1857 by President Buchanan.

Drowned in a Pool.

While bathing in a pool six miles from Greenville, Texas, Cashier King, of the First National Bank, and Miss Austin, of Greenville, and Ida Schenck, of Sherman, Texas, were drowned.

Verdict of Acquittal.

Judge Bradley instructed the jury in the case of John S. Shriver, correspondent of a New York paper, to bring in a verdict of acquittal in the sugar investigation case.

Another Pearl Bryan Case.

The badly decomposed trunk of an unknown woman, minus the head, was found floating in the Wisconsin River four miles below Portage, Wis.

Two Fatally Hurt.

While crossing the Pan-handle Railroad at Saratoga, five miles north of Winchester, Ind., Isaac Huffman, a prosperous farmer, and wife, were struck by a fast train, and both fatally injured. The wagon was torn all to pieces, but the horse was not hurt. They are about 40 years of age.

Struck by Lightning.

At Wapakoneta, Ohio, Peter Tabler was instantly killed by lightning and his residence destroyed by fire. His wife and children were seriously shocked.

EASTERN.

At Sing Sing, N. Y., Howard A. Scott was electrocuted Monday. Scott murdered his wife Oct. 28, 1896, because she had applied for a divorce.

The members of the general council of the Reformed Episcopal Church wrestled at New York with the question of clerical robes and wound up by forbidding the white surplice, save in the parishes where it is now used. Immediately thereafter Bishop Charles E. Cheney of Chicago, the leader of the whites, resigned all his posts in the gift of the council. R. W. Hare, Chicago; the Rev. Dr. William Fairley, Philadelphia; the Rev. T. J. Walton, Chicago, and J. S. Van Epps, Cleveland, did likewise. C. M. Morton of Philadelphia announced that Miss Harriet S. Benson had delegated him and William Tracey to state that on account of the action of the council in regard to the vestments she would withdraw until further notice the income from her contribution to the special church extension trust and the special synod trust. These trusts provide an income to the church of $15,000 a year. Bishop Cheney, after adjournment, was asked if he would leave the church. "Certainly not," he answered. "I merely resigned the position given me by the council. The council did not make me a bishop."

Fire at an early hour Tuesday morning destroyed the immigrant landing station that covered almost all of Ellis Island, causing a property loss of about $780,000 to the United States Government. All of the Government records and the baggage of the immigrants was burned. Two hundred and fifty immigrants were rescued from the burning structure and taken safely to New York City. Doctors nurses and attendants helped in the work of rescue. Meantime some of the immigrants who had escaped from the main building had become anxious about their baggage, and despite the fact that the vast building was fast being encompassed by the flames rushed back to save it. In all the known tongues they insisted that their all was contained in the boxes and bundles which they had brought over. Capt. Burke and his men had to fairly fight them back on the boat. They wept and wrung their hands when they found it was impossible to save their property. At 2 o'clock the flames were under control. The big station, the hospital, the laundry, restaurant, doctors' houses and a number of small outbuildings were in ashes. The engine house was the only building of importance on the island which escaped destruction.

The torpedo boat Cushing is now tied up to the wharf at the Newport, R. I., torpedo station. The deck over the engines has been removed, and machinists are at work on her. It would be impossible to find an angrier body of men. Last fall the Cushing was sent to the Norfolk navy yard to be fitted with new steam pipes. Everything must have been taken apart, and in putting things together a wreck was made of the boat. At that time she was in first-class condition, except that new steam pipes were needed. Her engines worked finely. It is now found that the cylinder head, which was screwed on tight, had been taken off and an asbestos packing put in between it and the cylinder. On the run up the sound a week ago it was found the blowers did not work properly and an examination showed that they had also been tampered with, and in order to get a pressure of forty pounds of steam it was necessary to use a rope packing in the blowers. The heads of the screws in the machinery have been filed off and the only way to get the screws out is to drill them out. The officers of the boat are indignant at the botch work at the navy yard, which has spoiled a boat that, until the building of the Porter, was the fastest boat in the navy.

WESTERN.

The Illinois Supreme Court has denied a rehearing in the case of Kochersperger against the estate of John B. Drake, in which the court upheld the constitutionality of the inheritance tax law.

Harry Whallen, the "human ostrich," who was operated upon at the Kansas City, Mo., German hospital Saturday and from whose stomach the surgeons took two pocket knives, three knife blades, three ounces of fine glass and tacks, nails, screws and staples to the number of seventy, died Monday morning as a result of the operation. He had been unable to take any nourishment after the operation.

Perry, O. T., dispatch: The Cheyenne and Arapahoe Indians were wrought up over the new law relating to polygamy. After July each of the forty Cheyenne Indians who has more than one wife will have to choose one of the two, three or five wives that he has, and the cast-off wives must go back to their relatives. The interest of the squaws, who have become enlightened to their situation, has become intense. Every squaw who wants to remain with her husband is doing her best to please him so that she will be the lucky wife. There are forty of these polygamists, and in all they have over 100 squaws.

The lives of three young ladies were blotted out Sunday evening by lightning while they were on their way home from church at Jacobsburg, Ohio. The victims are: Minnie McGuire, daughter of Rev. Thomas McGuire; Alpa Taylor, daughter of William Taylor, and Emma White, daughter of Simon White. All were aged about 19 years. Sarah Bohring was badly stunned and may die. They were walking together in the road about one hundred yards from the church when they were struck. It is believed that the steel corsets worn by the three that were killed were the chief cause of their death, as Miss Bohring, who was only stunned, wore none.

State Labor Commissioner Fitzgerald of California, who has just completed a personal investigation of the labor employed in the beet fields, says: "I find that between 95 and 98 per cent of all the labor used in the beet fields of California is Japanese and Chinese, with the Chinese fast going to the wall as against the competition of the Japanese. The cane fields of Hawaii have over 14 per cent of white labor, while the beet fields of California show but 5 per cent at present. The Japanese bosses in the fields told me that next year they will handle the entire industry. They say, too, that they expect to bid against the whites in renting the land."

Rev. Amos Whiteman, the preacher horse thief sent up from Madison County, Ind., two years ago, completed his sentence Monday, and when he stepped from prison he found six deputies from as many different sections of Indiana, Ohio and Illinois, waiting for him. Deputy Sheriff Welker of Darke County, Ohio, got him and took him home. Whiteman is about 55 years of age, is a pious looking fellow and passed as an evangelist. He would go to different farm communities to preach and spot the finest horses of his congregation. His accomplices would follow his instructions and get them. They would be bleached and bobbed and sold in Chicago. This was worked for ten years before he was caught. His second wife was a St. Louis woman, and he spent her fortune.

The Kansas City Star says that officials of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company have suspected for some time that fictitious names and the names of dead men have been carried on the pay rolls. It is rumored that the company has been robbed of thousands of dollars, that one high official has already been discharged for the offense and that others will follow him. The investigation was conducted in secrecy, and the officials of the Santa Fe refuse to discuss it. It was brought about by the report of the secret service department of the road, which claimed to have secured proof that one official had robbed the company of several thousand dollars by drawing the salaries of several fictitious employes whose names appeared on the pay rolls. Criminal prosecution of several minor officials is expected.

The manufacture of butterine as an industry will virtually cease in Illinois July 1, now that Gov. Tanner has signed the bill preventing the coloring of that article. Uncle Sam will lose $600,000 a year in internal revenue taxes, restaurant and boarding house keepers will have to buy genuine butter for their patrons, and the farmers all over the Prairie State will shout for joy as soon as the bill becomes operative. Thirty million pounds of butterine is made in Chicago a year, on every pound of which the manufacturer pays a 2-cent tax to the Government. He can afford to do it, too, for the modern product so closely resembles dairy butter in color and taste that it easily brings as good a price as the best butter that ever came out of a churn. But now that the farmers have secured the passage of a law prohibiting the coloring of butterine, thereby leaving it the shade of mutton tallow, the palmy days of the stock yards product are past. Butterine no longer can compete with dairy butter, and in consequence the manufacturers will shut down their works or move them to a more congenial clime, where the farmers are more meek and long-suffering. There are four firms engaged in the manufacture of butterine in Chicago—Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Braun & Fitts and G. H. Hammond & Co. The last named firm has an extensive plant at Hammond, Ind., and will suffer only the loss of the Illinois trade. The other three houses will be obliged to move to other States. Armour and Swift have plants at Kansas City and will probably transfer the machinery used in Chicago to that city.

SOUTHERN.

Mrs. Edith L. Bruno fell from a balloon into the Tennessee river at Chattanooga and was drowned.

At Austin, Tex., the jury in the case of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company, charged with violation of the anti-trust law, has brought in a verdict for the State, cancelling the company's permit to do business in Texas. The defendant will appeal.

The Henry Ellen coal mines, fifteen miles east of Birmingham, Ala., owned and operated by the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company, are on fire. The seam of coal is among the finest in the district and should the fire gain much headway great damage will result.

Early Tuesday morning, at New Orleans, throngs poured into St. Mary's Church, where the remains of Archbishop Janssens were lying in state. At 8 o'clock a solemn high mass was held in honor of the dead prelate, with Bishop Van de Viver of Richmond officiating. Nine bishops participated in the pageant and the funeral services. They were McQuaid of Rochester, Gallagher of Galveston, Dunn of Dallas, Forest, San Antonio; Vertaguer, Laredo; Fitzgerald, Little Rock; Herelin, Natchez; McCloskey, Louisville, and Van de Viver, Richmond. The mortuary procession embraced religious, civic and military features. Gov. Foster and staff, detachments of the State National Guard, court and municipal officers took part.

FOREIGN.

Dr. Angell will go to Turkey, the Sultan having issued an order accepting him as minister from the United States.

The trial of Frank Butler, charged with the murder of Captain Lee Weller while the two men were on a gold prospecting trip, was concluded at Sydney, N. S. W., the jury rendering a verdict of guilty. It was his practice to advertise for a prospecting partner, and having found one with means, to murder him while in the bush.

Barney Barnato is dead. The famous Kaffir king committed suicide by jumping into the ocean. The startling news was received at London late Monday night from Funchal, Madeira Islands, that Barnato had plunged from the steamship Scot into the Atlantic. A half gale was blowing at the time, and though a boat was at once launched in an attempt to rescue the suicide the effort proved futile. The body, however, was recovered after a prolonged search. Barnato was supposed to be the richest man in the world; but of late years he had suffered tremendous losses, and the Transvaal raid made a huge hole in his estate.

An attempt was made Sunday to assassinate Felix Faure, President of the French republic, while he was en route to Longchamps to witness the Grand Prix. While Mr. Faure's carriage was passing a thicket near La Cascade restaurant, in the Bois de Boulogne, a bomb, which subsequently proved to be a piece of tubing about six inches long and two inches in diameter, with a thickness of half an inch, charged with powder and swan shot, exploded. No one was injured by the explosion. A man in the crowd, suspected as the prime mover, was arrested. He gave his name as Gallet, and made only the briefest replies to questions put to him by the police.

IN GENERAL.

Obituary: At Milwaukee, Andrew Lanigan, 60.—At Syracuse, N. Y., Artemus H. Manwaring of Cleveland.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: "The gain in business continues, not without fluctuations, and at the best moderate yet distinct. It is still in quantities rather than prices, although in some branches an advance in prices appears, but on the whole the number of hands employed, the volume of new orders, and the amount of work done, are slowly increasing. Prospect of good crop of wheat and cotton helps; growing demand from dealers whose stocks a gradually gaining consumption deplete also helps; and in the money and exchange market large buying of American securities has an influence."

MARKET REPORTS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.50 to $5.50; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.00 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 69c to 70c; corn, No. 2, 24c to 26c; oats, No. 2, 18c to 19c; rye, No. 2, 33c to 34c; butter, choice creamery, 13c to 15c; eggs, fresh, 8c to 10c; potatoes, per bushel, 25c to 35c; broom corn, common growth to choice green hurl, $25 to $70 per ton.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.25; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, common to choice, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2, 74c to 76c; corn, No. 2 white, 25c to 27c; oats, No. 2 white, 20c to 22c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $3.00 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2, 85c to 87c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 22c to 24c; oats, No. 2 white, 17c to 19c; rye, No. 2, 31c to 33c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.50 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2, 81c to 83c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 25c to 27c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 19c to 20c; rye, No. 2, 36c to 38c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 81c to 83c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 24c to 25c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 23c; rye, 34c to 36c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 82c to 83c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 25c to 26c; oats, No. 2 white, 18c to 20c; rye, No. 2, 34c to 36c; clover seed, $4.15 to $4.25.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 71c to 72c; corn, No. 3, 24c to 25c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 23c; barley, No. 2, 28c to 34c; rye, No. 1, 34c to 36c; pork, mess, $7.25 to $7.75.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 86c to 88c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 27c to 29c; oats, No. 2 white, 24c to 25c.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.25; hogs, $3.50 to $4.50; sheep, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 75c to 76c; corn, No. 2, 31c to 32c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 23c; butter, creamery, 11c to 16c; eggs, Western, 10c to 12c.

TEXT OF THE HAWAIIAN ANNEXATION TREATY.

Provisions of the Pact Between the United States and the Little Island Republic as Signed and Sent to the Senate.

THE United States of America and the Republic of Hawaii, in view of the natural dependence of the Hawaiian Islands upon the United States, of their geographical proximity thereto, of the preponderant share acquired by the United States and its citizens in the industries and trade of said islands, and of the expressed desire of the Government of the Republic of Hawaii that those islands should be incorporated into the United States as an integral part thereof and under its sovereignty, have determined to accomplish by treaty an object so important to their mutual and permanent welfare. To this end the high contracting parties have conferred full power and authority upon their respectively appointed plenipotentiaries, to wit:

The President of the United States; John Sherman, Secretary of State, the United States.

The President of the Republic of Hawaii; Francis Marsh Hatch, Lorrin A. Thurston and William A. Kinney.

ARTICLE I.

The Republic of Hawaii hereby cedes absolutely and without reserve to the United States of America all rights of sovereignty of whatsoever kind in and over the Hawaiian Islands and their dependencies; and it is agreed that all the territory of and appertaining to the Republic of Hawaii is hereby annexed to the United States of America under the name of the Territory of Hawaii.

ARTICLE II.

The Republic of Hawaii also cedes and hereby transfers to the United States the absolute fee and ownership of all public, Government or crown lands, public buildings or edifices, ports, harbors, military equipments and all other public property, of every kind and description, belonging to the Government of the Hawaiian Islands, together with every right and appurtenance thereunto appertaining.

The existing laws of the United States relative to public lands shall not apply to such lands in the Hawaiian Islands, but the Congress of the United States shall enact special laws for their management and disposition; provided, that all revenue from or proceeds of the same, except as regards such part thereof as may be used or occupied for the civil, military or naval purposes of the United States or may be assigned for the use of the local government, shall be used solely for the benefit of the inhabitants of the Hawaiian Islands for educational and other public purposes.

ARTICLE III.

Until Congress shall provide for the government of such islands, all the civil, judicial and military powers exercised by the officers of the existing government in said islands shall be vested in such person or persons, and shall be exercised in such a manner as the President of the United States shall direct; and the President shall have power to remove said officers and fill the vacancies so occasioned.

The existing treaties of the Hawaiian Islands with foreign nations shall forthwith cease and determine, being replaced by such treaties as may exist or as may be hereafter concluded between the United States and such foreign nations. The municipal legislation of the Hawaiian Islands, not enacted for the fulfillment of the treaties so extinguished, and not inconsistent with this treaty nor contrary to the Constitution of the United States, nor to any existing treaty of the United States, shall remain in force until the Congress of the United States shall otherwise determine.

Until legislation shall be enacted extending the United States customs laws and regulations to the Hawaiian Islands, the existing customs relations of the Hawaiian Islands with the United States and other countries shall remain unchanged.

ARTICLE IV.

The public debt of the Republic of Hawaii, lawfully existing at the date of the exchange of the ratification of this treaty, including the amounts due to the depositors in the Hawaiian Postal Savings Bank, is hereby assumed by the Government of the United States; but the liability of the United States shall not exceed $4,000,000. So long, however, as the existing government and the present commercial relations of the Hawaiian Islands are continued, as hereinbefore provided, said government shall continue to pay the interest on said debt.

ARTICLE V.

There will be no further immigration of Chinese into the Hawaiian Islands except upon such conditions as are now or may hereafter be allowed by the laws of the United States, and no Chinese by reason of anything herein contained shall be allowed to enter the United States from the Hawaiian Islands.

ARTICLE VI.

The President shall appoint five commissioners, at least two of whom shall be residents of the Hawaiian Islands, who shall, as soon as reasonably practicable, recommend to Congress such legislation concerning the Territory of Hawaii as they shall deem necessary or proper.

ARTICLE VII.

This treaty shall be ratified by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, on the one part, and by the President of the Republic of Hawaii, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, in accordance with the Constitution of the said Republic, on the other; and the ratification hereof shall be exchanged at Washington as soon as possible.

In witness whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the above articles and have hereunto affixed their seals.

Done in duplicate at the City of Washington this sixteenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven.

JOHN SHERMAN.
FRANCIS MARCH HATCH,
LORRIN A. THURSTON,
WILLIAM A. KINNEY.

M'KINLEY'S MESSAGE.

Communication Which Accompanied the Treaty to the Senate.

The following is the text of the message sent to the Senate by President McKinley to accompany the Hawaiian treaty:

To the Senate of the United States: I transmit herewith to the Senate, in order that after due consideration the constitutional function of advice and consent may be exercised by that body, a treaty for the annexation of the Republic of Hawaii to the United States, signed in this capital by the plenipotentiaries of the parties on the 16th of June instant. For the better understanding of the subject I transmit, in addition, a report of the Secretary of State briefly reviewing the negotiation which has led to this important result.

The incorporation of the Hawaiian Islands into the body politic of the United States is the necessary and fitting sequel to the chain of events which, from a very early period of our history, has controlled the intercourse and prescribed the association of the United States and the Hawaiian Islands. The predominance of American interests in that neighboring territory was first asserted in 1820 by sending to the islands a representative agent of the United States. It found further expression by the signature of a treaty of friendship, commerce and navigation with the King in 1826—the first international compact negotiated by Hawaii. It was signally announced in 1843, when the intervention of the United States caused the British Government to disavow seizure of the Sandwich Islands by a British naval commander and to recognize them by treaty as an independent state, renouncing forever any purpose of annexing the islands or exerting a protectorate over them.

In 1851 the cession of the Hawaiian Kingdom to the United States was formally offered, and, although not then accepted, this Government proclaimed its duty to preserve alike the honor and dignity of the United States and the safety of the Government of the Hawaiian Islands. From this time until the outbreak of the war in 1861 the policy of the United States toward Hawaii and of the Hawaiian sovereignty toward the United States was exemplified by continued negotiations for annexation or for a reserved commercial union. The latter alternative was at length accomplished by the reciprocity treaty of 1875, the provisions of which were renewed and expanded by the convention of 1884, embracing the perpetual cession to the United States of the harbor of Pearl River in the Island of Oahu. In 1888 a proposal for the joint guaranty of the neutrality of the Hawaiian Islands by the United States, Germany and Great Britain was declined on the announced ground that the relation of the United States to the islands was sufficient for the end in view.

In brief, from 1820 to 1893 the course of the United States toward the Hawaiian Islands has consistently favored their autonomous welfare, with the exclusion of all foreign influences save our own, to the extent of upholding eventual annexation as the necessary outcome of that policy.

Not only is the union of the Hawaiian territory to the United States no new scheme, but it is the inevitable consequence of the relation steadfastly maintained with that mid-Pacific domain for three-quarters of a century. Its accomplishment, despite successive denials and postponements, has been merely a question of time. While its failure in 1893 may not be a cause of congratulation, it is certainly a proof of the disinterestedness of the United States, the delay of four years having abundantly sufficed to establish the right and the ability of the Republic of Hawaii to enter, as a sovereign contractant, upon a conventional union with the United States, thus realizing a purpose held by the Hawaiian people and proclaimed by successive Hawaiian governments through seventy years of their virtual independence upon the benevolent protection of the United States. Under such circumstances, annexation is not a change; it is a consummation.

The report of the Secretary of State exhibits the character and course of the recent negotiations and the features of the treaty itself. The organic and administrative details of incorporation are necessarily left to the wisdom of the Congress, and I cannot doubt, when the function of the constitutional treaty-making power shall have been accomplished, the duty of the national legislature in the case will be performed with the largest regard for the interest of this rich insular domain and for the welfare of the inhabitants thereof.

WILLIAM M'KINLEY.

TRAIN IN THE RIVER.

Passenger Engine and Cars Plunge Through an Open Draw in Chicago.

A Chicago suburban train on the Evanston branch of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad, consisting of engine, tender and two coaches, laden with nearly fifty passengers, ran into the open draw of the bridge at Canal and Kinzie streets at 9:55 o'clock Thursday night. The engine and first car plunged into the river. Eighteen persons were injured and a panic prevailed.

The accident happened at the time when traffic on that branch of the road is lightest of the day. Had it occurred two or three hours earlier the loss of life might have been great, as then the trains are made up of six to eight coaches, all heavily loaded, and at the speed at which this train was moving the weight would have carried it into the river entirely. As it was only the engine and first car left the rails. The engine was buried under water and the engineer and fireman were rescued from the submerged machine by the assistance of a tug that happened to be in the vicinity at the time. The car was a combination passenger and baggage coach with the baggage end nearest the engine. The baggageman, a colored passenger and another employe of the road were in the compartment and received a thorough drenching, besides serious bruises from falling pieces of baggage.

The train was two minutes late leaving the Union depot and proceeded to the crossing of the Northwestern road a few feet south of Kinzie street. There the rules compel all trains to come to a halt, but as the target was "right" for the Milwaukee road, Engineer Cleveland did not see the necessity of coming to a standstill, and, after slowing down speed, pulled out the lever and went ahead.

Less than fifty feet north is the private bridge of the Milwaukee road across the Chicago river. Cleveland did not notice that the draw was open, and not until the pilot of his engine was within a few feet of the chasm did he see the danger in front. Then, reversing the lever, he gave a cry of warning to the fireman and prepared to jump. The engine was over the brink, however, before either of the men could escape, and in an instant sank under the surface of the river.

WEYLER IS A FAILURE.

Disastrous Results of His Year's Command in Cuba.

Under a recent date a Madrid newspaper man, writing to a London paper, gives a graphic account of Gen. Weyler's year of command in Cuba. It has from the beginning been marked with unexampled severity toward all classes of Cubans. One result of this has been the disappearance of the Moderates and Autonomists, some of whom have been driven into exile, others into the ranks of the Separatists. Another result has been to desolate a large part of the island. Gen. Weyler has literally made a solitude and called it peace. But it is not peace. With an overwhelming army he has made "military promenades" through the four provinces of Pinar del Rio, Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara, burning and ravaging everywhere. The insurgents have avoided coming to a pitched battle. So he has declared there are no rebels there and those provinces are pacified. But it is not so. No sooner has he turned back to Havana than the patriots are in the field again, masters of the whole country outside the few fortified towns, and often menacing the latter and inflicting severe losses upon the Spanish army itself.

The correspondent gives an impressive official summary of the losses sustained since the outbreak of the war. Down to December, 1896, Spain put into Cuba nearly 198,000 men, including 40 generals and 684 field officers. Of these there have been killed in battle or have died from wounds 2 generals, 12 field officers, 107 subalterns and 1,707 men. Losses from yellow fever and other diseases reach the appalling aggregate of 1 general, 30 field officers, 287 subalterns and more than 20,000 men. Although the official statistics are silent on this point, it is known that fully 20,000 men have been sent back to Spain in an invalid condition, most of them with shattered constitutions, many of them to die. The total loss, then, to the Spanish army aggregates more than 44,000, or more than 22 per cent of the whole.

GENERAL WEYLER.

Against this the Spanish claim to have killed in battle 212 rebel officers and 13,091 men, to have wounded 41 officers and 3,522 men, to have taken prisoners 34 officers and 941 men, and to have received 22 officers and 2,594 men who have voluntarily surrendered. These figures, especially those of the killed, must be taken with much allowance, remembering that in the Ten Years' War the Spaniards claimed to have killed and captured more rebels than the whole population of the island. But even taking them at their face value, they show a total loss to the insurgents of only 20,457, or considerably less than half the Spanish losses. No wonder that, in view of this showing, Gen. Weyler realizes that he has failed.

An avalanche in Kashmir, involving the loss of life of several English officers, which has been paining many people in England, turns out to be the invention of a native servant who had run away from one of the officers.

NATIONAL SOLONS.

REVIEW OF THEIR WORK AT WASHINGTON.

Detailed Proceedings of Senate and House—Bills Passed or Introduced in Either Branch—Questions of Moment to the Country at Large.

The Legislative Grind.

The first test vote on the sugar schedule was taken in the Senate late Friday, resulting in the adoption of the Republican caucus amendment changing the House rate of 1 575-1000 to 1.95 per pound by the close vote of yeas 32, nays 30. The affirmative vote was made up of twenty-nine Republicans, one Democrat (McEnery of Louisiana), one silver Republican (Jones of Nevada) and one Populist (Stewart of Nevada). The negative vote was made up of twenty-five Democrats, three Populists and two silver Republicans. It was the closest vote thus far taken on an issue of importance, and was accepted as showing that amendments having the sanction of the caucus were assured of adoption. The vote was taken after a day spent in speeches on the effect of the sugar schedule.

The sugar schedule was again the subject of debate Saturday in the Senate. Practically no progress was made. Only one amendment was voted upon and that was defeated. When the Senate adjourned the amendment of Mr. Lindsay of Kentucky to strike out the differential on refined sugar was pending. The most sensational feature of the day was the speech of Senator McEnery of Louisiana. It was his maiden speech in the Senate. He openly avowed himself in favor of a tariff upon sugar. He moreover defended the sugar trust, whose interests, he argued, went hand in hand with the sugar planters. Mr. Lindsay of Kentucky and Mr. Caffery were the other Senators who addressed the Senate at length.

The Senate debate on the sugar schedule of the tariff bill proceeded Monday with only one diverting incident to relieve the monotony into which the discussion has lapsed. This was the sharp exchange between Mr. Hoar of Massachusetts and Mr. Tillman of South Carolina, representing the two extremes of Senatorial procedure. The House adjourned until Thursday after a session that lasted forty-five minutes. The only attempt to transact business was a request by Mr. Lacey of Iowa for unanimous consent for a bill for the relief of residents of Greer County, Oklahoma. Mr. Henry of Texas promptly objected, and the House decided to adjourn. Before the session began the hub of a wheel wound round with a monster petition, said to contain 6,000,000 signatures, appealing to Congress to recognize Cuban insurgents as belligerents, was wheeled into the space in front of the Speaker's rostrum. It had been in circulation throughout the United States for about six months, and was presented to Congress by Representative Sulzer of New York.

The Senate made a great stride forward Tuesday by completing the consideration of the sugar schedule of the tariff bill, except the provision relating to Hawaii, which went over. This schedule has been the storm center of the entire bill. Senator Tillman gave notice of an amendment he will offer to the tariff bill providing for a head tax of $100 on all immigrants to the United States. The amendment also makes it a misdemeanor punishable by fine and imprisonment for any person to enter the United States for the purpose of engaging in trade or manual labor without intending to become a citizen.

The Senate made rapid work on the tariff bill Wednesday. Thirteen pages were disposed of, carrying the Senate through the agricultural schedule and up to schedule H, relating to spirits, wines, etc. During the day the paragraphs on dairy products, farm products, fish, fruit and nuts, meat products and miscellaneous agricultural products were acted on. The Finance Committee proposed many changes, in the main advancing rates somewhat over those heretofore reported. The committee was sustained on every vote, although a contest was made on almost every paragraph. Mr. Vest's motion to restore salt to the free list was rejected—yeas, 24; nays, 31. The important paragraph proposing a tax on tea went over at the suggestion of Mr. Allison, who expressed hope that this duty on tea might be dispensed with. The Senate met at 11 a. m. and will continue to meet at that hour until the bill is disposed of. The treaty for the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands reached the Senate chamber at 5 o'clock. The Senate at once went into executive session, and as soon as the doors were closed the message of President McKinley, accompanying the treaty, and the treaty itself were read to the Senate.

The Senate made greater progress Thursday on the tariff bill than any day since the debate opened. Two entire schedules, covering twenty pages, were completed—namely, schedules H, on spirits, wines and beverages, and schedule I, on manufactured cotton goods. The portion of the bill passed is substantially the same as that reported, all committee changes being unimportant, while the opposition amendments of Mr. Jones of Arkansas and Mr. Vest were systematically rejected by majorities ranging from five to ten. Mr. Allison secured the addition of a new paragraph to the cotton schedule, with a view to compensating the cotton manufacturers for the recent action of the Senate in placing raw cotton on the dutiable list. The House was in session an hour and a half, most of the time being taken up with roll calls. The bill for the relief of the residents of Greer County, Oklahoma, was passed.

Odds and Ends.

Over 600,000 cattle are slaughtered yearly for the manufacture of beef extracts.

The descendants of a single female wasp will often number 25,000 in one season.

Female spiders are much larger and more ferocious than the males, and often devour their husbands.

Two Bit is a novel name of the youngest town in the Black Hills. It is located in the gulch of that name in the northern hills near a mine which yields red paint.

Nearly seventy round towers, from thirty to 135 feet high, are found in various parts of Ireland. They are believed to have been used in the ceremonies of fire worship.

The State capitol of Texas is the largest State building in the United States, and the seventh in size among the buildings of the world. It was paid for with three million acres of public land, deeded to the Chicago capitalists who executed the work.

The grand triumphal arch in Paris, begun by Napoleon, is 147 feet by seventy-five feet at its base, and 162 feet high. The central archway is ninety-five feet high and forty-eight feet wide. The inner walls are inscribed with the names of 384 generals and ninety-six victories.

"Nothing else like it."
The most refreshing and pleasant Soap for the skin.

It lasts twice as long as others.
A trial will convince you of its great merit. Will please the most fastidious.
CHARLES F. MILLER,
Mfr. of FRENCH MILLED TOILET SOAPS AND PERFUMERY.
Lancaster, Penn.
ESTABLISHED, 1849.

WHY NOT BUY THE BEST?

A GOOD SADDLE is the most noticeable and taking point on a Bicycle.
When buying insist on getting a
BURNS SPRING SADDLE.
Take no other. Get a Burns and GET THE BEST.
Manufactured by the
GRAND RAPIDS CYCLE SEAT MFG. CO.,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Patton's House Painting Model
shows just how your house would look if painted any one of 20,000 artistic combinations of colors. Designed and made only for the manufacturers of PATTON'S PURE LIQUID PAINTS. Sent postpaid upon receipt of 10 cts. "How to Increase the Size of Your House With Paint" mailed free.
JAS. E. PATTON CO.,
Dep't X. MILWAUKEE, WIS., U.S.A.

ECLIPSE
Poultry Brooder.
BEST MADE.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR, which explains why you should use a BROODER, and why you should purchase the
ECLIPSE BROODER.
Also gives testimonials from MANY WHO HAVE USED THEM.
CAPACITY, 100 CHICKS.
Size: 32 inches long, 32 inches wide, 26 inches high. Weight, 125 lbs.
Price: Single one, $9.00.
Two or more, $8.50 apiece.
If not as represented, money refunded.
JOHN D. WINGERT,
MANUFACTURER,
FAYETTEVILLE, - PENN.

NIAGARA
BICYCLES

CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION.
CORRESPONDENCE INVITED.
Reliable Agents Wanted.
BUFFALO WHEEL CO.,
BUFFALO, N. Y.

THE SAME OLD WAY.

A-dancing, a-glancing,
The sunbeams out of heaven lancing,
The tide beneath green shadow trancing
With sweet delay.
Wild voices through the forest falling,
The wood-thrush to the wood-thrush calling
The same old way.

A-flowing, a-blowing,
Its showers of dew each low bough throwing
In storms of fragrance round your going
With toss and sway.
Murmur of bees in blossom swinging,
And children's cries more sweet than singing,
The same old way.

A-flushing, a-gushing,
The roses on their red stems blushing
Before they close, with soft airs hushing
The dying day.
And all the woody ways discover
Down glimmering depths a lass and lover
The same old way!

—HARPER'S BAZAR.

MRS. MABERLY'S NEIGHBOR.

BY MARY A. DENISON.

"Paul! it is the loveliest little house I've seen yet. Let us take it."

"I confess I like that long veranda," said Paul, "and those beeches and chestnuts on the roadside are simply superb."

"Yes, they are very beautiful, and, —let me see—two cherry trees, one peach, one pear, and six apple trees, all in good condition, in the side and back yard," said the young wife, reading from the slip of paper she held in her well-gloved hand—pretty shaped hands she had.

"And the view is not half bad, either. I think more of that than of the fruit, which, like the peach of emerald hue, can do some harm. Remember, we have a two-year-old boy who is very ambitious where climbing is to be considered. I'm afraid these fruit trees will tempt him too sorely."

"How very ridiculous, when I am around!" was the laughing rsponse. "Ernest is scarcely ever out of my sight, and he is very obedient. I like this bay window, it commands such a pretty view; the parlor just suits me, it is exactly what one needs in a country home. My lace curtains will fit the windows; there is just enough room for the furniture. I can see just where to put everything. The floors are oiled, and our rugs will go down nicely. The people who lived here have taken good care of the house."

"The people who lived here built the house," her husband said, "and evidently took great pains to make it comfortable, but something happened that caused them to break up."

He did not admit that the something was a forgery, and that the man had fled, leaving his helpless little wife and children to go on as best they could. Why should she know it? It might lessen her pleasure in living in the place if she did.

They went upstairs, down cellar, and found all the appointments perfect. Mrs. Maberly was in raptures. If they had built it for themselves, she said, it could not have been more to her liking; indeed, she had planned a house exactly like it.

The veranda went round two sides of the building, and there were still hanging from the beams overhead, baskets of last year's plants, some of them yet thrifty. Vines had been carefully trained over the lattice-work and a thick mass of foliage rendered it almost impossible for wind or rain to get in.

The next house on the right was but a few rods away, a bright-looking stone cottage against which clung English ivy, the sun's level rays turning the leaves to crimson and gold.

"I wonder who lives there?" Mrs. Maberly asked.

"The name is Warren," said her husband. "I have seen him once or twice, but have never spoken to him."

"Warran; it is a good name, and it seems to me I have heard it in connection with some of my friends, but I forget. I hope they are nice; one has sometimes to depend upon neighborly offices. They certainly show good taste. I can see from here that the garden is beautiful, and the baby carriage in the yard is very pretty and costly. The nurse wears a cap, too. How trim she looks—and well dressed! That speaks volumes for the mistress of the house. Of course none but nice people would live in a cottage like that, or," she added, laughingly, "this."

"That goes without saying," said her husband, "but hadn't we better be going? The horse is getting impatient."

"O, yes, and the boy will be fretting for me, poor little fellow! I'm so glad there's a barn on the premises—don't you think we could afford a cow? I could make such delicious ice cream."

"We'll see about it," her husband said, smiling

In less than a week the house was ready for occupancy, and Mrs. Maberly was as happy as the day is long, settling things. Of course it took weeks to get everything in place, and then a rearrangement was often decided upon, but at last the piano was satisfactorily disposed of, the furniture and the bric-a-brac set out to advantage, and the little woman felt very proud of her house, which really reflected great credit upon her taste and ingenuity. As for the boy, he lived out of doors. His quarters in the city had been rather limited, but here he had, as his father expressed it, "all creation to roam in."

Often as Mrs. Maberly sat on the veranda, the white-capped nurse came by, drawing the exquisite baby carriage, in which sat a fairy princess, so white and sweet, so wrapped in fine fabrics, rich laces and lovely carriage blankets, that the little woman wondered more and more who her neighbor could be. One day she met the nurse and child on the road. She had been to the unpretending cottage on her left where she occasionally bought eggs and cream of the good farmer's wife who lived there, and she stopped as the carriage came towards her.

"I must have a glance at that beautiful baby!" she said, placing her basket of eggs on the ground. "What a lovely child! how old is she?"

"Sixteen months," said the nurse, with a broad smile, that someway looked familiar to Mrs. Maberly.

"I don't know as I ever saw quite as lovely a baby," said Mrs. Maberly, smiling down upon the child, whose great blue eyes were fixed upon her face. "How I wish I dared to kiss her! But babies are so capricious."

"She'll let you," said the girl. "Mabel, kiss the lady."

The cherubic little lips came toget her at once in a charming pout tha made them look more than ever like two ripe cherries.

"You perfect darling!" exclaimed Mrs. Maberly, as she received and returned the coveted kiss. "I'm dead in love with you. Whose child is it?" she asked, as she resumed her basket and prepared to move away.

"Why, ma'am, is it possible that you don't remember me?" was the astounding form of the girl's answer.

"Remember you!" exclaimed Mrs. Maberly with unfeigned astonishment, and then it slowly dawned upon her that the face she was looking at was not unfamiliar.

"Yes, I'm changed, of course, 'cause it's years ago since you used to come to Miss Mabel's for to stop in your vacations. Don't you remember the old plantation down in Georgy and the old hands? I'm old Marthy's daughter—Marthy, that used to be laundress, and I'm growed up, you see."

"Old Martha!—Mabel!—the old plantation down in Georgia!" Mrs. Maberly felt dizzy as she heard the well-remembered names.

"You see Miss Mabel married a Northern gentleman, after all, and came here to settle."

"And she—she is— our next-door neighbor!" said Mrs. Maberly in a faint voice. She felt dazed. "I think I understand how one might be knocked down with a feather," she said, in speaking of the matter to her husband afterwards.

"Mabel—Georgia," she kept repeating to herself, "and she is my next neighbor! If I had known it I would never have taken the house."

The brightness had all died out of her face. She wanted to ask some questions, but would not allow herself to do so. The nurse's chocolate-colored face was on a broad grin. How much did she know of the state of affairs between these two women who had once been the closest friends?

"No, I would never have taken that house!" she said over and over, as she moved on, still in a dazed, startled mood, that even the sight of her beautiful boy, waiting outside the gate for "mamma," failed to change. A cloud seemed to have been suddenly thrown over the gray stone cottage. Vines and flowers and all the belongings were as if they had never been. Mrs. Maberly turned her face resolutely away and went into her own house.

"O, dear—I have found out at last who our next-door neighbor is!" she exclaimed, as her husband entered the hall, where she was awaiting him that evening.

"You don't seem to be very much delighted over the discovery," was his reply. "I met the gentleman to-day in a business affair. He is very genial. It seems his wife is something of an invalid, and seldom goes out."

"I'm so glad!" exclaimed Mrs. Maberly, with heartfelt emphasis.

"That don't speak much for your Christian charity," said Mr. Maberly, smiling.

"I don't mean that I'm glad she is sick, but that she seldom goes out," said his wife.

"That will make it encumbent on you to call on her, won't it!"

"I'll never call on her," was the reply, delivered with almost spiteful energy.

"Why, what on earth has happened?" her husband asked, now really puzzled. "Heretofore you have seemed to wish for her acquaintance. I'm sure I have heard you wonder why she did not call."

"Very true, but then I did not know who she was—now I do," and she narrated her interview with the nurse that morning.

"So you see I know her; she used to be one of my dearest friends. I think at one time I almost worshipped her."

"And you have spent days at her house?"

"Indeed I have; one of the loveliest plantations in the State of Georgia. In my vacations, when mamma and papa were abroad, I always went home with her. But now I dislike her quite as much as I loved her then. When we last parted I told her nothing would induce me ever to speak to her again or to treat her with respect. O, we said very bitter things, both of us; but it was she who was the first offender. And now I am sorry you bought the house."

"Don't you know you are nursing the spirit of revenge?" her husband asked gravely.

"I know that I never could respect myself, after what she said to me, if I as much as noticed her, and very likely she feels the same towards me. What a pity that we are neighbors?"

"I am sorry to hear all this, as I like Mr. Warren remarkably well, and promised that you should call. However, it can't be helped. Here we are, and here we shall stay, so we must make the best of it."

"Yes, we must," his wife said, regretfully, "but I shall never feel again the interest I once did in our pretty home:"

"To change the subject," said Mr. Maberly, "I bought a cow to-day."

"O, a real cow for our own!" cried Ernest, looking up from his toys.

"Yes, a real cow—and we shall have real cream," said his father. "She is coming here to-night."

Mrs. Maberly said nothing. She had been very anxious for the cow, but her thoughts were all taken up with the knowledge she had gathered that day.

"And I kissed her baby!" she said over and over, "and that girl will tell her! I would never have made such a concession if I had known."

The next day she carefully shut the blinds to all the windows that overlooked the pretty gray stone cottage, thus denying herself a view that had come to be almost a necessity of her beauty-loving nature.

"They never shall be opened again," she said bitterly. "I want nothing to do with her or hers."

The time went on and winter came with its deep snows and keen, biting winds. The blinds were still kept close on the south side of the house, and the next neighbor was seldom mentioned. One day Mr. Maberly spoke of him on his return from business.

"It is a bitter night," he said, "and I wouldn't like to be in Warren's place."

"Why, what is that?" his wife asked, with some show of interest.

"His wife's father is not expected to live, and Mrs. Warren is not able to go. There are some business matters to be attended to, and his presence is needed. It's a long, cold journey. It must be hard for the poor wife that she cannot see her dying father. I feel very badly for them both."

"It is—very hard," Mrs. Maberly forced herself to say, and once or twice in the night she thought of the lonely woman, as the snowflakes were whirled against the window in the heavy windbeat of the storm. She could not help picturing her, wide-awake and tearless in her misery. And yet she never suggested to herself she ought to call or betray any interest in her neighbor's sorrows.

"I said I never would speak to her again," she said, "and I never will. She brought it all on herself."

"Don't expect me home till the last train to-night," Mr. Maberly said the next morning. "There's a meeting of business men that I must attend, so I shall be obliged to stay in. Send John down with the sleigh about eleven."

The day proved a pleasant one, and Mrs. Maberly felt unusually light-hearted as she sang and worked about the house. It was not till evening that she realized how very lonesome she was. Ernest had been kept up an hour beyond his time, and it was not until he pleaded to be sent to bed that she allowed herself to carry him upstairs. His prayers were of the briefest, although she tried to prolong the process of undressing, but he was too sleepy; and presently, as his head touched the pillow, he was in the land of dreams. Something prompted the woman as she went out in the hall to open the inside blinds and lift the curtains from one of the windows that commanded a view of her neighbor's house.

All between was one bed of snow—trees, shrubbery, fences, garden; and the moonbeams fell gently over the wide, white, uneven space, and bathed the opposite cottage in its silvery radience. She looked toward the house. On the white surface of the window were shadows flitting and coming, seemingly going to and fro in great haste.

"I suppose they are putting the baby to bed," she said to herself, "or perhaps she has company; it looks like it."

Carefully closing the blinds again, she went downstairs. The parlor looked very cozy with its rich red drapery, made more intense in color by the blazing coal fire, and yet the woman had a vague feeling of uneasiness. Opening the door, she could distinguish voices in the kitchen. John was talking with the cook, and the sound reassured her somewhat; bu, oh, how she missed the genial companionship of her husband! Suddenly there was a peal of the door bell, so sharp and sudden that it set all her nerves tingling.

"I'm so glad John is in!" was her inward comment, as she heard his heavy footsteps across the hall.

Presently the front door was open. The accents of a woman's voice, as if in despair, came faintly to her ears. The parlor door was opened, and John was saying, "The madam is in here," when there appeared, pale and drawn in its agony, the face of her neighbor of the gray stone house. The room seemed to whirl round her as she looked—what could it mean?

"O, Anne—O, Mrs. Maberly!" cried the woman in a choking voice, her tightly-clasped hands unconsciously extended as if in supplication, "something sent me here to you. My baby—my beautiful baby is dying!—dying before my eyes, and I am all alone. Come and help me, if ever you loved me—come and help me. You have studied medicine and will know what to do. I have sent for a doctor, but he is ten miles off with a patient—and that horrible croup!" Her voice failed her. There was a noise in her throat like the coming of hysteria. Mrs. Maberly had sprung forward and caught her or she would have fallen. Into her voice crept the old-time tenderness, into her hands the old caressing movements.

"Don't worry," she said, "wait till I get a shawl—wait till I get my medicine box, and I believe I can help you. Don't give up heart. You were too ill yourself to come but; you should have sent for me." All this time she was going rapidly around the room, preparing herself to go.

"Yes, but I remembered — O, I thought if I came myself in all my misery, you would take pity on me! O, my baby! my baby! My poor old father is dying, too, and I can't be with him! It seems as if I cannot bear it—to lose my father and my baby, too," and she wept bitterly.

"Don't give up heart and hope," said Mrs. Maberly. "There, I am ready—I can help you, with God's blessing, I am sure I can. Hush, don't cry so—lean on my arm," and so she tried to comfort her until the two entered the gray cottage, Mrs. Maberly wondering all the time where her resentment had gone.

It was a pitiful sight, the baby in the arms of her nurse, struggling for breath. Giving orders in a low voice, forcing herself to be calm, with the beautiful, agonized face looking up in her own, Mrs. Maberly worked quietly and efficiently with the remedies she had brought, and which for a long time seemed unavailing. But, even as the agonized mother hid her face from what to her were the death struggles of the child, her neighbor bade her take hope; and after nearly two hours of steady battling with the dread disease, and just as the doctor's carriage drove up to the door, the labored respiration gave way to easy breathing, the flush of anguish was gone, and the little sufferer slept on Mrs. Maberly's knee.

"It's mighty lucky you had such a neighbor," said the doctor, speaking to Mrs. Warren; "she knew just what to do. I couldn't have treated the case better, myself."

For answer, Mrs. Warren went on her knees and kissed the hand under the head of her baby—then, bowing her own head beside it, she sobbed and sobbed. Was it thankfulness for the service rendered, or a mute avowal that she had wronged her old friend?

Mrs. Maberly had news for her husband when he returned that night.

"So you really found that you had a neighbor," he said when she had finished.

"I think it was she who found the neighbor," she said, flushing. "And who would not help her worst enemy in such an emergency? Really, nothing could have happened better, since it had to happen, and she will always feel as if I saved the baby."

After that one might have seen frequent crossings-over to the cottages, alternately. Sometimes the pretty baby carriage, with its beautiful occupant, stood for hours in the front yard of the Maberly's—and often the two mothers sat on the porch, talking of old times, and finding pleasure in the renewal of themes that had been so long forbidden to them.

Under Mrs. Maberly's directions, the invalid gathered health and strength, and the two families became, in deed and word, the best of good neighbors.—The Housewife.

BUTTONS THE LATEST FAD.

Large Sums Spent by Louis XIV. for These Costly Decorations.

Buttons are very popular just at present. School children collect them and, judging from the number of specimens in some of these collections, a large amount of money must be invested in the manufacture of these goods. During the recent Presidential campaign an enormous number of buttons was sold, and the demand for them, though less than it was, has by no means died out. In view of this fact certain leading tailors are wondering whether this passion for buttons may not signify that we are about to return to the old custom of wearing costly and curious buttons on our dress coats.

Eighteenth century buttons, especially those painted by Fragonard, fetch a great price to-day. Formerly it was the custom to give these buttons to friends as presents and to have certain allegories or other scenes stamped on them in enamel.

The oldest buttons in existence are the gold ones which were discovered by Schliemann at Mycene and those which were found in the tomb of Childeric I. The latter, which were formerly on exhibition at the Louvre, are of gold and of glass colored in imitation of granite. Curious buttons have also been found on the caps and religious garments of the Middle Ages and the Renaissance.

The costliest buttons ever made were worn by Louis XIV. Here is a list of those purchased during a single year, as recorded in the "Register of the King's Precious Stones and Presents" by Maze-Sencier:—

February 3, 1685—Montarsy sent to the King twenty-four buttons, each containing a diamond; value, 138,030 francs.

May 7, 1685—Six diamond buttons made and delivered by Sieur Bosc; value, 30,000 francs.

July 26, 1685—Given by Montarsy to the Marquis de Seignelay for the King seventy-five diamond buttons; value, 586,703 francs.

August 1, 1685—Two diamond buttons; value, 67,866 francs.

August 16, 1685—Three diamond buttons; value, 69,660 francs.

December 20, 1685—Four diamond buttons; value, 88,375 francs.

Furthermore we are told that on July 26, 1685, Montarsy furnished for the King's waistcoat forty-eight gold buttons, each bearing a diamond and ninety-six bontonnieres, of which forty-eight were each composed of five diamonds and the other forty-eight of one diamond, the value of the whole being 185,123 francs. Three hundred and twenty-four boutonnieres were also furnished for the King's vest, of which one hundred and sixty-two were composed of five diamonds and the other one hundred and ninety-two of one diamond, the total value being 1,006,345 francs. Finally forty boutonniere ornaments were furnished to the King of which seven cost 201,-270 francs, and the remaining thirty-three 584,366 francs.

Here we see that a sum of about 3,000,000 francs ($600,000) was spent on buttons for the "Grand Monarque" during a single year. During the preceding year (1684) the cost was not so great, being only 1,071,090 francs. The amounts here specified, however, are solely for the buttons. and do not include the cost of the diamonds and precious stones which decorated the hat, shoes, buckles and other portions of the King's dress.—New York Herald.

How John Hay Got His Start.

Ex-Attorney-General Williams, of Kansas, lived at Quincy, Ill., in his boyhood. At Warsaw, in the next county on the north, lived John Hay, afterward President Lincoln's Private Secretary, and now Minister at the Court of St. James. Mr. Hay was a country poet in those days—the "Unlettered Bard," he subscribed himself. He wrote a quality of poetry that made Mr. Williams tired, and his rural airs and manners were simply killing to the practical Quincy boy.

"I'll drive that fellow off the river," Mr. Williams declared one day, and so he did. Mr. Williams got himself together one day and wrote the rottenest sort of alleged verses. These he signed "The Unlettered Bard," and caused them to be printed on coarse brown wrapping paper, such as grocers used in those days. Then he stole up to Warsaw, and in the dead of the night he posted the "Unlettered Bard's" verses all over town. This took the conceit out of Hay in an hour. A stern resolve came into his face, and the next week he left the town, going to Springfield, where Lincoln took him into his law office and afterward installed him in the White House as his private secretary.

"Whatever John Hay is or will be," Mr. Williams once said, "I made him. If I had not caused him to see himself as others saw him, he would never have left Warsaw, and leaving Warsaw is what gave him his start."—Kansas City Star.

Baltimore, Md., is to make two public playgrounds for children this summer.

MASON-DIXON LINE.

POPULAR ERROR AS TO ORIGINAL CAUSE OF EXISTENCE.

Staked Out Before the Revolutionary War, in 1763-7, to Mark the Pennsylvania and Maryland Boundaries—Run by Two London Surveyors.

Famous Boundary Line.

For years there existed a supposition that Mason and Dixon's line was the line dividing the slave-holding from the non-slave-holding States. Time and again it was referred to as such by speakers on the floor of Congress, and it is one of the most widely quoted geographical lines in America. The line was run by Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon, mathematicians and surveyors, of London, between the years 1763 and 1767, for the purpose of settling the disputed boundaries between the provinces of Pennsylvania and Maryland. These questions arose from misstatements in the original grants of the provinces, resulting in disputes between William Penn and Lord Baltimore. In 1732 an agreement was entered into by representatives of the proprietaries respecting the boundaries of Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware, the first and last named provinces then in the possession of Penn's family. The difficulty of tracing the curved line between these two provinces was the occasion of the work afterward executed by Mason and Dixon.

INITIAL MONUMENT OF CIRCLE, OF NEW CASTLE, DEL.

Penn, in 1680, was interested in an application he had made for a grant of land, and had suggested to Sir John Werden, agent for the Duke of York, brother of Charles II., that his Lordship reserve the territory twelve miles north of New Castle, Del., the Duke having expressed a desire to retain the land twenty or thirty miles north of the same town. The distance agreed upon was twelve miles. Penn's representatives soon afterward entered on the plantation, when they discovered that Lord Baltimore's patent, if continued to the fortieth degree of latitude, would embrace the site of Philadelphia, and leave the province harborless. The Duke of York, hoping to right matters, gave Penn a deed for New Castle, and the plantation twelve miles around it, in 1682. A second instrument conveyed to Penn all of the plantation from New Castle southward to Cape Helopen. Lord Baltimore's protest against such disposals of territory in his charter reached the Duke, who had now succeeded to his brother on the throne. In 1685 the King's Council, hoping to right the objections of Baltimore, decided upon the following:

That for avoiding further differences, the tract of land lying between the Bay of Delaware and the Eastern Sea on the one side, and the Chesapeake on the other, be divided into equal parts by a line from the latitude of Cape Henlopen to the fortieth degree of north latitude, the southern boundary of Pennsylvania by charter, and that the one-half thereof lying toward the Bay of Delaware and the Eastern Sea be adjudged to belong to his Majesty, and the other half to the Lord Baltimore, as comprised in his charter.

The 1732 agreement, entered into by the sons of William Penn and Charles Lord Baltimore, great-grandson of the pioneer patentee of the Province of Maryland, which accounts for the noticeable boundaries of Delaware, follows:

INITIAL MONUMENT OF MASON AND DIXON'S LINE.

"That a semi-circle should be drawn at twelve English statute miles around New Castle, agreeably to the deed of the Duke of York to William Penn in 1682; that an east and west line should be drawn beginning at Cape Henlopen, which was admitted to be below Cape Cornelius (the present Cape Henlopen), and running westward to the exact middle of the peninsula; that from the exact middle of the peninsula, between the two bays of Chesapeake and Delaware, and the end of the line intersecting it in the latitude of Cape Henlopen, a line should be run northward, so as to form a tangent with the periphery of the semicircle at New-Castle drawn with the radius of twelve English statute miles, whether such a line should take a due north course or not; that after the said northwardly line should touch the New-Castle semicircle it should be run further northward until it reached the same latitude as fifteen English statute miles due south of the most southern part of the City of Philadelphia; that from the northern point of such line a due west line should be run, at least for the present, across the Susquehanna River, the twenty-five miles beyond it—and to the western limits of Pennsylvania, when occasion and the improvements of the country should require; that that part of the due west line not actually run, though imaginary, should be considered to be the true boundary of Maryland and Pennsylvania * * * and that the route should be well marked by trees and other natural objects, and designated by stone pillars, sculptured with the arms of the contracting parties, facing their respective possessions."

TRIANGULAR MONUMENT AT JUNCTION OF THREE STATES.

The appointment of Commissioners followed, who ran lines for the New-Castle circle in 1732, 1739, 1750 and 1760. In some instances the Commissioners were extravagant, it being recorded that the body of 1750 had several items of expenses: "A hogshead of port wine, eleven gallons of spirits, and forty-two gallons of rum, costing in all £27, 12s 6d." On July 4, 1760, an agreement, based on the decision of Lord Chancellor Hardwick, handed down in 1750, was signed by the representatives of the lands in question, and three years were spent in settling the boundary between Pennsylvania and Delaware. The Commissioners ran the east and west peninsula line, the twelve-mile circle in part, and established the tangent point in the periphery of the circle. Their progress was so disappointingly slow to the proprietaries that they dissolved existing relations and engaged Mason and Dixon to finish the work. They were "to mark, run out, settle, fix, and determine all such parts of the circle, marks, lines, and boundaries, as were mentioned in the several articles or commissions, and were not completed." They were to receive, in addition to support, 10s 6d each per day coming and returning and a guinea daily while in this country. On November 15, 1736, they arrived, and soon afterward they had an observatory erected in the southern part of Philadelphia, which was probably the first of the kind in this country. Mason and Dixon found the New-Castle circle run by previous surveyors of assistance to them, and in the fall of 1764 they caused a stone to be planted, fixing the northeast corner of Maryland.

OLD STONE HOUSE AT NORTHEAST CORNER OF MARYLAND.

MILE STONES. FIVE-MILE STONES.

This point was in latitude 39 degrees 43 minutes 26.3 seconds, and on this parallel they proceeded due westward, making vistas 8 yards wide through the forests, in the middle of which posts were set up that marked the line of the parallel run. The work continued until within thirty-six miles of the entire distance to be run, when an Indian warpath in the forest was noticed. For some time the Indians through whose territory the line extended had been in a state of unrest, and the Indian guides of Mason and Dixon told them it was the desire of the Six Nations that the surveys should cease at the warpath. The surveyors returned to Philadelphia, and, reporting the facts to the Commissioners, were discharged in December, 1767. In November, 1782, Col. Alexander McClean, of Pennsylvania, and Joseph Neville, of Virginia, ran the remainder of the line, which was verified by astronomical observation and permanently marked in 1784. As requested by the Commissioners, Mason and Dixon erected at the end of each mile a stone with a P on one side and an M on the other, and at the end of each fifth mile a stone bearing the arms of the Penns on one side and those of the Baltimores on the side opposite.

The stones, oolitic limestone, came from England, and their capacity to resist action of the weather is remarkable. One of the fifth-mile stones is on the farm of William Brown, a few miles south of Oxford, Pa., and the coats of arms of the pioneer proprietors are traceable, although exposed for over a century. Stones were set up as far west as Sideling Hill, about 132 miles from the northeast corner of Maryland. As the means of transporting them beyond that point were meager, the further use of stones was abandoned. The continuation of the line was marked by piles of stone about six feet high as far as the summit of the Alleghenies, beyond which posts were planted and surrounded by stones. It is said the original stone set at the northeast corner of Maryland was accidentally broken and the pieces mended by leaden bands.

At the outbreak of the revolutionary war the lead was taken from the stone by Continental patriots and made into bullets. The upper part of the stone fell and was lost, the lower part became covered with earth, as it was situated in a ravine. For many years the supposition existed, as no marking stone was visible, that the three States, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware, came together at that point. In 1849 the Governors of these States appointed J. P. Eyre of Pennsylvania, H. G. S. Key of Maryland, and G. R. Riddle of Delaware, to locate the spot formerly occupied by the missing corner-stone. The assistance of Col. J. D. Graham, of the United States Topographical Engineers, was obtained, and the site of the missing stone found. The buried portion of the original stone was unearthed by men while sinking a hole for the new stone to be erected. The old one was buried and a substantial mark of Brandywine granite reared, it being about one foot square, with P and M on the sides.

On the brow of the hill sloping down to the ravine, which contains the stone, a waterbrook and profusion of wild flowers, stands an old stone house. Near by was the famous "Backwoods Academy," an institution founded by Alexander Terrell, who taught many students from the adjoining States.

The tongue of land extending from Pennsylvania down between Maryland and Delaware is a topographical curiosity. At the upper part it is about 4,169 feet wide (between Pennsylvania and Delaware), extends southward about three and a half miles, tapers to a point of intersection of the three States, and contains about 500 acres. The land is a portion of London Britain Township, Chester County, Pa., but Delaware claims it as a part of White Clay Creek Hundred, New Castle County. She has "always exercised jurisdiction over it, treating her boundary as extending to the northeast corner of Maryland. The land is taxed in Delaware, the inhabitants vote as citizens of that State, and offenses committed therein are punished by her courts, while, on the other hand, Pennsylvania has never exercised any authority over it." This singular condition of affairs is probably owing to errors made by the pioneer surveyors who ran the lines.

The circle of New Castle has been repeatedly the line of confusion with citizens residing close to it, the difficulty arising on account of the assessment and payment of taxes. To avoid this acts were passed a few years ago by the Legislatures of this State and Delaware authorizing a commission from each Commonwealth to "examine, survey and re-establish the boundary line," etc. The Commissioners of Pennsylvania were the Hon. Wayne MacVeagh, Robert E. Monaghan and William H. Miller. Delaware's commission was composed of the Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, the Hon. J. H. Hoffecker, and Dr. B. L. Lewis. The work was completed by the joint commission in 1893. The initial monument is of Brandywine granite, quarried in Delaware. The terminal point, near the Delaware River is of gneiss. They are marked with the names Pennsylvania and Delaware, north and south sides, respectively, and other inscriptions. Each stone is set 4½ feet in the earth, and firmly secured by cement. The twenty-one mile stones and twenty-two half-mile stones are of gneiss, and are properly marked. The triangular stone at the junction of the three States is marked P, M and D, respectively, and carries the names of the Commissioners, who refixed it in 1849.

Chinaman in a Box.

If Sam Yick will apply for it, he can easily obtain from the postal authorities a diploma for being the subtlest celestial they have ever had to deal with.

For weeks he robbed the mails at San Francisco, Cal., without detection, for ten months he evaded the active search that was made for him, and finally he had himself boxed up as freight and right under the eyes of customs and postal officials shipped aboard a Chinese steamship and so safely reached the flowery kingdom.

It was early in 1896 that the postal authorities began to suspect Yick of robbing the mails, and Jan. 17 an attempt was made to arrest him. Yick was warned by his friends, however, and escaped. He made his way to the interior of the State somewhere and remained concealed for about ten months. At the end of that time a friend made up his mind to go to China and Yick concluded to go with him. But he was so well known and the postal authorities were so active in the search for him that he did not dare risk any ordinary disguises. Even to attempt to get to San Francisco was attended with danger. In this predicament he had himself boxed up and shipped by rail. He was entered at the custom house for export as freight and put aboard one of the outgoing steamers. When safely out at sea his friend, who was aboard as one of the passengers, helped him to get out of his packing case and he made the rest of the trip in comfort.

But just how his friend managed to see that the box was kept right side up with care while it was being handled in the process of shipment and was not stowed away in the lower part of the hold with tons and tons of freight on top of him is one of the mysteries that have not yet been cleared up. It seems, however, that he did, for word has been received that he arrived safely on the other side, and is now drinking tea and eating birds' nests with rice in Canton in the elegant leisure his stealings afford him.

Lions Affected by Weather.

A peculiarity noticed by the keepers out at the Zoo is that bad weather affects lions just as it does human beings. A rainy day will make them limp and listless, and a glimpse of sunshine makes them happy as crickets. Bad weather, however, does not prevent them remembering when meal time is at hand, and they are as restless as young kittens till their food is forthcoming.

When some people smile they seem to say: "When I smile they all love me."

Auditor's Annual Report

.....OF.....

Receipts and Expenditures for the Year Ending May 31, 1897.

TO THE BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS OF DEKALB COUNTY, INDIANA:

GENTLEMEN:—I present you herewith my Annual Report of Receipts, Disbursements, Warrants Issued and Financial Condition of DeKalb County, Indiana, for the fiscal year ending May 31st, 1897:

BALANCE SHEET.

Balance May 31, 1896.	Rec'd from Jun. 1, 1896 to May 31, 97	Total Received May 31, 97	FUNDS.	Disburs'd to May 31, 1897	Balance May 31 1897
$ 8 726 95	$ 77 619 96	$ 86 346 91	County Revenue	$49 797 85	$ 45 549 06
91	565 00	565 91	Congressional School Fund Principal	200 00	365 91
273 10	4 559 04	4 832 14	Common School Fund Principal	3 700 00	1 132 14
	28 708 24	28 708 24	School Revenue	19 392 48	9 315 76
264 46	1 259 83	1 524 29	Congressional School Fund, Interest	1 061 04	463 25
74 70	5 618 80	5 693 50	Common School Fund, Interest	3 286 02	2 407 48
	13 251 57	13 251 57	Tuition	4 476 76	8 774 81
	20 694 22	20 694 22	Special School	8 892 47	11 791 75
	11 622 19	11 622 19	Township	5 883 06	5 739 13
	19 445 41	11 445 41	Road	445 07	19 000 34
	1 492 28	1 492 28	Dog	59 00	1 433 28
	15 00	15 00	Agricultural		15 00
531 33	626 48	1 157 81	Redemption of Land	963 17	191 64
2 229 56	3 100 00	5 329 56	Liquor License	3 200 00	2 129 56
	6 329 00	6 329 00	Corporation	2 643 17	3 685 83
	1 290 98	1 290 98	Bond Sinking	739 74	551 24
	90 00	90 00	C. C. Docket Fees		90 00
	8 244 86	8 244 86	Special Road	153 32	8 091 54
	5 304 35	5 304 35	Water Works	1 140 59	4 163 76
	15 24	15 24	Special Dog	15 24
	465 92	465 92	Ditch		465 92
$12 101 01	$210 248 37	$222 349 38	Totals	$97 048 98	$125 300 40

STATEMENT OF COUNTY REVENUE, June 1, 1897.

To Cash in Treasury May 31st, 1896	$ 8 726 95
To Cash received from taxes November, 1896	25 159 83
To Cash received from taxes May, 1897	34 276 94
To Cash received from ditch tax November, 1896	291 09
To Cash received from ditch tax May, 1897	465 92
To Cash received from D. W Fair's bondsmen	8 420 42
To Cash received from F. A. Borst's bondsmen	2 347 93
To Cash received from Reuben Sawvel	2 614 38
To Cash received from all other sources	4 054 35
		$87 699 31
By Cash paid for redemption County Warrants		3 098 54
By Cash paid on interest on County Warrants		10 328 23
By overcharge to H. Hines, same being D. W. Fair's deficit		35 239 83
By Cash in Treasury May 31, 1897, to balance
Totals	$86 3 6 91	$86 3 6 91

Financial Condition of County June 1st, 1897.

County Warrants outstanding	$90 326 12
Balance due from Reuben Sawvel		$ 1 400 00
Balance due from D. W. Fair's bondsmen		1 42 65
Amount due from H. N. Coffmberry's bondsmen		7 000 00
Cash in Treasury May 31, 1897		35 222 83
Net indebtedness June 1, 1897		45 041 48
Totals	$90 326 12	$90 326 12

County Warrants Issued during Fiscal Year Ending May 31, 1897.

Fees and Salaries	$11 794 00
Court	5 280 31
Miscellaneous	2 405 97
Poor	6 268 27
Insane	531 69
Criminals	1 624 36
Public Buildings	3 641 32
Inquests	111 05
Roads and Bridges	12 356 86
Books and Stationery	3 415 32
Assessing	2 773 00
Deaf and Dumb	196 22
Ditches	3 330 68
Election	2 236 01
Total	$55 365 14

Respectfully submitted this 3d day of June, 1897.

FRANK A. BORST, Auditor.
By G. M. RALSTON, DEPTY.

Examined and approved this 15th day of June, 1897.

J. W. BATEMAN,
ISAAC GUNSENHOUSER, } COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.
ISAAC HAGUE,

CONCORD.

Mrs. Birdie Fetters and Burton Brown are seriously sick at this writing.

Benjamin Layman and Rosella Morr were United in marriage Sabbath afternoon at the home of the bride.

Thursday Mrs. B. F. Blair, of Newville, drove down to Mrs. G. W. Draggoo's, but found her and daughter absent in attendance at the old settlers' meeting, but in the wind-up Mrs. B. was the recipient of a choice O I. C. pig from her nephew Frank.

Mrs. Hutton returned Friday from Churubusco visiting her sister Mrs. Venier.

J. Boren, wife Master Floyd, of Auburn, were guests of J. Hennesey over Sunday.

Mrs. Lavina Johnson and Mrs. M. Seberts entertained their S. S. classes to cake and ice cream Saturday afternoon.

Several attended the the children's exercises at Union Chapel Sunday evening. A nice time reported.

Friday the 18th was the reunion of the Rose and Mathews families. Over 200 guests were present; last year over 400. Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Rose are reported good entertainers.

J. Baker and wife, and F. B. Draggoo drove over to Auburn Saturday.

Mattie Buchanan is home from Auburn.

COURT.

Monday, there was a double decker in court. Judge Hartman had a case tried before him in the jury room. It was the case involving the Ashley Furniture Co. and Theo. Gary, in regard to some shares of stock it was claimed that Gary agreed to take. It was quite a lively court for a time. Judge McClellan, and Wm. Brown, of Angola, being on one side and T. R. Marshall, of Columbia City, and D. M Link of this place on the other. Only a part of the work could be done, and the full trial will not come off till after the county cases are done.

At the same time, the regular officer Judge Roby was hearing a divorce case in the court room. A young couple named Cory, from up at Ashley, wanted a separation, he claiming she was untrue to him. His story of the case, if true, showed she had been very imprudent, at least, but it was held by the judge that there was no proof that she had done worse. He granted the divorce to her and custody of child, but no ailmony. It appears they were married when she was fourteen and she is only eighteen now. Judge Roby gave them some good advice. It is a pity they did not have such advice sooner.

Today seems to be occupied in clearing the decks for the big cases tomorrow.

LARGE ENGLISH BERSHIRES.

WATERLOO INDIANA. June 24, 1897.—For 30 days I will offer a few choice gilts with or without being bred, at $10 and $12. Young boars old enough for service $8 and $10. Choice pigs at weaning $5. Choice sow, to farrow October, $15

J. W. JACKMAN & SON,
Two miles east of Waterloo, Ind

A MODERN ROBINSON CRUSOE

Up to Date.

It was at 5 o'clock tea, he being the only man among three score chattering matrons and spinsters, felt suffocated. Suddenly he gasped:

"I'm dying for solitude!"

He worked his way out of the front door, lied to the hostess as usual, and rushed out.

Did he seek the seclusion of Lincoln Park or the Public Library?

Nit. He found what he sought in the store of a merchant who does not believe in advertising.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given to the voters of Union township that at their June term 1897, the Board of County Commissioners of DeKalb Co ty Indiana, made the following changes in the voting precincts of said township, on petition of J. D. Myers Inspector of Election for south west precinct of said Union Township.

Voting Precinct No 1 shall be as follows:—Commencing on the north boundary line of Union Township at a point where the same is crossed by the center line of the Auburn and Waterloo road; thence southwesterly along the center line of the highway to a point where the same intersects the center line of North st in the town of Auburn; thence west on the center line of said North-st to the intersection thereof with the center line of Jackson-st in said town; thence south on the center line of Jackson st to the intersection thereof with the center line of Third-st in said town; thence east on the center line of Third-st to the center line of Main-st in said town; thence south on the center line of Main-st to the intersection thereof to the center line of Eighth-st in said town; thence east on the center line of Eighth street produced east to the intersection thereof to the center line of Cedar st in said town; thence north on the center line of Cedar-st to to the intersection of the center line of Seventh street; thence east on the center line of Seventh-st to the east line of the incorporated limits of the town of Auburn; thence east of the north boundary line of the south tier of sections of said Union township to thh east bounary line of stid township; thence north on said east boundary line of said township to the north boundary line thereof; thence west to the place of begining.

Precinct No. 2, shall be as follows:—All that portion of the township bounded on the west and north by the township lines, on the east by the west boundary line of precinct No. 1, as above described, on the south by a line commencing at the the intersection of Fifth and Main streets in said town, running thence west on the center line of said Fifth-st to the center line of Depot-st; thence southwesterly along the center line of said Depot-st to the center line of Seventh-st, thence west on center line of a highway to the west line of said township.

Precinct No. 3, shall be as follows:—Bounded on the north by the south boundary line of precincts No. 1 and 2 above described, on the east by the west boundary line of precinct No. 1 and Cedar-st of said town of Auburn, on the south by Union-st of said town and the center line of Union-st projected west to the west boundary line of said township, on the west by said west line of said township.

Precinct No. 4, shall be as follows:—All that portion of the township lying south of precinct No. 3 and west of Main-st in said town and the Ft. Wayne and Coldwater road.

Precinct No. 5, shall be as follows:—All the balance of the township shall constitute No. 5.

State of Indiana, } ss
DeKalb County.

This is to certify that the foregoing is a true copy of an order made by the Board of Commissioners of DeKalb County, Indiana, at their June term 1897.

Witness my hand and seal of the Board of Commissioners.

SEAL

F. A. BORST, Auditor,
by M. BOLAND, Deputy.

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the County of DeKalb, State of Indiana, Executor of the estate of Frederick Rohm deceased, late of DeKalb Co.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

HENRY C. ROHM,
June 21, 1897. Administrator.

THE McINTOSH CASE.

Court was called at 9 a. m. with Judge Adair on the bench. Judge Best and Judge McClellan were attorneys for McIntosh, while Prosecutor Davis, assisted by E. A. Bratton, represented thd state. It looked like old times to see the law firm of "Best & McClellan" working together again. Judge Best made the first speech. His arguments were directed against the wording of the complaint. He claimed it was not specific enough; it did not point out how they had conspired, or how they obtained the money, or from whom. It is true, the indictment says they conspired to defraud the county out of a large sum of money, but it does not say how much they got. It does not say whether they got it from the county treasurer, or from one of their own number. And if they got it from the county treasurer, it was not necessarily the county's money, as the treasurer, though he received money that belonged to the county, it at once became his own, and he, by his bondsmen, became responsible for it, and could do with it as he pleased, the same as he could with his own money. He quoted numerous authorities, and made a very able and eloquent plea.

DAVIS FOLLOWS.

He was followed by Prosecutor Davis, who began by saying he had not seen the indictment to examine it closely. It was written by Mr. Roby at the time it was first brought in. But he went on to defend it. He said that Judge Best is right in saying that a felony must be fully described, and he again read the indictment. He showed that a any indictment may be made in the language of the statute, and that this indictment follows the language of the statute quite closely, and is, so far, good and sufficient. He made quite a strong plea for the sufficiency of the indictment.

AFTERNOON.

D. R. Best, of Angola, proceeded to reply also, for the state. Then Judge J. I. Best again spoke for McIntosh, Judge Adair then gave his decision. The original motion made by Judge Best, was to quash all five counts of the indictment. Judge Adair quashed all but the first. The attorneys for the state will not press the suit on this one indictment, but ask to have it sent to the supreme court, and if that court sustains Judge Adair, the case will not be pushed here. If, it reverses Judge Adair's rulings, it will come back here and be tried, unless the state concludes to drop it.

Mr. Meese's Meeting

The reunion meeting that Rev. W. L. Meese held at Sugar Grove School House south of Auburn Junction, closed last Sunday after one of the mos pleasant seasons, of the many he has had. During these meetings the attendance was good, and the interest manifested was great. When we say that ten different ministers, besides himself, were present at different times and that each of the ten preached at least one sermon, it will give an idea as to the extent of the interest felt in these meetings. And among these ten, were two, who found religion under Mr. Meese' ministrations, Rev. G. W. Ferguson, and Rev. G. F. Osbun. The other eight are Rev. T. M. Guild of the M. E. church at Auburn, Rev. F. C. Colvin of the Presbyterian church of the same place, Rev. Mr. Pearce of the Baptist church of Auburn and Garrett; Rev. J. M. Haines of the M. E church at Garrett, Rev. F. Erlougher of the M. E. church at Waterloo; Rev S. H. Yager of the U. B. church, at Waterloo, Rev. Mr. Wyrick of the Progressive Dunker, church- Rev. J. B. Stoner of the M. E. church; Rev. J. B. Stoner of the M. E. church, at Huntertown.

It was the original plan to have the meeting last one week, but as the close drew near, he was requested to continue another week, which was done, and the rest of the time was as successful as the beginning. All speak of the excellent, order which Mr. Meese says is the best he ever had, and his meetings are well known for good order. He feels very thankful to the people, and especially the ministers, who did so much to make the gathering pleasant and successful. Toward the close, it was suggested by Fremont Smith, that the meetings be held annually. So next year, it will be at Cedar Chapel, just 20 years after the one he originally held there, and the following year, it is to be held at Lockwood's in Jackson, as it was there he held a revival meeting just twenty years before, that being in 1879. That will also be the 20th year from the meetings at Culler's school house, when a class was organized that built Norris Chapel. Altogether, Mr. Meese can look back on a great deal of good work he has done.

It would be a fitting way to close these remarks, to add the following words of cheer, that some of his fellow ministers have handed us, to show their appreciation of the venerable minister.

KIND WORDS.

It was my privilege to be in the Meese meeting three time during its continuance. I was delighted with with the arrangements and the spirit of the meeting. Bro. Meese is held in high esteem by every one who knows him, and these gatherings are fruitful of much good. Long live Rev. Meese, and may his converts be numbered by the thousand.

T. M. GUILD,
Pastor M. E. church Auburn Ind.

ANOTHER.

It was my pleasure to be with Bro. Meese one evening in his Gospel meetings held in Sugar Grove south of Auburn. The good people of that place have been greatly blessed by the ministration of Bro Meese who is truly a man of God. His good work here dates back over a period of twenty years. May he live to do more valiant service for the Master.

FRANK C. COLVIN,
Pastor Presbyterian church Aub. Ind.

OBITUARY.

Jeremiah Plum was born May 15, 1812, in the state of Maryland; died at Waterloo, Ind., June 14, 1897, aged 85 years and 29 days. He moved with his parents from Maryland to Pennsylvania when six years of age, remaining there about three years, then moved to Stark Co., Ohio, from which place he moved to DeKalb Co., Ind., in September, 1851, and located on the farm where he died. He was united in marriage to Jane Scott Dec. 26, 1533. To this union were born seven children, four boys and three girls, all of whom survive him. The wife and mother passed away from earth Aug. 9, 1891. The subject of this sketch filled many places of trust in the community in which he lived, having been elected several times to the office of coroner and assessor and twice to the office of sheriff. He was one of the most widely known men in the county, from his being an old settler, and public auctioneer. It was his ambition to reach his 600th sale, but he failed, having cried 574. His familiar face will be missed in the community where he lived. He always had a good word for everybody and everybody knew "Uncle Jerry." A little over a year ago he joined the U. B. church under the ministration of Rev. Yager. The funeral services were held at the U. B. church June 16, Rev. Klotz officiating. He was laid to rest in the beautiful cemetery, there to await the resurrection morn.

OBITUARY.

John Potts was born in Stark Co., O., Feb. 4, 1813, and died after a short illness at his home near Sedan, Ind., May 20, 1897, aged. 84 years, 3 months and 16 days. He was the eldest son of Jonathan and Elizabeth (Triplett) Potts, and of a family of twelve children, of whom but three brothers now remain, they residing in southern Illinois. When five years of age he moved with his parents to Wayne Co., O. Feb. 6, 1834, he was united to Eleanor Metcalf, who departed this life August 25, 1866. To this union were born two children, Elmira L. and Hannah E., wife of Albert Buchanan, Elmira departing this life Jan. 24, 1855. In 1846 he moved with his family to Fairfield township, DeKalb Co., Ind., settling on the farm on which he resided at the time of his death. Aug. 18, 1867, he was again united in marriage to Mariah Shaffer. He leaves an invalid wife, one daughter, a grandson and great-grandson, beside a nephew, John S. Potts, who have cared for him and his wife in their declining years. In 1856 he united with the Christian church and remained a member until the time of his death. He was chosen justice of the peace in 1864 and served continuously for twenty years, during which time he married over one hundred couples. The funeral services were conducted at Fairfield Center by Elder Minic of the Corunna Christian church, and the remains were interred in the Fairfield cemetery.

CALL FOR TOWN ORDERS.

Upon presentation I will pay all outstanding orders up to and including No. 1119 Jan. 18, 1897. Interest will stop June 17, 1897.

MILES BAXTER,
Treas. Town of Auburn.

Married Today.

At the bride's home in Jackson township this afternoon occurred the marriage of Rev. Calvin J. Graves, and Miss Mary Hilkey. Presiding Elder Simpson, of Fort Wayne, officiating. The COURIER extends congratulations.

A Oncer Makes a Twicer

We have this from good authority, and applies well to our business. You find what you want here once, and the price makes it an object to come twice. You feel relieved after seeing us, as our efforts, assisted by the scorching weather. makes it Dead Easy to convince you that you need thiner clothes.

The Mercury Goes Up, But Our Prices Stay Down and our assortment will suffer should this weather continue. Our $5 Crash Suits at $4 are proving a blessing undisguised. Nothing inside but the wearer—unlined cool, and easy to wash Worsteds, Flannels, Cheviots, Alapacas, Seersucker, and Linen Coats and Vests. Boys' coats and vests at 50c; Men's at $1.25; Clerical coats and vests in Fine Worsteds and Alpacas.

Our Summer Shirts

in Satines, Madras, Silks, Flannels and Percales are ready sellers, as the price starts at 50c and the qualities reach $3 50. Our colored front faundried shirt at 50c s ill continues to attract attenti n, and another invoice is expacted soon now and we are turning out a good many of them—making every effort to supply the market This part of your person is so often allowed to reach a very high temperature, when a Straw Hat is a natural preventative. Seeing our line means a sale for us. If you are becoming decidedly heated we can cool you off royally. See us for Clothing for Hot Summer Wear.

Coo! Heads are in Great Demand

G. H. Yesbera, Hot Summer Wear

Special Bargains

In Shoes and Slippers

50c Buys a pair of Slippers that will fit any foot from baby size 4 to men's No. 11, also any boy's. The best Baby Shoes in DeKalb County.

$1.00 Will buy many Good Shoes and Slippers Less Than Cost. Remnants, odds and ends, etc., and 100 pairs of Girls' Shoes in this lot.

" 1.50 Buys some $2, $3 and $4 Shoes in both men's and ladies'. Limited number and broken sizes in best lots.

" 2.00 For this sum we can sell you some of the Best shoes in Auburn.

This is a "Clearing Up Sale," and will continue until JULY 4, 1897. Come see what we have in Footwear. FREE SHINES.

WILSON, THE SHOE MAN,

AUBURN, INDIANA.

Less Than Half Rates to San Francisco.

On June 28, 29 and 30 and July 1, 2 and 3 the Lake Shore & Michigan Ry. will sell excursion tickets to San Francisco and return at less than half rates. Tickets will be good to return to leave San Francisco until August 9th.—Stopover privileges apply at certain points in the west both going and returning. For full information call on ticket agents or write to A. J. Smith G. P. and T. A. Cleveland, O., for pamphlet of information.

WHY PAY RENT.

Better own a farm! Start now! Correspondence solicited from intending settlers. The North-Western Home-Seeker gives particular information to those interested in the pursuits of agriculture, dairying and cattle raising. Send for free copy to D. W. Aldridge, 127 The Arcade, Cleveland, Ohio, or W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago Illinois.

Half Rates—Fourth July.

Excursion tickets at half rates will be sold by the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. at all stations on July 3, 4 and 5, to points within 200 miles of selling point, good returning until July 6th inclusive.

Spend the Glorious 4th of July on the Wabash

Low Rate Round-Trip Tickets will be sold between all stations on the Wabash Line, within 200 miles. July 3, 4 and 5, 1897. Particulars can be had of any ticket agent.

Minneapolis and Return at Half Rates.

Account of the meeting of the B. P. O. E. the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. will sell excursion tickets at all its stations to Minneapolis and return at half rates, plus 50 cents, on July 3 and 4, tickets good returning to leave Minneapolis until July 31st. Write to A J. Smith, G. P. and T. A. Cleveland, O., for pamphlet of information about this and other cheap excursions, or apply to ticket agents.

ONLY $25.00 TO SANFRANCISCO,

From Chicago via the North-Western Line (Chicago & North-Western Railway), the famous "California in 3 days" Route, June 29 to July 3, inclusive, on account of the C. E. Convention. Similar rates will be made eastbound. For full information apply to ticket agents of connecting lines or address. D. W. Aldridge, T. P. A., 127 The Arcade. Cleveland, Ohio Or W. B. Kniskern, G P. & T. A., Chicago, Ill. 22-24-25

Interesting Store News.

Visitors and homefolks tell us that no other store shows such a collection of desirable New Goods. That even metropolitan stores do not sell them so cheaply. Our Cash Buying and Cash Selling gives us an immense advantage, which inures to your benefit.

Do you know about our New Cyclone Summer Corset? It is the best and easiest fitting Summer Corset in the world. But don't take our say so for it. Try a pair, and your money back if you want. Price only 50c. Our La Mode Corset at 38c is a world beater.

Ladies' Tailor-made Suits and Skirts.

We enumerate a few items to get you to come. Ladies' Black wool and Novelty Skirts, lined throughout, bound with velvet, $1.29 to $4. Tailor-made wool suits, up-to-date, $5 to $12. Two-piece Lawn Suits stylishly made, well fitting, beautifully trimmed, $2 to $3.50.

Summer Underwear,

Ladies' Vests, Children's Vests, cool gauzy and comfortable. Vests with sleeves, vests without sleeves, vests with wings, in fact any style you want. Prices are 5c each up, and are cheap.

Shirt Waists

Neat, Chic, Dainty Designs, made to fit, made to wear, made for comfort, will wash and be the better for it. More than fifty styles to select from. Our 50c Waist is the Best.

Wash Dress Goods.

Seasonable Goods seductively priced. 28-inch Striped and Figured Lawns and Dimities, worth 12 1-2c yard; our price 8c. 30-inch Organdies, fine sheer fabrics, many stores sell at 15c; our price 10c.....

Our Stock of

Laces, Ribbons, Mitts, Belts, Fans, Shirt Waist Sets, Embroideries and Handkerchiefs is the largest in DeKalb County.

The Bishop & Lackey Co.

LEADING MERCHANTS.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE.

In the matter of the estate of Jane Tefft deceased.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court of the State of Indiana, at the March term 1897 thereof, the undersigned, as administrator of the estate of Jane Tefft, deceased will offer for sale at private sale, at the office of McClellan & Garwood in Auburn, Indiana, on

Saturday, July 10th, 1897, at 10 o'clock a. m the following described real estate, at not less than its appraised value. Same real estate is appraised at $1,550 00 to-wit:—

Lot number twenty-three (23) in the Western Addition to the Town of Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana.

TERMS:—One third cash at date of sale, one third in one year and one third in eighteen months, the deferred payments to be evidenced by promissory notes with six per cent interest waiving valuation and appraisment laws and secured by mortgage upon the real estate sold,

C. A. O. MCCLELLAN,
Administrator.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of William McKinley deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 9th day of July, 1897, and show cause, if any, why my final settlement accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 9d day of June 1897.
JAMES CARNAHAN Administrator.
J. E. & J. H. Rose Atty.

—Bucklen's Arnica Salve.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay repuired. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For ale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Wednesday's Daily.

W. B. Johnson, Newark, O., says: "One Minute Cough Cure saved my only child from dying by croup." It has cured thousands of others suffering from croup, pneumonia, bronchitis and other serious throat and lung troubles. Davenport, the druggist.

—Wm. and Mrs. McDowell are happy over the arrival of a new boy at their home, born Wednesday. Dr. Swarts was in attendance.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT:—It is a terrible accident to be burned or scalded; but the pain and agony and the frightful disfigurements can be quickly overcome without leaving a scar by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Davenport, the druggist

—Dr. Vesta Swarts reports a girl born Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Olinger south of town. The COURIER extends congratulations to the happy parents.

Some for ten, some for twenty, and some for thirty years have suffered from piles and then have been quickly cured by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, the great remedy for piles and all forms of skin diseases. Davenport, the druggist.

—Willis Bishop called today and advanced his subscription to Feb. '98. He is one of the oldest settlers in the county. If he lives till October he will have closed his 59th year as a resident of DeKalb couty. And he's hale and hearty yet.

Don't thin your blood with sassafras or poison it with blue-mass; but aid Nature by using DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, biliousness and stomach and liver troubles. They are purely vegetable. Davenport, the druggist.

—Eugene Altenburg arrived in the city last evening and was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Will Eckhart. He spent to-day greeting his many old friends and acquaintances.

Don't neglect a cough because the weather is pleasnnt; before the next storm rolls around, it may develop into a serious difficulty beyond repair. One Minute Cough Cure is easy to take and will do what its name implies. Davenport, the druggist.

—The man who was run over by the B. & O. excursion train Sunday was Lincoln Dodd, aged thirty-five, who lived near Westville. He was returning from Chicago on the first section and fell off and was run over by the second. His right arm was crushed and skull fractured. He had been drinking.

Not only piles of the very worst form can be cured by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, but eczema, scalds, burns, bruises, boils, ulcers and all other skin troubles can be instantly relieved by the same remedy. Davenport, the druggist.

—During the storm yesterday Charles Scott, of near Columbia City took shelter under a tree, lightning struck the tree and the man was knocked senseless and will probably die.

They" are dandies" said Thos. Bowers, of the Crocket, Texas Enterprise, while writing about Dewitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for sick headache and disorders of the stomach and liver. Davenport, the druggist.

—Auburn was fortunate yesterday during the severe storm which reached here at noon. From our daily exchanges we learn that at Fort Wayne more than a dozen buildings were struck by lightning, several people shocked and one or two street cars struck. At Goshen great damage was done by water overflowing the sewers and some buildings burned by lightning Truly Auburn was fortnnate.

—The Northern Indiana Editorial association began a two days' session at Rome City this afternoon and the program is full of interest. This is the twenty-eighth annual meeting, and, like good Kentuck Bourbon, the association improve, with age. J. A. Barns and wife and Miss Pearl Kelley are in attendance from this city.

Saturday's Daily.

—Read our report of court allowances, and the allowances of the commioners' court

—Mrs. John Rudolph at the Junction, is having an attack of tonsilitis. Dr. Baxter is treating her.

—J. C. Lochner and wife went to Detroit today where they will remain over Sunday with friends.

—Trustee Dancer of Jackson has put a new fence around his front yard. W. S. may be a little slow but he is always sure to be at the proper place some time.

—The commissioners are in session today trying over the Jonn Boyd ditch case. It had been viewed and then reviewed, and now some one wants it viewed again.

—Mr. Haines who was up to Angola this week, reports a good deal of excitement over the examination of the books at the court house there.

Mrs. A. S. Leas was here to-day, returning to Waterloo on the noon train. She and her son Fred, were called to Waterloo to attend the funeral of John Leas.

—A man was on our streets this morning selling strawberries at five cents a quart. The home crop is late, but it is of agood quality. It bids fair to last till July 4.

—Pearl Kelley went to Laporte this afternoon to remain a week or so with her school friend Miss Jean Fildes, who is to be married on Wednesday of next week June 23.

—Mrs. Amos Walsworth went to South Bend yesterday, where she will visit relatives over Sunday. From there she goes to Knox, this state and will spend a week or so with her sister Bessie, who lives there.

—A cowboy with a gorgeous yet dirty outfit of big gray hat, brilliantly colored sash and big boots, aired his beauty about town this forenoon. He evidently considered himself the most beautiful animated object on the street and the highest type of American manhood.

—It's about as hard to break some people of bad habits as it is to break Malarial Fever when it once gets a firm hold upon one. Mr. C. Himrod, of Lancaster, Ohio, says, "Simmons Liver Regulator broke a case of Malarial Fever of three years, standing for me, and less than one bottle did the business. I shall use it when in need of any medicine, and I recommend it."

Friday's Daily.

—R. C. Baxter and Samuel Lutz have thanks for cash advanced on their subscription today.

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs and timber. Highest cost prices paid for same. Address Lesh, Sanders & Egbert Co. Goshen, Ind. 40-50

—Will Coffinberry has the position of bookkeeper for the Garrett Water and Light Co. says the Herald.

—Dr. Baxter is paying special attention to Diseases of Children also Diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Nervous system. tf

—During the storm Wednesday Peter Shoof who lives near New Era had a fine Jersey cow killed by lightning.

—Mrs. Wm. Whetsel and daughter Mrs. Benninghoff of New Era were callers at the COURIER office to-day. It is always a pleasure to meet these ladies.

—You can't afford to use envelopes without your return card printed on them. They are liable to get lost and never returned to you. The COURIER job department will print you 500 or 1,000, at about what you are paying for the blank envelopes. We have just received a case of 25,000 and can afford to print them at a low price. If you need envelopes, let us show you the goods and make you a price.

—Joe Tarney left this morning for Anderson for a visit of a few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Campbell.

—Mrs. M. A. Ehlers yesterday had the shade trees on her residence properties trimmed up according to instructions of the marshal.

Sick headache can be quickly and completely overcome by using those famous little pills known as "DeWitt's Little Early Risers." Davenport, the druggist.

—Irvin Hoffman informed us last night that he had rented the Rice gallery and would open up there about July 1st. Mr. Hoffman is altogether the best photographer in DeKalb county and he will give the people some fine pictures at proper prices. People will also receive courteous treatment at the hands of Mr. Hoffman.

—Second hand machines.
1 McCormick Binder.
1 Champion "
1 Wood "
1 Pony Deering "
1 Champion mower.
1 Buckeye "
1 McCormick "
at bargain prices. Two of these binders and one mower almost new.
2t BROWN CULBERTSON & BOLAND.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair
DR.
PRICE'S CREAM
BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE.
A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.
40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Monday's Daily.

—Norman Shaffer has thanks for recent favors.

—Hiram Brand of Smithfield was a caller this forenoon.

—There was quite a frost on the low grounds this morning, June 21, but no damage done.

—O. H. Downey formerly of the Churubusco Truth, has bought the Kendallville News.

—Eliza Shaffer of Albion was here over Sunday the guest of his father, C. C. Shaffer.

—Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Pipes Sundayed in the city the guests of relatives and friends. They return to Garrett today.

—T. C. Ford was at the Ford reunion at Mansfield, Ohio, last Thursday. About 150 members of the family gathered there and all had a fine visit.

—L. J. Miller has been quite sick for several days. The trouble seems to be congestion of the liver. He is some better now.

—S. S. Potter and wife and son Lodie and J. C. Lochner and wife went to Hamilton today for a few days outing. While there they will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kinney.

—Messrs. Bishop & Lackey are in Chicago this week buying new goods for the great anniversary sale of that store which is July 17 and 18. People will get bargains on this occasion.

—The COURIER was misinformed as to the death of Dr. E. R. Leas, at Angola. He has been seriously ill for some time, and our informant honestly believed the rumor that he was dead. He has however, but small hope for recovery.

—Judge Best came from Minneapolis reaching here Sunday afternoon over the B. & O. He comes to assist Judge McClellan as counsel for Mr. McIntosh in the trial that begins Wednesday. The Judge brings word that Mrs. Best, though partially recovered from her recent injuries was not able to accompany him as they had intended.

—The Misses Blanche and Mildred Sanders, of Chicago Junction, sang in the Presbyterian choir at the forenoon services yesterday. They also gave a fine solo. Miss Blanche taking the soprano, and Miss Mildred, the alto. They are fine singers and show good training. They are visiting the family of their uncle, Benj. Michener at the south of town and will be here a week or two yet. They will sing again at the Presbyterian church next Sunday.

—John Fink of Montpelier, O., was in the city Saturday. Mr. Fink with a brother formerly conducted a wagon shop in Leo, but of late years has been at Montpelier. He came to Auburn to secure the service of a carriage trimmer, and hired Mr. Richey, who has gone to the city. They manufacture carriages on a small scale, turning out about 125 a year, in connection with the work of running a general repair shop.

—M. L. Hoffman of Auburn Juntion was a caller at the COURIER office today. He informs us that the Progressive Brethren are erecting a new church at the Junction. It is located just south of the depot and a little west of the L. S. tracks. The foundation has been completed and Brandon & Long will commence the frame soon as they have the contract. This will be quite an improvement for our hustling little superb. The class is in a good healthy condition and we hope to see them continue so.

—Nancy Hanks Lincoln, the mother of the martyred president, died in 1818 in Spencer county, Indiana. Her burial place was neglected until 1879 when Peter Studebaker, of South Bend, erected a nice marble slab to mark the spot and built a suitable fence around the grave. Tince then no attention has been given the place until a few weeks ago the attention of Governor Mount was called to the matter He has taken the matter in hand and has had the place properly cared for and made suitable provision for future care.

Tuesday's Daily.

—Mrs. C. M. Brown has been quite sick, from an attack of peritonitis. She is now a little better.

—Hicksville will celebrate July 3.

—Albert Romaine, one of LaPearl's acrobats, died at Fort Wayne yesterday after a long sickness of typhoid fever. His home was in Freyersburg, Ohio.

—W. H. Ernst, the expert accountant is in the city, being called here as a witness in the county cases that begin tomorrow. He is working on the county books at Angola.

—Judge Powers was here yesterday, partly on court business and partly to advertise their old settlers' meeting.

—Dr. James Squires, of Churubusco, has recently performed the rather delicate operation of skin grafting. The patient is reported as doing well.

—Butler is having its full share of tramps now. One freight train came in last week that had an installment of the "Wearies" in about half the cars.

—Ralph Brown has been visiting the past week with his aunt, Mrs. Buchanan, in Concord township.

—It will be well to study over the allowances of the commissioners and the court. They are getting down to business.

—Miss Stella Merica, is home from Chicago, and we suppose will go on south as before announced, after a visit with her parents.

—BOARD WANTED:—For two boys, aged 10 and 12 years, during the summer months. Address, with terms:
MRS. CARRIE CULLER,
197 Wells-st, Chicago, Ill.

Tuesday's Daily.

—WANTED:—Local representative, steady employment, salary, reference required. Address.
P. P. BYRNE, Elwood, Ind.

—Editor Conlogue, of Kendallville was in the court room to-day for a short time.

—At Huntington the case of Platt vs the L. E. & W. Ry., damages for killing him, the administrator gets $5,000. The jury once gave $8,000 in the same case, but it was appealed, and the supreme court sent it back for a new trial.

—Garrett run the cowboy preacher out of town. Attorney Gengler was after him with a warrant for is arrest. That's the way to do it —Lewis Spangler, at the Zunction, is seriously ill. He has serious kidney and bladder troubles, and they seem to affect his mind, so that at times he is quite wild. His son, W. W. Spangler, has been sent for.

—Some wild-eyed correspondent at Butler sends word to the city papers that DeKalb county is paying two salaries for auditor. This is ridiculous. Read over the salary allowances in the COURIER and you will see that only the regular quarterly allowance of $625 was made. If two salaries had been paid, it would be $1,250. The commissioners could not pay out as salary for that office, anything above the salary fixed by law, $2500 a year.

—The Board of Equalization and Review is now in session in the Commissioners' room. They are G. I. Patterson, Fred Schulthess and Mel Reynolds, with Mr. Boland, who as acting auditor is required to assist them.

—John W. Baxter has been a few days at Lake Mills, Iowa, being called there by the severe illness of his brother William, who has an attack of something like paralysis. Mr. Baxter is expected home tomorrow, Wednesday.

—Judge Roby was over at Huntington last week sitting as judge on a case where Judge Watkins was not eligible. One of these was the case to determine whether the census of that city showing over 10,000 people was correct. If it was, then the governor could appoint their police commissioners. He has this case under advisement.

—It pays to advertise. F. L. Welsheimer recently advertised a lost pocketbook in the DAILY. Well, time passed on, and that pocketbook kept getting nearer and nearer. And in about three days Mrs. Welsheimer found it lying on the sofa in the very place where it had dropped out of Mr. Welsheimer's pocket. Who says it does not pay to advertise, especially in the AUBURN DAILY COURIER?

—Queen Victoria is receiving costly gifts from many of the crowned heads all over the world. The Czar and Empress of Russia sent a set of emeralds valued at $100,000. But the Queen does not receive gifts from persons it private life.

Wednesday's Daily.

—Virgis Fitch went to New Era this morning, and returned at noon.

—John Lochner of the COURIER was in Ft Wayne today to bny needed stock for the job department.

—John Wetosky is the latest new subscribers to the old Reliable COURIER.

—The ladies of the south section of the M. E. Church, will give a social in the basement of the church, Friday evening of this week, June 25. Don't forget the date.

—I have no more houses to rent but several to trade for real or personal property.
WALTER C. HARTMAN,
Real Estate.

—Captain W. A. Sutton arrived last evening from Michigan City with Messrs. Borst, Sawvel and Dills. They are stopping at Glazier House.

—Mrs. Wm. Buss and daughter, Florence, returned this morning from a week's visit with C. C. Buss and family, of near Sedan.

—WANTED:—A girl or woman who understands general house work. Steady work and good wages.
MRS. A. G. LODEWICK,
Auburn, Ind.

—LOST:—Monday on the road between Auburn and Waterloo, a lady's light jacket. Finder will be rewarded by leaving same at this office.

—Dr. Baxter was over near Butler this morning to assist as a post mortem on Adam Tombow. It was found that he died of cancer in the bowels. The physicians present were, Drs. Baxter, Swarts and Hines, of Auburn, and Drs. Shumaker and Campbell, of Butler.

—One of Denison's ice wagons broke down this forenoon. They were just coming into town and in front of Capt. Otto's, the hind axle broke down. I caused a delay till the other wagon could come and take his load.

—A. G. Lodewick north of town is having an immense crop of strawberries. It will reach to not less than 2000 quarts this season, and they are the largest and finest so far brought to this market, this year. He is making a specialty of small fruits.

C. C. Buss, wife and two children and Mrs. Anna Silver made an overland trip over in Ohio visiting old friends and relatives, including their uncle who is near 80 years of age, all report a very pleasant trip.

GRASS FOR SALE.

I have four acres of heavy clover and timothy. Will sell at reasonable price.
Call. A. G. LODEWICK.
d2twlt

B. & O. EXCURSIONS.

TO BANDUSKY, O.

On Sunday, June 27th, the B. & O. will sell excursion tickets to Sandusky at rate of $1.00 for the round trip. Special train will leave Auburn Junction at 4:30 a. m.

JULY 4TH.

On July 3, 4 and 5, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell excursion tickets to and from all stations within a radius of 200 miles from starting point, at rate of one fare for the round trip. Tickets will be good for return until July 6, 1897.

TO MILWAUKEE.

On July 3, 4 and 5 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell excursion tickets to Milwaukee, Wis., at rate of one fare for the round trip, plus $2.00, for membership fee, account National Educational Association Meeting. Tickets will be good for return leaving Milwaukee July 10, 11 and 12, but are subject to an extension until August 31, if deposited with Joint Agent at Milwaukee on or before July 12, and upon payment of fifty cents to Joint Agent at time of deposit of ticket.

TO MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, MD.

On July 1 to 11, inclusive, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell excursion tickets to Mountain Lake Park, Md., at rate of one fare for the round trip, on account of the Camp Meeting. Tickets will be good for return until July 16, 1897.

For further information call on or address nearest B. & O. ticket agent, or B. N. Austin, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Chicago, Ill.

EXCEPTIONAL LOW RATES TO MINNEAPOLIS

Via the North-Western Line, on account of the convention B. P. O. Elks, July 6. The Chicago & Western R'y is the route of the world-renowed "North-Western Limited," equipped with Compartment and Standard Sleeping Cars, Buffet Smoking and Library Cars, Dining Cars and coaches. For full information apply to ticket agents of connecting lines or address D. W. Aldridge, T. P. A., 127 The Arcade Cleveland, Ohio. Or W. B. Kniskern, G. P. &. T. A., Chicago, Ill.

4th July Excursion.

On July 3, 4, and 5 the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. will sell excursion tickets at half rates at all its stations to points within 200 miles of selling station, good returning until July 6th inclusive.

to the N. E. A Convention, Milwaukee,

July-6-via the Northwestern Line, "The Lake Shore Route." Excursion rates, frequent trains, quick time, Parlor Cars and Dining Cars. See that your tickets read from Chicago via the Chicago & North Western R'y. For full information apply to ticket agents of connecting lines or address D. W. Aldridge, T. P. A., 127 The Arcade, Cleveland, Ohio. Or W. B. Kniskern, G. P. & T. A., Chicago, Ill

24th Annual Pioneer Jubilee.

AT ANGOLA, IND., AUG. 19, 1897.

This will be the greatest event of the kind ever held in Indiana.

Old settlers, old soldiers, sons and daughters of the pioneers, sons and daughters of the veterans, let all come from far and near and honor the old folks with your presence; come and visit, renew requaintance and cement the ties of friendship.

Bring your dinner baskets well filled, bring a cup too, for 400 gallons of Mocha and Java coffee will be furnished free to the multitude.

Exercises all free.

Come and see the State troops parade.

See the firemen drill, see them throw water from the hydrants, 100 feet high.

Hear the drummers drum and the fifers fife, ye olden time music. Hear recitations and songs.

See Professor Delancy's miniature air ships.

See the great Statesmen and hear the great orators:

The Hon. Claude Mattews, ex-governor of Indiana.

The Hon. Cyrus G. Luce, ex-governor of Michigan.

The Hon. John Morris, of Indiana.

The Hon. Charles A. Bowersox, of Ohio.

The Hon. O. A. Janes, of Michigan, will speak at the meeting.

Arrangements are made so that all can see and hear, and the old folks shall have the first and best opportunitty.

We intend to distribute tickets: first, to persons who have lived in this county 50 years over; second, to persons over 70 years of age and on July 17th all persons who are entitled to tickets are requested to call on Stephen A. Powers at his office in Angola, register nam, and age and get tickets, or send name, age and P. O. address. Those possessing these tickets will be entitled to good seats.

Special arrangements will be made for old soldiers and their wives. It is expected that they will turn out enmasse from Southern Michigan, western Ohio and Northern Indiana.

Judge Janes is an old soldier of the 4th Michigan. He was the first person outside of the cabinet that President McKinley appointed to office; he has few superiors as a public speake.

Judge Bowersxo is a scholar and gifted orator and the other speakers have national reputation.

Watch for programmes, remember the date and arrange to spend one day in attending our reunion.

STEPHEN A. POWERS, Pres't.
FRED SCHNIDER, Treasurer,

The Medal Medicine
Is the Model Medicine.
The only medal awarded to sarsaparilla at the World's Fair, 1893, at Chicago, was awarded to Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

PURELY VEGETABLE.

The cheapest, purest and best family medicine in the world! An effectual specific for all diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Spleen. Regulate the Liver and prevent Chills and Fever, Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice and Nausea.

BAD BREATH!

Nothing is so unpleasant, nothing so common, as a bad breath; and in nearly every case it comes from the stomach, and can be so easily corrected if you will take Simmons Liver Regulator. Do not neglect so sure a remedy for this repulsive disorder. It will also improve your appetite, complexion and general health.

CONSTIPATION

should not be regarded as a trifling ailment—in fact, nature demands the utmost regularity of the bowels, and any deviation from this demand paves the way often to serious danger. It is quite as necessary to remove impure accumulations from the bowels as it is to eat or sleep, and no health can be expected where a costive habit of body prevails.

SICK HEADACHE!

This distressing affliction occurs most frequently. The disturbance of the stomach, arising from the imperfectly digested contents, causes a severe pain in the head, accompanied with disagreeable nausea, and this constitutes what is popularly known as Sick Headache, for the relief of which take Simmons Liver Regulator.

EVERY PACKAGE
Has the Z Stamp in red on the wrapper.
J. H. ZEILIN & CO., Philadelphia.

PROGRAMME

.....OF THE.....

GRAND CELEBRATION

....TO BE HELD AT....

GARRETT

....SATURDAY....

JULY 3D.

....Read the List of....

AMUSEMENTS.

National Salute at Sunrise.

9:30 a. m. Industrial, Civic, Military, Firemen and a Red Hot Fantastic Parade.....

19:30 a m. Exercises from the Ross House Porch.....

Music by the Band.

Invocation.....Rev. Father Young
National Song.....Male Quartet
Declaration Independence .....Queen Frederick
Song (selected).....Male Quartet
Oration.....Rev. J. M. Haines
Song "America,"...Band and Audience
Benediction.....Rev. Thomas B. Kemp

After Dinner Sports.

1:30 to 3:00. Bicycle Races and Ball Game.....

3:00 to 5:00 Foot, Wheelbarrow, Sack, Hurdle.....
Pie-eating and other Races on Randolph street.....

6:00 to 7:00 Prize Drill and Sham Battle by the Auburn Rifles and German Soldiers.....

7:00 to 8:00. Grand Band Concert, winding up with the finest and most spectacular.....

Display of Fireworks

Ever Shown in Northern Indiana

Half Fare On All Railroads.

Trains Nos. 5 and 47, going west, will stop at Hicksville, St. Joe and Auburn Junction. Trains Nos. 6 and 46, going east, and will stop at Auburn Junction, and St. Joe and Hicksville.

Topics of the Times

The field of Waterloo is to be deserated with a tramway line.

Kid gloves, with hand-painted flowers on the back, are the latest fads in Paris.

More English women are married to Germans than to members of any other foreign nation.

Street music in Boston is to be limited to stringed instruments; no "German bands" are allowed.

The proportion of people in Norway who speak English is larger than in any other country of the world.

The population of many South Sea islands manufacture their entire suits from the products of the palm tree.

The brewers of Great Britain consume annually about 70,000 tons of sugar in the manufacture of beer and malt liquors.

The Russian scepter is of solid gold, three feet long, and contains among its ornaments 268 diamonds, 360 rubies and fifteen emeralds.

It is proposed to extend the Victoria embankment in London from the houses of parliament to Lambreth bridge, at a cost of $5,000,000.

Out of all the European countries only Austria and Great Britain have the rule that all travelers on the roadways must keep to the left.

The physicians of Ravenna, Ohio, are about to form a trust for the purpose of protecting themselves against deadbeats who never pay their doctors' bills.

Philadelphia pays laborers on public works $1.75 a day of nine hours. Baltimore pays $10 a week. Both cities have lately fixed the rate by local ordinance.

Twenty-six of the 170 persons who died in Monroe County, Ohio, last year were upward of 80 years of age, the oldest being 97, and the average age is a little over 87 years.

It is said that since the remarkably cold winter of 1893-94 there are many parts of South Carolina in which the bluebird, once so plentiful, has become totally extinct.

A Lewiston saloon-keeper recently sat on the Grand Jury upon his own case. No indictment was found, although a legal seizure of liquor had been made on his premises.

The Royal Irish constabulary is the only police force in the kingdom which is practically on a military footing, the members of which are drilled and disciplined as soldiers.

The rush to the newly discovered gold fields in the Mojave desert, California, is the wildest stampede which the West has known since the days of Virginia City, in 1870 and 1871.

The subscriptions to the Omaha exposition, which will be held in 1898, already amount to almost $1,000,000, and the managers expect this sum to be doubled by the end of the year.

Brooklyn is to have an electric fountain on the Prospect Park plaza. It will have a throwing capacity of 100,000 gallons an hour. Colored incandescent lights will be used for prismatic effects on the great variety of sprays.

The Chinese year a skirt, knee breeches, cap and sandals. As winter comes they increase the number of garments rather than their thickness, so that the circumference of a Chinaman in midwinter often exceeds his height.

The memorial which will be erected on the site of the battle of Lake George, N. Y., will be forty feet high, and will be unveiled on Sept. 8, 1898, the anniversary of the event. It was in this fight that Col. Ephraim Williams, the founder of Williams College, lost his life.

The new State flag of Connecticut is to be five feet six inches long, four feet four inches broad, of azure blue silk, bearing a shield of white silk embroidered with the three vines and grape bunches of the State coat of arms, and below, on a white silk streamer, the State motto, "Qui transtulit sustinet."

Live soft-shell crabs have just been successfully transported from Maryland to Portland, Ore., an achievement never before accomplished, it is said. A few native crabs are caught on the Pacific coast in a soft-shell condition, but the Maryland crabs are conceded by Oregonians to be more delicate.

A curious custom prevails in Bulgaria. All newly married women are obliged to remain dumb for a month after marriage, except when addressed by their husbands. When it is desirable to remove this restriction permanently the husband presents her with a gift, and then she can chatter to her heart's content.

It is possible to go around the world and touch on British territory all the way, viz., from England to Halifax, N. S.; across Canada to Vancouver, across the Pacific to Hong Kong, thence to Singapore, Penang, Mauritius, Cape Town, St. Helena and England; or from Penang to Ceylon, Bombay, Aden, Perim, Malta, Gibraltar and home.

The Baltimore Sun recently called upon its readers for an expression of opinion as to what two Marylanders should have their statues set up in the Hall of Statuary at Washington. Chief Justice Taney and Charles Carroll received a majority of the vote, although Francis Scott Key was a great favorite.

Earthquakes occasionally profit mankind, as in the case of Ouzoun-Ada, a port of the Caspian, which is the starting point of the Trans-Caspian Railway. The port was visited by an earthquake some years ago and since then it has become open to steamers which could not enter it before, owing to the shallow water.

It is said that many of the emigrants who have lately been pouring into Louisiana have come from the Western wheat-raising districts and intend to carry on the same line of farming in their new homes. The hard times which many Western farmers have felt severely have induced them to move to the South and begin life over again.

The new seal of the New York University has the old motto, "To endure and to excel" (Perstare et praestare) and a representation of youths testing their endurance in a foot race and striving to excel in their efforts to reach the goal first. In the upper part of the seal, as a symbol of the city, is seen the outstretched arm of the statue of Liberty.

The people of Savannah want to have a belated celebration in their city next year of the bicentennial of the birth of Gen. James Edward Oglethorpe, the founder of the colony of Georgia. They urge that all the thirteen original States should take part and think Congress should appropriate money to defray at least a part of the expense.

The Gaylord, Kan., Herald records that the experiment tried there a year ago of electing women to fill all the city offices has proved a complete success, the city business being conducted by them in a careful, economical and efficient manner. It says that the same officers would have been continued for another year had they consented to serve.

The city sealer of Pawtucket, R. I. lives to some end. He has discovered officially what every purchaser knows inofficially that strawberry boxes are not always what they purport to be. The city sealer of Pawtucket must have had an unusually bad box worked off on him, for he has notified all dealers that strawberries, and all other berries, must be sold by the quart, dry measure, and that crate boxes are barred.

Scotland can no longer claim to possess the longest railway bridge in the world in the great structure over the River Tay. The recently completed bridge over the Danube at Czernavoda obtains this distinction by nearly 3,000 feet. The length of the new structure, exclusive of its approaches, is 13,323 feet, while its principal spans over the main channel of the river are 620 feet and 455 feet respectively.

The new Minnesota game law, which is the most lengthy game law ever passed in that State, is likely to give some fishermen trouble. Pike and pickerel may be caught after May 1, but bass, which inhabits the same waters, and is caught with the same bait, may not be caught until May 15. The angler will be forced to pay $25 fine if some bass not well versed in Minnesota law happens to take a fancy to his bait.

Ex-Gov. Waite, of Colorado, always favored woman's suffrage in theory, but in practice he finds it to be an entirely different proposition. Interviewed on the subject the other day, he said: "To offset the votes of the intelligent women are the votes of the ignorant women, and hence it's all the same. Not one single, solitary good has come from women's votes in Colorado. Three of them were elected to the legislature and they were worse than the men."

When the new clock of St. Paul's cathedral, London, was put in position about three years ago the dials had their central parts fitted with white glass for illumination at night. The white glass has been found to make the dials less distinct by day, and also not to be in architectural harmony with the cathedral. Instructions have, therefore, been given to the makers of the clock to fit in new dark central parts to the dials. The total diameter of the dials is about seventeen feet, and the central parts are ten feet in diamater.

On a little coral island some hundred miles south of Florida Capt. Minor lately captured twenty-four head of seals belonging to a species that were thought to be extinct. They are known as the monarchs of the tropics, and differ considerably from their brethren found in the Northern waters. One striking feature is their docility; they make no effort to escape capture, and appear to like being petted. The Smithsonian Institution has contracted for four. The capture of these seals was a big surprise to scientific men, who supposed that this species had become extinct. The seals are of no commercial value worth mentioning.

The barn and outbuildings at the country home of Dr. W. P. Murphy, a Burlington, N. J., editor, were destroyed by fire a few days ago. The barn was evidently set on fire by children playing in it with matches. Mr. Murphy, in his paper, refers to his hard luck in the following pathetic strain: "Since moving from the city the editor has had his share. He fractured his arm by a fall from a wagon; next Mrs. Murphy had a serious spell of typhoid; next two children caught the same disease; next Frank, the horse, died; next the editor was bitten by a cat; next the loss of business; next the roof of the house blew off; now the barns reduced to ashes. What next?"

How He Lost His First Case.

Tom McGrath, the ex-detective who is now touring in Europe, was in the habit of telling a railroad detective story, in which he figured as the Hawkshaw and a tramp as the fugitive. It was in the days before he joined the ranks of the Pinkertons. He was a conductor then on an Eastern road. One day when he was walking on the roof of one of his freight cars, he discovered a man on the bumpers. The fellow was fairly well dressed and carried a satchel.

"Where are you going?" asked Tom.

"To Albany," said the stranger.

"Not on this train," said McGrath. "Rattlers don't carry passengers."

The stranger, seeing that he was about to be "ditched," as the "hobo" calls it, opened his satchel, while the conductor gazed in wonderment. It was filled with watches, diamonds and gems of the richest kind.

"'Rattlers' don't carry passengers, do they?" insinuated the tramp, handing the conductor a beautiful timepiece. "Just punch my ticket, will you? And if you have a chew of tobacco about your clothes, hand it down and accept my compliments."

The tramp passed up a brilliant sparkler in return for the tobacco, and Conductor McGrath thought he would be smart and do his first detective work. There was no doubt in his mind that a jewelry store had been robbed somewhere along the line. He would take his passenger to Albany and hand him over to the authorities, he thought.

When the train slowed up about a mile from Albany the fellow jumped off the bumpers and disappeared in the woods. The trainmen could not desert the train, and McGrath lost his first case.—St. Louis Republic.

Why?

Mr. Crimsonbeak—I read to-day that a man's entire figure is seven times the length of his head.

Mrs. Crimsonbeak—Why, then, should you look so small when you come down in the morning with a towel around your head?—Yonkers Statesman.

THE TRUSTS HAVE THEIR INNINGS.

SUGAR TRUST PROFITS.

John De Witt Warner Makes Some Estimates and Scores the Trust.

Ex-Congressman John De Witt Warner is one of the best posted men in this country on sugar tariffs. When in congress, he carried the house for free sugar. In a recently published statement he estimates the net protection to the trust given by the Aldrich schedule at from 35 cents to $1.14 on every 100 pounds of refined sugar.

Without attempting to give his argument as to each of the ways in which the trust would be protected we give his summary of trust profits as follows:

Specific differential	$0.13@$0.40+
Thirty-five per cent ad valorem differential	0.14@ 0.21
Countervailing duty, say	0.08@ 0.35
Additional by substitution of 75 per cent ad valorem for specific duties in low grades	0.00@ 0.18
Total	$0.35@$1.14

In the vast majority of cases, however, the actual result is between 45 and 60 cents per 100 pounds net protection to the trust, and it is impracticable so to combine circumstances as to bring this below 40 cents or above 60 cents for any considerable amount.

As an item of tariff taxation the sugar schedule is ideal from the protectionist standpoint. Sugar is the one article used by poor and rich to an equivalent extent, and a tax on which therefore falls most heavily on the poor in proportion to their ability to pay it. Its production and distribution are controlled by a concern which is at once the greatest of our mean trusts and the meanest of our great ones.

It is consistent therefore that on this one article there should be levied more than one-third of our total tariff taxation, and that our people should be burdened by a tax of more than $90,000,000 that realizes less than $70,000,000 for the treasury and more than $20,000,000 for the sugar refining combine, while the same combine is enabled to net an additional $10,000,000 by the opportunity given it to import at present duty rates raw sugars from which it can make refined to be sold by it under the enhanced price assured it by the proposed Aldrich schedule. The net "protection" of from 45 to 60 cents per 100 pounds given the trust on its refining process alone should be considered as sufficient when we remember that the labor cost of this process is slightly less than 6½ cents per 100 pounds—that is to say, Senator Aldrich, in behalf of American labor, proposes unduly to tax wage earners in order to give the trust from five to seven times as much "protection" as it pays for all the labor involved.

Next to the wage earner the farmer is dear to the protectionist heart, and he is therefore equally favored by the sugar schedule. Of late years throughout the eastern and middle and many of the central states the competition of the far west has driven our farmers from grain raising into fruit culture. This has now so developed that except for exports of canned goods—jams, preserves, etc.—in which we ought to supply the world, the business of fruit raising has, in its turn, become almost profitless. And poverty is now assured to those who are dependent upon fruit culture by the proposed tax of two cents a pound on sugar. This increases by from 50 to 75 per cent the article which would make up from 40 to 75 per cent of the total weight of the jams, etc., the export of which might insure living prices for the surplus fruits, but which is now practically prohibited.

And this is "a government of the people, by the people and for the people." Who are "the people?"

Tariff Cannot Help Us.

Republican financiers pretend to have great faith that the Dingley tariff bill will prove a potent power in bringing prosperity to this country.

With a naive disregard for the teachings of history they are congratulating themselves that prosperity is waiting "just around the corner," and when the tariff bill becomes a law this land will flow with milk and honey. They refuse to investigate the true causes of business depression, and foolishly believe that by contracting the currency and enlarging the taxes they can set the wheels of industry in motion.

Let us glance a moment over the pages of recent history and see what lesson they have in them. Bradstreet gives facts and figures which show that the decline of values in this country is coincident with the decline of silver.

When the McKinley tariff went into effect in 1890 the decline in values had set in. The tariff was high, the highest ever made up to that date. Did it stop the decline in prices? When the McKinley law was passed Bradstreet's indication of values was 114.171. In three months it fell to 101.741. After nine months had elapsed it had gone down to 97.853. When an entire year had passed it stood at 95.051. In October, 1892, it had sunk to 88.574. A year later, in October, 1893, the record was 85.289, and in October, 1894, it had tumbled to 77.501.

It does not appear from these incontrovertible statistics that high tariff brings increase of values. There can be no doubt that the tariff remedy is a quack nostrum, and the stronger the dose the weaker the patient becomes.

The currency is all wrong, and that is the cause of business depression. Discrediting silver and trying to force this great nation to a gold standard are back of all this decline in values. The remedy cannot be found in high tariff, for not only history but common sense acknowledges that no nation can grow rich through taxation. Establishing the gold standard will simply make matters worse, for men cannot do business on a limited capital. The free and unlimited coinage of silver is the only thing that will bring back prosperity, restore values and set the millions of idle and suffering men in this nation once more hopefully and successfully at work.

High Duties On Buttons.

The button manufacturers, present and prospective, are unusually greedy in their demands for tariff duties. McKinley duties are entirely too slow for the button infants. The following is part of a statement made by button importers:

The proposed duties on buttons, as per schedule of the finance committee of the senate, are as a rule prohibitory and would prove a severe hardship on goods used by the poorer and middle classes, and also to manufacturers of various garments used by the mass of our people, such as low priced shirts, underwear, clothing, etc. The following data will give some idea of the inequalities of the proposed duties:

Agate Buttons—Present duty, also McKinley bill, 25 per cent; proposed duty of one-twelfth of 1 cent per line per gross, plus 15 per cent ad valorem, would average from 67 to 161 per cent, bearing heaviest on the class of goods that make up the great bulk of the importations. The following schedule, taking the styles that sell, shows the range proposed:

WHITE LENTILLES ON CARD SOLD TO JOBBING TRADE.

No.	Lines.	Price.	Present duty, 25 p. ct.	Proposed duty.	Equals ad val. p. ct.
1½	18	$0.124	0.031	0.190	161
10	20	0.234	0.059	0.235	100
20	21	0.310	0.078	0.258	83
30	23	0.378	0.095	0.287	76
40	25	0.441	0.110	0.316	71
50	27	0.510	0.128	0.347	68
BUTTONS FOR MANUFACTURING TRADE IN BULK.
Mineral	14	0.138	0.034	0.150	110
Ivory	16	0.145	0.036	0.182	125
Lentille	18	0.153	0.038	0.203	133

These buttons are not made here, nor are they likely to be made. First, because little or none of the raw material required has been found here; second, because the total sales being limited to this country would not warrant the investment of the necessary capital in a plant needed to make the various styles wanted. It is evident that the intention is to exclude these goods in the interest of some higher cost goods. The proposed duty would be a real hardship and bear heavily on the class of people who buy "china buttons," as well as on the manufacturers of cheap shirts, underwear, etc.

Bone Buttons (to sew on)—Present duty, 35 per cent; McKinley bill, 50 per cent; proposed duty, from 106 to 194 per cent. These goods are mostly sold to manufacturers of cheap underwear, children's waists, clothing, etc.

The Infamous Wool Schedule.

The senate computations of the equivalents for Dingley bill rates on woolen goods only need to be stated. They make opposing argument unnecessary in the mere reading. For example, the rate is 55 per cent on second class wool 289 per cent on garnetted waste, 320 per cent on shoddy, 171 per cent on woolen cloths valued at not more than 50 cents per pound, 167 per cent on blankets more than three yards in length and valued at not more than 50 cents per pound, 212 per cent on shawls valued at not exceeding 40 cents per pound, 151 per cent on knit fabrics valued at not exceeding 40 cents per pound, 257 per cent on hats of wool valued at not more than 30 cents per pound, 419 per cent on felts of the same value, 147 per cent on plushes valued at not over 40 cents per pound, and 64 per cent on the aggregate of woolen carpets.

The people of the United States could better afford to buy every sheep in the country and to put every shepherd on the pension list than to submit themselves to such shameless plundering.—Philadelphia Record.

Have We Prosperity?

The wobbling St. Louis Globe-Democrat has been driven to the alternative of admitting that its campaign prophecies of a business revival immediately after the election of McKinley were "absurd" and "ridiculous," or of claiming that its prophecies have been fulfilled, and that prosperity has come. In choosing the latter alternative it seems to us to have made an egregious blunder. Certainly it has chosen the alternative that will prove most damaging to its party.

If the Globe-Democrat and other McKinley organs admit that the business conditions prevailing now are the prosperity they promised during the campaign, and of which McKinley was to be the advance agent, the Democrats will be quite willing to rest their case on this. It will not be necessary for them to do any campaigning either in 1898 or 1900. It will be sufficient for them to hold conventions and nominate candidates. Without effort on their part, their candidates will be elected by majorities so sweeping that it will be like the old race, in which Eclipse was first and the rest nowhere.

The people know that they were deceived in the last campaign. They are beginning to suspect that they were bunkoed. If the Globe-Democrat and other Republican spokesmen will go on asserting that the "prosperity" we are now having is the prosperity that was promised before the election, the people will no longer doubt that they were deliberately bunkoed and will in due time make their indignation effective.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A SHORTHAND TYPE WRITER.

Machine Which Writes Entire Words at One Stroke of the Fingers.

Business men and stenographers will hail with delight the invention of a typewriting machine which can be so manipulated as to print words entire with one stroke of the fingers instead of the old method of spelling each word out. The machine is intended to take the place of ordinary shorthand writing, and at the same time to make a record which can be read by anyone.

SAMPLE OF WORK.

In the ordinary typewriting machines speed is limited by the fact that but one key can be operated at a time and only one character printed.

The inventor saw that if several fingers could be used at the time time, as on the piano, to select the letters for a word, and the word printed at a single stroke, sufficient speed could be gotten to take speeches from dictation direct on machines instead of using shorthand. He then constructed a machine after this idea. It is a very small affair, weighing only two and one-half pounds, occupying a space only six inches square, and can be placed in a case two inches deep.

In this invention the operator can bring into play any or all of twenty keys without changing the position of the hands for any combinations.

There are sixteen keys which lie next to one another, within the four outer keys. On these are printed all the letters and characters that are to be printed. If any of these keys are struck without touching another of the outer ones, it will print the letter or character which is marked on the end nearest the operator. When it is desired to print any of the letters on the second line, it can be done by pressing at the same time one of the outer keys, which are marked "con's line 2" or "vow's line 2." This brings forward either the consonants or vowels. The same is true of line three. The figures are printed by using the fingers of the right hand, while pressing a lever at the left of the head of the machine. The sixteen keys are so arranged that they can be operated in pairs, so that one finger can press down either one or both keys of each pair.

THE SHORTHAND TYPEWRITER.

The machine cannot do accurate spelling, nor will the writing do for correspondence, but phonetic spelling can be done and it is possible at each stroke to print the greater part of a word if not the whole of it. The inventor has made several of these machines and placed them for use in business offices. Those operating them are able to write 100 words a minute.

The principal advantage this machine has is its speed, and if not accurate the words are more easily read than if written in shorthand. It can be used to advantage in taking speeches for the press and other matter that is turned into an office just before the paper goes to press. In this case a good compositor could get up the matter from its record. The record is printed on a narrow slip, as shown by the accompanying cut. The letters read across the slip from left to right. Many of the words are spelled phonetically, but their meanings are obvious. The letter in the illustration translated in long hand runs as follows: "If you could make it convenient to call at the Sun office to-morrow night, Thursday, I shall be glad to see you."

A LAMB IN ICE.

Exported from New Zealand to Test a Refrigerating Process.

This is a picture of the smallest lamb exported from New Zealand. It was frozen into the block of ice as represented to demonstrate the capabilities of a refrigerating process.

A LAMB IN ICE.

Foods.

The foods of the various classes of a nation were often regulated by law in the past. Two Roman laws, passed about 160 B. C., regulated the costs of feasts at private houses, stating how much was to be eaten, and forbidding the fattening of fowls. Julius Caesar was very strict with regard to foods, and used to send his soldiers to confiscate forbidden luxuries offered for sale in the market-places, and to private houses to see that the legal dietary was properly observed. These diet laws were probably necessary in ancient Rome remembering the gluttony of the Romans. Coming down to the Middle Ages, laws of Charles VI. of France and of Edward III. of England decreed the diet of the French and English according to their rank, both as to quality and quantity. The Parliament of Scotland in 1433 passed a similar law. In addition to these the laws regarding dress were particularly severe, and it is curious to notice that some of the English sumptuary laws remained in force, nominally, until about thirty-five years ago.

Some men want to show how smart they are every minute, and become Alecks.

BETTER THAN GOLD

ARE THE STEEL PENS shown below, to any one interested.

OVER FIVE THOUSAND NATIONAL, STATE AND PRIVATE BANKS IN THE UNITED STATES are constantly being supplied with our pens, which fact alone guarantees their excellence.

THESE ARE THE STRONG POINTS:
DURABILITY,
QUALITY,
SMOOTHNESS,
UNIFORMITY.
Take No Substitute.
If your dealer cannot supply you, send to this office, enclosing price, and we will fill your order, and guarantee safe delivery.
Price, per gross (1 box) $ 1.00
" 1-2 doz. boxes, 3.40
" 1 doz. boxes, 10.00

PATENT APPLIED FOR.
Cut of inkstand shows our Popular No. 3. Automatic. Write us, enclosing stamps, and we will send you sample pens and tell you how to get the above stand without cost.

W. L. MASON & CO.,
(INCORPORATED.)
MANUFACTURERS STATIONERS' SUPPLIES.
KEENE, N. H.

ESTABLISHED, 1848.
D. A. ALTICK'S SON,
Manufacturer of High Grade Buggies, Surries, Phaetons, &c.

We claim to build, not the CHEAPEST, but the BEST for the money.
All we ask is, a TRIAL ORDER.
Send for catalogue, and by mentioning this paper we will allow you an EXTRA DISCOUNT.
D. A. ALTICK'S SON,
LANCASTER, PENN.

The Chamberlin Improved
Screw Stump Puller.

The only practical stump puller made, pulls any and all classes and sizes of stumps. Four different sizes always in stock. When you buy get the best. Manufactured and sold by the Chamberlin Manufacturing Company of Olean, N. Y.
Write for catalogue and prices.
Chamberlin Manufacturing Company, - Olean, N. Y.

Relay Bicycles
Have more points of merit, than any other High Grade Bicycle.
FULL OF GRACE AND BEAUTY.
Every Wheel Guaranteed. Send for Catalogue.
Relay M'f'g Co., Reading, Pa.

NATURE'S REMEDY
CURES IN THE RIGHT WAY, BY REGULATING THE LIVER AND KIDNEYS, AND PURIFYING THE BLOOD.
It is a positive cure for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, Chills, and all diseases arising from a diseased liver or the kidneys, or impure blood.
YOUR MONEY BACK Is the plan on which it is sold. If after taking the entire box of medicine you do not think you have had your money's worth, send us back the guarantee, which you will find in the box, and we will send you a check for $1.00 by return mail.
It is put up in two forms, powder and tablets. The tablets are the easier to take, requiring no mixing. Price $1.00 for 180 doses of either kind. Sent post paid upon receipt of price. Send 10 cents for ten days' treatment and copy of Nature's Guide to Health.
A. H. LEWIS MEDICINE CO., - Bolivar, Mo.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS
Made This Change.

DO YOU suffer from Nervous Prostration, Falling or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emission, Shrunken or Undeveloped Organs, Youthful Errors, Excessive Use of Tobacco or Opium? Send by mail on receipt of price. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
WE GUARANTEE to cure you or refund money, and we stand by our guarantee.
Sold at $1 per Box, 6 Boxes for $5.
Sold By Fischer & Son

WHY NOT BUY
THE BEST?

Sterling positively will not injure your hands or the finest fabric. This has been proven by actual tests. Clothes washed with it become white and, of course, Matchless for flannels. Superb for glassware. Will remove stains from marble and make your floors white as chalk.
Try it that it may speak for itself.

$2.50 Cleveland ..TO.. BUFFALO
....Also Daily Line Between....
Cleveland and Toledo,
Via "C. & B. LINE."
Steamers "City of Buffalo," (new) "State of Ohio" and "State of N. Y."
DAILY TIME TABLE.
Sunday Included May 30 to Oct 31.
Lv Cleveland 7:00 p. m. | Lv Buffalo 7:30 p. m.
Ar Buffalo 7:30 a. m. | Ar Cleveland 7:30 a. m.
Central Standard Time.
Take the "C. & B. Line" steamers and enjoy a refreshing night's rest when enroute to Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, New York, Boston, Albany, 1000 Islands, or any Eastern or Canadian Point.
Cheap Excursions Weekly to Niagara Falls
Send 4 cents for tourist pamphlet.
For further information ask your nearest Coupon Ticket Agent, or address,
W. F. HERMAN, Gen. Pass. Agt.
T. F. NEWMAN, Gen. Manager.
Cleveland, Ohio.

DR. MOTT'S
PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies. Especially recommended to married Ladies. Ask for DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00.
DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler — Son.

JOB PRINTING
LETTER HEADS, BILL HEADS, CARDS, ENVELOPES, CIRCULARS.

"A Bundle of Nerves."

This term is often applied to people whose nerves are abnormally sensitive. They should strengthen them with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. After a course of that benign tonic, they will cease to be conscious that they have nervous systems, except through agreeable sensations. It will enable them to eat, sleep and digest well, the three media for increasing tone and vigor in the nerves, in common with the rest of the system. The mental worry begotten by nervous dyspepsia will also disappear.

Amusing Errors.

Like other mortals, the telegraph clerk has his moments of mental abstraction. In a report of one of an English statesman's speeches he was made to say: "We are now at the parting of the ways. Will you take the path that is full of footballs and precipices?" Devotion to athletics led the telegraph clerk astray, and he wrote "footballs" for "pitfalls." The subeditor does not often get such an exquisite morsel as "No cross, no crown," telegraphed "No cows, no cream!" but he receives many telegraphic perversions of the truth.

4th of July Excursions

July 3rd, 4th and 5th, at one fare via the Nickle Plate Road.

One truth in the life is better than a hundred in the memory.

A Good Appetite is essential for health and physical strength. When the blood is weak, thin and impure the appetite fails. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a wonderful medicine for creating an appetite. It purifies and enriches the blood, tones the stomach, gives strength to the nerves and health to the whole system. It is just the medicine needed now. Remember

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier. Sold by all druggists. Be sure to get Hood's.

Hood's Pills are tasteless, mild, effective. All druggists. 25c.

FUN MAKING

and health making are included in the making of HIRES Rootbeer. The preparation of this great temperance drink is an event of importance in a million well regulated homes.

HIRES Rootbeer

is full of good health. Invigorating, appetizing, satisfying. Put some up to-day and have it ready to put down whenever you're thirsty.

Made only by The Charles E. Hires Co., Philadelphia. A package makes 5 gallons. Sold everywhere.

1897 Columbia Bicycles Standard of the World.

$100 to all alike.

Practically tested by fast riders, rough riders and fair riders, 1897 Columbias have not been found wanting in speed, strength and beauty. 5% Nickel Steel Tubing, patent flush joints and direct tangent spokes are some of the new features.

POPE MFG. CO., Hartford, Conn.

Catalogue free from any dealer; by mail for one 2-cent stamp.

HARTFORD BICYCLES. $40, $55, $50, $40.

$75 RIDE A CRESCENT BICYCLE. $50

Western Wheel Works MAKERS CHICAGO ILLINOIS

CATALOGUE FREE

$5.00 A DAY GUARANTEED.—We want Agents in Every Town. Only Three or Four Hours' Work a Day. A Small Commission in Addition to Salary. Experience Unnecessary. E. BIEN & CO., 55 THIRD AVE., NEW YORK CITY.

DRUNKARDS can be saved without their knowledge by ANTI-JAG, the marvelous cure for the drink habit. Write RENOVA CHEMICAL COMPANY, 86 Broadway, New York. Full information (in plain wrapper) mailed free.

PATENTS. TRADE-MARKS.

Examination and advice as to Patentability of Inventions. Send for INVENTORS' GUIDE, OR HOW TO GET A PATENT. Patrick O'Farrell, Washington, D.C.

SORE EYES? DR. ISAAC THOMPSON'S EYE WATER

A Hippocycle.

A correspondent of an English paper believes that in the hippocycle a great advance has been made toward a machine that will be to the horse what the bicycle is to man. The machine is equipped with four forty-inch rubber tired wheels, the two rear wheels being drivers, the forward wheels steerers. The machine is so designed that the horse will propel himself and the vehicle, and there will be two riders, who will do the steering and governing.

The method of transmitting the power from the horse is by a revolving endless platform built upon two chains supported by rollers, the construction being identical with that of the horse-power treadmills and with that in small flourmills and wood-sawing yards.

In the hippocycle the horse will be as much at rest when going down hill as if he were at home in his stall. Over good roads a speed of fifteen to twenty miles is said to have been made by the hippocycle.

Current Condensations.

The United States contain 194,000 square miles of coal fields.

Color blindness is far more common among men than women.

The Chinese pagoda is a development of the pointed tent; the Egyptian temple of the cave dwelling.

It is calculated that on an average every person in this country spends $50 per annum for clothing.

In some parts of Russia the snow is preserved in great straw, sand and manure-covered heaps as a means of irrigating the land during the summer heat.

London contains one-eighth of Great Britian's population, has a larger daily delivery of letters than all Scotland, a birth every four minutes and a death every six.

An underground river, strongly impregnated with iron, was found recently near Charlotte, N. C. It is reported that the stream, which is forty-five feet below the surface, is 700 feet wide and six feet deep.

The crab when living near the ocean's surface has well developed eyes; in deeper water only eyestalks are present—no eyes, while in specimens from still deeper water, the eyestalks have joined, forming a pointed beak.

In Europe the growth of wheat ceases with an imaginary line connecting Inverness, Scotland, latitude 58 degrees; Drontheim, Norway, latitude 64 degrees, and St. Petersburg, Russia, latitude 60 degrees 15 minutes. Oats reach a slightly higher latitude. Barley and rye ascend to latitude 70 degrees, but require a favorable aspect and season to produce a crop.

The deadening nature of debt has been shown time and again in the coal regions of Eastern Pennsylvania, where a miner sometimes works for ten years without receiving any cash payment, because some disaster has brought him in debt to the company store. Mine owner and miner share the financial risks of mining, and it sometimes happens that an accident will place beyond the miner's reach thousands of tons of coal which he has cut with months of labor, but for which he could not draw full pay until it had been delivered at the breaker. While he was thus busied he lived upon credit at the company's store, and the disaster left him deeply in debt. The effect upon many men has been to make them utterly indifferent to their future, and at least one mine owner, recognizing the evil results of such conditions, makes it a rule to discharge a miner who is hopelessly in debt. The discharge clears his score, and many men thus relieved of their burdens depart from the coal regions with their little belongings to begin anew elsewhere, armed with the courage that hope alone can give.

A Failure.

A certain professor in one of the leading schools of Nashville was not long since desirous of incorporating some negro dialect in a story he was preparing, says the American of that city. Not being very well versed in their manner of speech, he bethought him that it would be a good idea to study the language in its purity undefiled. With this end in view he betook himself to the vicinity of the Union depot, near which representatives of the ebon race are always to be found.

One effort was enough. Meeting a coal-black negro driving a wagon rather well loaded, and accosting him as "Uncle John," the following brief dialogue ensued:

"Pretty heavy load, uncle. Can you get up the hill with it?"

"I do not know, sir, but I presume so."

Such an example of English coming from such an unexpected source almost paralyzed the professor, who retraced his steps to his apartments.

Sweetness and Light.

Put a pill in the pulpit if you want practical preaching for the physical man; then put the pill in the pillory if it does not practise what it preaches. There's a whole gospel in Ayer's Sugar Coated Pills; a "gospel of sweetness and light." People used to value their physic, as they did their religion,—by its bitterness. The more bitter the dose the better the doctor. We've got over that. We take "sugar in ours"—gospel or physic—now-a-days. It's possible to please and to purge at the same time. There may be power in a pleasant pill. That is the gospel of

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

More pill particulars in Ayer's Curebook, 100 pages. Sent free. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

INDIANA INCIDENTS.

RECORD OF EVENTS OF THE PAST WEEK.

Colliery of the Torry Coal Company at Geneva Burns—Nearly a Great Disaster—Supreme Court Rules Contrary to Judge Showalter.

Fifteen Miners Saved from Death.

The immense colliery of the Torry Coal Company, operated at the little town of Geneva, was totally destroyed Sunday afternoon by fire. The fire originated in the roof, and, all the timbers being dry and saturated with oil, the flames spread with frightful velocity and were soon beyond all control or resistance. Fifteen men were down in the mine, but they were saved by taking them out through a different route than the main shaft. Eight cars were on the side track, two of them loaded. These took fire and burned rapidly. Near the fire was a large powder magazine containing 400 pounds of dynamite and one-half carload of giant blasting powder. By heroic effort on the part of the brave miners all this explosive material was carried beyond the danger point. This plant gave employment to over 200 men, and all these are now thrown out of employment. The total loss is not yet fully known, as only $12,000 insurance is reported, but the total loss will amount to $50,000. The mines are operated by the Torry Coal Company of Chicago. Mr. Daniel Bogle of Chicago, local superintendent, was absent from the place when his plant was destroyed.

Postoffice Salaries.

Following are the changes made in postmasters' salaries in this State by the fourteenth annual readjustment just completed:

Richmond relegated from first to second class. Greensburg relegated from second to third class. Frankton, Indiana Mineral Springs, Walkerton and Waterloo relegated from third to fourth class. Bluffton advanced from third to second class.

Increases.—Albany, $1,200 to $1,300; Bourbon, $1,200 to $1,600; Crown Point, $1,400 to $1,500; Nappanee, $1,200 to $1,300; Ridgeville, $1,400 to $1,600; Angola, $1,600 to $1,700; Brazil, $2,000 to $2,200; Edinburg, $1,300 to $1,400; North Manchester, $1,600 to $1,700; Whiting, $1,300 to $1,400; Bluffton, $1,900 to $2,000; Corydon, $1,100 to $1,200; Huntington, $2,200 to $2,300; Notre Dame, $1,800 to $1,900; Winamac, $1,400 to $1,500.

Decreases.—Alexandria, $1,900 to $1,800; Auburn, $1,800 to $1,700; Bloomington, $2,300 to $2,200; East Chicago, $1,500 to $1,300; Greencastle, $2,200 to $2,100; Hartford City, $1,900 to $1,800; Linton, $1,100 to $1,000; Mitchell, $1,400 to $1,300; Plainfield, $1,200 to $1,000; Richmond, $3,000 to $2,900; Thorntown, $1,300 to $1,200; Vevay, $1,200 to $1,100; Anderson, $2,700 to $2,600; Batesville, $1,200 to $1,100; Connersville, $2,300 to $2,100; Elwood, $2,200 to $2,100; Greenfield, $1,900 to $1,800; Jonesboro, $1,200 to $1,100; Logansport, $2,700 to $2,600; New Albany, $2,500 to $2,400; Red Key, $1,300 to $1,200; Shelbyville, $2,400 to $2,300; Union City, $1,900 to $1,800; Washington, $2,200 to $2,100; Attica, $2,600 to $2,500; Bedford, $1,900 to $1,800; Crawfordsville, $2,500 to $2,400; Fairmount, $1,400 to $1,300; Greensburg, $2,000 to $1,900; Liberty, $1,500 to $1,400; Madison, $2,200 to $2,100; New Carlyle, $1,100 to $1,000; Remington, $1,300 to $1,200; South Bend, $3,200 to $3,100; Valparaiso, $2,500 to $2,400.

Three-Cent Law Constitutional.

The Supreme Court of Indiana decided that the 3-cent street car fare law is constitutional. It relates to Indianapolis only. In the Federal court recently the same law, passed by the last Legislature, was declared unconstitutional and injunctions were granted by Judge Showalter against its enforcement. The State will insist on 3-cent fares unless the street car company secures an injunction pending an appeal to the Supreme Federal Court. In the Hammond cases recently, where State Supreme and Federal Court differed, the Supreme Court of the United States held that it was not its policy to enter into conflict with the Supreme Courts of States. On this Attorney General Ketcham thinks the 3-cent fare law will stand, but that 5-cent fares will be collected until Judge Showalter modifies his order, which he will doubtless do.

All Over the State.

The Anderson Window Glass Company terminated the strike of blowers and gatherers at their factory Saturday evening by posting notices that the fires would be drawn at once and settlements made with employes. The company's action was hastened by the violation of the wage scale on the part of strikers going out without the seven days' notice to the management. Two hundred and fifty men are out. The strikers proposed to resume work Sunday night, but would not agree to complete the fire.

At Logansport, a carriage containing four women was struck by a train on the Pennsylvania road Wednesday evening. Miss Daisy Raymond of Valparaiso was killed, and Miss Stella Foster of Logansport, Miss Fern Lambert of Logansport and Miss Lillian Moore of Lafayette were hurt. The women had been in the country attending a picnic. They attempted to cross the tracks in front of a passenger train. Both horses were killed, and the carriage was dragged 200 feet with the women under it.

Bloomfield, the county seat of Greene County, was crowded with country people to hear the preliminary examination of Mrs. Grant Heath, charged with poisoning her husband, a farmer and undertaker of that town. The evidence elicited was strong against the woman and she was held to await trial for murder at the September term of court. Marion Lay was also imprisoned as an accomplice. The case is one of the most sensational ever known in southern Indiana.

John Callicott, with a number of negro adherents, stood in his front yard at Lafayette and waited for the opening crash of the world's destruction, which had been predicted was to begin Saturday with the fall of London and a general conflagration. When he learned that London was unharmed, he was embarrassed, and said there must be some mistake in his calculations. At 3 o'clock, no signs of fire being apparent, he took off his white robes and went down town. A crowd of scoffers poked fun at him and he swore like a pirate and was arrested. His fine was held on the promise of good behavior.

Henry Vogtlin, a Fort Wayne butcher, walked a mile north of the city, sat down on the railroad track and deliberately severed a radial artery in his right arm. He made a pillow of his coat and prepared to die in as comfortable a position as possible. He bled to death. He had been drinking to excess.

Representatives of a Kansas City syndicate of capitalists are at Valparaiso for the purpose of securing a franchise to operate an electric railway line running to all towns in the county and to Lake Michigan, with a view of extending lines to all cities throughout northern Indiana. The lines will be used both for passenger and freight traffic.

AFRAID OF NOTHING.

Mexico's Wild Hog, or Peccary, Runs from Nothing Under the Sun.

The most vicious and fearless of the brute creation is the peccary or wild hog of Mexico. This animal seems utterly devoid of the emotion of fear. I have never seen it turn a hair's breadth out of its path for any living thing, says a writer. Man is its special bete noire. It displays an intelligence in fighting the human strangely at variance with its apparently complete lack of any mental attributes, save the very lowest order of instinct. They are rarely found singly, but go in droves of from a hundred to thousands. Their ability to scent men is particularly marked. I have known a drove of them to scent a man a mile off and strike as straight for him as the arrow flies. There is no use to try to frighten them with guns. The cannonading of a full battery would have no more effect on them than the popping of a fire cracker. The only thing to do when they get after you is to run away from them as fast as a horse can carry you. And then there is no certainty that they won't catch you. They are nearly as swift as a horse, and their endurance is as great as their viciousness.

A friend of mine encountered a drove of them in a wild part of Mexico a few years ago, and his escape was miraculous. He very foolishly shot and wounded a number of them. Then he took refuge in a tree. The peccaries kept him in the tree all that day and through the night. They circled around the tree, grunting and squealing their delight at the prospect of a feast. He soon exhausted his ammunition, and brought down a peccary at each fire. But this had no terrors for the beasts. Along toward morning the brutes began to eat the ones he had killed, and when they thus satisfied the cravings of their stomachs they formed in line and trotted off. If they had not had some of their own number to devour, they would have guarded that tree until my friend, through sheer exhaustion, dropped from his perch and allowed them to make a meal of him. The wild cats and tigers that infest the Mexican wilds, flee from the peccaries with instinctive fear, and even rattlesnakes keep out of their path.

A new woman is an old girl that can't hide it.

It's a wise son who doesn't know his own mother-in-law.

No man ever gets quite as close up to God as he does when his little child is sick.

A man who will admit that he is sentimental has no more of it about him than a frog.

Some women seem to think they ought to be loved whether they do any of it themselves or not.

A man never has any money. Before he gets married he spends it, and after he gets married his wife does.

When one woman kisses another it means about as much as when one man calls another "old man."

A woman will always deny that she can't put on a clean pillow-case without holding the pillow in her mouth.

A woman can never quarrel long with a man who doesn't say anything and looks hurt when she talks cross.

A woman always has a few old letters saved up somewhere which she can find and cry over on a rainy day.

The average woman goes to her grave remembering what girl gave her the cheapest wedding present she got.

The average woman gets an idea that she can raise plants just about as regularly as a man with the hay fever.

You can never tell how a girl looks at the breakfast table by the way she looks when she sits out on the porch in the evening.

A Modern Jonah.

A somewhat startling story comes from across the water. The central character is an English seaman who, while engaged in his duties—he belonged to the crew of a whaling vessel—duplicated the experience of the prophet Jonah. The captain and crew state that they chased one or two enormous sperm whales on one of their whaling voyages, and when within half a mile of it lowered two boats in pursuit. From the nearer boat, a bomb lance was fired which struck the monster in a vital part. The crew backed water with all their might, but were not quick enough to escape the animal, who in his agony seized and demolished the boat, and closed upon the steersman with his ponderous jaws before he could get out of the way. The whale was killed and brought alongside of the vessel to remove the blubber, which operation took a day and a half before the opening of the stomach. There the sailors, to their great astonishment, found their comrade in a state of unconsciousness. For three weeks after his restoration from that condition he walked the deck and raved like one insane most of the time, and when pronounced to be out of danger he was subject at times to hallucinations which caused him great suffering. He was sent to a hospital on their arrival in London, and his general health now seems good; but his skin retains a bluish tinge supposed to be caused by the action of the gastric juice of the whale's stomach. Such an experience is certainly sufficient to turn almost any one blue.

A Plenty Needed.

Perry Patettic—Uv course I'd take a bath if I took a notion.

Wayworn Watson—That's about what it would take, I guess.

"What's about what it would take?"

"An ocean."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Pestiferous Buffalo Gnats.

John W. Rusk, of Bellport, N. C., writes to the New York Sun regarding the buffalo gnat:

"I think that, as a native of North Carolina would say, the entomologists have not 'met up' with the gnat in question; possibly it is not distributed over a large area of the country. I met the gnats several years ago in Arkansas, on the bottom lands of the St. Francis River, and think they were the greatest day pests I ever saw. In shape they resemble a buffalo somewhat; hence the name. They do not bite or sting their victims. They have a disagreeable habit of flying from the ground and striking one in the face. But the chief trouble is that they crawl into the mouth, nostrils, and the ears and deposit their eggs, which hatch in a very short time. The larvae eat away the membranes, causing death to large numbers of stock of all kinds, and of many game animals.

"The planters on the St. Francis set old logs afire in the woods for smoke to protect stock, which will eagerly rush to the smudge and stand in it to get rid of the pest.

"On one occasion I was kindling a fire to keep off gnats, when a large buck deer came rushing to the smoke and stood in it, not heeding my presence. In a few minutes a flock of wild turkeys and also four or five wild hogs came for protection. It is not an uncommon sight to see a mule before the plow, trudging along with a bucket containing a smudge hanging from its neck. The mule will keep its nose over the smoke as much as possible. The gnat cannot stand smoke."

The Debts of Society.

Once in a while the gay glamour rolls away, and the commercial value of social attentions come distressingly to the front. At least so it seemed to a thoughtful dame who sat with two society women making out a list of invitations for a joint luncheon. Their babble ran about as follows—queer things, you know, sound so much queerer when other people say them.

"Shall you ask Mrs. Dash?"

"Oh, goodness, yes! I owe her two luncheons. Do let me get out of her debt."

"How about Mrs. Cash?"

"Well, unless you want her. I don't care to ask her. I have invited her twice since she asked me."

"Well, here's Mrs. Rash. I'll have to ask her; though I remember you were not invited to her latest party."

"Who else? Oh, Mrs. Banks! She seldom entertains at all, but everybody runs after her, and I suppose we shall have to."

"Mrs. Rank? How about her? I cannot remember whether I owe her anything or not. We'll put her down, anyway; she is always giving something nice."

And in the thoughtful listener's mind arose a vague curiosity as to what would have been said of her social claims had she not been present.

Washing Blankets.

Blankets which have been used all winter, no matter how white they may look, are never clean, and should not be put away for the summer without being washed. Many housekeepers satisfy themselves by shaking and airing their blankets, rather than risk spoiling them in washing. But this is an error, for if the work is properly done no shrinking will take place, and the softness and color may be retained for years. The most necessary thing in washing blankets is to have plenty of soft water and good soap. Inferior soap is the real cause of the damage done woolen goods in washing.

When ready to begin the work shake the blankets free of dust, fill a tub nearly full of soft hot water. Dissolve a third of a cake of Ivory soap in it. Put in one blanket at a time. Dip up and down and wash gently, with the hands. Never rub soap on the blankets, or wash them on the washboard. After the blankets are clean rinse them in warm water until free of suds. Add a little bluing to the last water. Shake and sponge them, and hang on the line until dry; then take down, fold and pack in a box and set away in a cool room. Blankets thus washed will retain their original freshness, as well as wear three times as long as if put away soiled year after year.

ELIZA R. PARKER.

Alike and Yet Unlike.

"What is your maw doin'?" asked the severe old lady, as they met on the street corner.

"Maw's home makin' a quilt," said the giddy girl with the picture hat.

"Oh, she is! She's home makin' a quilt and you are out makin' a spread."

Two Bad Habits.

Taking strong coffee to cure a headache is like taking whisky to cure the shakiness which is one of the effects of whisky. It seems to do it, but the result is deceptive. The cure becomes a new cause and you are worse off than before. Better stop coffee altogether and use Grain-O, the new food-drink. Whereas coffee is not a food at all, but only a nerve-fooling toxic stimulant, Grain-O is a preparation of pure grains, palatable, nutritious and absolutely harmless. It is thoroughly satisfying, four times cheaper than coffee, acceptable to the most sensitive stomach and free from the constituents which make coffee a damaging beverage. Drinkers of Grain-O are never kept awake of nights—not by that anyway. Ask your grocer for a 15c. or 25c. package.

Nansen's Ancestor an Explorer.

Among the ancestors of Dr. Nansen was a Hans Nansen, born in 1598, who explored the White Sea, spent many years in the Iceland trade, and wrote a geography which described the Arctic routes so well that a copy of the book was in use at late as 1841.

A list of Country homes along the South Shore of Lake Erie open to Summer Boarders will be mailed to any one enclosing a two-cent stamp to B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent of the Nickel Plate Road, Cleveland, Ohio.

The Japanese obtain intoxicating beverages from plums and from the flowers of the motherwort and peach. The Chinese actually produce an alcoholic drink from mutton.

To Minneapolis at One Fare

Via the Nickel Plate Road, July 3rd and 4th, account B. P. O. Elks' Excursion.

Wabash Railroad.

Go to San Francisco to the Y. P. S. C. E. Convention Via the WABASH LINE. Very low rates and fast time. By taking the WABASH you are given a choice of several routes both going and returning. For details call on or address any Agent Wabash Railroad.

One Fare to Minneapolis

July 3rd and 4th via the Nickel Plate Road, account Elks' Excursion

SAVED FROM INSANITY.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Proved to Be the Right Kind of Medicine.

The horrors which accompany a shattered nervous system are known only to those who suffer. No one else can comprehend them. Weak nerves, insufficiently nourished owing to impure blood, lead to nervous prostration and insanity. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies and enriches the blood, strengthens the nerves and restores physical, mental, nervous and digestive strength. Just read this letter:

"Kalamazoo, Mich., April 6, 1897.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"I was sick for six months and in a terrible condition. When I was not confined to my bed I was hardly able to get around. I was all run down and lost flesh so that I weighed only 100 pounds. I could not sleep and I had very bad spells with my heart. My stomach was also in a bad condition, and my head felt so that at times I could not see across the room. I was told that I had nervous prostration and that my blood was bad. I tried medicines with only temporary relief. One day I was told to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and I got six bottles. I began taking it and soon commenced to improve. This encouraged me to continue. I had found the right kind of medicine. I am now completely cured. I have gained in flesh and weigh 158 pounds. I can eat and sleep well. I recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all sufferers and believe it saved me from the insane asylum." Mrs. F. F. Firrar, 1023 North Burdick street.

He Realized His Ambition.

Arthur Meyer, editor of Le Gaulois, Paris, is said to have declared in his youth: "I shall be a gentleman of society. I shall force my way into the most carefully guarded drawing-rooms. I shall be the equal of princes. I shall kiss the hands of duchesses. I shall be on intimate terms with the greatest houses of the Faubourg St. Germain. In a word, I shall be the Beau Brummel of the Jews." He realized his ambition.

Shake Into Your Shoes

Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder for the feet. It cures painful, swollen, smarting feet, and instantly takes the sting out of corns and bunions. It's the greatest comfort discovery of the age. Allen's Foot-Ease makes tight-fitting or new shoes feel easy. It is a certain cure for sweating, callous and hot, tired, aching feet. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores. By mail for 25 cents, in stamps. Trial package FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

Of Great Benefit.

Another use of the Roentgen rays is to examine a suspected parcel to see if it is an infernal machine. Such an application of the new discovery was tried in Paris recently, and revealed nails, screws, a revolver cartridge, and even grains of powder.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is a constitutional cure. Price 75 cents.

A copper half cent is among the numerous coins authorized by Congress, the law to this effect being passed in 1792 and coinage begun the following year.

Wabash Railroad.

Before making your arrangements to attend the Y. P. S. C. E. Convention in San Francisco July 7 to 12, find out what rates and fast time is made by the WABASH and its several trans-continental connection. The Wabash tickets will take you over the magnificent scenic country in the Rocky Mountains.

Honesty is the first chapter in the book of wisdom.

Located on the South Shore of Lake Erie contiguous to the Nickel Plate Road are many Country Homes that will accommodate Summer Boarders. Send to B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent of the Nickel Plate Road at Cleveland, O., and he will forward you a list on receipt of a two-cent stamp.

Wabash Railroad.

If you are going to visit the Tennessee Centennial Exposition now open at Nashville, inquire into the superb time and low rates offered by the WABASH R. R. Communicate with any Agent.

The Nickel Plate Road sells One Fare for the round trip tickets July 3rd and 4th. Returning July 6th.

AN EXCELLENT SCHEDULE.

The Nickel Plate Road Starts on Improvement and Special Service.

The new train service on the Nickel Plate Road is a great improvement on fast service and is a special benefit to Fort Wayne people. Three through trains daily for all points east or west. Hereafter passengers for Cleveland or Chicago may go and return on the same day with ample time for business at either Chicago or Cleveland.

Elegant drawing rooms, sleeping cars to New York City and Boston, Nickel Plate express east at 3:27 p. m., carriage coaches, baggage cars and sleeping cars through to New York City without change of cars. East-bound train leaving Fort Wayne 3:30 a. m., via Nickel Plate road arrives at New York City at 7:40 a. m., at Boston at 10:15 a. m. the following day, train leaving Fort Wayne at 3:27 p. m. reaches Cleveland at 8:40 the same evening, New York City 3:30 p. m., Boston 5:30 p. m. following day. The train leaving Fort Wayne at 8:30 p. m. reaches Buffalo at 8:00 a. m., at New York at 8:50 p. m. of the following day. Also at convenient hour for Saratoga Springs, Troy and other interior New York State points.

Anxious to Oblige.

Said the professor, who believes in simplicity and clearness, "You should have written on this subject, sir, so that the most ignorant of your readers could not fail to understand you." And the sophomore replied: "What part of my paper is not clear to you, sir?"

There Is a Class of People

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over one-fourth as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15c and 25c per package.

A fact worth recording is that the female employes of many German factories are forbidden to wear corsets during working hours.

People with hair that is continually falling out, or those that are bald, can stop the falling, and get a good growth of hair by using Hall's Hair Renewer.

The $5 gold piece was first coined in 1795, by virtue of an act of Congress passed April 2, 1792.

NATIONAL CONVENTION YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY OF CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

San Francisco, Cal., July 7 to 12, 1897.

The Wabash Railroad has made a very low rate from all stations to San Francisco and return for this occasion.

For particulars, call on any agent of the Wabash or connecting lines.

I believe my prompt use of Piso's Cure prevented quick consumption.—Mrs. Lucy Wallace, Marquette, Kan., Dec. 12, '95.

Wabash Railroad.

REMEMBER that if you want to visit the Pacific Slope this summer the WABASH will take you out to San Francisco and back at astonishingly low rates. Ask Wabash Agents about it.

One Fare Excursions

Via the Nickel Plate Road July 3d, 4th, and 5th. Ask agents.

Wabash Railroad.

For the Christian Endeavor National Convention to be held in San Francisco July 7-12, the WABASH will make the lowest rates. Apply to any Agent Wabash Railroad for particulars.

An Artistic Brochure entitled "Summer Outings" is published by the Nickel Plate Road, describing vacation resorts along that line. Address B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., for a copy.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

Wabash Railroad.

The WABASH R. R. is making very low round-trip rates to the Nashville Exposition, and by many hours the quickest time. Write to Wabash Agents for information.

B. P. O. E. Excursion to Minneapolis via the Nickel Plate Road, July 3rd and 4th. One fare.

SILENT SUFFERERS.

Women do not Like to Tell a Doctor the Details of Their Private Ills.

The reason why so many women suffer in silence from the multiple disorders connected with their sexual system is that they cannot bear to broach the subject to a man, even if he is a physician.

No one can blame a modest, sensitive woman for this reticence. It is unnecessary in these times, however, for a woman makes to all afflicted women a most generous offer. Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., bids every woman who suffers to write to her and confide every symptom that annoys her, and she will give her advice without charge, and that advice is based upon the greatest experience ever possessed by man or woman in this country, and extends over a period of twenty-three years, and thousands upon thousands of cases. Why suffer in silence any longer, my sister, when you can get help for the asking? Don't fear to tell her everything.

The case of Mrs. Colony, whose letter to Mrs. Pinkham we publish, is an illustration of the good to be received from Mrs. Pinkham's advice; here is a woman who was sick for years and could get no relief—at last in despair she wrote to Mrs. Pinkham—received in return a prompt, sympathetic and interested reply. Note the result and go and do likewise.

"I was troubled with such an aching in my back and hips, and I felt so tired all the time, and had for four years. For the last year it was all I could do to drag around. I would have such a ringing in my head by spells that it seemed as though I would grow crazy. I ached from my shoulders to my feet and was very nervous. I was also troubled with a white discharge. I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., received a prompt reply and followed her advice, and now I have no backache and begin to feel as one ought; in fact, I never felt better in ten years than I do now. I thank God that I went doctoring with Mrs. Pinkham when I did, for if I had not I know I would have been in my grave."—Mrs. Nellie E. Colony, Nahma, Mich.

"Say Aye 'No' and Ye'll Ne'er Be Married." Don't Refuse All Our Advice to Use

SAPOLIO

PENSIONS, PATENTS, CLAIMS. JOHN W. MORRIS, WASHINGTON, D.C. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs. in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty. since.

PATENTS H. B. WILLSON & CO. Washington, D.C. No charge till patent obtained. 85-page book free.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A.

When Writing to Advertisers say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

ZYCOPHORUS!

ZYCOPHORUS Is the latest and greatest, scientific composition of medicines for the cure of all Kidney, Bladder, Sexual and Nervous Diseases. It is purely vegetable and has an immediate nervous action. Hundreds have been cured by Zycophorus after the failure of all other methods. We do not offer a large reward for cases it will not cure, but give a written guarantee to cure or refund money. Cures all kidney and bladder diseases such as painful, dribbling, burning or difficult urination, dropsical swellings, gravel, cystitis, albumen, sugar, mucus, blood, and other deposits and discharges and such sexual and nervous disease is emissions, vital drain in youth, varicocele, impotency, impaired memory, weak back, melancholy, premature decline of the manly powers, etc. Renews sexual life in both sexes, and builds up the nerve and brain tissues. One package will prove its efficacy. Six packages guaranteed to cure or money refunded. Price per package, 50 cents; six packages, $2.50. For sale at drug stores or sent prepaid to any address on receipt of price. Send for circular.

FILMAN CHEMICAL CO., Toledo, O.

NOTICE TO NON RESIDENTS

State of Indiana, DeKalb county, ss:

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, May term, 1897. Mary L. Phillips is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against her in said court, to foreclose a mechanic's lien by Jackson Burns and that the same will be heard and determined on the 2d day Aug. of 1897, being the 67th juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences May 1897,

Witness, the clerk of said court this 7th day of June, 1897. MICHAEL F. LONG Clerk. L. J. GENGLER, Attorney.

Notice to Non Residents

State of Indiana, DeKalb, ss: In the DeKalb Circuit Court. May term, 1897, Hulbert L. Sheets impleaded with another is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court, on note and in attachment by William Huffman and that the same will be heard and determined on the 16th day of August 1897, being the 79th juridical day of the next term of said court, which commenced May 1897.

Witness, the clerk of said court, this 18th day of June 1897.

MICHAEL F. LONG, Clerk.
Baxter & Brown, Attyt.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—in Effect Nov. 29, 1896.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations	Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne	11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 40
New Era	12 12 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junction	12 25	5 28	7 58
Auburn	12 29	5 29	8 37
Waterloo	12 41	5 41	9 24
Summit	12 52	5 52	9 46
Steubenville	12 56	5 56	9 50
Pleasant Lake	1 03	6 03	10 12
Angola	1 13	6 14	10 50
Jackson	3 25	8 35	4 30 pm

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations	Fre'gt	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson dp	6 30 am	11 35 am	7 05 am
Angola	12 25	2 19 pm	9 26
Pleasant Lake	1 03	2 29	9 36
Steubenville	....	2 36	9 42
Summit	1 26	2 39	9 46
Waterloo	2 25	2 56	10 00
Auburn	2 53	3 10	10 20
Auburn Junction	3 14	3 14	10 14
New Era	4 05	3 24	10 26
Fort Wayne	5 25	3 55	11 00

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on, or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent Auburn.

I. O. BUCHTEL, HOMEOPATHIC Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to Chronic and Obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Madden Bros Marble Works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, day or night.

MATHENY & STAMETS, Physicians and Surgeons,

OFFICE on 9th St., opposite Swineford House:

Calls responded to from the office at all hours of day or night.

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS.

Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, Corner Main and Sixth Streets.

Professional Calls Promptly Answered.

Telephones: Western, 19; Central Union, 19

D. J. Swarts, M. D. Vesta W. Swarts, M. D

ALBERT ROBBINS, PRES. J. C. HENRY, V. P

FARMERS BANK.

—INCORPORATED—

AND UNDER STATE CONTROL.

Capital and Surplus $50,000

Transacts a General Banking Business and pays Interest on time Deposits.

A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

Capital and Surplus $60,000.

Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest, if left six months. County and town orders bought and sold. Money to loan.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN, PRESIDENT
CHAS. McCLELLAN, CASHIER.

S. B. JOHNSTON,

DENTIST.

AUBURN - - INDIANA

Office, 25 North Main Street.

Most Difficult Operations, a Specialty.

Telephone No. 27, Western.

J. H. JOHNSTON,

DENTAL SURGEON,

Auburn - Indiana.

OFFICE OVER PIONEER HARDWARE STORE.

SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO PLATE WORK

F. W. HOFFMAN,

DENTIST,

AUBURN, - - - - - INDIANA

Office in Gandy building, northeast corner of Square.

CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.

A Campaign Echo.

The earliest risers in Auburn this morning opened their eyes at seeing in colored paper, this hand bill pasted on the telephone and telegraph poles all over town.

WITH McKINLEY AND PROTECTION
We shall have
MORE EMPLOYMENT!
MORE WORK and
MORE WAGES.

They flamed out everywhere and everybody saw them, and can still see them for they are pasted fast. The origin of these hand bills is a matter of complete mystery. Who got them made, or where, or by whom put up is not known. The most reasonable guess, is that it was done by some person employed by some parties unknown, to put them up all over the country. There is a report, we cannot vouch for its truth, that a stranger was seen last evening with a bundle of similar bills under his arm, and that he may have put them up in the night.

What especial object the bills are expected to serve is not very plain unless it may be a bit of irony presented to those unthinking people, who last year made this very prediction, foolishly believing that all we have to do to make the people prosperous is to put on a higher tax on imported goods, making the people pay higher for what they use, and putting this extra cost, as extra profits, into the pockets of those already wealthy. Perhaps a few more such election lessons will open people's eyes to the tricks being played on them. In the meantime let our people study over these midnight handbills.

Horrible! Horrible!

Innocent children by the thousand are constantly dying of diarrhœa whose life might be saved. How quickly the demon works! Flesh speedily wastes away as though subjected to fire. You try change of water, and change of food and change of air. The handiest and quickest and safest thing you can do is to procure at once a bottle of Dr. Hand's Diarrhœa Mixture, at any drug store, for 25c. It's wonderful how quickly it brings good results. Fischler & Son.

AT ROME CITY.

Everybody around here knows about Rome City and Island Park. So any extended discription is not needed. But the recent editorial meeting there was a very pleasant and quite a successful one. There was a fair attendance, scattered over the territory embraced in the limits of the association, the north half of the state. They came from as far south as Noblesville, just this side of Indianaplis. But there were quite a number of absentees, even in the north end of the state. Only one paper was represented from Angola, Ligonier, South Bend, Butler and Auburn, and none from Goshen, Elkhart or Laporte. Rome City people were liberal and kind in their treatment of the pencil pushers, putting at their free disposal all the grounds and boats and the steamboat. They also helped greatly on the Thursday evening program, giving recitations, piano music, songs and a drama put on the stage by home talent. We should not fail to mention the piano playing by John McMeans of Brinfield, which was fine. The same is true of the vocal solo by Miss Fisher, daughter of our old time college friend Eden Fisher. Miss Mae Parker, daughter of Dr. Parker of the Kendallville News, sang two of her sweetest solos, and all she sings are sweet and rarely executed. The Kendallville quartet of lady singers was superb and the large audience gathered in the tabernacle that evening cheered them all generously. The "crownin' glory" was the recitation of young Mr. Baker, the "devil" of the Kendallville Sun. He had a sparkling new piece and recited it excellently. Altogether the meeting was a pleasant one from all stand points.

A Valuable Prescription.

Editor Morrison of Worthington, Ind. "Sun" says: "You have a valuable prescription in Electric Bitters, and I can cheerfully recommend it for constipation and sick headache, and as a general system tonic it has no equal." Mrs. Annie Stehle, 2625 Cottage Grave Ave. Chicago was all run down, could not eat nor digest food, had backache which never left her, and felt tired and weary, but six bottles of Electric Bitters restored her health and renewed her strength. Prices 50 cents and $1.00. Get a bottle at Robbins & McCord's. 6

Another DeKalb Man.

In the announcement of "Senior Week" of the University of Chicago, among the 127 graduates, we find the name of F. M. Merica, of Garrett, Ind. To receive a degree from that great university is no small honor, and the COURIER heartily congratulates Mr. Merica and his friends upon his success. He fully demonstrated his ability as a school man in his long and successful superintendency of the Garrett schools. This added preparation can not fail to place him among the foremost educators of the state.

My Baby.

CANTON, O., 2-26-'96—Hand Medicine Co.—"My baby had been having wind colic since her birth and she was two months old when I procured a bottle of Dr. Hand's Colic Cure. In less than two weeks' time she was cured of having colic and has never had it since. We had tried several other medicines, but they did no good. I can cheerfully recommend your colic cure to be the best. Mrs. F. H. Rock." Sold by Fischler & Son, 25c. 2

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

$50,000,000!

Three and a Half Per Cent Gold Bond Mortgage.

BY THE LAKE SHORE R. R. CO.

The Recording Fee in DeKalb County Alone Was $22.50. A Special Train.

Thursday morning at one o'clock a special train came in over the Lake Shore railroad, bearing C. R. Apthorp and other officials who were recording a 3½ per cent gold bond mortgage given by that company for $50,000,000. The train started out of Chicago and had the right of way over all roads. The ice trains were side tracked and the engine taken to cary this special, as it was necessary to make fast time. The mortgage had to be recorded in the states of New York, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana and Illinois. Thirty-five county seats were visited in the above states. The train left Chicago Wednesday and the mortgage was to be delivered in New York by four o'clock Thursday afternoon. The train reached Auburn from Fort Wayne Recorder Milton Jones was awoke and it was also found necessary to have the deputy Miss Ernest and she was also disturbed in her slumbers. At 2 o'clock and some minutes a. m. the mortgage was recorded in DeKalb county. It is in book form and contains about fifty pages, and about 12,000 words. The printing of the mortgage alone cost the company $5,000. The recording fee will be $22,50. It will take at least five days of hard labor covering fifty pages of the mortgage record before the same shall be completed in the office here. The special train left Auburn immediately after the mortgage was placed on file Mr. Apthorp informed Mr. Jones that he had only to stop at Bryan and Wauseon, O., and he would start for New York. This is the largest mortgage ever placed on record in DeKalb county. A mortgage was given by the B. & O. railroad company at one time but it was not nearly so large as the one given by the Lake Shore company. We presume the money borrowed will be used in improvements of the various lines controled by this company.

NO PAY—NO CURE

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Chills and Malaria. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price 50c. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

Milwaukee and Return—Low Rates

On July 3, 4 and 5 account National Educational Association meeting, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. will sell excursion tickets at all its stations to Milwaukee, Wis., and return at half fare, plus $2.00. Tickets good for return, leaving Milwaukee until August 31st. Apply to ticket agents or write to A. J. Smith, G. P. and T. A. Cleveland, O., for pamphlet of information about this and other cheap excursions.

Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption.

This is the best medicine in the world for all forms of coughs and colds and for consumption. Every bottle is guaranteed. It will cure and not disappoint. It has no equal for whooping cough, asthma, hay fever, pneumonia bronchitis, lagrippe, cold in the head and for consumption. It is safe for all ages, pleasant to take, and, above all a sure cure. It is always well to take Dr. King's New Life Pills in connection with Dr. King's New Discovery, as they regulate and tone the stomach and bowels. We guarantee perfect satisfaction or return money. Free trial bottles at Robbins & McCord's drugstore. 6

House Struck.

While the storm was at its height this afternoon, the residence of I. M. Johnson was struck. No one was at home at the time, but as soon as the storm slacked enough, Mr. Johnson went home. Scattered bricks drew his attention and when he opened the door, the interior was dark with smoke and dust, and the air was stifling and sulphurous. But there was not much damage done. The fluid had struck the chimney, then went down to the stove, from which it scattered abundance of ashes, then out under the door, and went into the ground between the house and wood house, tearing up quite a big hole in the dirt. It was very fortunate that no one was at home.

Weak Lungs

Hot weather won't cure weak lungs. You may feel better because out of doors more, but the trouble is still there. Don't stop taking your because the weather happens to be warm. If you have a weak throat, a slight hacking cough, or some trouble with the bronchial tubes, summer is the best time to get rid of it. If you are losing flesh there is all the more need of attention. Weakness about the chest and thinness should never go together. One greatly increases the danger of the other. Heal the throat, cure the cough, and strengthen the whole system now. Keep taking Scott's Emulsion all summer.

Scott's Emulsion

For sale by all druggists at 50c and $1.00.

Commissioners' Allowances,

At the regular June session of the Board of Commissioners, the following bills were allowed for the persons and purposes named:

POOR.
R. Guilford, hose for Co. farm	$ 45 60
" fire pump " "	50 00
O C Himes, aid to poor	6 55
John Beams	1 86
Erick & Co	3 00
Henry Baker	3 33
M Tustison	11 29
Albert Thrush	15 97
Alph. Jennings	6 00
A O Merse	5 00
Lane & Lane	7 65
S G Stone	2 00
E C Miller	26 79
S W Otis	15 00
S VanDusen	60
Knisely Dry Goods Co	60
G Wolff	6 55
A Levy	1 65
John Fischler & Son	87
W H McIntyre	12 00
Baxter Bros	12 95
Raut & Co	1 60
A W Madden	18 88
Hebel Bros	17 93
M E Garrett	23 73
E Kosht	36 25
Chas Snell	24 50
John L Kruger	14 00
A N Wilson	2 50
John Kruger Sr	12 70
F A Hoff	17 11
Ed Weeks	9 13
W F Kraun	6 89
Henry Stomm	12 00
Frank Campbell	8 00
Emanuel Neidig	2 00
Sinclair & Son	7 50
E Knauer & Son	53 36
Dora Lower	8 00
Ed Kelham	21 00
W Y Johnson	30 00
D E Hershberger	23 00
M C Kooker & Son	2 95
Dr A N Fitch	10 00
Mrs M Jones & Son	16 58
Raut & Co	19 55
Pioneer HardwareCo	6 15
M E Garrett	7 35
Hebel Bros	6 02
Frank Bowman	54 00
I Anthony	30 00
Lizzie Shaddow	32 50
Daisy Strong	32 50
A Bartels	12 73
A Bartels	150 00
W D Miller	12 98
Brown Culbertson & Boland	23 50
John L Kruger	7 50
Schaab Bros	38 74
Robbins & McCord	8 00
Chas Snell	9 91
A N Wilson	7 00
F A Hoff	26 65
Ed Weeks	8 50
A Lewis & Co	10 40
Wm Sheffer & Co	7 60
F E Davenport	2 33
James Finch	11 00
W H Crane	30 25
C C Shaffer & Co	39 00
Wm Ettinger	15 00
Schabb Furniture Co	50 00
J J Eakright	9 60
Jos Huet	3 00
PUBLIC BUILDINGS.
L S & M S Ry Co freight on coal	27 30
Ohio Central Fuel Co, coal	18 30
R McDougal	25
L S & M S Ry, freight	28 70
Schaab Furniture Co., chair	7 50
J H Baker, night watch	17 55
Ohio Central Fuel Co., coal	17 95
Olds Bros., wall paper	5 80
Fischler & Son, chloride	50
Thos Broderick, wood	2 95
Brandon & Long, repairs	11 60
Henry Hines, repairs	6 00
Wm Murphy, painting	15 00
Schaab Bros., carpet	19 25
R W Guilford, janitor	98 70
Brown, C. & B., hardward	11 50
Bishop & Lackey, carpet	29 75
C Crew, cleaning court room	7 50
Pioneer Hardware Co, roofing	21 86
Auburn Tel & Tel Co, phone	15 00
Lewis & Co, lumber	5 96
Auburn Mining Co., lights	57 80
J W Krontz, cleaning office	3 00
SALARY.
C M Merica	302 00
Henry Hines	525 00
DeKalb Co. Medical Society	225 00
J H Rose	437 63
F A Borst	625 00
D J Swartz	26 61
M F Long	600 00
H P Stroh	591 95
M C Jones	375 00
J H W Krontz	325 50
J W Bateman	140 00
I. Gunsenhouser	126 00
Isaac Hague	140 00
STATIONERY AND PRINTING.
Rockwell Ruple Co	9 75
J H W Krontz	3 30
M E Gardner	6 25
Garrett Clipper	37 00
M E Gardner	6 65
R McDougal	1 50
L H Higley	1 50
D C Aaron	3 13
G W Gordon	1 00
J A Barnes	11 25
W B Burford	430 11
Wilson Humphrey & Co	10 50
H C Trentman	2 76
STATIONERY
M C Jones	6 05
F. E. Davenport	4 85
J H W Krontz	3 35
ASSESSING.
R R Dirrim	112 00
Henry Deets	196 00
E B Rose	69 00
C F Ross	305 00
D D Miser	169 00
W H H Cornell	96 00
E M Furnish	172 00
E E Berry	243 00
O J Baker	88 00
T L Strole	63 00
Wm Krontz	301 00
T J Saxton	247 00
Chas Graham	98 00
E C Walker	42 00
John Crimmins	60
J A Denison	162
Fred Schulthess	162
MISCELLANEOUS.
W. H. Ernst expert	110
G M Henderson	7 10
J W Zimmerman	1 20
Steele & Son	1 75
DITCHES.
Chas Rogers	10 15
Levi Treesh	9 00
Ezra Rohm	1 50
Geo Walker	3 75
Levi Huet	5 50
Dan Welsh	8 00
John Getts	1 50
Brook L Hines	3 00
S B Johnson	16 70
J W Platter	1 50
Dem Conrad	1 50
A Z Foote	5 50
Wm Stahl	75
Wm Kennedy	5 00
W H McIntosh	18 17
C H Bangs	6 00
G I Patterson	6 00
Jas Rowley	16 44
J J VanAuken	15 00
M E Gardner	5 12
INQUESTS.
J W. Hughes	11 90
ROADS & BRIDGES
Chas Rugman	16 00
CRIMINALS.
Raut & Co	5 50
H P Stroh	229 90
REDEMPEION OF LAND
J A Campbell	48 52
ILLEGAL TAX SALE.
J A Campbell	15 83

State of Indiana, DeKalb County. }

I, F. A. Borst, Auditor in and for said county hereby certify that the foregoing is a tree and complete list of all allowances made by the commissioners of said county since March session 1897, as the same appear of record and on file in my office.

Witness my hand and seal of the Board of Commissioner this 18th day of June 1897.

F. A. BORST, AUD.
By M. BOLAND Deputy.

Doctor the Poor.

The county commissioners have given the contract to doctor the poor to the DeKalb county medical society. There were several physicians in the county who were bidding for this work who were not members of the society. The way the society arranges the matter, each member is called upon alternately and when the allowance is made it is divided equally among them. It is a very good plan and we believe the commissioners did the proper thing in giving the association this contract.

Scratch for Money.

A father's lot is to dig and scratch for money, but yet he should not neglect his baby's health. Provide your baby with Dr. John W. Bull's Baby Syrup when teething, and avoid much suffering. Mr. J. P. Steiner, Aurora, Mo., who has had some experience with this remedy, pronounces it "the best medicine for babies he has ever used in his family." It costs only 25 cents, but fathers should see that they get Dr. John W. Bull's Baby Syrup.

Sold by F. E. Davenport, Auburn.

WANT TO BUY

A good second hand, 12-horse power boiler and engine. A thresher engine will do. Must be cheap. Call here.

JOHN LEAS.

The subject of this sketch was born in Adams county, Pa., near the city of Gettysburg, on July 12th, 1816, and died on June 16th, 1897, in Smithfield township in this county, ged 80 years, 11 months and 4 days. He was the oldest son of John and Saphia Spangler Leas and of a family of ten children, all of whom save three have preceded him, namely, Mrs. Philip Parnell, Dr. E. R. Leas and Mrs. J. A. Yeagey. He married Susan Shipe at Osnaburg in Stark county, Ohio. He emigrated to this state in 1843 and settled on an unbroken farm in Salem township, where he by his industry and skill opened up one of the finest farms in that county. In 1869 he moved to the farm where he died, having prior to that time had a large family which he desired to give the advantage of schools. There are living in this and Steuben counties seven sons and two daughters. His wife preceded him from this life on June 15th, 1881. In December, 1881, he married a second time to Mrs. Amanda M. Patterson, of Angola. He visited the world's fair at Chicago, and soon after his return was stricken with partial paralysis and since that time he has suffered much and has been a great care to his untiring wife, now his widow. Soon after his moving to the farm near Waterloo his efforts were enlisted in the improving of the town, and it was through his persistency and untiring efforts that a class or church organization was formed and a church built for the Reformed Church people. He was one of the five men who organized what is and has been for many years known as the Citizens Bank of Waterloo and after the death of one of the partners in later years he purchased the interests of the surviving members and became the sole owner. Several years since he retired from the banking business, having sold out to one of his sons, who is continuing the bank. He was one of God's noblemen and devoted much of his time in the work and service of his Maker. He has been an active, energetic Master Mason for many years prior to his moving to the farm near Waterloo, and on moving to that place he united with the order and has been ever since a member of Waterloo City Lodge No. 307, which lodge had charge of the burial of his remains. The members were assisted by a large number of the craft from other places. Rev. S. P. Klotz of the U. B. church officiated as minister, and his remains were deposited in Waterloo Cemetery alongside of his first wife. He leaves surviving him to mourn his departure many friends and relatives. Among his sons who live in Steuben county are Martin V. Leas, Jacob H. Leas, John S. Leas. His other children live in this county. William H. Leas, Obadiah Leas, Hezekiah Leas, Daniel L. Leas, at Waterloo. Mrs. O. H. Taylor and Mrs. M. J. Waterman, his daughters, live in Franklin township. His widow, it is expected, will remain on the home farm in Smithfield township for some time at least. Some years ago, on retiring from active banking business, he made a partial distribution of his property and provided for a full distribution after his death. Another change has been made in the list of the pioneers of Northern Indiana, and we will miss him in our daily walks of life and hear his voice no more. Let us emulate his examples and prepare to meet him in the better realms above.

Beautiful eyes grow dull and dim
As the swift years steal away.
Beautiful, willowy forms so slim
Lose fairness with every day.
But she still is queen and hath charms to spare
Who wears youth's coronal—beautiful hair.

Preserve Your Hair

and you preserve your youth. "A woman is as old as she looks," says the world. No woman looks as old as she is if her hair has preserved its normal beauty. You can keep hair from falling out, restoring its normal color, or restore the normal color to gray or faded hair, by the use of

Ayer's Hair Vigor.

COURT EXPENSES

For Quarter Ending May 31st, 1897.

The following are the court expenses as shown by warrants drawn on the county treasurer, as per clerk's certificate on file in Auditor's office for quarter ending May 31, 1897:

Geo. W. Gordon, Bar Docket		$11 00
J. Breckbill,	Juror	6 50
D. Miser	do	32 00
T. F. Franks	do	8 00
J A McClure	do	14 00
Perry Romine	do	6 00
S W Walter	do	4 00
Sumner Rose	do	4 00
Geo Shaffer	do	4 50
B B Long	do	35 00
Chas Voss	do	29 00
W A Dannels	do	35 80
J Carnahan	do	35 20
Geo Coffrin	do	36 40
Henry Dice	do	6 00
Andrew Lower	do	35 60
Wm Smith	do	34 80
Mort Wilson	do	32 60
Walter Able	do	36 60
Chas Jenkins	do	34 60
Samuel Flint	do	37 00
Archie McIntyre	do	4 00
Chas Glazier, meals		3 25
Jacob Thomas	Juror	4 00
M Eckhart	do	50 00
H Mason	do	47 50
Geo Rowe	do	46 00
Jacob Cook	do	48 00
Peter Coyle	do	48 00
Frank Fisk	do	44 00
Rob McDougall, Baliff		30 00
E Raub	Juror	4 00
James Draggoo	do	8 00
C E Emanuel, defending criminals		20 00
Chas Harley, returning criminals		33 20
Chas M Brown defending criminals,		15 00
Chas Crew, baliff		55 00
Geo M Henderson, court reporter		$ 22 25; 190 00; $212 25
M F Long, moving office, postage		11 55
H P Stroh, riding bailiff		142 50
F S Roby, special attorney		350 00
S Hollister, meals		650
M F Long, salary		125 90
R D Swisher Mfg Co, die stamp		4 00
H P Stroh, per diem		72 00
James Wallace	Juror	8 00
Ed Metcalf	do	8 00
Perry Fitch	do	4 00
G W Gordon, printing for clerk's office		11 50
James Adams,	Juror	4 00
W M C Reed	do	6 00
Eli Cochran	do	4 00
I Ditmars	do	4 00
Levi Baughman	do	4 00
John West, guarding court house		89 00
I O Buchtel, special medical expert		25 00
L H Higley, bar docket		11 00
H P Stroh, expense conveying insane		25 75
J McClintock	juror	13 80
Thos Crise	"	12 80
Geo Ditmar	"	12 20
Wm Dull	"	12 50
Ozro Treeman	"	12 90
Hiram Bartholomew	"	12 50
R. McDougall	baliff	9 00
B F Hall	riding baliff	2 50
A E Melching	"	2 50
John Applegate	juror	6 00
Frank Joliff	"	4 00
A E Davis	expense	7 51
M F Long	insane	5 00
H P Stroh	"	2 20
C C Walter	"	2 00
Jacob Walborn	"	2 00
A E Farrington	"	1 70
Dr. Vesta Swarts	"	3 00
Dr. Darby	"	3 00
For special judges from November to June settlement		$215 00

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

Celebrated for its great leavening strength and healthfulness. Assures the food against alum and all forms of adulteration common to the cheap brands. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

The Weddings.

Emanuel Scott and Gertrude Wade, Samuel C. Morr and Nellie E. Gibford, Elijah P. Sherwood and Lizzie M. Sherwood, Daniel Zonker and Effie Hovarter, Louis Bertrand and Nora Hilkert, Frank H. Laughley and Jerusha Warner, John May and Rosa Zettie Cox, Wm. M. Maree and Emma Wagner, John Nichols and Sadie Showalter, Robertson Nicholls and Bird Roberts, Albert J. Sebert and Susie Miser, Alexander M. Hamilton and Cora B. Beidler, Chas F. Allen and Zulah M. Franzheim.

Few Appreciate the DANGER

to which the Expectant Mother is exposed and the foreboding with which she looks forward to the hour of woman's severest trial. All effort should be made to smooth these rugged places in life's pathway for her.

"Mother's Friend"

allays Nervousness, and so assists Nature that the change goes forward in an easy manner, without such violent protest in the way of Nausea, Headache, Etc. Gloomy forebodings, yield to cheerful and hopeful anticipations—she passes through the ordeal quickly and without pain—is left strong and vigorous and enabled to joyously perform the high and holy duties now devolved upon her. Safety to life of both is assured by the use of "Mother's Friend," and the time of recovery shortened.

"I know one lady, the mother of three children, who suffered greatly in the birth of each, who obtained a bottle of 'Mother's Friend' of me before her fourth confinement, and was relieved quickly. All agree that their labor was shorter and less painful." JOHN G. POLHILL, Macon, Ga.

Sent by Mail, on receipt of price, $1.00 PER BOTTLE. Book "TO EXPECTANT MOTHERS" mailed free, containing valuable information and voluntary testimonials.

THE BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

William's Kidney Pills

Has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. Have you neglected your Kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your Kidneys and Bladder? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, groins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire pass urine? William's Kidney Pills will impart new life to the diseased organs, tone up the system and make a new man of you. By mail 50 cents per box.

WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props., Cleveland, O.

Sold By Fischler & Son.

VIGOR OF MEN

Easily, Quickly, Permanently Restored.

Weakness, Nervousness, Debility, and all the train of evils from early errors or later excesses; the results of overwork, sickness, worry, etc. Full strength, development and tone given to every organ and portion of the body. Simple, natural methods. Immediate improvement seen. Failure impossible. 2,000 references. Book, explanation and proofs mailed (sealed) free.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., 66 NIAGARA ST., BUFFALO, N. Y.

MADE ME A MAN

AJAX TABLETS POSITIVELY CURE

ALL Nervous Diseases—Falling Memory, Impotency, Sleeplessness, etc., caused by Abuse or other Excesses and Indiscretions. They quickly and surely restore Lost Vitality in old or young, and fit a man for study, business or marriage. Prevent Insanity and Consumption if taken in time. Their use shows immediate improvement and effects a CURE where all other fail. Insist upon having the genuine Ajax Tablets. They have cured thousands and will cure you. We give a positive written guarantee to effect a cure in each case or refund the money. Price 50 CTS. in each case or refund the money. Price 50 CTS. in package, or six pkges (full treatment) for $2.50. By mail, in plain wrapper, upon receipt of price. Circular free. AJAX REMEDY CO., 79 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

Sold by F. E. Davenport, Auburn.

LIFE VIM VIGOR VITALITY DEATH

RESTORED IN 30 DAYS
GOOD EFFECTS AT ONCE
NOW THEN

CATON'S VITALIZER

Cures general or special debility, wakefulness, spermatorrhœa, emissions, impotency, paresis, etc. Corrects functional disorders, caused by errors or excesses, quickly restoring Lost Manhood in old or young, giving vigor and strength where former weakness prevailed. Convenient package, simple, effectual, and legitimate.

CURE IS QUICK AND THOROUGH.

Don't be deceived by imitations! insist on CATON'S Vitalizers. Sent sealed if your druggist does not have it. Price $1 per pkge, 6 for $5, with written guarantee of complete cure. Information, references, etc., free and confidential. Send us statement of case and 25 cts. for a week's trial treatment. One only sent to each person.

CATON MED. CO., BOSTON, MASS.

CASTORIA.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Volume XXVII | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, July 1, 1897. | Number 26.

DON'T KICK!

But buy a good Thomas Tedder to do that for you. After it is kicked enough. then use a Rock Island Hay Loader to load it. The most important thing to do is to buy them of

Brown, Culbertson & Boland,

Cash Hardware Store, where can be found Binder Twine CHEAPER than any place in Northern Indiana

Insist on the Genuine GOLD DUST

The best Washing Powder made. Best for all cleaning, does the work quickly, cheaply and thoroughly. Largest package—greatest economy.

THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY,

Chicago, St. Louis, New York, Boston, Philadelphia.

Free to the Ladies from the oldest and most reliable Tea House in the country.

A lady friend has sent us her photograph, displaying what she has earned from us—a watch and chain, dinner set and toilet set. We have produced her photograph, showing exactly what we are giving with Tea, Coffee, Spice and Baking Powder orders; and not only are premium of high grade, but the quality of our goods is such that the people want them, making the business pleasant and profitable. Square treatment has made the best ladies of the country our friends It is them specially that we ask to write us for particlars. Address,

LIMA TEA CO., Lima, Ohio

THE FAIR TRIAL

The Main attraction at the Court House Now.

The case between Dr. Nusbaum and Dr. Sparling has changed somewhat since we reported it. As it stood then, the injunction asked by Dr. Sparling was not granted. Since then, it appears that an amended complaint has been filed, so that the case is still undecided and in about the condition it was before.

THE CHICKEN CASE.

This case was concluded last evening and given to the jury. When court opened this morning, they brought in their verdict, which was that Fusselman go one year to the prison south, now called the "Reformatory." He is also fined $5 and disfranchised one year The verdict is based on the testimony of the parties from whom the chickens were stolen, and in the testimony of the parties to whom the chickens were sold in Hicksville. Mack Richmond, the other man indicted with him, has escaped, as he ran away as soon as he heard there was an indictment against him.

THE FAIR CASE.

This was called soon after the chicken case was disposed of. T. R. Marshall for the defense made a motion to quash the indictment for the reason, that when Fair was asked last fall to turn the money over to his successor, Mr. Hines, he was still in office, and therefore not obliged to turn over any money. Fair took the office Nov. 26, 1894, and Hines took the office after him, Nov. 13, 1896, and it was claimed Fair should have had 13 more days in which to turn over the money. On the other hand, the state claimed that Fair should have begun his term earlier than Nov. 26, 1894, as he was elected Nov. 6 and the law gave him ten days to give bond and qualify. The defense hoped to show there had been no defalcation, as he had a right to hold that cash till Nov. 26, 1896. After hearing both sides fully, the Judge overruled the motion to quash, and so the trial went on. The attorneys for the state were, Prosecutors Davis and Welsheimer, W. M. Brown. For the defense were T. R. Marshall, of Columbia City, Hon. E. D. Hartman and C. E. Emanuel of Auburn; W. G. Croxton, and Frank Powers, of Angola. The jury were called in and attorneys began to ask if they had expressed an opinion. All had heard of the case, and some had formed an opinion. A. D. Moore, one of the regular jury said very promptly, that he "had formed a very decided opinion, as I am one of Fair's bondsmen." Of course he was taken off, later on. In asking other questions the attorneys asked as to what attorneys had been employed by them, or against them as this might make a juror undersirable. When they reached Fred Bunge he promptly replied "Never had any lawyees." Fred is all right. Before beginning to question the jury, Marshall arose and objected to having Deputy Sheriff Platter as sheriff, as he was a witness. Then it came out that Sheriff Stroh was absent in the country, and there was therefore no sheriff to run the court. There was a long consultation as to what person would be a good deputy to appoint. They wanted a man who knew a great many people and was a fair man. Before this was settled, Sheriff Stroh had returned, and came into the room. And then business went on. No jury yet as we go to press.

SATURDAY.

After the DAILY had gone to press last evening the jury was completed, the last struggle taking place about six o'clock.

It was interesting to note the various questions used, to ascertain if a man was the kind they wanted on the jury. Some were asked if they had ever employed any of the attorneys interested on either side of this case. Some were asked as to whether they believed the accused must prove his innocence, or whether the state must prove his guilt. Some were asked if they were related to Fair; others if they ever had dealings with him. All were asked if they had formed an opinion, and whether they had read of the case in the papers, and if so, then in what papers.

At least three in four had read it in the COURIER. Only one of all those called up between 11 a. m. and 6 p. m. would own he had read of the case in the Clipper. He probably would not owned it then, but the clerk had sworn him to "correctly answer all questions put to him concerning his fitness to be a juror in this case." A strong oath like that will hold a man up to tell even things he would blush to own under easier conditions.

Quite a number gladly told they read the COURIER, though they are not subscribers. We are pleased to note this. We like to have them borrow the COURIER. It shows good judgment. They cannot afford to take two papers, so, they very properly patronize their own party paper for party reasons, then they borrow the COURIER to get the news at first hands. That is right.

And now that the jury is complete, let the trial go on.

The jury as now made up, reads: Fred Bunge, James Wood, Stephen Vanduzen, Geo. Esselburn, Shelly Hine, Wm. Walsworth, Geo. Husselman, Levi Treesh, Milford Clark, J. B. Ketcham, Joseph Wilderson and Albert Buchanan.

There was a little delay at beginning, as Milford Clark had not arrived.

When the last juror arrived, the state called Clerk Long, to bring the return of the canvassing board, of Nov. 18, '96, as proof that Hines had been elected to succeed Fair as treasurer, the latter having been elected Nov. 6, 1894, began office Nov. 26, 1894 and served till Nov. 14, 1896, Davis read Hine's bond and similar papers.

Treasurer Hines, sworn. Am now treasurer of DeKalb county. He was sent out to get the records of his office. A number of entries in various dockets was read, and then Hines allowed to testify. Read Hines' commission that his term would begin Nov. 13. This was later withdrawn by the prosecutor, and a second one read. Hines testified that Fair had paid over to him certain sums of money. Here there was a delay till the amounts could be footed up, giving the jury a short recess. (It appears that one of Hines' commissions was delayed on the road, and a second one sent him under the belief that the first was lost. So the first one read did not have the oath of office on it.)

In Hines' testimony he admitted receiving from Perry Fair, checks for various amounts, on the Farmers Bank, First National, Garrett Bank, Butler Bank, Citizens Bank, and various other items all of which have been paid. March 1, $1056 were paid him to apply on Fair's account, from Michael Boland. The defense here claimed that the state had tried to make witness put in only such items as the state choose.

W. H. Ernst, the expert accountant who had examined the books, was called. Am engaged in examining county record. Had examined Fair's books covering from Nov. 26, '94, to Nov. 20, '96, as to all money received and paid out, except, the tax collected between Nov. 1, and end of his term, about $400. His evidence was all of a general character and did not seem to bear much on the case at issue.

AFTERNOON.

The examination of Mr. Ernst was continued along the same line, the object seeming to be to get as much valuable information from him for both sides as possible. There was a good deal of sparring back and forth. Ernst said W. H. McIntyre of Auburn, helped him to go over the books.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Edwin E. Berry called. He was foreman of the grand jury that indicted Mr. Fair. He heard Fair tell before the grand jury in December, that he had put money in all the banks, but much the largest amount in the Garrett bank, as that bank would pay him 4 per cent interest and no other bank would pay any interest. Cross examined by Marshall. Could not say whether Fair attempted to conceal anything or not. He talked some about the Garrett bank, and seemed to consider it in a safe condition. Said he at first thought he did not owe the county anything, but now, to his surprise, he found he did owe the county considerable money. He said that Coffinberry owed him a large sum of money. That he was going to do all he could to make the county and his bondsmen good, or as nearly as he could. He said he always thought his son was managing properly, but did not do much himself a part of the time. He said something to the effect he thought Sawvel had cheated him when he came into office, and Coffinberry had juggled him out of a big lot since. But he himself had not used any of the money except a few hundred dollars he had used in his campaign, and he had thought this would not be more than his salary would amount to. He had supposed he would have enough to turn over to about clear him in his settlement with his successor. Fair was before grand jury three times. Do not know whether Fair came voluntarily either time or not.

Treasurer Hines recalled. They made him tell where the office of the treasurer is located. Boland had turned over to him $1,050 in March, which was to be applied on Fair's shortage. Do not know what source it came from. Cross examination. Did know it was ditch funds. It still remains as part of the county funds.

Michael Boland sworn. Is deputy auditor. He paid over to Hines, the $1,050 in March. It was an error he found in Sawvel's account. It was the original mistake and 6 per cent interest for two years, added. Sawvel had got this money at the Farmers Bank. Cross examination. In going over the records of Sawvel he found something not right, kept on investigating and finally Sawvel after several interviews admitted the error and paid it. This was before Sawvel was indicted.

Judge McClellan sworn. Has known Fair about thirty years. Excused Judge Adair now said that to save time Fair, might tell his age Fair said "Fifty-eight," and the Judge repeated it to the jury.

Here the prosecution "rested" saying they would call other witnesses later if needed. So the defense got ready for work.

THE DEFENSE.

Mr. Hartman made the opening statement for the defense, speaking at considerable length, and with great clearness and force. He went into the details of the case from Fair's standpoint and dwelt on the trouble between the Fairs and Coffinberry. He said that Perry Fair claimed there had been over $8,000 more put into the Garrett Bank, than the bank gave him credit for. As soon as he found this he went to Coffinberry, and wanted the matter made right. That Coffinberry told him not to worry, that the money was well invested and was making good profit. This occurred several times, Coffinberry each time putting him off with a plausible story. Finally Perry told him he could not be put off longer, that something must be done to square the account as the final settlement with the county must be made. He said that then Coffinberry told him, that he, Coffinberry, had him, Perry Fair, under his thumb and could put the screws on him if he became to troublesome. Still Perry hesitated to tell his father.

After Mr. Hartman had concluded Mr. Marshall said they would examine D. W. Fair first, so Mr. Fair was sworn. His examination was very full, and had not ended when court stopped at 5 o'clock. The whole drift of his testimony as brought out of him by his attorneys, seemed to be to have him swear he did not know how to run the office. It should be a lesson to the voters when the next man comes around and asks to be nominated and then elected to a responsible office. He went on to say, he did not know he was short for at least a month after he had gone out of office. He did not know there was a difference between his books and the Garrett bank. He believes he would not have been short at all if he could have got the proper amount from Sawvel when the latter turned the office over to him, and could also have got the $8,200 he claims the Garrett bank got of Perry. "When I met the bondsmen, they told me that I was short." Supposed that Coffinberry was one of the leading men in the Garrett bank. He was called before the December grand jury, but not before the January grand jury, but thinks the latter indicted him.

At 5 p. m. adjourned till Monday at 10 a. m.

MONDAY MORNING

The court was called this morning at 8:30 by Judge Roby and a considerable preliminary work done in cases that he is going to try. Dates were made for calling them up, and then, when the prosecutor came at ten o'clock the Fair trial began again. Judge Roby took the forenoon train south, going to Huntington, where he has some work to do in the court.

Fair's testimony continued. Did not know how much he was losing through Coffinberry till after was out of office. Had used about $300 as campaign expenses during the campaign of last year. He was then questioned as to the 4 per cent he should have received for collecting delinquent taxes. He said it amounted to about $400 in all.

Perry Fair is about 27 and before helping in the treasurer's office had helped in several stores at Garrett. Had a common school education only, had been in telegraph office for a time. A younger son had helped some in the treasurer's office. Cross examination by the state, Having always been a farmer, had a common school education except two terms at high school in Allen county. Was asked as to branches he had studied. Had been township trustee and Wm. Dills had helped him and gave instruction. He said that when he sought the nomination and election of treasurer, he did not tell the people he was incompetent. Salary was $2,100 a year. My personal money was kept separate from county funds. I took some money out of the county before I got my first quarterly allowance, and when my allowance was made, I paid that amount back. The $300 was paid out of county orders I had that had been allowed on my salary. Was sure that the campaign was all paid out of the $525 order for salary. Did not tell anyone that the campaign cost me $800. Perry did the work in the office without any stipulated salary. But I kept up all his expenses. He was not working for his board and clothes. I furnished wood and coal in with mine. Was asked as to the mistake of $943 and over two years' interest that he has since received from Sawvel. This is the item Mr. Boland testified to on Saturday, having been found to be due from Sawyel on account of a juggle in figures that Mr. Boland had discovered when examining the books. Coffinberry some times got money, and some times Mrs. Coffinberry or Wm. Coffinberry got it. Fair did not assist in counting the money. Coffinberry would give me credit on my bank book, but I did not always know what amounts were got or credited to me. If pass book of bank was not present I did not exact a receipt to be given. I made a minute on a sheet of paper, as to date and amount, and later this was drawn into a book by Perry. Coffinberry, but no other member of his family, got money without a pass book. Did not allow any other person or bank to get money without a receipt or an entry, in a pass book. I think I would have allowed them to do so, but they did not ask it. Coffinberry did not ask me. He did this way without asking. Coffinberry paid in 4 per cent, and told me the other banks had agreed not to pay anything on deposits. I got about $100 interest from the Garrett bank. It may have been more.

(Continued on Fourth Page.)

Beauty is your Duty

Abundant, glossy hair, is beauty's crowning glory.
To wear this crown, use

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR.

The Board of Review.

This board has been in session now a week, and to-day begin again. They are kept this long because they have found many mortgages and other personal property that has not heretofore been listed on the assessment books. It is surprising how much of this sort of property has not heretofore paid any taxes. It makes a good deal of work for this board, but it will pay the taxpayers big money.

Truth Tersely Told.

Overworked women, lacking nerve-power and vitality, will find Dr. John W. Bull's Pills an effective tonic and nervine. "I find Dr. Bull's Pills do all that is claimed for them, and other ladies I know, who have taken the pills, endorse them. Mrs. Philip Rysedorph, Greenbush, N. Y." Dr. John W. Bull's Pills (60 in box) cost but 25 cents; trial box, 10 cents, at dealers, or by mail. A. C. Meyer & Co., Baltimore, Md. Ask for the genuine Dr. John W. Bull's Pills.

Sold by F. E. Davenport, Auburn.

HIGH GRADE WORK GIVES THE CONSUMER SATISFACTION,
Consequently is best for the Dealer to handle.

A Full Line of BUGGIES, SURREYS, PHAETONS, ROAD WAGONS, &c., &c.

Send for Catalogue and Prices.

All Work Guaranteed.

We also Manufacture DOVETAIL BODIES AND GEARS IN THE WHITE.

DOVETAIL COMPANY
CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND.

FACTORY, Cor. Oak & College Sts.
SALESROOM, 214 E. Main St.

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

SEE THAT THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE —OF— Chas. H. Fletcher. IS ON THE WRAPPER OF EVERY BOTTLE OF CASTORIA

Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk. Don't allow anyone to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose." See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. is on every wrapper.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNES, - - PUBLISHER.

1897. JULY. 1897.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
				1	2	3
4	5	6	7	8	9	10
11	12	13	14	15	16	17
18	19	20	21	22	23	24
25	26	27	28	29	30	31

F. Q. 7th. F. M. 13th. L. Q. 21st. N. M. 29th.

DOINGS OF THE DAY.

SUMMARY OF THE NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Eventful Happenings in Every Hemisphere—Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Politics, Religion, and Commerce, Sandwiched with Minor Affairs.

HANGED BY A MOB.

Swift Punishment Meted Out to a Murderer.

Jackson (Miss.) special: A negro named Moses, who killed farmer John Strong near Crystal Springs, Miss., a few days ago, and who was arrested at that place and confined in jail, was hanged by a mob the other morning. The negro had been guarded by 100 armed men since his arrest, and two calls for troops from the Sheriff had been sent, but owing to the absence of Gov. McLaurin and the fact that it was impossible to establish communication with Lieut. Gov. Jones, who is at his home in Woodville, the troops did not start for the scene until too late. The troops were stopped as they were boarding the train.

The Business World.

Dun & Co. say: There has been no step backward in business, and improvement continues—gradual and prudently cautious as before, although in many branches it is evident where no signs of it appeared a few weeks ago. Business men are regulating contracts and investments and their plans for the future with confidence. The main factor this time is the steadily brightening prospect for crops. The harvesting of wheat was already begun in winter wheat states, with surprising good results in the central region and in California, so that state statisticians calculate now on 60,000,000 bushels more of winter wheat than government estimate.

Indiana Boy Killed.

Columbus (Ind.) special: A letter has just been received here from the Sheriff at Bangor, Mich., stating that William Swain had been shot through the brain and killed there by a tramp and robbed of $500. Swain was the son of Thomas Swain, merchant and Postmaster at Pike's Peak, Brown County, twenty miles west of here, and ran away from home at the age of 14, seven years ago, and was never heard of until three months ago. He came home, but only remained two months.

Women Duped.

A woman named Brown has been arrested at Indianapolis, charged with defrauding many women of that place with some sort of a Captain Kidd treasure scheme. She purported to be the representative of four men imprisoned at Sing Sing who knew the location of a fabulous sum of money hidden in the earth. They needed $10,000 to unearth the treasure, and Mrs. Brown was engaged to raise it. She is said to have secured a large sum of money in that city.

Tragedy in Kentucky.

Corbin (Ky.) special: Daniel L. Curry, a prominent business man, shot and killed John Corley, a well-known Louisville boot and shoe salesman. It is alleged that Mrs. Curry was insulted by Corley a few days ago while on a train. Curry took Corley to task for the insult and a fight resulted. He fired four shots into Corley killing him instantly. Curry gave himself up.

Headquarters Go to Cleveland.

An important result of Mr. Hanna's decisive victory in the Toledo convention will be the transfer of the Ohio State political headquarters from Columbus and Cincinnati to Cleveland. The headquarters will be in the Perry-Payne building in which Hanna managed his famous presidential campaign for McKinley last year.

Not Yet "Pacified."

Havana special: Gen. Gomez is still west of the Jucaro-Moron trocha, and when Garcia was last heard of he was encamped near Bayamo. Meantime in the "pacified" Provinces the rebels are still in evidence. Castillo had a skirmish with a Spanish column June 18. The Spaniards were routed and lost thirty-three men and four officers.

Presidential Nominations.

The President has sent the following nominations to the Senate:

Irving D. Dudley of California, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Peru.

Frank Dillingham of California, to be Consul at Auckland, New Zealand.

Shot Wife and Self.

At Sheridan, Ind., Calvin Love, 19 years old, shot his wife and then turned the weapon on himself. Both will probably die. Mrs. Love was seven years her husband's senior. She had been married before, and Love was jealous of her former husband.

Fatal Shooting Scrape.

Frank Riggs, a prominent merchant, was shot and instantly killed and William J. Reese was seriously wounded in a shooting scrape at Belknap, Ala. W. A. Sewell, Rigg's father-in-law, also took part in the shooting.

Beaten to Death by a Belt.

Lee Jones, engineer of the electric light plant at Mitchell, Ind., was beaten to death by a belt that had slipped from a wheel.

Can Ship Cuban Tobacco to America.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat has information through Third Assistant Secretary of State Gridler, at Washington, to the effect that United States Minister Taylor has telegraphed from Madrid that an order has been issued by cable to Havana, allowing shipments of all tobacco purchased in Cuba by Americans.

EASTERN.

At Harrisburg, Pa., Deputy Attorney General Elkin gave out a statement of the condition of the State finances in which he shows that there is a deficit of $3,500,000 in the State treasury. Mr. Elkin says the Legislature has for several years appropriated more money than the net revenue received by the State, hence the present large deficiency.

Pittsburg dispatch: The big Carnegie plants—the Homestead steel works, the Edgar Thomson and the Duquesne works—started up in full Monday in every department, the first time this has occurred for several months. The Duquesne forge began operations in full for the first time in two years. The Pittsburg and the Rankin wire works will run all through the summer, something that has not been done for three years. The Brice-Highley glass works and the United States glass works, which usually shut down in July and August, will run all through the summer. The Garland chain works at Rankin, the immense National tube works and the Dewees, Wood & Co.'s great plant at McKeesport has every department operating in full. The Union switch and signal works are now running full and a new department is to be added. At the Westinghouse electric works the suspended men are rapidly being put to work again. These concerns employ over 20,000 men.

Christian K. Ross died of heart disease at Germantown, Pa., Monday. He was the father of kidnaped Charley Ross, and up to his last illness Mr. Ross never gave up the search for his missing boy, whose abduction startled Philadelphia on July 1, 1874, and became an unsolved mystery the world over. It is nearly twenty-three years ago since Charley Ross, then 5 years of age, was picked up in East Washington lane, Germantown, Pa., by two men, who, presumably, were to give the boy and his brother a drive. Walter, the elder lad, was sent back home, but of Charley no tidings were ever received. His father spent the best part of his life and of his fortune in hunting for his lost child. The unknown abductors at first offered to return the boy for a ransom of $20,000, but when Mr. Ross decided to accept the proposal the Philadelphia police stepped in and offered a reward of $20,000 for the arrest of the kidnapers. This interference proved fatal to the recovery of Charley Ross. In the winter of 1874 two burglars named Mosher and Douglass were shot while trying to enter Judge Van Brunt's residence in Bay Ridge. Mosher was dead when found, but Douglass, who survived a few hours, confessed they had kidnaped Charley Ross. Westervelt, one of the robbers' accomplices, served seven years for the crime, but nothing could be got from him touching the whereabouts of Charley Ross save that he was dead. The police believe that the burglars, when pursued by New York police, threw the boy into North river, and that the body recovered later was that of the missing boy. The remains, however, were never positively identified by Mr. Ross as those of his son.

WESTERN.

Rev. C. W. Hiatt of Peoria has received a call from the Euclid Avenue Congregational Church of Cleveland.

Miss Clara Borg of Englewood has sued Frank A. Swanson of Chesterton, Ind., for breach of promise. She asks for $5,000 damages.

A. S. Austin, the California lawyer who asserted that he could furnish evidence which would save Theodore Durrant from the gallows, has been adjudged insane and will be taken to the asylum.

The Eastern company which foreclosed the $1,600 mortgage on the home of Mrs. Mary E. Lease at Wichita, Kan., and bid in the property for $300 has a fight on its hands. The company secured judgment for the balance of the debt and has begun proceedings to compel payment, and Mrs. Lease says she will resist to the bitter end.

Mrs. Dora Richardson Maxwell started from her home in Puente, Cal., for New York City, to contest the will of her uncle, Joseph Richardson, who recently died there possessed of a fortune estimated as high as $20,000,000. She is the daughter of Richardson's youngest brother. She has letters which she claims will prove her right to a share of the estate.

The Ohio Republican convention pledged support to Marcus A. Hanna for Senator, to succeed himself at the expiration of the time for which he was appointed by Gov. Bushnell. Gov. Bushnell was renominated. Others upon the ticket are: Lieutenant Governor, A. W. Jones; Supreme Judge, Jacob F. Burkett; Attorney General, Frank Monnett; State Treasurer, Samuel Campbell. The platform expresses faith in the President's Cuban policy, and approves annexation of Hawaii.

Detective Sergeant Fay of Chicago returned from Milwaukee, having in custody Fred Haines, a young man who is charged with passing worthless checks in all parts of the city. Captain Elliott considers Haines' capture important, as his victims are said to be numerous. In his possession the police found about fifty checks on various banks of the country. Many of them had been filled out and were ready to be presented for payment. The largest amount he marked on these checks, the police say, is $75.

Lorenzo Dow McCabe, D. D., LL. D., aged 82, father of Attorney Robert McCabe of Chicago, and for fifty years professor in the Ohio Wesleyan University, died at Delaware, Ohio, Friday morning, after an illness of several weeks. His death was very peaceful. He published "Philosophy of Holiness," "For Knowledge of God and Cognate Themes," and "Divine Science of Future Contingencies a Necessity." In 1860 he was elected Vice-President and served as such. Allegheny College conferred the degree of D. D. upon him in 1855 and Syracuse University LL. D. in 1875. During the fifty years of his professorship 8,000 students have gone through his classes.

Although the investigation of the pay rolls of the Santa Fe has been in progress but a week, it has already revealed stealings amounting to about $80,000, and officials who are in a position to know say that this figure will be greatly exceeded. The old game of placing fictitious names on the pay roll was worked successfully. In order to locate the fictitious names the Santa Fe sent out a pay car last week for the first time in three years. Assistant General Superintendent Turner and Chief of Detectives Kinney were on the car and attended personally to the work of handing out the checks. Hundreds of the checks were not called for and the investigation proved that the names were fictitious.

Agitation has been begun in Kansas looking to the passage by the next State Legislature of a strong anti-butterine bill. This comes as a result of the recent announcement by Kansas City, Kan., packers that they will immediately begin the manufacture on a large scale of butterine for shipment to all States where laws do not conflict with the sale of that article. Already Kansas City produces a great amount of butterine, and at least three firms having Chicago headquarters will take forces there from that city to manufacture the stuff. Blanks soliciting aid from farmers in the anti-butterine movement, sent out by the National Dairy Union, have already been signed by many Kansas farmers.

Following is the ticket named at Des Moines, Iowa, Wednesday:

For Governor.....Frederick E. White
For Lieutenant Governor, Benjamin A. Plummer
For Supreme Court Justice..L. G. Kinne
For Superintendent of Public Instruction..... G. F. Reinhardt
For Railroad Commissioner..S. B. Crane

Frederick E. White and Judge Kinne are Democrats, Plumber and Reinhardt, silver Republicans, and S. B. Crane, candidate for Railroad Commissioner, is a Populist. The ticket really represents the combined work of three separate and distinct conventions, but on account of the provisions of the antifusion law which was passed by the State Legislature the Democratic convention had to nominate it primarily and the Populist and silver Republican conventions indorsed the action of the Democrats. Fifty-three middle of the road Populists, headed by Messrs. Weller and Weeks, bolted.

FOREIGN.

The Rev. William H. Milburn, the chaplain of the United States Senate, preached two sermons on Sunday in the Queen's Park Church, London.

Four more bodies of supposed suicides have been found in the Thames at London, making twenty-one bodies found in the river during three weeks.

The State Council, by a vote of 26 to 17, has declared in favor of the State acquiring the railroads of Switzerland. A bill providing for this transfer is in course of preparation, and will be submitted to the Bundesrath.

Queen Victoria began the celebration of her jubilee Sunday, as was befitting her entire career, before the altar of her faith. Throughout London, the United Kingdom and the Empire, in every cathedral, church or chapel of the established church of England, were held services similar to those at St. George's chapel, Windsor, where her Majesty paid her devotions and offered solemn thanks to God. She was deeply affected. There was a touch of tenderness in the scene, when, following the simple religious ceremonies, the royal mother, with tears rolling down her cheeks, kissed the Empress Frederick and others of her children.

Captain Boycott is dead at London. He was about 55 years of age and became famous through being the first man subjected to the "boycott" in Ireland. He was a land agent in 1881 in the Connemara section of County Mayo, where he collected rents for a number of landlords, notably the Earl of Erne. The captain made a speech, in the course of which he urged the people of Ireland to abstain from agrarian crimes and to adopt instead a policy of sending harsh landlords, agents and bailiffs "to Coventry," the old term for boycotting. Events so shaped themselves that Captain Boycott was the first man the Irish experimented on in this connection, and hence the now familiar word "boycott."

Massana Maeda, ex-vice-minister of agriculture of Japan, is in Washington, a guest at the Japanese legation. He is accompanied by Mr. Furuya, the representative at New York of the Japanese Tea Traders' Association of Tokio. Mr. Maeda represents about twelve manufacturing and commercial associations of Japan, and his mission is to advance, if possible, the trade relations between the two countries. Mr. Maeda says the Japanese are extremely anxious to give the United States a large share of their trade, and his purpose in coming here is in part to investigate the prices of railroad and telephone equipments. The Japanese Government is about to expend a large sum of money in railroad and telephone extensions and it would be very satisfactory to the Japanese people if the materials and equipments could be purchased in the United States.

IN GENERAL.

Obituary: At Perry, Mich., Rev. Theodore P. Barnum.—At Janesville, Wis., Otto George Bleedern, 36.—At Brooklyn, N. Y., George W. Brown, 72.

A two-story brick building at Watertown, S. D., occupied by Berg & Olsen as a saloon, the upper floor being filled with roomers, collapsed without warning. One person is known to be dead, and it is feared there are a number of others under the mass of debris.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: "The retarding influence of cold and unseasonable weather has passed. The gain in business has become clearer to all. As no genuine improvement ever begins with an uplifting of prices before the producing force has become fairly employed, this does not, and the buying of 7,000 bales Australian wool by one Boston house and 100,000 tons pig iron by a Wall street operator, and advancing prices for stocks, are the only proof that the actual conditions are understood by some capable men. There is evidence of gradually enlarging business in every important department, more establishments have been set at work, and more hands employed, and while prudence still binds speculative excesses, the progress toward better things is unchecked. Reports from the various cities show a very general progress and a continuing large distribution through retail trade. The proof is clearer, as it should be, in the industrial than in the trading field."

From Central America comes news of pitiful cases where our Government is shown to be utterly unable to help in the slightest degree its citizens when in the depths of distress. James William Scandrett writes from Livingston, Guatemala, praying the Secretary of State for help. He says he is an American citizen, having lived in San Francisco for eleven years, and has proofs of good character. Going to Salvador to erect machinery he has suffered the most miserable hardships through sickness, wounds and starvation. Appeals for help to the American consul were without avail because the official had no authority to expend money to ship the man to New Orleans. He says the British consul would have sent him home had he been an Englishman, and he prays the Secretary for relief lest he die of hardship, as the consul says there is unfortunately no fund at the disposal of the State Department for the relief of destitute Americans abroad, such as the British service provides.

MARKET REPORTS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.50 to $5.25; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.00 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 69c to 71c; corn, No. 2, 24c to 25c; oats, No. 2, 17c to 19c; rye, No. 2, 33c to 35c; butter, choice creamery, 14c to 15c; eggs, fresh, 8c to 9c; new potatoes, $2.00 to $2.50 per barrel; broom corn, common growth to choice green hurl, $25 to $70 per ton.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.25; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, common to choice, $3.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2, 75c to 77c; corn, No. 2 white, 26c to 28c; oats, No. 2 white, 20c to 22c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $3.00 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2, 78c to 80c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 22c to 24c; oats, No. 2 white, 17c to 18c; rye, No. 2, 31c to 32c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2, 79c to 81c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 26c to 27c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 19c to 21c; rye, No. 2, 34c to 36c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.50 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 80c to 82c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 24c to 26c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 23c; rye, 34c to 35c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 82c to 84c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 24c to 26c; oats, No. 2 white, 19c to 20c; rye, No. 2, 34c to 36c; clover seed, $4.25 to $4.35.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 71c to 73c; corn, No. 3, 24c to 26c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 24c; barley, No. 2, 27c to 34c; rye, No. 1, 34c to 36c; pork, mess, $7.00 to $7.50.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $3.00 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 86c to 88c; corn, No. 2 yellow 28c to 29c; oats, No. 2 white, 24c to 26c.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.25; hogs, $3.50 to $4.25; sheep, $3.00 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 75c to 76c; corn, No. 2, 29c to 31c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 23c; butter, creamery, 11c to 16c; eggs, Western, 10c to 12c.

HANNA FOR SENATOR.

INDORSED BY THE BUCKEYE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

Exciting Contest Over the Selection of a Campaign Chairman—Platform Urges the President and Congress to Be Loyal to Ante-Election Tenets.

Bushnell Renominated.

The Ohio Republican convention met in Toledo Tuesday to nominate a full State ticket and endorse a candidate for United States Senator. There was no opposition to Senator Hanna for both the short and the long terms and none to the renomination of Gov. Bushnell and other State officers, all of whom are running for their second terms

The contest from the start was for the control of the State Central Committee. Each of the twenty-one congressional districts was closely canvassed in advance for committeemen and both factions claimed a majority of the twenty-one members up to the day of the convention. Senator Foraker, Gov. Bushnell and others had been untiring in their efforts to retain Chairman Charles L. Kurtz, while Senator Hanna and the old following of President McKinley and Secretary Sherman supported Maj. Charles Dick for the place. Maj. Dick was chairman of the Ohio State executive committee in both of McKinley's campaigns for Governor and in the presidential campaign of 1892. Dick was superseded by Kurtz as chairman in Gov. Bushnell's first campaign two years ago and he has held the place ever since.

CHAS. L. KURTZ.

In addition to the factional elements represented there has been a strong rivalry for years between Dick and Kurtz and the fight between them was the distinguishing feature of this convention. It involved all the party leaders on one side or the other and was the most bitter contest that has been waged within either party for years.

Work in the Convention.

The first day's session of the convention was taken up with the preliminary work. The hall in the Armory was opened at 3 o'clock, but the delegates were late in arriving. Senator Hanna entered by a side door and was on the platform before his presence in the convention hall was discovered. He was given a seat, and the noise made by the Hanna delegates had scarcely subsided when Gov. Bushnell, accompanied by Attorney General Monnett, entered. The Bushnell men among the delegates tried to outdo the Hanna men in the noise and effusiveness of their greeting.

MAJ. C. F. DICK.

Chairman Crouse called the convention to order and made a short speech, in which he took occasion to congratulate the delegates that they had a Republican President, two Republican Senators and Republican officers all the way down from these high positions to constables. After the prayer four young women dressed in white sang a couple of songs, in which they predicted the election and an honorable and long senatorial career for Mr. Hanna. This caught his portion of the delegates, and they let loose a lot more of Hanna enthusiasm.

Then came Congressman Grosvenor's speech. Mr. Grosvenor took occasion to mention the two United States Senators from Ohio. First, he said some kind things about Senator Foraker, and the remarks were duly approved by the admirers of that gentleman who were in the convention hall. Immediately after this applause had died away the temporary chairman turned his attention to Mr. Hanna. He said all sorts of good things about him, and then stepped back from his table to wait for the applause to die away. The Hanna men shouted themselves hoarse, but the Bushnell men sat sullenly silent. Gen. Grosvenor brought another shout from the delegates when he said that the present national administration had already put back hundreds of Republicans who had been ousted from their positions by the Democrats, and announced that President McKinley intended to put back as many more as he could under the civil service law.

GOVERNOR BUSHNELL.

At the conclusion of Gen. Grosvenor's address the district caucus reports were read, after which the convention adjourned until 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Wednesday's Session.

With the contest for the chairmanship settled so decisively Tuesday in favor of Major Charles F. Dick and the entire Hanna slate, the Republican State convention proceeded promptly at 10 o'clock Wednesday with the usual business. The report on credentials was adopted without opposition, as it made no material difference in the control of the convention, which was overwhelmingly with Senator Hanna. The temporary organization, with Gen. G. H. Grosvenor in the chair, was made the permanent organization, and the reports of other committees were readily disposed of. There was more than the usual interest taken in the resolutions and the committee was in session all night trying to frame the platform so as to prevent a contest in the convention on the civil service, Cuban and other planks.

The platform adopted indorses the national Republican platform and pledges allegiance to the national administration. Among the principal planks are the following:

SENATOR HANNA.

The Republican party has always been the friend of the down-trodden and oppressed, and has always deeply sympathized with the struggle of any people for independence. We extend our sympathy to the patriots of Cuba in their efforts to achieve freedom from Spanish cruelty and oppression, and hope that the day of their deliverance is near at hand. We commend the course of the President, and express our confidence in his speedy and patriotic disposition of the Cuban question in accordance with wise statesmanship and a firm and vigorous policy.

We believe that the administration in negotiating the treaty for the annexation of Hawaii has acted wisely and we express the hope that the Senate will ratify the same.

We denounce the violation of the spirit of the civil service act by President Cleveland in those orders which extended its operation beyond its purpose and intent, and demand such revocation of orders or modification of the law as will accomplish its manifest purpose.

Faithfully wedded to the principle of protection, we demand for the wool growers of Ohio such ample protection for wool as shall speedily increase American flocks sufficiently to supply all American needs.

We indorse the wise, faithful and satisfactory administration of Gov. Bushnell and congratulate the people of this State upon the financial condition of the commonwealth.

The thanks of the people of this State are due to Senators Foraker and Hanna for their splendid efforts during the present session of Congress, and we congratulate the people on their representation in the United States Senate.

Desiring to continue such representation and appreciating his services to the party and to the people of the State and nation, and his eminent and proved fitness for the position, we indorse the candidacy of the Honorable Marcus A. Hanna for United States Senator to succeed himself and pledge the support of the party in the next General Assembly to his election to both the short and long terms.

The mention of Senator Hanna's name was greeted with loud demonstrations, and after the resolutions were adopted Senator Hanna was called for. He thanked the convention for this expression of confidence and pledged himself to co-operate with the standard-bearer (Bushnell) for Republican success in Ohio.

Ticket Nominated.

Nominations were then made as follows:

Governor—Asa S. Bushnell.
Lieutenant Governor—A. W. Jones.
Supreme Judge—Jacob F. Burkett.
Attorney General—Frank Monnett.
State Treasurer—Samuel Campbell.

TOLEDO ARMORY, WHERE OHIO REPUBLICAN CONVENTION WAS HELD

FAIR WEEK FOR CROPS.

Corn Makes Rapid Strides and Spring Wheat Is Doing Well.

The week's crop bulletin, based on the reports of the directors of the several climate and crop sections, is as follows:

Except over the central Rocky Mountain region and California, where it was unseasonably cool, the week has been generally favorable for the growth and cultivation of crops. Corn has made vigorous growth in the principal corn States during the week. In the Dakotas, however, the crop continues backward with uneven stands. Cotton has made good growth during the week. Southward of the northern boundary of Tennessee the bulk of the winter wheat crop has been harvested, and some thrashing has been done in Texas. Harvesting in Kansas is nearly completed and will begin this week in Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia and Maryland. In Washington recent rains have practically assured winter wheat in that State. In California harvesting continues with light yield and grain of indifferent quality. Spring wheat is doing well generally and has made rapid growth in North Dakota. In South Dakota, however, while the outlook for early sown is good, the late sown is less promising.

With Surprising Results.

The paradoxical discovery that the speed of a sailing vessel may be increased by perforating its sails is claimed by a ship's captain of long experience. He supposed that the fixed cushion of air filling up the hollow of an inflated sail lessens the effect of the wind, and he has sought to prevent the collecting of this cushion by making a number of holes in the canvas. Several trials, made in all weathers, have given surprising results. In a light wind a vessel made four knots with ordinary sails and five knots with perforated sails; in a fresh breeze, seven and eight and three-fourths knots respectively; and in a strong wind, eight and ten knots.

RECORD OF THE WEEK

INDIANA INCIDENTS TERSELY TOLD.

Historic Old Theological College at Hartsville Forced to Close Its Doors—Recreant Lover Killed in Sight of His Sweetheart.

Old Indiana College Suspends.

The Hartsville College, the oldest institution of learning in the State, has suspended for at least one year, and probably permanently. The graduation exercises closed Saturday, and it was formally announced by the board of trustees that they had decided to close the doors. Forty-seven years ago this college was founded by the United Brethren Church. Hartsville was selected as the site because it was a quiet place, ten miles from a railroad, and in a most picturesque locality. The college at one time had several hundred students, nearly every State east of the Mississippi being represented. For the past fifteen years the college has been gradually going down hill. At the close of the winter term there were only fifteen students, and but eight showed up for the last term. President Barnaby resigned his position, as his salary was not sufficient. The trustees were anxious that the last term be closed before suspending, and the church was appealed to, with the result that enough money was raised to procure the services of one of the instructors, L. B. Baldwin, as president. The direct reason of the failure of the institution is that the church conference failed to give it the annual allowance. The amount had not been sufficient for the past five years to employ the best faculty. A new college has been established at Huntington, and it will be opened this fall. There is now but one other college of this church in America, and that is at Philomath, Oregon, established twenty years ago by Rev. T. J. Connor, now a Baptist minister of Greensburg. The single graduate this year was W. A. Clouse of Hope, this State.

Tragedy at Shelbyville.

Six weeks ago Elmore Cotterman of Waldron fell heir to considerable money left him by an uncle. At the time young Cotterman was engaged to marry Miss Nellie Mason, and the date was set for Tuesday. Cotterman three weeks ago went to Shelbyville from his home in Waldron and proceeded to Indianapolis, where he fell to drinking and carousing. In the meantime his relatives had stopped payment on the banks on Cotterman's checks, thinking that he would return. Monday night he wrote to the family that he would come home; that he regretted his course, and would marry the girl he loved. The relatives, with Miss Mason, were at the depot to receive Elmore, but when he stepped from the train he fell under the wheels and was crushed to death before their eyes. Strange to say, his pockets contained a will leaving the remainder of his fortune of several thousand dollars to the pretty orphan girl he had returned home to wed.

All Over the State.

Henry V. Conover, alias R. J. Sage, of Chicago, the newspaper subscription fraud, admitted his guilt at Valparaiso.

Crop report: Warm weather and sufficient rain caused all crops to improve and advance. A good and heavy crop of clover was harvested.

Gov. Mount has decided to let no consumptive die in the Indiana prison, if it is possible to pardon him. The Governor's private secretary has been making a personal examination into cases, and half a dozen men will be paroled to die.

George J. Kiesspies, one of the best known men in the Falls City, suicided at the Strauss Hotel in Jeffersonville by taking sixty grains of strychnine. Friday his sweetheart, Marish Densford Ross, died after a short illness. Since her death he had been despondent, and the suicide followed.

At Waterloo, the case against W. H. McIntosh and others, charged with conspiracy to rob the county of $50,000, was ruled out of court on a technicality. The case has been the subject of much comment. Borst, Dills and Sawyer were brought back from the penitentiary to testify in the case.

Word has been received at Valparaiso from Monroe, Ia., that Patrick Payne, who murdered his wife and was sentenced by a jury to be hanged, has been refused a new trial by the State Supreme Court, and he will be executed July 23. Payne is highly connected. His relatives will make an appeal to the Governor.

The boiler in Ferguson & Co.'s sawmill at Rockville exploded Wednesday. Solon Ferguson, senior proprietor, was instantly killed; Edward Straughn, employe, probably fatally injured, and Walter Ferguson, another one of the owners, was badly hurt. Several others were slightly injured. The building was wrecked.

The oil fever in Anderson was boosted up to a dangerous stage Tuesday by two abandoned wells coming in full fledged oil gushers. They were drilled in, shot and abandoned a month ago. The casing was even pulled away and they were allowed to stand open. Oil was found gushing from them Tuesday. A week ago both could have been bought for $1. Leases went up 20 per cent. Oil men say this proves beyond all doubt that the field is near a monster reservoir.

Benjamin Prather, late chief clerk of the Indiana House of Representatives, is under arrest at Indianapolis on an indictment charging him with embezzlement. The charge is made by the Commercial Travelers' Mutual Accident Association of Indiana. Prather was formerly secretary of the concern. It alleges that he failed to properly account for about $3,500 that came into his hands. Prather asserts that there is nothing in the case that he cannot successfully refute and that he can show offsets for traveling expenses that will wipe the claim against him. The court has fixed bond at $5,000, which Prather hopes to secure.

The window glass factory at Orestes, eighteen miles west of Muncie, burned. The factory is owned by the United Glass Company, together with like plants at Ottawa and Streator, Ill. The factory employed 400 people, and the total loss will be $100,000.

A valuable race horse, en route over the Pennsylvania Railroad from Chicago to Brooklyn, was burned to death at Bourbon. The supposition is that a spark from the engine set fire to the straw in the rear. William West of Cincinnati was the owner of the horse and had just refused $10,000 for it.

The Governor has called upon representatives of the Loyal Legion, Grand Army and the Women's Relief Corps to agree upon a plan for caring for the grave of the mother of Lincoln, in Spencer County.

Fifty farmers of the county met in Anderson and, under the leadership of Sylvester Louiso, Wilson Cory and several others formally organized a colony which will go to southern Alabama and settle on lands across the bay from Mobile, owned by Chicago parties. They will establish a colony on lines practically the same as those promulgated by Debs. All are well-to-do and each will close for 160 acres within the next ten days. They will try, and get started by Sept. 1.

"Nothing else like it."
The most refreshing and pleasant Soap for the skin.

It lasts twice as long as others.
A trial will convince you of its great merit. Will please the most fastidious.
CHARLES F. MILLER,
Mfr. of FRENCH MILLED TOILET SOAPS AND PERFUMERY,
Lancaster, Penn.
ESTABLISHED, 1849.

WHY NOT BUY THE BEST?

A GOOD SADDLE is the most noticeable and taking point on a Bicycle. When buying insist on getting a
BURNS SPRING SADDLE.
Take no other. Get a Burns and GET THE BEST.
Manufactured by the
GRAND RAPIDS CYCLE SEAT MFG. CO.,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Patton's House Painting Model
shows just how your house would look if painted any one of 20,000 artistic combinations of colors. Designed and made only for the manufacturers of PATTON'S PURE LIQUID PAINTS. Sent postpaid upon receipt of 10 cts. "How to Increase the Size of Your House With Paint" mailed free.
JAS. E. PATTON CO.,
Dep't X. MILWAUKEE, WIS., U.S.A.

ECLIPSE
Poultry Brooder.
BEST MADE.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR, which explains why you should use a BROODER, and why you should purchase the
ECLIPSE BROODER.
Also gives testimonials from MANY WHO HAVE USED THEM.
CAPACITY, 100 CHICKS.
Size: 52 inches long, 32 inches wide, 26 inches high. Weight, 125 lbs.
Price: Single one, $9.00.
Two or more, $8.50 apiece.
If not as represented, money refunded.
JOHN D. WINGERT,
MANUFACTURER,
FAYETTEVILLE, - PENN.

NIAGARA
BICYCLES

CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION.
CORRESPONDENCE INVITED.
Reliable Agents Wanted.
BUFFALO WHEEL CO.,
BUFFALO, N. Y.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

1897. JULY. 1897.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
				1	2	3
4	5	6	7	8	9	10
11	12	13	14	15	16	17
18	19	20	21	22	23	24
25	26	27	28	29	30	31

F. Q. 7th. F. M. 13th. L. Q. 21st. N. M. 29th.

DOINGS OF THE DAY.

SUMMARY OF THE NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Eventful Happenings in Every Hemisphere—Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Politics, Religion, and Commerce, Sandwiched with Minor Affairs.

HANGED BY A MOB.

Swift Punishment Meted Out to a Murderer.

Jackson (Miss.) special: A negro named Moses, who killed farmer John Strong near Crystal Springs, Miss., a few days ago, and who was arrested at that place and confined in jail, was hanged by a mob the other morning. The negro had been guarded by 100 armed men since his arrest, and two calls for troops from the Sheriff had been sent, but owing to the absence of Gov. McLaurin and the fact that it was impossible to establish communication with Lieut. Gov. Jones, who is at his home in Woodville, the troops did not start for the scene until too late. The troops were stopped as they were boarding the train.

The Business World.

Dun & Co. say: There has been no step backward in business, and improvement continues—gradual and prudently cautious as before, although in many branches it is evident where no signs of it appeared a few weeks ago. Business men are regulating contracts and investments and their plans for the future with confidence. The main factor this time is the steadily brightening prospect for crops. The harvesting of wheat was already begun in winter wheat states, with surprising good results in the central region and in California, so that state statisticians calculate now on 60,000,000 bushels more of winter wheat than government estimate.

Indiana Boy Killed.

Columbus (Ind.) special: A letter has just been received here from the Sheriff at Bangor, Mich., stating that William Swain had been shot through the brain and killed there by a tramp and robbed of $500. Swain was the son of Thomas Swain, merchant and Postmaster at Pike's Peak, Brown County, twenty miles west of here, and ran away from home at the age of 14, seven years ago, and was never heard of until three months ago. He came home, but only remained two months.

Women Duped.

A woman named Brown has been arrested at Indianapalis, charged with defrauding many women of that place with some sort of a Captain Kidd treasure scheme. She purported to be the representative of four men imprisoned at Sing Sing who knew the location of a fabulous sum of money hidden in the earth. They needed $10,000 to unearth the treasure, and Mrs. Brown was engaged to raise it. She is said to have secured a large sum of money in that city.

Tragedy in Kentucky.

Corbin (Ky.) special: Daniel L. Curry, a prominent business man, shot and killed John Corley, a well-known Louisville boot and shoe salesman. It is alleged that Mrs. Curry was insulted by Corley a few days ago while on a train. Curry took Corley to task for the insult and a fight resulted. He fired four shots into Corley killing him instantly. Curry gave himself up.

Headquarters Go to Cleveland.

An important result of Mr. Hanna's decisive victory in the Toledo convention will be the transfer of the Ohio State political headquarters from Columbus and Cincinnati to Cleveland. The headquarters will be in the Perry-Payne building in which Hanna managed his famous presidential campaign for McKinley last year.

Not Yet "Pacified."

Havana special: Gen. Gomez is still west of the Jucaro-Moron trocha, and when Garcia was last heard of he was encamped near Bayamo. Meantime in the "pacified" Provinces the rebels are still in evidence. Castillo had a skirmish with a Spanish column June 18. The Spaniards were routed and lost thirty-three men and four officers.

Presidential Nominations.

The President has sent the following nominations to the Senate:

Irving D. Dudley of California, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Peru.

Frank Dillingham of California, to be Consul at Auckland, New Zealand.

Shot Wife and Self.

At Sheridan, Ind., Calvin Love, 19 years old, shot his wife and then turned the weapon on himself. Both will probably die. Mrs. Love was seven years her husband's senior. She had been married before, and Love was jealous of her former husband.

Fatal Shooting Scrape.

Frank Riggs, a prominent merchant, was shot and instantly killed and William J. Reese was seriously wounded in a shooting scrape at Belknap, Ala. W. A. Sewell, Rigg's father-in-law, also took part in the shooting.

Beaten to Death by a Belt.

Lee Jones, engineer of the electric light plant at Mitchell, Ind., was beaten to death by a belt that had slipped from a wheel.

Can Ship Cuban Tobacco to America.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat has information through Third Assistant Secretary of State Gridler, at Washington, to the effect that United States Minister Taylor has telegraphed from Madrid that an order has been issued by cable to Havana, allowing shipments of all tobacco purchased in Cuba by Americans.

EASTERN.

At Harrisburg, Pa., Deputy Attorney General Elkin gave out a statement of the condition of the State finances in which he shows that there is a deficit of $3,500,000 in the State treasury. Mr. Elkin says the Legislature has for several years appropriated more money than the net revenue received by the State, hence the present large deficiency.

Pittsburg dispatch: The big Carnegie plants—the Homestead steel works, the Edgar Thomson and the Duquesne works—started up in full Monday in every department, the first time this has occurred for several months. The Duquesne forge began operations in full for the first time in two years. The Pittsburg and the Rankin wire works will run all through the summer, something that has not been done for three years. The Brice-Highbee glass works and the United States glass works, which usually shut down in July and August, will run all through the summer. The Garland chain works at Rankin, the immense National tube works and the Dewees, Wood & Co.'s great plant at McKeesport has every department operating in full. The Union switch and signal works are now running full and a new department is to be added. At the Westinghouse electric works the suspended men are rapidly being put to work again. These concerns employ over 20,000 men.

Christian K. Ross died of heart disease at Germantown, Pa., Monday. He was the father of kidnaped Charley Ross, and up to his last illness Mr. Ross never gave up the search for his missing boy, whose abduction startled Philadelphia on July 1, 1874, and became an unsolved mystery the world over. It is nearly twenty-three years ago since Charley Ross, then 5 years of age, was picked up in East Washington lane, Germantown, Pa., by two men, who, presumably, were to give the boy and his brother a drive. Walter, the elder lad, was sent back home, but of Charley no tidings were ever received. His father spent the best part of his life and of his fortune in hunting for his lost child. The unknown abductors at first offered to return the boy for a ransom of $20,000, but when Mr. Ross decided to accept the proposal the Philadelphia police stepped in and offered a reward of $20,000 for the arrest of the kidnapers. This interference proved fatal to the recovery of Charley Ross. In the winter of 1874 two burglars named Mosher and Douglass were shot while trying to enter Judge Van Brunt's residence in Bay Ridge. Mosher was dead when found, but Douglass, who survived a few hours, confessed they had kidnaped Charley Ross. Westervelt, one of the robbers' accomplices, served seven years for the crime, but nothing could be got from him touching the whereabouts of Charley Ross save that he was dead. The police believe that the burglars, when pursued by New York police, threw the boy into North river, and that the body recovered later was that of the missing boy. The remains, however, were never positively identified by Mr. Ross as those of his son.

WESTERN.

Rev. C. W. Hiatt of Peoria has received a call from the Euclid Avenue Congregational Church of Cleveland.

Miss Clara Borg of Englewood has sued Frank A. Swanson of Chesterton, Ind., for breach of promise. She asks for $5,000 damages.

A. S. Austin, the California lawyer who asserted that he could furnish evidence which would save Theodore Durrant from the gallows, has been adjudged insane and will be taken to the asylum.

The Eastern company which foreclosed the $1,600 mortgage on the home of Mrs. Mary E. Lease at Wichita, Kan., and bid in the property for $300 has a fight on its hands. The company secured judgment for the balance of the debt and has begun proceedings to compel payment, and Mrs. Lease says she will resist to the bitter end.

Mrs. Dora Richardson Maxwell started from her home in Paente, Cal., for New York City, to contest the will of her uncle, Joseph Richardson, who recently died there possessed of a fortune estimated as high as $20,000,000. She is the daughter of Richardson's youngest brother. She has letters which she claims will prove her right to a share of the estate.

The Ohio Republican convention pledged support to Marcus A. Hanna for Senator, to succeed himself at the expiration of the time for which he was appointed by Gov. Bushnell. Gov. Bushnell was renominated. Others upon the ticket are: Lieutenant Governor, A. W. Jones; Supreme Judge, Jacob F. Burkett; Attorney General, Frank Monnett; State Treasurer, Samuel Campbell. The platform expresses faith in the President's Cuban policy, and approves annexation of Hawaii.

Detective Sergeant Fay of Chicago returned from Milwaukee, having in custody Fred Haines, a young man who is charged with passing worthless checks in all parts of the city. Captain Elliott considers Haines' capture important, as his victims are said to be numerous. In his possession the police found about fifty checks on various banks of the country. Many of them had been filled out and were ready to be presented for payment. The largest amount he marked on these checks, the police say, is $75.

Lorenzo Dow McCabe, D. D., LL. D., aged 82, father of Attorney Robert McCabe of Chicago, and for fifty years professor in the Ohio Wesleyan University, died at Delaware, Ohio, Friday morning, after an illness of several weeks. His death was very peaceful. He published "Philosophy of Holiness," "For Knowledge of God and Cognate Themes," and "Divine Science of Future Contingencies a Necessity." In 1860 he was elected Vice-President and served as such. Allegheny College conferred the degree of D. D. upon him in 1855 and Syracuse University LL. D. in 1875. During the fifty years of his professorship 8,000 students have gone through his classes.

Although the investigation of the pay rolls of the Santa Fe has been in progress but a week, it has already revealed stealings amounting to about $80,000, and officials who are in a position to know say that this figure will be greatly exceeded. The old game of placing fictitious names on the pay roll was worked successfully. In order to locate the fictitious names the Santa Fe sent out a pay car last week for the first time in three years. Assistant General Superintendent Turner and Chief of Detectives Kinney were on the car and attended personally to the work of handing out the checks. Hundreds of the checks were not called for and the investigation proved that the names were fictitious.

Agitation has been begun in Kansas looking to the passage by the next State Legislature of a strong anti-butterine bill. This comes as a result of the recent announcement by Kansas City, Kan., packers that they will immediately begin the manufacture on a large scale of butterine for shipment to all States where laws do not conflict with the sale of that article. Already Kansas City produces a great amount of butterine, and at least three firms having Chicago headquarters will take forces there from that city to manufacture the stuff. Blanks soliciting aid from farmers in the anti-butterine movement, sent out by the National Dairy Union, have already been signed by many Kansas farmers.

Following is the ticket named at Des Moines, Iowa, Wednesday:

For Governor.....Frederick E. White
For Lieutenant Governor, Benjamin A. Plummer
For Supreme Court Justice..L. G. Kinne
For Superintendent of Public Instruction.....G. F. Reinhardt
For Railroad Commissioner..S. B. Crane

Frederick E. White and Judge Kinne are Democrats, Plumber and Reinhardt, silver Republicans, and S. B. Crane, candidate for Railroad Commissioner, is a Populist. The ticket really represents the combined work of three separate and distinct conventions, but on account of the provisions of the antifusion law which was passed by the State Legislature the Democratic convention had to nominate it primarily and the Populist and silver Republican conventions indorsed the action of the Democrats. Fifty-three middle of the road Populists, headed by Messrs. Weaver and Weeks, bolted.

FOREIGN.

The Rev. William H. Milburn, the chaplain of the United States Senate, preached two sermons on Sunday in the Queen's Park Church, London.

Four more bodies of supposed suicides have been found in the Thames at London, making twenty-one bodies found in the river during three weeks.

The State Council, by a vote of 26 to 17, has declared in favor of the State acquiring the railroads of Switzerland. A bill providing for this transfer is in course of preparation, and will be submitted to the Bundesrath.

Queen Victoria began the celebration of her jubilee Sunday, as was befitting her entire career, before the altar of her faith. Throughout London, the United Kingdom and the Empire, in every cathedral, church or chapel of the established church of England, were held services similar to those at St. George's chapel, Windsor, where her Majesty paid her devotions and offered solemn thanks to God. She was deeply affected. There was a touch of tenderness in the scene, when, following the simple religious ceremonies, the royal mother, with tears rolling down her cheeks, kissed the Empress Frederick and others of her children.

Captain Boycott is dead at London. He was about 55 years of age and became famous through being the first man subjected to the "boycott" in Ireland. He was a land agent in 1881 in the Connemara section of County Mayo, where he collected rents for a number of landlords, notably the Earl of Erne. The captain made a speech, in the course of which he urged the people of Ireland to abstain from agrarian crimes and to adopt instead a policy of sending harsh landlords, agents and bailiffs "to Coventry," the old term for boycotting. Events so shaped themselves that Captain Boycott was the first man the Irish experimented on in this connection, and hence the now familiar word "boycott."

Massana Maeda, ex-vice-minister of agriculture of Japan, is in Washington, a guest at the Japanese legation. He is accompanied by Mr. Furuya, the representative at New York of the Japanese Tea Traders' Association of Tokio. Mr. Maeda represents about twelve manufacturing and commercial associations of Japan, and his mission is to advance, if possible, the trade relations between the two countries. Mr. Maeda says the Japanese are extremely anxious to give the United States a large share of their trade, and his purpose in coming here is in part to investigate the prices of railroad and telephone equipments. The Japanese Government is about to expend a large sum of money in railroad and telephone extensions and it would be very satisfactory to the Japanese people if the materials and equipments could be purchased in the United States.

IN GENERAL.

Obituary: At Perry, Mich., Rev. Theodore P. Barnum.—At Janesville, Wis., Otto George Bleedern, 36.—At Brooklyn, N. Y., George W. Brown, 72.

A two-story brick building at Watertown, S. D., occupied by Berg & Olsen as a saloon, the upper floor being filled with roomers, collapsed without warning. One person is known to be dead, and it is feared there are a number of others under the mass of debris.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: "The retarding influence of cold and unseasonable weather has passed. The gain in business has become clearer to all. As no genuine improvement ever begins with an uplifting of prices before the producing force has become fairly employed, this does not, and the buying of 7,000 bales Australian wool by one Boston house and 100,000 tons pig iron by a Wall street operator, and advancing prices for stocks, are the only proof that the actual conditions are understood by some capable men. There is evidence of gradually enlarging business in every important department, more establishments have been set at work, and more hands employed, and while prudence still binds speculative excesses, the progress toward better things is unchecked. Reports from the various cities show a very general progress and a continuing large distribution through retail trade. The proof is clearer, as it should be, in the industrial than in the trading field."

From Central America comes news of pitiful cases where our Government is shown to be utterly unable to help in the slightest degree its citizens when in the depths of distress. James William Scandrett writes from Livingston, Guatemala, praying the Secretary of State for help. He says he is an American citizen, having lived in San Francisco for eleven years, and has proofs of good character. Going to Salvador to erect machinery he has suffered the most miserable hardships through sickness, wounds and starvation. Appeals for help to the American consul were without avail because the official had no authority to expend money to ship the man to New Orleans. He says the British consul would have sent him home had he been an Englishman, and he prays the Secretary for relief lest he die of hardship, as the consul says there is unfortunately no fund at the disposal of the State Department for the relief of destitute Americans abroad, such as the British service provides.

MARKET REPORTS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.50 to $5.25; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.00 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 69c to 71c; corn, No. 2, 24c to 25c; oats, No. 2, 17c to 19c; rye, No. 2, 33c to 35c; butter, choice creamery, 14c to 15c; eggs, fresh, 8c to 9c; new potatoes, $2.00 to $2.50 per barrel; broom corn, common growth to choice green hurl, $25 to $70 per ton.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.25; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, common to choice, $3.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2, 75c to 77c; corn, No. 2 white, 26c to 28c; oats, No. 2 white, 20c to 22c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $3.00 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2, 78c to 80c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 22c to 24c; oats, No. 2 white, 17c to 18c; rye, No. 2, 31c to 32c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2, 79c to 81c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 26c to 27c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 19c to 21c; rye, No. 2, 34c to 36c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.50 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 80c to 82c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 24c to 26c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 23c; rye, 34c to 35c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 82c to 84c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 24c to 26c; oats, No. 2 white, 19c to 20c; rye, No. 2, 34c to 36c; clover seed, $4.25 to $4.35.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 71c to 73c; corn, No. 3, 24c to 26c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 24c; barley, No. 2, 27c to 34c; rye, No. 1, 34c to 36c; pork, mess, $7.00 to $7.50.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $3.00 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 86c to 88c; corn, No. 2 yellow 28c to 29c; oats, No. 2 white, 24c to 26c.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.25; hogs, $3.50 to $4.25; sheep, $3.00 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 75c to 76c; corn, No. 2, 29c to 31c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 23c; butter, creamery, 11c to 16c; eggs, Western, 10c to 12c.

HANNA FOR SENATOR.

INDORSED BY THE BUCKEYE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

Exciting Contest Over the Selection of a Campaign Chairman—Platform Urges the President and Congress to Be Loyal to Ante-Election Tenets.

Bushnell Renominated.

The Ohio Republican convention met in Toledo Tuesday to nominate a full State ticket and endorse a candidate for United States Senator. There was no opposition to Senator Hanna for both the short and the long terms and none to the renomination of Gov. Bushnell and other State officers, all of whom are running for their second terms

The contest from the start was for the control of the State Central Committee. Each of the twenty-one congressional districts was closely canvassed in advance for committeemen and both factions claimed a majority of the twenty-one members up to the day of the convention. Senator Foraker, Gov. Bushnell and others had been untiring in their efforts to retain Chairman Charles L. Kurtz, while Senator Hanna and the old following of President McKinley and Secretary Sherman supported Maj. Charles Dick for the place. Maj. Dick was chairman of the Ohio State executive committee in both of McKinley's campaigns for Governor and in the presidential campaign of 1892. Dick was superseded by Kurtz as chairman in Gov. Bushnell's first campaign two years ago and he has held the place ever since.

CHAS. L. KURTZ.

In addition to the factional elements represented there has been a strong rivalry for years between Dick and Kurtz and the fight between them was the distinguishing feature of this convention. It involved all the party leaders on one side or the other and was the most bitter contest that has been waged within either party for years.

Work in the Convention.

The first day's session of the convention was taken up with the preliminary work. The hall in the Armory was opened at 3 o'clock, but the delegates were late in arriving. Senator Hanna entered by a side door and was on the platform before his presence in the convention hall was discovered. He was given a seat, and the noise made by the Hanna delegates had scarcely subsided when Gov. Bushnell, accompanied by Attorney General Monnett, entered. The Bushnell men among the delegates tried to outdo the Hanna men in the noise and effusiveness of their greeting.

MAJ. C. F. DICK.

Chairman Crouse called the convention to order and made a short speech, in which he took occasion to congratulate the delegates that they had a Republican President, two Republican Senators and Republican officers all the way down from these high positions to constables. After the prayer four young women dressed in white sang a couple of songs, in which they predicted the election and an honorable and long senatorial career for Mr. Hanna. This caught his portion of the delegates, and they let loose a lot more of Hanna enthusiasm.

Then came Congressman Grosvenor's speech. Mr. Grosvenor took occasion to mention the two United States Senators from Ohio. First, he said some kind things about Senator Foraker, and the remarks were duly approved by the admirers of that gentleman who were in the convention hall. Immediately after this applause had died away the temporary chairman turned his attention to Mr. Hanna. He said all sorts of good things about him, and then stepped back from his table to wait for the applause to die away. The Hanna men shouted themselves hoarse, but the Bushnell men sat sullenly silent. Gen. Grosvenor brought another shout from the delegates when he said that the present national administration had already put back hundreds of Republicans who had been ousted from their positions by the Democrats, and announced that President McKinley intended to put back as many more as he could under the civil service law.

GOVERNOR BUSHNELL.

At the conclusion of Gen. Grosvenor's address the district caucus reports were read, after which the convention adjourned until 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Wednesday's Session.

With the contest for the chairmanship settled so decisively Tuesday in favor of Major Charles F. Dick and the entire Hanna slate, the Republican State convention proceeded promptly at 10 o'clock Wednesday with the usual business. The report on credentials was adopted without opposition, as it made no material difference in the control of the convention, which was overwhelmingly with Senator Hanna. The temporary organization, with Gen. C. H. Grosvenor in the chair, was made the permanent organization, and the reports of other committees were readily disposed of. There was more than the usual interest taken in the resolutions and the committee was in session all night trying to frame the platform so as to prevent a contest in the convention on the civil service, Cuban and other planks.

The platform adopted indorses the national Republican platform and pledges allegiance to the national administration. Among the principal planks are the following:

SENATOR HANNA.

The Republican party has always been the friend of the down-trodden and oppressed, and has always deeply sympathized with the struggle of any people for independence. We extend our sympathy to the patriots of Cuba in their efforts to achieve freedom from Spanish cruelty and oppression, and hope that the day of their deliverance is near at hand. We commend the course of the President, and express our confidence in his speedy and patriotic disposition of the Cuban question in accordance with wise statesmanship and a firm and vigorous policy.

We believe that the administration in negotiating the treaty for the annexation of Hawaii has acted wisely and we express the hope that the Senate will ratify the same.

We denounce the violation of the spirit of the civil service act by President Cleveland in those orders which extended its operation beyond its purpose and intent, and demand such revocation of orders or modification of the law as will accomplish its manifest purpose.

Faithfully wedded to the principle of protection, we demand for the wool growers of Ohio such ample protection for wool as shall speedily increase American flocks sufficiently to supply all American needs.

We indorse the wise, faithful and satisfactory administration of Gov. Bushnell and congratulate the people of this State upon the financial condition of the commonwealth.

The thanks of the people of this State are due to Senators Foraker and Hanna for their splendid efforts during the present session of Congress, and we congratulate the people on their representation in the United States Senate.

Desiring to continue such representation and appreciating his services to the party and to the people of the State and nation, and his eminent and proved fitness for the position, we indorse the candidacy of the Honorable Marcus A. Hanna for United States Senator to succeed himself and pledge the support of the party in the next General Assembly to his election to both the short and long terms.

The mention of Senator Hanna's name was greeted with loud demonstrations, and after the resolutions were adopted Senator Hanna was called for. He thanked the convention for this expression of confidence and pledged himself to co-operate with the standard-bearer (Bushnell) for Republican success in Ohio.

Ticket Nominated.

Nominations were then made as follows:

Governor—Asa S. Bushnell.
Lieutenant Governor—A. W. Jones.
Supreme Judge—Jacob F. Burkett.
Attorney General—Frank Monnett.
State Treasurer—Samuel Campbell.

TOLEDO ARMORY, WHERE OHIO REPUBLICAN CONVENTION WAS HELD

FAIR WEEK FOR CROPS.

Corn Makes Rapid Strides and Spring Wheat Is Doing Well.

The week's crop bulletin, based on the reports of the directors of the several climate and crop sections, is as follows:

Except over the central Rocky Mountain region and California, where it was unseasonably cool, the week has been generally favorable for the growth and cultivation of crops. Corn has made vigorous growth in the principal corn States during the week. In the Dakotas, however, the crop continues backward with uneven stands. Cotton has made good growth during the week. Southward of the northern boundary of Tennessee the bulk of the winter wheat crop has been harvested, and some thrashing has been done in Texas. Harvesting in Kansas is nearly completed and will begin this week in Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia and Maryland. In Washington recent rains have practically assured winter wheat in that State. In California harvesting continues with light yield and grain of indifferent quality. Spring wheat is doing well generally and has made rapid growth in North Dakota. In South Dakota, however, while the outlook for early sown is good, the late sown is less promising.

With Surprising Results.

The paradoxical discovery that the speed of a sailing vessel may be increased by perforating its sails is claimed by a ship's captain of long experience. He supposed that the fixed cushion of air filling up the hollow of an inflated sail lessens the effect of the wind, and he has sought to prevent the collecting of this cushion by making a number of holes in the canvas. Several trials, made in all weathers, have given surprising results. In a light wind a vessel made four knots with ordinary sails and five knots with perforated sails; in a fresh breeze, seven and eight and three-fourths knots respectively; and in a strong wind, eight and ten knots.

RECORD OF THE WEEK

INDIANA INCIDENTS TERSELY TOLD.

Historic Old Theological College at Hartsville Forced to Close Its Doors—Recreant Lover Killed in Sight of His Sweetheart.

Old Indiana College Suspends.

The Hartsville College, the oldest institution of learning in the State, has suspended for at least one year, and probably permanently. The graduation exercises closed Saturday, and it was formally announced by the board of trustees that they had decided to close the doors. Forty-seven years ago this college was founded by the United Brethren Church. Hartsville was selected as the site because it was a quiet place, ten miles from a railroad, and in a most picturesque locality. The college at one time had several hundred students, nearly every State east of the Mississippi being represented. For the past fifteen years the college has been gradually going down hill. At the close of the winter term there were only fifteen students, and but eight showed up for the last term. President Barnaby resigned his position, as his salary was not sufficient. The trustees were anxious that the last term be closed before suspending, and the church was appealed to, with the result that enough money was raised to procure the services of one of the instructors, L. B. Baldwin, as president. The direct reason of the failure of the institution is that the church conference failed to give it the annual allowance. The amount had not been sufficient for the past five years to employ the best faculty. A new college has been established at Huntington, and it will be opened this fall. There is now but one other college of this church in America, and that is at Philonath, Oregon, established twenty years ago by Rev. T. J. O'Connor, now a Baptist minister of Greensburg. The single graduate this year was W. A. Clouse of Hope, this State.

Tragedy at Shelbyville.

Six weeks ago Elmore Cotterman of Waldron fell heir to considerable money left him by an uncle. At the time young Cotterman was engaged to marry Miss Nellie Mason, and the date was set for Tuesday. Cotterman three weeks ago went to Shelbyville from his home in Waldron and proceeded to Indianapolis, where he fell to drinking and carousing. In the meantime his relatives had stopped payment on the banks on Cotterman's checks, thinking that he would return. Monday night he wrote to the family that he would come home; that he regretted his course, and would marry the girl he loved. The relatives, with Miss Mason, were at the depot to receive Elmore, but when he stepped from the train he fell under the wheels and was crushed to death before their eyes. Strange to say, his pockets contained a will leaving the remainder of his fortune of several thousand dollars to the pretty orphan girl he had returned home to wed.

All Over the State.

Henry V. Conover, alias R. J. Sage, of Chicago, the newspaper subscription fraud, admitted his guilt at Valparaiso.

Crop report: Warm weather and sufficient rain caused all crops to improve and advance. A good and heavy crop of clover was harvested.

Gov. Mount has decided to let no consumptive die in the Indiana prison, if it is possible to pardon him. The Governor's private secretary has been making a personal examination into cases, and half a dozen men will be paroled to die.

George J. Kleespies, one of the best known men in the Falls City, suicided at the Strauss Hotel in Jeffersonville by taking sixty grains of strychnine. Friday his sweetheart, Mariah Densford Ross, died after a short illness. Since her death he had been despondent, and the suicide followed.

At Waterloo, the case against W. H. McIntosh and others, charged with conspiracy to rob the county of $50,000, was ruled out of court on a technicality. The case has been the subject of much comment. Borst, Dills and Sawvel were brought back from the penitentiary to testify in the case.

Word has been received at Valparaiso from Monroe, Ia., that Patrick Payne, who murdered his wife and was sentenced by a jury to be hanged, has been refused a new trial by the State Supreme Court, and he will be executed July 23. Payne is highly connected. His relatives will make an appeal to the Governor.

The boiler in Ferguson & Co.'s sawmill at Rockville exploded Wednesday. Solon Ferguson, senior proprietor, was instantly killed; Edward Straughn, employe, probably fatally injured, and Walter Ferguson, another one of the owners, was badly hurt. Several others were slightly injured. The building was wrecked.

The oil fever in Anderson was boosted up to a dangerous stage Tuesday by two abandoned wells coming in full fledged oil gushers. They were drilled in, shot and abandoned a month ago. The casing was even pulled away and they were allowed to stand open. Oil was found gushing from them Tuesday. A week ago both could have been bought for $1. Leases went up 20 per cent. Oil men say this proves beyond all doubt that the field is near a monster reservoir.

Benjamin Prather, late chief clerk of the Indiana House of Representatives, is under arrest at Indianapolis on an indictment charging him with embezzlement. The charge is made by the Commercial Travelers' Mutual Accident Association of Indiana. Prather was formerly secretary of the concern. It alleges that he failed to properly account for about $3,500 that came into his hands. Prather asserts that there is nothing in the case that he cannot successfully refute and that he can show offsets for traveling expenses that will wipe the claim against him. The court has fixed bond at $5,000, which Prather hopes to secure.

The window glass factory at Orestes, eighteen miles west of Muncie, burned. The factory is owned by the United Glass Company, together with like plants at Ottawa and Streator, Ill. The factory employed 400 people, and the total loss will be $100,000.

A valuable race horse, en route over the Pennsylvania Railroad from Chicago to Brooklyn, was burned to death at Bourbon. The supposition is that a spark from the engine set fire to the straw in the rear. William West of Cincinnati was the owner of the horse and had just refused $10,000 for it.

The Governor has called upon representatives of the Loyal Legion, Grand Army and the Women's Relief Corps to agree upon a plan for caring for the grave of the mother of Lincoln, in Spencer County.

Fifty farmers of the county met in Anderson and, under the leadership of Sylvester Louiso, Wilson Cory and several others formally organized a colony which will go to southern Alabama and settle on lands across the bay from Mobile, owned by Chicago parties. They will establish a colony on lines practically the same as those promulgated by Debs. All are well-to-do and each will close for 160 acres within the next ten days. They will try and get started by Sept. 1.

"Nothing else like it."
The most refreshing and pleasant Soap for the skin.

It lasts twice as long as others.
A trial will convince you of its great merit. Will please the most fastidious.
CHARLES F. MILLER,
Mfr. of FRENCH MILLED TOILET SOAPS AND PERFUMERY,
Lancaster, Penn.
ESTABLISHED, 1849.

WHY NOT BUY THE BEST?

A GOOD SADDLE is the most noticeable and taking point on a Bicycle.
When buying insist on getting a BURNS SPRING SADDLE.
Take no other. Get a Burns and GET THE BEST.
Manufactured by the
GRAND RAPIDS CYCLE SEAT MFG. CO.,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Patton's House Painting Model
shows just how your house would look if painted any one of 20,000 artistic combinations of colors. Designed and made only for the manufacturers of PATTON'S PURE LIQUID PAINTS. Sent postpaid upon receipt of 10 cts. "How to Increase the Size of Your House With Paint" mailed free.
JAS. E. PATTON CO.,
Dep't X. MILWAUKEE, WIS., U.S.A

ECLIPSE
Poultry Brooder.
BEST MADE.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR, which explains why you should use a BROODER, and why you should purchase the
ECLIPSE BROODER.
Also gives testimonials from MANY WHO HAVE USED THEM.
CAPACITY, 100 CHICKS.
Size: 32 inches long, 32 inches wide, 26 inches high. Weight, 135 lbs.
Price: Single one, $9.00.
Two or more, $8.50 apiece.
If not as represented, money refunded.
JOHN D. WINGERT,
MANUFACTURER,
FAYETTEVILLE, - PENN.

NIAGARA
BICYCLES

CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION.
CORRESPONDENCE INVITED.
Reliable Agents Wanted.
BUFFALO WHEEL CO.,
BUFFALO, N. Y.

GOOD-BY.

We say it for an hour or for years,
We say it smiling, say it choked with tears;
We say it coldly, say it with a kiss,
And yet we have no other word than this:
Good-by.

We have no dearer word for our heart's friend,
For him who journeys to the world's far end
And scars our souls with going; thus we say,
And unto him who steps out o'er the way:
Good-by.

Alike to those we love and those we hate,
We say no more in parting. At life's gate
To him who passes out beyond earth's sight,
We cry, as to the wanderer for a night:
Good-by.

—Boston Traveler.

A STROKE OF CONSCIENCE.

Mr. Marchmont sat alone in his city office, gloomily realizing the fact that he was a ruined man; and, worse still, that he had involved others in his own financial disasters, without either their knowledge or their consent. It was the old, old tale; ill fortune in business, rash speculative investments to meet extravagant expenditure, then misappropriation of trust funds to repair past losses and enable him to continue his gambling vantures with the wild hope that previous misfortunes could be retrieved. Now all was gone; the fortune of his orphan clients as well as his own; and, in another month or so, when Harold Williams would be 24, and the "trust" would, by the terms of his old friend's will, have to be rendered up discovery of the real condition of affairs must ensue. It was not an agreeable prospect, for Mr. Marchmount, like many another misapplier of trust funds, had never intended to be actually dishonest any more than does the clerk or shopman who "borrows" from his employer's "petty cash," or shop till, to meet his own losses on the race course. Every gambler with the money of other people looks forward to making some "lucky stroke" which shall recoup all his former losses—and is mostly disappointed in this exceptation. For a long time Mr. Marchmount had fought desperately against the evidence of facts, and plunged into yet wilder speculations with the hope of retrieving his financial disasters, but now all was gone; the fortune of the two orphans of his oldest frind engulfed with his own, and this under circumstances which would assuredly lay the defaulting trustee open to a criminal prosecution. Would it be wisest to slip quietly away while there was yet time? But his whole soul revolted against this idea; for, until the fatal speculative mania had seized upon him, Mr. Marchmont had been a man of honor and integrity, and was greatly respected and esteemed by all who knew him. It was, indeed, his known high reputation which had induced his old friend to place the future of his children so unreservedly in his hands.

"If you will consent to become their trustee, Marchmont," he had said, "I shall appoint no one to act with you. I can trust you fully, and shall leave everything in your hands until Harold is 24. I know you'll do your best for him and Ellie, and keep the money where it is—in good, safe, non-speculative investments."

Mr. Marchmont, then a prosperous merchant, had readily undertaken the charge laid upon him, and fulfilled it honestly enough until within a year or so before the time when our story commences. But there had been a time of great financial depression, and Mr. Marchmont's firm had suffered like the rest of the world; and then, in a fatal hour, he had been tempted to gamble on the Stock Exchange; had won, had lost, lost again, grown reckless, and now that £30,000 which should be handed over to Harold and his sister in another six weeks was as non-existent as was Mr. Marchmont's own private fortune. Business was most depressed still; and Jenkins, the other partner, had begun to advocate boldly facing the real condition of things and "winding up" the firm's affairs; but Jenkins was, of course, ignorant of his partner's embezzlement of trust funds.

It is one thing for a business man whose affairs have become involved through unexpected misfortunes, to "call a meeting of creditors" and lay the facts plainly before them, and another to have to confess that a trustee has—to put it bluntly—made away with money that does not belong to him. It was no small addition to the torturing anxiety of the situation that Jenkins was so perpetually advocating a "voluntary winding up" of the firm, and a candid statement of their affairs. Of course, the crash and the discovery were bound to come shortly; even already Mr. Marchmont fancied that some suspicions were arising in young William's mind, for the youth had become rather pressing regarding the fixture of a date on which to go into all the trust accounts, and have the investments duly transferred. Alas! all these "investments" had been nonexistent for some time. It had often been a desperate struggle to pay the interest on the vanished capital, and the delays which had occasionally ensued had perhaps aroused some suspicion of the truth in Harold Williams's mind. On one pretence or another, Marchmont had hitherto contrived to put off the evil day of reckoning, but had been obliged to fix a date for it at last. In another six weeks the truth must be revealed: Mr. Marchmont must stand before the world as a convicted thief, a betrayer of the trust of a dead friend, and Harold and his sister must learn that owing to his embezzlement they were reduced from comparative affluence to absolute beggary. Small wonder that, as the wretched man sat alone in his private room, his face looked gray and lined, or that he glanced often at a certain locked drawer, in which some weeks previously, he had placed a tiny phial.

"There is always that means of escape. I can never face the lad and his sister and tell them that I have ruined them," thought Marchmont, who, to do him justice, was even more concerned to think of the calamity which he had brought upon his young friends, than of the probable consequences to himself of his rash acts. "If I'd only drank the contents of that bottle three years ago, before all this took place!" thought the merchant bitterly.

"It's not our fault, but simply our misfortune, Marchmont, that we are in such straits," the junior partner would often say. "It was those unexpected failures abroad that dragged us down. But we're quite clear, thank heaven, from any imputation of 'reckless trading,' and need have no objection to face our creditors fairly, and let them go over our books for themselves. As business men they will be reasonable in the matter, and we're only carrying on now at a loss, and getting worse every day."

True, the accounts of the firm were clear and clean enough; it was in his private capacity that Mr. Marchmont had gambled and embezzled. But to "wind up" his business would precipitate the discovery of his private malpractices; and with the natural desire of putting off the evil day as far as possible, Mr. Marchmont still clung to delay. Six weeks yet remained to him, and then—at the worst—there were the contents of the vial.

"Truth is stranger than fiction," is a trite remark; and the "singular accidents" which novelists are often ridiculed for adapting into their tales not unfrequently take place in real life. One morning Mr. Marchmont, who was usually the last to arrive at the office, found Jenkins, usually so cool and quiet, in a state of extreme, though suppressed excitement.

"Come here," said this gentleman, dragging his partner by the arm into the private sanctum, and carefully shutting the door. "I don't want the clerks to get an inkling of what I have to say. You remember those farms at the Cape which we took over—as the only asset we could lay hands on—when that South African firm failed and let us in so heavily?"

"Yes, and valueless enough they have proved," said Marchmont indifferently.

"Have they?" cried Jenkins exultingly. "Just wait and see. I have received private information—from a source I am not at liberty to disclose—that gold has been discovered in some part of this land, and that if we wait, and play our cards well—we may make a fortune yet out of the sale of that 'valuable estate.'"

And such, in fact, proved to be the case. Jenkins, a shrewd and cautious man of business, successfully negotiated the matter; Marchmont, indeed, being too dazed by this sudden change in the situation to intermeddle much in the affair.

There were delays, and many discussions, and much correspondence, but the matter ended—thanks to Mr. Jenkin's good management—in these erstwhile despised "African farms," proving a veritable "gold mine" to the original owners who sold them for a sum which entirely reconped Mr. March mont for his private losses, and enabled Mr. Jenkins to retire from the firm—as he promptly announced his intention of doing—with a comfortable competence.

"I have made my money, and I don't mean to risk it in any business again," remarked this gentleman.

Thanks to this unexpected stroke of luck, Mr. Marchmont was able to look forward to the dreaded trust audit with more composure. It was necessary, of course, to prepare a very elaborate — and fictitious — series of accounts to conceal the real facts, but at least, the money was there to be handed over and recipients are usually satisfied to receive their own, without indulging in too close scrutiny, as to how it has been dealt with before it arrives in their hand. Mr. Marchmont winced, however, as he saw that Harold Williams, when he kept the long-deferred appointment at the merchant's office to "go into the accounts," had brought his solicitor with him, a shrewd, keen-eyed, middle-aged man of well-known ability in the profession. Nothing, however, could be more courteous than this gentleman's demeanor as he explained that "his young client, being somewhat ignorant of business," had suggested that he should accompany him, and check over the trust accounts. At least, the money was forthcoming, as Marchmont thought with infinite sense of relief, but as the quiet lawyer examined the accounts in silence, the miserable trustee felt well aware that the shrewd solicitor had accurately gauged the real condition of affairs, and could penetrate all the ingenious devices whereby figures had been manipulated to conceal facts.

Indeed, as Mr. Vivian, the lawyer, turned over the accounts, he was saying to himself: "Exactly as I expected; these trust funds have been made away with and replaced. Well, it's no business of mine to point this out, and anyhow, my client has got back his own in the end."

But there was a decided coldness in the tones in which Mr. Vivian thanked Mr. Marchmont for the opportunity he had given them for inspecting his trust accounts, which were all in due order.

"And now we have only to arrange for the formal transference of the property to Mr. Williams and his sister," remarked the lawyer, as he laid down the last paper.

"No," exclaimed Harold, who, like Mr. Marchmont, had noted the coldness of his lawyer's manner to the trustee, "no, I've something else to do first."

Both the other men looked at the speaker in some surprise.

"I have to ask your forgiveness, sir," said the youth ingenuously, advancing toward Mr. Marchmont, and holding out his hand; "I am utterly ashamed to confess that, for some while, I have wronged you, my father's oldest friend, and the kind and faithful guardian of my own and my sister's interests, by wicked and unjust suspicions. Circumstances — not worth recalling now—had led me to fancy that—well, I'm fairly ashamed to say the words—that our money was not quite safe in your keeping. I see now how mistaken—how wrong I was"—here Mr. Vivian mentally ejaculated: "Was he?"—"and I ask your pardon for the wrong I did you in my thoughts. I feel it only due to you, sir, to make this confession, ashamed as I am to have to do it; but you will forgive me, will you not?"

There was a pause. Mr. Marchmont did not take the offered hand, but sat still, with a strange, fixed look upon his face.

"I was so anxious about Ellie, my little sister," went on the young man; "we are all alone in the world, as you know. But if I cruelly misjudged you, sir, I am at least ready to acknowledge myself utterly in the wrong and to ask your forgiveness. Were my dear father here," added the young man, with some emotion, "I am sure he would fully appreciate your kindness to his orphan children and thank you as sincerely as I do for your noble and conscientious fulfilment of the trust he reposed in you."

Mr. Marchmont slowly staggered to his feet; an awful grayness was overspreading his face.

"It is—very—touching—and—gratifying," he began, in a strangely altered voice.

Then he suddenly collapsed, and fell on the floor—dead.

"The fellow had some conscience after all," thought Mr. Vivian to himself, whenever he looked back on the awful occurrence; but, lawyer-like, kept his own counsel.

"Failure of the heart's action," was the medical verdict, with the addendum that Mr. Marchmont had long been in a critical state of health.

Harold Williams often reproached himself for having, by a little additional excitement, possibly accelerated the fatal catastrophe; but yet, as the young man once remarked to Mr. Vivian:

"I cannot understand how my merely thanking poor Mr. Marchmont should have affected him so much. It was not as if anything had been wrong with his accounts."

Mr. Vivian only coughed in reply; and, to the end of their lives, Harold and his sister believed their trustee to have been a model of honesty and rectitude. Yet, perhaps, as the lawyer had surmised, it was Marchmont's "conscience" that had killed him after all.—Household Words.

Where Wild Ducks Breed.

The breeding places of the Chesapeake ducks are in Canada, where they are being destroyed in vast numbers by the cutting away of the forests which shelter the lakes and pools where they harbor, and by the use and sale of their eggs. Thousands of these eggs, says Lippincott's, are annually marketed, and by these methods, rather than by the numbers actually shot, they have been greatly diminished.

This condition of things seems to be beyond remedy, since a State cannot make a treaty with a foreign power, and the general government is not likely to interfere on behalf of what is practically a Maryland industry, or to provide such compensation as Canada might see fit to ask if a proposal were made to her to protect the ducks in their native habitat. So the prospect is that fifty years will see the extermination of the finest wild fowl in the world and one of the most prized delicacies of the table.

The range of the wild duck reaches almost from the Arctic to the Antarctic circle.

It lives through the summer in the far north, in Greenland, Iceland, Lapland, Siberia, and, as we have shown, in Canada, until the waters in those regions become frozen, so that it can no longer obtain its food. Then begins its flight southward, sometimes reaching as far as India and Egypt, and, in this hemisphere, the Isthmus of Panama.

A Substitute for Rubber.

With reference to the new substitute for India rubber, to which we referred sometime ago, we are now informed that the manufactory established for the manufacture of this product is in an advanced state of preparation, and is expected to be shortly in full work. The machinery provides for an output of forty tons per week, and the works cover nearly three acres of ground, and are situated but a short distance from London. "Oxilin," the name registered for the new product, manifestly indicates an oxidized oil. There is in itself nothing particularly new about a product of this nature, but it is claimed by the inventor, Charles Grist, that up to the present time no one but himself has been successful in completely oxidizing the oil, whether when in the form of a film or in a spray. Mr. Grist has adopted a perfectly different course to that which has been heretofore pursued, making a large employment of vegetable fibers. It is stated that "oxilin" will perfectly replace India rubber for a large variety of purposes, such as hydraulic packings, wire insertion and the like, being impervious to mineral oil, and standing a temperature of from 200 to 300 degrees Fahrenheit in its natural and vulcanized forms respectively. It can be sold at considerable reduction on the price of India rubber.—Industries and Iron.

A Self-Winding Clock.

The latest freak that has been invented in clocks is a windmill appliance just perfected and soon to be patented by R. W. Gebhard of Louisville, which, according to the Post of that city, will dispense entirely with the necessity of people watching their timepiece in order to keep them wound up.

The windmill is perched at some point on the building where an occasional puff of air will strike it, and extension rods from it are connected with the clock so that the motion of the mill winds just far enough, when the rod is automatically shifted, and thus it remains until the clock runs down to a point where it is automatically connected and again wound to this connecting point. Thus it goes on, repeating this action continuously. The device can be applied only to weight clocks. The inventor has another device that will wind spring clocks, which consists of an occasional drop of water falling on a lever from a tube connected with a vessel containing the water.

The population of the newly recovered province of Dongola, Egypt, has fallen from 75,000 in 1885 to 56,426. Cattle have also decreased by two-thirds, and the number of palm trees by one-half.

A GENTLEMAN OF '76.

E cut a bonnie figure
In bonnie buff and blue;
A goodly sight his buckles height,
And primly powdered queue!
A more courageous quester
Ne'er served Sultan nor Shah
Than he, my brave ancestor,
My great - great - grandpapa!
And then in his elation
Did my forefather say
Speak out the word he'd long deferred
For fear she'd say him "nay;"
And when he saw how tender
Within her eyes the light,
He cried—"In your surrender
I read—We win the fight!"

And when the freedom paean
Swept, surge-like, through the dells—
A mighty clang whose echoes rang
From Philadelphian bells—
Loud from a stern old steeple,
He hurled the proud hurrah,
The joy peal to the people,
My great-great-grandpapa.
He held the brutal Briton
A "thing" beneath his scorn;
A Tory he conceived to be
The basest caitiff born;
And not a neighbor wondered
He looked upon them so;
Forsooth, that was one hundred
And twenty years ago!

How true that happy presage!
In faith, how leal and true
Thy whole long life of love and strife,
Thou saint in buff and blue!
Beyond all touch of travail,
With great-great-grandmamma,
Now flooding time, slips by in rhyme
For great-great-grandpapa!

—New York Herald.

GRIGGSVILLE'S CANNON.

RIGGSVILLE was very sorry, indeed, but it didn't see how it was going to have a Fourth of July celebration. Not that Griggsville wasn't anxious to set off firecrackers and have a balloon ascension, with fireworks in the evening. Quite the contrary, for the Fourth of July in the past had always been the greatest day of the year. Griggsville had thought it all over, remembering that crops were bad, that the times were hard and that taxes were high, and had come to the conclusion that it would need all the money it could get for winter fuel and buckwheat flour and bacon.

All of the older folk agreed with this decision, not without many mournful shakes of the head, but the boys of Griggsville were much displeased.

"It's what I call a burning shame," sniffed Jack Morris when he heard the news.

"Yes," chimed in Ruddy Wilson, "Alden's Mills and Norcross and Simpson's Landing and nearly every town in the county is going to have a celebration, and now Griggsville has backed out."

"Course all of our games are off," remarked Dick Lansing, disconsolately; "no team will come here to play unless there is something going on."

Dick was the manager of the Griggsville Baseball Club and he felt the disappointment deeply.

For a moment all the boys were silent, as if the weight of the affliction was too great for expression. Presently Will Spencer blurted out:

"Let's have a celebration anyway. I've got a few dollars I'll put into it and we can get enough more among the boys to make something of a show at least—and we'll leave the old folks out of it, too."

"That's all very well," returned Dick, "but it's easier said than done," and there the matter dropped.

The next day when the boys met at the ball field Will came rushing up the street, evidently much excited. As soon as he was within hearing he shouted:

"I've got it, fellows, I've got it."

"Well, out with it, old man; don't keep us in suspense," replied Dick, who didn't think much of Will's many plans. For Will had only lived in Griggsville a short time and Dick was a little jealous of his popularity.

As soon as Will recovered his breath he unfolded his schemes. It was to go down to Sullinger's Hole and find the cannon and muskets that were supposed to lie hidden in its depths. During the war the part of Missouri in which Griggsville is located had been overrun by roving bands of marauders, belonging to both the Confederate and Union armies, and it was on one of these raids that the Southerners had pounced down upon a quantity of stores and ammunition held at Griggsville and, being unable to get entirely away with their plunder, they had dropped it into Sullinger's Hole. All this had been long known to the boys of Griggsville, whose fathers and mothers often told of the wild day of the raid, and pointed out the bullet-furrows in their homes. And they knew, too, all about Sullinger's Hole. It was said no one had ever found bottom, although more than one of the men of Griggsville had sounded the pool. The earliest settlers in the county had called it the "haunted pool," but ever since old man Sullinger had scoffed at the idea and had gone bathing in its waters, never to return, it had been known as Sullinger's Hole. All these things the boys knew, and it was, therefore, not at all surprising that Ruddy Wilson shrugged his shoulders and laughed when Will made the suggestion.

"None of that for me," he said.

"Oh, well, you needn't go along unless you want to," responded Will, impatiently. "All this talk about Sullinger's Hole being haunted is foolishness." Will was very much excited, and several of the boys at once grew interested.

"I'd help," said Dick Lansing, "if I was sure there was any way of doing it."

"All right, Dick, we'll show 'em," put in Will, whose eyes fairly glowed with excitement. "We'll have the old guns all up here by the Fourth and it will be a celebration worth seeing." When Dick went over, all of the doubters except Ruddy went with him.

That night and the next evening they dragged or rolled a number of big dry logs and poles down to the edge of the pool. These they cut off into equal lengths and fastened together in the form of a huge raft that would support a dozen or more boys. As early on the afternoon of the third day as possible the seven slid quietly out of the town and down the hill to the pool. They carried with them ropes and a crowbar or two and a number of long poles cut in the woods, besides hammers and nails and other implements. On reaching the shore of the pool they mounted the raft and pushed it out. Once out on the pool they poled themselves along until they were about twenty feet from the shore.

One of the ropes with a big iron hook on the end was let down in the water and dragged back and forth. As long as there was light they poled about the edges of the pond with their drags, but with the exception of snags and weeds and mud they could find nothing at all.

After two more discouraging afternoons of work "Lank" Everson said he wasn't going to waste any more of his time.

Three of the boys agreed with him, but Will Spencer was able to persuade Dick and Jack to make one more trial.

The next night Will was handling the drag rope. Suddenly it began to pull, and, assisted by Jack, he drew it carefully in. At the end was a mass of snags.

"What's that?" shouted Dick, suddenly.

Will pulled the rope nearer and Jack lifted out a long, narrow object. It was a gun barrel, rusted beyond recognition.

Forgetting that he was on a raft, Will threw up his cap and shouted at the top of his voice:

"We've found 'em! We've found 'em!"

But although they dragged an hour they could bring up nothing else.

"I don't see how we can ever get the things up even if they are there," said Dick.

"Dive," answered Will, quietly.

The other two boys looked at him with horror. But when they parted for the night Will had expressed his firm intention of diving to the bottom to see if he could find the cannon. And the next day all seven of the boys came back very much excited. The finding of the gun barrel had reassured them. Carefully they poled out so as not to make the water muddy, and then Will stripped and stood poised for a moment on the edge of the raft. Dick had insisted that he tie a rope around him. The word was given, and, with a look at the blue sky above, Will splashed head-first into the Sullinger's Hole. They saw his white body go down and down through the water and then fade out of sight. No one moved nor uttered a sound; every muscle was strained and every eye was fixed on the water. It was a critical moment. What would Will find? Would he be sucked down to his death as Sullinger had been?

But the rope had ceased to spin through Dick's hands. Then it pulled again and a dozen feet away from the boat a wet head popped out of the water. Will shook himself, sputtered and shouted:

"It's there, it's there; I touched it!"

Then he struck out for the raft, dragging something along in his hand. When he crawled out he laid an old, worn, rusted musket on the logs. All the boys were wild with excitement. Dick insisted on stripping and making a dive, and he, too, brought up a musket. Then Will went down with one end of a small rope in his mouth. This he ran through the fork of the cannon. A larger rope was dragged down and before dark the boys were on shore ready to begin pulling in their prize. But it would not stir. It was too deep in the mud.

The next afternoon they came down with Tom Fisher's old white-faced team, fastened it to the rope, and with one strong pull the cannon came loose and then it was no trouble to pull the battered and rusted and wholly worthless old piece of artillery out of the water.

Somehow, in spite of all the boys could do, the news spread about like wildfire, and every one in town came out to see what Sullinger's Hole had given up to the light of day. A hundred willing hands dragged the old cannon to the top of the bluff, and on Fourth of July morning it was loaded with powder—but that is getting ahead of the story. For when Griggsville heard what the boys had done Will Spencer became the hero of the hour, and the money for a great celebration was quickly subscribed. And on the morning of the great day Griggsville was out in her best with flags waving and firecrackers popping and anvils booming. The news of the great find had spread, and men and women and children came from all over the county to help Griggsville celebrate and to see Will Spencer. And Dick Lansing's ball team won two games.

About the old cannon? When it was fired it split from end to end, but Griggsville still keeps it as a proud trophy. And she is probably celebrating around it today, for Will Spencer made the dive which brought him fame all over Missouri many years ago.—Chicago Record.

"A HUNDRED WILLING HANDS DRAGGED THE OLD CANNON."

Fourth of July Advice.

Be sure to get up at 4 o'clock, so that you can have all your firecrackers exploded before breakfast. Later in the day perhaps you can get your little sister to loan you some of hers.

Don't bother about scraping out the fire in your punk. Just stick it into the pocket where your firecrackers are when you get through with it.

When you light a fuse and it won't go stoop over and blow it well. If you lose your eyebrows they'll grow on again in a year or two.

Always sit on the old barrel under which you put the lighted cannon cracker. If the head caves in and you go through you may lose both legs, but the probability is that you will lose only one.

By all means drink sixteen glasses of lemonade and eat as many dishes of ice cream as you can. It doesn't matter at all if you are groaning and tossing on the lounge in the back parlor while the other boys are watching the fireworks.

Always hold a roman candle squarely by the end. In this way, if it should happen to blow out backward you can have a complete celebration up your coat sleeve.

Lay your lighted punk carefully on the steps. You may want to come back after awhile and sit down on it.

Girls should wear light cotton frocks, for if they catch fire they will make all the finer display.

If you follow these simple directions you cannot fail to have a jolly Fourth, celebrated in a way that would make George Washington smile.

ORIGIN OF YANKEE DOODLE.

ONE on a time old
Johnny Bull
Flew in a raging fury,
And swore that Jonathan should have No trials, sir, by jury;
That no elections
should be held
Across the briny
waters,
"And now," said he,
"I'll tax the tea
Of all his sons and daughters."
Then down he sat in burly state,
And blustered like a Grandee,
And in derision made a tune
Called "Yankee Doodle Dandy."

Yankee Doodle, these are facts,
Yankee Doodle Dandy—
"My son of wax, your tea I'll tax,
Yankee Doodle Dandy!

John sent the tea from o'er the sea,
With heavy duties rated,
But whether Hyson or Bohea
I never heard it stated.
Then Jonathan to pout began;
He laid a strong embargo—
"I'll drink no tea, by Jove!" So he Threw overboard the cargo.
Then Johnny sent a regiment
Big words and looks to handy,
Whose martial band, when near the land
Played "Yankee Doodle Dandy."

Yankee Doodle, keep it up,
Yankee Doodle Dandy.
"I'll poison with a tax your cup,
Yankee Doodle Dandy!

A long war then they had, in which
John was at last defeated.
And "Yankee Doodle" was the march
To which his troops retreated.
Cute Jonathan, to see them fly,
Could not restrain his laughter,
"That tune," said he, "suits to a T.
I'll sing it ever after."
Old Johnny's face, to his disgrace,
Was flushed with beer and brandy,
E'en while he swore to sing no more
The "Yankee Doodle Dandy."

Yankee Doodle, ho! ha! he!
Yankee Doodle Dandy—
We kept the tune, but not the tea,
Yankee Doodle Dandy!

I've told you now the origin
Of this most lovely ditty,
Which Johnny Bull dislikes as dull
And stupid—what a pity!—
With "Hail, Columbia," it is sung,
In chorus full and hearty;
On land or main we breathe the strain
John made for his tea party.
No matter how we rhyme the words,
Their music speaks them handy,
And where's the fair can't sing the air
Of "Yankee Doodle Dandy?"

Yankee Doodle, firm and true,
Yankee Doodle Dandy,
Yankee Doodle Doodle Doo,
Yankee Doodle Dandy!

UNCLE JOSHWAY'S 'SCURSION.

"Whew! Dat boy's sho' sprujous today! Des look at 'im, Blazy Ann! Peart an' brickly es a young colt an' friskifider'n a rabbit, dat's jes' what he is!" said Aunt Anarky, as she skillfully shucked off the sun-scorched outer leaves of the tough blue colards she was preparing for dinner. The "boy" indicated was Uncle Joshway, who approached in high glee, singing at the top of his voice:

"Come, chillun, git on de train,
Come, chillun, git on de train,
Come, chillun, git on de train,
Fur Zion's rockin' on!"

"Gressious, Joshway, how come you walkin' so spry an' singin' so loud today? You musser got sawter 'zalted over singin' 'bout dat gospil train, didn't you?'

"Well," admitted Uncle Joshway, half sheepishly, "I mouter been singin' de 'Gospil Train' hymn unbeknownst, but dat wan't de train I wus thinkin' 'bout jes den. I'm goin' off on a 'scursion Saddy an' was thinkin' of de Swevepote train, an' I reckon dat's how come me to be singin' 'bout trains.'

"En' what 'scussion you talkin' 'bout? I hain't heared tell o' no 'scussion.'

"Ef you ain't dat don't meek it not be so,' was Joshway's lucid reply.

"Anarky, I wusht you'd cook me up a lot o' nice vittles 'ginst Saddy—some meat an' cakes an' pies. It's a Foath July 'scursion I'm gwine on."

"Foath July? Whatcher talkin' 'bout, boy? Don't you know Foath July's come an' went long ago? Don't you 'member de big bobbycue et Warnut Crick when de Foath July was? G'long, Joshway, you'se meckin' game o' me! You know it's 'twixt Settember 'n' Noctober now."

"Res' of de folks don't call it a Foath July 'scursion nex' Saddy, but I does jes' kase it sounds good. You know I never had no July dis year, Anarky; didn't go to de pickernicker ner to de bobbycue, nuther. So d'aint nothin' to hender me callin' dis year 'scursion a Foath July scursion, isdy? I'm gwine to ride Cawnstalk to Ruston an' take de train."

The first trembling uncertain grayness of Saturday's dawn found Uncle Joshway mounting Cawnstalk, while Blazy Ann, Goddess-of-Liberty-like, held aloft a flaming pine torch to light him to the gate. Aunt Anarky handed him the saddle bags, stuffed with eatables enough for a week. Then with a vigorous kick with each heel into Cawnstalk's sides, he rode off into the darkness, singing:

"I hears de train a-ruslin',
It's comin' roun' de kyurve,
I hear de kyar-wheels a-movin'
An' strainin' ev'ry nuv!"

Cawnstalk's unwilling feet entered Ruston two hours before the time appointed for the excursion train to leave, and on nearing the depot, where a freight train was steaming and creaking, his long wavy ears stood erect in mulish terror. Uncle Joshway was too much absorbed in watching the train's movement to notice Cawnstalk's danger signal until on the point of flying over the head of that humorous animal.

He rose, shook off the dust and catching the now lamb-like Cawnstalk, tied him to an accommodating post, to stand all day in hungry meditation, while his master traveled and feasted.

Reaching the depot platform Uncle Joshway was surprised to see but a few people collected. "Pears lack a mighty slim 'scursion," said he to one of the usual loungers.

"Excursion? What you talking about, old man? Did you come in for the colored excursion?"

"Yes, sah, I sho' did. Dat's what I comed fur.'

"Then you're a day too late. The excursion excurted yesterday, but, uncle, you can have a nice little excursion by yourself, if you like."

"Well," answered Uncle Joshway, reflectively, "I might teck a dollah's wuth."

"DAT'S WHUT I CALLS MONEY!"

"A dollar'll carry you to Monroe and leave you four cents over.'

"All right, mister. I 'low Monroe's a nice pious place fur me to spen' de day in." Then Uncle Joshway took off his coat, ripped open the pocket containing his purse, and took out a big shining silver dollar. This was handed, with lingering fondness to the lounger, who soon gave him a ticket and four copper cents.

"What's dem things?" asked our traveler, eying the dark coppers with disgust and contempt. "What you call dem things?" he repeated.

"Why, cents; copper cents."

"Den, mister de agent's cheated you. Gimme back my dollar. I can't take no sich ole black nigger money es dis. Neenter think dey kin 'pose on me an' give me ole black no 'count turn stuff fur money jes' kase I'm a colored pusson. Druther miss trav'lin f'rever'n to tote roun' money made out'n ole tin kittles!"

This description of the way Uncle Joshway "went on" is no exaggeration. The "way down South" country knows no coppers, and their introduction at various depots for change a few years ago was an innovation bitterly resented.

By the lounger's good-natured interest Uncle Joshway's ticket was disposed of to a Monroe-bound man, and his piece of money, as well as peace of mind, restored. Then, picking up his coat and saddle bags, he left in high disdain, taking care, however, not to go home until after the return of the supposed excursion train. He gave a dazzling account of his trip, and Aunt Anarky will never know he spent his Foath July rambling around Ruston abusing "dem ole Swevepote railroad folks."

"Celebration" and "Observance."

The Sons of the American Revolution addressed the town clerks in Massachusetts, asking that they endeavor to bring about a fitting and universal observance of the Fourth of July. "What!" every boy will exclaim, "do we not now observe that day? Does not all our spending money go for firecrackers and rockets and lemonade?"

Yes, you do keep the day with as much noise as Webster suggested, in the "supposed speech of John Adams." But do you observe it? The Fourth of July was at first observed as the anniversary of the day when the throwing off of the "British yoke" began. But the nation is now a hundred and twenty years old. We have outgrown our fear and our hatred of Great Britain. Now it is time to cease regarding the Fourth as "Independence Day" merely, to forget all the suggestions of England that the anniversary brings to mind, and to treat it as the nation's birthday, in the broadest sense.

That means that it should call up before us all the glories of America, not simply the heroism of '76 and '61, but the conquest of the soil of the great West, the triumphs of industry and invention, the victories of education, art and culture, the spread of religion. These things cannot be adequately commemorated by burning gunpowder. We do not go so far as even to suggest that the firecracker be abolished.

Yet while we ring the bells, and fire the cannon and flaunt the flag, let us all remember that the day is a solemn as well as a joyous occasion, and observe as well as celebrate it. Let us make it a day of commemorating glorious deeds in peace and in war, by speech and song and story. It should be a day of revival of patriotism, real and earnest; of consecration to the cause of good government; of stern resolution against the evils which have gradually crept into our system.—Youth's Companion.

A Paper Soldier Battle.

Some of the younger boys and girls will find a good deal of fun in a paper soldier battle. Cut out from advertising cards and posters a large number of figures of men, women and children. Pin these along the top of the fence or at the edge of a board. Now save up all the "fizzlers" among your firecrackers and when there is a good supply ahead you are ready for the battle. Any number of boys and girls may play on a side. The object is to shoot the "fizzlers" at the paper soldiers and kill and wound as many of them as possible. A paper soldier is killed when he is burned up or his head is blown off and he is wounded when his face is burned or blackened. The side that kills and wounds the greatest number is the victor.

A Firecracker Story.

He did it in sport;
He alone is to blame;
The fuse was too short,
Now his finger's the same.

The Pennsylvania Senate has passed the bill which has already gone through the House, taxing each unnaturalized adult male employed in the State 2 cents a day.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY..... July 1, 1897

Not Guilty!

Tuesday's Daily.

At 4:15 this afternoon the jury brought in a verdict of "Not Guilty."

THE FAIR TRIAL.

(Continued from First page.)

MONDAY AFTERNOON.

Fair's examination continued. As to the suit against Coffinberry which was dismissed this morning. He did not know it was dismissed. I had lent Coffinberry about $800 and took his note in 1895. I got it from county treasury, but considered it my own. I took Coffinberry's note secured by some bank stock. It was at 4 or 6 per cent, paid to me. Coffinberry may have had this $800 six month. All paid to me principal and interest. I may have made loans, say $300 or $400 to other parties but do not remember First settlement was made in June 1895, by Mr. Saxton and Perry. I trusted to Saxton. Admits that all the time he had no suspicion any thing was wrong, even as to Coffinberry. During the term of office, I had some private funds of my own, part of the time $300 to $400. Had it my own possession. I got it on notes owing to me. Don't remember whose notes. I owed the Garrett bank some money. When I took the office Coffinberry came himself, and got the first money that went to the Garrett bank. He got it of Perry, but I made no objection. My bondsmen drew my last quarter's salary. I have turned over my farm to my bondsmen, by giving them a mortgage on it, but my wife has signed no deed. Do not remember a cash order for Sheriff Stroh being brought to me. Never sold any "cash" orders. Had taken notes of other parties but these notes are now in hands of my bondsmen. He explained as to "cash" orders etc. When office was turned over to me. I took no notes. Cross examination by Davis. I paid into the county treasury the $800 Coffinberry paid to me.

Perry Fair sworn; examined by F. Powers. Son of defendant. Was deputy treasurer. I made the deposits. Showed books with accounts of deposits, etc. I made these entries, got my items from deposits as shown on slips of paper. Afterwards, say several days, copied items from slips into this book and threw slips away, and some I copied from bank book. Made first deposit in Garrett bank Dec. 17, 1894, about $12,000 and went on to give various sums with dates, he had let Coffinberry have, varying from $10 upwards from which, it would appear that Coffinberry came often getting various little sums as, $5.03, $13.70, $20,30, $281.-32, $14.12, $13.87, $19.04, and so on to sums of $1000 and upwards. He explained as to these small amounts. As far as I know, these items are same as on the slips, but was not very clear on many points. The Garrett bank check book was kept both at our office and at bank. The last item in the Garrett Bank account is on Dec. 6, 1896 "Two pages have been erased or crossed out, by whom?" Answer. The cashier. The book was not in my possession all the time, and I cannot say when I found out the two accounts did not agree.

Neither Coffinberry nor anyone else ever repaid all these amounts. It lacks over 8,000 of being paid. Discovered the shortage in May. I cannot say just what items go to make up this shortage. Spoke to Coffinberry about this difference of books April 6. Were together about two hours, after 4 p. m. Father was not present. I was satisfied Coffinberry had got more money than he would allow me credit for. I made this statement first to the December grand jury. I kept it to myself all the time. Never told my father. He and I were on good terms. "Why did you leave your deposit book at the bank instead of keeping it yourself?" Because I did not know how to conduct the business of the treasurer's office. I sent tax receipts to Garrett and put them in my deposit book and charged them to the bank. Do not know as they were paid. After I discovered shortage, I spoke to Coffinberry about it but did not deposit any more money. But I sent receipts to be collected after this. After discovering the shortage, I changed the method of keeping accounts with the Garrett bank. "How did you make a report at the June settlement with a shortage of $8,000 without having your father know it?" This question was withdrawn and he did not answer.

By defense: Coffinberry and the others for him usually came in afternoon. Several reasons why I did not tell my father of this shortage. I was afraid of trouble with Coffinberry. Coffinberry said it would not be well for me if I told of it. If I did he would do me up, or see it was done. And also he would injure my father's chance for a re-election. He finally said he would pay it back and make it all right. He said the money was invested and would not be lost but that he would return it in time. This was the substance of what he told me. Coffinberry told me how I could make my settlement so it would pass with that shortage. He had been auditor. I also considered Coffinberry's position and influence. I knew that father ought to know about the shortage. "Was this $8000 being used in speculating and you were to have a share of the profits?" Do not remember. Here several persons were sworn and testified to Fair's good reputation. These were, Frank Hogue, Daniel Walters, John Grube, Wm Snyder, C. H. Baber, Miles Emery, James Hogue, Henry Hines, J. F. Housel.

Also A. D. Moore, who said Sawvel spoke of the report that he, Sawvel, had dumped a part of that shortage onto Fair. Phil Noel, swore he had been four days in Fair's office, and Coffinberry had been there two of those days and got a big roll of bills of Perry Fair each time.

Tom Mitchell sworn. Now lives at Anderson. But had been cashier in bank at Garrett. Recognized the two bank books of Mr. Fair. I put in the first credit Dec. 17, '94, of $12,860. We were out of books. This book had been used by another party and we took it for Fair. Coffinberry took both. There are 12 entries by R. C. Jones. I left in August '95. Jones is a Garrett man who assisted in the bank. I saw these books when I was in Penfield's office.

M. Boland called. Am now deputy auditor. I found a discrepancy between Sawvel's account and Fair's, last winter. The item was the amount of ditch tax that Sawvel did not turn over as he should. In going over Perry Fair's figures on scraps of paper, saw what I thought showed an item not properly accounted for. I spoke to Sawvel and also went to treasurer's office. Was not satisfied, but later went again. Later on, Sawvel admitted there was an error. Sawvel said he had lost his receipts. Matter ran along several weeks. We were having trouble with Coffinberry. I told Sawvel he must bring his books to the bank and let us examine the books. We did so, and Sawvel showed us how he had made his books balance. The ditch tax was $943 and he also paid interest. He, next day paid up about $1060 at Farmers' bank. Robbins gave this to me and I gave it to Hines. Sawvel made the mistake on purpose. He had gone to Borst and asked how much he should turn over. Borst told him, but did not put in the ditch tax. He said he was already in the crimes of the others and thought he might as well have this money with the rest, so he fixed his books to show he could get this.

We dismissed the case against Coffinberry this morning as Mrs. Coffinberry said she would do nothing to help his bondsmen out till this was done. So we did it on advice of our counsel. The property of Coffinberry is in name of Mrs. Coffinberry. Cross examined by Bratton. I found no other error in the accounts. (Mr. Coffinberry, it appears deeded his property to Mrs. Coffinberry after this shortage was found.) Do not know as to what consideration was given. It was made it Dec., '96.

Here they adjourned to meet at 7:30 for an evening session.

EVENING

After some delay in consulting, it was decided to stop taking evidence and proceed with the pleading. E. A. Bratton, who had taken the place of Wm Brown to help the prosecution made the first speech and presented the state's case in an able and convincing manner. He was followed by Mr. Croxton for the defense, who spoke earnestly and eloquently for his client. It was now 9-30 and court was adjourned to 9 this forenoon to finish the arguments.

TUESDAY MORNING

The pleas of the attorneys were continued. The first speech was by Mr. Welsheimer for the state which was an able and clear presentation of his case. He was followed by Mr. Hartman for the defense, in a very able, earnest and feeling plea for Mr. Fair. Then the same side was heard in a speech by T. R. Marshall, a brilliant, able and scholarly effort, that won high opinions on all sides.

AFTERNOON

The closing speech was by Mr. Davis the prosecutor and was able, eloquent and earnest. In short all the speeches were excellent. At the conclusion, the Judge charged the jury, and at 5 minutes before 3 p. m. they retired to decide the matter. It looks as if Fair would be aquitted.

Spend the Glorious 4th of July on the Wabash.

Low Rate Round-Trip Tickets will be sold between all stations on the Wabash Line, within 200 miles. July 3, 4 and 5, 1897. Particulars can be had of any ticket agent.

B. & O. EXCURSIONS

TO ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.

In order to give its patrons an opportunity to visit the Seashore at a nominal cost, the Baltimore & Ohio R. R. will run a low-rate excursion to Atlantic City, N. J., on Thursday, July 22.

Atlantic City has acquired such fame as a summer resort that a description of its varied attractions is superfluous. Thousands are annually attracted to this delightful resort for the enjoyment of magnificent surf bathing, and to avail themselves of the unequaled opportunities for sailing, fishing, etc.

A promenade along the famous "board walk" (an elvated platform skirting the shore for several miles) will alone repay the tourist for the trip.

Persons who are contemplating a trip to the Seashore to spend their vacation should not fail to embrace this opportunity to visit the most charming of the many resorts on the Atlantic Coast.

Tickets will be available on all regular trains, and will be good for return twelve days, including date of sale, thus giving ample time for an enjoyable outing. Stop-off will be allowed at Washington, D. C. on the return trip within limit of ticket.

JULY 4TH.

On July 3, 4 and 5, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell excursion tickets to and from all stations within a radius of 200 miles from starting point, at rate of one fare for the round trip. Tickets will be good for return until July 6, 1897.

TO MILWAUKEE.

On July 3, 4 and 5 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell excursion tickets to Milwaukee, Wis., at rate of one fare for the round trip, plus $2.00, for membership fee, account National Educational Association Meeting. Tickets will be good for return leaving Milwaukee July 10, 11 and 12, but are subject to an extension until August 31, if deposited with Joint Agent at Milwaukee on or before July 12, and upon payment of fifty cents to Joint Agent at time of deposit of ticket.

TO MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, MD.

On July 1 to 11, inclusive, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell excursion tickets to Mountain Lake Park, Md., at rate of one fare for the round trip, on account of the Camp Meeting. Tickets will be good for return until July 16, 1897.

Less Than Half Rates to San Francisco.

On June 28, 29 and 30 and July 1, 2 and 3 the Lake Shore & Michigan Ry. will sell excursion tickets to San Francisco and return at less than half rates. Tickets will be good to return to leave San Francisco until August 9th.—Stopover privileges apply at certain points in the west both going and returning. For full information call on ticket agents or write to A. J. Smith G. P. and T. A. Cleveland, O., for pamphlet of information.

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that I, Rev. Arthur Wirick, a regularly ordained elder of the Progressive Brethren denomination, will meet the brethren at the Auburn Junction school house on the 2d day of July in the evening at 7 o'clock, 1897, for the purpose of organizing a class.

ARTHUR WIRICK, Elder.

Mrs. W. B. Campbell.

Anderson Herald.

Mrs. W. B. Campbell has returned from Centralia, Ill., where she has been doing institute work for the past week. She will be engaged at this work for another six weeks during the summer. Twenty applications for her at institutes have had to be rejected on account of a lack of time.

During the past week, Mrs. Campbell received an offer of the chair of psychology and methods in a State normal school in Missouri. The offer, though a very complimentary one, will not be considered.

Notice to Farmers.

Having purchased a thoroughbred short horn Durham bull, he will be for service at my farm.

A. D. MOORE.

ROBBERS AT GARRETT.

Last night Mayor Camp's residence was burglarized at Garrett. A few dollars in money and other small valuables were taken. No clue to the robbers.

CASTORIA.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Something Special in the Slaughter of

CLOTHING

July 1st, means the commencement of a REMARKABLE SALE, eclipsing all former sales on wearing apparel. One-Fourth Off Sales we leave to those who pattern after our successes. We, as leaders and price setters, will endeavor to attract your attention by a very decided reduction that means to you, not one-fourth off, but as low as one-third and one-half off on a great many things. The Dutchman's one per cent is worth looking after.....

Our Show Window will Display a Few of the Many Specials We Have for You at Prices Far Below the First Cost

The possibility of profit is a thing of the past on summer clothing, and room for stock of fall goods is the imyortant factor from now on. The cold weather has been decidedly against the Straw Hat trade, which causes completely demolished prices to make them move. We are making special prices on numerous things that are seasonable that is to your interestto inspect.

Our line of Boys' and Men's Suits that are worth and sell at $7.50, we are putting on sale $3.98

A Few Suits Worth $12 00, Special Price	$5 98
" " " 8 00, " "	4 48
" " " 6 00, " "	2 98
" " " 10 00, " "	4 88
" " " 5 50, " "	2 98
" " " 9 25, " "	5 12
" " " 7 25, " "	3 69
" " " 12 50, " "	6 18
" " " 11 00, " "	6 75
" " " 9 50, " "	4 68

Children's Short Pants Suits.

Suits Worth $5 50, Sale Price	$3 25
" " 4 50, " "	2 62
" " 5 00, " "	2 88
" " 5 50, " "	3 13
" " 6 50, " "	3 48
" " 4 50, " "	2 19
" " 3 25, " "	1 48
" " 5 00, " "	2 68
" " 4 25, " "	2 12

And Clothing through our entire line at the same Slaughter Prices.

This sale will only last a few days, as these prices will bring the desired result of a very perceptible lowering of our Summer clothing. Waiting for lower prices is time thrown away, for prices never can reach such a level again. July 1st opens the great sale that means a great saving to you and a result; produces for us your personal experience with us, and our discount sales demonstrates to you that they are just as we advertise. We buy nothing for special sales, but give you Seasonable Goods at less than cost price. See other people's stock, get their prices and then see what we can do for you.

G. H. YESBERA,

Auburn's Leader in Men's, Youth's and Children's Wearing Apparel.

DROWNED

While Bathing in the Creek Near Spencerville.

SPENCERVILLE, IND., June 29—(Special)—Frank Spitler, aged 22, son of Elias Spitler, two miles east of this place was drowned last evening while bathing in Cedar Creek near David Updike's two miles east of here. He and three of Updike's boys went bathing after supper. Spitler got in beyond his depth and strangled. The boys with him were quite young. The body of Spitler was soon recovered and taken home in the night. The funeral services will be held tomorrow.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Executors of the will of John Leas deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent. June 24, 1897.

WILLIAM H. LEAS } Executors.
HEZEKIAH K. LEAS }

BUTLER.

Our people like those of nearly every locality talk of celebrating the 4th of July.

The Wabash excursion over the Chicago division last Sunday proved a taking card, starting from Montpelier Ohio, they had nearly 1000 passengers when they left Hamilton.

Melrays Band of Butler picnicked at at Cold Springs last Sunday. The day was perfect and the occasion one of great pleasure.

The tramp spoken of in last week's notes, as being under the influence of liquor, proved to have been a respectable citizen of Logansport. His death took place last Monday, and nothing is known as to the cause of his death. His friends from Logansport came here to care for him but not until he had died. The incident was a very sad one. His remasns were taken to Logansport.

SEDAN.

The sick people in and around Sedan are recovering.

Sedan should have a street sprinkler.

Thomas Dilgard and wife visited in Sedan Sunday. Mr. Dilgard is employed in the shops at Garrett.

Willis Wheaton Sundayed in Ashley

Miss Edna Keynolds is on the sick list.

The grocery store of W. H. Crane was broken into on Thursday night, and good to the amounts of about sixty dollars taken.

Wheat harvest is about 2 weeks late in this vicinity, the clover hay is now being made and is one of the best crops for several years.

Geo. Morrisson moved on the south side last week. He occupies the Treeh house.

Will and Ira Casselman and Charley Schroeder and others made a trip to South Milford, yesterday on their wheels.

Mrs. Ira Crane spent a few days visiting in Auburn the latter part of the week. We are glad to note that her health is in improving.

Will Guthrie and Orrin DeLong made a trip to Kendallville yesterday.

Junction Social.

There will be a lawn social on Mrs. Powell's lawn at the Junction Friday evening, July 2, for the benefit of the new church at that place. There will be ice cream, cake, etc, and a pleasant social. All cordially invited.

The above cut shows the style of the Ladies WINNER Bicycle, except that we use the Plew Saddle instead of the one shown in the cut. It is one of the best bicycles in the country; an up-to-date Wheel, having Fush Joints, etc. Don't fail to see it before making your purchase, It is manufactured by the Auburn Cycle Co., and sold by .....

F. J. YESBERA, the Auburn Jeweler.

AT HIS STORE, AUBURN, INDIANA.

THIS IS NOT A

FIRE SALE!

Of goods that were burned in our store; but we have on hand altogether too much

SOAP

And must be SOLD AT ONCE, and in order to dispose of it we sell it at FIRE PRICES on Saturday, Monday, Tuesday,

July 3d, 5th and 6th.

The following well-known soaps will be sacrificed:

Sun Flower, Essex, Armours, Jaxon, Lenox, Globe, Etc.

The Low Prices which we quote on these goods will move them quick. We have 10,000 cakes, which will go for

ONE CENT CAKE and up

THE AUBURN FRUIT HOUSE,

BOTH TELEPHONES :-: AUBURN, IND.

Interesting Store News.

Visitors and homefolks tell us that no other store shows such a collection of desirable New Goods. That even metropolitan stores do not sell them so cheaply. Our Cash Buying and Cash Selling gives us an immense advantage, which inures to your benefit.

Do you know about our New Cyclone Summer Corset? It is the best and easiest fitting Summer Corset in the world. But don't take our say so for it. Try a pair, and your money back if you want. Price only 50c. Our La Mode Corset at 38c is a world beater.

Ladies' Tailor-made Suits and Skirts.

We enumerate a few items to get you to come. Ladies' Black wool and Novelty Skirts, lined throughout, bound with velvet, $1.29 to $4. Tailor-made wool suits, up-to-date, $5 to $12. Two-piece Lawn Suits stylishly made, well fitting, beautifully trimmed, $2 to $3.50.

Summer Underwear.

Ladies' Vests, Children's Vests, cool gauzy and comfortable. Vests with sleeves, vests without sleeves, vests with wings, in fact any style you want. Prices are 5c each up, and are cheap.

Shirt Waists

Neat, Chic, Dainty Designs, made to fit, made to wear, made for comfort, will wash and be the better for it. More than fifty styles to select from. Our 50c Waist is the Best.

Wash Dress Goods.

Seasonable Goods seductively priced. 28-inch Striped and Figured Lawns and Dimities, worth 12 1-2c yard; our price 8c. 30-inch Organdies, fine sheer fabrics, many stores sell at 15c; our price 10c.....

Our Stock of

Laces, Ribbons, Mitts, Belts, Fans, Shirt Waist Sets, Embroideries and Handkerchiefs is the largest in DeKalb County.

The Bishop & Lackey Co.

LEADING MERCHANTS.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE.

In the matter of the estate of Jane Tefft deceased.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court of the State of Indiana, at the March term 1897 thereof, the undersigned, as administrator of the estate of Jane Tefft, deceased will offer for sale at private sale, at the office of McClellan & Garwood in Auburn, Indiana, on

Saturday, July 10th, 1897, at 10 o'clock a. m the following described real estate, at not less than its appraised value. Same real estate is appraised at $1,550 00 to-wit:—

Lot number twenty-three (23) in the Western Additon to the Town of Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana.

TERMS:—One third cash at date of sale, one third in one year and one third in eighteen months, the deferred payments to be evidenced by promissory notes with six per cent interest waiving valuation and appraisment laws and secured by mortgage upon the real estate sold.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN,
Administrator.

Notice to Non Residents

State of Indiana, DeKalb, ss: In the DeKalb Circuit Court. May term, 1897. Hubert L. Sheets impleaded with another is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court, on note and in attachment by William Huffman and that the same will be heard and determined on the 16th day of August 1897, being the 7th juridical day of the next term of said court, which commenced May 1897.

Witness, the clerk of said court, this 18th day of June 1897.

MICHAEL E. LONG, Clerk.

Baxter & Brown, Attys.

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the County of DeKalb, State of Indiana, Executor of the estate of Frederick Rohm deceased, late of DeKalb Co.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

HENRY C. ROHM,
June 21, 1897. Administrator.

—Bucklen's Arnica Salve.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay repuired. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Wednesday's Daily.

W. B. Johnson, Newark, O., says: "One Minute Cough Cure saved my only child from dying by croup." It has cured thousands of others suffering from croup, pneumonia, bronchitis and other serious throat and lung troubles. Davenport, the druggist.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT:—It is a terrible accident to be burned or scalded; but the pain and agony and the frightful disfigurements can be quickly overcome without leaving a scar by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Davenport, the druggist

Some for ten, some for twenty, and some for thirty years have suffered from piles and then have been quickly cured by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve the great remedy for piles and all forms of skin diseases. Davenport, the druggist.

J. H. JOHNSTON,
DENTAL SURGEON,
Auburn - Indiana.
OFFICE OVER PIONEER HARDWARE STORE.
SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO PLATE WORK

F. W. HOFFMAN,
DENTIST,
AUBURN, - - - - - INDIANA
Office in Gandy building, northeast corner of Square.....
CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
Capital and Surplus $60,000.
Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest, if left six months. County and town orders bought and sold. Money to loan.
C. A. O. McCLELLAN, PRESIDENT
CHAS. McCLELLAN, CASHIER.

S. B. JOHNSTON,
DENTIST.
AUBURN - - INDIANA
Office, 25 North Main Street.
Most Difficult Operations, a Specialty.
Telephone No. 27, Western.

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS.
Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, Corner Main and Sixth Streets.
Professional Calls Promptly Answered.
Telephones: Western, 19; Central Union, 19
D. J. Swarts, M. D. Vesta W. Swarts, M. D

ALBERT ROBBINS, PRES. J. C. HENRY, V. P
FARMERS BANK.
—INCORPORATED—
AND UNDER STATE CONTROL.
Capital and Surplus $50,000
Transacts a General Banking Business and pays Interest on time Deposits.
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

CASTORIA.
The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

—Mr. Green of the firm of LaDue & Green, shippers of hay, left today for his home at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Mr. LaDue will remain here a couple of weeks and close up their business. These gentlemen have made their headquarters in Auburn since Jan. 1, and have shipped over $45,000 worth of hay. Of course this did not all come from DeKalb Co., but within a radius of forty miles from Auburn. The great Harvard and Yale races, come off on the Hudson river at Poughkeepsie tomorrow and Mr. Green will reach home just in time to witness them.

—John Dunn of Waterloo, has thanks for a fine contribution or his subscription.

—The chronic grumbler still lives, but there are less cases of chronic indigestion and dyspepsia than formerly. The fact is that so many people in the past have taken Simmons Liver Regulator that they are now cured of these ills. And a great multitude are now taking Simmons Liver Regulator for the same troubles and they'll soon be cured. "It is the best medicine." Mrs. E. Raine, Baltimore, Md.

—Our old friend M. Whetsel was in today and paid his subscription to June 11, '98. He is the kind of a man that helps our business along.

—Our popular tonsorial artist, Frank Fanning, and Miss Jennie Askew were married last night at the M. E parsonage, Rev. T. M. Guild officiating. The only witnesses to the ceremony were the bride's mothe and Major Kuhlman and wife. Mr. and Mrs. Fanning are two of Auburn's worthy and highly respected young people and are too well known to allow any words of praise from this paper. They will spend today at Lake Hamilton. The COURIER joins with their many friends in extending congratulations.

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs and timber. Highest cost prices paid for same. Address Lesh, Sanders & Egbert Co. Goshen, Ind. 40-50

—Dr. Baxter is paying special attention to Diseases of Children also Diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Nervous system. tf

Sick headache can be quickly and completely overcome by using those famous little pills known as "DeWitt's Little Early Risers." Davenport, the druggist.

Tuesday's Daily.

—Miss Minnie Finch of Corunna is visiting friends in the city.

—Ex-Auditor Tomlinson and family were in town yesterday, visiting his son George and other friends.

—Judge Best went up to Waterloo yesterday to visit the old neighbors a short time.

—Judge Adair came over from Columbia City on the morning train to be ready when court is called, to try the Fair case.

—The K. P. folks at Salem Center dedicated a new hall last evening in place of the one burned there a year ago.

—Readers of this paper will always consult their own interest and many times secure substantial bargains by perusing its advertising columns and business locals. It is the experience of everybody that the man who invites and seeks trade is the most liberal with whom to deal. This has become a fact so completely settled that no one now denies its truthfulness.

—Mrs Grogg is erecting a fine house on north Jackson-st. She will sell her property just north of town.

—Dr. Willard Swarts came up from Williamsport last evening and joined his wife here.

—Mrs. John Thomas and children of Topeka, Kan., are here on a visit. John is also expected soon.

—Twelve prisoners now confined at Michigan City will be pardoned by Gov. Mount. They are all in the last stages of consumption. Two are serving life sentences.

—Mrs. Elza Shaffer of Albion was here yesterday on her way home from a visit at Angola.

—Second hand machines.
1 McCormick Binder.
1 Champion "
1 Wood "
1 Pony Deering "
1 Champion mower.
1 Buckeye "
1 McCormick "
at bargain prices. Two of these binders and one mower almost new.
2t BROWN CULBERTSON & BOLAND.

—Miss Nannie VanAuken, daughter of F. B. VanAuken, is now deputy in the postoffice at Angola under George E. Young. She is a commercial graduate of the Tri-State Normal, and every way qualified for the position.

—Jennie Imler is visiting her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Imler west of town.

—Ed Beams, of Spencerville, was in the city Sunday.

Awarded Highest Honors—World's Fair
DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE.
A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.
40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

—Mrs. F. J. Yesbera went down to Peru this morning where she will be the guest of Mrs. Abright.

—Rev. Erloucher, Waterloo, took the train here this morning for Logansport.

—Messrs. and Mesdames Frank, Morris and Will Eckhart, Geo Boland and Miss Bishop, Tete Ashelman and Clara Stafford constituted a party who spent Sunday at Hamilton Lake.

—Miss May Lewis, of Butler, and Miss Eva Nichols, of Hicksville, have been visiting the family of Clerk Long a few days. Miss Nichols will return to her home early this week. Miss Lewis has returned to Butler and she with her family will start for their future home in California. Her father, Mac. Lewis, is already there.

—A Mr. Hogue fainted or had a fit on the public square Saturday afternoon. His wife was in the court room, hearing the trial, Judge Adair, announced that she was wanted outside, she arose from theadience and went out.

—An item appeared in the Fort Wayne papers that one Frank Long of the city had commenced suit against the W. H. Kiblinger Co., W. H. McIntyre president, for damages amounting to $20,000 for using a buggy cushion spring on which Long has a patent. The COURIER interviewed Messrs. McIntyre & Snyder and learned that as yet they had not been notified that such action had been commenced against them. They treat the matter with great indifference, and if action has been commenced against them, they will brand it only as a blackmailing scheme, instigated by a couple of the attorney of that city who wanted a job, and wanted it bad. The suit it is said has been brought in the United States court, Judge Baker presiding. As we understand it this court only convenes twice a year, and the June term has just closed. Of course further action must now be deferred to the December term.

—WANTED:—A girl or woman who understands general house work. Steady work and good wages.

MRS. A. G. LODEWICK,
Auburn, Ind.

—Work is getting more plenty at the Body Factory. Major Kuhlman thinks he's kicked over a can of prosperity.

—Mrs. W. B. Brown gives a tea this evening to a number of lady friends. It is in honor of Mrs. Kaley of Red Cloud, Neb., and Mrs. Lottie Cochran of Tucson, Arizona.

—John W. Baxter is home from his trip to Iowa. He left his brother slightly better, but his disease being an affliction of the spine, there is little hope of final reqovery.

—The catalpa trees in the public square are just coming into bloom. We only wish they would last longer.

—Joseph Seohler was here today and put his subscription way ahead as usual.

—John A. Cartrigh, of Delphi, and Mrs. Dr. Metz, of Ossian, brother and sister of Mrs. Oswald, have been here to visit her at her home with Mr. and C. E Emanuel. Rev. Charles Oswald, of Mt. Sterling, Ohio, has also been here visiting with them.

—"A. Swindle," is the name that appears over the office door of a struggling lawyes in an Ontario village. A friend of the unfortunate gentleman suggested the advisability of his writing out his first name in full, thinking that Arthur or Andrew Swindle, as the case migh be, would sound better and look better than the significant "A Swindle." When the lawyer, with tears in his eyes, whispered to him that his name was Adam, the friend understood and was silent.

—Editor J. E. Buchanan of the Albion New Era, was in the court room awhile this afternoon. His father, Albert Buchanan, is one of the juors.

—Mrs. Silma A. Lindby, of the Baptist Missionary Training School of Chicago, is the guest of Mrs. M. E Ehlers, for a few weeks.

—Miss Emma Hoff left at noon for a visit with friends at Perrysburg, O.

—Rev. C. W. Church, formerly pastor of the M. E. church, has been in town a few days calling on old acquaintances.

—Miss Lydia Teeters and Mrs. Richards, both teachers in our schools, started for Terre Haute to-day, to attend the State Normal there during the summer term. Miss Teeters will teach at Ashley next year.

—Excursions this year are well patronized. Sunday the Wabash main line ran one from Montpelier to Chicago, $1 round trip, and 529 passengers started from Montpelier.

—Fifteen passengers from Columbia City took the noon Wabash train today for San Francisco, where they will attend the National Christian Endeavor Convention. The fare from there one way is $26.

—Geo. Lilly and wife, of Hicksville, were in the city yesterday. They visited in the family of Mr. Platter, also Mrs. Geo. Clark.

—Miss Grace Zimmerman was in the city visiting her many friends. She left today for Maysville.

—Deputy Sheriff Platter left this morning for the Jeffersonville prison with Mr. Fusselman, who was sentenced to one year in the prison.

—Fine rain last night that comes very nice just now.

—Dr. A. F. Phillips, of Corunna, spent Sunday at Rome City the guest of Dr. C. B. Stemen and family of Ft. Wayne.

—W. S. Purdy and sons are putting down a new well for John Aber.

We have bought the stock of furniture owned by Lahnum Bros and have placed same on sale in our store at bankrupt prices. All other furniture goes at One Fourth regular prices. Come early and get the choice.

SCHAAB FURNITURE CO.

—The three prisoners, Borst, Sawvel and Dills, with their guard, Capt. Sutton, left today noon for Michigan City, after being here nearly a week. They have had quite a visit, but as their testimony was not likely he needed, it was proper for them to return.

—It always pays to advertise in the COURIER. Last week we advertised for a light jacket, and Monday Mrs. Obe Less, of Waterloo, brought it in.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Reed at Garrett are entertaining a new boy at their home. He arrived last Saturday.

—Prosperity is coming thick and fast in Fort Wayne. John H. Bass, manufacturer and banker, is finacially embarrassed. Sunday the announcement was made and was a great surprise.

—Mr. Housel of St. John in his testimony yesterday, was asked "how big a place is St. John? How many people?" He answered. "Well, taking all the people inside the town and outside, there are about 50." And everyone snickered.

—Prof. James Hoffman was in the city yesteoday. He left last night over the Wabash for Bloomington.

—John Clark and wife, and Alva Potter and wife drove to Pleasant Lake Sunday. They had an unpleasant trip home as the horse which they procured at a livery stable balked. It was 2 o'clock Monday morning when they reached home. They hired another horse at Waterloo.

Wednesday's Daily.

—May and Inez Rose started this morning for Minneapolis, where they will visit the family of Judge Best and other relatives They expect to be gone six or eight weeks. The COURIER and their many other friends, wish them an enjoyable summer vacation.

—Dr. Nusbaum writes us from Winfield, Kan., that he will be home Thursday, after which he will be glad to meet his patients.

—Stephen Lutz reports another freak in the chicken line. His neighbor, Amos Sebert, has a chicken, now several days old, that has four legs, the extra pair being back of the regular legs on which the chicken walks. The second pair seems to be useless as far as walking is concerned.

—W. H. McIntosh left today noon over the Wabash for LosAngeles, Cal.

Don't thin your blood with sassafras or poison it with blue-mass; but aid Nature by using DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, biliousness and stomach and liver troubles. They are purely vegetable. Davenport, the druggist.

—The wedding of Prof. M. W. Harrison of Wabash and Miss Bertha Yates, occurs this evening at Reading Mich. Miss Yates will be remembered as one of the teachers of our schools Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lanning are among the guests from Auburn.

—A couple gentlemen will open a short order lunch room and billiard parlor in the rear room of the Kiblinger building.

—Dr. S. B. Johnston and Dr. Hoffman went to Fort Wayne today to attend the meeting of the state dental association.

Don't neglect a cough because the weather is pleasant; before the next storm rolls around, it may develop into a serious difficulty beyond repair. One Minute Cough Cure is easy to take and will do what its name implies. Davenport, the druggist.

—Read the evidence in the Fair case. It will pay to keep this, as it is the sworn statements in some of the matters connected with the county troubles. The COURIER is the only paper that had a reporter present and its report is correct.

—Mrs. Lottie Cochran starts tomorrow morning on her return to her present home at Tucson, Arizona. She returns sooner than she had intended, as the extreme hot weather there makes it advisable to take her daughter Mary into the cooler mountain country for the hot season.

Not only piles of the very worst form can be cured by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, but eczema, scalds, burns, bruises boils, ulcers and all other skin troubles can be instantly relieved by the same

They "are dandies" said Thos. Bowers, of the Crocket, Texas Enterprise, while writing about Dewitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for sick headache and disorders of the stomach and liver. Davenport, the druggist.

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding, Ulcerated and Itching Piles. It also ba the tumors, allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and Itching of the private parts and nothing else. Every box is guaranteed. Sold by druggists, sent by mail for 50c and $1 per box.

WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props. Cleveland O. Sold by Fischler & Son.

Island Park Assembly

This popular summer meeting begins the 19th session at Rome City, July 19, and closes with August 2. It is the oldest western "Chautauqua," and has always been very popular. But the financial strain of the past two or three years went against its success, though it did not break it down. It has now been put out of debt, various improvements made, and an excellent program of summer work provided. We hope to see it have a successful season.

MARRIED.

On Sunday evening the 27th of June, at Dillon Chapel occurred the marriage of Mr. Ellsworth A. Eakright and Miss Etta I. Metcalf.

The Rev. D. Clark the pastor of the U. B. Church preached a short sermon after which Mrs Carrie McBride played a march while the happy couple marched up to the altar and in the sight of God and the congregation was pronouned husband and wife.

The bride was beautifully dressed in white cashmere, and held a boquet of roses in her hand. The groom was dressed in conventional black.

They were the recipients of many useful presents, consisting of silverware, glassware, china and table linen. Mr. Eakright is a popular and successful teacher of the public schools of Wilmington Township and the bride a well known young lady of Norris Chapel. They will go to housekeeping at once on their farm near Dillon Chapel. The best wishes of their many friends are for their great success and happiness in in life.

No Griping Or Pains,

Arrowsmith, Ill., Jan. 21, 1897.

Dear Sirs:—I have been bothered for 15 years with constipation and I have trid many preparations during that time. I commenced using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in the fall of 1895 and unhesitatingly say it is the best remedy I have ever found for my trouble. No griping or pains after taking Yours, etc.

F. E. Davenport WM. HURT.

—Ed Baker's bread wagon started out yesterday morning, and will make its regular rounds hereafter. He has call cards to supply his customers so they can hang them out when they need bread, pies, cakes etc.

The Junction Foundry.

Jacob Shull came back this week from Warsaw where he moved two or three months ago. He had gone there to stay, having employment in the Werntz Foundry at that place. But as we have already announced, he and Mr. Werntz have now purchased the Eagle Iron Works foundry at the Junction, he return to take charge of it. Mr. Shull is an experienced and skillful iron worker, having been engaged in foundry work many years.

So he is just the man to build up a good business there. He will soon have things ready to run, and when that announcement is made, will ask all who need iron work, or foundry work of any kind to call on him, and he will guarantee satisfaction.

To The Teachers of DeKalb Co.

On the third Saturday of July, an examination will be held convering the courses of study in the Indiana Teachers Reading Circle Any person successfully passing the examinations on the work of any four years will receive a diploma from the Reading Circle Board which will exempt him from examination in science of education and literature for life and professional license. Also an examination in the two Reading Circle books of the past year will exempt the applicant from examination in Literature and Science of Education for County License for the next year.

I earnestly hope that the teachers of the County will avail themselves of the opportunity to advance their interests in this matter.

Respectfully
H. E. COX, County Supt.

Splendid Success

has been had in cases of colic, diarrhœa, etc, by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. As a household remedy for such troubles it is invaluable. Buy a 10c trial bottle and you are bound to be convinced. To be had of F. E. Davenport. 30

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—in Effect Nov. 29, 1896.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations	Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne	11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 40
New Era	12 12 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junction	12 25	5 26	7 38
Auburn	12 29	5 30	8 37
Waterloo	12 41	5 41	9 24
Summit	12 52	5 52	9 46
Steubenville	12 56	5 56	9 50
Pleasant Lake	1 03	6 03	10 12
Angola	1 13	6 14	10 50
Jackson	3 25	8 35	4 30 pm

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations	Fre'gt	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson dp	6 30 am	11 25 am	7 05 am
Angola	8 25	2 19 pm	8 26
Pleasant Lake	1 03	2 28	8 38
Steubenville	....	2 38	8 43
Summit	1 26	2 39	8 46
Waterloo	2 25	2 55	10 00
Auburn	2 43	3 10	10 20
Auburn Junction	3 14	3 14	10 14
New Era	4 05	3 24	10 26
Fort Wayne	5 35	5 55	11 00

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on, or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent Auburn.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

PURELY VEGETABLE.

The cheapest, purest and best family medicine in the world! An effectual specific for all diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Spleen. Regulate the Liver and prevent Chills and Fever, Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice and Nausea.

BAD BREATH!

Nothing is so unpleasant, nothing so common, as a bad breath; and in nearly every case it comes from the stomach, and can be so easily corrected if you will take Simmons Liver Regulator. Do not neglect so sure a remedy for this repulsive disorder. It will also improve your appetite, complexion and general health.

CONSTIPATION

should not be regarded as a trifling ailment—in fact, nature demands the utmost regularity of the bowels, and any deviation from this demand paves the way often to serious danger. It is quite as necessary to remove impure accumulations from the bowels as it is to eat or sleep, and no health can be expected where a costive habit of body prevails.

SICK HEADACHE!

This distressing affliction occurs most frequently. The disturbance of the stomach, arising from the imperfectly digested contents, causes a severe pain in the head, accompanied with disagreeable nausea, and this constitutes what is popularly known as Sick Headache, for the relief of which take Simmons Liver Regulator.

EVERY PACKAGE

Has the Z Stamp in red on the wrapper.
J. H. ZEILIN & CO., Philadelphia.

—Rev. J. Frank Snyder was here today, working in the interest of the Island Park Assembly. He is now an M. E. minister but his old editorial habits and feelings come back to him easily, especially when he calls up the days when the Lagrange Democrat and Auburn COURIER "fought bled and died" in the same view of the same cause. We are always glad to meet him, and hope his present line of work may be pleasant and successful.

HUMPHREYS' VETERINARY SPECIFICS
500 PAGE BOOK MAILED FREE.
CONTENTS:
Part I.—Diseases of Horses.
Part II.—Diseases of Cattle.
Part III.—Diseases of Sheep.
Part IV.—Diseases of Hogs.
Part V.—Diseases of Dogs.
Part VI.—Diseases of Poultry.
Same book in better binding 50 cts.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

NERVOUS DEBILITY,
VITAL WEAKNESS
and Prostration from Overwork or other causes.
Humphreys' Homeopathic Specific No. 28, in use over 40 years, the only successful remedy.
$1 per vial, or 5 vials and large vial powder, for $5. Sold by Druggists, or sent postpaid on receipt of price.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

OUR THANKS ARE DUE

To the citizens of Auburn for the large trade enjoyed with them the past six months. It takes a mamouth establishment to carry a nice assortment of.....

Furniture & Carpets

You could put into our great establishment at least a dozen ordinary stores.

Why not buy your Furniture and carpets where you can have the advantage of ....

The Latest Styles,
The Lowest Prices,
The Biggest Assortment,
The Best Made Goods.

A round trip ticket costs you but little,; the trip you will enjoy, and you can save five times your expenses; we will pay the freight on your goods, and, best of all, you will not have goods your town's people have all looked over, but instead, something new and fresh that none of them have seen and which none of them have.

Everybody admits we have the finest Furniture and Carpet Store in the state of Indiana. We want....

You

for one of our customers.

Foster Furniture & Carpet Co.,
Fort Wayne, Indiana.

HONOR THEIR QUEEN.

LOYAL BRITONS SHOW LOVE FOR QUEEN VICTORIA.

Cheers Shake the Ground as She Passes in the Diamond Jubilee Parade—People from All Parts of the Earth Help Celebrate.

Wonderful Sight in London.

The crowning feature of the official celebration of the sixtieth anniversary of the coronation of Victoria as Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland has come and gone, and all London is congratulating itself upon the complete success of one of the greatest popular demonstrations of modern times. A religious service of brevity and simplicity, a royal pageant of unprecedented brilliancy, a mighty outburst of patriotism and evidence of personal love—these were the principal characteristics of the greatest day that London has ever seen.

The most stupendous pageant in history, a concourse of the millions from the ends of the earth, gathered to do honor to the queen and to add to the glory of her diamond jubilee parade, has filled its part without a hitch and without a flaw in all the marvelous effect. Most impressive, perhaps, of all the sights of the great day was the mighty multitude of people—spectators packed almost to the point of suffocation into every available niche of the six-mile route of the great parade. Eight million souls, representing every civilized and almost every savage nation on the face of the globe, shouldered and elbowed at every point of vantage, and the aged queen as she was borne amid the throng was given homage such as never Pharaoh nor Caesar received from the myriads of the olden time. The procession itself was the greatest, most magnificent, that ever passed between the ranks of admiring multitudes. It moved in three sections, consolidating as the division moved into Picadilly, while—fitting order of parade—the colonists of England's mighty empire led the van.

The procession moved from Buckingham Palace nearly on time. The roar of cheers that marked its course up Constitution Hill told the beginning of the story of the queen among her people, while the artillery in Hyde Park, by a royal salute of sixty guns, thundered the fact to waiting thousands elsewhere. The queen had actually started.

The procession was practically in three sections as far as St. Paul's, though the two last, en route to the cathedral, were consolidated as they moved into Picadilly.

FOUR GENERATIONS.

The scores of troops and companies were literally too numerous to mention except as a brilliant whole. It seemed like nothing so much as some stream of burnished gold flowing between dark banks of human beings gathered to witness its passage to a land of light.

Then the first part of the sovereign's escort rode into view, the Second Life Guards. As their well-known brilliant uniforms appeared the whisper ran electrically: "She's coming." The guards were soon succeeded by the escort of British and foreign princes. Many faces were known, recognized and cheered. This brilliant escort was composed of the flower of Europe's thrones. Following the princes came the Guard of Honor. A cheer broke forth that seemed to shake the ground, renewed again and again, as her majesty's carriage approached. The carriage in which her majesty rode now came abreast. It was built about a quarter of a century ago. The body was dark claret, lined with vermillion, the moldings outlined with beads of brass. Beside her majesty rode the Princess of Wales, opposite her majesty, her royal highness Princess Christian. On the left of her majesty rode his royal highness, the Duke of Cambridge, on the right, his royal highness, the Prince of Wales, who was followed by the Duke of Connaught, the general officer commanding.

Services at St. Paul's

The great bells of St. Paul's broke out in happy chorus as the queen's carriage started from Temple bar and only ceased as her majesty's carriage stopped in front of the steps of the cathedral. With the stopping of the queen's carriage the picture was complete and the swelling hymn that had risen on the summer air from five choristers of her majesty's chapel royal, Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's ceased its grand harmonies in one long-drawn soft "amen." The service was about to begin. The bishop of London, in full canonicals, read a short Collect, after which, as her majesty sat with bowed head, the archbishop of Canterbury announced the benediction. Then, amidst the further ringing of bells, the national anthem was sung, and the queen drove on into other scenes.

As her majesty entered the gates of the palace at 2 o'clock a distant gun in Hyde Park announced to so much of the world as was not before the gates that the great procession was over. The event so long prepared had passed into history.

THE QUEEN'S PROCESSION PASSING THE NATIONAL GALLERY.

M'KINLEY CONGRATULATES QUEEN VICTORIA.

PRESIDENT M'KINLEY sent the following personal letter to Queen Victoria, which was delivered to her by Mr. Whitelaw Reid, special envoy:

To Her Majesty Victoria, Queen of Great Britain and Ireland and Empress of India:

Great and Good Friend—In the name and on behalf of the people of the United States I present their sincere felicitations upon the sixtieth anniversary of your majesty's accession to the crown of Great Britain.

I express the sentiments of my fellow citizens in wishing for your people the prolongation of a reign illustrious and marked by advance in science, arts and popular well-being. On behalf of my countrymen, I wish particularly to recognize your friendship for the United States and your love of peace, exemplified upon important occasions.

It is pleasing to acknowledge the debt of gratitude and respect due to your personal virtues. May your life be prolonged and peace, honor and prosperity bless the people over whom you have been called to rule. May liberty flourish throughout your empire, under just and equal laws, and your government continue strong in the affections of all who live under it. And I pray God to have your majesty in His holy keeping. Your good friend.

WILLIAM M'KINLEY.

By the President: JOHN SHERMAN, Secretary of State.

SIXTY YEARS A QUEEN.

THE celebration of the sixtieth anniversary of the accession of Queen Victoria to the throne of Great Britain and Ireland makes pertinent a review of the career of this great and venerable ruler, this good queen and mother, whose life has been an example and an inspiration to her people.

The story of the sixty years of Victoria's reign cannot be briefly told. Its theater has been the world; its actors, in principal and auxiliary parts, the majority of the human race. And yet the personal history of the queen has been singularly uneventful. It is only when one reaches out to the peoples and countries, with which her government has had relations, and considers the duration and importance of those relations that one begins to realize the vast influence Queen Victoria has exercised over so many hundreds of millions of people.

Only three of Queen Victoria's predecessors ruled over fifty years. These were Henry III, fifty-six years; Edward III, fifty years six months, and George III, her grandfather, fifty-nine years. But during the last ten years of the latter's life his mind was weak and the virtual sovereign was the prince regent.

Sketch of Her Career.

Victoria Alexandrina, Queen of Great Britain and Ireland and Empress of India, was born at Kensington Palace, London, May 24, 1819. Her father was Edward, Duke of Kent, fourth son of King George III, and her mother was Victoria Mary Louisa, daughter of Francis, Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Saalfeld, and a sister of the late King Leopold of Belgium.

Before the present queen-empress had completed her first year her father died, leaving the care and training of the young princess to the Duchess of Kent, and so far as the adage, "How the twig is bent, the tree's inclined," is true, the training given the Princess Victoria must have been both good and wise. She was educated under her mother's watchful eyes and was grounded not alone in intellectual pursuits but on moral and religious principles.

On attaining her eighteenth year a grand ball was given in her honor at Buckingham Palace and for the first time, having reached her majority, she took rank of her mother. Within a month her uncle, King William IV, died and as he left no issue, the crown devolved upon Victoria.

The following day, June 21, 1836, she was publicly proclaimed queen, but it was not until June 28 of the following year that she was crowned at Westminster.

From the beginning she endeared herself to her people. She bore her dignities gracefully and manifested a sound judgment in dealing with affairs of state.

VICTORIA, SIXTY YEARS A QUEEN.

A new sense of royalty and admiration arose in the minds of the English people, for, it must be said, that the record of the House of Hanover, to which Victoria belongs, was very bad before her time, the kingly members of it when not corrupt being stupid.

In 1840 Queen Victoria was married to her cousin, Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha. The union was one of love and not of state policy and a happy and model union it proved. The English people did not take kindly to it at first. Although Prince Albert was a man of rare mental gifts as well as personal attractions, he failed in the beginning to impress his worth upon the subjects of his queen. They disliked him because he was not an Englishman. In Parliament the wise heads wrangled over the question of his naturalization, quarreled over his allowance, his place next to the queen, and over the bill to constitute him regent in case of the queen's death. They would not give him the title of Prince Consort until 1857. Four years after this Prince Albert died, Dec. 14, 1861, but by this time the nobleness of the man's character was established in the public heart and his death was deeply mourned in the court and in the nation.

Up to the year 1861 the life of Queen Victoria had been one of unbroken, tranquil happiness. Her mother, to whom she was deeply attached, was spared to enjoy a peaceful old age. Her husband was to her all that a devoted and loving companion could be, and their nine children were growing up, healthy, happy and dutiful. All that the world could grant, of wealth and honor, were hers, and her eldest daughter had been happily married to the heir of one of the most powerful kingdoms of Europe, Frederick of Prussia, a prince whose amiable virtues and intelligence added luster to his brilliant rank. In May, 1861, the queen lost her mother, and in December came a far greater blow in the death of the Prince Consort. The queen met her bereavement with that vehemence of grief so often manifested by those who have a life of unruffled happiness suddenly interrupted by a great sorrow. Her loss so preyed upon her mind that for a number of years she lived in absolute retirement, avoiding as far as possible all public and social duties, indulging her melancholy to the fullest extent. This spectacle of inconsolable grief amid the gorgeous surroundings of royalty produced a great effect upon the English people, and gave the queen a hold upon their affections which nothing else, perhaps, could have done and which remains to-day unchanged and unbroken.

Becomes Empress of India.

For fifteen years after the death of her husband the queen did not appear before Parliament. In 1876 she again appeared at the opening of that body, but did not attempt to read her speech as she had done in the earlier years. In April, 1786, an act of Parliament authorized her majesty to assume the title of Empress of India. In 1887 the jubilee of her reign was celebrated with much rejoicing, with processions, speeches and flags galore. A new coinage was adopted at the mint to commemorate the year. All the potentates, governments and great men of Europe showered gifts and congratulations upon the fortunate queen.

If the queen has set herself strenuously to any one task in her life it has been to maintain the purity of her court. Before her time the English court was not generally immaculate and the same was true of the continental courts. But the queen has changed all this. Her relations as wife and mother were a noble example of what true womanhood should be, and the very purity of her life shamed others into patterning after her. On the subject of court etiquette Queen Victoria is the most exacting sovereign in Europe. She insists upon the observance of every minute detail of ceremony, and the consequence is that every one who comes into contact with her has to be thoroughly drilled in the observance of "forms." As to her personal appearance the queen has herself said that she is "rather small for a queen," for she is but 4 feet 10 inches in height. But, despite that, she is, on occasions, a woman of extraordinary dignity.

Attempts Upon Her Life.

Although the queen, from the time of her succession to the throne, has enjoyed to the fullest extent the respect and affection of her subjects, no less than five attempts, all, fortunately, unsuccessful, have been made to assassinate her—the first in June, 1840, by a crazy lad named Oxford; another in May, 1842, by John Francis, who was sentenced to be hanged for the offense, but the sentence was commuted to transportation for life. The third was in July of the same year by one J. W. Bean, whose only punishment was eighteen months in prison; the fourth in 1849 by William Hamilton, an Irishman, who was transported for seven years; the fifth in April, 1882, by Roderick McLean, a Scotchman, who was ordered to be confined during her majesty's pleasure, and is, we believe, still in prison.

PRINCE ALBERT.

As nearly everybody knows, the queen is very fond of music, and whether she is at Windsor, Osborne or Balmoral she frequently invites distinguished musicians to entertain her. She is also an extensive reader and keeps well posted on the topics of interest. She is very considerate of others, and it was this consideration which led her ten years ago, or at the age of 68, to undertake the task of learning Hindustani. Like other royal personages, she is considerable of a linguist, speaking several of the European languages; but she is probably the only royal personage in Europe who has undertaken to master an Asiatic language. For this purpose she went under the instruction of an Indian teacher, and she undertook the difficult task in order that she might converse in their own tongue with the Indian royalties who from time to time visit England to pay their respects to their empress.

The queen is very wealthy, in fact, the wealthiest woman in all the world. During the sixty years that she has been on the throne she has been able to save from her civil list and the revenues of the Duchy of Lancaster sums, which, with interest added, now amount to close upon $100,000,000. She inherited from her husband property which is now valued at $25,000,000, and from time to time subjects die who leave her all or nearly all their property. It is estimated that her fortune to-day amounts to $150,000,000.

The Queen's Family.

Of the queen's nine children seven survive. These are Victoria, Dowager Empress of Germany and mother of Kaiser William II; Albert Edward, Prince of Wales; Alfred, Duke of Saxe-Coburg; Helena, Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein; Louise, Marchioness of Lorne; Arthur, Duke of Connaught and Beatrice, whose husband, Prince Henry of Battenberg, died of fever during the Ashantee war, in 1896. The Princess Alice, Duchess of Hesse-Darmstadt, died in 1878, and the Duke of Albany in 1884.

A list of her grandchildren and great-grandchildren would fill half a column. By marriage into the great reigning families her descendants will sit upon many of the leading thrones in Europe. Her grandson, Emperor William of Germany, is the most powerful monarch on the continent, with the possible exception of the Czar, and the latter is married to her granddaughter, Princess Alix of Hesse. Another granddaughter is Crown Princess of Roumania, her son Alfred is ruler of Saxe-Coburg, and a grandson is Grand Duke of Hesse-Darmstadt.

During the reign of the queen the domains of Great Britain have been greatly increased. In India there has been an increase of 80,000 square miles; in the rest of Asia, 200,000 square miles, and in Africa 1,000,000.

Notes of Current Events.

If a man hates to do a thing, it should not be his duty.

Mrs. Henry Scott of Chicago and Mrs. Maria Hay, formerly of Chicago, were killed by a runaway at Dubuque, Iowa.

Albert Sickmiller, Louis Sickmiller, Charles Faile and George Steinheider were run over by an Erie fast express near Mansfield.

During a volunteer parade at Liverpool the crowd, which numbered 100,000, overcame the handful of police, who were keeping order. The mounted police then charged and injured many, it is feared, fatally.

SENATE AND HOUSE.

WORK OF OUR NATIONAL LAWMAKERS.

A Week's Proceedings in the Halls of Congress—Important Measures Discussed and Acted Upon—An Impartial Resume of the Business.

The National Solons.

The tariff bill came to a halt in the Senate Friday, less than one page of the flax schedule being disposed of. The debate drifted into political channels. Late in the day Mr. Morgan proposed a sweeping amendment to place a 10 per cent ad valorem duty on all articles now on the free list, with a few stated exceptions. In supporting the amendment Mr. Morgan called attention to the singular fact that the income tax feature of the Wilson bill is not repealed and can be enforced by a change in the personnel of the Supreme Court of the United States. Bills were passed for public buildings at Cleveland, O., to cost $2,700,000, and at McKeesport, Pa., to cost $200,000. Owing to the interest in the Hawaiian annexation treaty Mr. Davis of Minnesota secured an agreement for the printing of 5,000 copies of the treaty and other documents.

In the Senate Saturday the Finance Committee failed to secure adoption of its report fixing the tariff schedule upon matting, bagging, jute fabrics and burlaps. The effect is to restore floor mattings manufactured from straw and other vegetable substances to the free list. These include the Japanese, Chinese and Indian mattings; also burlaps, jute grain bags and cotton bagging. This result was reached by Messrs. Carter and Hansbrough, Republicans, uniting with the opposition.

The Senate made giant strides on the tariff bill Monday, covering fifty-six pages. The last two schedules of the dutiable list, covering paper and manufactured sundries, were completed, with the exception of the paragraphs on hides, gloves, coal and some lesser articles, which went over. This advanced the Senate to the free list, which was completed in three hours. Early in the day the wool and silk schedules went over with an agreement that wool would be taken up Tuesday. After that the tobacco schedule, the reciprocity provisions and the internal revenue portions of the bill as well as the many isolated paragraphs passed over remain to be considered. The progress Monday was so marked, however, that for the first time there was a feeling that the end was not far off. The House, after the approval of the journal, adopted a bill appropriating $100,000 for the repair of dry dock No. 3 at New York. Mr. Dingley of Maine, from the Committee on Ways and Means, presented a favorable report on a joint resolution providing that foreign exhibitors at the Omaha exposition in 1898 may bring to this country laborers to prepare and have charge of exhibits. Two amendments provide that the Secretary of the Treasury shall fix the number of laborers to enter the country and that they shall leave the United States within three months from the termination of the exposition.

An exciting debate marked the consideration of the wool schedule in the Senate Tuesday. It led to a warm personal exchange between Senators Carter of Montana and Foraker of Ohio on the one hand and Mr. Allison of Iowa, in charge of the bill, on the other. Mr. Foraker asserted that an agreement concerning rates on certain wools was being violated and that under such circumstances every Senator would be free to act for himself. Mr. Allison declared he could not be driven by threats. Mr. Carter, who had aroused the storm, endeavored to have the paragraphs relating to carpet wools go over, but Mr. Vest objected. Mr. Teller of Colorado also spoke against delay. Aside from this interruption fair progress was made on the wool schedule. The duty on first-class wool was agreed to at 10 cents per pound and on second-class wool 11 cents, which is between the House and Senate rates in each case. The rates on third-class wools went over. Most of the other amendments related to the classification of wools. Mr. Jones of Arkansas spoke against the entire schedule as severely oppressive on the consumers of woolen goods.

After a contest lasting all Wednesday the Senate completed the paragraphs of the wool schedule relating to raw wool and advanced into the features relating to manufactured woolen goods. The day was devoted largely to a discussion of the effect of tariff rates on the price of wool, and the speeches were on technical lines in the main. Mr. Quay made a strong effort to have the House ad valorem rates on third-class wool adopted, but he was defeated—19 to 41. The committee rates were then agreed to, viz., 4 cents per pound on third-class wool valued at 10 cents or less per pound, and 7 cents per pound on third-class wool valued above 10 cents per pound. The schedule was completed up to paragraph 364, relating to cloths, knit fabrics, etc.

A stubborn contest over the duties on manufactured woolen goods occupied the attention of the Senate throughout Thursday. It was a day of constant roll calls and of cross fire debate on the effect of the duties in advancing rates. Many amendments were proposed to reduce the rates, but these were rejected by decisive majorities. Less than five pages were disposed of during the day, carrying the Senate through paragraphs 370, the first of the paragraphs relating to carpets. An air of gloom pervaded the House, owing to the death of Mr. Cooke of Illinois. The blind chaplain, in his invocation, referred feelingly to Mr. Cooke's death as a great public calamity. After the reading of the journal the Speaker announced the reception of an invitation from the Belgian Chamber of Deputies to the members of the House to attend the international parliamentary conference in favor of arbitration, which will begin Aug. 6. Mr. Foss of Illinois, on behalf of his delegation, then announced the death of his colleague, Mr. Cooke. The customary resolutions were adopted and a committee to attend the funeral was appointed, consisting of Messrs. Foss, Prince, Belknap of Illinois; Moody of Massachusetts, Updegraff of Iowa, Boyce of Indiana, Bailey of Texas, Hunter of Illinois and Dinsmore of Arkansas. Then, as a further mark of respect the House adjourned until Monday.

"Where It Ought to Be."

The late Cardinal Manning would occasionally, at the house of an intimate friend, throw over "the care of all the churches" for an hour and indulge in amusing reminiscences. One story he used to tell, though he himself was the butt of its humor, was of a sculptor who had attempted the cardinal's bust at Rome.

During one of the sittings the sculptor discoursed on phrenology, and Manning made him point out on the head he was modeling the supposed seat of the various organs or "bumps." At last Manning asked:

"Where is the organ of conscientiousness?"

The sculptor walked across the room to where Manning was sitting, and touching a certain part of the Cardinal's cranium, said:

"That's where it ought to be."

BETTER THAN GOLD

OVER FIVE THOUSAND NATIONAL, STATE AND PRIVATE BANKS IN THE UNITED STATES are constantly being supplied with our pens, which fact alone guarantees their excellence.

ARE THE STEEL PENS shown below, as are our Customers.

PATENT APPLIED FOR.

Cut of inkstand shows our Popular No. 3, Automatic. Write us, enclosing stamps, and we will send you sample pens and tell you how to get the above stand without cost.

THESE ARE THE STRONG POINTS:

DURABILITY,
QUALITY,
SMOOTHNESS,
UNIFORMITY.

Take No Substitute.

If your dealer cannot supply you, send to this office, enclosing price, and we will fill your order, and guarantee safe delivery.

Price, per gross (1 box) $ 1.00
" 1-2 doz. boxes, 5.40
" 1 doz. boxes, 10.00

W. L. MASON & CO.,
(INCORPORATED.)
MANUFACTURERS STATIONERS' SUPPLIES.
KEENE, N. H.

ESTABLISHED, 1848.

D. A. ALTICK'S SON,

Manufacturer of High Grade Buggies, Surries, Phaetons, &c.

We claim to build, not the CHEAPEST, but the BEST for the money.

All we ask is, a TRIAL ORDER.

Send for catalogue, and by mentioning this paper we will allow you an EXTRA DISCOUNT.

D. A. ALTICK'S SON,
LANCASTER, PENN.

The Chamberlin Improved Screw Stump Puller.

The only practical stump puller made, pulls any and all classes and sizes of stumps. Four different sizes always in stock. When you buy get the best. Manufactured and sold by the Chamberlin Manufacturing Company of Olean, N. Y.

Write for catalogue and prices.

Chamberlin Manufacturing Company, - Olean, N. Y.

Relay Bicycles

Have more points of merit, than any other High Grade Bicycle.

FULL OF GRACE AND BEAUTY.

Every Wheel Guaranteed. Send for Catalogue.

Relay M'f'g Co., Reading, Pa.

NATURE'S REMEDY

CURES IN THE RIGHT WAY, BY REGULATING THE LIVER AND KIDNEYS, AND PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

It is a positive cure for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, Chills, and all diseases arising from a diseased liver or the kidneys, or impure blood.

YOUR MONEY BACK Is the plan on which it is sold. If after taking the entire box of medicine you do not think you have had your money's worth, send us back the guarantee, which you will find in the box, and we will send you a check for $1.00 by return mail.

It is put up in two forms, powder and tablets. The tablets are the easier to take, requiring no mixing. Price $1.00 for 180 doses of either kind. Sent post paid upon receipt of price. Send 10 cents for ten days' treatment and copy of Nature's Guide to Health.

A. H. LEWIS MEDICINE CO., - Bolivar, Mo.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

Made This Change.

DO YOU suffer from Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emission, Shrunken or Undeveloped Organs, Youthful Errors, Excessive Use of Tobacco or Opium? Sent by mail on receipt of price. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

WE GUARANTEE to cure you or refund money, and we stand by our guarantee.

Sold at $1 per Box, 6 Boxes for $5.

Sold By Fischer & Son

WHY NOT BUY THE BEST?

Sterling positively will not injure your hands or the finest fabric. This has been proven by actual tests. Clothes washed with it become white and colorless. Matchless for flannels. Superb for glassware. Will remove stains from marble and make your floors white as chalk.

Try it that it may speak for itself.

$2.50 Cleveland ..TO.. BUFFALO

....Also Daily Line Between....

Cleveland and Toledo, Via "C. & B. LINE."

Steamers "City of Buffalo," (new) "State of Ohio" and "State of N. Y."

DAILY TIME TABLE.
Sunday Included Mar 30 to Oct 32

Lv Cleveland 7:00 p. m. | Lv Buffalo 7:30 p. m.
Ar Buffalo 7:30 a. m. | Ar Cleveland 7:30 a. m.

Central Standard Time.

Take the "C. & B. Line" steamers and enjoy a refreshing night's rest when enroute to Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, New York, Boston, Albany, 1000 Islands, or any Eastern or Canadian Point.

Cheap Excursions Weekly to Niagara Falls.

Send 4 cents for tourist pamphlet.
For further information ask your nearest Coupon Ticket Agent, or address.

W. F. HERMAN, Gen. Pass. Agt.
T. F. NEWMAN, Gen. Manager.
Cleveland, Ohio.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies. Especially recommended to married Ladies. Ask for DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler — Son.

JOB PRINTING

LETTER HEADS, BILL HEADS, CARDS, ENVELOPES, CIRCULARS.

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER

Beautifies and restores Gray Hair to its original color and vitality; prevents baldness; cures itching and dandruff. A fine hair dressing.

R. P. Hall & Co., Props., Nashua, N. H.
Sold by all Druggists.

Paid for His Joke.

A laughable but rather embarrassing case of mistaken identity occurred the other day in a large department store. A gentleman who is a little too fond of joking entered the store for the purpose of meeting his wife at a certain counter. Sure enough, there stood a lady, dressed, to his eye, at least, just like the woman he was after.

Her back was turned and no one was near her; so he quietly approached, took her by the arm and said in a voice of simulated severity: "Well, here you are, spending my money as usual, eh?"

The face turned quickly towards him was not his wife's; it was that of an acrid, angry, keen-eyed woman of about 50 years, who attracted the attention of everybody in that part of the store by saying, in a loud, shrill voice:

"No, I ain't spending your money or no other man's money, and I'll——"

"I beg your pardon, madam," cried the confused gentleman. "I supposed you were my wife, and——"

"Well, I just ain't your wife, nor no other man's wife, thank fortune, to be jawed at every time I buy a yard of ribbon! I pity your wife if you go about shaking her like you did me. If I was her, I'd——"

The chagrined joker waited to hear no more, but made his way out of the store, amid the titters and sly chuckles of those who had witnessed his confusion.

He Had "Fanned" Her Too Often.

Mr. Gadley—My dearest, in that dress, with that cluster of rosebuds in your hair and that dreamy, tender light in your eyes, you look as young as you did when I first saw you. It seems to me that every year brings some new charm, some additional grace to your manner. I tell you there are few women in the world who could retain the freshness, the beauty, the——"

Mrs. Gadley (wearily)—I had forgotten that the lodge meets to-night, Henry. Please be careful of the milk pitcher when you come up the steps in the morning, will you?

A HEALTHY WIFE

Is a Husband's Inspiration.

A sickly, half-dead-and-alive woman, especially when she is the mother of a family, is a damper to all joyousness in the home. I sometimes marvel at the patience of some husbands.

If a woman finds that her energies are flagging and that everything tires her, her sleep is disturbed by horrible dreams, and that she often wakes suddenly in the night with a feeling of suffocation and alarm, she must at once regain her strength.

It matters not where she lives, she can write a letter. Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., will reply promptly and without charge. The following shows the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, accompanied with a letter of advice:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I have suffered for over two years with falling, enlargement and ulceration of the womb, and this spring, being in such a weakened condition, caused me to flow for nearly six months. Some time ago, urged by friends, I wrote to you for advice. After using the treatment which you advised for a short time, that terrible flow stopped. I am now gaining strength and flesh and have better health than I have had for the past ten years. I wish to say to all distressed suffering women, do not suffer longer, when there is one so kind and willing to aid you."—MRS. F. S. BENNETT, Westphalia, Kans.

Who opened that bottle of HIRES Rootbeer?

The popping of a cork from a bottle of Hires is a signal of good health and pleasure. A sound the old folks like to hear—the children can't resist it.

HIRES Rootbeer

is composed of the very ingredients the system requires. Aiding the digestion, soothing the nerves, purifying the blood. A temperance drink for temperance people.

Made only by The Charles E. Hires Co., Phila.
A package makes 5 gallons. Sold everywhere.

DISCOVERY FOR CURE WHEN ALL ELSE FAILS. Most Certain Effect. Causes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. SAMPLES FREE.

FAIR SOUTH WOMEN.

TALENTED OFFICERS OF THE NASHVILLE EXPOSITION.

The Women's Department, of Which These Ladies Are the Head, Is One of the Most Admired Features of the Big Show.

Are Leaders All.

One of the most admired features of the Tennessee centennial exposition is the woman's department. In a picturesque building, which is an exact reproduction of Andrew Jackson's celebrated Hermitage, elegantly furnished and decorated, they have an exhibit, wherein is shown progress of woman's work, along artistic and educational lines, not only in Tennessee but in all parts of the world. The exhibit has been collected by systematic and organized effort on the part of Tennessee women, to which work none have contributed more than Mrs. Van Leer Kirkman, president of the Woman's Department; Miss Ada Scott Rice, Secretary; Mrs. Robert F. Weakley, Treasurer, and Mrs. Charles W. Grosvenor, Vice President for Western Tennessee. These women are not only foremost among exposition workers, but are also leaders in the social, literary and club life of the South.

THE WOMAN'S FOUNTAIN.

Mrs. Van Leer Kirkman comes from an old and honored Tennessee family. Her grandfather, Hon. Jacob Thompson, was a member of President Buchanan's Cabinet. The first four years of her life were spent in Cuba, and thereafter, until her marriage, she lived at Memphis. In that city she received her early education under the Episcopal Sisters of St. Mary, pursuing later a course of study at Fairmont College. At the age of 16 she was sent abroad for the completion of her education. Two years spent at school in Paris were supplemented by a year of travel through the principal countries of Europe. Shortly after her return to Memphis she made her debut in society, and from that time was an acknowledged belle throughout the South. At White Sulphur Springs, Old Point Comfort, and the charming resorts of the Carolinas, her unusual beauty and her graceful and winning manners won for her admiration on all sides. In 1886 she was married to Van Leer Kirkman, of Nashville, which city has since been her home. Her husband is one of the State's leading citizens. Mr. and Mrs. Kirkman have three sons, Van Leer Jr., Macon and Anthony Wayne. Their home—Oak Park—situated five miles from Nashville, is one of the most complete and beautiful country seats in the South, and here a generous hospitality has ever been dispensed.

Miss Ada Scott Rice is one of the women who make an instantaneous good impression on those who meet them, and the impression always lasts. She is a graduate of Ward's Seminary, the Vassar of the South, and her well-trained mind makes her a valuable officer. She has written numerous sprightly articles for the daily and weekly papers, in addition to performing her arduous duties as secretary. She lives at Nashville.

Mrs. Robert Forde Weakley is prominent in social circles and is ever engaged at the same time in works of charity, being one of the most indefatigable laborers in any cause which appeals to humanity. She was Miss Margaret Johnson, of Memphis, and married Robert F. Weakley, a leading business man. She now lives at Nashville.

Mrs. Charles N. Grosvenor, the vice president for West Tennessee, is a Memphis lady, a daughter of Napoleon Hill, of that city. She graduated with honors from Higbee School of Memphis, and later spent some time in Mrs. Reed's school in New York, pursuing special lines of culture. She has fine literary tastes, is a social leader, and closely connected with the club life of her native city. She is president of the Woman's Council of Memphis, the largest organization of women in the South, and occupies responsible positions in several other clubs and associations. Mrs. Grosvenor is petite in figure, has a piquant face, dark hair, and large expressive eyes of gray. Her manner is characterized by vivacity grace.

EIGHT WOMEN WHO HAVE BEEN ACTIVE IN MAKING THE TENNERSEE EXPOSITION A SUCCESS.

THE WOMAN'S STATUE.

A CITY IN A VOLCANO.

The Picturesque and Peculiar City of Saba, in the West Indies.

If you will take down your geographies and look on the map of the West Indies, you will notice, between the islands of Santa Cruz and St. Christopher, two small islets which, unless your map is an unusually large and complete one, will have no names given. These two islands belong to the Dutch, and the most northerly and westerly of them is called Saba.

The Dutch are noted for their odd and quaint customs and for their perseverance, Holland being sometimes called the "Land of Pluck;" but I doubt if anywhere in all their possessions have these curious people shown their queer and eccentric habits to greater advantage than in the little out-of-the way island of Saba.

The island is small, its greatest diameter being not over two and one-half miles, and it is nothing more than an isolated mountain-top rising out of the sea. The sides are very steep and high, rising in places for a sheer 2,000 feet. There is no harbor, no beach, no safe anchorage, and no large trees on the island. Although Saba has a population of over 2,500, yet you might sail all around it without seeing any signs of houses or settlements. If you wished to land, or "go aboard," as the Sabans say, you would have to do so on a shelving rock on the southern side of the island; and here you would find a steep, winding flight of stone steps leading up the rocky mountain side.

Following these steps, which number 800 and are called "The Ladder," you at last reach the top of the mountain, and looking inland, see a small grassy plain covered with neat white, red-roofed houses, the whole surrounded on every side by towering peaks and precipices covered with beautiful tree-ferns, bamboos, and wild plantains. This little town, the only one on the island, is known as "The Bottom"—a curious name, surely; but it is well named, nevertheless, for the plain on which it is built is nothing more than the bottom of the crater of an extinct volcano.

Descending the slope into this queerest of queer towns, you find the streets simply narrow paths walled with stone, higher in places than your head, while every inch of earth is cultivated with true Dutch thrift and industry. Here and there small patches of sugar-cane, yams and arrowroot are side by side with beans, corn and potatoes, with palm and banana trees rising over all. The population consists of whites and negroes in nearly equal numbers, while the blue-eyed and tow-headed children play with black-skinned and curly-haired piccaninnies; but all are Dutch in speech, manners and looks. The houses, shops, gardens—everything is Dutch.—St. Nicholas.

The Kind.

Fuddy—Between you and me, I believe my wife thinks more of the butcher than she does of me.

Duddy—You don't mean it!

Fuddy—I do; but I am not jealous.

Duddy—Not jealous?

Fuddy—You wouldn't be surprised if you knew what kind of thoughts she thinks of him.—Boston Transcript.

Cornstalk Pith.

The reason for the general use of this material as a lining for war vessels is found in its capacity for absorbing large quantities of water in a very short time. But the stalks cannot be all used in this way, and did it ever occur to you that the pith is just as thirsty for stable and barnyard juices as for salt water?

Same Thing.

"Susy cannot go to the art exhibition; the puppy has torn up her hat."

"Well, let her wear the red lamp shade; no one will know the difference."—Detroit Free Press.

COAL MINE RUN BY WOMEN.

Athletic Sisters Who Can Farm and Do Housework as Well as Dig Coal.

A coal mine run by women is an innovation in America. In sections of Germany, England and Wales it is a common thing for women to work in and about coal mines, although of late years this custom has been almost abolished in Wales.

In the Mahoney Valley, several miles southwest of Shamokin, Pa., lives Joseph Maus, a native of Germany, who is owner and operator of a coal mine. His four grown daughters and three younger girls help him in operating the colliery. Their father considers them the best slate pickers and workers in the anthracite region. He finds them dutiful, cheerful workers, and he never has any fears of their going on strikes for higher wages or from any imaginary grievances.

Mr. Maus superintends the mine and works at cutting out the coal. The oldest daughter, Katie, 22 years of age, performs the duties usually assigned to an outside foreman. She supervises the running of the breaker in a very satisfactory manner, and attends to selling the coal to the hundreds of farmers who live in the valley. Mary, 21 years old, has charge of the mules which hoist the coal from the interior of the mine by an old-fashioned gin. Anne, who is a pretty good mechanic, runs the pump that keeps the mine from filling up with water and feeds the boiler and engine that operates the machinery. Lizzie is the slate picker boss and is assisted by her three younger sisters and little brothers in clearing the coal of slate as it passes down the chutes into the storage pockets.

MARIE MAUS.

These energetic young women are fine specimens of womanhood and are stronger than the average man. They are almost six feet in height, and well proportioned, erect and weigh on an average of 200 pounds. They do not confine their muscles and lungs in corset and lace them into eighteen-inch waists, with the assistance of the bedpost, previous to going to work, and they are satisfied with the fine physical perfections with which nature has endowed them and are content to let nature have her sway which keeps them in perfect health and strength. They have never known a day's illness in their lives and a visit from a doctor is an unknown experience.

Their clothes are not of the approved new woman order, but are of serviceable material, the skirt just reaching the ankles. They wear stout brogans on their feet and take turn about helping their mother with the work on the farm and in the house. They are expert farmers and housekeepers. Mrs. Maus runs the farm and her husband claims it is a better paying investment than the coal mine. The girls work hard six days in the week and seem happy and contented with their lot.

Dr. Webb's Locomotive Searchlight.

Persons who happened to be in the Union Station yard last night about 10:30 were struck with the unusual brilliancy of the place. The reason for this was that the private engine of Dr. Seward Webb, the Nehasene, was in the yard with a new searchlight on its pilot, which threw a very powerful light on the track and the objects within its range. The searchlight is about the size of the ordinary light carried on the pilots of locomotives, only it is many times more brilliant. The power for the light is generated in a small dynamo operated independent of the mechanism of the engine. The engine was in charge of Engineer McFadden, who was kept busy explaining the light to a curious and interested crowd of railroad men. The engine was ordered to Utica, and left on its run at 10:30. The light is able to allow the engineer to discern objects distinctly at the distance of a mile.—Albany Argus.

Only a Little Premature.

"I can't hear a suit that isn't pending," said a judge to a young lawyer who was seeking advice.

"I know it isn't pending," replied the young man, in some confusion, "but it is about to pend."—The Green Bag.

A Gentle Hint.

Elderly Maiden—May I ask you what your name is?

"Huber."

"A beautiful name! I wish mine was like it."—Fliegende Blaetter.

A Faulty Rule.

There is a citizen in this town who has always experienced the greatest difficulty in fitting their proper names and identity to acquaintances whose faces he knows perfectly well. So marked is this failing that he has often been placed in exceedingly awkward situations, even with friends whom he has known for several years. Some time ago he hit upon what he considered a rather ingenious plan for finding out the name of the man to whom he was talking. After one or two safely commonplace remarks upon the weather or any not too personal topic, he would ask in an apparently casual manner:

"Well, how is business with you, now—pretty fair?"

It almost invariably happened that his unsuspecting companion would say something in reply which would reveal the nature of his occupation. This was all Mr. A—— wanted. As soon as he knew this particular, he knew his man. Many successful experiments with this method soon gave him a fatal amount of confidence in his infallibility. Fearless of detection, he put the same inquiry unblushingly on every occasion which found him unable to identify an acquaintance. Last week the shock came, and now his faith is sadly shaken by what he admits was a conspicuous failure.

Dropping into a seat in the cable car one morning he found himself beside a gentleman who greeted him familiarly, and proceeded to make inquiries regarding his family, which showed him to be a comparatively intimate friend. Mr. A——, knowing his face, but entirely at a loss for his name, merely awaited a good opportunity.

"And how is business with you now, brisk?"

His companion stared a moment, then laughed.

"I guess you don't know me, Mr. A——; now admit it."

"Well—I—why," stammered the other, awkwardly cursing his wretched memory, "you are——"

"Bishop L——. I think my business is about as lively as usual, you know."

A Call for Cats.

"I have come East to visit my relatives," said a Western man the other day, "but I shall attend to a little matter of a purely business nature while I'm here. I have a large ranch out in Oregon, devoted principally to the growing of wheat and other grain. For several years past our crops have suffered greatly by reason of the depredations of great armies of gophers that infest the country thereabouts. The nuisance has grown more and more annoying with each succeeding year, and we have finally decided that a stop must be put to it. Now, a cat is death on a gopher, but cats are not so plentiful in the West as they are here. So I intend to get together a couple of hundred cats and take them with me when I start for home. Out in my country cats bring fancy prices, but from my recollection of this locality, I should be able to get all I need for very little money."

Origin of Slang.

Slang is a word originally borrowed from the gypsy tongue, where it is used for the secret language of that race. In its generally accepted signification it denotes a burlesque of conversational language originally found only among the vulgar, but now employed by all classes. It is by no means of modern date, being well known in the classic ages of Greece and Rome, numerous instances occurring in the writings of Aristophanes, Terence, and Martial.

Ere the Farewell Is Spoken

On the deck of the steamer, or on board the train that is to bear you away from those dear to you, you will, if you are wise, have safely stowed away in your luggage a sufficient supply of that safeguard against illness—Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Commercial travelers, tourists and pioneer emigrants concur in testifying to the fortifying and saving properties of the great tonic. Use for constipation, biliousness, malarial and kidney complaints and nervousness.

Western Canning Factories.

A few years singe there was not a canning factory west of the Alleghany Mountains, but now they dot the prairies and plantations of the Mississippi basin, and are increasing year by year at a rapid rate. There has been a steady increase in the demand for canned goods. Their consumption was enormously increased by their low cost—so low, indeed, at present that there is no profit in the industry, which shares the depression common to business in general in recent years. In prosperous times the trade is a vast and profitable one, and is only in the first steps of its development.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is taken internally. Price 75 cents.

Mushrooms.

Mushrooms are found in immense quantities in the Russian forests. They form not only an important item in the diet of the peasant, but are also a considerable article of trade. There are some places the inhabitants of which exist entirely by the sale of mushrooms.

There Is a Class of People

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over one-fourth as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15c and 25c per package.

The Japanese language is said to contain 60,000 words, a symbol for each being required. A well-educated Japanese is familiar with about 10,000 of these symbols.

A stimulant is often needed to nourish and strengthen the roots and to keep the hair a natural color. Hall's Hair Renewer is the best tonic for the hair.

"Do you think Othello had any right to kill Desdemona?" "Certinly. Any woman who sobs in bed ought to be killed."—Philadelphia Press.

A list of Country homes along the South Shore of Lake Erie open to Summer Boarders will be mailed to any one enclosing a two-cent stamp to B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent of the Nickel Plate Road, Cleveland, Ohio.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

FITS Permanently Cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

More About the New Route to Toledo and Detroit.

The progress of modern railroad travel is so advanced we are sometimes bewildered in attempting to determine correctly in our minds how to reach even nearby points the quickest and with the greatest convenience. The new passenger train service on the Nickel Plate Road proves of greater benefit to the people of Fort Wayne and vicinity than many are aware of. The new fast Nickel Plate Express, No. 4, east at 3:22 p. m., makes sure and close connections at Leipsic Junction with a fast express train north on the C., H. & D. R. R., and lands passengers in Toledo same evening at 6:40 and Detroit at 8:40. This has proved an especially popular train for all points east on the Nickel Plate Road, reaching Cleveland at 8:40 p. m. and Erie at 11:33 p. m., with entire train through without change of cars by either first-class or second-class passengers, arriving in New York City the next day at 3:30 p. m. and Boston at 5:50 p. m., with corresponding convenience for all intermediate points. Luxurious Drawing Room Sleeping Cars and an unexcelled Dining Car Service. Other trains both east and west afford important advantages, including rates lower than via other lines. All trains daily.

Fashionable Stationery.

Square sheets of paper are now used by fashionable women, especially when having invitations engraved. The reading matter is written more closely together than formerly and plain envelopes are in vogue. The address in white ink is now stamped on gray or dark blue paper. Monograms are surrounded by Louis XVI. roccoco frames.

Ladies' visiting cards are now engraved with shaded letters, not unlike type printing.

Shake Into Your Shoes

Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder for the feet. It cures painful, swollen, smarting feet, and instantly takes the sting out of corns and bunions. It's the greatest comfort discovery of the age. Allen's Foot-Ease makes tight-fitting or new shoes feel easy. It is a certain cure for sweating, callous and hot, tired, aching feet. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores. By mail for 25 cents, in stamps. Trial package FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

Turpentine farmers in several of the Southern States protect their property against loss by fire during the summer by burning the grass and underbrush in midwinter.

ALL THE WAY FROM THE MISSOURI RIVER TO BUFFALO, THE WABASH RAILROAD OPERATES TRAINS OVER ITS OWN TRACKS.

Having leased the tracks of the Grand Trunk Railway between Detroit and Suspension Bridge, and those of the Erie R. R. from Suspension Bridge to Buffalo, the Wabash R. R. will run its own trains from Kansas City, Omaha, Des Moines, St. Louis, Quincy, Hannibal, Keokuk and Chicago to Buffalo, being the only road from Missouri and Mississippi River points having its own line and trains running into Buffalo. Through cars from Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago to Buffalo without change.

Intelligence is largely in knowing what we do not know.

An Artistic Brochure entitled "Summer Outings" is published by the Nickel Plate Road, describing vacation resorts along that line. Address B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., for a copy.

Tea, Coffee and Nerves.

Everybody in England drinks tea; morning, noon and night, and nervous diseases are consequently on the increase there. In this country we drink more coffee than the English do, with plenty of tea besides; and nervous diseases are on the increase here, too. Both these universal beverages are bad. They break down the health of habituating people to the effects of the poisonous principles they contain. The recent introduction of Grain-O, the new food-drink, designed to take the place of coffee (and why not tea?) is the beginning of a needed reform. Grain-O is made from pure grains, is harmless, nutritious, palatable, good for young and old, and one-fourth the cost of coffee. Try it and you will drink no more coffee, and have better rest and sounder health as rewards. Packages 15c. and 25c. of any grocer.

Calvary Clover.

St. Bartholomew the Great's parish in Smithfield raised $600 during Lent by the sale of pods of clover called Calvary clover. The leaves have on them a blotch like a spot of blood, and the pod when unwound looks like a crown of thorns.

Piso's Cure for Consumption is the only cough medicine used in my house.—D. C. Albright, Mifflinburg, Pa., Dec. 11, '95.

The Friend—Tryhard, the funny man, has a happy disposition. He never seems to be out of humor. The Enemy—I guess you haven't read many of his jokes.—Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune.

Women admiration win who use Glenn's Sulphur Soap to improve the skin.
Hiltz's Hair and Whisker Dye, black or brown. 50c.

The shiftless man is always away from home when a good opportunity knocks.

Located on the South Shore of Lake Erie contiguous to the Nickel Plate Road are many Country Homes that will accommodate Summer Boarders. Send to B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent of the Nickel Plate Road at Cleveland, O., and he will forward you a list on receipt of a two-cent stamp.

Japan has more hot springs than any other country in the world.

Was Soon Cured

Experience of a Batavia, Ill., Woman and Her Daughter.

BATAVIA, ILL.—"My little daughter had eczema very badly and the medicine she took did not help her. Then we began giving her Hood's Sarsaparilla and she was soon cured. I have also taken this medicine myself and it has relieved me of rheumatism and stomach trouble. I am thankful there is such a medicine as Hood's Sarsaparilla." MARY E. NETZEY.

Hood's Pills are the only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

NEBRASKA FARM LANDS. A dry healthy climate, free from malaria, an abundance of pure water, a soil which is unsurpassed for richness, and is easily cultivated, yielding all varieties of crops. That is what Nebraska offers to the home seeker. Lands are cheap now. Send for a pamphlet describing Nebraska, mailed free on application to P. S. EUSTIS, General Passenger Agent, C. B. & Q. R. R., Chicago.

AN OPEN LETTER To MOTHERS.

WE ARE ASSERTING IN THE COURTS OUR RIGHT TO THE EXCLUSIVE USE OF THE WORD "CASTORIA," AND "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," AS OUR TRADE MARK.

I, DR. SAMUEL PITCHER, of Hyannis, Massachusetts, was the originator of "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," the same that has borne and does now Chas. H. Fletcher on every bear the fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. This is the original "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," which has been used in the homes of the mothers of America for over thirty years. LOOK CAREFULLY at the wrapper and see that it is the kind you have always bought Chas. H. Fletcher on the and has the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. No one has authority from me to use my name except The Centaur Company of which Chas. H. Fletcher is President.

March 8, 1897. Samuel Pitcher M.D.

Do Not Be Deceived.

Do not endanger the life of your child by accepting a cheap substitute which some druggist may offer you (because he makes a few more pennies on it), the ingredients of which even he does not know.

"The Kind You Have Always Bought"

BEARS THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE OF

Chas. H. Fletcher.

Insist on Having The Kind That Never Failed You.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY

A GUARANTEE THAT'S GOOD!

We have thousands of testimonials, and are proud of the stories they tell of relief from many forms of misery. But the experience of another person may not be yours with the same preparation.

Cascarets CURE CONSTIPATION. 10c. 25c. 50c.

Sold on merit only under an absolute guarantee to cure, if used according to directions. Every retail druggist is authorized to sell two 50c. boxes Cascarets under guarantee to cure or money refunded. You take no chances when you buy our preparations, sent by mail for price, 10c., 25c. or 50c.—address STERLING REMEDY CO., Chicago, Montreal, or New York—or when you purchase under

ALL DRUGGISTS. 10c., 25c., 50c. Your Own Druggists' Guarantee.

"Forbid a Fool a Thing and That He Will Do." Don't Use

SAPOLIO

$75 $50 RIDE A CRESCENT BICYCLE. Western Wheel Works, MAKERS, CHICAGO ILLINOIS. CATALOGUE FREE.

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request. CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A.

DRUNKARDS can be saved without their knowledge by ANTI-JAG, the marvelous cure for the drink habit. Write ST. NOVA CHEMICAL COMPANY, 66 Broadway, New York. Full information (in plain wrapper) mailed free.

When Writing to Advertisers say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

PROGRAMME

.....OF THE.....

GRAND CELEBRATION

....TO BE HELD AT....

GARRETT

....SATURDAY....

JULY 3D.

....Read the List of....

AMUSEMENTS.

National Salute at Sunrise.

9:30 a. m. Industrial, Civic, Military, Firemen and a Red Hot Fantastic Parade.....

19:30 a m. Exercises from the Ross House Porch.....

Music by the Band.

Invocation.....Rev. Father Young
National Song.....Male Quartet
Declaration Independence .....Queen Frederick
Song (selected).....Male Quartet
Oration.....Rev. J. M. Haines
Song "America,"...Band and Audience
Benediction.....Rev. Thomas B. Kemp

After Dinner Sports.

1:30 to 3:00. Bicycle Races and Ball Game. .....

3:00 to 5:00 Foot, Wheelbarrow, Sack, Hurdle.....
Pie-eating and other Races on Randolph street.....

6:00 to 7:00 Prize Drill and Sham Battle by the Auburn Rifles and German Soldiers.....

7:00 to 8:00. Grand Band Concert, winding up with the finest and most spectacular.....

Display of Fireworks

Ever Shown in Northern Indiana.

Half Fare On All Railroads.

Trains Nos. 5 and 47, going west, will stop at Hicksville, St. Joe and Auburn Junction. Trains Nos. 6 and 46, going east, and will stop at Auburn Junction, and St. Joe and Hicksville.

LARGE ENGLISH BERSHIRES.

WATERLOO INDIANA, June 24, 1897:—For 30 days I will offer a few choice gilts with or without being bred, at $10 and $12. Young boars old enough for service $8 and $10. Choice pigs at weaning $5. Choice sow, to farrow October, $15

J. W. JACKMAN & SON,
Two miles east of Waterloo, Ind

Half Rates—Fourth July.

Excursion tickets at half rates will be sold by the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. at all stations on July 3, 4 and 5, to points within 200 miles of selling point, good returning until July 6th inclusive.

ZYCOPHORUS!

ZYCOPHORUS Is the latest, and greatest, scientific composition of medicines for the cure of all Kidney, Bladder, Sexual and Nervous Diseases. It is purely vegetable and has an immediate marvelous action. Hundreds have been cured by Zycophorus after the failure of all other methods. We do not offer a large reward for cases it will not cure, but give a written guarantee to cure or refund money. Cures all kidney and bladder diseases such as painful, dribbling, burning, or difficult urination, dropsical swellings, gravel, cystitis, albumen, sugar, mucus, blood, and other deposits and discharges, and such sexual and nervous disease is emissions, vital drain in urine, varicocele, impotency, impaired memory, weak back, melancholy, premature decline of the manly powers, etc. Renews sexual life in both sexes, and builds up the nerve and brain tissues. One package will prove its efficacy. Six packages guaranteed to cure or money refunded. Price per package, 50 cents, six packages, $2.50. For sale at drug stores or sent prepaid to any address onr eciept of price. Send for circular.

TILMAN CHEMICAL CO.,
Toledo, O.

I. O. BUCHTEL, HOMEOPATHIC Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to Chronic and Obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Madden Bros Marble Works, Auburn, Ind.- Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, day or night.

MATHENY & STAMETS,
Physicians and Surgeons.
OFFICE on 9th St., opposite Swineford House.
Calls responded to from the office at all hours of day or night.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

TWO BARGAIN EVENTS

Low Prices and Good Goods Make Crowded Stores.

The people of Auburn and DeKalb County have never before had such an excellent opportunity to buy merchandise at low prices as is now being offered by our enterprising merchants, The Bishop and Lackey Co. and Schaab Bros. The newspapers have been crowded with their ads quoting prices and bills have been distributed in every nook and corner, and if people have not heard of these two bargain events, it is not the fault of the merchants, but because they could not read.

A COURIER reporter had occasion to be on the streets at 5:30 this morning, and even at that early hour, we could see the ladies making their way for the store. The Schaab Bros. establishment was opened to the public by six o'clock, while the Bishop & Lackey Co. store, did not opened till seven. We have noticed during the day that they were both well patronized. People left with arm loads of bundles and from the expression on their face could be seen that they were well pleased with their purchases. Of course the rush necessitated many extra clerks and at the Bishop & Lackey store the helpers are:—Mrs. J. F. Aber Mrs. May Dills, Mrs. Gwinn, Mrs. Mary Beidler, Flora Stafford, Maud Trover, Gay Simons, Mary Teeters, Madge Lackey, and Messrs. Geo. Clark and Orval Kuhlman. At the Schaab Bros. store are:—Mesdames M. B. Willis, J. G. Clapp, Chas. Schaab, Geo Gregg, Moses, and Misses Mayme and Nellie Buckley.

TRAMP AND THE WATCH.

Here is a little story in one chapter, told us today by the father of one of the boys interested.

Yesterday John Pyle, east of town, discovered that a tramp had been to his house, and stole a watch. He at once began a search for the thief and also sent word for Sheriff Stroh. The sheriff started out at once. That was where he was when wanted in the court room as noted in yesterday's DAILY. But before Stroh got there the tramp had been caught by Joe Springer and Terry Ferguson and they had him safe and sound ready to turn over to the sheriff as usually happens. But before Stroh got near enough to take the man out of their hands, Mel Springer came running wildly across the fields. He had seen the capture of the tramp, from a distance, and plunged off across the fields to help the boys with the tramp. As Mel came bounding over the fields the sheriff just arrived took him for the tramp he was sent to capture, and began yelling for him to halt, Mel did not hear him and kept right on. Then there was war in the air. Stroh drew his revolver and flashed it wildly in the June sunshine and at one time there was danger that in his wild state he would shoot Springer through both hearts. But the flash of the bright gun attracted Mel's attention and he "hove to" just in time to save his liver. The tramp was soon after turned over into the sheriff's keeping. The officer at once proceeded to search him and found the watch. Then to make sure there was no other thing concealed, he made the tramp strip clean to his shirt and stand there to be stared at by the bystanders. At last he was "boarded up" again and put into the sherriff's buggy, and is now in jail. Stroh has the luck when he goes to arrest a man, to find him already arrested and ready to "iron."

In Memory of W. H. Trumbull.

TO CORUNNA LODGE NO. 248 K of P:—

We your committee to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our deceased brother, Willard H. Trumbull who departed this life June 12, 1897, do hereby submit the following:

RESOLVED, that in the death of Bro Trumbull, our lodge has lost a worthy and exemplary Pythian member.

RESOLVED, that the sympathy of the members of this lodge be extended to the widow, children and friends who are left to mourn his untimely death, and that we can but express the hope that some day they will be a reunited family on the other shore where parting is no more and sorrow never comes.

RESOLVED. that the charter of this lodge be draped in mourning for thirty days in respect to the deceased.

RESOVED, that a copy these resolutions be spread on the records of this lodge a copy be presented the family of the deceased and a copy be sent to the Indiana Pythian and to the county papers for publication.

Committee { M. J. THOMAS, O. F. RUDOLPH, EDWARD GUSHWA

COURT.

This morning the case of the state against Romeo Fusselman and Mack Richmond began. They were charged with stealing chickens last winter. Davis and Welsheimer prosecute the case and Gen. Blair defends them. The testimony so far goes to show that on the morning in question they were seen driving along the road early in the morning one day last winter, having a butcher's, wagon in which was something covered up. But none of the witnesses seems able to swear just what was in the wagon. It seems it was snowing about that time, and was quite early in the morning. The state had about half a dozen witnesses, and had finished its side by noon.

Afternoon, the defense began by calling witnesses to prove an "alibi," that is, that the two men were somewhere else, or at least in some other place where they could get no chickens Half a dozen witnesses swore they saw the two men at a dance that was held night, or they were playing cards. In this way they showed where the defendants were from 8 p. m. to 3 the next morning.

Blake's civil case comes up next Wednesday, at least is set for that date.

The McIntosh matter, as noted yesterday, will go to the supreme court. After having the 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th counts of the indictment quashed, the the state abandoned the first count. The grand jury may be called together again and that may result in a new indictment.

OFF FOR QUEBEC.

Mrs. Charlie Clapp and Mrs. R. L. Stone, of Albion, are off on a trip down the St Lawrence to Quebec. A letter from them has just been received by Nrs. G. H. Yesbera and Mrs. J. A. Barns, in which they speak in glowing terms of the beauties to be seen while going down the big river. The entire trip will take them about two weeks going out and returning. Of course the trip took in the famous "Thousand Islands," the rapids and the fine scenery along the shore.

Minneapolis and Return at Half Rates

Account of the meeting of the B. P. O. E. the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. will sell excursion tickets at all its stations to Minneapolis and return at half rates, plus 50 cents, on July 3 and 4, tickets good returning to leave Minneapolis until July 31st. Write to A J. Smith, G. P. and T. A. Cleveland, O., for pamphlet of information about this and other cheap excursions, or apply to ticket agents.

4th July Excursion.

On July 3, 4, and 5 the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. will sell excursion tickets at half rates at all its stations to points within 200 miles of selling station, good returning until July 6th inclusive.

CASTORIA.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

NOT SETTLED YET.

Hicksville is still undecided on the baptism question. We had hoped that the Hicksville people had once for all, settled which is the right way. But this time they have put it off a spell to wait for the "other fellow" who has just been nominated for congress in the 4th Indiana district, Holman's. If the late "Watch Dog of the Treasury," has settled this vexed question, he has not died in vain. We fear, however, that this dispute will keep right on, in spite of the great sacrifices made by Holman, and now making by his would be successor.

Depression of Spirits

so common in summer-time, accompanied by loss of energy, lack of thought-power, means a deficient supply of nourishment. The vital force is lost. It isn't a question of muscle and sinew, but of resistance and endurance. At any age, but especially in youth, it involves the risk of lung disease. Loss of flesh and a cough are threatening signs.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with the hypophosphites, meets these cases perfectly. It tones up, fattens and strengthens.

In Scott's Emulsion the taste of the oil is fully disguised, making it almost as palatable as milk.

For sale at 50c. and $1.00 by all druggists. SCOTT & BOWNE, Mfg. Chemists, New York

Commissioner's Proceedings.

Among the general work done by the board at its late regular and the following special session, we find these.

AUCURN'S RAILROAD.

The board granted the use of certain streets to the N. E. Ind. Ry. Co., to be operated by an electric overhead trolley. Trains not to run faster than 15 miles an hour on main runs and 5 miles on turns; must not be above street level, nor in any way be in way of street travel, except so far as necessary to run trains properly. It has use of highway between Waterloo, Auburn and Garrett. Must have signal lights on its cars after dark, must be built within six months. Conductors and motormen must exercise all proper care. The terms of the Board have been accepted by the company.

C. M. Meek's application for a liquor license, was refused for want of proper notice, and is appealed to court.

Licenses were refused to Lorenzo Spitler, and D. H. Dove in Concord township as a majority of the voters signed a remonstrance.

The Reuben Sawvell matter is settled. He has turned in property so that his bondsmen will not lose a penny. The final settlement was made today, and the bondsmen turned over to the county, the final amount due, $1,655.10.

—The J. D. Boyd ditch case has been under consideration several days, and to-day, Thursday was finally disposed of as far as the commissioners are concerned, by dismissing the case as it would cost more to have a review and then to construct the ditch than it would come to. So that ends it unless it is taken into court.

J. P. Crimmins was appointed assistant county assessor to help assessor Fred Schulthess.

Changes in voting Precincts were made in Keyser. Union and Smithfield townships.

Samuel Downend, of Keyser, asked the commissioners to locate a school house for him. As this can be done by the county superintendent only the Board dismissed the petition and referred him to that officer.

J. W. Brown reported a bridge in Wilmington unsafe. Matter under consideration.

The contract to doctor the poor, including those at the county farm, was let to the DeKalb Co. Medical Association for $900.

HIGHWAYS.

For a new road in Concord township, A. H. Mason, Jacob Shaffer and Mort Milliman were appointed viewers. Meet at 'Squire Woodcox's office, St. Joe, June 26.

For a road in Keyser, Alex. Provines jr., Jerry Davis and Phil Carper are viewers. Meet in auditor's office, July 20.

There was a remonstrance filed against the J. W. Zimmerman ditch in Smithfield. Reviewers were appointed: John Lowe, O. H. Taylor, F. D. Oberlin. Meet at source, July 27.

DITCH PETITIONS

Henry Rohm ditch in Grant and Smithfield, Frank Teeters, M. L. Hoffman and Issac Ditmars, are appointed viewers. Meet at source, July 6.

W. A. Dannels, Wilmington and Franklin. Viewers Daniel Tomlinson, Brent Maxwell and David Blaker. Meet at source, June 22.

Cyrus Maurer ditch, Union and Jackson. Viewers, James Platter, John H. Clark and Allen Shultz, meet at source, July 6.

Jacob Gunsenhouser ditch. Wilmington; viewers Daniel W. Baker, Henry Hull, Thomas Krise, meet at source, July 1.

John N. Clark ditch, Franklin, viewers, E. D. Case, Geo. Buchanan, Joel E. Thompson, meet at source June 31.

J. E. Plank ditch, Wilmington, viewers Samuel Widney, Robert Arford and J. E. Dermott, meet at source, July 9.

Mrs Boullion, 222 Crane St. Writes:

Dayton, O., March 12, '96.—'My baby is two months old and from her birth has had severe attacks of wind colic. I tried almost everything, but nothing gave her any relief until I got Dr. Hand's Colic Cure. I have used two bottles and would not do without it. It surely is the best colic medicine ever made." Dr. Hand's Colic Cure and all of Dr Hand's Remedies at Fischler & Son's. 1

An Old Road Wagon Made New.

And now another joke is taken away from the already heavily afflicted paragrapher and specialty artist. No more can either ring the changes on that time-honored old minstrel joke about the man who wanted to go to Chicago "the worst way," and was directed to the B. & O. station, for the work of straightening the curves, which were at once the delight and the horror of all through passengers on the "picturesque B. & O.," is about concluded, and the trip through the mountains no longer reminds one of crossing the English channel on a particularly rough day.

This will be welcome news to the general public and to B. & O. enthusiasts—people who would not take any other route to their destinations if the B. & O. would possibly serve them. These are mostly passionate admirers of natural scenery, to whom the gigantic panorama along the B. & O. route can never become stale. Indeed, why should it, when it is never twice the same? Scenery on a scale of such immensity is like the ocean in its susceptibility to change. Not only with the seasons, but with the days, does its beauty vary. And even through a summer day it is never the same scene an hour at a time. Like a kaleidoscope, which the slightest alteration in position occasions a totally new view, so the forests and the mountains along this scenic route assume wholly new appearances with every passing cloud and every weather condition.

Now that the exaggerated bugbear of the B. & O. curves has been finally disposed of, and its roadbed made second to none, the excellence of its equipment and the peculiarly "make yourself-comfortable—we'll-do-everywe-can-for-you" atmosphere which surrounds the traveler the instant he steps aboard a through train on this road will shortly double and treble the number of B. & O. enthusiasts. to whom the journey over mountains is less a journey than a pleasure.—The Pittsburg Star, June, 5, 1897.

NO PAY—NO CURE

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Chills and Malaria. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price 50c. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

Fifty Years Ago.

Who could imagine that this should be
The place where, in eighteen ninety-three
That white world-wonder of arch and dome
Should shadow the nations, polychrome...
Here at the Fair was the prize conferred
On Ayer's Pills, by the world preferred.
Chicago-like, they a record show,
Since they started—50 years ago.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills

have, from the time of their preparation, been a continuous success with the public. And that means that Ayer's Pills accomplish what is promised for them; they cure where others fail. It was fitting, therefore, that the world-wide popularity of these pills should be recognized by the World's Fair medal of 1893—a fact which emphasizes the record:

50 Years of Cures.

BOY LOST.

Last evening there was a great excitement over the prolonged absence from home, of little Leonard Trentman. Leonard is a bright little lad, and has never been known to go away without first asking leave. In this case, Mrs. Trentman missed him sometime in the afternoon, but believed he was some where not far away, playing with boys of his age, and as he was always careful to let her know if he was going away, she thought little of it. But as supper time drew near and he was still absent, a hunt began, and soon several excited persons were looking the town over. The family were greatly frightened, but about supper time the lad put in his appearance, greatly surprised at the uneasiness he had caused. He had been out with Wilson Feagler on the Feagler farm a short distance out of town, and had a good time, not stopping to think that his people did not know he would be home at supper time. His appearance brought rejoicing to the frightened family, but Mrs. Trentman was so nervous over it, that she hardly slept a minute that night.

A Great Comfort.

A mother's love is comforting, but if the baby suffers while teething, Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup is necessary to ease the discomfort and remove attending pains so that the baby may rest. "My baby was sick from cutting teeth; I bought Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup and found it very good for children teething. I can not praise it too highly. Mrs. J. E. Smith, Reams Station, Va." Dr. John W. Bull's Baby Syrup is sold everywhere for 25 cents. It is the best.

Sold by F. E. Davenport, Auburn.

None Equal to Dr Hand's Sneezy Mixture

Nelsonville, O., Dec. 20, '95—Dr. Hand—Dear Sir:—"I have been using your remedies for my children for over five years. I have used many other medicines but have found none equal to your. Have recommended Dr. Hand's Colic Cure to many others and persuaded them to try it; they all say it proves satisfactory. I am the mother of nine children and am never without a bottle of all of Dr. Hand's Remedies in the house." At Fischler & Son's 1

Milwaukee and Return—Low Rates

On July 3, 4 and 5 account National Educational Association meeting, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. will sell excursion tickets at all its stations to Milwaukee, Wis., and return at half fare, plus $2.00. Tickets good for return, leaving Milwaukee until August 31st. Apply to ticket agents or write to A. J. Smith, G. P. and T. A. Cleveland. O., for pamphlet of information about this and other cheap excursions.

THE JUNCTION FOUNDRY.

The Eagle Mfg. Co., plant at the Auburn Junction will be operated at once. Walter Hartman sold the factory to Oliver Werntz of Warsaw and Jacob Shull. Mr. Werdtz is proprietor of a first-class foundry at Warsaw, and the plant at the Junction will no doubt be a success under his management. They will manufacture hardware for wholesale trade and do general repairing.

Robbery at Sedan,

SEDAN, IND. June 25, 1897—(Special)

W. H. Crane's store and postoffice at this place was broken into last night. The entrance was gained through a window in the rear of the building. About $60 worth of jewelry, knives, shirts, neckties and money was taken. It is supposed to be the work of tramps

A JEALOUS SUBURB.

Note the following from the Butler Record, concerning Auburn. They are jealous over there because we have so many progressive men who are building new factories and railroads. Butler certainly is on the decline as residence can be rented there for from 75 cents to $1.50 a month:

"Our little neighboring town, Auburn, with less population than Butler is organizing a street railroad company. The track is to run through town and to Auburn Junction. It will be a nice thing for a few people, but will be one of the biggest white elephants Auburn people ever heard of. They are also talking of paving their streets. They are going to make the world think they are a city whether they are or not.

Good Showing,

We had neither time nor space til now to call attention to the good showing made in the auditor's annual settlement with the commissioners. In spite of all our troubles and expenses, it is shown that the debt has been cut down to a little over $45,000. The statements made for the past four years, show the net indebtedness of the county for each year:

June	1	1894	$58,395.09
"	"	1895	54,766.02
"	"	1896	54,322.58
"	"	1897	45,041 48

As these amounts show about the average debt for the years named, it should put a stop to the lying statements made periodically in various papers, that DeKalb's debt is "over $100,000." Yet we look to see this falsehood reiterated within two months DeKalb county's troubles, when she has any, are made worse by the lying and misrepresentation of irresponsible parties and papers.

Stands at the Head.

Aug J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best seller I have." J. F. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz. writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails and is a sure cure for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I cannot say enough for its merits Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century and to-day stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free trial bottles at, Robbins & McCord's Drug Store. 1

ASHLEY'S BIG TIME.

Last evening a new lodge of Masons, No. 614, was instituted at Ashley, and there were visiting brethren from Auburn, Waterloo and Butler to assist. After the regular work there was a big banquet, at which nearly 300 guests sat down, to a dinner in five courses. Altogether it was the grandest affair in the history of Ashley.

The work of the evening was done by the following:—Henry W. Mordhurst dept. grand master; Frank Sanders dept. grand senior warden; M. F. Long, dept. junior warden; Joseph Newnam, dept. g treas.; W. H. Leas, dept grand sec.; James Rollins, dept G. S. D.; Peter Whitman, dept. G. J. D.; Jont Hazlett and Elliott Masters were dept grand stewards; W. P. Carpender dept g marshal; A. L. Belyea, tyler.

Among the amusing features of the occasion was what happened to Clerk M. F. Long. He had kept insisting he could not go unless he could have a new hat (or bonnet.) They took him at his word and got an Ashley milliner to get him up a hat in the latest Paris fashion and at the banquet presented it to him in a formal speech, to which he responded. He expressed great pleasure to learn that the ladies were so glad to see him, that they got him a new hat. It was noticed that he emphasized the word "new." But they made him wear it, ribbons and all. All in all, the "brethren of the mystic tie" bring away many pleasant memories of their trip to Ashley. And we are led to believe the jovial county clerk keeps that piece of millinery on exhibition in the office and will be pleased to show it to his friends.

ELECTRIC BITTERS.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any person, but perhaps more generally needed in the Spring, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. Only fifty cents per bottle at Robbins & McCord's Drug Store.

CASTORIA.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER Absolutely Pure.

Celebrated for its great leavening strength and healthfulness. Assures the food against alum and all forms of adulteration common to the cheap brands. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

Bashful man,
Timid maid;
Lonesome road,
Who's afraid?
Starlight night,
Balmy air;
Man and girl,
Young and fair;
Horse and cart,
Tight and snug;
Girl can drive,
Little hug!
Beating hearts,
Oh, what bliss!
Stifled scream,
Little kiss.
Home at last,
Dark as jet,
One more hug,
Day is set.
Bashful man's Perfect cure;
Timid maid's
Got him sure.

—Sam Fry in N. Y. Sun.

There is no Word so Full of Meaning

and about which such tender recollections cluster as that of "MOTHER"—she who watched our helpless infancy and guided our first tottering step. The life of every Expectant Mother is beset with danger.

"Mother's Friend"

so assists Nature in the change taking place that the Expectant Mother is enabled to look forward without dread to the hour when she experiences the joy of Motherhood. It insures safety to both Mother and Child, and she is found stronger after than before confinement—in short, it "makes Childbirth easy," as so many have said. Don't be persuaded. Use nothing but

"Mother's Friend"

"My wife suffered more in ten minutes with either of her other two children than she did altogether with her last, having previously used four bottles of "Mother's Friend." It is a blessing to anyone expecting to become a mother, says a customer." HENDERSON DALE, Carmi, Ill.

Sent by Mail, on receipt of price, $1.00 PER BOTTLE. Book "To Expectant Mothers" mailed free, containing valuable information and voluntary testimonials.

THE BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA. SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

William's Kidney Pills

Has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. Have you neglected your Kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your Kidneys and Bladder? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, groins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire pass urine? William's Kidney Pills will impart new life to the diseased organs, tone up the system and make a new man of you. By mail 50 cents per box.

WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props., Cleveland, O.

Sold By Fischler & Son.

"Complete Manhood AND How to Attain It."

A Wonderful New Medical Book, written for Men Only. One copy may be had free, sealed, in plain envelope, on application.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., 60 Niagara St., BUFFALO, N. Y.

MADE ME A MAN

AJAX TABLETS POSITIVELY CURE ALL Nervous Diseases—Failing Memory, Impotency, Sleeplessness, etc., caused by Abuse or other Excesses and Indiscretions. They quickly and surely restore Lost Vitality in old or young, and fit a man for study, business or marriage. Prevent Insanity and Consumption if taken in time. Their use shows immediate improvement and effects a CURE where all other fail. Insist upon having the genuine Ajax Tablets. They have cured thousands and will cure you. We give a positive written guarantee to effect a cure in each case or refund the money. Price 50 CTS. per package; or six pkges (full treatment) for $2.50. By mail, in plain wrapper, upon receipt of price. Circular free. AJAX REMEDY CO., 19 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

Sold by F. E. Davenport, Auburn.

LIFE VIM VIGOR VITALITY DEATH

RESTORED IN 30 DAYS GOOD EFFECTS AT ONCE

NOW THEN

CATON'S VITALIZER

Cures general or special debility, wakefulness, spermatorrhœa, emissions, impotency, paresis, etc. Corrects functional disorders, caused by errors or excesses, quickly restoring Lost Manhood in old or young, giving vigor and strength where former weakness prevailed. Convenient package, simple, effectual, and legitimate.

CURE IS QUICK AND THOROUGH.

Don't be deceived by imitations; insist on CATON'S Vitalizers. Sent sealed if your druggist does not have it. Price $1 per pkge, 6 for $5, with written guarantee of complete cure. Information, references, etc., free and confidential. Send an statement of case and 25 cts. for a week's trial treatment. One only sent to each person.

CATON MED. CO., BOSTON, MASS.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Volume XXVII | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, July 8, 1897. | Number 27.

DON'T KICK!

But buy a good Thomas Tedder to do that for you. After it is kicked enough. then use a Rock Island Hay Loader to load it. The most important thing to do is to buy them of

Brown, Culbertson & Boland,

Cash Hardware Store, where can be found Binder Twine CHEAPER than any place in Northern Indiana

Free to the Ladies from the oldest and most reliable Tea House in the country.

A lady friend has sent us her photograph, displaying what she has earned from us—a watch and chain, dinner set and toilet set. We have produced her photograph, showing exactly what we are giving with Tea, Coffee, Spice and Baking Powder orders; and not only are premium of high grade, but the quality of our goods is such that the people want them, making the business pleasant and profitable. Square treatment has made the best ladies of the country our friends It is them specially that we ask to write us for particlars. Address,

LIMA TEA CO., Lima, Ohio

SOME ALLOWANCES.

And the Courier, Always Faithful to the Taxpayers, Makes Timely Comments.

We have had little opportunity till now to comment on any allowancs. But there are so many questions asked that we take notice of a few.

Many ask how it is that we find under the head "Stationery," so many little items allowed to men who are neither stationers nor printers. The facts are, the items claimed by these men, are usually for postage, or express they have furnished.

The bills of the printers proper were quite light for the last quarter, if we except that of Burford, which is $430.-11 while all the home offices together, only get $63.65. Who is there that believes Burford can honestly show bills for $2,000 to $3,000 a year?

The commissioners refused to let Burford have the contract for printing the coming year, as the law gives each county officer the control of the printing for his office. This may perhaps, result in giving the home printer a better chance. We shall see.

We see the sheriff gets $229.90 for "criminals." This should have been given in a better form so people could see what it is for. If it is for boarding criminals, then at the rate of 40 cents, a day it would board 575 criminals one day, or one criminal 575 days, or an average of 5 criminals for 115 days. It needs explanation. The cheapest officer is the coroner, who has a charge of only $11.90 for the quarter.

COURT EXPENSES.

Here are items that could and should, be made plainer:

A. E. Davis gets $7.51 for "expense." What expense?

John West gets $89 for "guarding court house." This is a new thing. What was the matter with the court house that it had to be guarded 89 nights at $1 a night, or 44½ nights at $2 a night? West was city Marshal all that time and every month drew his full pay of $65. Did he do $65 worth of work on the streets each month while working 89 nights every night. Was the work on the streets actually done? Was the night watching at the court house actually done? If yes or no, how did he get two salaries at the same time? It will bear explaining.

Again there is pointed complaint about the large fees allowed to attorneys who helped for and against the cases, etc. These certainly seem too high. Each case ought to be given separately so people could understand them, and then perhaps there would not be so much gambling. People have a suspicion of bills that are not itemized. Let every bill be given in separate items.

This objection is also made to the sheriff's account as riding bailiff How could he have a bill of $142.50 as riding bailiff at $2.50 a day? This would give him 57 days. At the same time he gets $72 "per diem" which we suppose means attending the sessions of court, at $2 a day. Who remembers seeing the sheriff in the court room 36 days? It will harm no one, and relieve many minds to have these things made clear. For the 57 days and 36 days together make 93 day. And it is well known that court is now opened and closed, mainly by Bailiff Crew; sometimes by Deputy Platter. Never by the sheriff, as far as we remember noticing. The only good that comes of paying an officer for work he does not do, is that it swells the receipts of his office, and after there is enough to pay him, the overplus is turned back into the treasury.

And this reminds us that there is another good side, thanks to a democratic law. The fees of several offices have now accumulated so that the office itself begins to pay a revenue to the county. We will try and get this in shape to publish soon, as we believe every officer should have credit for his good showing.

Jury fees have been very large lately, but this could not be avoided in the crowded condition of our recent court business.

The fees paid Expert Ernst are also large, but this is now over and he will not be needed again, we trust.

There are two allowances of $11 each to the Dispatch and Record, for making a set each of bar dockets. Look over that bundle of small books and see if it can be done for $11. We think the price too small. Compare the work it takes, with that of an attorney who helps in one case in court. No attorney has a bill as small as $11. There is one, which looks quite reasonable, that is put in at $20. We feel free to talk of this, as we are of the "outs" and don't get to make the dockets. We feel free to talk of all these items, as this is not a political year. It is a matter of business whether the money of the people is properly used or not

The Perfect Pill

Perfect in preparation.
Perfect in operation.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills

Perfect post-prandial pill.
Perfect for all purposes.

THE PILL THAT WILL

Something to Know.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centers in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c and $1.00 per bottle at Robbins & McCord's drug store. 2

OBITUARY.

Willard H. Trumbull was born in Hudson Tp., Lenawee Co., Mich., Oct. 1, 1858, died June 2, 1897, at Montgomery, Mich, aged 38 years, 8 months and 11 days.

His early life was spent on his fathers farm. He workek his way through the Academy of Medina, the Hudson High School, and the Fayette Normal School, teaching at intervals during this time. About eight years ago he entered the service of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern R R at Corunna, working four years as baggage man, when he was promoted to the position of station and freight agent and day operator. This position he filled with satisfaction for three years. Then his health failed him and he went to Montana to find a cure for consumption. He was benefitted for a time, but not permanently. He returned to Michigan about two months ago, where he died at the home of his brother.

He was married August 4, 1892 to Miss Flora Husselman, of Corunna. To this union were born one son, Clarence; in 1893, and twin girls Grace and Blanche, in 1895, all of whom are still living. He was a kind, loving husband who desired to live to educate his children. But in God's providence it was not to be. A short time before his death he signified to his friends that he had made his peace with God.

His remains were taken to Corunna, Ind., where the sermon was preached by Rev. Geo. A. Kemp, from Josh. 1-11 and the burial service was conducted at Fairfield Center, by the Corunna Lodge K of P, of which he was an honored member.

He has gone but he still lives in the hearts of many relatives and friends who had learned to love him and for whom he is now waiting.

"There is no death, the stars go down
To rise upon some fairer shore
But, bright in heavens jeweled crown,
They shine forevermore."

Besides a wife and three children he leaves an aged father, one sister and three brothers to mourn his untimely death. May the Heavenly Father help them to bear this sad bereavement and to trust thpt he has been called from a life of usefulness to a nobler work on high, and may they all be ready to meet him in our Father's house.

Horrible! Horrible!

Innocent children by the thousand are constantly dying of diarrhœa whose life might be saved. How quickly the lemon works! Flesh speedily wastes away as though subjected to fire. You try change of water, and change of food and change of air. The handiest and quickest and safest thing you can do is to procure at once a bottle of Dr. Hand's Diarrhœa Mixture, at any drug store, for 25c. It's wonderful how quickly it brings good results. Fischler & Son.

ECHOES OF THE FOURTH.

(Times-Herald)

Frankie, o'er a box of fireworks,
Lighted his little cigarette;
The box came down in thirty minutes,
But Frankie's waiting "up there" yet.

* * *

Sammie found a silver quarter
Bought with it a rocket big,
Lit it when he hadn't "orter"
A hole for his remains they dig.

* * *

"Pshaw! I'll show" said Willie Wimple,
"How to touch the blamed thing off"
Design for Willie's tombstone's simple
But the epitaph is tough.

* * *

Over a great big keg of powder,
Smoked he his first cigarette;
There may have been reports much louder,
But Willie's not done smoking yet.

* * *

Johnny while he played with fireworks
Told his chums a funny story;
And they said his life departed
'Mid a perfect blaze of glory.

* * *

Tread ye lighthtly, little playmates,
Willie, he has gone before;
He didn't know the gun was loaded,
Hence the crape upon the door.

* * *

Bobbie took a piece of gas pipe
Filled it full of dynamite
With a large stone he struck it;
His remains were found next night.

* * *

Ernie's pa bought him a rocket
Warranted a mile to fly,
Ernie lit it in his pocket
And sailed up into the sky.

* * *

Freddie had a little gun,
Loaded with powder and lead,
Blew in the muzzle "just for fun."
Golden streets he doth now tread.

* * *

Come, dear comrades, gather 'round him,
He was a boy of greatest worth.
The verdict given when they found him,
Died of too much "glorious Fourth."

Two Accidents.

Friday's Daily.

At the mill of Lockwood Brothers, at the north end, yesterday, some of their children were playing among the piles of lumber, when one of the piles fell over onto them. A four year old boy was caught under the pile and his right leg jammed and bruised. But Doctor Swarts, who attended him thinks no bones were broken, and the lad is getting along all right.

Nettie Jones a daughtes of Zeke Jones on the Avenue, came near having a serious accident this forenoon. She was working at canning fruit when in some way, not explained, she cut her wrist on the broken edge of the top of a can. Dr. Swarts was sent for, as the wound bled profusely, and took quite a number of stitches in the wounded wrist, and she is now doing well.

GROUND AND LOFTY.

Friday's Daily.

Two Auburn boys did a brilliant act of ground and lofty tumbling last evening. Charles Schaab and Eddie Little were out on the streets with their wheels and coming down Main-st in the uncertain light saw the street nearly blocked at the Sebring building. There is a big tub of water in front of of the building as a new cement walk is being made. A farm wagon was going along the center of the street and a buggy on the west half. So the boys not noticing the big tub, pushed for the east side at full speed. Charlie struck the tub squarely "amidship" flew clear over the top, making his wheel a total wreck. Eddie struck the side of the tub, knocked the pedal off and ruined his front wheel. Both the boys were bruised more or less, but not seriously hurt.

The Grandest Remedy.

Mr. B. B. Greene, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business, and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottles free at Robbins & McCord's drug store. 2

BE YOURSELF.

Would a rose smell sweeter by some other name?
If you called it a lily, would it not smell the same?
Would its fragrance be richer if you called it a pink?
Would a rose, a rose better be? what do you think?

If a man has a niche in this round world of ours
Can he learn a lesson from the queen of flowers?
Had he better be himself, and honor his name?
Or feel mighty big if his friends give him fame?

If his name is John Jones, had he better stay "John,"
Than to buy up a "Rev." or scheme for an "Hon."
Had he better not know his neighbors or friends,
Except when he needs votes or good recommends?

Ho! Honest Old Abe! and Geo. Washington too!
And James A. Garfield! and a host like you!
We cherish your memories, we honor your fame,
Because you were great, and kept your own name.

In this free-lighted land, let a man never think
That a rose will be sweeter if he calls it a pink,
Or that he will be better, if there comes to him fame.
By shunning his neighbors, or changing his name.

J. G. PLOWMAN.

HUMPHREYS'

No. 1	Cures	Fever.
No. 2	"	Worms.
No. 3	"	Infants' Diseases.
No. 4	"	Diarrhea.
No. 8	"	Neuralgia.
No. 9	Cures	Headache.
No. 10	"	Dyspepsia.
No. 11	"	Delayed Periods.
No. 12	"	Leuchorrea.
No. 14	"	Skin Diseases.
No. 15	Cures	Rheumatism.
No. 16	"	Malaria.
No. 20	"	Whooping Cough
No. 27	"	Kidney Diseases.
No. 30	"	Urinary Diseases
No. 77	"	Colds and Grip.

Sold by Druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price, 25c., or 5 for $1.

DR. HUMPHREYS' HOMEOPATHIC MANUAL OF DISEASES MAILED FREE.

Humphreys' Med. Co., 111 William St., N. Y.

Changes For Health.

Changes for health often bring sickness. This is the time of year when people are changing from the city to the sea shore and mountains, mostly in search of health and strength. The sudden change of air, of habits and water, almost invariably upsets the system at first and if the vacation cannot be prolonged, frequently results in more harm than good.

We advise that those who are soon arrive at your new abode, make a direct line for the drugstore and procure a bottle of Dr. Humphreys' Specific No. 10, to keep the stomach right and a bottle of No. 4 for summer complaint. With these two remedies at hand, you will be benefited by the change from the very beginning and not lose a single day.

Ask your druggist for a copy of Dr. Humphreys' Manual, or send direct to Humphreys' Medicine Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

The above specifics cost 25 cents each and can be mailed anywhere.

Wabash Line.

GOING EAST.

No. 2	5:53 am—Daily
No. 4	7:37 pm—ex Su
No. 70 (local freight)	3:00 pm—ex Su
No. 6	2:03 pm—ex Su

GOING WEST.

No. 5	7:27 am—Daily
No. 3	7:10 pm—Daily
No. 71, (local freight)	9:55 am—ex Su
No. 7	12:00 pm—ex Su

All these trains stop for passengers.
For rates, tickets, time tables, etc. apply to
I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind
Chas. M. Hays, V. Pres. and Gen'l Manager.
G. S. Crane, Gen'l Pass'r and Ticket Agen

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—in Effect Nov. 29, 1896.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations	Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne	11 45 am	4 45 pm	8 40
New Era	12 12 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junction	12 25	5 25	7 58
Auburn	12 29	5 29	8 37
Waterloo	12 41	5 41	9 24
Summit	12 52	5 52	9 48
Steubenville	12 56	5 56	9 50
Pleasant Lake	1 03	6 03	10 12
Angola	1 13	6 14	10 50
Jackson	3 25	8 35	4 30 pm

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations	Fre'gt	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson dp	6 30 am	11 35 am	7 05 am
Angola	12 25	2 19 pm	9 26
Pleasant Lake	1 03	2 29	9 36
Steubenville		2 36	9 42
Summit	1 26	2 39	9 46
Waterloo	2 25	2 55	10 00
Auburn	2 53	3 10	10 20
Auburn Junction	3 14	3 14	10 14
New Era	4 05	3 24	10 26
Fort Wayne	5 25	3 55	11 00

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent Auburn.

B. & O. R. R.

Schedule In Effect Nov. 22 '96

Leaves Auburn Junction.

WEST BOUND.

No. 3 Express, to Garrett only	8:53 p m
No. 15 Daily	2:00 a m
No. 5 Daily	4:30 a m
No. 7 Daily	4:18 p m
No. 17 Daily Except Suday	12:25 p m

EAST BOUND.

No. 4 Express	4:30 a m
No. 6 Daily	8:05 p m
No. 8 Daily	2:40 p m
No. 41 Daily	11:41 p m
No 16, Daily, except Sunday	12:25p m

D. B. MARTIN, Manager of Passenger Traffic.
G. H. YOUNG, Auburn Junction, Ind

HIGH GRADE WORK GIVES THE CONSUMER SATISFACTION,
Consequently is best for the Dealer to handle.

A Full Line of BUGGIES, SURREYS, PHAETONS, ROAD WAGONS, &c., &c.

Send for Catalogue and Prices.

All Work Guaranteed.

We also Manufacture DOVETAIL BODIES AND GEARS IN THE WHITE.

DOVETAIL COMPANY
CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND.

FACTORY, Cor. Oak & College Sts.
SALESROOM, 214 E. Main St.

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

SEE THAT THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE —OF— Chas. H. Fletcher IS ON THE WRAPPER OF EVERY BOTTLE OF CASTORIA

Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk. Don't allow anyone to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose." See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

1897. JULY. 1897.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
•	•	•	•	1	2	3
4	5	6	7	8	9	10
11	12	13	14	15	16	17
18	19	20	21	22	23	24
25	26	27	28	29	30	31
•	•	•	•	•	•	•

F. Q. 7th. F. M. 13th. L. Q. 21st. N. M. 29th.

DOINGS OF THE DAY.

SUMMARY OF THE NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Eventful Happenings in Every Hemisphere—Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Politics, Religion, and Commerce, Sandwiched with Minor Affairs.

GIGANTIC STRIKE.

Nearly 85,000 Men Thrown Out of Employment.

Pittsburgh special: As the result of the failure of the joint wage conference of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers and the manufacturers to agree upon the scale at the Youngstown conference, all the union mills are closed down and between 75,000 and 85,000 men are idle. This includes the skilled workmen and those depending upon them. President Garland has returned from Youngstown. When seen he said he was not discouraged at the outlook, but looked for a settlement after the annual repairs at the mills have been completed. The employes of Jones & Laughlin met and discussed the proposed 28 per cent. reduction in wages, which, it is said, is contemplated. It is said that the meeting reported unfavorable upon the proposition.

Torpedo Boats Up the River.

A special from Washington to the New Orleans Times-Democrat says: A fleet of ten torpedo boats will be sent up the Mississippi River as far as Dubuque some time this summer. The object is to show the people in the larger cities along the river what modern boats of their class are like. None of the torpedo boats draw over six feet of water, and they can easily make the trip without much fear of being grounded. The fleet will leave Newport about July 15 and go direct to New Orleans. It will then start on its journey up the Mississippi River. The department officials desire to discover how much work the boats are capable of doing, and think it is better to find out in time of peace rather than in war.

Engine Explodes.

Chicago special: Five men were injured by the explosion of the engine of an incoming suburban train on the Chicago and Northwestern Pacific Railway at Morgan Park, while the train was going at full speed between Morgan Park and One Hundred and Thirteenth street. The injured are:

John Fogg, engineer, terribly bruised and scalded, probably fatal.

John Lathshaw, fireman, crushed and scalded, will die.

Three men, names unknown, residing at Blue Island, bruised, will recover.

Disease Helps Cubans.

Havana special: Disease among Spanish troops in Santiago de Cuba has been so severe that when General Weyler ordered the movement into the interior against the rebels, the only soldiers available were convalescents. All over the island disease among the Spanish troops is increasing at a fearful rate. Out of the 1,000 men in the Vegara batallion in Pinar del Rio, nearly 700 have been rendered unfit for service by malaria and dysentry. The hospitals in Havana are crowded to overflowing.

Schweinfurth Going South.

"Schweinfurth," the so-called "Messiah" of Rockford, Ill., has just returned from Benton County, Arkansas, where, it is reported, he contracted for the purchase of 2,000 acres of unimproved land of Senator Blackburn, with the view of removing his protoges from Illinois and establishing one of his heavens there. People in that section are greatly excited over the matter.

No More News for Reporters.

Madrid special: Seno Canovas del Castillo, the Spanish Premier, and the Duke of Tetuan, the Minister for Foreign Affairs, have had a long conference on the subject of latest news from the United States. The Premier has notified the reporters here that he will not give them any news hereafter, on the ground that they publish it in a form calculated to influence the stock exchange.

They Cannot Fight.

Superintendent McKelvey of the Brooklyn police has instructed the police not to allow the Sullivan and Fitzsimmins sparring match at Ambrose Park under any circumstances.

Ohio Man Killed.

William James, formerly of Bainbridge, Ohio, died recently at McLean, Ill., from injuries received in a runaway. His remains were taken to Bainbridge for interment.

Columbus Guards to Go to Chicago.

The Seventeenth United States Infantry, stationed at Columbus, Ohio, will take part in the Logan monument unveiling at Chicago July 22.

Lightning's Fatal Work.

The house of George Copeland of Cadillac, Mich., was struck by lightning and his wife's sister and her little child were instantly killed.

Cashier Pleaded Guilty.

Charles B. Zeschau, receiving teller of the German American National Bank of St. Paul, Minn., who pleaded guilty to stealing several thousand dollars from the bank, was sentenced to eight years in the State Prison.

Will Be Held in Columbus.

Gen. Rosecrans, President of the Society of the Army of the Cumberland, authorizes the announcement that the next annual reunion of the socity will be held at Columbus, Ohio, September 23 and 24, next.

Corn Salt Crop Report.

A special crop report covering 600 points in southwestern Iowa, Nebraska, northern Kansas and northwestern Minnesota is issued by the C., B. & Q. Railroad. Corn is growing rapidly under a warm sun and small grains, with the exception of winter wheat and oats, promise well.

Fanatics Are Driven Back.

The troops have attacked the fanatics who hold the town of Canudos, and forced them to retire to their entrenchments. A correspondent at Montevideo telegraphs that the Government has negotiated a further loan of £4,000,000 with English capitalists to meet war expenses.

BATTLE IN CHURCH YARD.

Texas Scandal Results in Two Dead and One Wounded.

One of the most sensational tragedies ever enacted in north Texas took place in the Methodist Church in Pleasant Valley during the services Sunday. As a result Augustus Garrison and Frank Jones are dead and Thomas Jones probably fatally wounded. The Garrison and Jones families are among the most prominent planters in that section of Texas. They own adjoining plantations and had been on the best of social relations for many years. Frank Jones had been partial in his attentions to Garrison's daughter. Recently the girl charged him with having ruined her under promise of marriage. Mutual friends succeeded in keeping the men apart until Sunday. Garrison and the Jones family worship at the same church. Just as the preacher had read his text Garrison stepped to the doorway, and the congregation was startled by a fusillade of pistol shots. Nearly a dozen were fired in about as many seconds. When the firing ceased Augustus Garrison and Frank Jones were lying dead in front of the church steps and Thomas Jones was stretched on the lawn near by, probably fatally wounded. Thomas Jones says he and his brother Frank were approaching the church door and were within ten feet of it when Garrison appeared and opened fire. His brother Frank was hit by the first discharge. Thomas drew his pistol and shot Garrison, but not until he had received three bullets from Garrison's pistol.

IOWA DEMOCRATS NAME WHITE.

Indorsed for Governor by the Populist and Silver Republican Conventions.

Following is the ticket named at Des Moines, Iowa, Wednesday:

For Governor.....Frederick E. White
For Lieutenant Governor, Benjamin A. Plummer
For Supreme Court Justice..L. G. Kinne
For Superintendent of Public Instruction..... G. F. Reinhardt
For Railroad Commissioner..S. B. Crane

Frederick E. White and Judge Kinne are Democrats, Plumber and Reinhardt, silver Republicans, and S. B. Crane, candidate for Railroad Commissioner, is a Populist. The ticket really represents the combined work of three separate and distinct conventions, but on account of the provisions of the antifusion law which was passed by the State Legislature the Democratic convention had to nominate it primarily and the Populist and silver Republican conventions indorsed the action of the Democrats. Fifty-three middle of the road Populists, headed by Messrs. Weller and Weeks, bolted.

SOUGHT TO SLAY FOUR.

Chicagoan, Crazed by Jealousy, Tries to Butcher a Whole Family.

William H. Copp, crazed because of the estrangement of his wife, tried Monday at Chicago to exterminate the family of her venerable father, Dr. Andrew C. Rankin, a prominent physician and a war comrade of Gen. Grant. In the fierce duel of the men, witnessed by trembling and injured women of the household, the father-in-law received a razor slash across his throat, making a serious wound. A bullet from the doctor's revolver would have reached the madman's heart had it not been for the heavy folds of a reconciliation compact Copp had brought in his pocket for his wife to sign. At a dramatic pause in the conflict rescuers broke through the locked doors and saved Copp's victims from further injury. Their assailant was locked up at Woodlawn. The doctor's wife and Mrs. Paul Hermes, a daughter, were severely cut and bruised. Mrs. Copp was not at home.

COMES INTO PORT ON FIRE

Passengers on the City of Rome Have an Anxious Time for Five Hours.

There was an exciting battle with fire on the Anchor liner City of Rome, which came into New York Sunday evening. It was a struggle in which a resolute and self-possessed captain and a well-drilled crew showed to great advantage, and the 296 passengers who are safe from the dire peril of flame and wave heartily extol the brave work of the hardy mariners. The fire appeared on board when the vessel was nearing the end of her journey from Glasgow, and for five toilsome hours the crew fought it manfully, while throughout that thrilling period the passengers stood in excited groups about the boats, which had been swung out ready for lowering.

JAPS ACT THE HOG.

Foreigners Forbidden to Live in the Interior of Formosa.

According to news received in Europe, the Japanese seem bent on ruining all trade industry in Formosa. For they have applied to the island the same barbarous and uncivilized law that prevails in Japan, prohibiting foreigners from living anywhere in the interior, restricting them to certain seaports on the coast. In Formosa the whole of the trade and industry is in the hands of the Chinese, who number nearly 4,000,000, and who are now being expelled as fast as possible from the interior.

Details of a Hot Fight.

Advices received from Santiago province give further details of the fighting during last week around Gibara and Banes, between insurgents and Spanish forces. The advices state that the insurgents under Gen. Calixto Garcia and Col. Torres, numbering between 5,000 and 6,000 well-armed and equipped men, attacked both of the seaports simultaneously, but met with a stubborn resistance from the Spaniards, who had been advised of their coming, and were prepared to resist attacks. The demonstration against Banes, which is less than ten leagues distant from Gibara, on the north coast, was merely a feint by the rebels to divert attention and draw the Spanish forces from Gibara, which was the point really to be attacked, and which they knew had been strongly fortified and garrisoned. The ruse was partially successful, and Garcia, with his forces, entered Gibara. His success, however, was only of short duration, as he was subsequently driven out after a hot fight, during which many were killed and wounded on both sides. Gen. Gomez has planned his summer campaign and put it in operation. Already columns of thousands of well-armed men, under efficient leaders, have been distributed throughout Matanzas, Havana and other provinces.

Wage War on Leprosy.

An international conference on leprosy will take place in Berlin in October, and will remain in session at the offices of the imperial health department from Oct. 11 to Oct. 16. The principal purpose of the congress is to bring about an international agreement for the scientific treatment of leprosy, and it will be attended by the leading experts and specialists of Great Britain, France, Russia, India, Japan and Italy.

Only to Loyal Spaniards.

Leading Havana newspapers commenting on Canovas' Cuban reform bill, insist that according to its provisions the franchise will be extended to loyal Spaniards only and will exclude Cubans who bore arms against Spain and those suspected of having aided or abetted the revolt.

Wrecked by Dynamite.

A dynamite explosion early Tuesday morning in South Scranton, Pa., blew up the business block of Leon Olehofski, a double dwelling block owned by him, and a detached house owned by Michael O'Haru. The business block, a two-story building, was torn to pieces. Twenty other houses had all the windows blown out and plaster torn from the walls. The shock was felt all over the city. The cause of the explosion is unknown, but Olchofski alleges that it was the work of enemies he made during political and church disputes in that section, he being one of the principals in troubles which led to a split in the Polish congregation. Olchofski was seriously injured in saving his wife, and his recovery is doubtful. Following the explosion the wrecked buildings took fire, but the firemen kept the flames from spreading. In some of the houses the sleeping people were covered with falling plaster. The infant child of Michael Joyce was dangerously injured, and a little son of John Klein almost suffocated. The total loss will reach $25,000. The ruins are being cleared to ascertain if there are any victims buried in them.

BUTTE COUNTY BANK IS ROBBED.

Concern at Bellefourche, S. D., Looted by Desperate Masked Men.

Four robbers entered the Butte County Bank at Bellefourche, S. D., Monday afternoon and demanded the money from the cashier, Arthur Marble. He replied by leveling his pistol at the leader, but it missed fire, and he was compelled to hold up his hands with four other men who were in the bank at the time. The robbers then took the cash on the counter and backed out to their horses, which were tied in an alley. One of the gang stayed outside and kept firing up and down to keep back the citizens, who were by this time aroused. They mounted their horses, all save the one who was guarding the street, and whose horse escaped with the other four robbers. He was taken prisoner by Deputy Sheriff Arnold and taken to Deadwood, as there was strong feeling to lynch him. During the fusillade on the street an old gentleman named Waller Gay was shot through the ear, and as the citizens were firing on the retreating robbers one of the latter was seen to reel in his saddle. The bank lost but $75. Cashier Marble's presence of mind in locking the vault doors saved greater loss to the bank.

CONVICTS KILLED BY LIGHTNING.

Wild Scene During a Storm at a Penal Camp at Dakota, Ga.

Lightning struck the convict camp at the lumber mills of Greer Brothers, near Dakota, Ga. Two convicts, both negroes, were instantly killed, two others, white, died shortly after as a result of the shocks received, while ten others were severely injured, some of whom will die. While the prisoners, numbering about 150, were at supper, a terrible storm came up, and when the building was struck a panic followed. About twenty of the prisoners, taking advantage of the general confusion, made a dash for liberty and succeeded in escaping. It was some time before pursuit could be organized, and in the meantime the heavy rain had so effectually obliterated the convicts' tracks as to render the bloodhounds useless. Two of the convicts, who had but recently left the hospital, were recaptured, they being too weak to travel far, but the others are still at liberty.

Present to the Kaiser.

Emperor William of Germany is soon to receive the largest pair of elk horns in the world, as a gift from Hans Leiden, the German consul of the Netherlands and director of the Zoological Garden of Cologne. They have been prepared and mounted by Prof. Stainsky of Colorado Springs, Colo., and are now on their way to Berlin. The antlers measure twelve feet from tip of beam to tip of beam across the skull and have a spread of 62 inches.

Disaster to an Excursion Train.

Two sections of a Christian Endeavor excursion train on the Northwestern road colided at West Chicago, thirty miles from Chicago, in Du Page County, at 12:45 Wednesday morning. Three passengers and a tramp riding on the buffers were killed. Fifteen others were injured. Another Endeavor train was wrecked on the Vandalia road near Vandalia, but none but trainmen were injured.

Redskins on a Tear.

Three hundred Bannock Indians have broken away from the Fort Hall reservation in Idaho, and their actions have alarmed the settlers in the adjacent territory. Gov. Steuneberg has been appealed to for protection and he has telegraphed the Washington authorities

Over $2,000,000 to Charity.

The will of John B. Curtis of Deering, Me., presented to probate, bequeaths $2,000,000 to charity. Most of it goes to benevolent institutions. Bradford, the town where Mr. Curtis was born, is given $20,000 for a free public library.

Marries Her Father-in-Law.

James Williams was married to his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Lizzie Williams, at St. Louis. The groom is 90 years old. His bride is the widow of his eldest son, and is about 40 years old.

"Old Hoss" Hoey Dead.

William F. Hoey ("Old Hoss") died Tuesday at the home of his mother-in-law in New York City.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.50 to $5.25; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2 red, 70c to 72c; corn, No. 2, 24c to 26c; oats, No. 2, 17c to 19c; rye, No. 2, 35c to 36c; butter, choice creamery, 14c to 15c; eggs, fresh, 8c to 9c; new potatoes, 80c to 90c per bushel; broom corn, common growth to choice green hurl, $25 to $70 per ton.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.25; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, common to choice, $3.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2, 74c to 76c; corn, No. 2 white, 26c to 28c; oats, No. 2 white, 20c to 22c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 77c to 80c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 23c to 24c; oats, No. 2 white, 17c to 18c; rye, No. 2, 31c to 33c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2, 80c to 81c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 26c to 27c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 20c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 33c to 35c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.50 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 80c to 82c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 26c to 28c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 23c; rye, 34c to 36c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 80c to 82c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 25c to 26c; oats, No. 2 white, 19c to 20c; rye, No. 2, 34c to 36c; clover seed, $4.20 to $4.30.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 73c to 74c; corn, No. 3, 24c to 26c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 23c; barley, No. 2, 35c to 39c; rye, No. 1, 35c to 37c; pork, mess, $7.50 to $8.00.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 84c to 86c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 28c to 30c; oats, No. 2 white, 24c to 26c.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, $3.50 to $4.25; sheep, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 76c to 78c; corn, No. 2, 29c to 31c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 23c; butter, creamery, 11c to 16c; eggs, Western, 10c to 11c.

CHAPMAN IS CHOSEN.

HEADS THE DEMOCRATIC STATE TICKET OF OHIO.

Temporary Chairman Sloane Attacks Policy of the Republicans—Silver Sentiment Controls the Convention—The Ticket and Platform.

Silver Their Slogan.

For Governor.....Horace L. Chapman
For Lieutenant Governor..Melville D. Shaw
For Supreme Judge.....J. P. Spriggs
For Attorney General.....W. H. Dore
For State Treasurer.....James F. Wilson
For Board of Public Works.Peter H. Degnan
For School Commissioner....Byron H. Hurd

The Ohio Democratic State convention held in Columbus was the most largely attended of any such occasion since the civil war. The new Columbus auditorium, with a seating capacity of 6,000, had just been completed for the convention, and its capacity was not equal to the demand for admission. The new auditorium was beautifully decorated with bunting and plants. There was a profusion of portraits of Democratic leaders about the walls, but that of President Cleveland was not in the collection.

HORACE L. CHAPMAN.

The Ohio State convention last year was not as strongly for free silver as the convention of Wednesday, and in the convention one year ago there was some disturbance because of a motion to "turn the picture of Cleveland to the wall." The picture of Senator Brice as well as of other gold Democrats was missing from the galaxy of heroes. The familiar portrait of William J. Bryan was the center of attraction and that of the late Allen G. Thurman was quite conspicuous. Last year, when John R. McLean was selected to head the Ohio delegation to Chicago, W. W. Durbin was made chairman of the State central committee and he was re-elected Tuesday night by the McLean influence, while Daniel McConville was also re-elected chairman of the State executive committee.

When the convention was called to order at 10 a. m. by Chairman Durbin he congratulated the party on the signs of the times and the enthusiastic condition of the party. He made a speech for free silver. Prayer was offered by Rev. E. L. Rexford, pastor of the Universalist Church, and then Hon. Ulric Sloane was introduced as the temporary chairman of the convention. Mr. Sloane said in part:

Silver the Keynote.

"The people of Ohio, and indeed, of the Union, are to be congratulated upon this large assemblage, for it is a convention of representatives of the whole people, the masses, and not of bosses, of trusts, of syndicates, or of hired tools of the despotism of Wall and Lombard street greed. This convention comes from the common people, and owes its allegiance alone to them. In these respects what a contrast it offers to the late convention at Toledo, for that convention was not called, organized or controlled along the lines of what the fathers of the Republican party taught, but merely to obey the mandates to do the will of Mark Hanna. It is expected that your temporary chairman shall strike the 'keynote' of the coming campaign. Well, that 'keynote' shall be sounded on a silver chord. It will be no new note but a prolongation of that sounded by the national convention at Chicago last summer and one that has grown in power and volume since carried in a grand diapason of more than 6,000,000 voices to the polls last November."

Just before the convention was called to order a large gold cross was carried into the hall. It had as ornaments the crown of thorns and a clock indicating 16 minutes to 1 o'clock. The speech of Chairman Sloane was frequently interrupted with the wildest demonstrations of applause, especially in his references to silver.

James Gilmore of Eaton presented the report of a conference had between the central committee and a committee from the silver Republicans, at which the latter asked for representation on the ticket. Judge Gilmore thought the matter beyond the province of the committee on rules, and suggested that the convention deal with the matter. A clamor followed, which increased when a similar request from the Populists was read. W. P. Hackney, chairman of the Cuyahoga County delegation, opposed in impassioned language any concession to either the silver Republicans or the Populists, and moved to lay the special reports on the table. This proposition was received with tumultuous applause. Mr. Hackney proceeded to assert that the Chicago platform was broad enough for any one to stand upon, and if any third or fourth party wanted to get on they could do so, but only as Democrats.

Two silver Republicans in the audience arose almost together to ask whether they were to understand that they were not wanted. Chairman Sloane advised the gentlemen that personally he would like to see a representative of that party on the ticket, but he understood the sentiment of the delegates to be adverse to recognition. The theory of the chair was supported by a practically unanimous vote of the convention.

Gen. A. J. Warner, president of the National Bimetallic League and chairman of the committee on resolutions, read the platform, which merely repeats the financial plank of the Chicago platform. A plank denouncing trusts, which had been agreed upon in committee with the understanding that it was to be submitted as a supplementary report, was unanimously adopted by the convention. Another report, recognizing the belligerency of Cuba was heard with much applause and made a part of the platform without a dissenting vote. The anti-trust plank reads:

"We declare all trusts and monopolies hostile and dangerous to the people's interests and a standing menace to the perpetuity of our free institutions, and we demand the vigorous enforcement of all anti-trust laws and such additional legislation as is necessary for their immediate and final suppression."

The various candidates for Governor were placed in nomination as follows: Paul J. Sorg, by Allen Andrews of Hamilton, who vouched for his candidate's allegiance to silver; Judge Allen V. Smalley of Wyandot County, by Gen. E. B. Finley of Bucyrus; Allen W. Thurman of Franklin, by Benton Childers; D. D. Donavin of Henry County, by Dr. Garrett; Robert T. Hough of Highland, by Jesse M. Lewis; H. L. Chapman of Jackson, by William E. Fink of Somerset; Judge Samuel M. Hunter of Licking, by John McSweeny of Wooster; Judge John M. Vanmeter of Ross, by S. F. Garrett; Judge A. W. Patrick of Tuscarawas, by Judge Mitchell; John C. Welty of Stark was withdrawn by the Hon. John E. Monnet when his county was called. Delegate Reed of Columbiana County took the platform after the roll of counties had been completed and placed the name of Mayor James A. Rice of Canton before the convention. Jesse Lewis withdrew Hough before the ballot proceeded.

There were 959 votes in the convention; necessary to a choice, 480. The first ballot resulted: Sorg, 118; Smalley, 128; Thurman, 78; Donavin, 100; Chapman, 241; Hunter, 61; Vanmeter, 29; Patrick, 60; Rice, 113; Congressman John J. Lentz of Columbus, 9; Gen. A. J. Warner of Marietta, 3; John G. Reeves of Lancaster, 17.

The second ballot resulted: Smalley, 40; Thurman, 45; Donavin, 85; Rice, 142; Hunter, 13; Patrick, 4; Sloane, 1; Lentz, 18; Chapman, 599. On motion of Judge Smalley the nomination of Chapman was made unanimous.

Ex-State Senator M. D. Shaw was placed in nomination for Lieutenant Governor by ex-Congressman F. C. Layton of Wapakoneta, but pending the call of counties for the presentation of candidates for this office the committee arrived with Mr. Chapman. As no other candidates were presented, Senator Shaw was nominated by acclamation.

Fusion Question Again.

Mr. Chapman made a vigorous speech of acceptance, promising to stump every county in the State in the interest of silver.

Gen. Finley attempted to reopen the fusion question, and have it taken from the table and recommitted to the central committee with power to act. He was almost cried down, but protested with much vigor until he was fully heard. He was followed by Gen. Warner and Charles Fillin in the same strain and bedlam broke loose. Allen O. Myers reminded the delegates that they had settled the question in the morning, and if they reconsidered it and recognized the silver Republicans they must recognize the Populists and cease to be a Democratic convention. Otway J. Cosgrove of Cincinnati followed, indorsing all Mr. Myers had said. Dan Banst of Crestline, a silver Republican, said that he was there to say that his party was not there asking for representation. Gen. Finley then withdrew his motion.

For Supreme Judge the first ballot resulted as follows: J. P. Spriggs, 455; I. N. Abernathy, 360½; Lewis D. Johnson, 54½; Seth Weldy, 38, and John J. Harper, 92. The second ballot resulted as follows: Spriggs, 613; Abernathy, 222; Harper, 7, and Johnson, 1. Spriggs was nominated.

John J. Harper is a lifelong Republican, who voted for Bryan and Sewall last year on account of the silver issue, and is still co-operating with the advocates of free silver.

For Attorney General, W. H. Dore was nominated on the second ballot.

For State Treasurer, the first ballot resulted: Charles Spenney, 30; James F. Wilson, 245; Charles N. Gaumer, 176½; David M. Fisher, 220½, and John L. Kennedy, 237. James F. Wilson was nominated on the third ballot.

For member of the Board of Public Works, the first ballot resulted: Lorenzo D. Abel, 270; Peter H. Degnan, 501½; George W. Dinsman, 112½, and Hugh D. Clarke, 15. Degnan was nominated.

For School Commissioner, the first ballot resulted: S. C. Turnipseed, 40; James H. Lee, 171; C. L. Brumbaugh, 184; George F. Deshler, 15; Byron H. Hard, 428, and D. A. Howe, 13. The rules were suspended and Hard was nominated by acclamation.

A motion was made to indorse W. J. Bryan for the presidential nomination in 1900, but under the ruling of the chair there was a substitute for three cheers for Bryan, which were given with much vigor, after which the convention adjourned.

COLUMBUS AUDITORIUM, WHERE THE CONVENTION WAS HELD.

Telegraphic Brevities.

Charges have been made against John Goodnow of Minnesota, nominated as consul general to Shanghai, China.

The Senate has adopted a joint resolution for the loaning of 1,000 tents for the purposes of the G. A. R. encampment at Leavenworth, Kan.

The Clinton Lithographing Company which was organized about two years ago as the successor of the Orcutt company, made an assignment at Chicago to Albert M. Baker.

Speaker Reed has decided in view of the proximity of the return of the tariff bill from the Senate that he will be unable to attend the meeting of the Republican clubs in Detroit July 13, where it was expected he would make an address.

Public gambling in Leadville, Colo., has probably received its death blow. Acting under orders from Judge Owens of the District Court, a posse of deputy sheriffs raided every gambling establishment in the city, seizing over $1,000 worth of tables and implements, which will be destroyed.

AN ILL-OMENED START

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS DIE IN A WRECK.

Three Killed and Fifteen Hurt in a Crash on the Northwestern at West Chicago Wednesday Morning—Tremendous Crush of Travel.

Death Comes to Excursionists.

An awful rear-end collision occurred at West Chicago, Ill., at 12:45 Wednesday morning. Section No. 5 of the Christian Endeavor excursion to San Francisco ran into section No. 4. Three were killed and fifteen seriously hurt. Courtney, engineer of section No. 5, was fatally injured. Limbs and flesh of unknown people were taken from the wreck. A tramp was caught between the baggage car and engine and crushed to death.

Details of the Horror.

A rear-end collision on the Chicago and Northwestern marked the departure of the Christian Endeavor delegates for the convention at San Francisco. As soon as the wreck was reported to the Chicago offices of the Chicago and Northwestern, Superintendent J. C. Stewart of the Galena division ordered a special train and proceeded to the scene.

Other officials dispatched messengers for the company's doctors, and at 3 o'clock Assistant General Superintendent W. A. Gardner and a corps of surgeons left for West Chicago.

The various sections of the Northwestern specials were crowded with young Endeavorers from all over the United States, but the presumption is that the majority of the passengers were Easterners.

Running Without Schedule.

Owing to the crush caused by the rush of Christian Endeavor business all schedules were abandoned and trains were sent out as fast as filled. Nine sections left the Northwestern depot at intervals of fifteen minutes, beginning at 10:30, to say nothing of trains sent out earlier in the evening. Sections Nos. 1, 2 and 3 got through West Chicago safely. Section 4 was made up of a baggage car, day coach and seven sleepers, containing about 400 passengers.

Inasmuch as there were about 400 people to a section the blockade is serious. Sections Nos. 4 and 5 were unable to proceed, and sections Nos. 6, 7, 8 and 9 are blocked between Chicago and West Chicago, thus delaying nearly 2,500 people.

Superintendent Gardner Talks.

Assistant General Superintendent William A. Gardner said he could give no tangible reason yet as to the cause of the accident.

"The road is run on a semaphore block system all the way to Turner Junction," said Mr. Gardner. "This blocks a train every 1,600 feet, and in addition we were using what we call the positive block system. This consisted in the operators at Maywood, Wheaton and Turner running the trains by wire and keeping a close tab with the dispatches as to the time each passed a station.

"Then the dispatcher regulated the speed and distance between trains. Of course, he was compelled to rely entirely on the accuracy of the time checking done by the operators at the stations named, and unless one of these made a mistake and transmitted the wrong check time, either to the next station or to the dispatcher, I cannot imagine what could have caused the wreck.

"We had taken every possible precaution to guard against delay and accident, and, as I said, worked the positive block as well as our regular semaphore system."

Great Crush of Travelers.

The Northwestern road took out over 7,000 passengers, bound for the convention at San Francisco. The depot was crowded all day Tuesday and the excursionists were in the best of spirits at the prospect of a pleasant trip across the continent. At 6 o'clock the first train went out. It was of nine sleepers, filled with Chicagoans. Immediately following was another of ten sleepers, also filled with Chicagoans. Then came the New York delegation in a train of eight sleepers. This left at 6:15, and then at 9 the Pennsylvania crowd followed in a train of nine sleepers. Two trains of nine sleepers each went out at 10 with the Massachusetts delegation, and then came the regular train in three sections of eight, nine and ten sleepers respectively. These went out at 10:30. Eight sleepers were in the train that took the Farm, Fire and Fireside party at the same hour, and two trains of eight sleepers each took out the Michigan people immediately after. Nine sleepers were in the Wisconsin train that followed at once.

Every car was filled to overflowing, and the depot master had all he could do to find the proper accommodations for the immense throng. The scenes in the depot as the trains were being filled were exciting, and only experienced men could know how to properly handle such a crowd. All the preliminaries passed off without a hitch, however, and the road officials were congratulating themselves on the success with which they had handled a big job, when the news of the accident came.

TWO MORE WRECKS.

One on the Vandalia, One in Far-off Idaho.

A bad break was reported late Tuesday night, near Vandalia, Ill., on the Vandalia road. A section of a regular passenger train, carrying a party of Christian Endeavorers, collided with an east-bound train. R. T. Sherman of Indianapolis, mail clerk on the east-bound train, is killed; also W. P. Coon of Indianapolis, baggagemaster of train west-bound. Sam Parkinson, mail clerk, of Columbus, and Frank Owens, fireman, of Terre Haute, are fatally injured.

From Salt Lake comes a report that a passenger train on the Oregon Short Line road was wrecked near Glenn's Ferry, Idaho, and several people injured.

Odds and Ends.

The Bermudas export over 17,000,000 pounds of onions annually.

A London omnibus carries on an average 2,500 passengers a week.

Speak but little and well if you would be esteemed a man of merit.—L. Trench.

Attempts have been made to produce spider silk, but have failed, the ferocious nature of these insects not permitting them to live together in communities.

According to the most careful computation, only one person in 100,000 of both sexes attains the age of one hundred years, and only six to seven in one hundred the age of sixty.

The largest telegraph office in the world is in the general postoffice building, London. There are over 3,000 operators, 1,000 of whom are women. The batteries are supplied by 30,000 cells.

Four years ago, when wool was low, a Jonesboro (Me.) man sold all his sheep but one, which each year since then has raised a black lamb, until this year, when it had a pair of white ewes.

"Nothing else like it."
The most refreshing and pleasant Soap for the skin.

It lasts twice as long as others.
A trial will convince you of its great merit. Will please the most fastidious.
CHARLES F. MILLER,
Mfr. of FRENCH MILLED TOILET SOAPS AND PERFUMERY,
Lancaster, Penn.
ESTABLISHED, 1849.

WHY NOT BUY THE BEST?

A GOOD SADDLE is the most noticeable and taking point on a Bicycle.
When buying insist on getting a
BURNS SPRING SADDLE.
Take no other. Get a Burns and GET THE BEST.
Manufactured by the
GRAND RAPIDS CYCLE SEAT MFG. CO.,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Patton's House Painting Model
shows just how your house would look if painted any one of 20,000 artistic combinations of colors. Designed and made only for the manufacturers of PATTON'S PURE LIQUID PAINTS. Sent postpaid upon receipt of 10 cts. "How to Increase the Size of Your House With Paint" mailed free.
JAS. E. PATTON CO.,
Dep't X. MILWAUKEE, WIS., U.S.A

ECLIPSE
Poultry Brooder.
BEST MADE.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR, which explains why you should use a BROODER, and why you should purchase the
ECLIPSE BROODER.
Also gives testimonials from MANY WHO HAVE USED THEM.
CAPACITY, 100 CHICKS.
Size: 52 inches long, 32 inches wide, 36 inches high. Weight, 135 lbs.
Price: Single one, $9.00.
Two or more, $8.50 apiece.
If not as represented, money refunded.
JOHN D. WINGERT,
MANUFACTURER,
FAYETTEVILLE, - PENN.

NIAGARA
BICYCLES

CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION.
CORRESPONDENCE INVITED.
Reliable Agents Wanted.
BUFFALO WHEEL CO.,
BUFFALO, N. Y.

MUST BE VIGILANT.

TRAIN DISPATCHERS HAVE IMPORTANT DUTIES.

Safety of Life and Property Depends Upon Their Discretion—Origin of the System Now in Vogue on All the Railroads.

Regulating Time of Trains.

The system of handling railway trains by the method known as train dispatching is one of comparatively recent origin. It has been amended and modernized so as to meet the requirements of traffic, until now there is a standard code, and nearly all, if not all, railroads in this country conform to that code in the operation of trains, passenger and freight.

Under the old system trains were run by time cards. A train left Chicago, for instance, at 7 p. m. going west. An east-bound train on the same line—that was before the double-track system now in vogue by some companies—had left a given station on its schedule time. The time card indicated when and where those trains were to meet and pass. In an open country, on a line comparatively straight, and in the daytime, there was no danger even under such an uncertain and blind system. But running trains under such a system on a road made up of curves and in a foggy or black night was enough to break down the nervous system of those who had the responsibility.

The man who first suggested handling trains by wire is still living. His name is Robert Pitcairn. When the war was under way Thomas L. Scott was at the head of the Pennsylvania system.

A short time before the battle of Antietam Lincoln sent for Scott and told him with characteristic frankness of the program. As showing Lincoln's capacity as a military man, he told Scott that the battle would be fought near Antietam, about such a time. The commander of the Army of the Potomac was present. The President said the only obstacle, so far as human foresight could discern, in the way of victory, was the insufficient means the Government had of handling its troops and the munitions of war.

Scott thought that could be arranged. He consulted with Pitcairn, who had general knowledge of the handling of trains, as he had of everything else in connection with railroad matters. Pitcairn said it could be done if he was given full authority to handle all the trains. This was granted, and the work was done on the same general system as that now in use, and Pitcairn delivered at the appointed place, on time, every man, horse, wagon, gun and other war munitions which were brought into play in one of the great conflicts of the war. In plain English, he simply sent one order, or message, to all conductors and engineers and division superintendents employed in the territory where the trains were to be handled. Under this rule more trains can be run than under the old system.

It is not claimed that Pitcairn's idea was at once adopted. It was taken up slowly, and each system so adopting it did so independently. Then, somewhere in 1880, there was held a convention to discuss the proposition of establishing in this country what is now known as standard time. Further, it was agreed by all roads to consent to a general arrangement, to be used, as far as it could be practicable, for a standard code of handling trains by telegraph order, and this code is still in effect. It is known as the double-order system, a system by which the same dispatch is sent simultaneously to all parties interested. First, to the train of superior right, which responds to the order first. The inferior trains get the same order and act upon it. This rule is in vogue on every important railway system in the United States.

When it was first suggested in the West to utilize telegraph lines in connection with the operation of trains, high railway authorities entered a protest, for they fancied this meant the giving away of railway secrets—operators would know what was going on, and this would not do. The practical working of the system, however, soon won its way. The A B C's of the new system were soon mastered, and railroad men have gone on progressing until, while the work of handling trains under the code is vast, it has been so simplified that the keen, watchful train dispatcher is not weighted with so much complicated responsibility as one would suppose.

As a general rule, there are as many train dispatchers in a system as there are divisions, and divisions, on an average, are 100 miles long. The train dispatcher of each division has control, or management, only of such trains as are in his division.

The semaphore system by day and night shows the engineer whether he is to run past a station, unless it is so scheduled, or stop. If the blade, or arm, attached to a high pole at the station points over the track, it signifies that there are no orders for the train and it will not stop. If the blade he dropped it means the contrary. At night a red light on the pole means the same as the outstretched blade by day. A white light indicates the same as the blade lowered.

The old way of a conductor having to report at every station his arrival and departure or of asking for orders is done away with, except at division points. The train dispatcher obviates that, and time is saved.

Within the limits of a crowded city, like Chicago, trains are run on what is known as the block system. Some roads have electric connections showing that the track is clear between certain points. Other roads have the system of disks, showing different lights by day and night. This system, however, is independent of the train dispatcher's business, although it is of assistance to him in that it relieves him of some of the responsibility of handling trains within the city.

In connection with this subject, there is some additional information which will interest the layman.

All north and east bound trains are run on even numbers, south and west bound trains, obviously, are run on odd numbers.

Trains do not run consecutively on numbers.

Freight trains begin to be numbered from the last highest number of passenger trains. There is a series of numbers for trains on short runs.

On four track systems passenger trains have the outside; on the three tracks the same. On double track systems passenger and freights mix, of course, and on such systems the work of the train dispatcher is one of greater responsibility. If there is a wreck or blockade it is his business to give that information to all trains within his division, and to communicate information to each train as to how far it shall proceed, and how long it shall wait.

It follows that a man who is a train dispatcher must be a thorough railroad man, and he must be an efficient telegraph operator. Circumstances sometimes make a train dispatcher of a man in a short time, but it is not often that he gets that position under a less service than fifteen years.

IN THE TRAIN DISPATCHER'S OFFICE.

A Silent Zone Around Fog Horns.

Acoustic signals are excellent in the open sea, and for indicating the approach of vessels to the coast in a fog, but unfortunately they are not always reliable and it is now claimed that there are around them zones where the sound is not always heard at the sea-level.

Ship-wrecked sea captains have affirmed that the sirens that were sounding on the coast have at times ceased to blow, and they have accused the keepers of negligence.

In a communication to the Academy of Sciences the phenomena that has so long deceived everybody is duly set forth. It has been found that sirens are surrounded by a neutral zone, in which the sound is not heard at the sea-level. This zone is more or less distant, according to the height of the siren on the coast, and it has a mean width of about eight thousand feet.

On the nearer side of this zone the sound is of course heard perfectly, but when it is traversed the sound weakens gradually till it becomes scarcely perceptible; then it increases again, and when the zone is left behind the sound resumes its full intensity.

Experiments have been made on this subject with a steam vessel, by causing it to approach or recede from a lightship in different directions and in a straight line. In each course the sound was deadened almost completely in a zone whose central line was about fifteen thousand feet.

Persistent industry is the best antidote for temptation.

A TRAMP MILLIONAIRE.

Living Like a Pauper on His Easily Acquired Fortune.

Salem, Ill., has recently been enjoying a unique and most agreeable sensation, through the generosity of James E. Berry, millionaire. Berry's story is stranger than fiction. He left his home in New York when a lad, thirty-one years ago. He has traveled all over the country, on foot, in box cars, on steamers and in wagons, his pillow at night usually being a ragged coat and his covering the dews of heaven. His habits and treatment were those of tramps generally, and he learned to enjoy that kind of a life. He began to reflect upon the scenes of his early childhood a short time ago, and concluded that he would return home. Light-hearted, but poor in purse, he returned to his native city, to learn that his father had died and left him an inheritance of several thousand dollars, the income of which had reached a large sum since the father's death.

JAMES E. AND MRS. SADIE BERRY.

Berry thought of a gentleman in Mount Vernon, Ill., Henry Thompson, who had befriended him in his poverty, and he returned to that little city and repaid Mr. Thompson a thousand fold or more. As he did not want to enjoy his wealth alone, Berry concluded to marry. He became acquainted with Miss Sadie Miller, a pretty Mount Vernon girl, 20 years old. They went to Salem and were married.

Then he started in to spend his money like a king. He paid $20,000 for a horse, harness and buggy. With his wife he went for a drive. At each store where he saw something he wanted he stopped his horse. There was always some boy ready to hold the animal, for which service Berry would give a dollar or more. One boy received a dollar for handing him a match. To another he gave a dollar for picking up his buggy whip. To a jeweler he paid $5 for regulating his watch, and he is considering the question of purchasing a valuable piece of land and donating it to the city for a park.

DEATH LURKS IN HAGAR'S WELL.

The Annual Pilgrimage to Mecca Regarded with Apprehension.

A chronic menace to the health of Asia and eastern Europe is the annual pilgrimage of pious Moslems to Mecca. More threatening than ever it appears this year on account of the presence in India of a plague far worse than cholera. El Id el Kebir, or Big Beiram, as the Turks know it, falls this year on the 12th of May, at which time Arabia will be intensely hot and conditions will be favorable to the speedy propagation of disease. The inhabitants of Mecca live crowded together and surround their homes with refuse and filth and foul the water supply. If a disease such as cholera or the bubonic plague be introduced it straightway spreads like wildfire. The constant cause is the drinking of cholera polluted water.

Among the religious ordinances which to the Mohammedans are commands is that of pilgrimage to Mecca. Every male Mohammedan—women don't count—must some time in his life make the pilgrimage. Any time before he dies will answer. From Turkey, from a belt of country extending eastward across Asia to the farthest confines of Malaysia, and from the whole of Africa, pilgrims set out every year, turning their steps toward Mecca in obedience to this command. Some fall sick by the way, many die. From about 60,000 to over 100,000 each year attain their end. Months and sometimes years have been devoted to the task, and sufferings and hardships have been undergone which it would be difficult to describe. Not long ago a cable dispatch told of a pilgrimage of 10,000 persons, of whom more than one-half never returned, having died by the way of cholera. The proceedings of the pilgrims and the way they live also tend to the spread of the disease.

The chief source of danger in Mecca is the famous Zemzem, the reputed "Hagar's well," where it is supposed she drew water for her son Ishmael. At the best of times there is but little water in the well, and the pilgrims swarm around it. Every one wishes to drink of and to bathe in these reputed miraculous waters. Each pilgrim in turn, stripped to the waist, stands beside the well while a bucket of the water is poured over him. Of this he eagerly drinks as it flows from the bucket, the rest flowing over his naked body, and streaming back into the well to be used again. His place is immediately taken by another and another, and so on, each drinking the washings of the rest.

PILGRIMS AT HAGAR'S WELL, MECCA.

One day in 1893 there were 990 deaths in Mecca, and there were 2,201 deaths in seventeen days. When we consider what is done at this well alone, these figures are not to be wondered at. When the pilgrimage is over, the roadside for a dozen miles is strewn with the dead bodies of the faithful, killed by a draft of dirty water after all the difficulties and dangers the unfortunate people had overcome.

We have never posed as a judge of art, but the air castles we build have no enlarged pictures hanging on the walls.

EDUCATIONAL COLUMN

NOTES ABOUT SCHOOLS AND THEIR MANAGEMENT.

Truest Sermons to Be Learned from the Pages of Nature's Book—Duty of the Teacher—Hint for Mothers to Read.

Teaching from Nature.

From the pages of Nature's book are the truest lessons to be learned. It is a text-book all must study. To the young it is the most interesting of all books, and from it may be learned what the printed page in the schoolroom can never adequately furnish. Too many teachers refuse to avail themselves of the means which Nature abundantly offers. In particular do teachers of the lower grades fail to have their pupils study lessons out-of-doors. Distrusting their powers to interest their pupils in what they see daily, or shirking the labor which is entailed on them by taking their class to the hill-side or river, or totally unappreciative of the value of such aids in their teaching of geography teachers restrict their labors to the four walls of the school-room and to the manual which is supplied them by the school authorities.

Agassiz, the great teacher and naturalist, had his experience with this sort of teaching, and he gives a record of it which every teacher would do well to consider. He says: "In geography let us not at first resort to books, but let us take a class to the fields, point out the hills, valleys, rivers and lakes, and let the pupils learn out-of-doors the points of the compass; and then, having shown them these things, let them compare the representations with the realities, and the maps will have a meaning to them. Then you can go on with the books, and they understand what these things mean, and what is north, east, south and west, and will not merely read the letters N., E., S., W., on a square piece of paper, and perhaps think that the United States are about as large as the paper they learn from. When I was in the college at Neufchatel, I desired to introduce such a method of teaching geography. I was told it could not be done, and my request to be allowed to instruct the youngest children in the institution was refused. I resorted to other means, and my own children—my oldest, a boy of 6 years, and my girls, 4½ and 2½ years old—and invited the children of my neighbors. Some came upon the arms of their mothers; others could already walk without assistance. These children, the oldest only 6 years old, I took upon a hill above the Neufchatel, and there showed them the magnificent peaks of the Alps, and told them the names of those mountains and of the lakes opposite. I then showed them the same things on a raised map, and they immediately recognized the localities, and were soon able to do the same on an ordinary map. From that day geography was no longer a dry study, but a desirable part of education."—Goldwaite's Geographical Magazine.

The Successful Teacher.

Her manner is bright and animated, so that the children cannot fail to catch something of her enthusiasm.

Her lessons are well planned. Each new step, resting upon a known truth, is carefully presented.

Everything is in readiness for the day's work, and she carries out her plans easily and naturally.

Old subjects are introduced in ever-varying dresses, and manner and matter of talks are changed before the children lose interest in them.

She talks only of what is within the children's experience. Her language is suited to her class—being simple in the extreme if she is dealing with young children.

When she addresses the whole class she stands where all can see and hear her.

She asks for only one thing at a time with slow emphasis, in a low, distinct voice.

She controls her children perfectly without effort. Her manner demands respectful obedience. She is serene.

She is firm and decided, as well as gentle, patient and just.

She is a student—is not satisfied with her present attainment.

She is herself an example for the children to follow, holding herself well, thinking connectedly, and being always genuinely sincere.

She is a lover of little children, striving to understand child nature.

True teaching is to her a consecration. She has entered into "the holy of holies where singleness of purpose, high ideals and self-consecration unite in one strong determining influence that surrounds her like an atmosphere."—School Education.

To Beautify School Grounds.

The famous receipt, "How to cook a hare," began with the sage counsel, "First catch the hare." Many schools cannot beautify their grounds because they are none to beautify. School buildings often stand directly upon the street with only narrow alley-ways on either side, and barely room in the rear for the ill-constructed, malodorous, unhealthful closets, at once a menace and a disgrace to the communities tolerating them. An unwise and niggardly economy has prevailed in many cities and villages which has cut down to the lowest dollar expenditure for school buildings and grounds, and lavished large sums on the erection of court-houses and jails.

In many prosperous cities and villages and other rural communities school buildings stand in the midst of a plot of ground without trees, shrubs, plants, flowers, or even green grass. Upon these buildings the storms beat in the winter and the sun in summer, with no protection whatever from cold or heat. These buildings are frequently without blinds or curtains to exclude the glare of sunshine, and are as bare and unattractive as it is possible to conceive buildings to be. Pupils reach them by muddy paths or by no paths at all, through grounds that have never received one hour's care since the buildings were erected.—Educational News.

The Teacher Has a Duty.

The English newspapers report an extraordinary case of suicide by a school boy. Cuthbert Evans, a lad of 16, a pupil at Haileybury public school, waited at a railway crossing for a train to appear, then laid his neck on the rail and was run to pieces. Near the spot where he died was found a letter explaining his reasons for an act so unnatural to youth. The letter was addressed to the head master of the school. "Last term," the unfortunate boy wrote, "they (pertaps of his schoolmates) conceived the vilest dislike to me for nothing at all except my opinions about Crete. From then on my life was miserable. * * * I don't accuse them of personal violence, but of a regularly organized attempt, and a successful one, to make miserable my life by cowardly and insidious means and to make me an object of scorn to all." Thus the lad, a wretched, weak-nerved creature, was bullied and harassed until he looked upon death in its most fearful form as a welcome relief from his daily annoyance. Very characteristic was the testimony of the head master. He had not known that Evans was persecuted; after receiving the letter he made inquiries and found that it was "a simple case of teasing." No doubt it was nothing worse. But is there any form of torture more destructive of mind and morals than the "nagging" practiced by schoolboys on weak lads? This boy was driven to suicide by persecution which he could not complain of for fear of much sharper retribution and which, from its vague nature, would not be understood by the head master unless he were a man of fine feeling. It is unfortunate that school teachers should be too often blind to the nervous self-consciousness and timidity of children. How many young lives are embittered by the petty persecution of a schoolroom, when by the use of tact and sympathy on the part of the teacher they could be made bright and happy. The man or woman who has charge of children in their most impressionable years is under a great responsibility and a responsibility that is not satisfied by mere attention to obvious wants in the schoolroom.

For Mothers to Read.

Mothers are cautioned by a physician who has had much experience with children's hospitals not to permit the children who carry a load of schoolbooks back and forth from home and school each day to carry the load always in the same hand or over the same shoulder, as many instances have been known where the habit lengthened the arm or enlarged the hand disproportionately, or caused the child to carry one shoulder higher than the other. If the books are carried first in the right and then in the left hand every second day, or the bag of books suspended from the shoulder changed about as frequently, the danger will be met and overcome, besides which the weaker hand will be strengthened.

Botany for Country Schools.

Some exercise in botany should form part of the child's education if this is fortunate enough to be in the country. Boys and girls should be early taught the habits of close observation of natural objects. They should be especially drilled in noting the different varieties of weeds in their neighborhood, and also any kinds that have proven injurious in other localities. The coming of a new weed in any locality is apt to be very unobtrusive. A little prompt effort in destroying it may save untold labor later. Not a few of the worst kind of weeds have been introduced through flower gardens where the plant was sown for its beautiful foliage and flowers.—American Cultivator.

Couldn't Fool with Her.

When Vivekanandi, the Hindu monk, visited Chicago during the World's Fair he was greatly delighted one afternoon to learn that the "International Beauty Show" on the Midway Plaisance contained an East Indian princess. He lost no time in visiting the show. In one of the booths was a dusky damsel arrayed in East Indian costume, and prominently placarded as a charmer from the land of the Ganges.

Vivekanandi addressed her politely in Hindustanee and for his pains was rewarded by a stare of blank astonishment. Then he tried Cingalese with no better success, and also the several allied dialects of the interior provinces of India. At last the dusky beauty spoke in sheer self-defence:

"Go 'way, man," she said, "you mus' be crazy!"

"Excuse me," remarked Vivekanandi, in faultless English, "but will you kindly inform me where you were born?"

"I'se born in Savannah, an' I'se dun lived in Georgy all mah life," she said "but yo' can't fool wid me, if yo's a stuck-up no'thern niggah!" And he didn't try do so.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Cooking According to Science.

Give me a spoon of oleo, ma,
And the sodium alkali,
For I'm going to bake a pie, mamma,
I'm going to bake a pie.
For John will be hungry and tired, ma,
And his tissues will decompose;
So give me a gramme of phosphate
And the carbon and cellulose.

Now give me a chunk of caseine, ma,
To shorten the thermic fat;
And hand me the oxygen bottle, ma,
And look at the thermostat;
And if the electric oven's cold
Just turn it on half an ohm,
For I want to have supper ready
As soon as John comes home.

Now pass me the neutral dope, mamma,
And rotate the mixing machine,
But give me the sterilized water first,
And the oleomargarine;
And the phosphate, too, for now I think
The new typewriter's quit,
And John will need more phosphate food
To help his brain a bit.

Another Victim.—Romantic Lover (to himself)—"She has refused me. She shall suffer! I will darken her life at the cost of my own. Ah, ha, proud beauty! You shall drag through the coming years knowing that a suicide's blood is upon your head." (Shoots himself. Curtain.) The Proud Beauty (reading from the paper the next day)—"Mr. A. S. S. Softhead, a boarder at Mrs. Slimdier's boarding-house, No. 33333 Avenue X, committed suicide last evening in his room. He had appeared ill for several days. Thus one more case is added to the long list of sad suicides from la grippe."—New York Weekly.

In Italy there are more theaters in proportion to the population than in any other country.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE.

Commission Is Not Authorized to Fix Arbitrary Rates.

For many years the merchants of Chicago trading with the South have had to contend against unjust discriminations in freight rates set up against them by the Southern railroads.

Although the mileage is greater from New York to such central Southern points as Atlanta, Chattanooga and Knoxville than from Chicago, the freight rates from Chicago to those and like points have been greater than they are from New York, and this discrimination has enabled New York to hold the Southern trade against Chicago.

After the establishment of the interstate commerce commission the attempt was made to get the commission to establish equitable rates, and finally the commission promulgated a schedule from Chicago to Southern points and ordered the roads to adopt it. They refused and suit was brought to compel them to obey. The case was first heard two years ago in the United States Circuit Court at Cincinnati and decided against the commission. The appeal has now been determined in the Supreme Court of the United States and the judgment of the lower court affirmed.

The case is of more than ordinary interest, not only as a construction of the interstate commerce law in respect to the supposed power of the commission to establish maximum freight rates, but also as indicating the difficulty of drawing a law that will firmly hold in control the elusive railroad. Most certainly one of the evils that the interstate commerce law was intended to restrain and interdict was such discrimination as this of which Chicago merchants complain. It was passed to compel the roads to deal justly and equitably with all, but the court finds that the law does not authorize the commission to fix and establish a tariff of rates for any railroad.

The opinion of the court is delivered by Mr. Justice Brewer, and his reasoning is undoubtedly weighty. He holds that the commission is an administrative and judicial body, with highly important duties to discharge, but having no legislative powers. To prescribe a schedule of rates, or to change, is a legislative power which Congress has not delegated to the commission, and it is a function of so much importance and delicacy that in the absence of express words authorizing its exercise it is not to be presumed. Moreover, the right of the carrier to fix rates is recognized in the law in clear language, so that there can be no inference that Congress intended that the commission should fix the rates, though it is one of its duties to see that all charges by the railroads are reasonable and just.

If Congress did intend to place the power of fixing the maximum charges to be made by interstate railroads it will now have to try it over again and amend the law.

No great law ever becomes fixed on the statute book until it has been tried and tested many times and in many ways. It is said of the statute of frauds that every line of it has cost a king's ransom, and it is possible that the same will be said of this law before its terms and scope are finally settled. It has not come up to the expectation of its advocates, but its usefulness has been established. And it may become all that is hoped for if it is amended from time to time as experience and judicial decision dictate.—Chicago Times-Herald.

"The Vampire."

Rudyard Kipling's recent verses, "The Vampire," suggested by young Burne-Jones' picture of that title, have made an impression. Burne-Jones' picture is of the mythical vampire that sucks the life-blood of her victim. Kipling's verses are of the woman, in real life, or that many men think in real life:

A fool there was and he made his prayer
(Even as you and I),
To a rag and a bone and a hank of hair
(We called her the woman who did not care);
But the fool he called her his lady fair
(Even as you and I).

Oh, the years we waste and the tears we waste,
And the work of our head and hand
Belong to the woman who did not know
(And now we know that she never could know)
And did not understand.

A fool there was and his goods he spent
(Even as you and I),
Honor and faith and a sure intent
(And it wasn't the least what the lady meant);
But a fool must follow his natural bent
(Even as you and I).

Oh, the toil we lost and the spoil we lost,
And the excellent things we planned
Belong to the woman who didn't know why
(And now we know that she never knew why),
And did not understand.

The fool was stripped to his foolish hide
(Even as you and I),
Which she might have seen when she threw him aside
(But it isn't on record the lady tried),
So some of him lived, but the most of him died
(Even as you and I).

It is not hard to account for the "success" of these lines. It is not exceptional literary merit. It is simply the boldness of Kipling in giving expression to what others think but dare not say.

The type of woman here described is a common type, whether one chooses to believe that she actually exists or exists merely in men's imaginations. She is sketched in many forms in fiction; she is glimpsed in poetry; she is rough-hewn in the drama; she is epigrammed in French wit; but nowhere is she so boldly, brutally, mercilessly revealed as in these lines of Kipling? That is why people are talking about them—condemning, approving, resenting, welcoming them.

It is one secret of Kipling's vogue that he defies social and literary conventionality, and in his rude, strong way strikes straight at the heart of human nature and lays it bare in its blackness or beauty. That is why men and women read "The Vampire" more than once.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Domestication of the Buffalo.

It will be surprising to many to know that the buffalo can be domesticated. Had the government prohibited the killing of wild buffaloes years ago and provided in some way that they might be captured and bred for domestic use, the Transcontinentals could to-day be furnished at millions of dollars richer and there would be a new breed of cattle—hardy by nature. The buffalo crossed easily with domestic cattle, and it is shown that the half-breeds are much hardier than the ordinary stock, much larger, and that they produce good meat and milk.

Buffaloes have been used as oxen. They are easily tamed and they could have been of great value in logging camps and for the hauling of heavy burdens. They do not need much to eat, subsisting on the same things as other cattle, and being much faster and more active than the ordinary ox. Half-breed buffaloes can stand the cold of the open prairie during our severest winters where the thermometer is from thirty to forty degrees below zero. They are very prolific, the cows having calves every year. Such animals are almost as large as the buffalo, being covered with the same woolly hair, though the hair is not so long nor so thick. When it is remembered to-day that a buffalo hide is worth at least one hundred dollars, it can be seen that the having a herd of buffaloes, of which the increase would be regularly estimated, would be of no small value to the owner.

The Lighthouse Service.

An article on "Heroism in the Lighthouse Service" is written by Gustav Kobbe for the Century. Mr. Kobbe quotes the following letter, written to a friend by Mrs. Grant, who lived for many years on White Head, off the Maine coast: "Sometimes I think the time is not far distant when I shall climb these lighthouse stairs no more. It has almost seemed to me that the light was a part of myself. When we had care of the old lard-oil lamps on Matinicus Rock, they were more difficult to tend than these lamps are, and sometimes they would not burn so well when first lighted, especially in cold weather when the oil got cool. Then, some nights, I could not sleep a wink all night, though I knew the keeper himself was watching. And many nights I have watched the lights my part of the night, and then could not sleep the rest of the night, thinking nervously what might happen should the light fail.

"In all these years I always put the lamps in order in the morning, and I lit them at sunset. Those old lamps—as they were when my father lived on Matinicus Rock—are so thoroughly impressed on my memory that even now I often dream of them. There were fourteen lamps and fourteen reflectors. When I dream of them it always seems to me that I have been away a long while, and I am trying to get back in time to light the lamps. Then I am half way between Matinicus and White Head, and hurrying toward the rock to light the lamps there before sunset. Sometimes I walk on the water, sometimes I am in a boat, and sometimes I seem going in the air—I must always see the lights burning in both places before I wake. I always go through the same scenes in cleaning the lamps and lighting them, and I feel a great deal more worried in my dreams than when I am awake.

"I wonder if the care of the lighthouse will follow my soul after it has left this worn-out body! If I ever have a gravestone, I would like it to be in the form of a lighthouse or beacon."

On the Ocean Wave.

A well-known admiral has asserted that, even with a moderate gale and sea, an armor-plated cruiser, if going against the wind, will find herself in conditions similar to those of a storm—at least the crew will have that impression.

The movements of the stern of the ship are violent and very disagreeable. The waves, pushed by the advancing prow, sweep continually over the ship from bow to stern. All windows and portholes must be closed, and air reaches the lower decks, when the heat increases unbearably, only through the artificial ventilators. With the exception of the specially protected command bridge, all the uncovered portions of the ship are impassable; thus the whole crew must bear as well as they can the inferno of the closed decks.

In such a ship no one can feel comfortable; and when there is a storm, in which a sailing ship would feel comparatively at ease, the crew of an armor-plated ship imagines itself to be in a heavy hurricane, which threatens destruction at every minute.

The long, narrow fore part of the ship—which is not borne lightly by the water, and is rendered extremely heavy by the ram and the armored deck, and the cannon and torpedoes—forces the ship in a high sea to pitchings and rollings which are of a kind that cannot be described.

Wages in Mexico.

There are really no wages in Mexico. All working people take what they can get—that is, what the employer chooses to pay. Wageworkers make so little that there is no incentive to thrift, no stimulation of energy. The classes are the rich and the poor. There is no middle class. More hopefully perhaps it may be said that a middle class is just springing up. They who see no hope of independence, or even of small homes, naturally have no ambition. As soon as they get a very little money they quit work and squander it. Many employers make money, but their prosperity is based on the degradation of labor.

The men who do the heavy work in the mines of Mexico receive not more than fifteen cents to a dollar a day in Mexico money, or from forty to fifty cents in actual money; for agricultural labor there never is a quotable rate. Hackmen and waiters at restaurants depend almost wholly on tips, which custom makes small, and the money of the country smaller; house servants get from two dollars to five dollars a month, but rarely the higher price.

A Satire.

It is not generally known that "Humpty-Dumpty" was not originally a nursery rhyme, but a political satire at the expense of James II. of England—Humpty-Dumpty being, of course, James himself, the wall the throne, and the king, whose men and horses are in vain brought into requisition, Louis XIV. of France. It was originally written in French.

Some people like a bad thing so well that they make shortcake out of gooseberries.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY..... July 8, 1897

TREASURER HINES

Drops Dead at His Home This Morning.

Tuesday's Daily.

About 8:30 this morning word came over the telephone that Treasurer Henry Hines had fallen dead at his home in the old Ensley residence on South Jackson-st. It came as a terrible shock to all for he was generally supposed to be in excellent health. The DAILY reporter went at once to the scene, but life had departed before he reached the house. It appears he had been feeling poorly for a day or two, but he would not believe anything serious was the matter, although his son, Dr. F. M. Hines had warned him that he had some form of heart disease. He however, so far obeyed instructions as to keep a little more quiet than usual, and as the stroke came, he was sitting at home, in the same room in which Mrs. Hines was at work doing her ironing. Suddenly and with no warning, he fell from his chair to the floor. The alarm, was given and two neighbors, Mrs. S. D. Hanna and Mrs. Muhn came in, and then seeing how serious the matter was, Dr. Hines was telephoned for and he and Dr. Swarts reached the house first and later on Drs. Nusbaum and Baxter. All means possible were used, but in vain. In a short time he had ceased to breathe. The sad news went over town and business stopped while the matter was discussed everywhere. The opinion now is, that apoplexy causing the rupture of a blood vessel was the immediate cause of his death. His son, Dr. Hines is completely prostrated by the shock, and has been under care of physicians more or less to-day.

MR. HINES FUNERAL

Will be Held From the House Thursday.

The funeral of Mr. Hines will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 p. m. from the residence on South Jackson-st. Rev. J. D. Brosy, officiating, assisted by Rev. T. M. Guild and Rev. F. C. Colyin. The interment will take place in Woodlawn.

MYSTERIOUSLY HURT.

John Henry Bruentz, usually known as "Henry Prince" lies at the home of Wm Carr, in Jackson township, dying probably, of injuries the cause of which will never be known. He is an eccentric and half crazed man, who has for many years lived alone on a little farm he owns adjoining that of Sam Andress in Jackson township. He lives partly by his own efforts, but at times by the kindness of Wm Carr who is his guardian. Sunday afternoon he was accidentally found by Mrs. Andrews, lying a short distance from the front of his own door, helpless and severely injured and bruised. He was a sickening sight, blood stained and dirty, and mussed up by rolling and struggling on the ground and had lain as is believed an hour or two in the hot sun. On his right cheek, below the eye, was a torn cut, from which blood had flowed freely and mingled with dirt was partly dried and plastered over his face and person. There were severe bruises in many places over his body and he was unconscious when first found. He was taken to the residence of Mr. Carr, and Dr. Hines sent for. His injuries were dressed the worst being the cut on the cheek, which the doctor carefully sewed up. This was about all that could be done for him, as on regaining consciousness, he was too crazy to permit anything to be done for him, and up to Monday night only one dose of medicine could be given him. He was wild and at times violent and utterly refused to tell anything as to how he came to be hurt, or by whom, or whether it was the result of some accident, or a fit. And as his condition is very critical, it is possible he may die without a hint as to how it happened.

When found, he was as already said, some distance from his door and on the ground unconscious. He had with him his water pail, as if he were going to get a pail of water at Sam Andress' well, where he had been in the habit of getting it for years. He had, as has always been his custom, fastened his door, when he left the house, by tying it with a string. But here comes in a strange thing that only deepens the mystery. Although he had thus closed and fastened the door behind him in his own peculiar way, there are blood stains in the house, especially on a chair. This looks as if he must have been hurt in the house, and afterwards gone out, fasting the door after him. Various theories are afloat. He may have been attacked by tramps, as blood is on his ax handle, and there are traces of blood in many places. He may have fallen in a fit and cut and bruised himself in his struggles; it may have been a sunstroke.

Mr. Carr came to town last evening to telephone to Mr. Bruentz' brother-in-law who lives in Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, to come at once, as it is not believed that Bruentz can live but a short time. He continues unconscious with intervals of wild ravings. The mystery will probably never be cleared up.

LATER:—He died at 11 a. m. today and will be sent tonight to Cuyahoga Falls for burial. It is now believed he hurt himself while in a fit.

AT THE SAME HOUR.

Two Prominent Young Couples Were Married.

A Fremont, Ohio, paper of recent date has the following:

A happy pair of nuptial events occurred in Fremont Thursday afternoon at precisely the same hour, 4 o'clock, when the impressive words were said uniting for life Mr. Joseph C. Loveland and Miss Nora Ellen Knaub, and Mr. Samuel E. Stull and Miss Nannie A. Wolfe. The prominence of the contracting parties, who are favorites with large and admiring circles of friends, make these two events quite interesting.

The Loveland-Knaub wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Knaub, on West Croghan street, and was witnessed by some fifty invited relatives and friends. Rev. A. G. Lane performed the ceremony, which was beautiful in its simplicity. The bridal pair were unattended and were married under a magnificent bower of trailing vines and flowers. Pretty floral decorations adorned all portions of the residence. Following the congratulations the wedding supper was served. Shortly after this Mr. and Mrs Loveland repaired to their newly furnished rooms in the Jackson block where they will at once begin housekeeping. Many beautiful and useful presents were bestowed on this worthy young coulple as tokens of the high esteem in which they are held. Mr. Loveland is shipping clerk at the Jackson factory and a most exemplary young man, while his fair bride is a charming young lady, well and favorably known.

Mr. Loveland, was well known at Corunna, Waterloo and this place, being the son of the late Joe Loveland, of the Corunna Headlight. The COURIER joins his friends in DeKalb county in wishing for them a happy and prosperous future.

Man Drowned.

A man was drowned in the river at Robinson Park Monday. He made a high dive into deep water, and must have struck his head on a stump or stone at the bottom, stunning him so he did not rise again. As soon as he was missed, they searched for him, but it was some time before he was found. His home was in Ft. Wayne.

Wrong Color.

There is a popular young man in Auburn, who is evidenly a little "color b'ind." Monday, like everybody else, he worked in his shirt sleeves, and it was soon noticed that two long, bright auburn hairs were hanging, caught, in the fasteners that held up his sleeves. The matter was taken up by his friends who began to jolly him about his best girl, etc. But he coolly insisted the long silken strands, were those of his sister. This was an explanation that did not explain. For his sister has very dark hair. The matter is still a mystery, which even the DAILY is unable to solve. The facts are, Auburn has many lovely blondes that any young man would be only too glad to have repose their heads on his sleeves. We are now waiting for our young friend to come in and explain.

What is Blood Poverty?

Blood-poverty is want of red corpuscles in the blood, due to defective nourishment of the blood, brought about by imperfect or bad digestion. A positive cure for this ailment is Dr. John W. Bull's Pills, a surpassing digestive tonic and an excellent blood-maker. Dr. Bull's Pills come sixty in a box; cost but 25 cents; trial box, 10 cents, sold by all dealers, or by mail. A. C. Meyer & Co., Baltimore, Md. Accept only Dr. John W. Bull's Pills.

EXPORT BOUNTIES.

Senator Cannon Introduces Lubin's Scheme to Help Farmers.

He Makes a Hot Speech and Floors All Opponents—Present Protection Is One Sided and Robs the Farmer—He Now Sells in a Cheap and Buys in a Dear Market—Can Be Protected Only by Export Bounties on Farm Products—If He Cannot Get These He Wants Absolute Free Trade.

Senator Cannon, of Utah, introduced on May 25 an amendment to the tariff bill which is likely to make trouble for the republican leaders, and which may break down the whole protective system. The amendment favors the Lubin scheme of paying export bounties on farm products. This scheme is now being pushed vigorously, not only by its author, David Lubin, but also by the grangers of many states and by trades unions and ministers. It makes its fight inside the ranks of protection, and has already opened more farmers' eyes to the folly of the system than all of the tariff reform work that has been done.

Senator Cannon told some plain truths when introducing this amendment. He spoke in part as follows:

It was with great surprise, upon an examination of the measure, that I found that the great class of our population who have from the beginning not only supported the protective tariff party by their votes, but have supported the protective tariff principle by their industry from the beginning of its operation, were in a large degree excluded from any of its benefits. It is, I say, to supply a very patent omission from the measure as it now stands that the amendment is proposed, and it will be advocated here until a vote shall be had thereon.

The bill, as it is offered to-day, affords no protection to agricultural staples. There is remaining, I presume, no advocate of the protective tariff system who will contend that in this bill, with these import duties, there is afforded any protection or benefit of increased prices arising from import duties upon any of those commodities of which we export our surplus, nor are there remaining at the present time in the school of protection very many men who will contend and none who will prove that the indirect protection afforded to the farmer by the tariff on manufactured goods is sufficient compensation to him for the cost entailed upon him in carrying the protective tariff system upon manufactured goods.

It has become apparent to all thoughtful observers, and certainly it is known to all who have any direct connection with the agricultural industry of the United States, that the farmer cannot, and the man who reads him well knows that the farmer will not, much longer bear this burden.

There are three remedies possible. The second remedy, and one which I, as a believer in protection, would be ready to accept rather than to hold to and vote for an inequitable bill, would be absolute free trade, by which the farmer might buy as cheaply as he is compelled to sell, and that remedy this congress will not seek to enforce. There remains, then, but the third—the application of an export bounty which shall in a measure give restitution to the farmer for the higher prices which he is compelled to pay in protected markets.

No proposition based upon the declaration of equal protection to all the industries of the United States is complete, nor can there be successfully made a contention that it is just, unless it gives to the exporter of agricultural staples from the United States an equivalent benefit to that given to the manufacturer by the imposition of an import duty.

A duty of 25 cents a bushel upon wheat is a delusion and a snare. The farmer of the United States gets no benefit from it. The imposition of duty upon cotton, if that were attempted, would be of no value to the cotton producer. The imposition of a duty on rye is of no value to the farmer of the United States. Every other protected industry has a direct benefit from this tariff, because where we do not produce in the United States sufficient for our own consumption and a quantity considerable in extent for export the import duty serves as a means whereby the local producer can enhance the price to the local consumer.

The immediate benefit to the farmer derived from the treasury of the United States would not be all. For this comparatively small expenditure to him he would receive for these staples more than $225,000,000 in higher prices than he now receives. It is true that this would increase the price of breadstuffs to the consumers in the cities, but under the declaration made here to-day that with higher prices the people will be more able to buy we will have a larger consumption of wheat and wheat flour and other agricultural staples in the cities of the country than we have now at the low prices.

Mr. Butler—Mr. President, the senator from Utah said he was in favor of about $13,000,000 export duty on wheat at ten cents a bushel. If we pay an export bounty of ten cents a bushel, that will raise the price of every bushel of wheat, whether exported or consumed at home, that much, will it not?

Mr. Cannon—Certainly it will.

Mr. Butler—Then, for an investment of $13,000,000, which the government would pay out in the shape of an export bounty, the wheat farmers of the country would get their protection of $60,000,000 or $70,000,000, would they not?

Mr. Cannon—They would, if there be any truth in the protective principle.

Mr. Butler—That would be a very good investment.

Mr. Cannon—It would be a very good investment if it were to be made in behalf of any manufacturing industry or any trust in the United States, but anything in behalf of the farmer is looked upon with scorn and is considered a doubtful investment by the legislature of the United States.

In addition, Mr. President, it is a very poor argument, when you have been robbing some man for years and he asks you for justice, to say that you propose to continue to rob him of more and say that you do not know where you are going to get the money with which to restore that which you have unrighteously taken. It is the very first duty of the congress of the United States to provide a bill which shall not only be honest in its present application, but which shall pay back some portion of that which has been taken from the pockets of the toilers of this land.

I have talked with the farmers in 20 states of the union since last fall, and I firmly believe that this tariff would no longer endure them until the farmers of the United States can have a chance to revise it at the polls, if you do not give to them some portion of its benefits.

The farmer is bending beneath a burden which he cannot carry longer. He has been the backbone of the integrity of the United States, but there comes in the place of the free and independent farmer of this country a race of tenantry to reap servilely where he sowed nobly, men who receive their opinions from others instead of giving their own independent voice at the polls and in all their declarations to their fellowmen.

The senate of the United States can afford to be absolutely just. I believe the amendment should be adopted.

Mr. Chandler—May I ask the senator from Utah a question?

Mr. Cannon—Certainly.

Mr. Chandler—I heard the senator speak of robbery a little while ago with reference to the farmer. Does the senator mean that the farmer has been robbed all these years by the tariff? Is that the senator's argument?

Mr. Cannon—Yes, sir, decidedly.

Mr. Chandler—When did the senator first think that the American tariff system was a robbery of the farmer?

Mr. Cannon—Just so soon as the senator gave sufficient attention to the subject to understand the truth of it. I advocated republican tariffs as earnestly and as faithfully in my humble way as the senator from New Hampshire, and I believed exactly what I taught.

But I am not disposed any longer to advocate a system by which one portion of the population is taxed for the benefit of another portion of the population. I think that it is unfair to cherish only one class, and that the class which has already the most power of self-protection. If the senator from New Hampshire will go across the plains of Kansas, as I have gone, and across the plains of Nebraska, I believe in him sufficiently to think he will come back and say that this bill is robbery of the American farmer.

I have stated that I am in favor of a protective tariff system. I stated that in the guilelessness of my soul, being a republican, I went out and advocated the republican idea of a protective tariff. I never was brought quite so close to responsibility concerning it before as I am to-day. Heretofore I have discussed it on the stump, advocating it in general terms, but as soon as I am confronted with responsibility which obliges me to look more closely into its application to all the people I am simply discharging my duty when I seek to amend this measure so that it shall be honest to all.

Pres. Angell's Baccalaureate.

ANN ARBOR, MICH. June 28, 1897:—The baccalaurate sermon by President Angell at University Hall last evening was a model of its kind. Few of the hundreds who go out from here in the world this month, equipped in a greater or less degree, with mental and moral weapons for the battle of life, will ever again hear addressed to each, individually, another discourse so full of pertinent, practical and elevating counsel.

The music of many voices blended with the notes of the Columbian Organ, which, doubtless you all heard at the World's Fair, four years ago, and which now enriches University Hall.

Prof. D'Ooge the dean of the literary department read the scripture lesson from Acts 26th, the wonderful argument of Paul before King Agrippa. Then followed more music, prayer by the dean, more music, and then as President Angell arose to speak, the hush of great expectation fell upon the vast audience. Directly in front on the middle benches sat the hundreds of young men and women who have just completed their four years of college work.

Doctor Angell took no text. He spoke no pleasant flatteries. He told them that the lessons they had learned here were but the beginning of labor which should last to the end of life, that if they would attain to any great degree of excellence they must continue to grow and their growth will depend upon the unflagging zeal and energy which alone can develop their intellectual and moral natures. Now, at the very outset of their individual careers they would in the waiting time have the best opportunity to secure ultimate success by unremitting industry. He cited the examples of Choate and Webster, men who, when clients were few and leisure abundant, laid broad and deep, by diligent study, the foundations of their future triumphs.

He exhorted them to have high ideals and be loyal to them. They would meet many temptations to lower their standards of excellence to the level of the life around them, temptations to make material success their sole criterion. He called upon them to remember the example of Him, who offered all the kingdoms of this world and the glory of them, and to resist every seduction of the evil one. He exhorted them to labor for others, for humanity, but not to forget, in love for their neighbor, that other and greater commandment "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, with all thy soul, and with all thy mind."

They would never see a vision like that which met Paul on his way to Damascus, yet each would have revelations of duty required of them in their daily life, and he entreated them so to live that with Paul they may say "I was not disobedient to the heavenly vision." He urged them finally if they had not heretofore given themselves to Christ to do it now and to take for the rule of their life the blessed example of Him, who came to do, not His own will, but that of His Father who sent Him.

In conclusion Pres. Angell assured them that the University would follow their future work with the deepest interest. She would sympathize with them in their disappointments and failures and rejoice with them in deserved successes and triumphs.

Invoking the blessings of God upon them and upon her, he sat down. The spell, which had bound the entire audience making it as one listener, was broken, and a subdued murmur marked the reassertion of separate individualities. I am glad and thankful to have heard here, in one of our greatest centers of learning, words so incisive, so full of inspiration to the highest living.

I wish that every word of President Angell's address, the sentiments of which I have been able to give so imperfectly, might be written indelibly not alone upon the memory but within the heart of each hearer, perpetual monitions against the neglect or perversion of those talents which God gave and for the use of which none can escape responsibility.

President Angell will soon go to Turkey.

His abilities as a diplomatist have deservedly gained him this high mission at a period so critical. But tactful and politic as he is, he has other qualities no less necessary, and to President Angell, the sincere, gracious Christian gentleman and skillful diplomatist, our nation can safely trust her relations to Turkey.

JULIA E. M. HODGE.

Special Notice to Teachers.

For the six examinations, beginning with May, 1897, the questions in "General Culture" will be based on Guizot's History of Civilization, covering one of the Township Institute Outlines (1896-97) at each examination, beginning with the first.

For the same examinations the questions in reading will be based on Tompkins' "Literary Interpretations," covering one of the Institute Outlines at each examination, beginning with the first.

The questions in the "Science of Education" these examinations will not be based on any particular text.

Respectfully,
H. E. Coe, Co. Supt.

County Institute.

It seems quite impossible to make the best arrangements for our County Institute on dates of Aug. 23, 27, so we have decided to change to Aug. 16, 20.

Hoping this will meet the conditions suited to the welfare of all interested in the schools of the county.

I am yours respectfully,
H. E. COE, Co. Supt.

Just to cool the boys

Is what our wash suits are made for. To clothe the boys in a cool, washable suit you will have the opportunity to get one this week only, at a price that brings them.....

within reach of the most limited purse

For the balance of this week we will close the remainder of our stock of boys washable suits with sailor collars at the following prices:

Suits	$1.35,	marked	$1.15;	sale	79c
worth	1.50,	down to	1.25;	price	88c
"	1.75,	"	1.35;	"	98c
"	2.50,	"	1.75;	"	$1.28

See them to know they are actual bargains. Sizes 3 to 7 years age. Only about 35 suits left; come now and dress your boys for the hot weather. Men find instant relief in our Crash Suits. We get $1 for them, you pay $5 for the same when you don't purchase them of us. Buy your straws here at reduced prices.

G. H. YESBERA,
For Cool Wear.

ROMANCE VERSUS REALITY.

THESE SENATORS POSED FOR A GREAT HISTORICAL PICTURE.

BUT THEY DIDN'T KNOW IT WAS A ROENTGEN CAMERA.

New England is much concerned about free hides. Some of her biggest industries, especially that of boots and shoes, have been built up during our quarter of a century of free hides. She now sells boots and shoes in all parts of the world. Taxed sides would cripple this and other industries. Her leading senators pretend to represent her and to put up a fight for free hides. In reality, if necessary, they will sacrifice free hides to obtain high duties on sugar with plenty of margin for trust profits. Just why this is so should be a matter for senatorial investigation, if such investigation would only investigate. Fortunately for the sugar trust, but unfortunately for the rest of us 70,000,000 people, the sugar trust understands well the art of making friends where they will do the most good. It has able attorneys to advise it how to distribute its sweets to politicians and lawmakers and at the same time to steer clear of jails.

In this way and in this way only can we account for the attitude of not a few prominent tariff makers at Washington. The situation is interesting—decidedly so.

Manufacturers Against Tariff Bill.

One of the most striking indications of the growth of sentiment against high protection and of a liberal sentiment upon tariff matters is the movement against the pending tariff bill by the Manufacturers' Association of the United States. Mr. A. B. Farquhar, an extensive manufacturer of agricultural machinery at York, Pa., is at the head of the movement.

It is well known that in the manufacture of agricultural implements and machinery Americans are far in advance of their competitors in any other land and that the products of their factories may be seen in the fields all over the civilized world. These people need no protection and are well able to take care of themselves. All they ask is to have untaxed raw material, so that they will not be placed at a disadvantage.

A great list of other industries are practically in the same position and desire free raw material more than they desire protection. It is also significant that the manufacturers, in their petition to the senate, declare that their ability to employ American labor will be greatly impaired by the passage of the tariff bill. They ask that the Chinese wall that is obstructing the foreign trade and crippling American enterprise shall be broken down.

The plea which has been used for years by the protectionists—namely, that protection is in the interest of American labor—is shown by census figures to be a sham. Of the 5,000,000 persons employed in manufacturing in the United States it is shown in the petition that less than 200,000 are employed in occupations subject to active foreign competition and 616,000 in occupations subject to moderate foreign competition. The remainder, over 4,000,000, do not come at all in competition with foreign labor.

It is very plain that the Dingley bill is not designed, any more than any other high protective measure was designed, to protect American labor or to produce revenues for the government. It is designed primarily to protect the trusts and to foster monopoly.—Baltimore Sun.

Republican Criticism.

According to the protective theory the imposition of a tax on noncompeting articles adds to their cost to the consumer. This theory would be aptly exemplified in the proposed duties on hides, as the people would be compelled to pay more for their footwear. It is estimated that the increased cost of boots and shoes for one year under the proposed duty would amount to $20,000,000. With free hides our manufacturers of leather goods have been able to build up a great export trade in footwear. As Mr. Blaine said when it was proposed to put a duty on hides in the law of 1890: "It will yield a profit to the butcher only—the last man that needs it." The interests of the tanners and shoe manufacturers are vastly more important than the interests of butchers and western ranchmen.—Chicago Times-Herald (Rep.).

CASTORIA.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

The Matrimonial Reunion.

Rev. W. L. Meese informs us that the regular date of the Matrimonial Reunion is August 19, and as before, it will be held in the grove at the fair ground, half a mile east of Auburn. Our people all over the country remember what an interesting gathering it was last year, and we have no doubt there will be a larger crowd than even the great crowd we had then. The services will be similar to those last year and everybody will bring their families. It will be a picnic meeting and lunch baskets will be abundant. There will also be plenty of stands at which lunch can be had by those who could not bring their own. All come.

RUNAWAY.

Dave Caruth Took a Fast Ride Today.

At about 10 o'clock this forenoon Dave Caruth's horse become unmanagable while at E. Freygang's harness shop, and ran away. Mr. Caruth was thrown from the buggy on the crossing and hurt some. He was taken to the Swineford hotel where medical assistance was summoned. Only a slight cut on the head was visible, though he was probably bruised badly. The horse went on to the barn. Only one thill to the buggy was broken.

Open Thursday.

The new photo gallery of Irvin Hoffman at Rice's old stand, opens Thursday, July 8. Call and see his work. Everything ready in fine shape.

CASTORIA.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Supplement to THE AUBURN COURIER

Auburn, Ind., Thursday, July 15, 1897.

Poultry or Beef.

There is ample room for the sale of choice poultry, and it can take the place of beef. The bills of fare in hotels and restaurants show that "chicken" is sold for more than beef, and yet there are thousands who refuse such dishes because they know that the larger portion of poultry sent to the large cities could be improved in quality. The farmer can give no reason whatsoever for his refusal to produce choice poultry, as he can procure breeds well adapted for the market for a nominal sum, but he holds on to his scrubs, sell the culls more to get rid of them than for profit, and deprives himself of a surer and quicker revenue than could be obtained from any other source on the farm. It is difficult to make farmers understand that they cannot keep poultry for one purpose alone. It is usual to resort to the best laying breeds, overlooking the market quality, the supposition being that if the hens are good layers anything will be suitable for market. The rule should be the other way; that is, the best market breeds should be sought, making egg production secondary, for the reason that all breeds are not suitable for market, but the difference in the productive hens as layers, between the best breeds and the lowest, does not amount to one dozen eggs in the year, and even if the best breeds are obtained the results will depend upon management. It is doubtful, however, if anyone has discovered the "best" layers. Ask those who have used Leghorns, Plymouth Rocks, Minorcas, Wyandottes, Langshans, Cochins, Brahmas or Aondans, and the advocates of each will be ready to firm that the breed selected by one and all is the best. And each will be correct in his claim because the breed used was the best under his management. It would add a large sum to the profits of poultry if the market breeds were more generally used and every fowl made fat before being sold. This system would create more customers and better prices.

There are whole armies of consumers ready to abandon beef if they can get something superior, and they are the ones who are waiting for better poultry.—Poultry Keeper.

Bear That Spanks Her Cubs.

Charles Dudley Warner, in Harper's Magazine, relates the following on the subject of law and its enforcement, and declares the incident to be an absolute fact. The story will please the young readers of this paper, we feel sure, and we believe the older ones will peruse it with no little interest. It certainly illustrates that the bear, as well as other animals, possesses the ability to reason from cause to effect, and that the simple declaration that it was instinct that governed the mother in this case will not do. Mr. Warner says that there is a lunch station at the upper basin near the geyser, known as "Old Faithfull," in Yellowstone Park, kept by a very intelligent and ingenious man. He got acquainted last year with a she-bear, who used to come to his house every day and walk into the kitchen for food for herself and her two cubs. The cubs never came. The keeper got on very intimate terms with the old bear, who was always civil and well-behaved, and would take food from his hand without taking the hand. One day toward sunset the bear came to the kitchen, and, having received her portion, went out of the back door to carry it to her cubs. To her surprise and anger the cubs were there, waiting for her. She laid down the food and rushed at her infants and gave them a rousing spanking. She did not cuff them—she spanked them, and then she drove them back into the woods, cuffing them and knocking them at every step. When she reached the spot where she had told them to wait for her she left them and returned to the house. And there she stayed in the kitchen for two hours, making the disobedient children wait for their food, simply to discipline and teach them obedience. The explanation of her behavior is easy. When a bear leaves her young in a particular place and goes in search of food for them, if they stray away in her absence she has great difficulty in finding them. This mother knew that the safety of her cubs and her own peace of mind depended upon strict discipline in the family. Oh, that we had more such mothers in the United States!

Recently two men were observed working on adjacent lots. The first was employed gardening on his own land, and seldom stopped to rest. The second was working for another party and was frequently cbliged to take a few minutes off for a vacation. The first paid no attention to the whistles when they blew for noon or six in the evening. The second dropped his shovel instanter at the first toot of the whistle, and soon had his coat on and was away. This little incident is a good illustration of the radical difference between interest and indifference.—Ex.

"Kind lady, will you let me have something to drink?"

"There's a well right down yonder; you can have all the water you want."

"No, kind lady, I have an iron constitution an' water will rust it."—New York Evenidg World.

1893 1897

FOURTH ANNIVERSARY SALE

A MONSTER TWO DAY'S SALE, FRIDAY & SATURDAY, JULY 16 AND 17, 1897.

THE fame of this, DeKalb County's Greatest Store, has penetrated everywhere. When we say Bargains the people know we mean just what we say. We invite you to join us in the Celebration of this, our FOURTH ANNIVERSARY SALE, and we assure you that in Genuine Bargain Giving this Sale will far surpass any ever held in Northern Indiana. Carefully note our prices. Bring this sheet with you, and share in the Great Money Saving Sale.

GOODS SOLD ON THESE DAYS CANNOT BE RETURNED.

Dress Goods

5000 yards 5c Challies go at, per yard 2c
3000 yards 10c Lawns go at 4½c
2000 yards 10 and 12½c Dimities go at 7c
4000 yards all wool Serge, go at 25c
7 pieces Black Dress Goods, worth from from 50c to 75c yard, all go at 43c
25 Dress Patterns, Silk and Wool Novelties, worth up to $1.25 yard go at 75c
15 pieces Novelty Dress Goods, worth 50c to 75c, your choice 42c
5 pieces Black Brilliantine, 52 inches wide, worth $1.00, go at 60c
500 yards Silk, worth 25c, go at 10c
300 yards Silk, worth 35c, go at 15c
200 yards Satin Duchesse 49c

White Dress Goods

10 pieces, worth 8c yard, this sale 6c
10 pieces, worth 10c yard, this sale 8c
10 pieces, worth 12½c yard, this sale 10c
10 pieces, worth 15c, this sale 12½c
10 pieces, worth 20c, this sale 15c
5 pieces, worth 25c, this sale 20c
3 pieces, worth 35c, this sale 25c

All other White Goods at proportionately reduced prices.

Handkerchiefs

1 lot silk Hdkfs, worth 25c, choice 14c
1 lot silk Hdkfs, worth 50c, choice 29c
50 doz Ladies' Hemstitched, worth 8c to 10c 5c
10 doz Ladies' Embroideried, worth 15c 10c
25 doz Ladies' Fine Embroideried, worth 50c 23c
10 doz Men's Fine Hdkfs 9c

Ladies Gloves

50 doz Ladies' Kid Gloves, Black and Colors, actually worth $1.00, choice 79c
25 doz Paragon Kid Gloves $1.00
50 doz Silk Mitts, splendid goods 25c
10 doz Ladies' Mosquitaires, all colors & sizes, well worth $1.25 ..... 1.00

Stamped Linens

Immense Stock at Reduced Prices.

Laces

More than 100 pieces New Laces for this sale. Prices much lower than you'd expect

Embroideries

1 lot worth 30 to 60c, your choice 28c
1 lot worth 10 to 12½c, your choice 9c
1 lot worth 12½ to 20c, your choice 12½c
1 lot worth 17 to 30c, your choice 15c
1 lot worth 20 to 40c, your choice 19c

Ladies Neckwear

1 lot Ladies' Duchess Collar & Tie, worth 25c, your choice 14c
1 lot Velvet & Chiffon, worth 50c 36c
1 lot, Velvet & Ribbon, worth 25c 17c
1 lot Assorted Lace Collars and Cuffs, worth up to $2.00 your choice 63c & 1.44

Ladies Knit Underwear

Ladies' Union Suits, worth 50c 35c
Ladies' Union Suits, worth 40c 25c
Ladies' Pants & Vests, worth 25c 19c
Ladies' Pants & Vests, worth 50c 39c
Ladies' Vests ..... 5 and 10c
Children's Knit Vests ..... 5, 10, 25 and 35c

Ladies Dress Trimmings

1 lot assorted braids & Jet Sets, worth from $1.50 to $4.00, your choice ..... $1.50 and $2.63
Large assortment of Jet and Braid Trimmings at Half Price.

Children's Jackets

25 Children's Jackets, nicely assorted, new and stylish ..... ½ price
20 Ladies' Summer Jackets, worth up to $5.00, each $75c

Table Oil Cloth

25 pieces best goods, per yard 10c

Window Shades

Mounted Felt Shades, best quality 10c
7 Foot Opaque Shade, good spring roller all colors 22c

Domestics

5000 yards Bro. Muslin, worth 5c yard, per yard 3½c
3000 yards Bro. Muslin, worth 6c 4c
2000 yards Blea. Muslin, worth 5c yard 4c
2500 yards Blea. Muslin, worth 6c yard 5c
2000 yards Blea. Muslin, worth 8c yard 6c
Wide Sheeting, reduction ..... 20 per cent
5000 yards Best Dress Prints 4c
2000 yards Best Domestic Gingham 4c
1000 yards Fine 10c Gingham, go at 6c
2000 yards heavy Shirting, worth 8c 6¼c
500 yards Ticking, worth 15c 10c

Muslin Underwear

5 doz Ladies' Gowns worth 50c 44c
6 doz Ladies' Gowns worth 75c 63c
7 doz Ladies' Gowns worth $1.00 ..... 72c
10 doz Ladies' Gowns worth $1.25 ..... 94c
9 doz Ladies' Skirts worth 50c 46c
6 doz Ladies' Skirts worth 75c 59c
5 doz Ladies' Skirts worth $1.00 ..... 74c
4 doz Ladies' Skirts worth to $1.50 ..... 1.00
5 doz Ladies' Drawers worth 75c 56c

NO GOODS CAN BE TAKEN ON APPROVAL DURING THIS SALE

Housekeeping Goods

10 doz Large All Linen Towels 19c
15 doz Good All Linen Towels 9c
5 doz Large Fringed Towels 15c
25 doz Good Cotton Towels 5c
10 Pieces Good Heavy Linen Toweling 7c
10 Pieces Better Heavy Linen Toweling 9c
10 Pieces Best Heavy Wide Linen Toweling 10c
5 Pieces Heavy Table Linen, worth 35c 25c
10 Pieces Heavy Table Linen, worth 40c 33c
8 Pieces Heavy Wide Linen, worth 50c 42c
10 Pieces Blea. Table Linen, worth 75c 62c
5 Pieces Best Blea. Table Linen, worth $1.00 ..... 83c
Very best $1.25 Table Linen 1.10
10 doz Napkins, worth $1.00 ..... 86c
2 yard Red Table Cloths, worth 90c 65c
5½ yard Red Table Cloths, worth $1.10 ..... 80c
3 yard Red Table Cloths, worth $1.25 ..... 1.00
2½ yard German Table Cloths, worth $1.40 ..... 1.00
2 yard Best Blea Table Linen Cloths, worth $3.50 ..... 2.50
2½ yard Best Blea Table Linen Cloths. worth $4.00 ..... 3.00
Napkins to Match 3.00
25 doz Napkins, worth $3.00 ..... 2.59

Hosiery

50 doz Ladies' Fast Black, narrowed ankle, seamless, usual price 12½ to 15c, only 8c
25 doz Tan, same as above 8c
50 doz Fast Black, 40 guage, spliced heel and toe, seamless, worth 20c, this sale two pair for 25c
5 doz all silk, seamless, colors—brown, tan, blue, heliotrope and cream; regular $1.00 goods, only 36c
40 doz Children's Fast Black, seamless, heavy ribbed 10c
50 doz fine, fast black, seamless, double knee and toe, well worth 18c during this sale two pair for 25c
40 doz Men's Half Hose, really worth 8c 5c
50 doz fine thread, firm wove, best wearing, cheap at three for 25c

Corsets

1 lot Coraline Corsets, worth $1.00 and $1.25, your choice 75c
3 doz Warner's Coraline abdominal corset, worth $1.60 this sale 75c
10 doz Warner's Marvel and Sensation Corsets, worth more than 50c, this sale 44c
Cyclone Summer Corset, usually sold at 65c 48c

Ladies Wool Suits & Skirts

20 Stylish New Wool Suits, well made and elegantly trimmed, at about half price.
2 doz Ladies' Wool, Silk and Novelty Skirts, blacks and colors—¼ off former prices.

Shirt Waists

1 lot assorted colors, all sizes, were considered good at 50c 23c
1 lot good assorted, sold at from 75c to $1.00, your choice 48c
1 lot elegant goods, sold at $1.25 to $2.00, very cheap at 99c

Silk Waists

5 doz Silk Waists, from best manufacturers, stylish and dependable goods, worth from $2.75 to $5.00, this sale ⅓ off.

Millinery

40 ladies' artistically trimmed, stylish Hats ..... ½ Price
1 lot Sailors and Walking Hats, worth up to $1.50 ..... 50c
Large lot Baby Bonnets and Mull Hats, cheap
½ doz Hats, fancy colors, worth up to $1.75, go at 50c

Sheets and Pillow Cases

Bleached Sheets, 2 yd wide 2½ yd long 44c
Bleached sheets, 2¼ yd wide, 2½ yd long 49c
1 lot Pillow Cases 12c
1 lot Pillow Cases 14c

Carpets

5 pieces Ingrain, worth 35c 27c
5 pieces, wool fill, cott chain, worth 45c 35c
3 pieces, all wool, worth 50c 39c
50 pieces best all wool extra superfine, always sell at 60c 44c
5 pieces Tapestry Brussels, worth 75c 50c
20 pieces best Japan Matting, cheap at 25 to 35c, go at 20c
10 pieces worth 12½ to 15c, go at 10c

Rugs

25 Smyrna Rugs, worth $3.00 ..... $1.88
12 Smyrna Rugs, worth 4.00 ..... 2.50

Lace Curtains

4 doz Lace Curtains, worth 75c 50c
5 doz long and wide, worth $2.00 ..... $1.19
1 lot worth $2.50 ..... 1.65

Portieries

1 doz pairs Chenille Portieres, worth $3.50 ..... $2.49
6 pairs extra good and large, worth $6.00 ..... 4.00

Soaps

Kirk's Cologne Boquet, worth 25c cake, —3 cakes for 25c
English Violet Buttermilk, worth 10c cake, 3 cakes for 10c

Trunks

30-inch, new, worth $4.00 ..... $2.75
32-inch, always sell at 3.00
34-inch, worth $6.00 ..... 4.00

Gents Furnishing Goods

1 lot white body, fancy bosom shirts, well worth $1.00, your choice 79c
1 lot white laundried shirts, all sizes 48c
1 lot laundried shirts, slightly soiled, worth $1.00 to $1.75 ..... 69c
1 lot negligee shirts, collars and cuffs attached, worth 50 and 65c 33c
1 lot negligee shirts, detatched collars & 1 pair cuffs, worth $1.00 ..... 75c
1 lot gents 3-ply linen collars, slightly soiled, worth 15c 3c
1 lot men's night robes at ..... 49 & 98c
E. & W. collars ..... ¼ off
Small line boys suspenders worth 10c, sale price 4c
Men's 25c and 50c suspenders ..... ¼ off
1 lot Men's teck and four in hand scarfs 50c and 75c qualities 39c
1 lot men's teck and four in hand scarfs 25c quality 21c
1 lot Gent's Imperial Puffs, 50c and 75c qualities 37c
1 lot gent's full wool all-wool Golf bicycle hose, worth $1.00, sale 49c
1 lot same as above, worth $1.25, sale price 73c
1 lot same as above worth $1.50, sale price 98c
Mens working shirts ..... 24c and 49c
1 lot men's underwear, worth 75c suit sale price 49c
Better line at 99c
The celebrated Boss overalls, once worn always worn 49c

Sweaters

1 lot boys' heavy ribbed sweaters 19c
1 lot men's Sanger seaters, sizes 40 and 42, worth 50c 23c
Men's cotton sweaters, roll or sailor collars, worth 50c 37c
Men's all wool sweaters, worth $1,25 sale price 69c
Men's 25c leather belts 19c
Men's 25c leather belts 33c
Men's 75c leather belts 49c

Notions

Good Pins ..... 1c paper
Corticella Silk Twist ..... 1c spool
Shopping Bags ..... ½ price
Agate Buttons ..... 12 doz 5c
Hair Pins ..... 1c doz
Basting Cotton 200 yds spools ..... 3 for 5c
Large stock new leather belts ..... cheap
Shirt Waist sets ..... 25c up
Belts Buckles ..... ½ price
Good Assortment Good Shears, warranted ..... very cheap
Good Purses 5c
Good Purses, worth 20c 10c
Large line better Purses and Pocket Books, very cheap for this sale.
1 lot good Fine and Dressing Combs 5c
Woman's and Children's Hose Supporters
24 Sheets Good Letter Paper and 24 envelopes for 10c

Ladies Wrappers and Suits

Good material, well made, worth $1.00, for 93c
4 doz Percale Wrappers, full skirt, fine braid trimming, worth, $1.75 ..... 1.25
5 doz cheap at $1.25, go for 1.00
3 doz 3-piece Percale Suits, always sold at $1.75 and $2.00, now 1.39
3 doz 2-piece Lawn Suits, fine and well made, regular price $2.50 ..... 1.64

A few Linen Suits and Skirts very cheap to close out.

Bed Spreads

50 Good Heavy Bed Spreads 75c
75 Bed Spreads, worth $1.25 ..... 98c
60 Best Spreads, worth $2.00 ..... 1.22
25 Chenille Table Covers, worth $1.00 ..... 75c

Parasols and Umbrellas

An elegant lot of Ladies' and Children's Silk Parasols, all colors and styles ..... ¼ off
1 lot Umbrellas, 28 to 30-inch, worth 90c and $1.00, this sale ..... 72 & 85c
1 line Gloria Silk Umbrellas, worth $1.25, sale price 96c
1 lot worth 65c go at 53c

GOODS BOUGHT AT THIS SALE CANNOT BE EXCHANGED.

THE BISHOP & LACKEY CO.,

Leading Merchants. Auburn, Indiana.

Interesting Store News.

Visitors and homefolks tell us that no other store shows such a collection of desirable New Goods. That even metropolitan stores do not sell them so cheaply. Our Cash Buying and Cash Selling gives us an immense advantage, which inures to your benefit.

Do you know about our New Cyclone Summer Corset? It is the best and easiest fitting Summer Corset in the world. But don't take our say so for it. Try a pair, and your money back if you want. Price only 50c. Our La Mode Corset at 38c is a world beater.

Ladies' Tailor-made Suits and Skirts.

We enumerate a few items to get you to come. Ladies' Black wool and Novelty Skirts, lined throughout, bound with velvet, $1.29 to $4. Tailor-made wool suits, up-to-date, $5 to $12. Two-piece Lawn Suits stylishly made, well fitting, beautifully trimmed, $2 to $3.50.

Summer Underwear

Ladies' Vests, Children's Vests, cool gauzy and comfortable. Vests with sleeves, vests without sleeves, vests with wings, in fact any style you want. Prices are 5c each up, and are cheap.

Shirt Waists

Neat, Chic, Dainty Designs, made to fit, made to wear, made for comfort, will wash and be the better for it. More than fifty styles to select from. Our 50c Waist is the Best.

Wash Dress Goods.

Seasonable Goods seductively priced. 28-inch Striped and Figured Lawns and Dimities, worth 12 1-2c yard; our price 8c. 30-inch Organdies, fine sheer fabrics, many stores sell at 15c; our price 10c.....

Our Stock of

Laces, Ribbons, Mitts, Belts, Fans, Shirt Waist Sets, Embroideries and Handkerchiefs is the largest in DeKalb County.

The Bishop & Lackey Co.

LEADING MERCHANTS.

HUMPHREYS'

No. 1	Cures	Fever.
No. 2	"	Worms.
No. 3	"	Infants' Diseases.
No. 4	"	Diarrhea.
No. 8	"	Neuralgia.
No. 9	Cures	Headache.
No. 10	"	Dyspepsia.
No. 11	"	Delayed Periods.
No. 12	"	Leuchorrea.
No. 14	"	Skin Diseases.
No. 15	Cures	Rheumatism.
No. 16	"	Malaria.
No. 20	"	Whooping Cough
No. 27	"	Kidney Diseases.
No. 30	"	Urinary Diseases
No. 77	"	Colds and Grip.

Sold by Druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price, 25c., or 5 for $1.

DR. HUMPHREYS' HOMEOPATHIC MANUAL OF DISEASES MAILED FREE.

Humphreys' Med. Co., 111 William St., N. Y.

Rifles That Shoot Two Miles.

Practical science is still engaged upon the problems suggested by recent changes and improvements in guns, projectiles and gunpowders. The rifles adopted for use in the United States navy have bores less than one-quarter of an inch in diameter (accurately 0.236 in.), and, with smokeless powder, they send their slender projectiles over a range of about two miles, starting from the muzzle with a velocity of some 2,300 feet in a second! Similar rifles have been selected for use in the navies of several foreign countries, but the question is still under debate, in some quarters, whether the immense range and great penetrating power of these arms are not fully counterbalanced by the difficulties connected with their manufacture and use, and by the lack of "stopping power" of the projectiles.

Here's a Queer One.

The citizens of Alexis, Ill., are puzzling their brains over the unparalleled conduct of a well-to-do farmer, named Green, who recently came to a butcher in the village and asked him what loss he had sustained in goods stored in a barn that was burned several years ago. The loss was figured up and Green produced a wallet and paid the amount, stating that he was the man responsible for the fire. He next went to the former owner of the barn, told him the same story and paid the loss in full. He then hunted up several other citizens whom he claimed to have defrauded and insisted upon remunerating them. It is alleged that Green recently joined the church. He says that he has been a very wicked man and wants to make reparation.

Ambitious Bicycler.

"Have you got any high-grade wheels?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, I want one I can use on Pike's peak."—Yonkers Statesman.

For Care of Young Children.

The Paris municipality has resolved to increase from 98 to 400 the number of infant schools, or rather places where young children are taken care of while their mothers are at work. These institutions are a kind of second-class creche, serving not for infants, but for children under the school age of 6. The existing institutions have 4,700 inmates and cost 80,000 francs a year. The cost will now be increased to 530,000 francs.

GEN. GRANT'S BREAKFAST.

Fought All Day on a Cup of Coffee and a Dish of Cucumbers.

In the December Century Gen. Horace Porter says of the entrance of Grant's army into the Wilderness: After the officers at headquarters had obtained what sleep they could get, they arose about daylight, feeling that in all probability they would witness before night either a fight or a foot race—a fight if the armies encountered each other, a foot race to secure good positions if the armies remained apart.

Gen. Meade had started south at dawn, moving along the Germania road. Gen. Grant intended to remain in his present camp till Burnside arrived, in order to give him some directions in person regarding his movements. The general sat down to the breakfast table after nearly all the staff officers had finished their morning meal. While he was slowly sipping his coffee a young newspaper reporter, whose appetite, combined with his spirit of enterprise, had gained a substantial victory over his modesty, slipped up to the table, took a seat at the farther end, and remarked: "Well, I wouldn't mind taking a cup of something warm myself, if there's no objection." Thereupon seizing a coffee pot he poured out a full ration of that soothing beverage, and, after helping himself to some of the other dishes, proceeded to eat breakfast with an appetite which had evidently been stimulated by long hours of fasting. The general paid no more attention to this occurrence than he would have paid to the flight of a bird across his path. He scarcely looked at the intruder, did not utter a word at the time, and made no mention of it afterward. It was a fair example of the imperturbability of his nature as to trivial matters taking place about him. The following is an incident of the next morning. The members of the headquarters mess soon after assembled to partake of a hasty breakfast. The general made rather a singular meal preparatory to so exhausting a day as that which was to follow. He took a cucumber, sliced it, poured some vinegar over it, and partook of nothing else except a cup of strong coffee. The first thing he did after rising from the table was to call for a fresh supply of cigars. His colored servant "Bill" brought him two dozen. After lighting one of them, he filled his pockets with the rest. He then went over to the knoll, and began to walk back and forth slowly upon the cleared portion of the ridge.

Together.

Pat—Will yer carry a pair av pantaloons fer me to the next town in yer wagon, Mr. Bilks?

Bilks—Certainly, Pat. But where will I deliver them?

Pat—Oh! That's all roight. Oi'll be inside av them.—Clothier and Furnisher.

Something Queurious.

—Life.

A Proper Precaution.

Mabel (to her young man)—But you must ask papa for his consent.

Young Man (very shy)—Oh, certainly! Your—papa—has—I—hope—a—telephone—at his—office?—Sheffield Week.

Conditionally Willing.

Little Left.

"What a small mind Mrs. Venlynne has!"

"Naturally. She has given her husband so many pieces of it."—Life.

Quite Likely.

Cholly—Darling Marie, if you will be my wife, we will glide along through life hand in hand, like—

—THIS. —Truth.

Thursday's Daily.

—Sam Frets left this morning for a trip through the southern part of the state. He will visit A. B. Nickey & Sons while gone.

—Don't nauseate your stomach with teas and bitter herbs, but regulate your liver and sick headache by using those famous little pills known as DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Davenport the Druggist.

—Rev. J. D. Brosy and wife, and L. Bowers and wife, drove down to Jackson township today for a visit with Samuel Cornell and family.

—Burning, itching skin diseases instantly relieved by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, unequaled for cuts, burns, bruises. It heals without leaving a scar. Davenport the druggist.

—Dr. Baxter is paying special attention to Diseases of Children also Diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Nervous system. tf

—Vim, vigor and victory:—these are the characteristics of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, biliousness and all stomach and liver troubles. Davenport the drug gist.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Steele, welcomed a little stranger boy, at 11 a. m. today, "Steel" is the popular material, and the DAILY hopes this little man will prove to be of the finest.

—"They don't make much fuss about it." We are speaking of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, biliousness, and all stomach and liver troubles. They never gripe. Davenport the druggist.

Supt. Coe moved his family over from Butler this week, and are now at home in the Thrush residence on Fourth-st. As they resided in Auburn so long, it will be like coming back home for them.

—There is a little time for everything; and the time to attend to a cold is when it starts. Don't wait 'till you have consumption but prevent it by using One Minute Cough Cure, the great remedy for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles. Davenport the druggists.

—Bucklen's Arnica Salve.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay repuired. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For ale by Robbins & McCord. tf

—G. W. Bleeks of Newville township was here today. He has been appointed administrator of the estate of the late Mrs. Rhodarmer of Newville, who died June 8 while visiting her daughter, Mrs. Martha Davis in Michigan. Mr. Bleeks is a careful business man, and his choice for this is a good one.

—It heals everything except a broken heart, may be said of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Piles and rectal diseases, cuts, burns, bruises, tetter, eczema and all skin tronbles may be cured by it quickly and permanently. Davenport the druggist.

—Michigan City News:—A Chicago man asserts that Lake Michigan is now slowly rising, after an ebb that started in 1886 and lasted eleven years. It is said this periodical and mysterious ebb and flow has been known to scientists for many years. The present flow, it is believed, will add six feet to the present height of the lake's surface.

—John Griffin, of Zanesville, O, says: "I never lived a day for thirty years without suffering agony, until a box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured my piles." For piles and rectal troubles, cuts, bruises, sprains, eczema and all skin troubles DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is unequaled. Davenport the Druggist.

—Mrs. Penfield entertained a num- of ladies to tea at the Swineford Tuesday evening. The guests of honor were Mrs. Lottie Cochran, who was about to start for Arizona, and Mrs. C. W. Kaley, who goes to Lakeside, Ohio to visit her father, J. P. Widney.

—Ligonier Banner:—Under the new law which provides that all county treasurers elected last fall, but who had not taken their seats at the time the law went into effect, should not take office until January 1, 1898, in order to secure uniformity to facilitate the settlements. Treasurer Reed will have his term extended about three months unless the suit begun in Cass county to overthrow the law prevails. About thirty counties in the state are affected by the law and the treasurer-elect had a meeting at Indianapolis last week.

—Wm Groscop and family are back from West Virginia and will probably make this their home. Will himself has been in Missouri several months. He is a member of a company that own some valuable lead mines, which they are going to operate.

Awarded Highest Honors—World's Fair

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Monday's Daily.

—Mrs. Oran Meese and children of Columbia City, are visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Berringer.

—While we were roasting Saturday, Leadville Colo., had a big storm. That is worse than heat.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Draggoo, spent the 4th with relatives at Fort Wayne.

—Walter Penfield came home from Ann Arbor having reached home Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Crane, went to Toledo Saturday to spend the Fourth with Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Chilcote. The ladies are sisters.

—Miss Etta Heist is back from Princeton for a holiday visit with friends. On her way home she stopped over in Logansport and visited with the family of Mr. Walts.

—Mrs. Kiblinger and Katie, went to Millersburg, Saturday, where they will visit friends about three weeks.

—Mrs. Will Nettleroad and children, of Findlay, O., were the guests over Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Artie Beaty. The ladies are sisters.

—The Wabash announce their first excursion to Niagaria falls on July 29. The round trip fare from Auburn will be $6.25. Watch for further announcement.

—See the change in the date of the county teachers' institute. The lecturers and workers desired could not be had on the date first agreed on.

—Farmers and even town people complain of a heavy growth of white clover. Many lawns are filled with it and in the country it is thick everywhere.

—The jury was in court a while today, but as there seemed to be nothing to do, they were called in and sent home to return here again Friday.

—This will be a busy week for the farmers. Hay is not all mowed and the wheat is nearly ready to cut, and corn needs working badly.

—Mrs. Mary Boyer went up to Hillsdale Saturday, and will visit friends there a few days, including the family of O. C. Dickinson a former Waterloo neighbor —Bishop the cigar man is doing a thriving business. He finds himself several thousand behind on his orders, and 700 behind in Garrett alone.

—WANTED:—A girl or woman who understands general house work. Steady work and good wages.

MRS. A. G. LODEWICK,
Auburn, Ind.

—Mr. Lodewick is still bringing in strawberries. On Saturday he picked about 200 quarts. There may be berries all this week, a very rare thing so late in the season. His entire crop this year will be over 3,000 quarts, and of a very fine quality.

—Cal. Husselman furnished forty-five gallons of his choice ice cream to Garrett parties for the Saturday business. And along in the afternoon they telephoned to him for twenty gallons more but he could not furnish it. That evening, most of the places in town, that use ice cream found themselves short of the cooling product.

—A dog, supposed to be mad, was killed on West Seventh-st Saturday evening. It had been acting so strangely all day, that it was thought unwise to allow it to run longer. Mr. DeLapp and Mr. Hallam finished the job in a hurry when they set about it

—Rev. W. L. Meese preached at the Presbyterian church yesterday forenoon in place of Mr Colvin, who had been called to Bluffton. The audience was small owing to the severe heat, but Mr Meese spoke earnestly and feeling as he always does. We wish more of our people could have heard him.

—"I crave but one minute," said the public speaker in a husky voice; and then he took a dose of One Minute Cough Cure, and proceedrd with his oratory. One Minute Cough Cure, is unequaled for throat and lung troubles. Davenport the Druggist.

—Ben Kline, of Fairfield, thinks "the better the day, the better the deed" and celebrated the Fourth by paying the printer. He reports not so much rain up that way as down here, but everything growing grandly.

—Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Ford and daughter Margaret, drove over to Hicksville Sunday to visit G. W. Lewis, Mrs. Ford's father. They found him in his usual health. The drive was much pleasanter than might have been expected in such hot weather.

—The strawberry crop of this locality has been immense this season, and the price in the home market here has varied all the way from fifteen cents down to two cents per quart. The latter price does not pay the producers for the expense of gathering and marketing the fruit.—Mentone Gazette.

—Mrs. Kaley and her sister Mrs. Lewis went over to St. Joe to visit the relatives Saturday. The former had met many old-time friends here this summer, as she always does. On Thursday evening she was the guest of honor at a ladies' tea at Mrs. Cal. Husselman's, and on Friday evening at Mrs. Tom Sprott's. Auburn ladies have made her feel at home here.

—Oscar Ensley and his sister Amber came up from Indianapolis Saturday, and are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Zent. They bring word that their people are as well as usual, Mr. Ensley himself being in about the same health as when he returned from California. Amber will probably stay here several weeks.

—Billy Williams, Waterloo's next postmaster, made us a call this p. m.

Tuesday's Daily.

—Miss Fannie Casebeer is here from Chicago.

—Mrs. Hodge has returned from Ann Arbor, but her daughter Julia remains there a short time longer.

—A P. Green and wife and grandson Geo Willis returned today from Toledo, where they spent Fourth.

—FOR SALE:—The glass front of my store building. Call on E. Eldridge Auburn, Ind.

—If you want to borrow $100 upon good security, see

WALTER C. HARTMAN.

—We learn that Bert Robbins is a candidate for appointment to succeed Mr. Hines. Some republican will be appointed probably as a majority of the Board is republican.

—Dr. Wesley Hines and wife reached here this afternoon from Warsaw, being called by the sudden death of his father.

—Mrs. Johanna Sheets, of Fort Wayne, mother of E. C. and Charley Sheets, the tailors, is here visting her sons.

—FOUND:—A small memorandum book, with "Compliments of the Michigan Saw Co." Has some business papers in it. Found near Farmers Bank today, July 2. Owner call at this office.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Turner have been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Redout and Miss Ida Veley of Geneva, and Mrs. Carl Harris of Portland. They all returned home today.

—The reader will be repaid by a study of Mrs. Hodge's letter on President Angells baccalaurate sermon at AnnArbor. She went there to be present at the commencement exercises, remaining two or three weeks.

—Miss Georgie Buss of Fairfield tp., came down to Auburn last evening, the guest of her sisters, Mrs. H. E. Trout and Mrs. A. B. Richards. She returned this morning, Delia Richards and Edith Trout accompanied her, they will visit a few days in the country.

—W. B. Campbell of the Anderson Herald, celebrated the glorious fourth by installing his new type setting machine the Mergenthaler Linotye. All afternoon Saturday and up to midnight people to the number of 500 visited his office to see this wonderful machine work.

—There was a lovely night-blooming cereus at the Yellow Front meat market last evening. It belonged to Mr. Flemming at the greenhouse, and was visited by many town people. Later on it was purchased by Geo. Swineford and taken to the Swineford House office, where it was viewed by lovers of flowers for all the evening. There were two blossoms, both large and lovely.

—Some of the residents of west Seventh-st have put in private water works plant, for sprinkling the streets. They get the water from the fire cistern on that street and with a force pump and pipes they sprinkle the streets for several hundred feet. The residents all chipped in and paid for the apparatus. Their sprinkling bill this summer will be small.

—You hear almost everything, an read it in the newspapers, that Simmons Liver Regulator is the best liver remedy, and the best Spring medicine, and the best blood medicine. "The only medicine of any consequence that I use is Simmons Liver Regulator."—So wrote Mr R. A. Cobb, of Morganton N. C. And W. F. Park, M. D., of Tracy City, Tenn., writes. "Simmons Liver Regulator is the best."

—The Dispatch very properly expresses satisfaction over the fact that Judge Adair cuts down the bill for boarding the three prisoners from Michigan City and their guard. There is no doubt but the Judge did the proper thing. The contract price for boarding prisoners at the county jail is 40 cents a day. So only that sum was allowed. The Dispatch forgot to say that Judge Adair is a democrat and believes in keeping down court expenses to the proper figure. Does the Dispatch believe that Judge Adair would have allowed several hundred dollars to attorneys for helping on those cases last winter? Most attorneys are satisfied with a fee of $10 to $25 when called in to assist in an ordinary case.

—Dr. Casebeer has been in town for a day or two.

The Board of Equalization adjourned yesterday for a day or two, in honor of Mr. Hines, who was a member of the board. The treasurer's office was also closed.

—Besides the parties mentioned elsewhere, Mr. and Mrs. John Turner and daughter, Carrie, entertained over Sunday Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Starks daughter Geraldine, of Millersberg, Ind., Mrs. Levi Nelson, of Butler. The occasion of all these friends visiting Mr. and Mrs. Turner was their 25th anniversay. They had a very pleasant time.

AGAIN AT THE FRONT.

(Garrett Herald.)

No man should be without accident insurance. It costs but little and then when laid up, if you are unfortunate enough to get hurt you receive your benefits. This is the case if you are wise in selecting the company. Last August, I had H. D. Weaver write me a policy in the Standard Accident Co., of Detroit, Mich. In November last, three months after I was insured, I fell on the ice and broke my arm. The proofs were sent in and in less than one week the full amount was paid me. Again on May 16, I was inujred in New York City, and while I failed to notify them as I should, yet when my proofs were sent in last week they settled in full without one word of objection. While most companies try to settle for less than the full amount, the Standard, of Detroit, fulfills its contracts to the letter, and H. D. Weaver their agent is never happier than when adjusting and paying an honest claim. Call on Mr. Weaver, and have him write for you in the Standard so your family will be provided for in case you are injured or killed by accident.

DR. F. B. WOOD.

The above claims were $150 and $200. Mr. Weaver also sells life, accident and fire insurance.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

PURELY VEGETABLE.

The cheapest, purest and best family medicine in the world! An effectual specific for all diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Spleen. Regulate the Liver and prevent Chills and Fever, Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice and Nausea.

BAD BREATH!

Nothing is so unpleasant, nothing so common, as a bad breath; and in nearly every case it comes from the stomach, and can be so easily corrected if you will take Simmons Liver Regulator. Do not neglect so sure a remedy for this repulsive disorder. It will also improve your appetite, complexion and general health.

CONSTIPATION

should not be regarded as a trifling ailment—in fact, nature demands the utmost regularity of the bowels, and any deviation from this demand paves the way often to serious danger. It is quite as necessary to remove impure accumulations from the bowels as it is to eat or sleep, and no health can be expected where a costive habit of body prevails.

SICK HEADACHE!

This distressing affliction occurs most frequently. The disturbance of the stomach, arising from the imperfectly digested contents, causes a severe pain in the head, accompanied with disagreeable nausea, and this constitutes what is popularly known as Sick Headache, for the relief of which take Simmons Liver Regulator.

EVERY PACKAGE

Has the Z Stamp in red on the wrapper.

J. H. ZEILIN & CO., Philadelphia.

True Greatness.

Rev. H. W. Knapp, in his eulogy upon Ruskin, tells how Ruskin began by giving first a tenth of his income to the poor, then half, and finally nearly the whole. If others would not encourage the study of art in schools, Ruskin would buy ten water-color drawings of William Hunt, and give them to the public schools of London. He fell heir to one million of dollars; this amount he has given away except a sufficient sum to give him an income of fifteen hundred dollars a year. Upon this he now lives, the income of his books being distributed among his old pensioners and his various plans for social reform. He bestowed his art treasures with like generosity. He gave the marbles which he had collected in Greece and his priceless Italian drawings to public galleries and museums, where they would benefit the common people. Refusing the invitations of the rich, and putting away the temptation to a life of elegant ease and refined luxury, Ruskin gave himself to the poor. His best lectures were never given where English wealth and social prestige were represented, but were delivered to working-girls' clubs and workingmen's associations. If Rousseau refused the yoke of law and service upon the plea of genius, this man, by reason of his talents, was careful to fulfill the duties not expected of mediocrity.

Such Is Fame.

The Rev. H. R. Haweis, author of "Music and Morals," tells a good story in his last book, "Travel and Talk," of an unconscious rebuff he once received in a railway carriage. An old gentleman who sat opposite had been eying me over his evening paper with what I fancied was a look of recognition. Presently he handed me the paper and pointed to an article on a musical subject. "I thought, sir," he said politely, "you might like to see this article." One glance was sufficient. I recognized an almost verbatim chapter of "Music and Morals." Disgusted at the fraud, I handed the paper back, remarking that I was quite familiar with the contents. "In fact," I rashly added, "it is a chapter out of 'Music and Morals.' You may know the book?

"Indeed, sir, I never heard of it. Who is it by?"

"Oh," I said, "a man named Haweis—a parson, you know."

"Oh, really, I never heard of him."

"Haven't you?" said I.

"No," said he.

"Oh!" said I, and the conversation dropped. So of whomsoever it may be said or sung, "'E dun know where 'd are," in the long run "most everybody" finds his level.

Where Land Is Cheap.

A large weather map hangs in the senate chamber in Washington, and senators gather before it in the morning, studying the conditions for the day. Many a good story is there told regarding the climate of different localities. To Senator Kyle of South Dakota the New York Sun accredits such a story. If the Sun is a true reporter in this case Senator Kyle must have abandoned hope of a recollection. Dakota weather is so bad, Senator Kyle is reported as saying, that farmers are often very glad to get rid of their land. One of my neighbors saw a stranger leading a cow along one day. The two men began to talk, and soon a trade was made. The farmer offered the stranger two hundred acres of land for the cow. When the stranger, who could not read, took the deed to Aberdeen to be recorded, he found it to call for four hundred acres instead of two hundred. He went back to the farmer, expostulated and tried to get the deed changed, but the farmer held out. Nothing the stranger could say or do would move the farmer and the stranger was forced to take the four hundred acres.

Topics of the Times

Electricity is being used by dentists to bleach the teeth.

Texas will make a park of the San Jacinto battle ground.

The agricultural capital of Europe has doubled since 1840; that of the United States has increased over six-fold.

From 1875 to the present time over 100,000 acres annually have been reclaimed from marsh and sea by the people of Denmark.

In spite of the fertile soil and genial climate the food production of Italy is insufficient for home consumption, except the wine and fruit.

In London last year 586 persons were killed by falling from windows and buildings, while on the railways of Great Britain, in the same period, only 386 persons were killed.

It is estimated that foreign immigration to the United States will be 100,000 less than in 1896. The agitation against the more undesirable class of immigrants has largely reduced it.

Steps are being taken among the mine owners and miners in the West toward the erection of a miners' home, to which old, crippled and sick miners can turn when in need. The home will probably be located in Salt Lake City.

A Maine man who made a crayon portrait of Camp Meeting John Allen some years ago relates that when it was finished Allen stood looking at it for a time and then, turning to him, remarked: "Well, I must say it's horribly correct."

An old whaler who has escaped all the perils of whaling for many years, Henry Mott King, of Edgartown, Mass., was killed while assisting in hauling out a catboat. He was hit on the head by a capstan bar and died in half an hour.

The school committee of Boston has requested the City Council to give it $1,000,000, to be expended for schoolhouses. It wants $300,000 more to make improvements this summer in the ventilation and sanitation of school buildings and to provide better means of escape in case of fire.

The University of Virginia has never had a president, the chairman of the faculty discharging the duties of that office. But the growth of the institution has made the appointment of a president desirable and it is said that such an officer will probably be elected at the coming commencement.

Of 388 seniors at Harvard college who have thus far replied to the questions in the class secretary's circular, 102 say they intend to study law and thirty-five medicine or surgery, but not one theology. Fifty-two will teach and sixty-four will engage in business. About 100 members of the class are yet to be heard from.

The deacons of St. John's Episcopal Church in Portsmouth, N. H., have marked with brass plates, suitably inscribed, the pews occupied by Benjamin Franklin and Daniel Webster, and a chair which was once given to the church by Queen Caroline when it was called Queen's chapel. George Washington is said to have sat in this chair when he visited Portsmouth in 1797.

The Bristol copper mine, the largest in Connecticut, will again be reopened. It was first opened 100 years ago and has been reopened and discontinued a number of times, the various enterprises entailing the loss of several thousand dollars. There are several thousand feet of drifts and eight shafts, one of them 400 feet deep, all now filled with water.

A systematic account of all living animals, the first attempt since Linnaeus' "Systema Naturae," has been undertaken by the German Zoological Society. It is estimated that 386,000 species of living animals have been described so far in all kinds of scattered publications. The list, which is to be edited by Professor F. E. Schulze, will consist of at least 120 volumes of 1,000 pages each.

The large quantities of small metal plates which have been found of late years in the excavations at Athens and at the Piraeus are said to be ancient theater tickets, which admitted one to the theater of Dionysos during the time of Lycurgus. Svoronos, the celebrated Greek archaelogogist, is the authority for proving these metal plates to be the first theater tickets probably ever used.

Philadelphia is endeavoring to complete a collection of oil portraits of all its mayors, to be hung in the mayor's new reception-room in the city hall. Families of the mayors are asked to give the portraits, as the city has no fund on which to draw for the purpose. The latest addition to the gallery is a fine portrait of the late Mayor Isaac Roach, who filled the office in 1838 and 1839.

J. Theodore Bent, a wealthy Englishman who has achieved some notoriety by visiting out-of-the-way places and writing books about them, has just died on his return from the Island of Socotra, from the consequence of a fever contracted theme. His first book was on the republic of San Marino; he then visited the Cyclades and the Greek towns of Asia Minor, the ruins of Zimbabwe in Mashonaland, and more recently the south of Arabia and the shores of the Red Sea.

Fort Leavenworth, Kan., is to have a splendid modern penitentiary. Congress has appropriated $150,000, but the new building will probably represent an outlay of three times this amount. The land, of course, is free, being a government reservation, set apart in 1827. It has inexhaustable quarries of fine building stone, an abundance of lime and the finest clay for making bricks. The convicts are to quarry and dress the stone, make the bricks, burn the lime and prepare the structural material in the prison shops. When the building shall have been completed it will represent all the newest and best ideas in that class of architecture. There will be a dozen rooms devoted to night schools for the men, a first-class gymnasium, baths and the like, to be used by those who merit good treatment.

Another Tascott Story Due.

"It is about time some one again 'discovered' Tascott, the murderer of Millionaire Snell of Chicago," said T. B. Eames of Portland, Ore., at the Lindell. "Every newspaper reader will remember how many times Tascott has been 'caught' and how the Hawkshaws failed to land him in custody. Those rewards, reaching a fabulous sum—I forget the figure—are, I believe, still open to ambitious sleuths. Periodically a story afloats down from Alaska that causes a stir among the detectives, but no one seems to care to hazard the time and expense necessary to investigate it. This story is that there is a white chief among the Chilcot Indians. Whence he came or what his antecedents no traveler seems to have been able to ascertain. When Professor Dyche, the Kansas explorer, made his expedition last summer, he met this white chief, and I have heard it stated that the description as to age, height, eyes and other essentials that cannot be disguised tally with those of the much sought after Chicago murderer. I can't vouch for the truth of this story, but it has formed the basis of a rumor which has swept along the Pacific coast to the effect that Tascott has turned squawman and is living with an Indian tribe in the interior of Alaska. No more perfect exclusion could be imagined. If Tascott is there he will probably live to a green old age, and be a stranger to the law's clutches, for few officers have yet had the hardihood to penetrate the fastness in which these aborigines make their home."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

PLEA FOR THE BIRDS.

Their Destruction Is Endangering the Forests and Orchards.

A plea for the birds is being widely disseminated in the form of a circular which contains some earnest words from Mrs. Caroline B. Hoffman, local secretary of the Massachusetts Audubon Society. Mrs. Hoffman tells the often-told story of the mother heron, which must be killed when brooding to obtain the white aigrette which is her decoration at that time, and of the cruelty of sacrificing the mother-bird and her little ones for the gratification of feminine vanity. The Florida heron, she says, is annihilated.

She bases her plea in this circular more particularly upon the practical ground of the great injury to plants and forests by creatures so useful in destroying insects. She says: "Already in the southern lands of Europe are the forests perishing in a frightful manner, and not less are the orchards in danger, for against the increase of injurious insects there is no remedy when the little birds are missing. And no land in the wide world is safe against this horrid destruction."

Quoting foreign criticism of bird decoration, she continues: "How foreign lands think and write about it a newspaper from Tokio, Japan, will best show. It says: 'It is not enough that the Europeans compress themselves with steel and whalebone; they also demand for adornment our beautiful and useful birds.'"

She concludes: "Equally guilty of this barbarous custom is every purchaser of these birds, martyrs unto death. May these words meet with the right reception; many women at length reflect and acknowledge that there is something better, nobler, more to be desired, than this foolish style, which is bought with the blood and life of creatures fashioned by the God of love. May American women come to the front and be the first to do away with this brutal practice.

"Everywhere our orchards, our fruit trees, are crying out to be delivered from insect pests. Competent witnesses testify that all over our country, within a generation, birds have diminished in a most rapid manner and the injurious insects have made headway in the same degree. Setting aside all sentiment, the destruction of forests, orchards and fields ought to be sufficient to deter women from indulging in this murderous practice."

Special Luxuries.

Many special provisions are made for the comfort of royalty. The late Sultan of Morocco was an invalid a good part of the time, and had a strongly rooted objection to being carried up and down stairs. So a railroad was built from his bed chamber to the ground floor. The rails were eighteen-inch gauge, and were made in three-foot lengths. The road was built on a gradual curve, and the carriages were beautiful easy chairs with flanged wheels, converted into couches. Room was left on either side of the track for the passage of attendants.

A Patriot Indeed.

In the Island of Reunion there is a monument to the memory of the British officers who fell in the course of the attack upon the island in the Napoleonic wars, and also to the memory of the private soldiers who met their death "on the same glorious occasion." The French Governor of Reunion was once called upon for some purpose to make a copy of this inscription. His copy was accurate in all respects but one. He omitted the epithet glorious."

Her Fatal Mistake.

Ethel—So your engagement to Will has been broken?

Edith—Yes.

"Whose fault was it?"

"Mine. You see, I took a picture of papa, just to show Will that he was not such a ferocious creature as he imagined, and poor papa got his feet too near the camera."—Yonkers Statesman.

Aggrieved.

"It simply goes to show," said the rotund man with side whiskers, "how unjust the world can be; how illogically it can jump at a conclusion."

"To what do you refer?"

"This newspaper speaks of a man with an elastic conscience for no better reason than that I was once connected with the rubber trust."—Washington Star.

An Oversight.

"It was careless," mused the advertising manager, in a melancholy tone.

"To what do you refer?"

"The manner in which they put that prima donna's indorsement of our cure for a cold on the same page with the announcement that she has a sore throat and cannot sing."—Washington Star.

Intelligence is not gained by a mere act of will.

Politics of the Day

That Free Breakfast Table.

It is a curious illustration of the height of inconsistency for the Republicans to plume themselves on allowing the poor man the enjoyment of a "free breakfast table" because the proposed tax on tea has been abandoned.

How free is the poor man's breakfast table? Let us look it over a moment and see. The table cloth is taxed, the dishes are taxed, the knives and forks are taxed, the lumber in the table is taxed, the chair is taxed, the sugar is taxed, and, in fact, about the only thing that isn't taxed is the tea, which the Republican reformers are afraid to tax, but which they may decide to tax before they get through with the tariff bill.

The Republican tariff tinkers are in a very embarrassing position. Thus far all they have been able to accomplish has been to vote a gratuity of $53,000,000 to the sugar trust and a corresponding amount of money for the benefit of importers in general. So far as securing any revenue for the Government, the tariff bill will prove absolutely valueless for fully twelve months after it has been passed. What will the administration do in order to secure revenue?

The Republican party opposes an income tax. That would affect the rich and the rich must be protected at all hazards. It is opposed to an inheritance tax, for here again the unearned increment of fortune is made to pay tribute to the Government, and such a thing must never be allowed. How, then, will the treasury be filled?

Perhaps the fear of the reprisal which the voting masses will surely take may be overcome and the Republicans finally decide to tax tea, beer and coffee. But should the wholesome terror of the outraged voter restrain the spoilsmen from imposing this burden, what then?

What does a merchant do when he finds that he must have money, and, although he can't earn anything, yet he has credit? He borrows. That is what the Republicans will have to do. It is more than likely that plans are already laid to issue bonds. They will be needed, and the Republicans will be happy to issue them, because they are working in the interests of bondholders.

Of course, these bonds will be made payable in gold, but the Republicans won't have to pay them. That part of the transaction they will leave for the people to look after.

The Democrats in Iowa.

Iowa has a fusion ticket, composed of two Democrats, two Silver Republicans and one Populist. The Democrats, Silver Republicans and Populists were compelled to "fuse" on a single ticket in order to obtain for their candidates places on the official ballot—that is, if they propose to support the same candidates. Recently Iowa Legislature passed a law providing that the name of candidates should appear more than once on the ballot.

It was supposed by the Republican Legislature that this restriction on the use of the same name twice on the ballot would prevent fusion on candidates. But it appears to have had the contrary effect. It has produced a closer fusion and more complete union among the various parties opposed to the Republican party.

The platform adopted by the Iowa Democrats is a powerful denunciation of the Republican policy in that State and of the action of the Republican Congress in seeking to increase popular burdens and to fasten on the country the shackles of restricted trade. The arraignment of the Republican party, State and National, is replete with facts and is conclusive.

It is charged with truth that the State administration of Iowa has been extravagant and profligate; that profuse appropriations have been made by the Legislature beyond the public needs; that reform in taxing methods has been defeated; that the system of prohibition has been at once a fraud and an oppression, and that the creation of a State debt of $1,000,000 was the result of bad legislation. The denunciation of the National Republican administration and of Congress is equally vigorous.

Iowa Democrats can come together in this canvass. If there are differences on the currency question they can await settlement. The present question of paramount national importance forced by Republicans is that of a tariff for tribute, not to the United States, but to protected interests. There should be hearty support of the Iowa Democratic ticket by all Iowa Democrats.—Chicago Chronicle.

Hanna's Hard Fight.

In spite of Hanna's bluff and the boasting on the part of his immediate supporters, the feeling among the rank and file of the Republican party in Ohio is anything but confident.

Those who look at the situation with judicious coolness remember that the State was at one time, during the last Presidential contest, lost to the Republicans, and that it took a barrel of money to get it away from Bryan. The strong free silver sentiment that almost swept Ohio from Republican moorings in 1896 has grown immensely since that time, owing to the fact that promised prosperity has failed to dawn, and because the evil effects of the gold standard are making themselves felt more keenly with every day that passes.

State pride in the Ohio nominee for President swelled the Republican vote last November, and at that time the party was practically harmonious. Things are in quite a different shape now. President McKinley is not a candidate, and Mark Hanna is. There is a bitter factional fight among the Republicans, and while an apparent peace has been forced upon the contending leaders, there will be ample opportunity for the quiet use of the stiletto on election day.

Evidence of a Great Evil.

Lobbying on the floor of the Senate is a public scandal, but the evil it represents does not consist of the appearance and the activity of lobbyists in the capitol and on the floor of the Senate, but in the influence exerted by them there and elsewhere on the work of legislation. Lobbying and interfering with business on the floor are only the public evidences of a deep-seated evil.—St. Louis Republic.

Republican Pretense.

The Republican platform adopted at St. Louis declared in no uncertain tone in favor of bimetallism, pledging the party to do all that lay in its power to bring about an international agreement in favor of the use of both silver and gold as the money of ultimate redemption.

What has the Republican party done to prove that this pledge was sincere? It is safe to say that it has done nothing, with the exception of sending a commission to Europe, made up of three men, one of whom is a pronounced single gold standard advocate, one who is credited with a secret leaning toward gold and one who is a genuine bimetallist. Now, if the Republicans wanted bimetallism would they not send bimetallists across the ocean to urge their cause?

The fact is, the Republican platform was made to catch votes and not to declare principles. The plank on bimetallism did not and does not express the views of the party leaders. Every one of the men who control the party machine is a goldite, a monometallist, a man in league with Wall street and the bondholders. The administration is bitterly and unalterably hostile to silver. The bimetallic plank in the Republican platform was a lie and the men who wrote it were—politicians.

The appointment of the bimetallic commission was the silliest, most transparent and the shallowest trick ever played, and was an insult to the intelligence of fourteen million voters, Democratic and Republican combined, who voted for bimetallism; for, say what they may, the Republican platform pledges the party to the double standard. But that pledge was a hypocritical bit of fustian to fool the voter, and, having served its purpose, is thrown aside and disregarded.

How sincere the administration is in its desire to bring about an international use of silver and gold as currency can be judged from the fact that every ambassador and every consul it has sent abroad, so far, to represent the United States in foreign courts, is a radical and intolerant gold advocate. The influence these representatives will have in turning European thought in favor of silver can readily be imagined.

The bimetallic commission will first have to convert the American ambassadors and consuls to a belief in the double standard before it can reach the ears of foreign rulers. Isn't the Republican pretense to bimetallism the shallowest humbug on earth?

Why Cuba Is Not Recognized.

Why is it that there is so much reluctance on the part of the Republican party to take any action in favor of the Cuban insurgents? Simply because the sugar trust is desirous of keeping Cuba out of the United States, for if Cuba should become an integral part of this nation the Cuban sugar business would be taken from the control of the trust.

The majority of the American people are in sympathy with Cuba, and it is just possible that so great will be the pressure of public opinion that the trust may be baffled. Events are moving rapidly toward intervention. The outrages of the Spaniards on American citizens and their insolence in firing on American ships are arousing a spirit that cannot be held much longer in check.

There can be little doubt that the President is inclined to take some action friendly to Cuba, but there can also be no doubt that great pressure is being brought to bear to keep him from committing this country in favor of Cuban liberty. Secretary Sherman took occasion early in the day to declare that he would not accept Cuba as a gift, and this sentiment met with an enthusiastic reception on the part of the managers of the trust and of those who are the paid attorneys of the trust. Efforts are being made to secure the co-operation of some European power with the United States to secure a settlement of the Cuban affair on the basis of autonomy. That would suit the trust. Will the scheme succeed?—Chicago Dispatch.

Would Be a Measure of Justice.

Every tariff bill designed to protect manufacturers should specify the amount of wages they should pay to their employes. If it is proposed for example, to increase the duties on the cheaper grades of silk 100 per cent, it should be provided that the wages of the men and women engaged in this industry be increased 100 per cent.—Rochester (N. Y.) Herald.

Brief Comment.

It is said that Mr. McKinley hopes for a place in history. He should remember that history bestows places on the merit system.—Dallas News.

If a man wants to get a fair idea of how business has fallen off since last year let him try to get up an excursion to Canton, O.—Washington Post.

Congress is plugging away at tariff, Cuba and Hawaii, and now the President proposes to toss another arbitration treaty into the hopper. Yet last year's campaign is alleged to have been conducted on the financial question.—Washington Post.

All honest advocates of a protective tariff are being brought to see, by the daily exhibitions in Washington, that an honest protective measure is an impossibility. It is simply a matter of bargain and sale between the different cabals of public plunderers.—Grand Rapids Democrat.

The distinction which Senator Hanna has won since he went in an official capacity to Washington is entirely in connection with the distribution of the spoils of office. He is not heard from upon such questions as the tariff or the currency, but he is "with the boys" who worked the St. Louis convention for McKinley, paying them off with public offices in handsome style.—Boston Post.

WORK OF CONGRESS.

THE WEEK'S DOINGS IN SENATE AND HOUSE.

A Comprehensive Digest of the Proceedings in the Legislative Chambers at Washington—Matters that Concern the People.

Lawmakers at Labor.

The Senate Friday completed the wool schedule, the silk schedule and the tobacco schedule of the tariff bill, and with this accomplished the tariff leaders had the satisfaction of knowing that all the schedules of the bill and the free list had been gone over once. There now remains only to go through the bill a second time, passing on the items passed over. These are very numerous and important, including hides, gloves, coal, tea and beer. After that the internal revenue features of the bill will be all that remains. Progress was rapid, although every paragraph relating to carpets was stubbornly contested.

An abrupt and startling halt in the tariff debate occurred in the Senate at 2:30 o'clock Saturday, when, in the midst of a passionate speech, Senator Pettigrew, silver Republican of South Dakota, was stricken with paralysis of the vocal cord, which brought his vehement speech to a close with a sentence half uttered. The Senator was not physically incapacitated, except in the sudden loss of the power of speech. On motion of Mr. Platt of Connecticut of the Finance Committee fuller's earth, wrought or manufactured, was added to paragraph 38 at $3 a ton. This precipitated a lively controversy between Mr. Platt and Mr. Pettigrew (silver Republican) of South Dakota, which came to an impressive climax when Mr. Pettigrew was overcome in the midst of a vehement speech. The debate proceeded, but no further progress on the tariff bill was made, and the awe-like feeling occasioned by this incident led to an adjournment at 3 o'clock.

The Senate made good progress on the tariff bill Monday, disposing of the paragraphs relating to hides, which have been the source of much controversy. As finally agreed on the duty on hides is placed at 20 per cent. ad valorem in place of 1½ cents per pound, as originally reported by the Finance Committee. The discussion drifted into a general debate on trusts, and from that back to the sugar trust. Mr. Smith of New Jersey spoke against the duty on hides, while Mr. Allen of Nebraska supported the duty. The new paragraph was agreed to, 39—20, one Democrat, Rawlins of Utah, and several Populists and silver Republicans voting with the Republicans in the affirmative. Among other paragraphs disposed of were all those relating to gloves, a substitute for the paragraph on live animals, iron ore and stained glass windows. The resolution authorizing the President to invite foreign governments to participate in the trans-Mississippi exposition at Omaha was agreed to soon after the Senate opened.

Several hundred pension bills were reported to the Senate Tuesday as the result of the first meeting of the Pension Committee since the present Congress assembled. Three general pension bills were included, two of them amending the law of 1890, and another referring to proof in pension cases. The tariff bill was then taken up, and the paragraph 189 relating to watch movements, clocks, etc., perfected by striking out the clauses on watches and on jewels for making watches and confining the paragraph to those articles not made of china or porcelains. Pineapples were changed to 7 cents per cubic foot in barrels and packages and $7 per thousand in bulk. The committee rates on lead ore (1½ cents a pound) were agreed to, 30 to 23. Messrs. Heitfeld, Mantle and Teller voted with the Republicans in the affirmative and Mr. Allen with the Democrats in the negative.

As a result of the rapid work on the tariff bill Wednesday the close of the long debate in the Senate and the final vote on the bill is felt to be very near at hand. Two of the most important provisions—those relating to the Hawaiian treaty of reciprocity and the duty on coal—were perfected, while another source of much conflict, the reciprocity section, was matured by the Finance Committee and presented to the Senate. Aside from these larger items a great many minor ones which have caused more or less conflict were disposed of. The Hawaiian provision of the House bill was restored after brief debate and without the formality of a vote. This has the effect of leaving the Hawaiian treaty of reciprocity in full force and effect. During the day Mr. Turpie of Indiana spoke in support of the amendment for a 2 per cent. tax on inheritances. His speech was notable for the picturesque metaphors and the virulence of his denunciation of the pending bill.

Decorticating Machine.

The principal obstacle to the successful production of jute in the Southern States is the expense of decortication; but if the machine recently patented by a French resident of Cuba shall accomplish what is claimed for it the problem is solved, and this country may profit by the introduction of another great industry. The fiber to be decorticated is, of course, carried by an endless apron to the rolls, which act as crushers, and which may be adjusted at any desired distance apart by guide plates, which also support the fiber while it is being decorticated by a series of rotary brushes, which are cleansed when necessary by combs connected with the machine.

Lamps.

A lamp, said to be the largest in the world, has been invented by a Belgian. It is six feet in height, and three feet ten inches in diameter. Lard oil is burnt in it, and so strong is its light that it is possible to read at a distance of 600 feet away from it. This "Great Eastern" of lamps is composed of 3,000 pieces.

Strange Worship.

In London is a sect which keeps up the worship of the Greek divinities, keeping alive all the rituals with which the numerous Olympian hierarchy was of old wont to be invoked and propitiated. At the same time there is a small select order in Paris which worships the devil, erecting shrines to the arch enemy and altars lit with his own fire. The balance sheets of both societies show that they are in a prosperous condition.

Stamp Collectors.

To some countries stamp collectors are a source of considerable revenue. New Zealand recently issued a lettercard with scenic designs, and so great was the demand from collectors that the supply was soon exhausted. The authorities then changed the color of the card, and the demand for the different color was almost as great as it had been for the original series. In seven months nearly four hundred thousand cards were bought by the hobbyists, bringing the colony a clear profit of considerable over ten thousand dollars.

BETTER THAN GOLD

OVER FIVE THOUSAND NATIONAL, STATE AND PRIVATE BANKS IN THE UNITED STATES are constantly being supplied with our pens, which fact alone guarantees their excellence.

ARE THE STEEL PENS shown below, so say our Customers.

THESE ARE THE STRONG POINTS:

DURABILITY,
QUALITY,
SMOOTHNESS,
UNIFORMITY.

Take No Substitute.

If your dealer cannot supply you, send to this office, enclosing price, and we will fill your order, and guarantee safe delivery.

Price, per gross (1 box) $ 1.00
" 1-2 doz. boxes, 5.40
" 1 doz. boxes, 10.00

PATENT APPLIED FOR.

Cut of inkstand shows our Popular No. 3. Automatic. Write us, enclosing stamps, and we will send you sample pens and tell you how to get the above stand without cost.

W. L. MASON & CO.,
(INCORPORATED.)
MANUFACTURERS STATIONERS' SUPPLIES.
KEENE, N. H.

ESTABLISHED, 1848.

D. A. ALTICK'S SON,

Manufacturer of High Grade Buggies, Surries, Phaetons, &c.

We claim to build, not the CHEAPEST, but the BEST for the money.

All we ask is, a TRIAL ORDER.

Send for catalogue, and by mentioning this paper we will allow you an EXTRA DISCOUNT.

D. A. ALTICK'S SON,
LANCASTER, PENN.

The Chamberlin Improved
Screw Stump Puller.

The only practical stump puller made, pulls any and all classes and sizes of stumps. Four different sizes always in stock. When you buy get the best. Manufactured and sold by the Chamberlin Manufacturing Company of Olean, N. Y.

Write for catalogue and prices.

Chamberlin Manufacturing Company, - Olean, N. Y.

Relay Bicycles

Have more points of merit, than any other High Grade Bicycle.

FULL OF GRACE AND BEAUTY.

Every Wheel Guaranteed. Send for Catalogue.

Relay M'f'g Co., Reading, Pa.

NATURE'S REMEDY

CURES IN THE RIGHT WAY, BY REGULATING THE LIVER AND KIDNEYS, AND PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

It is a positive cure for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, Chills, and all diseases arising from a diseased liver or the kidneys, or impure blood.

YOUR MONEY BACK Is the plan on which it is sold. If after taking the entire box of medicine you do not think you have had your money's worth, send us back the guarantee, which you will find in the box, and we will send you a check for $1.00 by return mail.

It is put up in two forms, powder and tablets. The tablets are the easier to take, requiring no mixing. Price $1.00 for 180 doses of either kind. Sent post paid upon receipt of price. Send 10 cents for ten days' treatment and copy of Nature's Guide to Health.

A. H. LEWIS MEDICINE CO., - Bolivar, Mo.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

Made This Change.

DO YOU suffer from Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Shrunken or Undeveloped Organs, Youthful Errors, Excessive Use of Tobacco or Opium? Sent by mail on receipt of price. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

WE GUARANTEE to cure you, or refund money, and we stand by our guarantee. Sold at $1 per Box, 6 Boxes for $5.

Sold By Fischler & Son

WHY NOT BUY THE BEST?

Sterling positively will not injure your hands or the finest fabric. This has been proven by actual tests. Clothes washed with it become white and odorless. Matchless for flannels. Superb for glassware. Will remove stains from marble and make your floors white as chalk.

Try it that it may speak for itself.

$2.50 Cleveland -TO- BUFFALO

....Also Daily Line Between....

Cleveland and Toledo, Via "C. & B. LINE."

Steamers "City of Buffalo," (new) "State of Ohio" and "State of N. Y."

DAILY TIME TABLE.
Sunday Included May 30 to Oct 24

Lv Cleveland 7:00 p. m.	Lv Buffalo 7:30 p. m.
Ar Buffalo 7:30 a. m.	Ar Cleveland 7:30 a. m.

Central Standard Time.

Take the "C. & B. Line" steamers and enjoy a refreshing night's rest when enroute to Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, New York, Boston, Albany, 1000 Islands, or any Eastern or Canadian Point.

Cheap Excursions Weekly to Niagara Falls.

Send 4 cents for tourist pamphlet.

For further information ask your nearest Coupon Ticket Agent, or address,

W. F. HERMAN, Gen. Pass. Agt.
T. F. NEWMAN, Gen. Manager.
Cleveland, Ohio.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies. Especially recommended to married Ladies. Ask for DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler — Son.

JOB PRINTING

LETTER HEADS, BILL HEADS, CARDS, ENVELOPES, CIRCULARS.

Very Particular.

Frequenters of the variety show and circus are aware that during the performance of acrobats or jugglers the band usually plays an inspiring march or a dreamy waltz, according to the nature of the feats. It is generally believed that the selection of airs played under these circumstances is left to the leader of the orchestra, but this is quite wrong. As a fact, acrobats and jugglers are amazingly particular as to their music, and carry their own band parts from one place of entertainment to another where they may happen to be engaged. It is easily conceivable that, when a man has become used to a certain piece of music, he would be considerably distracted by an unfamiliar piece played during the performance of dangerous and delicate feats—more especially when the new music is played in a different time and key. The leader of an orchestra in a celebrated variety theater states that acrobats and gymnasts are accustomed to rehearse with the band precisely in the way that vocalists do, and attributes a somewhat serious accident to a trapezist, of which he was once a witness, to the fact that some members of the band had on that particular night been indulging too freely in stimulants, and the music was consequently a little erratic.

Victor Hugo's Game.

A good many years ago Victor Hugo opened a restaurant in E street, Washington, and served a dinner that soon became the talk of the capital. It was a $2 dinner for 50 cents. He said he was not related to the poet of France, but just happened to have the same name. Crowds were turned away morning, noon and evening. At the end of the third week of unparalleled success he sold thousands of commutation tickets to department clerks and others, who scrambled over each other for the sweet privilege of buying them. Then he quietly disappeared, and Washington has never known him since. He departed with no less than $20,000.—New York Press.

France's Shipbuilding.

Though it cost from 25 to 50 per cent. more to build a merchant vessel in France than in England, according to the Vicomte d'Avenel, France still builds her own ships.

100 Doses in a Bottle

Is peculiar to and true only of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and is proof of its superior strength and economy. There is more curative power in a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla than in any other. This fact, with its unequalled record of cures, proves the best medicine for all blood diseases is

Hood's Sarsaparilla

The One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1.

Hood's Pills cure Liver ills; easy to take, easy to operate. 25c.

Every ingredient in Hires Rootbeer is health giving. The blood is improved, the nerves soothed, the stomach benefited by this delicious beverage.

HIRES Rootbeer

Quenches the thirst, tickles the palate; full of snap, sparkle and effervescence. A temperance drink for everybody.

Made only by The Charles E. Hires Co., Philadelphia. A package makes five gallons.

NEBRASKA FARM LANDS. A dry healthy climate, free from malaria, an abundance of pure water, a soil which is unsurpassed for richness, and is easily cultivated, yielding all varieties of crops. That is what Nebraska offers to the home seeker. Lands are cheap now. Send for a pamphlet describing Nebraska, mailed free on application to P. S. Eustis, General Passenger Agent, C. B. & Q. R. R., Chicago.

$75 RIDE A CRESCENT BICYCLE $50
Western Wheel Works, MAKERS CHICAGO ILLINOIS
CATALOGUE FREE

ANTI-JAG A marvelous cure for DRUNKENNESS, can be given secretly at home. It is harmless. All druggists, or write Remova Chemical Co., 66 Broadway, New York. FULL INFORMATION GLADLY MAILED FREE.

PENSIONS, PATENTS, CLAIMS. JOHN W. MORRIS, WASHINGTON, D. C. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs. in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty. since.

Noted French Scientist.

Dr. Yersin, the French bacteriologist, who is on his way to India to conquer the dreadful plague of the bubonic fever, is a member of the Pasteur Institute, Paris, and one of the most experienced of the microscopists of Europe. He has had large experience with Oriental plagues and has fought contagious disease in such noted centers as Hong Kong and Canton. He is utterly fearless. The Doctor, in collaboration with Dr. Roux, discovered the wonderful diphtheritic serum, or toxin, and also the antitoxin for croup.

DR. YERSIN.

When the Pasteur Institute was founded at Paris in 1887 Dr. Yersin was appointed to take charge of the "microbe technique," and his wonderful researches have made him almost the peer of Pasteur or Roux. In the following year he went to China for the benefit of science and humanity. There the energetic Frenchman found microbes galore. Landing at Saigon, he made a journey into the interior at terrible risks to the integrity of his person. Soon his fame as a great "medicine man" spread throughout China. He could actually cure people who were sick of the plague. The people made a god of him, and Dr. Yersin, while relieving the suffering Chinese, was collecting immense treasures for the archives of his beloved institute in the Rue Dutot. He was known as the "great white sorcerer," and when he returned to Hong Kong he was tormented with the honors the people showered upon him. The Doctor is certain to score a great success in India, as the bubonic plague is easy to stop. He has with him a plentiful supply of his famous serum.

Current Condensations.

A dainty feast was spread not long ago by a tribe of Sitka Indians to entertain some visitors from other tribes. The rare dish of the feast consisted of last season's wild strawberries preserved in seal oil.

At the beginning of the century the Bible was accessible to but one-half of the population of the world. Now it may be read by nine-tenths of the people of the globe, so rapidly has its translation been carried on.

Cromlechs, found in many countries, are rude monuments to the dead. Nearly seventy round towers, from 30 to 135 feet high, are found in various parts of Ireland. They are believed to have been used in the ceremonies of fire-worship.

A messenger boy at Columbia, Mo., being intrusted with a telegram for a prominent citizen, started out to deliver it. Presently he saw the said citizen pass in his buggy. The messenger climbed up behind, rode to the man's home in the buggy and then charged him a quarter for delivering the message.

Water buckets saved Mrs. J. M. Davis of Buckingham, Va., from drowning while she was on her way to a spring. The path led over a tunnel of an abandoned gold mine, and some rotten timbers giving away just as Mrs. Davis got above them the tunnel roof collapsed and she fell into thirty feet of water. An empty bucket on each arm buoyed her up until she was able to grasp a floating log.

Angry at a neighbor for killing his dog, a Frederick, Md., farmer asked a lawyer to collect $10 damages for him. Results were slow and he secretly gave the case to another lawyer, who wrote the offender to call and pay up. The guilty man, frightened at the thought of two lawyers after him, went to the first one and paid the $10, remarking incidentally that he had received a letter from the other. The lawyers met and divided the $10, and their client had to laugh at himself.

Compelled to Retrench.

The welcome of the king of Siam in Europe is likely to be considerably cooled by the announcement that in view of the enormous expenses entailed by his foreign tour it has been found necessary to dismiss every one of the European and American officials in the employ of his government. A number of them, who have been in the employ of the Siamese crown for many years, have already left the country, much to the disgust of the foreigners who have interests in Siam and who place no confidence in their native successors.

Sarasate, the violinist, claims to have a red Stradivarius for which he has refused $30,000.

How Old are You?

You need not answer the question, madam, for in your case age is not counted by years. It will always be true that "a woman is as old as she looks." Nothing sets the seal of age so deeply upon woman's beauty as gray hair. It is natural, therefore, that every woman is anxious to preserve her hair in all its original abundance and beauty; or, that being denied the crowning gift of beautiful hair, she longs to possess it. Nothing is easier than to attain to this gift or to preserve it, if already possessed. Ayer's Hair Vigor restores gray or faded hair to its original color. It does this by simply aiding nature, by supplying the nutrition necessary to health and growth. There is no better preparation for the hair than

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR.

HOTEL MORGUE AND ITS GUESTS

To Hotel Morgue the guests come in
With a strangely silent air,
And however boisterous a man has been
He makes no noise and he makes no din
When once he enters there.
And however poor, he rides in state,
Stretched at his ease, through the hotel gate.

A bath and a gown and cool, cool bed
Are given to all who come,
But never a one is wined or fed,
And never a word by one is said,
For the guests are always dumb.
And whatever is done, and however they fare,
They only lie and stare and stare.

From Hotel Morgue the guests pass on Full oft at the break of day.
And they pay no bill as forth at dawn
With staring eyes and white lips drawn
They silently sail away.
Though clothed and sheltered and asked no price,
To Hotel Morgue no guest comes twice.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

A SLIGHT MISTAKE.

"Marriage is the saving of a young man," said my Aunt Tabitha sententiously.

I assented, for I find it pays to give a ready acquiescence to abstract propositions.

"You must marry," continued my aunt.

I hesitated, for to assent to the concrete is more dangerous.

"I am still very young," I said, meekly.

My aunt turned to my mother. "Whom shall Alfred marry?"

My mother shook her head.

"Somebody nice," she volunteered.

"What do you say to Letitia Brownlow?" asked my aunt.

"I would prefer to say nothing to Letitia Brownlow," I interposed, hastily.

"Or Amelia Stafforth?"

"Is she not rather"—my mother waved one hand—"and Alfred is so slim."

"I think she has a very fine figure," responded my aunt. "Or there is Gertrude Williams; she will have a fortune if she outlives her sisters."

"There are only five of them," I said hopefully.

"Or Mabel Gordon?"

"She has taken a course of cooking lessons," observed my mother.

"No, none of these!" I cried, decisively.

My aunt looked offended.

"Very well, then, choose for yourself," she said, tartly.

"Perhaps that would help," I remarked, thoughtfully.

"You will choose somebody nice, won't you, Alfred?" said my mother.

"With money," observed my aunt.

"Well connected," emphasized my mother.

"Not too young," added my aunt.

"And religious," begged my mother.

"There is no objection to her being good looking?" I asked, a trifle timidly.

"No, I think not," said my aunt, "provided she fully understands beauty is but skin deep."

"I will tell her," I murmured.

"Well," said my aunt, impatiently, after a short pause, "whom do you suggest?"

I thought for a moment.

"What do you say to Winifred Fraser?"

"That minx!" cried my aunt.

"Oh, Alfred!" echoed my mother.

"Why not?" I asked.

"Such a dreadful family," said my mother.

"So fast!" interjected my aunt.

"But have you never noticed the sun on her hair?" I asked, innocently.

My aunt drew herself up.

"We have not noticed the sun on her hair," she said, with much dignity; "nor do we wish to observe the sun on her hair."

I was justly annoyed. "I really think it must be Winifred Fraser," I said. "She is very fond of me——"

"How can you be so cruel to me!" cried my mother. "Have you noticed how gray my hair is getting? You will not have me long." She drew out her handkerchief.

"You will come to a bad end," said my aunt. "I always thought you were depraved. If you marry that painted hussy you must not expect my countenance."

"Under the circumstances I will not marry Winifred Fraser," I said, with great magnanimity, for I did not particularly want my aunt's countenance.

My aunt sniffed. "You had better not."

"I merely joked," I said, soothingly, remembering she had not made her will.

"Indeed!"

"The truth is"—I dropped my voice—"I am in love with some one else."

"And you never told me!" said my mother, reproachfully.

"The girl I love is not free."

"Married!" cried my aunt.

"Not married—but engaged."

"Who is it?" asked my mother, gently.

I was silent for a moment, and then I sighed.

"It is Constance Burleigh."

"It would have been a most suitable match," murmured my mother.

"Very suitable," replied my aunt.

There was a momentary silence, broken by my aunt.

"I did not know Constance was engaged."

"It is a secret; you must not repeat what I have told you."

"I don't like these secret engagements," said my aunt, brusquely. "Who told you?"

"She told me herself."

"Who is the man?"

"I do not think I should repeat his name."

"I hope Constance is not throwing herself away."

I shook my head doubtfully.

"You know the man?"

I nodded.

"Is he quite—quite——"

Again I shook my head doubtfully.

"What have you heard?" my aunt asked, eagerly.

"I don't think I ought to repeat these things."

"You can surely trust your mother," murmured my mother.

"And my discretion," said my aunt.

"Well," I said, "I have been told he is cruel to his mother."

"Really!" cried the two ladies in a breath.

"His mother told me so herself."

"How sad!" said my mother.

"And what else?" asked my aunt.

"Another relation of his told me he was depraved."

"Poor, poor Constance!" whispered my mother.

"And would probably end badly."

"I expect he drinks," said my aunt, grimly.

"Does Constance know this?" asked my mother.

"I don't think so."

"You did not tell her?"

"Of course not."

"I consider it your duty to."

"I really cannot."

"Then I will," said my aunt, resolutely.

"What I have said has been in confidence."

"I do not care."

"I beg you not to do so."

"It is my duty. I am too fond of Constance to allow her to throw herself away on this worthless man."

I shrugged my shoulders. "Do as you please, but don't mention my name. By the way, Constance said she would probably call this afternoon."

At that moment the bell rang.

"That may be she," said my aunt, flying to the window. "It is."

I got up slowly and sauntered into the conservatory, which adjoins the drawing-room. From behind a friendly palm I could see without being seen. I saw my aunt look toward my mother.

"If we open her eyes," I heard her whisper, "it may pave the way for Alfred."

My mother said nothing, but I saw the same hope shine from her eyes.

The door opened and the servant announced Constance. She came forward with a little eager rush; then stopped short, embarrassed by the want of reciprocity.

"We are glad to see you," said my mother, and kissed her.

My aunt came forward. "We were just speaking of you," she said, solemnly. "Sit down."

Constance looked a little crushed. "I thought Alfred would have told you," she murmured.

"We have heard——" began my aunt.

"Hush," interposed my mother. "Come nearer me, Constance. Won't you take off your hat?"

Constance came and sat by her side. "I was anxious to come and tell you that—that——"

"If you are alluding to your engagement," said my aunt, somewhat severely, "we have already heard of it."

"You have heard!" cried Constance.

"With the deepest sorrow."

Constance drew herself up.

"You do not approve?" she asked, proudly.

"We love you too much," said my mother, gently.

Constance looked bewildered.

"You are too good for the wretch!" cried my aunt. "What! Oh, what do you mean?" exclaimed Constance.

"If you marry this man," continued my aunt, vigorously, "you will regret it."

My mother took her hand. "My sister should not tell you this so suddenly."

"It is my duty to speak, and I will," cried my aunt. "I will not let Constance unite herself to this man with her eyes closed."

"What have you against him?" demanded Constance, a red spot beginning to burn in each cheek.

"He drinks," answered my aunt, almost triumphantly.

Constance sank back in the cushions. "I don't believe it," she said, faintly.

"He ill-treats his mother—beats her, I believe," continued my aunt.

"This cannot be true," cried Constance. "Mrs. Granville, tell me."

My mother nodded sadly.

"Alas! I cannot deny it."

Constance arose. "This is awful!" she said, holding on to the back of the sofa. "I could never have believed it." She put her hand to her forehead. "It is like a bad dream."

"My poor, dear Constance," murmured my mother, rising and putting her arms round her.

My aunt brought up her artillery. "He is thoroughly depraved, and will come to a bad end. His relations are as one on this point."

Constance buried her face in my mother's bosom. "Oh, dear! oh, dear! and I loved him so!" she sobbed.

In the adjoining room I was becoming uncomfortable.

"We thought it right to tell you," said my aunt, moved by her tears, "though Alfred begged and implored us not to."

"I could never, never have believed it," sobbed Constance. "Poor, poor Mrs. Granville!"

My mother soothed her.

"How difficult you must have felt it to tell me this," exclaimed Constance, drying her tears. "It was so good of you. I will not give him another thought. To treat his mother so cruelly! Oh, Mrs. Granville, I am so sorry for you!"

"It is I who am sorry for you," said my mother, doubtfully.

"And no one would have dreamed it. We always thought you were so fond of him and spoiled him utterly. And all the time you were hiding your sorrow. How noble of you!"

My mother looked at Aunt Tabitha, who returned her stare.

"Who ever is it?" said Aunt Tabitha, whispering. "Find out."

"Where did you meet him, dearest?" whispered my mother.

"Meet him? Why, here, of course," said Constance, with opening eyes.

"Yes, yes, of course," said my mother, mystified.

"I thought you would be pleased, and I hurried across to tell you."

"Can Alfred have made a mistake?" muttered my aunt, hoarsely.

The two elder ladies stood still in the utmost embarrassment.

"I shall never be happy again," said Constance, mournfully.

"Don't say that," implored my mother. "Perhaps there is a mistake."

"How can there be a mistake?" asked Constance, raising her head.

"There can be no mistake," said my aunt, hastily.

"How could he be cruel to you?" cried Constance, kissing my mother.

"Cruel to me?" cried my mother.

"You said he was cruel to you."

"Of whom are you speaking?" cried both ladies.

"Of Alfred, of course."

The two elder ladies sat down suddenly.

"You are not engaged to Alfred?" they gasped simultaneously.

—"To whom else?" said Constance, in amazement.

"There is some misunderstanding," I observed, smoothly, coming in at the moment.

The three fell upon me together.

It took at least an hour to explain. Yet I had said nothing which was not strictly true.

"You will not allow these practical jokes when you are married, will you, Conny?" said my mother, fondly.

"I will not," replied Constance, tightening her lips.

"Marriage is the saving of a young man," repeated my aunt, grimly.—Chambers' Journal.

ENOUGH CHALK FOR ALL TIME.

Great Block that Was Once as Large as the Continent of Europe.

The small piece of chalk which is in constant use in the schoolroom, the lecture-room, the billiard-room and the workshop has a strange history, the unraveling of which through all its complexities is one of the most difficult problems with which the science of the present day is called upon to deal. This piece is in reality a chip of an immense block of chalk that once filled an area the size of the continent of Europe, and of which even yet several gigantic fragments remain, each hundreds of square miles in extent. These patches are scattered over the region lying between Ireland on the west and China on the east, and extending in the other direction from Sweden in the north to Portugal in the south.

In the British isles the chalk is found in greatest perfection and continuity in the east and southeast of England. A sheet of chalk more than 1,000 feet in thickness underlies all that portion of England which is situated to the southeast of a line crossing the island diagonally from the North Sea at Flamborough Head to the coast on the English channel in Dorset. This enormous sheet of chalk is tilted up slightly on the west, and its depressed eastern portions that dip toward the waters of the North Sea are usually buried from sight by means of overlying sands and clays. Where the edges of the chalk floor come upon the sea the cliff scenery is strikingly grand and beautiful. Anyone who has once seen the magnificent rocks of Flamborough and Beechy Head, the jagged stacks of the Needles or the dizzy mass of Shakspeare's cliff, near Dover, can understand why "the white cliffs of Albion" has grown into a stock phrase.

This massive sheet of chalk appears again in France, in many other parts of Europe as far east as the Crimea, and even in Central Asia, beyond the Sea of Aral. How far it stretched westward into what is now the Atlantic may never be known, but chalk cliffs of at least 200 feet in thickness are seen at Antrim, in Ireland and less conspicuous formations are found in Scotland, in Argyle and Aberdeen. There can be little question that all these now isolated patches were once connected in a continuous sheet, which must, therefore, have occupied a superficial area about 3,000 miles long by nearly 1,000 broad, an extent larger than that of the present continent of Europe.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A Substitute for Amputation.

"A new and simple mode of treatment has been introduced in France," says the Medical Times, "by which, it is claimed, a large proportion of injured limbs now usually amputated can be saved. The method, which is due to Dr. Reclus, was recently described before the French Congress of Surgery, and is thus explained:

"'Whatever the extent or gravity of the lesions, he never, under any circumstances, amputates the injured limb, but merely wraps it in antiseptic substances by a veritable embalming process, leaving nature to separate the dead from the living tissues. This method of treatment possesses the double advantage of being much less fatal than surgical exaresis, and of preserving for the use of the patient, if not the entire limb, at any rate a much larger part than would be left by amputation.

"'He advocates this very conservative treatment on account of the excellent effects of hot water, which he uses freely. After the skin has been shaved and cleansed from all fatty substances by ether, etc., in the usual way a jet of hot water 60 to 62 degrees C. (140 to 144 degrees), but not higher, is made to irrigate all the injured surfaces and to penetrate into all the hollows and under the detached parts of the wound without exception. This is the only way of removing all clots and to wash away all foreign bodies, together with the micro-organisms they may contain. The advantages of hot water at this high temperature are threefold: First, hot water at this temperature is antiseptic, heat greatly increases the potency of antiseptic substances; second, it is hemstatic (blood-staunching); third, it helps to compensate for the loss of heat resulting from the bleeding, and especially from the traumatic shock. After the "embalming" process, and the dead tissue has been separated from the living, the surgeon has nothing to do except to divide the bone at a suitable spot. According to Reclus the results attained are remarkable.'"

A Good Excuse.

"Have I done anything to offend you, darling?" he asked, brokenly. "To-day you passed me without bowing and now you sit there with such an air of hauteur and pride that——"

"George," interrupted the girl, with an unbending air, but in her voice a cadence sweeter than music at night, "I have a stiff neck."—Boston Globe.

So Comfortable.

"I always like to see that Senator get up to make a speech," said the drowsy-looking man.

"He isn't very interesting."

"No. When he is on his feet I'm always sure that my nap will not be disturbed by any outburst of applause."—Washington Star.

The Rest Cure.

Mr. Henpeck—Doctor, my wife tells me that you have advised her to go to the seaside for two months.

Physician—Yes.

Mr. Henpeck—Do you think she needs rest?

Physician—No; but you do.—Tit-Bits.

There is one thing we never expect to see: a man go into an ice cream parlor alone, and order ice cream for himself.

Bicycles Superior to Horses.

The feat of a Baltimore bicyclist, who rode 170 miles in twelve hours, and 314 miles in twenty-four hours, seems to show that the new motor is superior to the horse in more ways than one. It is not only insensible to fatigue, but it is superior in points of both speed and endurance. Probably the best record ever made by a horse was that of the animal ridden by Count Strahrenberg, in October, 1892, which covered the distance from Vienna to Berlin, 400 miles, in seventy-one hours and thirty-four minutes. This was far inferior to the 314 miles made by the human muscle, with the aid of the wheel, in twenty-four hours. The horse can go where the bicycle cannot, but, given good roads, he stands no chance with it in a race against either time or distance.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Two Mighty Continents,

North and South America, besides Guatemala, the West Indies, Australia, and even Europe, are the fields of usefulness in which Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has demonstrated its value as an antidote to malaria, and as a remedy for dyspepsia, constipation, rheumatism, neuralgia, biliousness, nervousness, and loss of appetite and sleep. The inhabitants, the medical men of these countries, have spoken in no uncertain tones concerning the efficacy of the great household remedy.

The Seven Churches in Asia.

Whether the famous seven churches established at Ephesus, Smyrna, Pergamos, Thyatira, Sardus, Philadelphia and Laodicea were all founded by the Apostle John is a matter concerning which the commentators are not agreed, many taking the ground that some, at least, were established by others of the Apostles. The question is one of those historic problems which will never be settled, because the information is lacking. It is certain that from the allusions made by John in the Book of Revelation to these churches that he was on most intimate terms with them, and that he felt a lively concern for their welfare. It is possible that each may have been at one time or another the recipient of his personal attention, but this is uncertain.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is a constitutional cure. Price 75 cents.

Sarcastic.

"Oh, Mr. Smyth, your newspaper jokes are so funny I always read them twice."

And after Smyth had departed, with his bump of self-esteem considerably extended, she told the other girls that she had to do so in order to see the point.—Texas Siftings.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink without injury as well as the adult. All who try it like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha and Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. One-fourth of the price of coffee. 15c and 25c per package, sold by all grocers.

Some Editors Take the Risk.

"Davie, what is scandal?"

"Scandal is the somethin' a feller don't dare t' print in a newspaper for fear of gettin' licked."—Judge.

A list of Country homes along the South Shore of Lake Erie open to Summer Boarders will be mailed to any one enclosing a two-cent stamp to B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent of the Nickel Plate Road, Cleveland, Ohio.

Thieves, at Buckinghamshire, England, stole a bronze and stone fountain fourteen feet high.

We will forfeit $1,000 if any of our published testimonials are proven to be not genuine. THE PISO CO., Warren, Pa.

Age never looks so wrinkled as when it tries to appear young.

The Doctors Are Right.

All the progressive doctors now days pronounce against the use of alcohol as a medicine as well as a drink. The human body has no use for rum in any form or for any reason. The same with coffee. Society can afford to hold a jubilee when we are rid of both of them. Stimulants are always bad—never good. In place of coffee use Grain-O, made from pure grains. It looks like coffee—rich, brown and luscious. No sense of being dosed and drugged. A hot cup of Grain-O warms, enlivens, feeds, nourishes; but it doesn't excite you or set the nerves twanging. Old coffee and tea drinkers will soon prefer Grain-O for its taste as well as for its good effects. Packages 15 or 25 cents. Ask your grocer for it.

It is claimed that the perfume of flowers disappears as soon as the starch in the petals is exhausted; and it may, it is said, be restored by placing the flower in a solution of sugar, when the formation of starch and the emission of fragrance will be at once resumed.

Shake Into Your Shoes

Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder for the feet. It cures painful, swollen, smarting feet, and instantly takes the sting out of corns and bunions. It's the greatest comfort discovery of the age. Allen's Foot-Ease makes tight-fitting or new shoes feel easy. It is a certain cure for sweating, callous and hot, tired, aching feet. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores. By mail for 25 cents, in stamps. Trial package FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

For seven years the St. Lawrence River gradually decreases in depth; then for seven years it gradually increases in depth, the difference in level being above five feet. Why it does so no one has yet discovered.

To Colorado Springs and Pueblo—Burlington Route via Denver.

A through sleeping car to Colorado Springs and Pueblo, via Denver, is attached to Burlington Route daily train leaving Chicago 10:30 p. m. Office, 211 Clark street.

Senator Hoar said in the Forum that "Senators no longer bring whisky-soaked brains to meet the high demands of the public service."

Every man having a beard should keep it an even and natural color, and if it is not so already, use Buckingham's Dye and appear tidy.

There is more snuff used in Boston than in any other city in the United States.

ALL THE WAY FROM THE MISSOURI RIVER TO BUFFALO, THE WABASH RAILROAD OPERATES TRAINS OVER ITS OWN TRACKS.

Having leased the tracks of the Grand Trunk Railway between Detroit and Suspension Bridge, and those of the Erie R. R. from Suspension Bridge to Buffalo, the Wabash R. R. will run its own trains from Kansas City, Omaha, Des Moines, St. Louis, Quincy, Hannibal, Keokuk and Chicago to Buffalo, being the only road from Missouri and Mississippi River points having its own line and trains running into Buffalo. Through cars from Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago to Buffalo without change.

The one who fails in character has made the greatest failure.

Located on the South Shore of Lake Erie contiguous to the Nickel Plate Road are many Country Homes that will accommodate Summer Boarders. Send to B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent of the Nickel Plate Road at Cleveland, O., and he will forward you a list on receipt of a two-cent stamp.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething: softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

An Artistic Brochure entitled "Summer Outings" is published by the Nickel Plate Road, describing vacation resorts along that line. Address B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., for a copy.

Pertinent Questions.

Why Will a Woman Throw Away Her Good Looks and Comfort?

Why will a woman drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence and miss three-quarters of the joy of living, when she has health almost within her grasp? If she does not value her good looks, does she not value her comfort?

Why, my sister, will you suffer that dull pain in the small of your back, those bearing-down, dragging sensations in the loins, that terrible fullness in the lower bowel, caused by constipation proceeding from the womb lying over and pressing on the rectum? Do you know that these are signs of displacement, and that you will never be well while that lasts?

What a woman needs who is thus affected is to strengthen the ligaments so they will keep her organs in place. There is nothing better for this purpose than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The great volume of testimony which is constantly rolling in, proves that the Compound is constantly curing thousands of just such cases.

The following letter from Mrs. Marlow is only one of many thousands which Mrs. Pinkham has received this year from those she has relieved—surely such testimony is convincing:

"My trouble commenced after the birth of my last child. I did not know what was the matter with me. My husband went to our family physician and described my symptoms, and he said I had displacement and falling of the womb. He sent me some medicine, but it did little good. I let it go on about two years, and every time I did any hard work my womb would come down. Finally a lady friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did. The first bottle helped me so much, I continued to take it right along. My back was almost the same as no back. I could not lift scarcely any weight. My life was just a drag to me. To-day I am well of my womb trouble, and have a good, strong back, thanks to Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. L. Marlow, Milford, Ill.

"Thoughtless Folks Have the Hardest Work, but Quick Witted People Use SAPOLIO

PATENTS. TRADE-MARKS. Examination and advice as to Patentability of inventions. Send for Inventors' Guide, or How to Get a Patent. Patrick O'Farrell, Washington, D.C.

SORE EYES Dr. ISAAC THOMPSON'S EYE WATER

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

BIG G CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A.

When Writing to Advertisers say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

OUR THANKS ARE DUE

To the citizens of Auburn for the large trade enjoyed with them the past six months. It takes a mamouth establishment to carry a nice assortment of.....

Furniture & Carpets

You could put into our great establishment at least a dozen ordinary stores.

Why not buy your Furniture and carpets where you can have the advantage of....

The Latest Styles,

The Lowest Prices,

The Biggest Assortment,

The Best Made Goods.

A round trip ticket costs you but little,; the trip you will enjoy, and you can save five times your expenses; we will pay the freight on your goods, and, best of all, you will not have goods your town's people have all looked over, but instead, something new and fresh that none of them have seen and which none of them have.

Everybody admits we have the finest Furniture and Carpet Store in the state of Indiana. We want....

You

for one of our customers.

Foster Furniture & Carpet Co.,

Fort Wayne, Indiana.

I. O. BUCHTEL, HOMEOPATHIC

Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to Chronic and Obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Madden Bros Marble Works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, day or night.

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS.

Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, Corner Main and Sixth Streets.

Professional Calls Promptly Answered.

Telephones: Western, 19; Central Union, 19

D. J. Swarts, M. D. Vesta W. Swarts, M. D

ALBERT ROBBINS, PRES. J. C. HENRY, V. P

FARMERS BANK.

—INCORPORATED—

AND UNDER STATE CONTROL.

Capital and Surplus $50,000

Transacts a General Banking Business and pays Interest on time Deposits.

A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

Capital and Surplus $60,000.

Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest, if left six months. County and town orders bought and sold. Money to loan.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN, PRESIDENT
CHAS. McCLELLAN, CASHIER.

S. B. JOHNSTON,

DENTIST.

AUBURN - - INDIANA

Office, 25 North Main Street.

Most Difficult Operations, a Specialty.

Telephone No. 27, Western.

J. H. JOHNSTON,

DENTAL SURGEON,

Auburn - Indiana.

OFFICE OVER PIONEER HARDWARE STORE.

SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO PLATE WORK

F. W. HOFFMAN,

DENTIST,

AUBURN, - - - - - - INDIANA

Office in Gandy building, northeast corner of square.....

CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY

WE SET 'EM RIGHT.

The Waterloo Press is mistaken in its statement that the "Auburn Band gave a concert at the Hotel Glazier in honor of F. A. Borst, who was one of the founders of the band." The band that played that night is another band the "Trumpet Note Band" with which Borst never had any connection. And they did not "give a concert," they played on the ground under the trees on the east side of the public square. The original Auburn Band of which Borst is one of the founders, have the band stand on the west side and played there Tuesday night. We admit that had it been as the Press supposed, it would have been in very bad taste, and that the strictures of the Press would have been very proper. We mention this mainly to set the boys right.

Splendid Success

has been had in cases of colic, diarrhœa, etc, by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. As a household remedy for such troubles it is invaluable. Buy a 10c trial bottle and you are bound to be convinced. To be had of F. E. Davenport. 30

For Your Vacation.

Buy one of the cheap excursion tickets to Chautauqua Lake. Sold by agents of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry., on July 2nd and August 2nd. Inquire of ticket agents.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Administrator of the estate of Leah Rhodarmer deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent July 1st, 1897.

GEORGE W. BLEEKS, Administrator.

Baxter & Brown Attys.

Notice to Non-Residents

State of Indiana, DeKalb, ss: In the DeKalb Circuit Court. May term, 1897, Hulbert L Sheets impleaded with another is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court, on note and in attachment by William Huffman and that the same will be heard and determined on the 16th day of August 1897, being the 79th juridical day of the next term of said court, which commenced May 1897.

Witness, the clerk of said court, this 18th day of June 1897.

MICHAEL F. LONG, Clerk.

Baxter & Brown, Attyt.

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the County of DeKalb, State of Indiana, Executor of the estate of Frederick Rohm deceased, late of DeKalb Co.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

HENRY C. ROHM,
June 21, 1897. Administrator.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Executors of the will of John Leas deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent. June 24, 1897.

WILLIAM H. LEAS } Executors.
HEZEKIAH K. LEAS }

Notice to Farmers.

Having purchased a thoroughbred short horn Durham bull, he will be for service at my farm.

A. D. MOORE.

Chattanooga and Return, Half Rates.

For the meeting of the B. Y. P. U. the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry., will sell tickets to Chattanooga and return at less than half rates on July 13, 14 and 15, good to return until August 15th. For particulars apply to ticket agents or write to A. J. Smith G. P. & T. A., Cleveland, O., for pamphlet about this and other cheap excursions.

B. & O. EXCURSIONS.

CHATTANOGA, TENN.

On July 13, 14 and 15 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell low rate Excursion Ticket to Chattanooga, Tenn. account Baptist Young People's Union of America. Tickets will be good for return until July August 15, if deposited with agent of terminal line at Chattanooga prior to July 19.

LARGE ENGLISH BERSHIRES.

WATERLOO INDIANA, June 24, 1897.—For 30 days I will offer a few choice gilts with or without being bred, at $10 and $12. Young boars old enough for service $8 and $10. Choice pigs at weaning $5. Choice sow, to farrow October, $15

J. W. JACKMAN & SON,
Two miles east of Waterloo, Ind

ZYCOPHORUS!

ZYCOPHORUS Is the latest, and greatest, scientific composition of medicines for the cure of all Kidney, Bladder, Sexual and Nervous Diseases. It is purely vegetable and has an immediate marvelous action. Hundreds have been cured by Zycophorus after the failure of all other methods. We do not offer a large reward for cases it will not cure, but give a written guarantee to cure or refund money. Cures all kidney and bladder diseases such as painful, dribbling, burning, or difficult urination, dropsical swellings, gravel, cystitis, albumen, sugar, mucus, blood, and other deposits and discharges, and such sexual and nervous disease is emissions, vital drain in urine, varicocele, impotency, impaired memory, weak back, melancholy, premature decline of the manly powers, etc. Renews sexual life in both sexes, and builds up the nerve and brain tissues. One package will prove its efficacy. Six packages guaranteed to cure or money refunded. Price per package, 50 cents; Six packages, $2.50. For sale at drug stores or sent prepaid to any address on receipt of price. Send for circular.

TILMAN CHEMICAL CO.,
Toledo, O.

GROWING A NEW SKIN.

The Operation of Skin Grafting Performed Upon Elmer Glass's Hand.

Col. City Post.

An interesting operation was conducted at the time of the last meeting of the Whitley County Medical Society by Dr. Squires, of Churubusco, in the way of skin grafting of which much has been read of late.

The subject was young Glass, whose hand was removed by accident a few weeks ago and whose wounds were not healing as rapidly as it was desired. In the presence of a number of physicians and other interested spectators, the Doctor placed seven or eight grafts upon the wound. These grafts were no larger in diameter than a pea, but they will grow considerably in size so that the several patches will be sufficient to cover the surface necessary.

The grafts were taken from the arm of the boy's father, D. D. Glass, Dr Squires having first by way of illustration as to the amount of pain attending it, taken a graft from his own arm. These grafts are simply smoothed out upon the wound and held there by small patches of tissue paper the whole then covered with a dressing to keep it in an aseptic condition. It is now thought there will be no difficulty in preserving the finger and thumb of injured hand.

Harrison-Yates.

(Reading Hustler)

On Wednesday evening, June 30, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Yates, on south Main street, occurred the wedding of Miss Bertha B. Yates to Prof. M. W. Harrison, superintent of schools at Wabash, Ind, Rev. W. A. Myers, of Mayville, officiated. The home was most beautifully decorated with roses and other flowers. The ceremony took place opposite a bank of ferns and palms and just beneath two floral hearts. Fred Hackett, as usher, was indefatigable in attending to the comfort of the assembled guests. At the appointed time the bridal party marched into the room to the strains of the Mendlessohn wedding march played by Miss Hattie Mallory. The bride was attended by Mrs. G. L. Lanning as maid of honor, by Miss Bertha Lanning as ring bearer and Miss Lulu Clizbe, bridesmaid. Edgar Yates acted as groomsman, and Mr. G. L. Lanning attended the maid of honor.

The bride was attired in ivory Duchesse satin and carried bridal roses. Mrs. Lanning wore a figured organdie and carried sweet peas. Bertha Lanning was attired in white organdie and lace. Miss Clizbe wore dotted pink organdie and carried pink carnations.

The wedding supper was served in four courses by Misses Nellie and Maggie Buckley, Lizzie Scheinerhorn, Ella Galloway, and Maud Barre. During the ceremony and supper sweet strains of music from an adjoining room added to the pleasure of the occasion. The wedding presents were numerous and beautiful.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison take a trip on the lakes then down the Mississippi to St. Louis, returning home the latter part of July. A very large number of friends were present to extend congratulations on the joyous occasion. Among those present were Prof. and Mrs. B. B. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Lanning and daughter, and the Misses Buckley, of Auburn, Ind., Prof. and Mrs. G. A. McGee and daughter Ruth, of Hudson, Rev. W. A. Myers, Mayville, Mr. and Mrs. Will Munger

Losing Flesh

You naturally lose flesh in the summer and running down is so easy You get a little weaker each day without hardly noticing it There is loss of appetite, headache, weakness of the muscles, disturbed sleep, weakness of memory, and these are the beginning of nervous prostration Iron and tonics and bitters may afford some temporary relief, but what you need is a food for body, brain and nerves of Cod-liver Oil with the Hypophosphites, furnishes just the nourishment needed for those who are run down and pale and thin and weak. If you lose flesh in summer take Scott's Emulsion now. Don't wait till fall or winter before beginning.

Scott's Emulsion

For sale at 50c. and $1.00 by all druggists.

Do You Use It?

It's the best thing for the hair under all circumstances. Just as no man by taking thought can add an inch to his stature, so no preparation can make hair. The utmost that can be done is to promote conditions favorable to growth. This is done by Ayer's Hair Vigor. It removes dandruff, cleanses the scalp, nourishes the soil in which the hair grows, and, just as a desert will blossom under rain, so bald heads grow hair, when the roots are nourished. But the roots must be there. If you wish your hair to retain its normal color, or if you wish to restore the lost tint of gray or faded hair use

Ayer's Hair Vigor.

Toledo, Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Smith, Montpelier, and Miss Elsie Cottrell, Hillsdale. The good wishes of a host of friends follow the happy couple.

THE GLAZIER HOUSE.

Various rumors have been afloat during the past three days in regard to the Glazier House and Mr. Glazier, himself. It has been known for some time that he was not satisfied with business, and it was believed he contemplated going out of it. But there had been pretty good business during the week the Michigan City prisoners were there. They all left, however at noon of Tuesday, and that same evening Mr. Glazier disappeared, and has not been seen since. His family is greatly concerned about him. This morning, the guests were told at breakfast, that there would be no dinner. Mr. Longfellow informs us that the hotel will remain closed for a couple of weeks at least. It will then be opened under new management. We will announce later the new proprietors.

COURT.

When court adjourned Tuesday evening after the verdict was rendered in the Fair case, it was to begin work again Friday at 1 p. m.

We find other odds and ends of work done by the court since our former reports.

The forgery case against Perry Fair goes to Steuben county as before noted. We do not know when it will be tried.

The horse trade matter between Ianson and Showalter, has been decided. Ianson gets a judgment of $779.-62 against Showalter on the account.

The case of Sparling vs Nusbaum that had been brought back into court on an amended complaint has been taken out of Judge Lowry's hands, and another judge will have to pass on it.

Romeo Fusselman did not go to the pen for one year, as we had it, but under the new law, it "was "from one to five years," He will likely get off with one year.

There have been seventy-five indictments beginning with the December term and grand jury, up to date. And it wasn't a very extra good year for indictments either.

E. H. and Lida E. Neidic were divorced, as were also Elizabeth J. and Patrick Quinn; also Lydia E. from Chester Hoisington.

The attachment case against H. L. Sheets is set for August 16.

C. M. Meek not having received his liquor license from the Board of Commissioners, had appealed to the circuit court, but the case has been dismissed on the ground that the circuit court had no jurisdiction of the matter as it now stands.

BOY KICKED

Monday's Daily.

Word came to Agent DeLapp this afternoon, to have Mart Culver, the Lake Shore section foreman sent for to come home as his boy had been kicked by a horse. He went at once, and found that the boy was considerably hurt. It seems he was playing with the horse, when he was kicked. The blow struck him across the face, cutting a piece off his nose and tearing the flesh some across the face. But we have not been able to learn whether his hurts are dangerous or not.

THROWN FROM A HORSE

While Riding it to Pasture Last Night.

Thursday's Daily.

Elsa Shull, son of H. C and Mrs. Shull, was thrown from a horse, while riding it to pasture last night. When just opposite E. D. Hartman's residence the two other horses which were following started and ran, and the horse which he was riding also started and being quite frisky, threw the boy up in the air and he fell to the ground and lay there as if dead. The COURIER reporter was near and saw the accident. We ran to the boy and aided by others carried him on to Mr. Hartman's porch. The boy then gasped for breath, and cold water was applied untill his father came and he was taken home. Dr. Hines was also called and at the house an examination was made, which proved that the only injury was a hard bump on the head. This will not be serious unless something else sets in. Mr. Shull's boys seem to be unlucky. Only a few weeks ago, a smaller one was hurt at the band saw mill.

Garrett's Grand Day.

Saturday was hot. We say this "without fear of successful contradiction." The Garrett train that came up to the west Seventh-st station took over about 100, but people had been going by private conveyance much earlier. But Garrett was full of people, and the weather was so hot, that it was scarcely endurable. However, the program was fully carried out. There was the industrial and comic parade, the Military, the G. A. R., the Fire department, etc, etc, besides the bands, and the marching club of young Baptist cadets. All was very nice, and then came the speaking and singing at the Ross House porch, taking the time till noon. Afternoon, there were races of various kinds and other contests, closing at evening with the sham fight between the Auburn Rifles and the Garrett German Veterans which was very exciting. In the evening there were fireworks and illuminations It was all very fine and Garrett has a right to be proud of the celebration. The town was decorated with flags and bunting, the streets were lined with temporary trees of tamarac, and a big crossed arch of tamarac was over one of the crossings of the Main-st. But for the terrible heat of the day, it would all have been very enjoyable.

No Griping Or Pains.

Arrowsmith, Ill., Jan. 21, 1897.

Dear Sirs:—I have been bothered for 15 years with constipation and I have trid many preparations during that time. I commenced using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in the fall of 1895 and unhesitatingly say it is the best remedy I have ever found for my trouble. No griping or pains after taking Yours, etc.

F. E. Davenport WM. HURT.

Mothers, Save the Babies.

Summer complaint, dysentery and diarrhœa carry many babies to the grave. Mothers, take warning and use in time Dr. John W. Bull's Baby Syrup to regulate the bowels and allay inflammation. "We have used Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup for thirteen years with the best result. We would as soon be without flour or sugar in the house as this remedy. A. N. Burgess, Grove, Ohio." Ask your dealer for Dr. John W. Bull's Baby Syrup. Price 25 cts.

Sold by F. E. Davenport, Auburn.

My Baby.

CANTON, O., 2-26-'96—Hand Medicine Co.—"My baby had been having wind colic since her birth and she was two months old when I procured a bottle of Dr. Hand's Colic Cure. In less than two weeks' time she was cured of having colic and has never had it since. We had tried several other medicines, but they did no good. I can cheerfully recommend your colic cure to be the best. Mrs. F. H. Rock," Sold by Fischler & Son, 25c.

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding, Ulcerated and Itching Piles. It also be the tumors, allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and Itching of the private parts and nothing else. Every box is guaranteed. Sold by druggists, sent by mail for 50c and $1 per box.

WILLIAMS MFG. Co., Props. Cleveland O. Sold by Fischler & Son.

Chautauqua Lake Excursions.

On July 2nd and August 2nd, 1897, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry., will sell excursion tickets to Chautauqua and return at about half rates. Those sold on former date will be good to return until August 2d and the latter until August 31st. A beautiful illustrated descriptive book about Lake Chautauqua sent on receipt of 4 cents to cover mailing, by A. J. Smith, G. P. & T. A., L. S. & M. S. Ry, Cleveland, Ohio.

Coming, Thank Goodness.

The Dispatch announces the arrival in Auburn of the "Advance Agent of Prosperity." Better late than never. But oh, what horrid stories were told: The A. A. of P. was to arrive "as soon as McKinley was elected" But there was a hitch in the coming. Then it was given out that "as soon as McKinley was inaugurated." But the 4th of March came and went, and the A. A. of P. was as far away as ever. Then it was stated in confident tones, that it would be all right, as soon as the people could be taxed a little higher. Well, the new tariff law is almost done, now, and on the strength of that, the Dispatch now sees a great, white light, and thinks it must be the reflection of the Advance Agent's jolly visage. We are glad to hear of the good tidings as we have been rather skeptical as to such promises, in fact as to all of them. But the Dispatch has said it, and said it with a snap of the jaw that seems to settle the matter. It adds.

"Anyone can get work now that wants to work. If people would get over the calamity scare and put money in circulation, now sewed up in old stockings, and assist our business men to make business, the calamity howler's occupation would be gone."

There you have it. Let us all get out our our stockings and pour their hoarded contents out into the channels of business. We are ready to shell out ours. Will the Dispatch kindly help the boom, and show its faith in its own words by rattling the long hoarded $20-gold pieces from its own plethoric stocking? Who'll be the first to untie his stocking? The Dispatch should not hesitate to set this good example.

P. S. The dailies of this morning bring word of the greatest strikes on record, the coal, glass and steel workers, being out by tens of thousands today.

IN A RUNAWAY

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lockwood and Mrs. Silver, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Boyle of Butler drove to Hamilton Sunday to spend the day. Just as they were driving down to Cold Springs, their buggy broke and this frightened the horse and it commenced to kick. The dash board was total wreck as well as a pail which sat in the front of the buggy. Mrs. Silver was in the front seat holding Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood's little baby. When the horse commenced to kick she leaned back to protect the baby as well as herself but she could not escape and one limb was hurt by the horse kicking her. They borrowed enough repairs to get back to Butler and this morning the Auburn crowd returned home. Mrs. Silver's injury is not serious, though it gives her much pain.

FINGERS CUT OFF.

Friday's Daily.

Geo. Snyder, an employe of Zimmerman Mfg. Co., lost two fingers this morning. He was running a machine which turns moulding and got his hand too close to the bit. The accident Mr. Snyder admits, was due to carelessness. It is very unfortunate and will probably keep him from work for some time.

TIME'S UP.

The free telephones of the Bell system are all being taken out now. Three months free trial was given and the time having expired, the phones are being removed today, except in cases where the user wishes them continued at his expense. The phone in the COURIER office is out and of course the ones at the residence both of Mr. Barns and Mr. Lochner, are also discontinued. Our friends will bear this in mind and communicate to us over the Home telephone. It would be better for the town if we had but one system for everybody wants to be connected with everybody else. But few people can afford the expense of two lines. We understand that the Home line had put in a number of free trial instruments also, and if so, we presume they likewise will be taken out.

NO PAY—NO CURE

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Chills and Malaria. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price 50c. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

Celebrated for its great leavening strength and healthfulness. Assures the food against alum and all forms of adulteration common to the cheap brands. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

Eye Hurt

The glorious Fourth did not entirely omit Auburn from its list of close calls. Lee Fischler came near losing an eye. He was standing about fifteen feet away from the little breech loading cannon of Rus Guilford, into which the boys had put the empty paper case of a Roman candle, and in this empty case was a elighted fire cracker. When the cracker exploded, the tin cartridge in the Roman candle was shot out of the cannon and happened to hit Lee in the eye. The body of the eye was torn in one place, and it was feared the eye was seriously injured. Today, however, he can see with it, and the torn place on the eye seems to be healing, and it is now hoped his sight will not be seriously.

Who Can Measure

The influence of the mother! It shapes the course of unborn generations—goes sounding through all coming ages and enters the confines of Eternity.

With what care, therefore, should the Expectant Mother be guarded, and how great the effort be to ward off danger and make her life happy.

"Mother's Friend"

Allays Nervousness, relieves the Headache, ...Cramps and Nausea, and so prepares the system that Child-Birth is made easy and the time of recovery shortened—many say "stronger after than before confinement." It insures safety to life of both mother and child. All who have used "Mother's Friend" say they will never be without it again. No other remedy robs confinement of its pain.

"A customer whose wife used 'Mother's Friend,' says that if she had to go through the ordeal again, and there were but four bottles to be obtained, and the cost was $100.00 per bottle, he would have them." GEO. LAYTON, Dayton, Ohio.

Sent by Mail, on receipt of price, $1.00 PER BOTTLE. Book, TO "EXPECTANT MOTHERS" mailed free containing valuable information and voluntary testimonials.

THE BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

William's Kidney Pills

Has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. Have you neglected your Kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your Kidneys and Bladder? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, groins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire pass urine? William's Kidney Pills will impart new life to the diseased organs, tone up the system and make a new man of you. By mail 50 cents per box.

WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props., Cleveland, O.

Sold By Fischler & Son.

THE TRIUMPH OF LOVE!

Happy and Fruitful Marriage.

Every MAN who would know the GRAND TRUTHS, the Plain Facts, the Old Secrets and the New Discoveries of Medical Science as applied to Married Life, who would atone for past follies and avoid future pitfalls, should write for our wonderful little book, called "Complete Manhood and How to Attain It." To any earnest man we will mail one copy Entirely Free, in plain sealed cover.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., 66 NIAGARA ST. BUFFALO, N. Y.

MADE ME A MAN

AJAX TABLETS POSITIVELY CURE ALL Nervous Diseases—Falling Memory, Impotency, Sleeplessness, etc., caused by Abuse or other Excesses and Indiscretions. They quickly and surely restore Lost Vitality in old or young, and fit a man for study, business or marriage. Prevent Insanity and Consumption if taken in time. Their use shows immediate improvement and effects a CURE where all other fail. Insist upon having the genuine Ajax Tablets. They have cured thousands and will cure you. We give a positive written guarantee to effect a cure with each case or refund the money. Price 50 CTS. per package, or six pkgs. (full treatment) for $2.50, by mail, in plain wrapper, upon receipt of price. Circular free. AJAX REMEDY CO., 19 Dearborn St. Chicago, Ill.

Sold by F. E. Davenport, Auburn.

LIFE VIM VIGOR VITALITY DEATH

RESTORED IN 30 DAYS

NOW GOOD EFFECTS AT ONCE THEN

CATON'S VITALIZER

Cures general or special debility, wakefulness, spermatorrhœa, emissions, impotency, paresis, etc. Corrects functional disorders, caused by errors or excesses, quickly restoring Lost Manhood in old or young, giving vigor and strength where former weakness prevailed. Convenient package, simple, effectual and legitimate.

CURE IS QUICK AND THOROUGH.

Don't be deceived by imitations; insist on CATON'S Vitalizers. Sent sealed if your druggist does not have it. Price $1 per pkge, 6 for $5, with written guarantee of complete cure. Information, references, etc., free and confidential. Send as statement of case and 2c stamps for a week's trial treatment. One only sent to each person.

CATON MED. CO., BOSTON, MASS.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Recorder's Office

Volume XXVII | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, July 15 1897. | Number 28.

DON'T KICK!

But buy a good Thomas Tedder to do that for you. After it is kicked enough. then use a Rock Island Hay Loader to load it. The most important thing to do is to buy them of

Brown, Culbertson & Boland,

Cash Hardware Store, where can be found Binder Twine CHEAPER than any place in Northern Indiana

1/2 THE { Labor Time Cost

SAVED BY

GOLD DUST WASHING POWDER

What More Can be Asked?

Only this; ask your grocer for it, and insist on trying it. Largest package—greatest economy.

THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY,

Chicago, St. Louis, New York, Boston, Philadelphia

Free to the Ladies from the oldest and most reliable Tea House in the country.

A lady friend has sent us her photograph, displaying what she has earned from us—a watch and chain, dinner set and toilet set. We have produced her photograph, showing exactly what we are giving with Tea, Coffee, Spice and Baking Powder orders; and not only are premium of high grade, but the quality of our goods is such that the people want them, making the business pleasant and profitable. Square treatment has made the best ladies of the country our friends It is them specially tnat we ask to write us for particlars. Address,

LIMA TEA CO., Lima, Ohio

NOT SO GREEN

As His Name Would Indicate Is Prof. Green.

"Prof." Green, the candy man and balloonist, has gone up and does not return to Auburn. Last Monday he told his friends here that he was telegraph-for to make a balloon ascention at Robbinson Park, and on the 11:20 train left for that place.

NDOUBTEDLY it was news to the people here to know that he was a balloonist, but he explained the matter so well the people thought he might not be so green as his name would suggest. He made no ascension at Robbinson Park, nor has anyone else heard from him since. His candy kitchen was left in charge of the clerks, and as he has not returned, his creditors took what was left. The total amount he has stuck the people of Auburn for will not fall short of $200. He has had a good business, and money has probably been saved. He believed in advertising and kept the COURIER paid up. The principal creditors are:

John Kruger, goods.
M. E. Garrett, goods.
Mrs. Little, rent.
Cal Husselman, ice cream.
Kessler Bros., cigars.
E. C. Sheets, clothing.
Various clerks, salary.
Steele & Son, painting, took peanuts to square account. And there are Bennet Hixon Dead.

Bennett Hixon one of the most prominent citizens of Butler township died last night about midnight. The funeral will be to-morrow, Friday, at 9 a. m. and interment in Evergreen cemetery at Auburn.

Mr. Hixon, has been ill for some time, and for the past few weeks, it was known that he had Bright's disease of the kidneys and that his case was hopeless. Dr. Buchtel, the attending physician, had also called in good counsel and both agreed as to the case. He was a nephew of Mrs. Barclay of this place, who has been with him and the family much of the time of late.

Padded Pay Rolls.

It seems that the Santa Fe road has been paying its employes by sending out checks to the list furnished by its various station agents and that these officers have been putting on the list, fictitious names, and getting the extra checks cashed themselves. Now the road has begun to send out a pay car, instead, and a recent dispatch says:

In order to locate the fictitious names the Santa Fe sent out a pay car last week for the first time in three years. The pay car left Chicago last Thursday and paid west to Marceline, Mo; from there it went over to the St. Joseph branch. Then it went back to Marceline and paid between that place and Kansas City, reaching Topeka Saturday evening. Between Chicago and Kansas City it paid only the section men and other gang hands. The checks for the trainmen were left at the division points as usual, but on the St Joseph division trainmen and all were paid from the car.

Assistant General Superintendent Turner and Chief of Detectives Kinney were on the car and attended personally to the work of handing out the cheks. Hundreds of the checks were not called for, and the investigation proved that the names were fictitious. The pay car system will be extended to other parts of the line and the investigation will thorough.

That Spot...

First size of a dime; next size of a dollar; then big as the palm of your hand. The end: entire baldness. Stop it.

Ayer's Hair Vigor Makes Hair Grow

COURT

Thursday's Daily.

To-day came on the divorce case brought by Mrs. Carrie Shull against her husband Frank Shull. The lady is a daughter of the late James D. Kelley, and is well known here, having lived here with Dr. Adams and wife, the latter being her mother. Shull is also well known here. They have not got along well since their marriage about two years ago. After the birth of a baby last spring, and while Mrs. Shull was sick, he claims she took a dose of carbolic acid to kill herself. She we believe claims he gave it to her. Among the witnesses were Dr. Adams, Mrs. Link, Mrs. Free Kelley, Douglas Kelley, John Clark and others. The story seems to be that Shull appeared to neglect her, even while sick, though he makes a contrary statement. It would appear, that at the time she is supposed to have taken the poison, he was sleeping upstairs with the baby. He claimed he called to her but she did not reply, and he took the baby down to her, but she paid no attention to him and he went away. The next morning, when it was found she was suffering from some drug, the neighbors were called in and for several days, cared for her till she was taken, with her child, over to the home of her brother, Douglas. When Dr. Adams went to the house to take her and the baby away, he says Shull refused to let him come in, and said he would "do him up," and threatened to use a revolver. The Doctor, however, went in and got her. They have not lived together since. J. E. Rose is Mrs. Shull's attorney, while Croxton & Powers are for Frank.

Friday's Daily.

The Shull case was going on as we went to press. The testimony given by both Mr. and Mrs. Shull was very conflicting. He claimed she had not been an amiable wife and had even shown a disposition to neglect the baby. He said he is 29 years old, that at the time of his marriage he had been assistant agent of the Wabash road at this place for some time, and had done similar work at other stations as needed. He had laid up, he said, about $450 which he used to buy farm tools, team etc, when he and his wife moved onto the farm. Admitted he had received certain sums of money from Douglas Kelley, a brother of Mrs. Shull, who said he had in his hands nearly $300 of Mrs. Shull's money at one time, but had paid it all over in small sums as they had needed it. He did not seem to think that Shull was much of a farmer.

After hearing a good deal of this testimony on both sides, Judge Roby decided that the charge of giving her carbolic acid had not been proved, that this item should be striken out of the complaint. This was done, and he then granted a divorce to the plaintiff, and changed her name back to Carrie Kelley. He gave her temporarily charge of the child, and gave defendant the right to call and see it, and if it was not properly cared for, he could institute proceedings to take the child from the custody of the mother. Court then adjourned till 8:30 a. m. Friday.

There is Nothing as Good

There is nothing just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, so demand it and do not permit the dealer to sell you some substitute. He will not claim there is anything better, but in order to make more profit, he may claim something else to be just as good. You want Dr. King's New Discovery because you know it to be safe and reliable, and guaranteed to do good or money refunded. For Coughs, Colds, Consumption and for all affections of Throat, Chest and Lungs, there is nothing so good as is Dr. King's New Discovery. Trial bottle free at Robbins & McCord's drugstore. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

None Equal to Dr Hand's So says Moth-

Nelsonville, O., Dec. 20, '95.—Dr. Hand—Dear Sir:—"I have been using your remedies for my children for over four years, I have used many other medicines but have found none equal to yours. Have recommended Dr. Hand's Colic Cure to many other mothers and persuaded them to try it; they all say it proves satisfactory. I am the mother of nine children and am never without a bottle of all of Dr. Hand's Remedies in the house." At Fischler & Son's.

CATON'S·TANSY·PILLS.
A TRIED, TRUE AND SAFE WOMAN'S RELIEF. ALWAYS prompt and reliable. Avoid Imitations. Get CATON'S TANSY PILLS and SAVE REGRETS. At drug stores, or sent direct (sealed), price $1. CATON MFG. CO., Boston, Mass. Pamphlet free.

THE SUICIDE.

Weary of Life He Resorts to Laudanum.

James H. Gilchrist, the man spoken of in the DAILY last evening, as having taken laudanum, died within an hour after we went to press.

He was a native of Missouri and about fifty years old, and had been all his life, more or less engaged in the telegraphing business. He had an important position superintending the construction of the first overland telegraph to the Pacific coast. He also accompanied Schuyler Calfax in his trip across the Plains many years ago. He was a man of ability and filled all his positions well. But a love for strong drink gradually overcame him. After holding positions in various parts of the country, a few years ago he was for a time train dispatcher at Garrett. Since then he has been going from place to place, finding it difficult to hold a position long, for after doing good service for some time he would go off on a spree. Lately he drifted back to Garrett, and for want of a better place became clerk at the Ross House. While there, he attended a few weeks ago, the meeting of the Chapter Masons in Auburn, and many of the brethren met him then. In this way, the items of his life given here, to a great extent were known, and were given the DAILY by D. A. Garwood and J. J. VanAuken. The humble position he had at the Ross House, seemed to discourage him, and he once attempted suicide there. But they suspected his intentions and gave him a bottle of water which he drank, and was no doubt surprised to wake up next morning all right. It would seem that this little piece of deception made him lose faith in being able to kill himself over there. So on Wednesday came here, and went on a big drunk. All the evening he was pretty full, and on having a talk with J. J. VanAuken, intimated that he would kill himself. Mr. VanAuken tried to talk him out of the notion, but the man was drunk and he believed did not realize what he was saying or what was said to him. It appears that he soon after went to McCord's drugstore, and asked how much laudanum would be a proper dose. He was told and he bought an ounce vial of it. Then he went to Davenport's to buy some more, and was going to give Davenport his watch to keep. Then he thought this would arouse Davenport's suspicion and he would not sell him the drug. So he only bought the laudanum, one ounce, and went away. Later he came back, saying he had lost the bottle, and bought a second one. It is supposed he took the stuff on going to bed at the Hollister House. The next morning, the clerk woke him for breakfast, but though he opened his eyes he did not get up. The clerk tried him again at ten a. m. but he failed to come down and it was supposed he had not got over his spree. But at noon the hotel girls reported that they saw several bottles or vials on his stand, and Mr. Byrider, who is familiar with such drugs was called to see what was the matter. He saw the man was far gone from the effects of heavy doses of laudanum, and he and Drs. Nusbaum and Swarts worked with the man vigorously in hope of saving him. J. J. VanAuken and others helped, and once or twice they thought he showed some signs of returning consciousness, but then he would go right to sleep again. About 5:30, and while they were still working at him, he suddenly died. He was unmarried, but has a brother supposed to be in Denver, of whom he has heard nothing for about twenty years. He has had no word from his mother and sister in Missouri since 1872. He has always been an enthusastic Mason, being a member of the Commandery at Chippewa Falls, Wisc., and of the Chapter of Rice Lake in that state. The Masonic brethren here will bury him at midnight tonight. See their notice. They have cared for him at the Hollister House, and had C. C. Shaffer prepare him properly for the grave. It is a sad case.

CASTORIA.
The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Singular Optical Delusion.

(Churubusco Truth)

Here is a singular illustration of the optical delusion which a change of position will sometimes effect. Take a row of ordinary capital letters and figures.

SSSSSSXXXXXX3333333888888

They are such as are made up of two parts of equal shapes.

Look carefully at these and you will preceive that the upper halves of the characters are very little smaller than the lower halves—so little that an ordinary eye declares them to be of equal size. Now turn the paper upside down and without any careful looking you will see that this difference in size is very much exaggerated; that the real top half of the letter is very much smaller than the bottom half.

Don't Waste Money.

Dr. John W. Bull's Baby Syrup is an excellent carminative for babies suffering from flatulency, wind-colic and griping. "I have used Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup in my family for a number of years and can cheerfully recommend it as being the best soothing syrup for children that I have ever used. Lawrence Horan, Fairmont, W. Va." Mothers, don't waste money on substitutes. Dr. John W. Bull's Baby Syrup costs but 25 cents; see that you get it. Sold by F. E. Davenport, Auburn.

HUMPHREYS' WITCH HAZEL OIL

FOR

Piles or Hemorrhoids.
Fissures & Fistulas.
Burns & Scalds.
Wounds & Bruises.
Cuts & Sores.
Boils & Tumors.
Eczema & Eruptions.
Salt Rheum & Tetters.
Chapped Hands.
Fever Blisters.
Sore Lips & Nostrils.
Corns & Bunions.
Stings & Bites of Insects.

Three Sizes, 25c, 50c. and $1.00.

Sold by druggists, or sent post-paid on receipt of price

HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 112 William St., New York.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—in Effect Nov. 29, 1896.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations	Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne	11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 40
New Era	12 12 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junction	12 25	5 25	7 58
Auburn	12 29	5 29	8 37
Waterloo	12 41	5 41	9 24
Summit	12 52	5 52	9 46
Steubenville	12 56	5 56	9 50
Pleasant Lake	1 03	6 03	10 12
Angola	1 13	6 14	10 30
Jackson	3 25	8 35	4 30 pm

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations	Fre'gt	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson ....dp	6 30 am	11 35 am	7 45 am
Angola	12 25	2 19 pm	9 28
Pleasant Lake	1 03	2 29	9 36
Steubenville	.....	2 36	9 42
Summit	1 26	2 39	9 46
Waterloo	2 25	2 55	10 00
Auburn	2 53	3 10	10 20
Auburn Junction	3 14	3 24	10 14
New Era	4 06	3 24	10 28
Fort Wayne	5 25	3 55	11 00

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent Auburn.

NO PAY—NO CURE

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Chills and Malaria. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price 50c. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

Improved Train Service on the Wabash.

Free Reclining Chair Cars have been placed in service on trains 4 and 5 between St. Louis and Detroit. Chair Car leaves St. Louis on No. 14 at 8:45 a. m. overtaking No. 4 at Bement.

B. & O. EXCURSIONS

UNVEILING LOGAN MONUMENT.

For the above occasion the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell excursion tickets to Chicago, Ill., at rate of one fare for the round trip, for all regular trains of July 21 and for trains arriving in Chicago not later than twelve o'clock noon July 22.

Tickets will be good for return July 26, 1897.

TO CINCINATI, OHIO.

On July 21 and 22 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell excursion tickets to Cincinnati, Ohio, at rate of one for the round trip, account German Epworth League, M. E. Church, Annual Convention.

Tickets will be good for return until July 26, 1897.

CASTORIA.
The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

HIGH GRADE WORK GIVES THE CONSUMER SATISFACTION,

Consequently is best for the Dealer to handle.

A Full Line of BUGGIES, SURREYS, PHAETONS, ROAD WAGONS, &c., &c.

Send for Catalogue and Prices.

All Work Guaranteed.

We also Manufacture DOVETAIL BODIES AND GEARS IN THE WHITE.

DOVETAIL COMPANY

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND.

FACTORY, Cor. Oak & College Sts.

SALESROOM, 214 E. Main St.

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

SEE THAT THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE —OF— Chas. H. Fletcher IS ON THE WRAPPER OF EVERY BOTTLE OF CASTORIA

Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk. Don't allow anyone to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose." See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

1897. JULY. 1897.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
•	•	•	•	1	2	3
4	5	6	7	8	9	10
11	12	13	14	15	16	17
18	19	20	21	22	23	24
25	26	27	28	29	30	31
•	•	•	•	•	•	•

F. Q. 7th. F. M. 13th. L. Q. 21st. N. M. 29th.

CIRCLING THE GLOBE

CONCISE HISTORY OF SEVEN DAYS' DOINGS.

Intelligence by Electric Wire from Every Quarter of the Civilized World, Embracing Foreign Affairs and Home Happenings.

Redskins Against Anti-Polygamy.

Guthrie (Ok. T.) special: Over 1,000 Cheyenne and Araphoe Indians are holding a grand council and dance at Darlington, demanding that the recent anti-bigamy law be not enforced against them. Their sessions are in secret. They refuse to obey the orders of the agent and there is fear of serious trouble. Gov. Barnes has received a communication from chiefs demanding that he come or send messengers to hold a council with them in order that they might be given the privilege of keeping their plural wives and numerous children. They say that they cannot choose which wife they like best; they like them all, and do not want to part with any, or with the annuities that each wife and child draws.

Five Negroes Blown to Atoms.

While a gang of workmen were excavating on the line of the street railway in Lexington, Ky., one of them struck what appeared to be a piece of pipe, but which proved to be a sixty-four pound dynamite cartridge. A fearful explosion followed, and five of the six negroes in the gang were blown to atoms. The police are inclined to think the dynamite was placed there by some miscreant who had a grudge against the street car company, and others think it was left by workmen on the Cincinnati Southern Railway some years ago, when excavations were made by that road.

A Test Case.

Deputy United States Marshal Charles Taylor has begun suit at Indianapolis in the Federal Court asking for an injunction to prevent Marshal Kercheval from removing him. He claims to be under civil service and that Kercheval had no other than political reasons for desiring his removal. This will be a test case to settle the question whether deputies under the United States marshals can claim protection of the civil service.

Body of Missing Girl Found.

The mystery surrounding the disappearance of pretty Barbara Thumet over three months ago from her home in Burlington, Iowa, has been partly cleared up. Her body was found in a pool of stagnant water nearly two miles back from the Mississippi River, where it had lodged during the spring floods, and was uncovered by the now receding waters. No reason for her sudden disappearance has ever been discovered.

King of Benin Again Escapes.

Lagos (British West Africa) special: A body of troops in the employ of the British Niger Company, reports having discovered and pursued the fugitive King of Benin. During the pursuit three towns were captured by the troops, with severe loss to the natives. The King, however, succeeded in escaping. The troops lost Lieut. Fitzgerald and two men killed.

A Grocer Shoots a Physician.

Dr. A. L. Berger, one of the best-known physicians of Kansas City, Mo., was shot by John Schlegel, a grocer. He was taken to All Saints' Hospital and died soon after his arrival. Schlegel, when taken to the station, alleged that Dr. Berger had assaulted his wife a few days ago when Mrs. Schlegel had gone to his office as a patient.

Robison Park Attractions.

The following attractions will be at Robison Park, Fort Wayne, for the week commencing Sunday, July 18:

Pete Baker.
Sam and Ida Kelly.
Augustin Neuville.
Lillian Barlow.
Baron Duo.
Gertie Harrington.

Dollar Apiece.

Freight crews running through Kansas have opened up a new and profitable industry. They encourage tramps to go to the wheat belt, where men are wanted to save the wheat, and then sell the tramps to the farmers at $1 a head. The brakemen refuse to unlock the box cars and deliver the tramps until the farmers produce the money.

Brazilian Fanatics.

A dispatch from Rio Janeiro says that in the second attack on Canudos the Government troops captured the town and literally annihilated the fanatics.

Crop Averages.

The acreage of corn shows a decrease of 1.2 per cent., being a decrease of about 1,000,000 acres. The average condition of winter wheat is 81.2, of spring wheat 91.2, and corn 82.9.

Heavy Loss by Fire.

The big packing house of Viles & Robbins, at Lumber and Halsted streets, Chicago, was damaged by fire. Loss, $100,000.

Lived Over a Century.

Mrs. Priscilla Spooner, mother of H. C. Sanford of Akron, Ohio, has just died in Kent, Ohio, where she has been living with her daughter, Mrs. Sawyer. She was 103 years old and the oldest person on the Western Reserve.

Rabbis Against It.

Montreal special: The convention of Reform Rabbis has passed a strong resolution condemning the proposed plan of establishing an independent Jewish state in Palestine.

Andree May Be Sailing North.

A dispatch from Danes Island, dated June 28, announces that the filling of Prof. Andree's balloon was completed on June 22 and that everything was ready to start in his attempt to cross the Arctic regions on July 1. The winds had been chiefly northerly.

Death in an Open Draw.

A car containing ten passengers of the Interurban electric road between Saginaw and Bay City, Mich., went through the open swing of a bridge two miles below Bay City Wednesday morning, drowning six people and injuring the others.

KILLED BY A BOMB.

Henry B. Stone, of Chicago, the Victim of a Fatal Accident.

Henry B. Stone, President of the Chicago Telephone Company, met instant death at his summer home at Nonquitt, Mass., Monday by the bursting of a fireworks bomb. Mr. Stone had brought with him a lot of fireworks for the celebration, and it was while he was firing these that he met his death. Among the fireworks was a mine which was so devised as to scatter paper animals of various colors. Mr. Stone had applied the torch to this piece, but for some reason it did not appear as if the spark were going to reach the mine. Mr. Stone advanced and took the piece up in his hands, when it exploded, striking him full in the face. His features were badly mutilated and he sustained a compound fracture of the skull. Friends of Mr. Stone who were present cannot tell just how the accident occurred. One gentleman who was present states that when Mr. Stone first applied the torch to the bomb the party turned their backs toward Mr. Stone and ran a short distance for safety just about the time the explosion should have taken place. When the bomb did not at once go off, and seemed as if it were not going to, Mr. Stone took it in his hands, holding it quite close to his face, presumably to fan the spark into a blaze by blowing upon it. Before the party had fairly turned to view the explosion they were horrified to see Mr. Stone drop to the ground amid a crash and volume of flame and smoke.

BEET SUGAR BOUNTY KILLED.

Republican Caucus Decides to Drop the Proposed Amendment.

The Republican Senatorial caucus Tuesday decided to not again present a beet sugar bounty amendment to the tariff bill, and Senator Allison was authorized to move to have the amendment offered by Senator Allen tabled. There was also a general agreement to take up the Thurston beet sugar bounty bill as an independent measure the first thing after Congress meets next December. Without any preliminary business the Senate Tuesday proceeded with the consideration of the tariff bill. Mr. Bacon made a personal explanation of his vote for Mr. Mills' amendment to impose a tax of 5 per cent. on all manufactured products. Mr. Bate of Tennessee then took the floor and delivered a set speech against the bill. Senator Mason, at the request of the American Pharmaceutical Association, argued with the Senate Finance Committee against putting a duty on wood alcohol, as it would injure the retail druggists. When he finished the committee assured him that the contemplated duty would not be imposed.

SPAIN FEARS MORE TROUBLE.

War Taxes Likely to Be Resisted at the City of Alicante.

Madrid dispatch: The Government, fearing opposition to the new war taxes, has strengthened the police and concentrated the civil guards of Alicante. Foreign telegrams must now be paid for in gold. Alicante is a seaport about 125 miles south of Valencia, on the southeast coast of Spain. The city lies at the head of an extensive bay, at the base of a rocky eminence 400 feet high, and is surmounted by a strong castle, which overlooks it and commands the bay. The town is well built, has clean, well-paved streets and lofty and substantial stone houses, provided with terraces and verandas. Its manufactures consist largely of tobacco exports, cordage and matting. At the Government cigar manufactory more than 2,000 women are employed.

BRITISH ARE ALARMED.

Prospects of Grave Trouble in Their Colonies in Far-off India.

London dispatch: Affairs in British India are critical. The belief in official circles, both here and in Calcutta, is that a mutinous conspiracy is being hatched. It is conceded by the newspapers that discontent with British rule in Hindustan is rapidly growing, caused principally by the terrible conditions resulting from the famine and the plague. There are some who openly say that a rebellion may be expected.

Tried to Wreck Trains.

After having made six attempts to wreck New York, New Haven and Hartford trains, Fanny Taylor a 19-year-old colored girl, has been arrested near the hamlet of Slocumville, R. I. When the Sheriff and his men came upon her a freight train had just crashed into a rail which she had placed on the track. It is possible that the girl has made seven attempts to derail trains within half a mile of where she was caught. A pile of stones was found on the track ten days ago; but nothing was thought of that. When the postal express from Boston ran into a heap of ties and damaged the engine, the railroad company put a patrol on the track. For two nights the trains were not disturbed. Then, five consecutive attempts were made to wreck trains on the road. Had it not been for the barking of a dog that the girl had with her, it is doubtful whether the Sheriff's men would have caught her. The girl was suspected of the attempted crime from being seen near the tracks at a late hour on the night after the postal train so nearly came to grief. A watch was put on her, and she was captured after a freight train had just crashed over a crosstie which she had placed on the track. The girl, who is of rather light complexion and decidedly attractive appearance, is presumably insane. When she was taken to the Washington County jail, in Kingston, she still refused to talk, beyond saying that she is 19 years of age. She also refused to eat, and attempted to escape whenever a chance offered. Since the girl's arrest it has been learned that her father, who works as a laborer, has a fancied grievance against the railroad company on account of a small bill which he says is due him from a railroad contractor. It is surmised that the girl may have heard her father complaining about this fancied wrong and set out to right matters by wrecking a train.

Gigantic Strike of Miners.

Following is an estimate of the number of workmen affected by the coal miners' strike:

Illinois	30,000
Indiana	20,000
Ohio	25,000
Pennsylvania	50,000
West Virginia	10,000
Kentucky and Tennessee	10,000
Colorado and other States	5,000
Total	150,000

Another Victory for Cornell.

Cornell reigns supreme on American waters for the year 1897. She gained this supremacy by defeating Yale and Harvard some time ago, and Friday afternoon at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., she more than proved her ability to hold it by defeating Columbia in a procession-like race by over eleven lengths. Poor Pennsylvania, of whom so much was expected, met with misfortunes before rowing three miles and had to stop rowing.

Wrecked by Washouts.

Tuesday night's storm paralyzed railroad traffic in parts of Minnesota. It came so suddenly and raged so fiercely that many trains ran into washouts without having any intimation of danger. There is a bad wreck on the Great Northern eight miles west of St. Cloud, where an extra freight, with an engine and twenty cars, was ditched. Charles Washburn was instantly killed and Engineer Peter was injured. At Faribault the Straight River rose twenty feet in consequence of the downpour, and is now near the danger line. Numerous railroad and wagon bridges went out. A freight on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Road was wrecked. Many cattle have been drowned and the crops badly damaged. A Morristown, Minn., special says that eighteen inches of water fell between 11:30 p. m. and 4 a. m. The loss in bridges, logs, brick, crops and railroad construction is very heavy. A through freight train en route to Cleveland on the Pittsburg and Lake Erie Railway was derailed at Fallston, Pa., and ten cars were precipitated over an embankment into the Beaver River. Forty tramps were on the train when the accident happened and several were caught in the wreck. One unknown dead man and three injured have been taken out so far and six others are missing.

THROUGH THE SENATE.

Upper House, by a Vote of 38 to 28, Passes the Amended Tariff Bill.

By the decisive vote of 38 to 28 the tariff bill was passed in the Senate shortly before 5 o'clock Wednesday. The culmination of the long and arduous struggle had excited the keenest interest, and the floor and the galleries of the Senate chamber were crowded by those anxious to witness the closing scene. Speaker Reed, Chairman Dingley and many of the members of the House of Representatives were in the rear area, while every seat in the galleries save those reserved for foreign representatives was occupied. The following pairs were announced, the first named would have voted for the bill and the last named against it: Aldrich and Murphy, Chandler and McLaurin, Frye and Gorman, Gear and Smith, Hansbrough and Daniel, Hoar and Harris (Tenn.), Thurston and Tillman, Wolcott and George. An analysis of the final vote shows that the affirmative was cast by 35 Republicans, 2 silver Republicans, Jones (Nev.), and Mantle, and 1 Democrat, McEnery. The negative vote was cast by 25 Democrats, 2 Populists, Harris (Kan.), and Turner, and 1 silver Republican, Cannon. Eight Republicans were paired for the bill and eight Democrats against it. The Senators present and not voting were: Populists, 5, viz.: Allen, Butler, Heitfeld, Kyle and Stewart; silver Republicans, 2, viz: Teller and Pettigrew.

GREAT RAINS IN MINNESOTA.

Thousands of Acres of Growing Crops May Be Ruined.

Eastern Minnesota received another drenching Tuesday night, increasing the apprehension regarding the crop. So much water has fallen since July 1 that thousands of acres of small grain along the rivers are completely submerged. It is certain that if the rain continues much longer much of the crop will be ruined. Lake St. Croix is on the rampage and the rise during twenty-four hours has been unprecedented. The lake registers 12.4 feet, and most of the water from the northern tributaries has not yet arrived. Strings of logs lying south of the boom at Stillwater broke loose, and are jammed against the pontoon bridge. At Sandstone, Minn., the Kettle River reached the highest point in the memory of the oldest inhabitant. The dams above Pine City went out Tuesday night. The Mississippi at Little Falls has risen twenty inches since Friday night, and is still rising. The small streams in that vicinity are more than bankful, and considerable damage is reported to dams and bridges in the eastern part of Morrison County. The Platte River is now higher. A severe hailstorm struck Benton and Stearns Counties and all the crops on a strip about half a mile wide and several miles in length on the west side of the river were destroyed. The Mississippi at St. Paul has risen over two feet in the last two days.

GREAT EXCURSION BUSINESS.

Railroads Carried 50,000 People West in Five Days.

West-bound excursion business during the past five days has been the largest in the history of railroading. A computation made at Kansas City shows that from June 30 to July 4, inclusive, the Union Pacific, in addition to its regular service, handled 46 special trains. Each train carried an average of 300 passengers, or an aggregate of 13,800 for this line alone. On the Burlington, Santa Fe, Missouri Pacific, and Rock Island similarly heavy business was done, the aggregate number of excursionists carried west being something over 50,000.

Tenders a Million Men.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has telegraphed President Ratchford that the Federation is in hearty sympathy with the movement. He places 1,000,000 men, members of his organization, at Ratchford's command. This may mean that coal used by factories from non-union miners will be boycotted, and a strike in factories ordered to enforce the boycott.

Blew Up the Big Gun.

A 250-pound cannon exploded at Elgin, Ill., Monday evening, when forty people were near. Pieces were blown 500 feet. No one was seriously hurt.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.50 to $5.25; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.00 to $4.30; wheat, No. 2 red, 70c to 71c; corn, No. 2, 26c to 28c; oats, No. 2, 17c to 18c; rye, No. 2, 33c to 35c; butter, choice creamery, 14c to 15c; eggs, fresh, 8c to 9c; new potatoes, 75c to 90c per bushel.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.00; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, common to choice, $3.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2, 71c to 73c; corn, No. 2 white, 26c to 27c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 22c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 68c to 70c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 24c to 25c; oats, No. 2 white, 17c to 18c; rye, No. 2, 31c to 33c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2, 78c to 79c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 26c to 28c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 20c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 34c to 36c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.50 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 75c to 77c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 26c to 28c; oats, No. 2 white, 23c to 24c; rye, 34c to 36c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 76c to 78c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 25c to 27c; oats, No. 2 white, 18c to 20c; rye, No. 2, 34c to 36c; clover seed, $4.15 to $4.25.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 70c to 72c; corn, No. 3, 25c to 26c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 23c; barley, No. 2, 30c to 36c; rye, No. 1, 35c to 36c; pork, mess, $7.25 to $7.75.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2 red, 78c to 80c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 20c to 31c; oats, No. 2 white, 23c to 25c.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.25; hogs, $3.50 to $4.25; sheep, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 77c to 78c; corn, No. 2, 30c to 32c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 23c; butter, creamery, 12c to 16c; eggs, Western, 9c to 11c.

BIG STRIKE BEGUN.

Army of Coal Miners Throw Down Their Picks.

FIGHT TO BE BITTER.

Men Are Well Organized and Very Much in Earnest.

Those Directly Concerned Number Nearly 375,000—Coal Shipments Are Threatened in Ohio—Operators Invoke Aid from the United States Court—Miners Say the Strike Will Continue Until They Win—Arbitration Move in Indiana—Vast Army of Idle Men.

THE great wage struggle of the coal miners has been inaugurated, and it is impossible to tell what the end will be. Nearly 375,000 miners are directly concerned, but with the kindred industries of coal mining and iron and steel manufacturing there is about to be added to the army of unemployed in the United States probably more than half a million men. This is twenty-five times as many men as there are regular soldiers in the United States army.

Carroll D. Wright, chief of the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics, recently published the statement that about 3,000,000 men were in enforced idleness in this country. This, added to the men just called or locked out, makes the following remarkable showing:

Wright's estimate of the unemployed	3,000,000
Miners called out	375,000
Amalgamated workers, etc.	250,000
Grand total	3,625,000

The following statistics of this big strike, among the miners alone, show an amazing loss of wealth to the country as follows:

Number of men called out	375,000
Number of States affected	10
Month's loss to 375,000 men, at 90 cents a day each	$10,125,100
Month's loss to operators, at 10 cents profit per ton on 16,000,000 tons	1,600,000
Loss to railroads at 30 cents per ton	4,800,000
Loss to coal companies' stores at the rate of 75 cents a day spent by each miner	8,437,500
Monthly loss	$24,962,500

From estimates prepared on the basis of coal mined in the year 1895, making allowance for the present conditions, it is believed that the expense of maintaining the strike in the State of Ohio alone will aggregate nearly $60,000 a day. Of this amount the miner loses nearly $17,000, the coal operators $10,000 and the railroad companies $27,000. To this must also be added the decreased earnings of the railroad employes, dock and lake vessel employes and the profits of retail and wholesale dealers. The total output in Ohio for the year 1895 was 11,000,000 tons in round numbers, an average of 566 tons a miner, which is equal to 1.6 tons a day. It is estimated that 2,500,000 tons of the total output is nut coal, for which the miner receives no pay and is clear profit for the operator.

National President Ratchford said Tuesday that he had received reports showing that the greater part of Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio was idle, and within a day or two a complete suspension is expected. The Ohio miners are practically a unit for higher wages, as 23,000 of the 29,000 miners in the State are already holding out for the scale.

President Patrick Dolan, of the Pittsburg district, estimated the total number of men out to be nearly 15,000. President Dolan further said the reports from all over the district indicate the strike will be more general than at first supposed. Along the Monongahela River work has practically been suspended and a determined battle is in progress. All the mines, with the exception of a comparatively small number, are idle, and it is thought nearly every miner will come out. The circumstances indicate a strike of some length, and in consequence the distress will be great.

At Glouster, Ohio, the miners indulged in threats of holding up coal trains. But their local officials kept them quiet by telling them this was coal mined before the strike was declared. However, several of the Glouster men said if non-union coal mined after July 4 in West Virginia and the Pittsburg district were hauled across Ohio to the lakes they would try to prevent it. As the West Virginia district has paid no attention to the strike, coal probably will continue to be hauled across Ohio. The provocation thus afforded the strikers for retaliation will be hard to resist. The scattered threats, however, are deprecated by President Ratchford and the other officials of the organization there, and they say no violence will be permitted.

Must Face the Law.

An important step was taken at Cincinnati in connection with the strike, which puts the power of the United States against all violence or unlawful acts in at least a portion of the territory of Ohio. An order of the United States Circuit Court, southern district of Ohio, eastern division, was made by Judge Taft, upon a showing made by Myron T. Herrick and Robert Blickensderfer, receivers of the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railway Company and of the Wheeling, Lake Erie and Pittsburg Coal Company, whereby the United States Marshal is directed to protect their miners at work and to prevent unlawful interference with the operations of their railway.

The receivers state that they are engaged in the operation of two coal mines of the Wheeling, Lake Erie and Pittsburg Coal Company, known as the Dillenvale and Long Run coal mines; that there is a strike among the mine workers of Ohio and other States under the direction of the United Mine Workers; that all of the 500 miners at Dillenvale and one-half of the 400 at the Long Run mine are desirous of remaining at work, but have refrained from so doing by reason of threats and warnings from other miners who have joined the strike; that it is necessary for the mine to continue in operation and that the miners will continue at work if protected from physical injury to themselves and their property. Judge Taft gave an order to the United States Marshal to consult with the receivers of this court and send to Jefferson County and to other parts of this district a sufficient number of United States marshals to protect the mining and railroad property now being operated by these receivers under order of this court.

President Ratchford, in reviewing the situation, said: "Much has been said as to the amount of coal in stock at the head of the lakes and in the general markets, and also that operators in certain fields, through information received, made preparations for the contest by stocking up coal. Such report is erroneous. The operators, the public and even the miners had no information on this matter, and there is no coal in stock in any great quantities. The enormity of the present mining suspension is attracting the attention of members of Congress and the Senate, as well as members of the Cabinet. At present it seems as if some action looking to national arbitration may be effected, or the establishment of an eight-hour work day, which is necessary to take the surplus labor off the market, followed by a minimum wage law. That this will be a solution of the question there is no doubt, but to insure action along those lines the movement must be large in its proportions, and every miner must cease work."

A. Brenholz, who manages the home office for the General Hocking Coal Company, at Columbus, says there is at least 150,000 tons of coal in storage in the Northwest. He estimates that this will supply all demands for at least four months, no matter how general the miners' strike becomes. There is considerable coal on the Ohio docks ready for shipment by lake, but this coal will not be sent West. It will be held for the purpose of supplying transient trade. With respect to a supply for the railroads, it is estimated that the different companies have enough coal on hand to last them about six weeks.

Indiana for Arbitration.

The Indiana labor arbitration commission has taken the initiative in proposing arbitration of the miners' strike. The two commissioners, B. F. Schid, representing employers, and L. P. McCormack, representing organized labor, met in special session Tuesday, and decided to invite the labor arbitration commissioners of Ohio, Pennsylvania and Illinois to meet in Indianapolis, with the view of agreeing upon a proposition of arbitration to be submitted to the operators and miners. Gov. Mount told the commissioners that he would co-operate in any plans agreed upon, and would ask the Governors of the other States interested to joint him in furthering the movement.

TO HONOR LINCOLN'S MOTHER.

Meeting at Indianapolis to Consider Plans for Monument.

Leading representatives of the Loyal Legion, Grand Army of the Republic, Women's Relief Corps and other organizations met in the executive chamber of the State House at Indianapolis for the purpose of considering plans for the erection of a monument over the grave of Nancy Hanks Lincoln, mother of Abraham Lincoln, who is buried in Spencer County, Indiana, and also to provide a fund for keeping the proposed memorial and lot in repair. A national appeal for public subscriptions will be made by an executive committee appointed for that purpose.

The grave has been neglected for many years, and while a nation has been paying homage to the great emancipator, the grave of his mother has been forgotten. John Burt, a citizen of Spencer County, wrote to the President, calling his attention to the neglected condition of Mrs. Lincoln's tomb, and the President at once communicated with Gov. Mount, suggesting that it would be most fitting if the State of Indiana would take some action concerning the matter. The grave is on an eighty-acre farm adjoining the south end of the old Lincoln farm. Half a mile south of the burial place of the mother is the grave of the only daughter of Mrs. Lincoln, Mrs. Sallie Ann Grigsby. Mr. Burt finds that years ago the one-half acre of land about the grave of Nancy Hanks was deeded to the United States to be held in trust. No steps have been taken in all these years to make the grave of Lincoln's mother distinguished from the countryside that surrounds it.

GRAVE OF LINCOLN'S MOTHER.

Mr. George S. Deakins of Rawlesburg, W. Va., a surveyor, has the instruments which his grandfather, also a surveyor, used when working with George Washington when laying out the road from Washington to the Ohio.

GEN. STEWART L. WOODFORD,

Who Has Been Appointed United States Minister to Spain.

The present and prospective relations of the United States with Spain, because of the Cuban trouble, render the post of minister to Spain one of the most delicate and important diplomatic stations. President McKinley has sought for the place several of the most distinguished men of the country, but all have declined it, unofficially yet emphatically. Finally, a few days since, he selected Gen. Stewart L. Woodford of Brooklyn, and that gentleman will go to Madrid.

The man selected for this task was born in New York in 1835, secured his education at Yale and Columbia colleges and began the practice of law in the metropolis in 1857. In 1861 he was made United States assistant district attorney for New York, and after eighteen months entered the army as a volunteer, serving until 1865. He was rapidly promoted, receiving the brevet of brigadier general. In 1866 he was elected Lieutenant Governor of New York, and in 1870 was defeated for Governor. In 1872 he was elected to Congress, and from 1877 to 1881 was United States attorney for the southern district of New York. Since then he has practiced law.

GEN. STEWART L. WOODFORD.

SWEPT BY A TORNADO.

Ten Are Dead at Lowry, Minn., and the Town Is Demolished.

Dispatches received at Duluth say that a cyclone obliterated the town of Lowry, Minn., and that possibly ten people were killed and several injured. Lowry is situated on the Soo Line, seven miles from Glenwood, on the Northern Pacific Railroad. The cyclone traveled from southwest to northwest.

The cyclone struck Lowry shortly after 6 o'clock in the evening. Evidences of the cyclonic cloud were seen in Duluth about 7 o'clock. The sky was overcast with clouds that circled as they moved rapidly northeast, and there was a yellow cast that was ascribed to the sun penetrating through them. People looked in wonder on the scene, but nobody ascribed the conditions to a cyclone. The clouds moved high in the air and circled with a perfectly steady motion. Every building in the village was damaged. Seven dwelling houses, the station, a church, an elevator and a butcher-shop were totally destroyed. The railroad tracks were twisted and telegraph wires torn down and part of a mill was carried away.

From Lowry the storm continued in a northeasterly direction to the farm of Robert Peacock, where it made a clean sweep of all the buildings. Mrs. Peacock, her daughter Nettie and a boy named Robert MacGowan were all injured, but will probably recover. The next point in the path of the storm was Thomas Andrews' house, where the family took refuge in the cellar and escaped with bruises. All his farm buildings, including a new brick house, are a total wreck. From here the tornado moved about due east to Samuel Morrow's, where it left death in its path. The family were preparing to enter the cellar when the storm struck.

MEN OF AFFAIRS

It is estimated that Dr. Nansen will make about $150,000 out of his book.

Gov. Bushnell of Ohio has received the degree of LL. D. from Miami University.

The birthplace of Mark Twain, in Florida, Mo., has been torn down to make room for a more modern building.

Pope Leo has opened the Borgia rooms in the Vatican, after spending $100,000 on their restoration. Four years were consumed in the work.

Jesse Grant denies a report that the concessions he has secured in Mexico are for the purpose of establishing a gambling resort similar to Monte Carlo.

Gov. Pingree of Michigan has such an ample waist that on a recent visit to Lansing, when he wished to buy a white vest, he could find none in the town large enough to fit him.

Gen. Edward S. Bragg of Wisconsin has offered to have his life insured for $10,000 in behalf of the Fond du Lac Home for Friendless, provided some one will pay the premium.

Gov. Lowndes of Maryland was initiated into the Masonic order on Monday night last at Baltimore. He received the three degrees at the one meeting of the lodge, an unusual favor.

Friends of Oscar Wilde have subscribed $2,500 to enable him to make a new start. His wife, who has a private fortune, will give him a small allowance, and Wilde intends to devote himself to writing under his own name.

"Nothing else like it"
The most refreshing and pleasant Soap for the skin.

It lasts twice as long as others.
A trial will convince you of its great merit. Will please the most fastidious.
CHARLES F. MILLER,
Mfr. of FRENCH MILLED TOILET SOAPS AND PERFUMERY.
Lancaster, Penn.
ESTABLISHED, 1849.

WHY NOT BUY THE BEST?

A GOOD SADDLE is the most noticeable and taking point on a Bicycle. When buying insist on getting a
BURNS SPRING SADDLE.
Take no other. Get a Burns and GET THE BEST.
Manufactured by the
GRAND RAPIDS CYCLE SEAT MFG. CO.,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Patton's House Painting Model
shows just how your house would look if painted any one of 20,000 artistic combinations of colors. Designed and made only for the manufacturers of PATTON'S PURE LIQUID PAINTS. Sent postpaid upon receipt of 10 cts. "How to Increase the Size of Your House With Paint" mailed free.
JAS. E. PATTON CO.,
Dep't X. MILWAUKEE, WIS., U.S.A.

ECLIPSE
Poultry Brooder.
BEST MADE.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR, which explains why you should use a BROODER, and why you should purchase the
ECLIPSE BROODER.
Also gives testimonials from MANY WHO HAVE USED THEM.
CAPACITY, 100 CHICKS.
Size: 32 inches long, 32 inches wide, 26 inches high. Weight, 128 lbs.
Price: Single one, $9.00.
Two or more, $8.50 apiece.
If not as represented, money refunded.
JOHN D. WINGERT,
MANUFACTURER,
FAYETTEVILLE, - PENN.

NIAGARA
BICYCLES
CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION.
CORRESPONDENCE INVITED.
Reliable Agents Wanted.
BUFFALO WHEEL CO.,
BUFFALO, N. Y.

THREE DAYS.

So much to do; so little done!
Ah! yesternight I saw the sun
Sink beamless down the vaulted gray—
The ghastly ghost of yesterday.

So little done; so much to do!
Each morning breaks on conflicts new;
But eager, brave, I'll join the fray,
And fight the battle of Today.

So much to do; so little done!
But when it's o'er—the victory won—
Oh! then, my soul, this strife and sorrow
Will end in that great glad Tomorrow.
—[James R. Gilmore.

ADMIRABLE ARRANGEMENT.

"I don't want him at all," said Mrs. St. Julian.

"Then why not tell him so?" returned her husband from behind the outspread Times. "Surely you needn't stand upon ceremony with Ted."

"But I must get some one to talk to him, Tom. I can't have him on my own hands all day. Let me see. Maud Affleck's at home—I think I'll ask her over. She knows nearly as much about the Mongols as he does. I will write to her at once. She must come on Monday afternoon. Ted proposes to arrive by the 7:15."

The house party assembled for the Cumberleigh cricket week—consisting of the famous Cambridge Double Blue—Norman Harding and his eleven; the maidens invited to admire the prowess of these heroes: Miss Affleck, and the St. Julians themselves—was gathered together in the long library when Prof. Alleyne entered it at 8 o'clock on Monday evening. His entry, very quietly made, was followed by a general sensation of disappointment. The youthful company hungrily awaiting his appearance to adjourn to its dinner, had expected to find in him a more typical specimen of the professional genus; it had looked for a long-haired scholar of fifty, who should have stooped and worn spectacles and an ill-fitting coat. Now Alleyne (who appeared to be about five and thirty and was by no means ill-looking) had a singularly upright figure; his clothes were perfectly well cut; he used no glasses and actually boasted a mustache. Maud Affleck, who had been promising herself deep draughts at the fountains of his erudition, reflected sadly that his profound knowledge of all things Mongolian had probably been much exaggerated by report.

Miss Affleck, wise in her generation, let the Mongols severely alone—and not for that evening only. She refrained from mentioning them for two whole days, during which she made herself so unobtrusively agreeable that the Professor began to forget she had ever studied at Girton, and to wonder how his cousin Laura could have described her hair as "odd." But on the third morning she commenced the subject, in a fashion that showed she meant business. No sooner had the great Harding and his team (attended by Mrs. St. Julian and her bevy of girls) started for the cricket ground after breakfast than she descended upon the Professor, who was peacefully smoking under the great cedar tree on the lawn, with her arms full of papers, and her fine eyes alight with eagerness.

"Mr. Alleyne—you are so kind—I'm sure you won't refuse to help me?"

This appeal was uttered with a tremulous confidence, which some men would have found extremely engaging. Not so the Professor. He knew too well all that such an appeal portended. Reluctantly he made room for the newcomer on the bench beside him and looked ruefully at his pipe;

"I wanted to ask you—oh, please go on smoking! I like it. Your cousin tells me you are writing a great book on the people of Northern Asia."

The Professor could have groaned aloud. Perfidious Laura! What! even this last secret delivered into the hands of the enemy. Perhaps, he thought, this very pushing young woman would presently demand to see his unfinished manuscripts.

"Because," the pushing young woman continued, "I am writing something on that subject, too. Oh, not a great book, of course. Quite a small one. And I thought, perhaps you would kindly help me with the spelling of the proper names. You see, I know nothing of the dialects."

There was nothing for it but to accede to this exceedingly cool proposal. Alleyne took the sheets and began to run his eye over them, indicating an error here and there. Suddenly, at the bottom of a page, he stopped short.

"That is a novel idea."

"Which? Where?"

"Here, on page ninety-one. You suggest that the Ostyaks——"

The approach of a servant with a note for Miss Affleck caused the Professor's sentence to remain unfinished. Maud, when she had glanced over the scrap of paper addressed her, heaved an impatient sigh.

"Laura wants me to join her; I suppose I must go. There is nothing I hate quite so much as a cricket match. May I leave these with you? or shall I——"

"Pray leave them—by all means." The Professor's tone had grown quite cordial. It seemed this girl did know something of the Mongolian problem after all, and had opinions of her own on certain varied points connected with it. He turned the page with some curiosity.

"Very good. Very good, indeed. Remarkably well worked out." The Professor read on, ignoring the misspelt proper names, and was covered with confusion when the owner of the manuscript returned to claim it.

"I'm afraid," he stammered, "that there are still some corrections to make. The truth is, I grew interested in the subject matter. Perhaps you will leave the sheets with me a little longer?"

Maud accepted this kind offer with alacrity, and went to get ready for luncheon. The Professor remained behind and took out his note book. That hint about the Ostyaks wandering had set him thinking, and he felt that his thoughts were worth setting down.

Suddenly the pencil fell from his hand. Good heavens! What was he about? This train of ideas was absolutely new. But for Miss Affleck's manuscript it would never have risen in his mind. The Professor was a man of honor; a cold sweat of dismay broke out upon his forehead as he realized the nature of the crime he had been near committing. He, to pick a girl's brains. He shuddered at himself.

He shuddered. Yet he was sorely tempted to look again at the half-read chapter. For, if the theory put forward in it would hold water, well, the best half of his second volume was just so much waste paper. He pushed the temptation from him to the opposite end of the bench. Then he fell to writing busily on certain slips of paper.

These slips—together with her manuscript in a neat parcel—he took occasion to present to Miss Affleck the same afternoon at tea time.

"What is the meaning of these hieroglyphics?" she inquired. (The Professor wrote an execrable hand.) He explained, reddening slightly, that they were "rules for transliteration, which he thought she might find helpful."

"They will enable me to correct my spelling myself, I see. I suppose you did not read any further, Mr. Alleyne?"

"I left off," returned the professor, getting redder than before, "in the middle of the chapter on the Ostyaks. Will you take toast or tea cake?"

Maud was bitterly chagrined. She made no secret of her mortification to Mrs. St. Julian, and that impulsive young woman, moved with indignation, seized the first opportunity of finding herself alone with her cousin to remark:

"Ted, how could you be so horrid to that poor girl about her book?"

"I suppose you are speaking of Miss Affleck. I gave her all the assistance she asked."

"Yes, and refused to discuss the subject any further. Let her performance be ever so contemptible——"

"I did not say it was contemptible."

"You might have condescended to speak of it, one would think! What has Maud done that you should snub her so unmercifully? If she were a rival authority on—what do you call them?—Mongols, you could hardly have treated her worse."

The Professor was silent.

"Ted! Do you consider her a rival authority?"

"An 'authority'! My dear Laura! It's impossible for any young woman of Miss Affleck's age to have more than the most superficial acquaintance with such a large subject. But a novice occasionally stumbles — by chance—on a solution of some difficulty that has long been a puzzle to experts."

"And that is what Maud has done! I understand! Forgive me for laughing; but really this is too funny!"

"I do not see—to use your friend Mr. Harding's favorite expression—where the fun comes in exactly, Laura. The labor of two years rendered vain by a girl's random guess, which it probably took her a couple of mornings to elaborate!" muttered the poor Professor, casting dignity to the winds in his irritation.

Mrs. St. Julian heroically stifled her amusement.

"There is only one thing for it that I can think of. You two must marry, and—fuse your warring books into one."

"Laura!"

"Why not? She is pretty and well bred. Eventually she will come into a good deal of money."

"If this is intended for a joke, Laura," the Professor interposed severely, "excuse me for saying that it is an extremely bad one."

"I never was more serious in my life," his cousin protested. "It would be an admirable arrangemene. Do think about it."

But this the Professor indignantly declined to do.

It was well for his pride that he showed himself thus obdurate from the beginning, for Miss Affleck's demeanor for the next few days made it plain that his thinking—supposing he had weakly consented to take Laura's unscrupulous plan into consideration—would have been to no purpose. The ex-student of Girton, having had quite enough of learned society for the present, proceeded to unbend her mind in the company of Mr. Norman Harding, who had by this time awakened to the charms of her hair.

The Professor often glanced at her across the table—Mrs. St. Julian no longer sent them into dinner together—wondering how any woman with a mind could endure the irresponsible prattle of that brainless giant. Miss Affleck endured it with cheerful stoicism. She exposed herself voluntarily to the infliction, accompanying the big man on rambles in search of wild flowers and suffering him to give her billiard lessons on rainy mornings.

By the end of the week Alleyne had serious thoughts of going back to Oxford. He made up his mind to this step on Monday morning (Mr. Harding having shown himself peculiarly insane, and Miss Affleck more than ordinarily tolerant of his insanity on the preceding Sunday), as he smoked his after-breakfast pipe in the shrubbery. And he had no sooner done so than a sudden winding of the shrubbery path brought him plump upon Miss Affleck, seated upon a rustic bench. She had a writing board upon her knee and a pencil in her hand.

"The book?" inquired the Professor, with a sickly smile.

She nodded. "My poor little book! which you wouldn't even deign to criticise."

Her garden hat was very becoming and her blue cambric dress gave the utmost "value" to her auburn locks.

"I didn't—feel confident," stammered the Professor.

"Was that why you wouldn't read it?"

"No."

Miss Affleck's expressive face was one large note of interrogation.

You wish to know why? Well, it was because I found you too full of suggestion. You put me upon new trains of thought. It wouldn't have been fair to you—to go on reading."

"But—but I should have been so glad to be of any use to you!" she cried.

The Professor stiffened. "You are very good."

"I wish," she murmured, "I knew what I had done to offend you."

The Professor looked at her hard—for perhaps half a minute; then he, too, took a seat on the bench. "You have not offended me at all," he said.

"How beautiful!" Maud Affleck sighed, ten minutes later.

"What is beautiful? The day? Or your hair? Or the dispensations of Providence? They are all beautiful, in different ways."

"Nonsense! I was thinking that—that you would let me help you with the book, now."

"The Professor started guiltily. To do him justice he had quite forgotten the book.

"We will collaborate—we will write it together," he murmured. Then he kissed her, and rose to new heights of magnanimity. "And publish in our joint names — Edward and Maud Alleyne."

Maud blushed. "Oh, no! It must remain your book. Perhaps you might put a note in the preface saying you had been assisted in your researches——"

"By my wife. That sounds charming. But"—he kissed her again, and was pricked in conscience—"would that be giving you your due share of credit? You see, in that matter of the Ostyaks——"

"I should like it best so," she declared.

"Of course, it must be as you please," said the Professor.—St. Louis Times-Democrat.

EATING EGGS WHEN ANGRY.

At Such Times, it is Asserted, Hen Fruit is Dangerous to Health.

"Did you know it was dangerous to eat eggs when you are angry?" was the strange question asked by A. E. Stewart, a Bostonese, of a St. Louis Republic reporter. "Don't ask me for the reason of it, for I can't give it, but I do know from observation that people died in terrible agony after eating eggs while their passions were aroused. You needn't laugh. I don't mean while the passions of the eggs were aroused; I mean the temper of the victims. I mentioned this to an eminent physician once and he scoffed at it. That was no less than I expected him to do. Physicians don't know much that lies out of the beaten paths of their science. They don't even know how to cure the grip. But take warning from me and never eat eggs while you are angry. Then you will be on the safe side, no matter what your doctor may tell you about it.

"My attention was first called to this strange fact by the tragic and sudden death of a lady acquaintance in Boston several years ago. I accepted her husband's invitation to dine with them. Just as we were going to dinner a servant did something that caused the lady to fly into a terrible rage. She had been irritable from some minor complaint for several days, and her husband calmed her ruffled feelings sufficiently for the dinner to be eaten in good temper. I noticed that she ate an unusually large amount of soft scrambled eggs. Fifteen minutes after we left the dining-room she was a corpse. She died in frightful convulsions before the nearest-by physician reached the house. The doctor was unable to ascribe the cause. A few months later I was visiting a brother in Connecticut and one of his sons died under similar circumstances. Before breakfast one morning, the boy, who was about 15 years old, had a fight with a neighbor's boy. Before his anger had subsided, my nephew was called to breakfast. He ate four soft-boiled eggs. In less than a half hour after breakfast the boy died with exactly the same symptoms that were present when my friend's wife died. This set me to thinking about the matter.

"It wasn't long before a Beacon Hill friend of mine expired suddenly after a meal. The doctors, as usual, were divided in opinion on the cause of death. Some of them contended that it was heart failure, whatever that is, and others are still holding out that it was apoplexy. Inquiry by me developed the fact that my friend was very angry when he sat down at table, and that he ate five eggs. With these developments I searched no further for the cause of his death. He was angry, he ate eggs and he died. If these are not links in the chain of cause and effect, the human intellect is incapable of logical thinking."

Tests in Fuel Consumption.

A greater variation in locomotive fuel consumption results from a variation in the number of cars per train than from a variation in the weight of the train, the number of cars being constant, according to experiments conducted by S. P. Bush, superintendent of motive power, Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburg. The experiments noted consisted in taking a large number of observations on trains running between Chicago, Ill., and Logansport, Ind., 115 miles, (1) on trains of equal weight but a varying number of cars, (2) on trains of an equal number of cars, but varying weight. In the first case, that is with a constant weight and a variable number of cars, the records show that the fuel consumption increases very uniformly as the number of cars in the train increased. In the second case, the records give rather irregular results in individual cases, but show quite clearly that with a given number of cars in the train very little variation in fuel consumption results, whether these cars be lightly or heavily loaded. For example, in one train of thirty-two cars the increase in fuel consumption was only about 400 pounds between a weight of 750 tons and a weight of 1,050 tons.

One Day in the Wildwood.

A couple of Pennsylvania newspaper men took a trip into the wilds of Clinton and Centre counties the other day. They went for trout. Here is what they did besides: Fished three runs (with the full consent of the streams); crossed the steepest and highest mountain in the Alleghenies; found on top the tomb of an Indian chief, whose name they deciphered to be Young-Man-Not-Afraid-of-His-Mother-in-Law; started a deer that had "Hiawatha" tattooed on its flanks; put out a forest fire and saved a sawmill; saw a black snake switch a rattler to death, and were chased half a mile by a panther.—New York Telegram.

The Serpent in Art.

The serpent is in Christian art an attribute of St. Cecilia, St. Euphemia and many other saints, being assigned to them either because they destroyed the power of satan or because they cleared one or another country of reptiles

TIME-TABLE MAKING.

INTRICATE TASK IN A RAILWAY'S OPERATION.

Every Minute of the Running Time of Trains to Be Considered—Peculiar Charts that the Experts Use in Laying Out Schedules.

How the Tables Are Made.

The most intricate and important task in a railway's operation is the making of its timetable. By this is not meant the cards which can be found in the folders with the departure and arrival of trains, but the card which is the guide of the operating force. Peculiar charts are those which the experts use in laying out schedules bearing closely on every minute of the running time of trains, and when the completed work has been carefully verified before the final printing, no person but the one having the work under control comprehends the minuteness, the detail, the exactness that have been employed in "stringing a time card," as it is technically called.

Every modern railroad has a room devoted to the stringing of time cards, and it is usually filled with charts set up on standards, with roller feet, by means of which they can be moved about on the floor. They resemble blackboards in make-up, but the surfaces are white cardboard finish, with an occasional variation in colors. These charts are double-ruled, longitudinally and perpendicularly. The lines running from right to left are divisions of stations and distances. The lines running the other way, from top to bottom, are the divisions of time. Minutes figure very extensively in these lines. If the division is a busy one the lines are one minute lines. If it is not so busy five minutes are accounted for in each space. This is a general plan of each chart.

Along the right side of the board are the names of the stations in regular order, say from east to west. For convenience and uniformity trains running westward commence from the top and from the westward at the bottom of the chart. A fast mail going west leaves the terminus, for instance, under the existing card, at 7:30 a. m. It reaches its destination at 7:50. In order to indicate on the board the time of leaving each of these stations a string is run from the top of the board to the station at which the train makes the next stop. This string verges to the left for west-bound trains in all cases. The time needed to make the next stop is computed by the proper officer and the line crosses the time division line on the station line. This shows just when the train must be at the next station. It shows the course of the train from the time it steams out until it stops.

The faster the trains run and the fewer the stops the straighter the line hangs from the top to the bottom. Thus in the case of a fast mail, which travels at the highest possible speed consistent with safety and which may cover 130 miles between the hours of 7:30 a. m. and 9:12 a. m., the line falls almost straight down the board. The rate of speed is so great that as the train travels westward the time divisions are involved to the slightest degree and that line hugs the right end of the board. If the train is a slow local, making all the stations, the line travels quite rapidly downward and to the left, each succeeding station being indicated on the time mark by a pin holding the string to the board on the station line. This is the general system and as accurate a description of the result as could be given. One must see the men at work making the changes to realize the extent of the calculation and responsibility.

When spring changes are to be made the train dispatchers of the division are sent for and assemble in the cardroom. There they meet the superintendent's clerks and begin manipulation of the boards. This would seem to be a small affair, but the change of the time at one station in that division of one train necessitates the change of the time not only at every station on the division, but also frequently involves the time of other trains. Then the clerks and dispatchers must compute the changes, verify them, make the changes by a general shifting of the station pins and check off on the printed card.

While at the boards the men present a very animated scene. Sometimes a group work on a board twenty-six feet in length. Stations are scattered down the board, but the enormous number of trains involving the suburban service makes it look much like a thickly studded spider web. The men take their places along the board, each handling some one series of suburban service or some through train. As the change of time is called for the starting point—say Chicago—the man handling the train or series cuts out the pin and makes the shift to comply with the new time. He corrects it by checking up as he goes. Then he and the clerk compare the figures for the next station, based on a computation of the time needed to make it, and also with reference of clearing the track for the through train. This brings in the man running the through train, and they all bunch together and discuss the situation, having due regard to the arbitrary time fixed by ordinance or engineering difficulties and reach a common understanding on the subject before the pins are set.

Each crossing point, or station where two trains meet on that board on the same time, is marked with a big pin. This indicates to the clerk making up the table for the printer that a meeting is fixed for that particular station, and its time is printed in black figures about double the usual size. When the printer has set up and proved the new card the men reassemble and carefully check the printed tables against that board. If the slightest variation is discovered it is marked on the proof and the latter returned to the printer. This is done until an absolutely correct table is turned out from the press.

This is a fair explanation of the trouble it causes the employes of a great railroad system in the mere arrangement of tables for the operation of the trains. The cards thus compiled are the result of painstaking effort in the superintendent's office, based on the arbitrary natural conditions of the road. In the city, for instance, there is an ordinance which compels the trainmen to hold their trains always in full control and not exceed a given rate an hour. Then there are heavy grades at certain points and the trains can only make a certain speed. These are arbitrary points and the time needed to cover them must be deducted first and then added in the whole distance to be covered on a single trip.

Any failure to make due allowance for these arbitrary points will throw the whole schedule out of running order and make a wonderful amount of trouble for somebody. Hence the men are selected for their accuracy as well as knowledge, and what seems to be a trifling employment is really the one thing which makes travel by rail a thing of safety and dispatch. The delay of a train running on a schedule thus compiled will throw everything out of order and cause no end of trouble from one end of the system to the other. It is no mean task to get out a time card for a modern railroad with thousands of miles of tracks to cover and hundreds of stations to provide with adequate service.

MAKING A TIME CARD FOR A BIG RAILWAY SYSTEM.

THE NEW SURGERY.

Marvelous Results in the Saving of Human Life.

It was Jeffrey who said that "medicine had been defined to be the art or science of amusing a sick man with frivolous speculations about his disorder and of tampering ingeniously till nature either kills or cures him." He might in his time have pronounced surgery to be the profession of licensed mayhem. But medicine and surgery have made great strides not only since that day, but since the time when thousands died under the lancet in the hospitals of our civil war or came home mere fractions of their former selves. Some statistics brought forward at the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Medical Society are eloquent as proof of the triumph of the new surgery over the old. The comparisons were drawn from the operations made in the Boston city hospital between the years 1864-69 and those of 1889-94. During the former period there were treated 126 cases of compound fractures. Of these 66 per cent. came to amputation. In the case of compound fractures of the upper extremity 41 per cent. died; of the lower extremity, 60 per cent. were fatal. This terrible record of mortality occurred too in a new and well-equipped hospital, an institution which would compare favorably with any of that time.

In the later period the beds had increased from 250 to 800, but in spite of that fact the number of amputations had fallen to eighty-two, and of these the mortality was exactly one-third of what it had been. In amputations at the thigh the mortality was reduced from 56 per cent. to 12½ per cent., while those of the leg from 32 to 13½; of the arm from 38 to 16½ per cent. In short, the mortality from compound fractures was two-thirds less than under the old methods. The physicians attribute this saving of life to asepsis. The new surgery permitted the surgeons to wait much longer than formerly before operating. They could now wait until the aseptic regime to see if the compound fracture did not heal itself, which it frequently did, and in the majority of cases amputation was unnecessary.

Under the new surgery healing is painless. The only pain now felt is that of the incisions. After that has subsided there is no pain in aseptic healing. The old and lingering fevers which so often followed surgical operations have vanished, for with perfect asepsis there is no surgical fever. The danger of suppuration and secondary hemorrhage has also gone, from the same cause.

As to visceral surgery, its triumphs have been marvelous. Surgeons now open the visceral cavity and perform the most astonishing feats. Operations which to-day are performed with impunity by young surgeons would have been deemed as preliminary to nothing short of cold-blooded murder by the last generation. Scarcely a part of the body of living man is unexplored by science, and feats of trephining almost incredible are performed daily in our hospitals. Of course with this rapid advance of surgery has come a tendency to overoperate, and conservative surgeons will agree that reckless surgery has gained some headway in late years. This is confined to the younger and ultra-enthusiastic members of the profession and is deprecated by their elder brethren.—Chicago Chronicle.

Many a guarantee is not good.

NATIONAL SOLONS.

REVIEW OF THEIR WORK AT WASHINGTON.

Detailed Proceedings of Senate and House—Bills Passed or Introduced in Either Branch—Questions of Moment to the Country at Large.

The Legislative Grind.

Reciprocity and retaliation were the two phases of the tariff bill to occupy the attention of the Senate Friday to the exclusion of all other subjects. Both provisions were agreed to, although the debate on the reciprocity clause was protracted to 6 p. m. The retaliatory clause provides that whenever any country bestows an export bounty on any article there shall be levied, in addition to the duties provided by the act, an additional duty equal to the amount of the bounty. The reciprocity clause empowers the President, with the advice and consent of the Senate, to make reciprocity treaties giving 20 per cent. reduction in duties on designated articles or placing articles on the free list.

The Senate disposed of two tariff amendments Monday, that placing a stamp tax being agreed to with little or no opposition and without the formality of a vote, while the Spooner amendment, proposing a tariff investigation, was withdrawn after a protracted struggle. The stamp amendment, as agreed to, fixes the following rates on bonds, etc.: "Bonds, debentures or certificates of indebtedness issued after Sept. 15, 1897, by any association, company or corporation, on each $100 of face value, or fraction thereof, 5 cents; and on each original issue, whether an organization or reorganization of certificates of stock by any such association, company or corporation, on each $100 of face value or fraction thereof, 5 cents; and on all transfers of shares or certificates of stock in any association, company or corporation, on each $100 of face value or fraction thereof, 2 cents." Exemptions from the stamp taxes are made in the case of State, county and municipal bonds, and the stocks and bonds of co-operative building associations.

Tuesday the Senate agreed to devote one more day to discussion of the tariff under the five-minute rule, and then proceed to vote. The beet sugar bounty clause was withdrawn. Mr. Bacon made a personal explanation of his vote for Mr. Mills' amendment to impose a tax of 5 per cent. on all manufactured products. He had, he said, given the amendment his vote without due deliberation. If the imposition of such a tax could be confined to the sugar trust and other gigantic concerns existing in open violation of the law it would, upon meditation, commend itself to his judgment, but as it would touch every village and hamlet in the land and lay its hand upon the most humble he frankly avowed his regret for the vote.

The tariff bill passed the Senate Wednesday morning by a vote of 38 to 28. The day was spent in amendments of minor importance. Following the passage of the bill, a resolution was agreed to asking the House for a conference, and Senators Allison, Aldrich, Platt of Connecticut, Burrows, Jones of Nevada, Vest, Jones of Arkansas, and White were named as conferees on the part of the Senate.

The session of the Senate Thursday was uneventful, the deficiency appropriation bill being considered throughout the day. Among its provisions is one accepting the invitation of France to participate in the Paris exposition of 1900. The bill was not completed up to the time of adjournment. An effort to have several claims added to the bill led to a debate on the propriety of paying Government claims, the general sentiment being that a bill covering all claims should be brought in at the next session of Congress. A resolution requesting the President to demand of Spain the release of Ona Melton, one of the Competitor prisoners, was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations. A new committee amendment was agreed to appropriating $6,000 in full indemnity to the heirs of three Italians lynched in Louisiana in 1886, as was also one appropriating to the widow of the late Representative Cooke of Illinois $5,000. The House sent the tariff bill to conference. Chairman Dingley, Paine of New York, Dalzell of Pennsylvania, Hopkins of Illinois and Grosvenor of Ohio, Republicans, and Bailey of Texas, McMillin of Tennessee and Wheeler of Alabama, Democrats, were appointed conferees. The proceedings were in nowise sensational. The House spent the afternoon under the special order adopted last week listening to eulogies on the life and public services of Judge Holman.

CURRENT COMMENT

The Jubilee.

The last sixty years have been great ones in the history of England, but they have been even greater ones in the history of this land of ours.—Baltimore American.

John Bull has time to turn from the serious business of the month and indulge in a characteristic bit of English humor. He calls us land-grabbers.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The American contingent in London seems to have done all it could to make the jubilee affair a big success. Let us hope her majesty is duly grateful.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

It is to be hoped that the Prince of Wales made the most of this diamond jubilee, as the chances are very much against his ever having one of his own.—Washington Star.

Annexation.

With both Hawaii and Cuba on the bases, President McKinley will have a great opportunity to make a double annexation play.—Washington Post.

Hawaii is at least affording a little diversion. When some of the Senators tire of annexing Cuba they can turn in and annex the other island for a while.—Chicago Record.

Speaking of Hawaiian annexation, it is pertinent to remark that if Uncle Sam would attend to his own business he would have more business to attend to.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Cuba.

Weyler's trocha is apparently successful. It still keeps the insurgents out of Havana.—Indianapolis News.

If Weyler could only have a dose of his own medicine, what a hemp festival it would be for the pacificos!—Louisville Times.

Spain is anxious to know what the United States are going to do. The same anxiety prevails over here.—Detroit Free Press.

Weyler says he needs 60,000 more troops. This just by way of proving that the Cuban revolution is already suppressed.—New York Journal.

RECORD OF THE WEEK

INDIANA INCIDENTS TERSELY TOLD.

Death Soon to Claim a Man Who Attempted a Gigantic Life Insurance Swindle — President Knight's Dismal Picture of the Mining Situation.

Benjamin R. Musgrave Is Dying.

Benjamin R. Musgrave, of Chicago, who attempted a remarkable insurance swindle, is dying of tuberculosis in the prison north. He was transferred from the prison south under the new reformatory law. Five years ago he had his life insured in various companies for $25,000 in favor of Annie Burton, a well-known actress with whom he was infatuated, after which he went to Terre Haute and leased a cabin in the country, where he entertained his friends. Early one morning the cabin burned and the charred remains of what was supposed to be Musgrave were found in the ruins. Miss Burton then attempted to collect the insurance, but the companies were suspicious and instituted an investigation, finally compelling the woman to confess. Musgrave fled to St. Paul, from which point he wrote to Miss Burton, who betrayed him to the authorities. He was returned to Terre Haute, convicted and sentenced. His imprisonment will expire in November, 1898.

Says They Must Strike or Starve.

President Knight, of Terre Haute, of the United Mine Workers for Indiana, says the present strike is little else than a fight against starvation. "One miner in the northern part of our field told me," said Mr. Knight, "that he had drawn $8.50 for the last two months. He had had four pay days in that time. His highest was $2.50 for two weeks and his lowest $1.60. On this amount he was forced to try to keep himself and his family from hunger. Does anybody think he could do it?" Mr. Knight says the Columbus report to the effect that 375,000 men will be involved in the strike is a gross exaggeration. He estimates that the total number of miners who will be idle will be between 110,000 and 125,000. His figures are as follows: In Pennsylvania, 22,000; in Ohio, 25,000; in Indiana, 8,000; in West Virginia, 20,000; and in Illinois, 35,000. This makes a total of 110,000.

All Over the State.

Charles Deschler, 28 years of age, was drowned in White river at Indianapolis.

At Marion, the suburban residence of S. L. Barnden burned. The loss is $6,000, fully covered by insurance.

Henry Martin Gunn and Miss J. Roberts Marrs, leaders of society of Lexington, Ky., eloped to Jeffersonville and were married. They were accompanied by a party of friends.

Henry Heins, treasurer of Dekalb County, dropped dead from heart failure while eating breakfast at his home in Auburn. He leaves a wife and several sons and daughters, among whom is Dr. F. M. Heins, who, when he heard of his father's death, fell in convulsions, and for some time his life was despaired of, but he is now recovering.

John S. Spann, 76 years old, and one of the largest real estate dealers in Indianapolis, died after a protracted illness, the immediate cause of death being heart failure. He was prominently identified with the Second Presbyterian Church, being one of its founders, and during the pastorate of Henry Ward Beecher was one of the closest friends of that divine.

The Indiana weekly crop bulletin says in part: "Warm weather prevailed everywhere, with frequent rains in the southern portion and but little or none in the northern portion; and there rain is needed, especially for corn. The wheat, rye and barley harvest is done in the southern and central portions, and nearly done in the northern portion; the rye and barley crops are very good, and the quality and quantity of the wheat crop are better than was expected; thrashing has begun in the southern portion. Oats are in the best condition and heading well, but the straw is short. Corn is growing very fast, but it is still less advanced than at this time in other years."

William H. Porter, traveling representative of the Frankfort, Ky., Chair Company, a concern that gets its goods made at the Frankfort penitentiary, was arrested at Richmond, charged with the illegal sale of the goods in that city. There are five charges against him and he was released under a bond of $500. The Indiana law against the sale of convict made goods, passed in 1895, is very stringent, and a possible fine of $10,000 may be imposed for a violation. Whatever the result of this case is in the Circuit Court, it will be appealed to the Supreme Court to have the constitutionality of the law passed upon. The outcome will be watched with interest, for if the law is held to be constitutional the local dealers who have been handling the Frankfort company's goods may be prosecuted.

As a result of the investigation of the collision on the Vandalia Railroad at Vandalia, all the crew of the special Christian Endeavor California train were dismissed from the service of the company. The order for the train was to stop at the first siding at Vandalia, and as all members of the crew were made acquainted with the order, all were held responsible, and therefore dismissed. The crew consisted of Horace Kerns, conductor; Thomas Menifee, engineer; Charles G. N. McLain, brakeman, and William Pett, fireman.

Prosecutor Scanlan of Anderson began prosecuting oil men for criminal waste of gas in mining oil. The first suit was brought against Major C. T. Doxey and Tom Stillwell jointly, and others are being prepared. State Gas Inspector Leach is assisting in the work, and both are being backed by Gov. Mount, the Attorney General and the organization of all gas companies and large consumers in the State. Since opening the new field the gas which comes up with the oil has been allowed to waste, many wells running 6,000,000 and 8,000,000 feet per day.

G. W. Murray of Elwood was fined $35 for seining fish in the Wild Cat. The arrest was by Deputy Commissioner Welty, who was recently appointed to the office to run down a band of fish dynamiters.

F. J. Vanvorhis, representing a large number of Indianapolis citizens, called upon the board of review and formally protested against the assessment fixed by that body upon the property of the Citizens' Street Railway Company. Under the company's contention in the Federal Court, its property is worth between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000, but the board has assessed it for only $1,250,000.

Joseph McGinnis, a wealthy farmer near Dunn's Bridge, with his daughters went fishing in the Kankakee river. Falling asleep on the bridge he rolled into the river. His body was found about half a mile below the bridge.

Houston's 10-cent railway circus went to pieces at Anderson. Forty of the actors managed to steal the train and tent appliances and run them out of the county and State before the sheriff got action on writs of attachment, which were piled a foot high in his office. They have got the outfit in Ohio now and have seized it for wages. They will endeavor to reorganize and put the thing to going again. Houston is bedfast in an Anderson hotel.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY..... July 15 . 1897

COURT.

Saturday's Daily.

The jury and Judge Roby tackled a bastardy case yesterday. It was that of Emma North against John H. Brunkhart. Mr. Hartman was attorney for the defense, while Otto Baxter and Mr. Welsheimer were for the plaintiff the lady in the case. The case was given to the jury about four in the afternoon and court was adjourned till Saturday morning. Work is being pushed by Judge Roby, at a lively rate. The jury was out about an hour The first ballot showed three in favor of the defendant, but they all finally went against him, and he was adjudged "guilty as charged." The fixing of the money consideration was done by Judge Roby, he being the proper authority for that part of the work. It has been the custom of Auburn courts to fix the cash damages in cases like this, at $400. But in this case, testimony showed that Brunkhart had only been a sort of partner and he was given but one half the usual dose. He must pay $200 in four equal, annual payments, and cannot be released till he gives good security for the payments. Brunkhart has been in jail ever since his arrest. He gave out that if the $400 was saddled on him, he would not try to pay it, but would lie in jail till he had served it out. But with the smaller amount, will try to pay it, and the unfortunate girl will get the benefit of it. She was in court at the time, with her baby, now nearly a year old, and court, attorneys and all seemed to sympathize with her.

The old case to have Mr. Miller removed as guardian of Livergood, has been tried over again today, occupying all day. It is a jury case.

Monday's Daily.

Saturday was taken up trying the case against, Miller guardian of Livergood. It will be remembered that at the other term, Miller was ousted from the guardianship. Then followed a disagreement as to the amount of money he should turn over to his successor. The suit on Saturday was to settle this point. He claimed he ought to turn over only about $80 or $90. But he finally made a tender of $120. The other side, however claimed he had paid too much for certain services and articles, and that more should be turned over. After hearing the evidence, the jury retired, and in about two hours had agreed on a verdict. They said Miller must turn over to his successor, $131.26. This ends the case. The verdict was received by C. M. Brown acting as judge in the absence of Judge Roby, who had taken the evening train to Angola. The jury were then discharged for good, drew their pay, and went home. They are just in time to begin harvest work in more pleasant weather. The grand jury had already been dismissed, as they were not called together last week, as had been expected, and will not be. If the McIntosh matter is ever called up again, it will be on "information," or else they will wait for the next grand jury.

Rose & Rose were Miller's attorneys in the above case, and J. E. Pomeroy as attorney on the other side.

There is no court today, Monday, but tomorrow we believe Judge E. C. Vaughn, of Bluffton is to hold court here. He will hear the issues made in the two cases between Drs. Sparling and Nusbaum. One of these, is the case that Dr. Nusbaum brings to collect on notes given by Sparling when he bought out Dr. Nusbaum. The other is brought by Dr. Sparling against Nusbaum, asking for damages because the latter has gone again into the practice of medicine which Sparling claims is a violation of the contract between them. He also will ask that the notes he gave Nusbaum, be declared void for want of consideration. McClellan and Garwood will be attorneys for Sparling, and Baxter & Brown for Nusbaum. It bids fair to be a hard fight.

There is also a case that Judge Vaughn will be called on to try. It is the one that came up some time ago, in which the Bank of Huntington sues, J. C. Henry on some notes, that had been mixed up in the busted bank of South Whitley. This is not our J. C. Henry, though the name is exactly the same. It caused a good deal of comment when it was called up here before, as people were very naturally surprised that our J. C. Henry should be sued. It is an entirely different man.

DIED AT NOON.

Tuesday's Daily.

At noon today the death angel entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Baker in Stamets town and snatched from our midst, Minnie Ruhl Baker, the wife of Elmer Baker. The deceased has been a sufferer for some time from lung fever. She leaves two small children, a husband and many relatives and friends.

The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon.

OBITUARY.

Henry Hines was born in Ashland Co. Ohio, April 1, 1839, and departed this life at his home in Auburn, last Tuesday morning July 6, 1897, at the age 58 years, 3 months and 5 days. Mr Hines lived with his parents until he was united in marriage to Miss Sarah Abagail Smith, Feb 6, 1859. To this happy union were born 6 children, 3 sons and 3 daughters, all of whom are still living and are attended the funeral After his marriage he came to DeKalb Co. Ind., and settled on a farm in Jackson township, which farm he owned at his death. He spent his entire married life on this farm, save 2½ years. While a resident of Jackson township, he served in the capacity of Justice of the Peace for the period of 14 years. This office he filled acceptably, and was but the stepping stone to a greater and more responsible position. Last fall he was elected to the responsible position of Treasurer of DeKalb Co. To the public duties that were committed to his care he was faithful and devoted. It was his aim to give the people his best service, which he did to the best of his ability. He sought not his own interest but that of the people of this county. After he was elected to the office of Treasurer, he with his family moved to Auburn, where they were welcomed by the people of Auburn. Mr. and Mrs. Hines had passed the 28th mile stone of their married life, when the relentless hand of death separated them. They lived together in peace and happiness, and loved to be in each other's company. These unions however tender and happy, must be severed sooner or later. We cannot live together in this life always, the parting hour will come at last. Mr. Hines was a loyal patriot, a congenial neighbor and a loveable father and companion. His character is not stained with crime, and he has made for himself a reputation of which his family need not be ashamed. He was a good man, honest in his dealings with his fellow men, upright in his conduct, and always ready to assist those who were in need. He reared his family in the right way, ever impressing upon their minds, the importance of living the best lives among men. Mr. Hines believed in Christ as his personal Savior, and was an active worker in the Sabbath School, and pointed his sons and daughters to that higher life of Chrst. Let us strive to to emulate his virtues. An officer, a citizen, a friend, a father and husband has fallen in death. His absence in the office will be felt by the pnople of DeKalb Co., and in the home of the family. This event, shocking and sad as it is, let us bow in humble submission to the will of Him, "who doeth all things well. Let us not murmur nor complain, but in the spirit of resignation look up into the Fatherly face of God and say, Thy will be done." Mr. Hines leaves behind to mourn his death, a companion, 3 sons, 3 daughters, 1 brother, 1 sister, besides many friends.

Dearest companion and father, we must now say to thee a long and farewell, and lay thee to rest. Sleep on, take thy rest, for it will not be long until we too, shall come and lay ourselves down by thy side.

Soon we shall be united in the city of the dead, but we hope and pray that a more happy union shall take place in the city of light, in the Paradise of God.

Sorrowing ones, go and bury thy aching heart with all its sorrow and pain in the bosom of Jesus. He knows thy sorrow, and will not turn thee away empty handed. For He said, "I will not leave you comfortless but will come unto you."

Now may the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God the Father and the fellow-ship of the Holy Ghost, be with you now and ever more.

Funeral services were conducted from the house July 8, 1897, at 3 p m. Interment took place in Woodlawn Cemetery. J. D. Brosy officiating, assisted by Rev. T. M. Guild of the M. E. Church, and Rev. F. C. Colvin of the Presbyterian Church.

The Midnight Burial.

The strange and unusual hour at which Mr. Gilchrist was buried as well as the tragic circumstances surrounding his death, called out quite a number of our people last night to witness the midnight burial. And from several surrounding towns came members of the order to pay the last rites to their departed brother. Then, as the hour drew near, the Trumpet Note Band, took its place, and to the strains of a solemn dirge, the strange procession moved to the cemetery. The town was still, and the notes of the instruments rang out clear and sad, and the measured beat of the drum marked the whole distance over which the route passed. The ceremony was short, and the solemn concourse returned, the drum beats still echoing sadly on the still, midnight air. Then came a pause The crowd was dispersing, and the usual stillness of a summer night again fell on the town. Another incident in the history of a restless life, and the last one, had closed.

KUSTER--ABBOTT.

Saturday's Daily.

—Tomorrow at 2 p. m. June 11, at the residence of the bride will occur the marriage of Mr. Fridolin Kuster of Edon, Ohio, to Miss Nellie M. Abbott of Troy township, in this county. The officiating minister will be Rev. S. G. Niel of the U. B. Church in Hamilton.

Mr. Kuster is a resident of Edon, and is also known in Auburn, as he and his father made most of the galvanized iron cornice on the newer blocks in Auburn.

The bride's father is a stepson we believe of Thomas Leeson of Troy, on whose farm the bride and her people have always lived. The young couple go to house keeping in Edon. The COURIER wishes them all possible happiness.

OBITUARY

Bennet Hixon was born in Wayne Co. Ohio, April 16, 1842, and departed this life July 7, 1897, aged 55 years 2 months and 21 days. At the age of 13 he came with his mother to this state where he grew to manhood. In May 1871 he was united in marriage to Sarah E. Knott. To this union were born six children, three of whom died in infancy. He leaves an aged mother, a wife and three children to mourn their loss. His health had been failing for some time and in the last five weeks he had failed very rapidly and his suffering at times was intense.

Mr. Hixon was a prudent man, honest and upright in all his dealings with men, but as the end drew near he realized that he had made one sad mistake in neglecting his personal salvation and last Saturday morning he made a complete surrender and found peace with the Lord. When he first realized that he must leave his family he was very sad, but by the grace of God he was enabled to say "Thy will be done," and the only regret that he expressed was that he had not given his heart to God years ago and spent his life in the service of the Master. To his aged mother he was a dutiful son, one whose first thought was for her comfort. To his wife he was a kind and true husband, to his children a good father, and the testimony of the entire neighborhood is that he was a good man, generous to the poor and just to all men. While he leaves his family well provided for, the best legacy he leaves is the example of an untarnished character and the assurance that they can meet again.

UNION S. S. AT LOCKWOOD'S.

The Union Sunday School at Lockwoods church in Jackson township held its Children's Day exercises last Sunday evening in the Lawhead grove. The program was excellent and all the exercises were well given. The order was of the very best. All of which speaks well for the school, its officers and the people of that vicinity. The superintendent is Mr. Thomas Elson. Miss Mattie Rodenbaugh is organist.

TRAMPS $1 A HEAD.

Kansas Railroad Men Sell the Wanderers to Farmers Needing Help.

Freight crews running through Kansas have opened up a new and profitable industry. They encourage tramps to go to the wheat belt, where men are wanted to save the wheat, and then sell the tramps to the farmers at $1 a head. The brakemen refuse to unlock the box cars and deliver the tramps until the farmers produce the money.

DROWNED AT WINONA.

Miss Bertha Yarnelle, and Miss Georgia Coulter Find a Watery Grave.

Tuesday's Daily.

The early Ft. Wayne papers this morning brought sad news to many Auburn families, for many were acquainted with at least one of the unfortunate young ladies who went down to death in the waters of Eagle Lake yesterday. Two young men, John G. Coulter, son of Prof. John M. Coulter of the Chicago University, and Wm. Gray, grandson of W. C. Gray, Editor of the Interior took three young ladies out on the lake in a sail boat. The young ladies were, Miss Bertha Yarnelle, of Ft. Wayne, Miss Eunice Munson and Miss Georgia Coulter, of Chicago, a sister of the young man in charge of the boat. They had gone to the south end of the lake, and as they turned to go back the boat turned over the wind being high at the time. The boat went over twice, but the two young men being expert swimmers, managed to get the girls into the boat again. But soon after this, and while all were in a more or less helpless condition, it was again blown over. This time, Miss Coulter went to the bottom, and Miss Yarnelle though, a good swimmer, was so entangled in the rigging that she could not get loose, and drowned before she could be liberated. Miss Munson was lifted so she could cling to the boat. The two men then began diving for the lost girls, but did not find them, although when help arrived Miss Yarnelle was found entangled in the ropes so they had to be cut away with a knife, and with great difficulty she was brought to the surface. But all efforts to bring her to life were of no avail. Miss Coulter's body had not at last accounts been recovered, and a professional diver has been sent for, as the water there is ninety feet deep.

The prominence of all the parties in this tragic incident, only serves to intensify its sadness. Miss Yarnelle was a student of the Westminster Seminary at Ft. Wayne, and therefore a school mate of the three Auburn students, Margaret Ford, Blanch Penfield and Pearl Kelley, to all of whom the news came as a great grief. Many of our people knew her and many more knew the family. Her father and her sister Edith are popular singers, and at the time the word of the drowning was brought to them, they were practicing with a new quartet they had just organized at the Woman's Building at Winona, composed of Mr. Yarnelle, C. H. Worden, Edith Yarnelle and Mrs. S. C. Moffat. Bertha Yarnell was fifteen, and Miss Coulter, fourteen.

CONVICTS AT WORK.

(Michigan City News.)

Two squads of convicts, each composed of eight or ten men, were marched down to the lake this morning and set to work on the new sewer. One gang unloaded several cars of pipe and the other gang was set to work in the hills. Each squad was in charge of two guards. In a few days a couple of hundred convicts will be working on the sewer.

Ancient History

Many of our people have forgotten, that Henry Probst was elected treasurer Nov. 6, 1888, beating J. L. Davis 27 votes. He was at that time serving his term a county commissioner to which office he had been elected, Nov. 4, 1884. On taking the office of treasurer early in November of 1888, a few days after that election, there was a vacancy in the office of Commissioner for his district, though G. I. Patterson was elected his successor at that same election. The other two members elected Wm. H. Dills to serve with them the remaining three weeks, till the regular meeting in December, when Mr. Patterson was sworn in. It is an episode that we presume has been nearly forgotten,

Will Wed.

David F. Kase to Belle Hogerty; Moses Wyatt to Cora D. Wolf; Melvin Herrick to Cora Hilkey; Clinton Reasoner to Lizzie Dilley; Wilham Wingard to Stella Zimmerman; Leland Moltz to Maud Morgan; John Martin to Frances Gardner; Fridoline Kuster to Nellie Abbott; Delbert Draggoo to Hattie Rickett.

Just to cool the boys

Is what our wash suits are made for. To clothe the boys in a cool, washable suit you will have the opportunity to get one this week only, at a price that brings them.....

within reach of the most limited purse

For the balance of this week we will close the remainder of our stock of boys washable suits with sailor collars at the following prices:

Suits worth	$1.35,	marked down to	$1.15;	sale price 79c
"	1.50,	"	1.25;	" 88c
"	1.75,	"	1.35;	" 98c
"	2.50,	"	1.75;	" $1.28

See them to know they are actual bargains. Sizes 3 to 7 years age. Only about 35 suits left; come now and dress your boys for the hot weather. Men find instant relief in our Crash Suits. We get $4 for them, you pay $5 for the same when you don't purchase them of us. Buy your straws here at reduced prices.

G. H. YESBERA,
For Cool Wear.

ANOTHER SUICIDE.

Clarence Davis of Columbia City Killed by a Wabash Train.

The people of Columbia City were shocked Monday morning to learn that Clarence Davis had jumped in front of the west bound passenger train and was almost instantly killed. He was a clerk at the Chambers Hotel in that city until a couple of weeks ago when he lost his job. And in connection with this, a young lady, Miss Artie Phillips, of Wolf Lake whom he had been courting, deserted him for another young man. Davis hired a rig Sunday evening to take the lady out riding, but she refused to accompany him. At about noon it was seen by physicions that he could not live. He was then questioned concerning the accident and he admitted having committed the deed with suicidal intent on account of his disappointment, as he was tired of living.

WHAT A TARIFF CAN DO.

The Waterloo Press claims that John Boots not only got a better price for his wool on account of the new tariff, but also an increase in weight. You never know how many good things a tariff tax can do, till it is explained by a republican paper. We have had it explained to us many times how it would make goods cheaper by taxing them; how it would make things higher priced, as in case of wool and wheat; how it would make wages higher; how it would make work plenty; how it would keep out foreign goods; how it would bring in more foreign goods, on which the tariff could raise more revenue; how it would make people prosperous by raising their taxes higher. But it remains for these latter days to show that a higher duty on wool will raise the weight on one man's wool clip 225 pounds.

To the Reform School.

Thursday evening Sheriff Stroh arrested a son of Jack Towne at the latter's residence. The boy had been to the reform school at Plainfield and ran away. He then took a team to drive home. Yesterday he was taken back to Plainfied by Marshal Potter. Billy Potter is wearing the star.

Meese Reunion.

There is a call for the meeting of all members of the Meese Matrimonial reunion, to be held in G. A. R. Hall over the postoffice in Auburn, Saturday July 24, at 1:30 p. m. Let every one attend as this meeting is held to consult all, as to arrangements for the reunion to take place here August 19.

—FOR SALE:—The glass front of my store building. Call on E. Eldridge Auburn, Ind.

BUTLER.

The 4th passed of quietly at Butler. A large number gathered in from the country and adjoining towns, and assisted in making the day and its events enjoyable. The races were spirited and amusing and brought forth much applause. The writer, improved the opportunity by making a trip to Chicago and Michigan points. On our way to Chicago Saturday morning we found the heat almost intolerable, and the day in the city was wearysome in the extreme. Wheat cutting had already begun, and many fields were in shock. The crop seemed only ordinary, corn and potatoes looked well. On Saturday night we attempted to extend our visit to Iowa, only to find all chances cut off from lack of train service on the Chicago Malwaukee and St. Paul road. Not to be wholly disappointed, and to be compelled to stay over Sunday in the sweltering city, we took passage on the lake steamer "Glenn," that gave us a very cool and pleasant passage across Lake Michigan to the Hill Top City of South Haven. The village is fast shaking off its sleepy habits and appearance, and with plenty of Chicago help is assuming city airs. The place has more than trebled its population in the last ten years and seems to having a healthy and vigorous growth. We spent Monday with friends in the fruit belt, but found little to encourage them. Their strawberry crop was over abundant and flooded the markets, so they realized almost nothing for them and at this writing thousands of cases are going to waste. The recent hot weather has blighted the gooseberry crop, no small industry causing them to drop from the bushes. The peach crop will be a very small one, but prices may make up for quantity. We came back to South Haven in time to write up the closing scenes of an old-fashioned fourth of July. The streets were thronged with young people. We were lulled to sleep in our steamer cabin by the crack of fire crackers, and the lurid gleam of sky rockets. When we awoke we were threading our way up the turbid waters of Chicago River. We spent the day doing Chicago, but as most of my readers, know what is to be seen in Chicago, I forbear recounting. Tuesday night train landed us safely at home again.

Dick Abrams cautiously slipped home last week, but he got drunk and forgot his caution and is repenting in Auburn jail.

Christ Linderfer fell from a load of hay last week and broke his leg near his body, and is in a serious condition at present.

R. C. Campbell purchased the James Davidson's property on West Depot-st last week.

Richard Kester purchased the Scoville property by the Christain church recently.

The property for sale in Butler has nearly all been purchased within the past few months.

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding, Ulcerated and Itching Piles. It absorbs the tumors, allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and Itching of the private parts and nothing else. Every box is guaranteed. Sold by druggists, sent by mail for 50c and $1 per box.

WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props. Cleveland O. Sold by Fischler & Son.

THE NEW GALLERY
....NOW READY....
FOR WORK.
...CALL ON ME AT....
RICE'S OLD STAND For all kinds of Photographic Work. Cabinets in Gloss or Platino Finish; Views, Pictures of Residences, or Family Groups Kodac work done on short notice. First-class work guaranteed.
M. I. HOFFMAN, Auburn, Ind.

J. H. JOHNSTON,
DENTAL SURGEON,
Auburn - Indiana.
OFFICE OVER PIONEER HARDWARE STORE.
SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO PLATE WORK

F. W. HOFFMAN,
DENTIST,
AUBURN, - - - - - - INDIANA
Office in Gandy building, northeast corner of Square.....
CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS.
Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, Corner Main and Sixth Streets.
Professional Calls Promptly Answered.
Telephones: Western, 19; Central Union, 19
D. J. Swarts, M. D. Vesta W. Swarts, M. D

ALBERT ROBBINS, PRES. J. O. HENRY, V. P
FARMERS BANK.
—INCORPORATED—
AND UNDER STATE CONTROL.
Capital and Surplus $50,000
Transacts a General Banking Business and pays Interest on time Deposits.
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
Capital and Surplus $60,000.
Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest, if left six months. County and town orders bought and sold. Money to loan.
C. A. O. McCLELLAN, PRESIDENT
CHAS. McCLELLAN, CASHIER.

S. B. JOHNSTON,
DENTIST.
AUBURN - - INDIANA
Office, 25 North Main Street.
Most Difficult Operations, a Specialty.
Telephone No 27, Western.

Half Rates to Rome City, Ind., via B & O R R

July 18 to 31 the B. & O. will sell excursion tickets to Rome City, Ind. at rate of one fare for round trip, account Island Park Assembly, good for return until August 3. 1897. For further information call on or address nearest B. & O. Ticket Agent.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Special Sale of GRANITE WARE At Brown, Culbertson and Boland's, On July 31st, 1897.

Interesting Store News.

Visitors and homefolks tell us that no other store shows such a collection of desirable New Goods. That even metropolitan stores do not sell them so cheaply. Our Cash Buying and Cash Selling gives us an immense advantage, which inures to your benefit.

Do you know about our New Cyclone Summer Corset? It is the best and easiest fitting Summer Corset in the world. But don't take our say so for it. Try a pair, and your money back if you want. Price only 50c. Our La Mode Corset at 38c is a world beater.

Ladies' Tailor-made Suits and Skirts.

We enumerate a few items to get you to come. Ladies' Black wool and Novelty Skirts, lined throughout, bound with velvet, $1.29 to $4. Tailor-made wool suits, up-to-date, $5 to $12. Two-piece Lawn Suits stylishly made, well fitting, beautifully trimmed, $2 to $3.50.

Summer Underwear

Ladies' Vests, Children's Vests, cool gauzy and comfortable. Vests with sleeves, vests without sleeves, vests with wings, in fact any style you want Prices are 5c each up, and are cheap.

Shirt Waists

Neat, Chic, Dainty Designs, made to fit, made to wear, made for comfort, will wash and be the better for it. More than fifty styles to select from. Our 50c Waist is the Best.

Wash Dress Goods.

Seasonable Goods seductively priced. 28-inch Striped and Figured Lawns and Dimities, worth 12 1-2c yard; our price 8c. 30-inch Organdies, fine sheer fabrics, many stores sell at 15c; our price 10c.....

Our Stock of

Laces, Ribbons, Mitts, Belts, Fans, Shirt Waist Sets, Embroideries and Handkerchiefs is the largest in DeKalb County.

The Bishop & Lackey Co.

LEADING MERCHANTS.

HOWE SCHOOL (MILITARY),

. . . LIMA, INDIANA. . . .

Thoroughly prepares for college or business. High character in boys is our chief aim. Most careful individual attention in matters of scholarship and morals. Refined Christian influence. Buildings equipped with all modern convenience. Fine new gymnasium, large athletic grounds. Expense moderate. For testimonials, illustrations and catalogues, address

W. W. HAMMOND, A. M. (HARVARD) HEAD MASTER.

REV. J. H. McKENZIE, PH. D., RECTOR.

MAN AND HIS SHOES.

How much a man is like his shoes!
For instance, both a sole may lose.
Both have been tanned,
Both are made tight—
By cobblers, both get left and right;
Both need a mate to be complete,
And both are made to go on feet.
They both need healing; Oft' are sold,
And both in time will turn to mould,
With shoes the last is first,
With men the first shall be last,
And when the shoes wear out they're mended new,
When men wear out they're men-dead, too,
They both are trod upon,
And both will tread on others.
Both have their ties and both incline
When polished, in the world to shine,
And both peg out—
Now, would you choose
To be a man or be his shoes

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the County of DeKalb, State of Indiana, Administrator of the estate of Henry Hines deceased, late of DeKalb Co.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

FRANCIS M. HINES.
Administrator.

July 9, 1897.
Baxter & Brown Attys.

—Mr. Kuster, whose wedding notice appears elsewhere was a caller here today in company with Saxby McIntosh. He had come here to get Clerk Long to issue the papers necessary to make him the happiest man in Edon.

ROESSNER'S ONCE A WEEK SHINE TRADE MARK SHOE POLISH FOR LADIES,—GENTLEMENS AND CHILDRENS SHOES HARNESS & PATENT LEATHER. PRICE 25¢. READY FOR USE. REQUIRES NO RUBBING OR BRUSHING. ROESSNER MFG. CO. WINONA, MINN. U.S.A.

IT SHINES FOR ALL.

THE NEWEST AND BEST

OIL SHOE POLISH

In Colors,

BLACK, TAN, GREEN and OX BLOOD.

This is truly a "ONCE A WEEK" shoe polish, as it will hold a shine for a week, and rain or snow will not spoil it. A Liquid Polish, put up in large bottles, encased in neat cartons, and makes a good show in the package and on the shoe. The nicest thing on the market for LADIES' AND GENTLEMEN'S FINE SHOES AND PATENT LEATHER. Easily applied. Requires no rubbing. Will not freeze.

Ask your local dealer for it.

Roessner's "Once a Week" Shine Shoe Polish

Address ROESSNER MFG. CO., Winona, Minn.

"The Tramp's Burial."

"The tramp is dead! The tramp is dead!"
Somebody to somebody thoughtlessly said.
He came from Garrett, and then drank deep,
Then took the poison, and sleeps the sleep.

He had seen better days, the people say.
When he did skilled labor, and had good pay—
A liberal man, a brainy man, too:
A man of real culture, a gentleman true.

But, like thousands of others, he spent all his pay;
And, like thousands of others, he went the same way
That men usually go when their money is gone,
And work is no more, and drinking is on.

A sure "rainy day" will come to most men,
When they will need the money they'er apt to spend
To be "hail fellows well met"—"Boys on the road."
"Rainy days" will come; the money'd come good

Men make vows which make men brothers;
Whatever betide, they stand by each other—
Friends who stand by one, living or dead.
To do what can be done, to say what can be said

True to their vows, when this brother died,
Brothers, though strangers, sprang to his side,
Caught his last accent, and rec'd the token
That proved him a brother without a word spoken.

'Twas midnight in Auburn—that weird, spectre hour,
When light shines dimmest, and darkness has power
To reveal to the timid her ghosts and her sprites
And all the goblins that people the nights.

At this hour of the night, that it might never be said
On what day of the month they buried their dead
The nodding-plumed-Knights, with solemn march played,
Bore their stranger brother to the home of the dead.

They tenderly bore him, lovingly lowered him,
Then chanted a requiem, and rev'rently implored Him
To receive back the spirit with charty's grace;
Then all turned away from "the tramp's" resting place.

In the silence unbroken by any word spoken,
The brethren marched back; not even a token
To the people, or strangers, or pilgrims to prove
That their errand of mercy was not one of love.

And we said in our hearts, O, hasten the time,
When throughout every nation and in every clime,
Men shall be brethren indeed and in name,
And one for the other shall have love just the same.

J. G. PLOWMAN.

The Difference.

(Chicago Record)

Let us wander to the country from the city's blinding glare.
There to catch the blessed breezes, there to breath the fresher air;
Let us, minding not expense, go to fill our souls' demands,
We perhaps can earn our living working out as Harvest hands.

Thursday's Daily.

—Read the ad of excursion to Niagria Falls in this issue.

—One 4-room house in Gas Addition to rent. $5.50 a month.

WALTER C. HARTMAN.

—Don't nauseate your stomach with teas and bitter herbs, but regulate your liver and sick headache by using those famous little pills known as DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Davenport the Druggist.

Postmaster Brandon has moved to his farm east of town and Wm Kruger has rented his residence property on South Main street, and has already moved in.

—Burning, itching skin diseases instantly relieved by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, unequaled for cuts, burns, bruises. It heals without leaving a scar. Davenport the druggist.

—Misses Mildred and Blanche Sanders who have been visiting relatives and friends in the city during the past few weeks, have returned to their home at Chicago Junction, O.

—Dr. Baxter is paying special attention to Diseases of Children also Diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Nervous system. tf

—Mrs. G. L. Lanning and daughter Bertha returned today from Reading, Mich., where they have been for a week past.

—Vim, vigor and victory:-these are the characteristics of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, biliousness and all stomach and liver troubles. Davenport the drug gist.

—Fleming at the green house has a flowing well. It furnishes plenty of water for his green house. Auburn against the world for flowing wells.

—"They don't make much fuss about it." We are speaking of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little piils for constipation, biliousness, and all stomach and liver troubles. They never gripe. Davenport the druggist.

—Dr. Stamets informs us that the little son of Mart Culver who wa kicked by a horse, is improving rapidly. It required fourteen stitches to dress the wound.

—There is a little time for everything; and the time to attend to a cold is when it starts. Don't wait till you have consumption but prevent it by using One Minute Cough Cure, the great remedy for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles. Davenport the druggists.

—Dr. James Squires of Churubusco came up on the early train being called here to attend the meeting of the Northeastern Medical Association that met here today.

—Bucklen's Arnica Salve.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay repuired. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For ale by Robbins & McCord. tf

—On Monday Mr. Meese was at Fort Wayne and at request of Paul Joray, who used to live at Butler, he called at Hope Hospital where Mr. Joray's daughter has been for a time for treatment. She has undergone two difficult operations, but the hospital doctors think she is now on the safe road to recovery.

—It heals everything except a broken heart, may be said of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Piles and rectal diseases, cuts, burns, bruises, tetter, eczema and all skin tronbles may be cured by it quickly and permanently. Davenport the druggist.

—Mrs. Ves Zimmerman, Mrs. L. E. Gregg and Mrs. Tom Patterson and baby, returned Tuesday from Chicago, where they have been visiting some days. They report the friends up there well including the family of Frank Davenport.

—John Griffin, of Zanesville, O, says: "I never lived a day for thirty years without suffering agony, until a box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured my piles." For piles and rectal troubles, cuts, bruises, sprains, eczema and all skin troubles DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is unequaled. Davenport the Druggist.

—Tom Leasure, of Mt. Ayr, Iowa, is in town, and expects to remain here a week or two. He reports all well "out west" and prospering.

—Mrs. Frank Griswold, of Leadville, Col., arrived here this afternoon for a visit in the family of James Griswald. This is her first visit to this country.

—"I crave but one minute," said the public speaker in a husky voice; and then he took a dose of One Minute Cough Cure, and proceedrd with his oratory. One Minute Cough Cure is unequaled for throat and lung troubles, Davenport the Druggist.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair
DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE.
A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant
40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Friday's Daily.

—There was a fire on west Seventh street this forenoon. Henry Trentman's umbrella caught fire while he was standing watching the fire engine work.

—Engineer Guilford and Marshal Potter went up to west Seventh-st fire cistern with the engine today and pumped it out. The water vein seems to be stopped up and no water runs in.

—John Palmer was so overcome by heat yesterday that he had to stop work at Kiblinger Factory where he works. He would probably have had a sunstroke if he had not got into a cool place.

—Mrs. Judge Roby and daughter, Myrtle started at four this morning and drove to Crooked Lake beyond Angola, and will spend a week or so in their cottage.

—Miss Lulu Rempis of Waterloo, is in the city a guest in the family of W. C. Hartman.

—Ed. Willis and Miss Lena Rempis, of Waterloo, were on our streets last evening.

—Dr. Phillips of Corunna was in the city yesterday to attend the meeting of the physicians. We are pleased to see him prospering.

—Mrs. H. M. Henning and daughter, Mrs. Stello Clark drove to Corunna yesterday where they spent the day with friends.

—Rev. T. M. and Mrs. Guild are entertaining Mr. and Mrs W. S. James of Elwood. Mr. James is superintendent of one of the glass factories. They also expect today Clark Price and Wm. G. Yeo, of that city. They will all remain here over Sunday.

—E. T. Cochran and Charles Riechel changed two of the large plate glass windows in the Farmers Bank today so as it could be opened to let in the air.

—John Kittel who deliveres ice here had the misfortune to lose his little boy by death yesterday. Hence there may have been a little confusion delivering to customers.

Saturday's Daily.

—The baby of Mr. and Mrs. Kinsey is among those who are sick,

—Dr. Wesley Hines and family retired this morning to Warsaw.

—Mrs. W. B. Brown of this place, and her sister Mrs. Florence Buchanan of Concord, were callers at the COURIER sanctum this afternoon.

—Brown, Culbertson & Boland have put new arc lights in their store They do not warm up the store building like oil lamps.

—Dr. Baxter reports a seven pound girl born this morning to Mr. and Mrs. Romeo Tarney. The COURIER extends congratulations to the happy parents.

—J. C. Weeks reports finding his alsike clover without seed. He had expected to keep some of his field for seed, but had he not investigated he would have got neither seed nor hay. It will pay farmers to examine their alsike.

—Hugh Harter came through town today on his way from Ft. Wayne to Goshen, where he joins his mother for a trip next week to Toronto. He went awheel as far as Waterloo, and then took a train home. He is looking in splendid health.

—Miss Gara Wheelock, daughter of Dr. K. K. Wheelock, of Ft. Wayne, is here, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Henderson. She came up her Thursday with her father, who came to attend the meeting of the Medical Association.

—The Christian Endeavor people on their way to San Francisco, the other day, tried to stand out on the platform of the cars to enjoy the wild scenery of Colorado, but the severe snowstorm and cold forced them back the into the car to get warm. Uncle Sam has a great country.

Monday's Daily.

—Charley DuWan moved today from the room over Peter Young's store to J. C. Henry's house in the south part of town.

The WEEKLY COURIER had the Fair trial in full, July 1. The Dispatch had a re-write of the same July 8, and some of the other papers did but little better. Gentlemen, try and keep closer up with the COURIER procession, or you won't be even a "follower."

—Garrett the grocer, has the first new turnips of the season. Many do not sow the seed till about this time.

—James McClellan has cut the wheat on his low ground between his residence and Cedar Creek. It is a fair crop for low land.

—Miss Doud, teacher in the Peru public schools, who has been visiting Misses Nellie and Margaret Buckley the past week returned to her home.

—Miss Laura Keeran has returned from Ceder Creek where she has been for a few weeks engaged as nurse.

—Forty-five persons took the excursion train at Auburn Junction Sunday for Chicago.

—The Bell Telephone Co. will put in an exchange at Butler.

—Geo. Weeks of the Edon Independent is in the city.

—Will Ryan was at Fort Wayne today.

—Jim Lewis and wife went up to Chicago last night where they will spend this week seeing the sights of the White City.

—The ten days torrid weather took a turn Saturday night and by morning was more endurable. It had rained at different points in the west. On Sunday forenoon we had a light rain here, making it quite cool.

—Jake Loewenstein of Waterloo was here this forenoon, —Charlie Speer of Waterloo was driving about town Sunday.

—Will Clark and lady of Ashley were driving on our streets Sunday.

—The COURIER is sorry to learn of the serious illness of Mrs. Beers, of Fort Wayne, the wife of President G. W. Beers, of the Home Telephone Co. She is now at Philadelphia, where she underwent an operation.

—Misses Maude and Nellie Kiblinger of Albion and Mrs. Depew of Garrett, were in the city over Sunday the guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Willis.

—Judge Roby went up to Angola Saturday evening, after the Miller guardianship case had been given to the jury, leaving the matter in the hands of C. M. Brown who acted as judge when the verdict was returned. Judge Roby will remain a week or so at their cottage on Crooked Lake where his family now is.

—A. J. Rogers and his wife have been back here a few days. They may conclude to return here to live. We hope they may.

—Mrs. M. E. Clark and Mrs. John Clark and son Ralph went down to Zanesville today for a couple weeks visit.

—We hear numerous flattering comments on Rev. Guild's sermons of yesterday. The one last night was especially a masterly effort.

—Employes of the Greenler factory had their pictures taken in a group today noon. The work was done by a traveling artist.

—Mrs. Perkins, of Pulaski, O., returned home today. She was the guest of Mr. and Mrs Henry Shoemaker.

—Our friend John D. Hosler, of Rome City, will be gratified this week by the news that he will get an increase of pension. As he has been in poor health for some time, this little lift will come handy.

—There was a fishing party at Spencerville yesterday who, it is said, came home with lots of bass. As to the size and number we are unable to state, as no two of them could tell the same story. The party was composed of L. E. Gregg, Bert Casebeer, Geo. Gregg and Jeff May.

—The old faithful town pump has given out and Purdy & Sons are repairing it.

—This is a good time of the year to take Simmons Liver Regulator. It is the very best medicine to take in the Spring for the blood, and to cleanse the system of all impurity. "I have used Simmons Liver Regulator as a corrector and blood purifier and think it an excellent remedy. I always keep it on hand to take in preference to any other medicine."—I. M. Hysell, Middleport, Ohio.

—The COURIER force, from proprietor to devil, are indebted to our up-to-date grocer, M. E. Garrett, for a generous supply of peaches and plums. The finest of fruits in the market can always be found at his store. Today's shipment is simply elegant, and the variety is large, including peaches, plums, apricots, muskmelons, watermelons, etc, etc. Mr. Garrett has thanks from the COURIER force for this choicest of treats.

—It is believed that a separate receiver will be asked for that part of the B. & O. system that runs across Indiana, that is, the "Baltimore and Ohio and Chicago Railway Co.," from Chicago Junction Ohio to Chicago. This application for a separate receiver, may be filed in a short time, either at Garrett or at Chicago.

—The DAILY is getting to be pretty skillful in finding lost articles. Mr. Sebert advertised a stray heifer. We put the notice first in the DAILY, and were about to move it over into the WEEKLY COURIER, when Mr. S. sent word he had just found it.

—Mrs. P. B. Huffman of North Manchester is in the city visiting friends.

—Columbia City Daily Post:—It is no wonder a number of Auburn people got stuck by a fellow named Green who came there and started a candy kitchen a few months ago. It is a sticky business in more ways than one and the fellow was not all green as might be infered from his name. The unpaid bills will amount to over $200. Green has disappeared.

—George Weeks made a flying visit to Auburn yesterday, reaching here on the Lake Shore afternoon train. He brings word that the family are well, and Lew Eretz who is still with him, is also in good health.

—The state auditor has completed the figures showing the income for the current year of the three state educational institutions from the special tax for higher education under the law of 1895. They are as follows:

Indiana university	$46,780.72
Purdue university	35,085.53
State normal university	35,085.53
Total	$116,951.78

—The sea serpent season has opened up. Last week it appeared in Lake Michigan near north Chicago. And about the same time a similar animal was seen in Cooper Lake near Kingston, N. Y. It is strange that though these animals have been seen more or less since white men settled the country not one has ever been captured or killed. There are many people who refuse to believe there is such a thing.

—Deputy Auditor M. Boland is on the sick list being unable to be at the office.

—If you want to borrow $100 upon good security, see

WALTER C. HARTMAN.

—Niagara Falls claims that the brick pavement of one of its streets has bulged up, caused by the expansion due to the recent extreme heat.

—The Tri-State Normal College will open the fall term August 24. Board, furnished room and tuition, not over $24.65. You can review, or take course studies. Satisfaction guaranteed. Tuition refunded, if you are not satisfied. Address

L. M. SNIFF, A. M. Pres.
Angola, Ind.

—There will be a tent meeting held by the Church of God on the Ward school grounds in Auburn, beginning Wednesday evening July 14 and continuing over two Sundays. Meeting each evening at 7:30 standard time. Free to all. Everybody cordially invited.

—Dr. Chas. E. Miller, optician will again be at F. J. Yesbera's jewelry store, Monday July 19th. Those needing glasses and specially those who have had difficulty to be properly fitted are invited to call.

—Two special excursion trains passed through on the Wabash this morning enroute to Toronto. They were loaded with Epworth Leaguers who go there to attend the annual convention.

—S. H. Hine, the newly appointed treasurer, has made application for an indemnity bond in the sum of $50,000, through Herb D. Weaver's agency, in the Baltimore Bonding and Trust Co. The annual fee cost Mr. Hine $200. This is an additional protection, besides the $250,000 bonds he will give the commissioners.

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs and timber. Highest cash prices paid for same. Address, Lesh, Sanders & Egbert Co., Goshen, Ind. 40

INSTITUTE WORKERS.

Supt. Coe is working up the interests of the county teachers' institute that is to be held here in August. Among the day workers so far engaged are Prof. R. J. Aley of the State University, who will give work in arithmetic during the whole week. Prof. A. R. Charman of the State Normal School, will also be here the week through and do work in the line of "Methods," "Language" and "Grammar"

Two of the ablest lecturers have also been secured. Dr. James Hedley who gave "Sunny Side of Life" here several years ago. This time it will be "What is a Man Worth?" Another will likely be Dr. Frank Bristol who gave such a valuable educational lecture in the recent lecture course at the M. E. Church. There will be one other lecture to be supplied, which will be announced in due time.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

PURELY VEGETABLE.

The cheapest, purest and best family medicine in the world! An effectual specific for all diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Spleen. Regulate the Liver and prevent Chills and Fever, Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice and Nausea.

BAD BREATH!

Nothing is so unpleasant, nothing so common, as a bad breath; and in nearly every case it comes from the stomach, and can be so easily corrected if you will take Simmons Liver Regulator. Do not neglect so sure a remedy for this repulsive disorder. It will also improve your appetite, complexion and general health.

CONSTIPATION

should not be regarded as a trifling ailment—in fact, nature demands the utmost regularity of the bowels, and any deviation from this demand paves the way often to serious danger. It is quite as necessary to remove impure accumulations from the bowels as it is to eat or sleep, and no health can be expected where a costive habit of body prevails.

SICK HEADACHE!

This distressing affliction occurs most frequently. The disturbance of the stomach, arising from the imperfectly digested contents, causes a severe pain in the head, accompanied with disagreeable nausea, and this constitutes what is popularly known as Sick Headache, for the relief of which take Simmons Liver Regulator.

EVERY PACKAGE

Has the Z Stamp in red on the wrapper.

J. H. ZEILIN & CO., Philadelphia.

Treasurer's Bond.

People ask information on this, which of course, the COURIER is the paper to give. Mr. Hine is working hard to get his bond, and is succeeding well. He expects to have it in shape in time to begin work in the office next Monday, July 19. In the meantime the office is still closed.

SIZE OF THE BOND.

No one seems certain on this point. It will have to be at least $200,000. The law says the bond must be twice as great as the amount of money that may be in his hands. And at the recent May settlement as published in the COURIER, the amount of all kinds of funds reported in his hands then was $125,300.40. Twice this would be $250,600.80. But it is not likely this full amount will be asked. Neither the commissioners nor the auditor have fixed the amount so far and all reports that they have are without authority. They are required to demand a bond that they consider "good and sufficient." no matter how large. Mr. Hine has taken out an indemnity bond, of $50,000 which we presume is to make his bondsmen safe. That would have more than saved the bondsmen in the recent cases.

Reducing Stock...

Day Sale 10 Day Sale

To make repairs to room, we offer the following goods at prices

Regardless Of Cost:

5 cent Challies	For 3 cents per yard
8 and 10 cent Dimities	For 5 cents per yard
10 and 12½ cent Dimities and Linens	For 8 cents per yard
12½ and 15 cent Dimities and Crepons	For 10 cents per yard
20 cent Lappet Mulls	For 12½ cents per yard
25 cent Tissue Brodes	For 18 cents per yard
20 cent half-wove Challies	For 10 cents per yard
12½ and 15 cent Taffetta Moire and Pongee's	For 8 cents per yard
12½ cent Percales	For 10 cents per yard
10 cent Percales	For 8 cents per yard
12½ and 10 cent Ginghams	For 8 cents per yard
8 cent Ginghams	For 6 cents per yard
6 cent Ginghams	For 5 cents per yard
5 cent Ginghams	For 4 cents per yard
All of our best 6 cent Dress Prints for 5 cents per yard during this sale
Sheeting Muslin	For 4 and 5 cects per yard

No goods bought during this sale will be taken back or exchanged. These prices are cash only.

Sale From July 14 to 24th

M. JONES & SON,

AUBURN, IND.

Topics of the Times

Guatamala exports about $20,000,000 worth of coffee annually and ships it almost exclusively in bags bought in England and Germany.

A sign put in the Philadelphia trolley cars a few days ago requests passengers to "remain seated until the car stops, and then get off in the direction the car is moving."

A Bronte museum, to contain memorials of the famous family, is to be established in a suite of rooms in Haworth, within a stone's throw of the historic church and parsonage.

The English authorities have begun the work of cutting the new dock at Gibraltar. Some 700 men are employed. When completed it will be capable of holding the largest British war ship.

The exhibition of portraits of beautiful children, which is being held in London at the Grafton gallery, includes some of the best work of Velasquez, Holbein, Gainsborough and Whistler.

Three years ago Kansas beat the record of the greatest wheat raising State in the Union with a product of 70,000,000 bushels of wheat. This year Kansas will get more for her apple crop than from wheat.

An American who saw Ibsen at a court ball in Norway recently says that the author's small figure fairly blazed with stars, crosses, collars, pendants, and other decorations of all kinds from all sources.

Matthew Boulton and James Watt's Soho foundry at Birmingham, where Watt worked out his idea of the steam engine, after an existence of 133 years, is now idle and will soon be broken up and dismantled.

A hunter named Curry has started a beaver farm on Geneva lake, near Cartier, on the Canadian and Pacific railroad. He has now twenty-seven beavers on the farm, and they are apparently thriving under his care.

In Fort Scott there lives a peculiarly mated couple. A young white man 25 years old has married and is living with a colored woman about 40 years old. He is a Swede and weighs 140 pounds. She weighs about 280 pounds.

It is the opinion of one of the most distinguished mining experts in Colorado that the mineral wealth lying beneath the streets of Leadville exceeds the gross amount that has been mined in the entire district to date.

Jabez L. Woodbridge, warden of the jail at Wethersfield, Conn., has patented an automatic gallows. He tested his ghastly invention recently on the person of John Cronin, condemned to death for the murder of Albert Skinner.

The State Bank of Russia will next month dispose by public auction of no fewer than 1,939 estates, upon the mortgages of which the bank has been compelled to foreclose, the owners, nearly all of the noble class, being hopelessly insolvent.

The largest boat ever constructed in Cleveland will soon be commenced by the Globe Iron Works. She will be a steel 400-footer, one of the modern kind of vessels, built in anticipation of a twenty-foot channel, but, perhaps, to carry ore also under the present low water stage.

Georgia will ship about six thousand car loads of watermelons out of the State this season, according to information gathered by the railroad companies. The quality is expected to be above the average. There are 12,000 acres of melons now ripening in the southwestern part of the State.

The California bluejay is to be exterminated, if the edict of the sportsmen of that State may be taken as authority. The bluejay is a beautiful but decidedly destructive bird. It subsists mainly on the eggs of other birds and in this way is doing much to prevent the propagation of game birds.

Cecil Rhodes' estate near Cape Town, South Africa, is laid out on an ambitious scale. Among its features are a preserve for big game, containing lions and antelopes, several miles of fine avenues, a glen carpeted with violets and hydrangeas and a museum of Cape Dutch curios and Matabele relics.

California wines are making a market in many parts of Europe. Sixty barrels of assorted wines were shipped from one district to Switzerland, and the California wine people think this is an especially promising point, because of the proximity of Switzerland to the great French wine-growing regions.

Recent satistics show that the total "banking power," as it is called, of the world is £4,000,000,000, or $20,000,000,000. Of this North America, mainly this country, controls £1,200,000,000, while all Europe, including Great Britain, France, Germany, Belgium and the Netherlands, all the great "capitalist" nations, control but £2,300,000,000.

Within a year the mails between New York and Brooklyn will be whisked back and forth through pneumatic tubes, running from one government building to the other. The pipes will be large enough to admit small pouches, and it is said the cost will not exceed $100,000. The pneumatic delivery of parcels also is under consideration in several large cities.

The smallest watch in the world is owned in England. It measures only seven-sixteenths of an inch in diameter and one-eighth in thickness; the case is of 18-carat gold, chased and engraved, with gold dome and dial; the movement is known as the bar movement, and has a lever escapement. It is fully jeweled in ten holes, and has five other ruby actions.

Gas is very largely used in England for cooking purposes, not only in London, but in country towns. At Maidstone, for instance, at least 28 per cent. of those who use gas have discarded coal for cooking purposes. The gas sent out during the daytime for cooking purposes is 40 per cent. during the summer and just over 50 per cent. during the winter of the total quantity of gas made at the works.

The fact that the banks of Salem, Ore., have recently laid in a supply of cents, so as to be able to make exact change, is a matter for comment in the local newspapers, one of which remarks that "it is getting to be pretty close picking" there. It is only a very few years since the smallest coin in use anywhere west of the Missouri was the nickel, and even now in many of the further western cities the humble cent is despised.

A fishing schooner arrived at Gloucester Saturday whose crew certainly experienced fishermen's luck. They went down the coast mackerel fishing, and after cruising about for two weeks had just fifteen barrels to show for their labor. The skipper, evidently feeling that there was a Jonah on board, got disgusted and pointed his schooner for home, and all the way to Gloucester "he didn't do a thing" but catch mackerel, and the crew shared the proceeds of over 300 barrels.

ASSERTED HIMSELF.

The Old Man Didn't Count for Much, but He Owned the House.

It was Sunday afternoon, and the old gentleman responded in person when the doorbell rang. Furthermore, the old gentleman was not in the best of humor. However, of course the young man didn't know that, or he would have been ready to dodge.

The young man, it may be explained, just to show that everything was in accordance with the rules of polite society, never had met the old gentleman, but he had met the old gentleman's wife and the old gentleman's daughter and had been invited to call whenever he was in the city, and it so happened that he was in the city this lovely Sunday afternoon.

"Is—aw—Miss Brown in?" asked the young man.

Now it so happened that the old gentleman had his opinion of anyone who said "aw," and it was not a flattering one, either. Consequently he growled out something to the effect that she was not in.

"So sorry, you know," said the young man.

The old gentleman didn't know, but he took it for granted and made no further comment.

Then it seemed to dawn upon the young man, who was fumbling for a card, that perhaps he had made a mistake.

"This is—aw—her house, isn't it?" he asked.

"It is not," returned the old gentleman, bluntly.

"Oh—aw—beg a thousand pardons," said the young man. "Thought it was, you know. So sorry. My mistake."

He was turning away when another thought occurred to him, and he quickly turned back again.

"Can you—aw—tell me where she—aw—lives?" he asked.

"Here," replied the old gentleman.

"But you told me——"

"I told you it wasn't her house, and it isn't her house," interrupted the old gentleman. "It's my house. I don't count for much in it when she and her mother are both here, but it's mine just the same. She may get it some time, but I don't want any out-of-town dudes figuring on it just yet. There are enough in the neighborhood who are going to be disappointed."

As usual, however, the young man was equal to the occasion.

He said, "Aw!"—Chicago Post.

Cross-Examined.

Mr. Barrie tells us in "Margaret Ogilvy" how very difficult it was to make his mother lead the easy life which her age and delicate health demanded. His description of one morning, when he had left her to take a long walk, is perhaps a sample of the way she hoodwinked him.

In an hour or so I return, and perhaps find her in bed, according to promise; but still I am suspicious. The way to her detection is circuitous.

"I'll need to be rising now," she says, with a yawn that may be genuine.

"How long have you been in bed?"

"You saw me go.'

"And then I saw you at the window. Did you go straight back to bed?"

"Surely I had that much sense!"

"The truth!"

"I might have looked at the clock first."

"It is a terrible thing to have a mother who prevaricates. Have you been lying down ever since I left?"

"Thereabout."

"What does that mean exactly?"

"Off and on."

"Have you been to the garret?"

"What should I do in the garret?"

"But have you?"

"I might just have looked up the garret stair."

"You have been redding up the garret again!"

"Not what you would call a redd up."

"O woman, woman! I believe you have not been in bed at all."

"You see me in it."

"My opinion is that you jumped into bed when you heard me open the door."

"Havers!"

"Did you?"

"No."

"Well, then, when you heard me at the gate?"

"It might have been when I heard you at the gate!"

Well Done, My Lad.

At a certain well-known school it was the custom, many years ago, to make a boy who was in the black books stand out in the middle of the hall during dinner time, dinnerless, while the other boys dined. It was also the custom for each boy to say grace in turn.

One day a poor, dinnerless boy had also to say grace. Pointing with his thumb over his shoulder he said it:

"For what they are going to receive, the Lord make them truly thankful!"

"Sit down, my boy, and have your dinner," sang out the amused head master. And the boys sprang to their feet and cheered him long and loudly.

A Curious Book.

"The Gold and Silver Gospels" is the name of a very peculiar book now preserved in the Upsala library in Sweden. It is printed with metal type on violet colored vellum, the letters being silver and the initials gold. When it was printed, by whom and what were the methods employed are questions which have great interest for the curious, but have never been answered.

You should treat a book agent as a woman should treat a man who wished to kill her: refuse to discuss the question at issue.

The higher cherries grow on a tree the better they look.

WINDSOR CASTLE, THE HISTORIC HOME OF ENGLISH ROYALTY.

INDIANS NO GOOD AS SOLDIERS.

The Last of Them Have Been Mustered Out of the Service.

When the last organization of Indian soldiers was mustered out of service the other day the end was reached of what was once considered a promising scheme to make the Indians of real use to the United States government. The idea of enlisting Indians originated with an officer who fell in the battle of Wounded Knee, in 1891. He had organized several companies of Indians and these under his guidance had made excellent cavalrymen. After his death the Indians seemed discouraged and deteriorated in the service. The idea of their enlistment, however, seemed popular, and other companies were formed. At first the Indians were greatly pleased, but gradually decadence appeared. The Indian began to show a decided disinclination to abide by military discipline. The blare of the trumpets and the rattling charge of cavalry were his delight and pleasure, but when it came to getting up at a certain hour every morning, going to bed at the sound of a bugle, and, above all, keeping neat and clean, army life began to lose its joys.

The Indian is at no time a disciplinarian. Authority to be acceptable must rest very lightly, indeed, upon him. So he refused to learn anything about Upton's Tactics, and simply disregarded everything that he could. The summary punishment that follows these offenses—the guardhouse—filled his soul with wrath, and he began to get sullen and bitter and ugly.

It is a characteristic of the Indian that he prefers to eat whenever possible, and those possibilities cannot be too frequent to suit him. Uncle Sam allows his soldiers liberal rations, but the Indian cavalrymen astonished their superiors by demanding double rations, claiming that as Indians they were entitled to one ration and as soldiers to another. The uproar the Indians raised finally reached Washington and orders were issued that all Indians should be mustered out of service when their time of enlistment expired, and be refused re-enlistment. They were to be permitted to serve as scouts if they liked, but that was all.

Thus one after another the Indian troops were mustered out until only Troop L, of the Seventh Cavalry, remained. This troop, shown in the illustration, from the Detroit Free Press, has now ceased to exist.

UNCLE SAM'S LAST INDIAN TROOP.

Our French Pioneers.

The long train of evils which had extended with distressing uniformity through every stage of the adventure was not to end here, says Lippincott's. The diversity of the obstacles presented would seem to suggest that all the causes of evil were in league to defeat the purposes of Napoleon's banished followers. The curse of destiny which rested upon their fallen idol seemed to follow like an avenging spirt in the wilderness wake, dispensing everywhere with pitiless hand the unhappy fruits of ruin. A new form of disaster was presented in the invasion of a horde of unprincipled American squatters, who, without the shadow of title, occupied the lands of the French, meeting every attempt at ejectment with insulting and aggressive defiance. Several lawsuits arose between the colonists and these petty usurpers and although the Alabama Supreme Court decided in favor of the grantees it is stated that the latter became worn out with controversies provoked and allowed the intruders in many cases to retain possession for a paltry consideration. The attempted cultivation of the grape and olive resulted in ruinous failure—not, however, from indifference of the colonists to comply faithfully with this sole condition of their grant.

Fluids with Meals.

The arguments presented by many writers seem to prove that the moderate taking of fluids with the food at meals is not without benefit. But the importance of the thorough mastication of food before it is presented to the stomach must never be overlooked. If this is interfered with in any way by the use of liquids, we must promptly prohibit their indulgence.

Fluids may be taken ad libitum during meals by those whose digestive powers will allow it, but such persons should keep in mind that the strongest stomach may be abused too far, while those whose stomachs are already unequal to a severe strain should be especially careful as to the quantity of fluid imbibed with the food.

The saliva is the best lubricator for the food while it is in the mouth, both because of its starch-digesting powers and because its alkalinity serves to stimulate a copious flow of the acid secretion of the stomach.

Any habit, therefore, which permits the entrance of food into the stomach before it is thoroughly incorporated with saliva must be pronounced pernicious in the extreme.

If we cannot afford the time necessary for masticating our food properly and incorporating it thoroughly with saliva, it would be better to take nothing but broths and similar foods. The use of water and other liquids as lubricators is not to be tolerated.

On the other hand, if we bear in mind the whole mechanism of digestion, it will readily be seen that in cases of weakness or want of tone on the part of the muscles of the stomach, when every part of the food cannot be properly presented to the action of the digestive juices, the introduction into the stomach of a moderate amount of water may be of no slight benefit. The mass of food will become more pliable, and so more easily operated upon by the weakened muscles.

Rubies.

The people of Burmah believe that the ruby which you wear in your ring is a kind of fruit which will ripen if you give it time. They say that most rubies do not ripen simply because they are not allowed to do so. If you want to "ripen" the ruby in your ring, according to the Burmese idea, you must take your ring and lay it in the sun for one month without disturbing at all, and at the end of that time it will be "ripe" and good to eat.

GIRLS LEARNING HOW TO ROW.

Coeds at Cornell Have a Crew Hard at Work This Year.

The famous crew of girls who have upheld the honor of Wellesley college in rowing for years have a rival this season. Cornell girls are hard at work training, and this fall will probably see an intercollegiate rowing match of girl students, in which Ithaca hopes to win.

For about three years rowing has been somewhat of a fad with the Cornell girls, but they never settled down to hard work until this year. Early in the spring a crew was organized, and Coxswain Colson, trainer of the regular crew, was engaged as trainer. The girls went at the rowing machines in the gymnasium weeks ago, and now they are at work on the water. Already the good effects of the exercise have become apparent and the girls of the crew are becoming strong and heavy. They expect to be trained down to as fine a point as are the boys of the varsity crew.

CORNELL'S GIRL CREW IN THE BOAT.

The Cornell crew is now composed of Miss Dunning, bow; Miss Jewell; Miss McNary, captain; Miss Whipple, Miss Kellar, Miss Wait; Miss Whipple, stroke, and Coxwains Miss Young and Miss Rhodes. The weight of the crew ranges from 130 to 160 pounds, the average being about 145 pounds, and "not an ounce of fat in the boat," as one terribly earnest young woman expressed it.

Darwinian Theory in China.

As in everything else, the Chinese have their own and original Darwinian theory. Explaining the movements of winds, rains, clouds and of the earth itself in a unique way, they go on to trace the descent of the human kind. When the earth became fitted to sustain life small herbs were the first to put in an appearance. Then came strong shrubs and trees. As the body of man, unwashed for years, breeds vermin, so the mountains, unlaved by the seas, bred worms and insects, greater creatures always developing from the lesser. In the course of untold ages beetles became turtles, earthworms became serpents and high-flying insects became birds. Mice developed into wildcats, and the wildcats into tigers. The mantis was by some method transformed into an ape, and some of the apes were finally born hairless. A hairless ape playing with two flints accidentally kindled a fire by striking them together. With the fire thus obtained he cooked food, and the eating of food thus prepared made him more strong and intellectual than his fellow ape.

Dragon's Horn Trumpet.

Germany is not only fertile in composers, but it would seem also in instrument-makers. It is but a short time since Ritter's viola-alta became known, since that we have heard something about a violette and a 'cellono, or similar names, and the newest invention is a dragon horn trumpet. The new instrument is oval-shaped and terminates in a horn, representing a dragon's head, with its jaws wide open, and a curved tongue in the middle. The cup-shaped mouthpiece is bent like that of the bass clarinet. The dragon horn trumpet possesses three valves and an apparatus for the regulation of the sounds, which allows the player to pass, without ceasing to blow, from the loudest forte to the softest piano. The timbre is described as partaking of that of the corno di caccia and that of the trumpet—whence the name. The happy inventor is C. W. Moritz, of Berlin.—Berliner Signale.

Small Oxen.

One of the greatest curiosities among the domesticated animals of Ceylon is a breed of cattle known to the zoologist as the "sacred running oxen." They are the dwarfs of the whole ox family, the largest specimens of the species never exceeding thirty inches in height.

BETTER THAN GOLD

ARE THE STEEL PENS MADE BELOW, AS MANY OUR CUSTOMERS.

OVER FIVE THOUSAND NATIONAL, STATE AND PRIVATE BANKS IN THE UNITED STATES are constantly being supplied with our pens, which fact alone guarantees their excellence.

PATENT APPLIED FOR.

Cut of inkstand shows our Popular No. 3, Automatic. Write us, enclosing stamps, and we will send you sample pens and tell you how to get the above stand without cost.

THESE ARE THE STRONG POINTS:

DURABILITY.
QUALITY.
SMOOTHNESS.
UNIFORMITY.

Take No Substitute.

If your dealer cannot supply you, send to this office, enclosing price, and we will fill your order, and guarantee safe delivery.

Price, per gross (1 box) $ 1.00
" 1-2 doz. boxes, 5.40
" 1 doz. boxes, 10.00

W. L. MASON & CO.,
(INCORPORATED.)
MANUFACTURERS STATIONERS' SUPPLIES.
KEENE, N. H.

ESTABLISHED, 1848.

D. A. ALTICK'S SON,

Manufacturer of High Grade Buggies, Surries, Phaetons, &c.

We claim to build, not the CHEAPEST, but the BEST for the money.

All we ask is, a TRIAL ORDER.

Send for catalogue, and by mentioning this paper we will allow you an EXTRA DISCOUNT.

D. A. ALTICK'S SON,
LANCASTER, PENN.

The Chamberlin Improved Screw Stump Puller.

The only practical stump puller made, pulls any and all classes and sizes of stumps. Four different sizes always in stock. When you buy get the best. Manufactured and sold by the Chamberlin Manufacturing Company of Olean, N. Y.

Write for catalogue and prices.

Chamberlin Manufacturing Company, - Olean, N. Y.

Relay Bicycles

Have more points of merit, than any other High Grade Bicycle.

FULL OF GRACE AND BEAUTY.

Every Wheel Guaranteed. Send for Catalogue.

Relay M'f'g Co., Reading, Pa.

NATURE'S REMEDY

CURES IN THE RIGHT WAY, BY REGULATING THE LIVER AND KIDNEYS, AND PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

It is a positive cure for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, Chills, and all diseases arising from a diseased liver or the kidneys, or impure blood.

YOUR MONEY BACK Is the plan on which it is sold. If after taking the entire box of medicine you do not think you have had your money's worth, send us back the guarantee, which you will find in the box, and we will send you a check for $1.00 by return mail.

It is put up in two forms, powder and tablets. The tablets are the easier to take, requiring no mixing. Price $1.00 for 180 doses of either kind. Sent post paid upon receipt of price. Send 10 cents for ten days' treatment and copy of Nature's Guide to Health.

A. H. LEWIS MEDICINE CO., - Bolivar, Mo.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

Made This Change.

DO YOU suffer from Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emission, Shrunken or Undeveloped Organs, Youthful Errors, Excessive Use of Tobacco or Opium? Sent by mail on receipt of price. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

WE GUARANTEE to cure you or refund money, and we stand by our guarantee.

Sold at $1 per Box, 6 Boxes for $5.

Sold By Fischler & Son

WHY NOT BUY THE BEST?

Sterling positively will not injure your hands of the finest fabric. This has been proven by actual tests. Clothes washed with it become white and odorless. Matchless for flannels. Superb for glassware. Will remove stains from marble and make your floors white as chalk.

Try it that it may speak for itself.

$2.50 Cleveland ..TO.. BUFFALO

....Also Daily Line Between....

Cleveland and Toledo, Via "C. & B. LINE."

Steamers "City of Buffalo," (new) "State of Ohio" and "State of N. Y."

DAILY TIME TABLE.
Sunday Included May 30 to Oct 25

Lv Cleveland 7:00 p. m. | Lv Buffalo 7:30 p. m.
Ar Buffalo 7:30 a. m. | Ar Cleveland 7:30 a. m.

Central Standard Time.

Take the "C. & B. Line" steamers and enjoy a refreshing night's rest when enroute to Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, New York, Boston, Albany, 1000 Islands, or any Eastern or Canadian Point.

Cheap Excursions Weekly to Niagara Falls.

Send 4 cents for tourist pamphlet.
For further information ask your nearest Coupon Ticket Agent, or address.

W. F. HERMAN, Gen. Pass. Agt.
T. F. NEWMAN, Gen. Manager.
Cleveland, Ohio.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies. Especially recommended to married Ladies. Ask for DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler — Son.

JOB PRINTING

LETTER HEADS, BILL HEADS, CARDS, ENVELOPES, CIRCULARS.

Frills of Fashion.

A novel idea is to have one ruffle around the bottom of a skirt, nine inches wide, with three above three inches wide. When the ruffles are narrow they are absolutely tiny.

Apropos of the craze for tucks, have a cluster of three two-inch-wide ones around the bottom of a skirt, again at the knee, and just below the hips. Trim the bodice to carry out the same idea.

WISE WOMEN.

Those Who Heed the First Symptoms of Nervous Derangement.

Special from Mrs. Pinkham.

A dull, aching pain at the lower part of the back and a sensation of little rills of heat, or chills running down the spine, are symptoms of general womb derangement.

If these symptoms are not accompanied by leucorrhœa, they are precursors of that weakness. It is worse than folly to neglect these symptoms. Any woman of common sense will take steps to cure herself.

She will realize that her generative system is in need of help, and that a good restorative medicine is a positive necessity. It must be a medicine with specific virtues. As a friend, a woman friend, let me advise the use of Lydia E Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If your case has progressed so that a troublesome discharge is already established, do not delay, take the Vegetable Compound at once, so as to tone up your whole nervous system; you can get it at any reliable drug store. You ought also to use a local application, or else the corrosive discharge will set up an inflammation and hardening of the parts. Mrs. Pinkham's Sanative Wash is put up in packets at 25 cents each. To relieve this painful condition this Sanative Wash is worth its weight in gold.

MRS. GEORGE W. SHEPARD, Watervliet, N. Y., says: "I am glad to state that I am cured from the worst form of female weakness. I was troubled very much with leucorrhœa, bearing-down pains and backache. Before using Mrs. Pinkham's Remedies it seemed that I had no strength at all. I was in pain all over. I began to feel better after taking the first dose of Vegetable Compound. I have used five bottles, and I feel like a new woman. I know if other suffering women would only try it, it would help them."

NEW PRICES ON Columbia Bicycles

The Standard of the World.

1897 COLUMBIAS Best Bicycles made,	REDUCED TO	$75
1896 COLUMBIAS Second only to 1897 models,	REDUCED TO	60
1897 HARTFORDS Equal to most Bicycles,	REDUCED TO	50
HARTFORDS Pattern 2,	REDUCED TO	45
HARTFORDS Pattern 1,	REDUCED TO	40
HARTFORDS Patterns 5 and 6,	REDUCED TO	30

Nothing in the market approached the value of these Bicycles at the former prices; what are they now?

POPE MFG. CO., Hartford, Conn.

Catalogue free from any Columbia dealer; by mail from us for one 2-cent stamp.

NEBRASKA FARM LANDS. A dry healthy climate, free from malaria, an abundance of pure water, a soil which is unsurpassed for richness, and is easily cultivated, yielding all varieties of crops. That is what Nebraska offers to the home seeker. Lands are cheap now. Send for a pamphlet describing Nebraska, mailed free on application to P. S. EUSTIS, General Passenger Agent, C. B. & Q. R. R., Chicago.

$75 RIDE A CRESCENT BICYCLE. $50

Western Wheel Works, MAKERS CHICAGO ILLINOIS. CATALOGUE FREE

AN EASY WAY TO GET A BICYCLE

You can earn a HIGH GRADE BICYCLE by writing advertisements at home.

For the best advertisement suited to stimulate our business, we will give a High Grade Bicycle.

Address for particulars, with 5 cts. to cover postage, LOUIS RAGSDALE & SON, Fort Wayne, Indiana.

PATENTS H. B. WILSON & Co., Wash ington, D.C. No attorney fee till patent obtained. 36-page book free.

MEET IN MILWAUKEE.

NATIONAL EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION CONVENES.

Twelve Thousand Present at the Opening Session—Warm Welcome Extended to the Delegates by the City's High Officials.

Throngs of Teachers.

In the vast auditorium of the gayly decorated exposition building in Milwaukee the thirty-sixth annual convention of the National Education Association was formally opened Tuesday night. It was the launching of an event of dual brilliancy. The people of a city and State that have ever fittingly responded to the demands made upon their hospitality and their resources paid tribute to their guests in cordial love and greeting. The delegates whose presence had inspired the magnificence of the welcome formed an array that was a composite picture of intellect and of merit. It was an inspiring scene.

When the great throngs had pressed through the doorways for more than an hour and when no more could enter, 12,000 persons confronted the stage. From the edge of the platform, buried behind a wealth of palms and other tropical foliage, to the furthermost galleries there were tiers upon tiers of faces. Into every cranny of the immense hall, never before so tested, were massed members of the multitude. In the long rows of chairs that extended the length and breadth of the place below were the educational forces, and all about them and in the galleries were the people that had assembled to greet them. On the platform were distinguished public men, speakers and guests.

Teachers from the little red schoolhouses in the rural districts, schoolma'ams from the big cities and educators of national reputation from the universities and famous institutions of learning met and mingled with each other. They assembled to listen to suggestions for better educational methods, to tell what they knew of the working of the present systems, to learn and to advise, and, from a vast or limited experience, to add something to the efforts of the best educators to insinuate rather than force knowledge into the minds of the young.

THE MEETING IN THE EXPOSITION BUILDING.

First General Session.

The first general session was opened with prayer by Rabbi S. Hecht, and after the singing of "America" by the immense male chorus, composed of over 300 voices from the leading musical societies of the city, which was lustily applauded by the 12,000 teachers in attendance at the gathering, the addresses of welcome and responses thereto were delivered and met with a kind reception from the audience.

A number of pleasant things were said by Gov. Scofield, Mayor Rauschenberger, State Superintendent of Public Instruction J. Q. Emery and H. O. R. Siefert, superintendent of public schools in Milwaukee, in welcoming the visiting educators to the fair Cream City. The address of Mayor Rauschenberger was particularly calculated to tickle the fancy of the visitors, and called forth a generous round of applause. The responses by A. E. Winship of Boston, J. L. Holloway of Arkansas, Aaron Gove of Denver and Albert G. Lane of Chicago were also in a happy vein and calculated to make the Milwaukee people feel good over the great success of this year's convention of the Educational Association, as well as content with the manner in which they arranged for the reception of the immense throng of people now being entertained in the city.

After these formalities had been gone through with President Charles R. Skinner delivered his annual address, and Newton S. Dougherty of Peoria followed him with a paper on "The Study of History in Our Public Schools." Both were masterly expositions of the topics treated, and formed a fitting intellectual finale to the evening's program.

Mayor Rauschenberger only echoed the sentiments of every Milwaukeean when he said every citizen was proud of the fact that his native heath had been selected as the rendezvous of the 20,000 bright pedagogues. The addresses by Gov. Scofield, Principal Siefert and State Superintendent Emery were brief and extended to the visitors a hearty welcome to the city and State.

In responding to these words of welcome Prof. A. E. Winship, of the American Institute of Instruction, said it was an honor to extend thanks to the people of Milwaukee in the name of the institution he represented, the oldest teachers' association in the world.

Deliberations Begun.

After another musical selection by the male chorus the deliberations proper of the convention were begun with addresses by President Skinner and Newton C. Dougherty. The topic dwelt upon by President Skinner was "The Best Education for the Masses." Prof. Skinner referred to the development of educational institutions in this country, until now it is no longer necessary for any person to go abroad for his schooling. He placed great stress upon the importance of properly educating the children of the masses in the right direction, to the end that they shall become fully equipped for exercising the duties of citizenship and fulfilling the obligations due their country and society. Newton C. Dougherty of Peoria followed President Skinner in a timely address on "The Study of History in Our Public Schools."

The second day's session of the National Council of Education, which is recognized as the senate of the Educational Association, attracted a large assemblage of distinguished educators to Temple Emanu-El in the morning and afternoon. "University Ideals" was the subject of three papers read at the morning session. Prof. A. T. Ormond, of Princeton University, read the first paper. President James H. Baker, of the University of Colorado, presented the second address. He said that the university represents the philosophy of a people at a given epoch and their political, social and industrial tendencies. The third of the series of addresses was delivered by Prof. Joseph Swain, of the University of Indiana, and formerly of the faculty of Stanford University.

At the afternoon meeting of the council the subject discussed was election in general education, and an address on the subject was delivered by E. E. White of Columbus, Ohio. He gave his views as to the policy of permitting the student to step aside from set courses of study and mark out his own line of research and investigation.

At 2:30 in the afternoon the annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the N. E. A. took place. Treasurer J. C. McNeill of West Superior reported that the total income of the association for the year amounted to $20,540.87, and the total expenditures to $19,948.16, leaving a cash balance of $592.71. During the meeting of the Executive Committee of the Educational Association it was reported that $4,000 had been added to the treasury during the year, and that the reserve fund of the organization now amounts to over $60,000.

GOVERNMENT CROP REPORT.

Favorable Weather Helps Growth in Northern and Western Regions.

The following crop bulletin is based on the reports of the directors of the climate and crop sections:

In the States of the central valleys, lake region and New England the week has been very favorable to crops, the high temperature being especially favorable to corn. In the Southern States the conditions have been less favorable, the excessive heat and absence of rainfall proving injurious to most crops. On the Pacific coast the week has been very favorable.

In the principal corn States of the central valleys corn has made rapid growth, but in the Southern States it is suffering for rain, in some sections seriously. Excessive rains in Missouri have retarded cultivation and the crop is still backward in Minnesota. In Texas, while the late crop is suffering from drought, the early planted is matured and a good yield assured. Cotton is needing rain over the greater portion of the cotton belt. The bulk of the winter wheat crop is now harvested south of the fortieth parallel, about the latitude of the central portions of Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. Excessive rains have retarded harvesting in Missouri and caused further damage to that in shock. Good progress with harvesting has been made in Nebraska and Northern Indiana, and harvesting will soon begin in Michigan. The crop is maturing on the North Pacific coast, and in California, where harvesting is progressing rapidly, the grain is shrunken less than was anticipated. Spring wheat has continued to make favorable progress.

FATAL WRECK IN PITTSBURG.

Street Cars Collide, with Severe Injuries to Passengers.

Four people were fatally injured and eighteen or twenty others were hurt in a street car wreck Tuesday night on the Forbes street line of the Consolidated Traction Company at Pittsburg. The wreck occurred on the Soho hill. An Atwood street car had gone about halfway down the hill when it jumped the track. Closely following it came an open summer car with a trailer, both densely packed with people. Before the second train could be stopped it crashed into the derailed car. Hardly had the first collision happened before a third car, heavily laden, came down the hill at full speed and forced its way into the wreck ahead. It was the second crash that did most of the damage.

Told in a Few Lines.

The twentieth annual convention of the American Flint Glass Workers' Union was held at Pittsburg.

Richard Adams, a wealthy Moweaqua, Ill., farmer and an old soldier, died from injuries received in a runaway.

Mrs. B. F. Willey is dead at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lester F. Bahr, of South Bend, Ind. She was 97 years of age.

Mrs. Hannah Sherfey Farnsworth, of Washington, Iowa, is dead, aged 80. She lived with her son-in-law, W. N. Hood, the postmaster.

The wild gas well north of Anderson, Ind., which caught fire Saturday night, is still burning, and a great deal of damage is being done.

David Perkins, a veteran of the Mexican war and a member of Company D, Fifty-fourth Illinois Veteran Volunteers, during the civil war, is dead, aged 72 years.

Thomas Morgan, an iron worker at Youngstown, Ohio, and his wife were driving, when their horse backed the rig over Manning's Heights, and both were killed.

John Henry Breens, an eccentric old man living alone on his farm near Auburn, Ind., was found unconscious and badly beaten. Murder was evidently intended.

When the turnkey at the Joliet, Ill., police station opened up the cells he found Michael Sullivan dead. He had fallen from his berth with his head twisted under his arm.

Property valued at $75,000 has been assigned by the J. F. Crawford Lumber Company of Mexico, Mo., subject to debts for amounts aggregating $60,000. Calhway, Independence, St. Charles and Louisiana banks held notes.

TARIFF BILL PASSES.

SENATE APPROVES THE DINGLEY MEASURE.

Final Ballot Shows Thirty-eight Ayes and Twenty-Eight Noes—It Now Goes to the House for Further Consideration.

Bill Goes Through.

By the decisive vote of 38 to 28 the tariff bill was passed in the United States Senate shortly before 5 o'clock Wednesday. The culmination of the long and arduous struggle had excited the keenest interest, and the floor and the galleries of the Senate chamber were crowded by those anxious to witness the closing scene. Speaker Reed, Chairman Dingley and many of the members of the House of Representatives were in the rear area, while every seat in the galleries save those reserved for foreign representatives was occupied.

The main interest centered in the final vote, and aside from this there was little of a dramatic character in the debate. The early part of the day was spent on amendments of comparatively minor importance, the debate branching into financial and anti-trust channels. By 4 o'clock the Senators began manifesting their impatience by calls for "vote," "vote," and soon thereafter the last amendment was disposed of and the final vote began. There were many interruptions as pairs were arranged, and then at 4:55 o'clock the Vice President arose and announced the passage of the bill—yeas, 38; nays, 28. There was no demonstration, but a few scattered handclaps were given as the crowds dispersed.

Following is the vote cast:

YEAS.

Allison, Baker, Burrows, Carter, Clark, Cullom, Davis, Deboe, Elkins, Fairbanks, Foraker, Gallinger, Hale, Hanna, Hawley, Jones (Nev.), Lodge, McBride, McEnery, McMillan, Mantle, Mason, Morrill, Nelson, Penrose, Perkins, Platt (Conn.), Platt (N. Y.), Pritchard, Proctor, Quay, Sewell, Shoup, Spooner, Warren, Wellington, Wetmore, Wilson—38.

NAYS.

Bacon, Bate, Berry, Caffery, Cannon, Chilton, Clay, Cockrell, Faulkner, Gray, Harris (Kan.), Jones (Ark.), Kenny, Lindsay, Mallory, Martin, Mills, Mitchell, Morgan, Pasco, Pettus, Rawlins, Roach, Turner, Turple, Vest, Walthall, White—28.

The following pairs were announced, the first named would have voted for the bill and the last named against it:

Aldrich and Murphy, Chandler and McLaurin, Frye and Gorman, Gear and Smith, Hansbrough and Daniel, Hoar and Harris (Tenn.), Thurston and Tillman, Wolcott and George.

An analysis of the final vote shows that the affirmative was cast by 35 Republicans, 2 silver Republicans, Jones (Nev.) and Mantle, and 1 Democrat, McEnery. The negative vote was cast by 25 Democrats, 2 Populists, Harris (Kan.), and Turner, and 1 silver Republican, Cannon. Eight Republicans were paired for the bill and eight Democrats against it. The Senators present and not voting were: Populists, 5, viz., Allen, Butler, Heitfeld, Kyle and Stewart; silver Republicans, 2, viz., Teller and Pettigrew.

Following the passage of the bill a resolution was agreed to asking the House for a conference, and Senators Allison, Aldrich, Platt (Conn.), Burrows, Jones (Nev.), Vest, Jones (Ark.), and White were named as conferees on the part of the Senate.

The tariff debate began May 25, on which day Mr. Aldrich, in behalf of the Finance Committee, made the opening statement. The actual consideration of the bill began the next day, and debate has been continuous since then, covering six weeks and one day. It has been notable in some respects, although it has lacked many of the dramatic and oratorical features marking former debates. From the outset the advocates of the bill refrained from set speeches, and the discussion was narrowed to a consideration of rates and schedules, rather than general principles. Mr. Aldrich's illness took him from the chamber after the first day, and since then the bill has been in immediate charge of Mr. Allison. The opposition has been directed in the main by Mr. Jones (Ark.) and Mr. Vest (Mo.), while Senators White, Caffery, Gray and Allen have frequently figured in the debate. The bill as it goes back to the House re-enacts the anti-trust section of the Wilson law, while the reciprocity and retaliatory provisions are substituted for those of the House.

One of the most important new provisions added by the Senate is that placing a stamp tax on bonds, debentures and certificates of stock. Aside from these more important changes the bill as it goes back to the House has 874 amendments, of various degrees of importance, which must be reconciled between the two branches of Congress.

J. H. R. Molson, a wealthy banker of Montreal, has given $155,000 to Canadian charities.

The Crown Princess of Sweden has taken to bicycle riding for her health, and has already found the exercise beneficial.

The French ambassador to Great Britain is the best paid ambassador in the world, his yearly salary being $60,000.

Peter L. Holst of Chicago, a native of Norway, is the oldest man to apply for naturalization in this country. He is 92 years old.

The Rev. Henry Rupp, now in his 93d year, is the oldest preacher in Illinois, and still preaches every Sunday, being strong and vigorous.

Gen. Benjamin Prentiss, the "hero of Shiloh," at one time one of the wealthiest men in Illinois, is said to be in meager circumstances.

A report that Ruskin's mind is becoming feeble is denied. He is thoughtful and quiet, it is said, but his intelligence is not at all impaired.

The will of Mrs. Sarah Withers of Bloomington, Ind., bequeaths $40,000 to found a library in Nicholasville, Ky., where she was born.

Dr. Emma Wakefield, who has just successfully passed an examination, is the first colored woman to be licensed to practice medicine in Louisiana.

Rev. O. W. Hutchinson of Watertown, Mass., has declined the presidency of Grant University, Chattanooga, Tenn., to which he was recently elected.

J. S. Cathon, of 126 Superior street, Cleveland, Ohio, was killed at Denver by falling from the observatory of the Equitable Building, a distance of 125 feet.

Escaped a Fine for Contempt.

Judge Murphy was trying a case in San Rafael once. It was a murder case, and bitterly contested. It had not proceeded very far before the attorneys got to loggerheads. The attorney for the defense did his best to intimidate the attorney for the prosecution, and the prosecuting attorney retaliated with all his might. Finally matters got to such a pitch that the attorney for the prosecution turned upon his opponent and called him down in open court. Judge Murphy interrupted, saying:

"Gentlemen, gentlemen, this won't do. This sort of thing is very disrespectful to the Court. This is no place for such exhibitions. If you gentlemen have any differences to settle, settle them out of court."

The attorney for the defense immediately rose and said: "We have no differences, if your Honor please."

"If your Honor please," said the prosecuting attorney, "I wish to say that we have differences. And I wish to give notice that when court adjourns I intend to crack that man's head over there."

Judge Murphy exploded. "How dare you, sir? How dare you? This is the grossest contempt of court. How dare you come here and attempt to terrify counsel? I fine you $50, sir."

The attorney replied: "This is rather hard on me, if your Honor please. Your Honor distinctly suggested that I should settle my differences with this man out of court, and I gave notice of my intention to do so. That is all. I have the highest respect and appreciation of your Honor's judgment in such matters, and I felt proud to accept your Honor's advice."

Judge Murphy was not proof against such flattery, and the fine was promptly remitted.

One on Gov. Atkinson.

One of the best stories yet heard on Gov. Atkinson was told by himself to a party of admirers who were chatting with him in the parlor of the hotel at Cochran on his return from his recent visit to the Chautauqua at Hawkinsville. The story is such a good one that it is worth repeating.

"It was during my recent inspection of the convict camps," said the Governor. "Among other places I visited were the coal mines, and in order to make a thorough inspection it was necessary to go down into the mines and see the convicts at work. Two guards accompanied me down into the mines. They showed me everything of interest, and finally took me to where the convicts were at work. As we approached them one of the convicts rushed over to me, crying: 'Good Lord, Bill Atkinson as sure as I live! I never expected to see you here. What on earth, Bill, did they convict you of doing?' I readily recognized the man as one whom I had known since my boyhood."—Jackson (Ga.) Argus.

Sound Reasons for Approval.

There are several cogent reasons why the medical profession recommend and the public prefer Hostetter's Stomach Bitters above the ordinary cathartics. It does not drench and weaken the bowels, but assists rather than forces nature to act; it is botanic and safe; its action is never preceded by an internal earthquake like that produced by a drastic purgative. For forty-five years past it has been a household remedy for liver, stomach and kidney trouble.

When a Man Becomes Aged.

A man of 66 is "aged," according to the Supreme Court of Georgia, which reasons it out this way: "While the term 'aged,' as applied to human beings, is not for all purposes susceptible of precise definition, and while it is not practicable to arbitrarily fix a period of life at which the condition of being aged may be said to have certainly begun, it is safe to hold that a man 66 years old is entitled to exemption of his property from levy and sale under that clause of the Constitution (civil code, section 5,912) allowing this right to 'every aged or infirm person.' This is true, although the applicant may be 'a hale and hearty man.'"

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is taken internally. Price 75 cents.

A Miner's Luck.

Montana's Erickson is a miner living near Hassel, the mining camp located in the vicinity of Diamond Hill mine. Last Friday, while passing through a dry gulch that branches from the main or St. Louis gulch, he found a nugget of gold that, as nuggets go, was a regular Jumbo. His foot struck a yellowish object lying on the dry sand bar. It emitted a dull sound, different from that made when one's toes collide with a small rock. The nugget was weighed and the estimated value was $442.

Chautauqua and Niagara

May both be visited by excursionists routed via the Nickel Plate Road. A special train will be run to the Falls, leaving Fort Wayne at 1:50 p. m. July 24th. Sleepers will be attached. Reservations should be made now.

A French scientific writer points out that a mere gain in weight should not, in itself, be taken as an indication of improved bodily condition. It is, according to him, rather a question of the density than of the quantity of tissue that covers the bones. When increase of weight results from increased density, then the health is really improved.

Alabastine is scarcely more immaculate than the complexion beautified with Glenn's Sulphur Soap. Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye, black or brown, 50c.

Perhaps the most splendidly decorated church in the United Kingdom is that of Whitney Court, Worcestershire. It is entirely constructed of white marble, the pews are chastely carved, and the pulpit is of genuine Carrara marble, richly panelled with precious stones.

Ask agents about dates the one fare rate to Chicago will apply via the Nickel Plate Road, account unveiling of Logan's Monument, July 22nd.

Japan is filled from end to end with all the apparatus of the latest civilization, down to the electric car and the international exhibition.

July 24th the Nickel Plate Road runs its first Niagara Falls Excursion, leaving Fort Wayne by special train at 1:50 p. m. The $6.50 excursion tickets are good for five days. Reserve berths early.

FITS Permanently Cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Ask agents of the Nickel Plate Road about one fare rates to Rome City, Ind., July 13th to 31st.

Shake Into Your Shoes

Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder for the feet. It cures painful, swollen, smarting feet, and instantly takes the sting out of corns and bunions. It's the greatest comfort discovery of the age. Allen's Foot-Ease makes tight-fitting or new shoes feel easy. It is a certain cure for sweating, callous and hot, tired, aching feet. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores. By mail for 25 cents, in stamps. Trial package FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

Babies get sick by eating too much and by eating too little. There are two sick babies in nearly every locality; one sick from gluttony and the other starvation. If their food could be equally divided both might get well.

Neglect of the hair often destroys its vitality and natural hue, and causes it to fall out. Before it is too late, apply Hall's Hair Renewer, a sure remedy.

The receptacles for dead children in Spain are coffins of pink, blue or gray tint, which are carried open to the grave.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink without injury as well as the adult. All who try it like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha and Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. One-fourth of the price of coffee. 15c and 25c per package, sold by all grocers.

The most remarkable impostor was George Psalmanazar, who invented a language and wrote a literature in it.

To Colorado Springs and Pueblo—Burlington Route via Denver.

A through sleeping car to Colorado Springs and Pueblo, via Denver, is attached to Burlington Route daily train leaving Chicago 10:30 p. m. Office, 211 Clark street.

A crust with an appetite is better than a feast without.

$6.50 to Niagara Falls.

Via the Nickel Plate Road, July 24th. Special train leaves Fort Wayne at 1:50 p. m. Reserve sleeping car space early.

My doctor said I would die, but Piso's Cure for Consumption cured me.—Amos Kelner, Cherry Valley, Ill., Nov. 23, '95.

A One Fare Rate to Chicago is offered via the Nickel Plate Road for the unveiling of Logan's Monument, July 22nd.

What Do the Children Drink at the Table?

Coffee and tea are injurious; they get tired of milk or water, and there is but one other thing to give them, that is, Grain-O, a new food drink that takes the place of coffee and tastes so much like it that even the parents can't tell the difference. It is the opposite to coffee, for instead of breaking down the nervous system it builds it up, instead of making one bilious it keeps the whole system in a healthy condition. Grain-O is a delicious table beverage made of pure grains, having the rich seal brown color of Mocha or Java. Grain-O is not a medicine, but a food drink that every one likes, and every one of the family can drink without the least injury. It costs only about one-quarter as much as coffee. Sold by all grocers, 15c. and 25c. per package.

Don't have fancy, pointed tips on your shoes these days—they are quite passe; the proper kind is a plain, straight-across one, with just a single row of perforations to mark the edge.

ALL THE WAY FROM THE MISSOURI RIVER TO BUFFALO, THE WABASH RAILROAD OPERATES TRAINS OVER ITS OWN TRACKS.

Having leased the tracks of the Grand Trunk Railway between Detroit and Suspension Bridge, and those of the Erie R. R. from Suspension Bridge to Buffalo, the Wabash R. R. will run its own trains from Kansas City, Omaha, Des Moines, St. Louis, Quincy, Hannibal, Keokuk and Chicago to Buffalo, being the only road from Missouri and Mississippi River points having its own line and trains running into Buffalo. Through cars from Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago to Buffalo without change.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

First Excursion to Niagara Falls

Via the Nickel Plate Road leaves Fort Wayne July 24th at 1:50 p. m; $6:50 for the round trip. Sleeping cars attached.

BOILS, BOILS, BOILS

They Came Thick and Fast—Till Cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"My brother had terrible boils on the back of his neck. As fast as one would get better another would come. He became very much emaciated, and began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. One bottle made a great improvement, and when he had taken two bottles he was completely cured." CARRIE D. ERVIN, Mound City, Illinois.

Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla

Hood's Pills cure sick headache. 25 cents.

AN OPEN LETTER To MOTHERS.

WE ARE ASSERTING IN THE COURTS OUR RIGHT TO THE EXCLUSIVE USE OF THE WORD "CASTORIA," AND "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," AS OUR TRADE MARK.

I, DR. SAMUEL PITCHER, of Hyannis, Massachusetts, was the originator of "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," the same that has borne and does now bear the fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on every wrapper. This is the original "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," which has been used in the homes of the mothers of America for over thirty years. LOOK CAREFULLY at the wrapper and see that it is the kind you have always bought and has the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on the wrapper. No one has authority from me to use my name except The Centaur Company of which Chas. H. Fletcher is President

March 8, 1897. Samuel Pitcher, M.D.

Do Not Be Deceived.

Do not endanger the life of your child by accepting a cheap substitute which some druggist may offer you (because he makes a few more pennies on it), the ingredients of which even he does not know.

"The Kind You Have Always Bought"

BEARS THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE OF

Chas. H. Fletcher.

Insist on Having The Kind That Never Failed You.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

SICK HEADACHE! ALWAYS TRACE IT TO THE LAZY LIVER.

Poisonous matter, instead of being thrown out, is reabsorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue, it causes congestion and that awful, dull, throbbing, sickening pain.

Cascarets REMOVE THE CAUSE BY STIMULATING THE LIVER,

Making the poison move on and out, and purifying the blood. The effect is ALMOST INSTANTANEOUS.

LADIES whose sensitive organism is especially prone to sick headaches, DO NOT SUFFER, for you can, by the use of CASCARETS, be Relieved Like Magic.

ALL DRUGGISTS. 10c., 25c., 50c.

"If a woman reads Pearline 'ads,' and acts upon them, she'll have plenty of time to read everything else in the paper." That is what a woman writes to us, and she's a woman who ought to know. How large a part of your time is spent in getting things clean? Haven't you something better that you'd like to do if you had the time for it? Time is one of the things that Pearline saves. To hurry up housework and make every kind of washing and cleaning quick and easy, use Pearline. 581

Millions NOW USE Pearline

"Use the Means and Heaven Will Give You the Blessing." Never Neglect A Useful Article Like

SAPOLIO

BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP CURES in 1 to 3 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A.

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

F. W. N. U. - - No. 29—97.

When Writing to Advertisers say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

OUR THANKS ARE DUE

To the citizens of Auburn for the large trade enjoyed with them the past six months. It takes a mamouth establishment to carry a nice assortment of.....

Furniture & Carpets

You could put into our great establishment at least a dozen ordinary stores.

Why not buy your Furniture and carpets where you can have the advantage of....

The Latest Styles,
The Lowest Prices,
The Biggest Assortment,
The Best Made Goods.

A round trip ticket costs you but little,; the trip you will enjoy, and you can save five times your expenses; we will pay the freight on your goods, and, best of all, you will not have goods your town's people have all looked over, but instead, something new and fresh that none of them have seen and which none of them have.

Everybody admits we have the finest Furniture and Carpet Store in the state of Indiana. We want....

You

for one of our customers.

Foster Furniture & Carpet Co.,
Fort Wayne, Indiana.

..SPECIAL..

EXCURSION

.....TO.....

Niagara Falls

.....AND.....

THOUSAND ISLANDS

.....VIA.....

WABASH

JULY 29th, '97.

Special Train Will Leave

AUBURN

at 7:37 p. m. July 29, arriving Niagara Falls at 6:20 next morning.

ONLY $6.25

For The ROUND TRIP.

From Auburn. Tickets good for return within five days on all regular trains.

Wabash Lines

GOING EAST.

No. 2	5:43 am—Daily
No. 4	7:37 pm—ex Su
No. 70 (local freight)	3:00 pm—ex Su
No. 6	2:03 pm—ex Su

GOING WEST.

No. 5	7:27 am—Daily
No. 3	7:10 pm—Daily
No. 71, (local freight)	9:55 am—ex Su
No. 7	12:00 pm—ex Su

All these trains stop for passengers.
For rates, tickets, time tables, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind
Chas. M. Hays, V. Pres. and Gen't Manager.
G. S. Crane, Gen'l Pass'r and Ticket Agen

B. & O. R. R.

Schedule In Effect Nov. 22 '96

Leaves Auburn Junction.

WEST BOUND.

No. 3 Express, to Garrett only	8:53 p m
No. 15 Daily	2:00 a m
No. 5 Daily	4:30 a m
No. 7 Daily	4:15 p m
No. 17 Daily Except Sunday	12:25 p m

EAST BOUND.

No. 4 Express	4:30 a m
No. 6 Daily	8:05 p m
No. 8 Daily	2:40 p m
No. 41 Daily	11:41 p m
No. 16, Daily, except Sunday	12:25 p m

D. S. MARTIN, Manager of Passenger Traffic.
G. H. YOUNG, Auburn Junction, Ind

TRIED TO ESCAPE.

Harry Gibson's Plan To Escape the Prison.

Harry Gibson a colored convict of the Michigan City prison, made a daring attempt Tuesday night to gain his freedom. Gibson is a bad man and was serving a term for murder. A few years ago he killed a fellow convict and as he has been a bad man he was kept locked up in a cell. His plan for escaping briefly told is as follows:

Gibson sawed two of the heavy iron bars of the door to his cell, an inch and a half thick, and thereby gained the first step of the freedom. The sawing was done since last Friday, as all the cell doors were carefully inspected on that day. Gibson, himself, says that he sawed one of the bars last Saturday and the other one Tuesday night. A hole about eighteen inches square was thus made just large enough for him to pass through. Where he obtained his saw, is a matter which is not yet known. The prison officials are inclined to think that it was passed in to him by another convict. There are dozens of saws about the prison of the kind, which will cut heavy iron bars in a very few minutes.

Once outside his cell, Gibson climbed to the top of the tiers of cells, which brought him within reaching distance of the roof. Again he used a saw and from the inside cut a hole in the roof almost two feet square. He pulled himself through this orifice and gained the fresh air, but he gained it when he was about forty feet from ground. He produced a long sash cord over an eighth of an inch in thickness, and after making it fast by tying it on a timber, near the hole through which he had crawled, he let the rope fall to the ground and by this means he slid to the ground. Knowing that a guard had seen him scrambling up the side of the cell tiers he was in such a hurry that he received several bruises and a severe jar in alighting besides burning the skin off his hands. The colored convict was in the prison yard and he had accomplished this much in remarkably short time. He cut the hole in the roof and got to the ground within fifteen minutes and was out of sight.

A systematic search of the grounds was conducted and in a few moments, he was located by Guard Sutton, [Capt. Sutton will be remembered as the man who brought Borst, Sawvel and Dills back a few weeks ago.—Ed.] who found the man leaning up against the shoe shop on the north side against the prison wall. Another rope was found on him, it also being a piece of curtain cord. On one end of this he had fastened an improvised hook which he intended to throw over the top of the wall and this hook catching on the stone cap, he would be able to gain the top of this wall and once on top he would have been easily able to reach the ground and get out of this locality by dawn.

When captured he offered no resistance, saying only that it was too bad his scheme didn't succeed.

ZYCOPHORUS!

ZYCOPHORUS

Is the latest, and greatest, scientific composition of medicines for the cure of all Kidney, Bladder, Sexual and Nervous Diseases. It is purely vegetable and has an immediate marvelous action Hundreds have been cured by Zycophorus after the failure of all other methods. We do not offer a large reward for cases it will not cure, but give a written guarantee to cure or refund money. Cures all kidney and bladder diseases such as painful, dribbling, burning, or difficult urination, dropsical swellings, gravel, cystitis, albumen, sugar, mucus, blood, and other deposits and discharges, and such sexual and nervous disease is emissions, vital drain in urine, varicocele, impotency, impaired memory, weak back, melancholy, premature decline of the manly powers, etc. Renews sexual life in both sexes, and builds up the nerve and brain tissues. One package will prove its efficacy. Six packages guaranteed to cure or money refunded. Price per package, 50 cents Six packages, $2.50. For sale at drug stores or sent prepaid to any address our eclectic price. Send for circular.

TILMAN CHEMICAL CO.,
Toledo, O.

I. O. BUCHTEL, HOMEOPATHIC Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to Chronic and Obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Madden Bros Marble Works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, day or night.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Administrator of the estate of Leah Rhodarmer deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent July 1st, 1897.

GEORGE W. BLEEKS, Administrator.
Baxter & Brown Attys.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Executors of the will of John Leas deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent. June 24, 1897.

WILLIAM H. LEAS } Executors.
HEZEKIAH K. LEAS }

CASTORIA.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper

ECHOES OF THE REBELLION.

Some History of the Knights of the Golden Circle in Indiana.

When publishing the recent editorial letters from Paoli Orange Co., this state, after giving pretty full description of the country and its peculiarities we promised our readers some bits of its history. But varied reasons have delayed this till now.

We said in one of those letters, that Paoli was the home of Dr. Bowles, one of the three men convicted of treason by a court martial during the rebellion and sentenced to be hanged. On the north side of the public square, Bowles' residence and office still stands, a plain frame building built flush on the street with a high platform in front, which one must ascend by three or four steps. to enter the door. Here Bowles lived and in his earlier years, practiced medicine. He became quite wealthy, but was very eccentric and in most things an extremist. But he had, as such a man usually has, his friends and followers. He was or had been a leading democratic politician, and when the rebellion got under full headway he tried to disrupt his party and ruin it by carrying as many as possible into the interests of the rebels Being near the state of Kentucky, he more readily found followers, and they were all soon identified with the "Knights of the Golden Circle" an organization which had for its object giving assistance and sympathy to the rebels in the southern armies. They held their meetings at various sections of the country in the south part of th state, the wilds of Orange Co., being especially adapted to their meetings. The democrats of that section. by a great majority remained loyal and our informant, Maj. John R. Simpson, now editor of the Paoli Democrat, was with many of his neighbors, in the union army. Of course he locked horns with Bowles, and there came near being civil war in that section. But Bowles and several other leaders of the movement were arrested as noted heretofore. There were three chief men who were proved to be leaders, Wm Bowles of Paoli, L. P. Milligan of Huntington and Horsey of, we believe Washington county. They were brought before a court martial of army officers, among them being Gen. Reub Williams of the Warsaw Indianian and after an exciting trial, were condemned to death. They were for some time confined in prison at Columbus, Ohio, and as cooler counsels later prevailed, the question of the legality of a trial by court martial was brought up. It was decided that a trial by court martial was illegal at a time and in a state where the law courts were free to act, and the men were set free. For there had been no time when the courts in Indiana could not have tried the case fully and freely. Bowles and Horsey are both dead, but Milligan is still living a respected and venerable citizen of Huntington and we presume he has often wondered how he made such a fool of himself.

We have said that Orange county was at the time of the rebellion, a wild county with many who sympathized with the rebel cause. Its nearness to Kentucky, a border state, with many of its people also from that state, this condition of things was very natural. When therefore the United States jury was got together later to act on the case of Bowles, Horsey and Milligan, it became a struggle to keep out of it, some of these sympathisers. Thomas A. Hendricks and Joseph E. McDonald, were, we believe attorneys for the defense, and naturally wanted to get on the jury as many sympathizers as possible and as few of the other view especially of the loyal democrats as they could. And then began a queer struggle. The prosecuting attorneys were naturally of a republican cast, and they wanted loyal democrats, rather than republicans; but Hendricks and McDonald would have preferred anyone, even a republican to be what was then called a "Union Democrat." And so, Josiah Gwin, now publisher of the New Albany Public Press, and always a democrat, was one of the number originally chosen as a juryman and suddenly found his warm personal and political friends, Hendricks and McDonald, fighting him in order to keep him off that jury, for they knew he would be against Bowles. Horsey and Milligan. The republican attorneys on the other hand, were ready to forgive Gwin the many hard political fights he had put up against them, and worked hard to get him on the jury. He was left out, but at the editorial meeting this summer, he was present, and greatly enjoyed relating these early experiences and insists he would have made it lively for the "Golden Circle" leaders, if he had been given a chance.

As we said, there were many rebel sympathizers in that section of the state and when in the summer of 1864, the celebrated rebel Gen. John Morgan crossed the Ohio from Brandenberg, Ky., to Indiana side, it was in the hope that he would find men to assist in his service, as well as an abundance of horses, provisions etc., which the confederacy just then needed. And with this in view sent off from his main force, soon after crossing several able officers, each with a small froce of men with the intention of thus covering a good deal of ground, so as to be more certain of at least a few new recruits. In this service it happened that Capt. Hines, one of Morgan's trusted subordinates was sent out with his company of soldiers to scour the hills of Orange county. In entering the county they bore to the north passing just west of the town of Paoli, and not far from where their best mineral spring, the "Lithia" is located. Everybody flew to arms, for here was war right at home. And if anything will make a farmer mad, it is to have his horses stolen. And this was the chief business of Morgan's raiders. It happened that just at this time, Major Simpson, already mentioned as the present publisher of the Paoli Democrat. was home from the front on a furlough. He at once called the people and started with a few men in pursuit of the raiders. Every mile he was joined by new recruits all armed with shotguns or squirrel rifles. The rebels were hard pushed and soon turned east, then seeing the great danger of capture made a bee-line south to get back to the Ohio river and over into Kentucky. But Simpson gave them no rest. They reached the river near Leavenworth in Crawford county and seeing a considerable island in the river, thought it would help them to get across the Ohio. So they swam to the island, when to their dismay they found the river channel beyond, a very wide one, too wide to swim. So they halted in the trees and bushes and gave battle. Simpson and his squirrel hunters on the mainland filled the bushes with lead, and the rebels paid back. But no one was hurt. Suddenly, on the beach of the island appeared a rebel with a white handkerchief on a stick, and the firing ceased as soon as Simpson could make his men understand what a white flag meant. The rebel said his people wanted to surrender. Simpson called back that if they were honest in this, they would be received, but he was not going to take any chances on their honesty. They must leave their guns in the bushes and then line up on the beach. This was done and the surrender made. The rebels swam over and were made prisoners. In illustration of the usual feeling against horse stealing Simpson says one of the first rebels to emerge from the water was recognized by a farmer, as the fellow who the day before had taken a horse from him, and he cocked his squirrel gun to shoot him. It was with difficulty that Simpson saved the fellow. Forty-five men were captured and turned over to the sheriff of Crawford county, Soon after, they were taken to Indianapolis, and turned over to the state and military authorities who held them till they were exchanged. This ended the war in Orange and Crawford counties. The rebels had got but one man in the whole journey, and he was not found when they surrendered.

After.... Taking

a course of Ayer's Pills the system is set in good working order and a man begins to feel that life is worth living. He who has become the gradual prey of constipation, does not realize the friction under which he labors, until the burden is lifted from him. Then his mountains sink into molehills, his moroseness gives place to jollity, he is a happy man again. If life does not seem worth living to you, you may take a very different view of it after taking

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

Poor Blood

is starved blood. It shows itself in pale cheeks, white lips, weak digestion, no appetite, exhaustion, lack of nerve force, soft muscles, and, chief of all, weak muscles. Your doctor calls it Anaemia. He will tell you that the weakening weather of summer often brings it on.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites, will make poor blood rich. It is a food for over-taxed and weak digestion, so prepared that it can easily be taken in summer when Cod-liver Oil or even ordinary foods might repel.

SCOTT & BOWNE, ⅄ New York
For sale at 50c. and $1.00 by all druggists.

THE NEW TREASURER.

Shelly Hine Knocks the Persimmons on the Second Ballot.

Last evening the Board of Commissioners took one informal ballot while in consultation. Each voted for a separate man, but it was only for a 'feeler.' This forenoon they met and proceeded to take a regular vote. On the first ballot, H. K. Leas, Bert Robbins and S. H. Hine, each got one vote.

On the second ballot it stood: Hine 2; Robbins 1.

So the new man is Sheldon H. Hine of Grant township.

Mr. Hine is a well known citizen of Grant township, of which he was the first trustee. When Grant was cut off from Union, Sept. 10, 1889, he was appointed by the Board to serve as trustee. The Commissioners then were James Bowman, J. W. Platter and G. I. Paterson. The next year Mr. Hine was made the republican candidate for county treasurer, and at the election, Nov. 4, 1890, was beaten by Reuben Sawvel, 395 votes. Since then he has been out of politics, devoting his time mainly to the raising of berries and small fruits. He is considered a good man in a general way but it remains to be seen whether he has the push to be a good treasurer just now.

You Should Not Hesitate.

If you are troubled with dyspepsia, or liver and kidney trouble, Dr. John W. Bull's Pills will cure you. "I find Dr. Bull's Pills a good remedy for dyspepsia and biliousness, and I do not hesitate to recommend them to every one in need of such a medicine. T. J. Burke, Davenport, Ia." Dr. John W. Bull's Pills (sixty in a box) cost but 25 cents; trial box, 10 cents, at all dealers, or by mail. A. C. Meyer & Co., Baltimore, Md. Don't buy a counterfeit. Sold by F. E. Davenport, Auburn.

Their Choice.

As is usual, when the Board of Commissioners are called on to do an unusually important thing, people at once takes sides, for or against. This is the case in recent appointment of a treasurer to take Mr. Hines' place. There is a disposition to criticise the Board for appointing Mr. Hine, as many people believe he will not be thorough in his administration of that important office. It is felt that just now is the time, to force every county officer to do his duty with promptness and with out fear or favor. Right now is the time to change from the old, easy going style and adopt business methods. The people demand this, and Mr. Hine will find that public opionion will be now, satisfied with nothing less. If he does the work thoroughly and well, he will need fear no criticism, and the Board's action in appointing him will be sustained.

It was a difficult thing to make this choice, for there were about a full dozen of good men from whom to select. We are not able to give all their names. But of those who asked the place, or permitted their friends to ask it for them, or who were pushed without their knowledge, were, Harding and Knisely and A. G. Jones, of Butler, Bert Robbins, H. C. Shull, I. M. Zent, of Auburn, H. K. Leas, of Waterloo. James Provines, of Jackson and Mr. Hine, of Grant. And there may have been others.

There was a good deal of discussion over the matter of giving some sort of chance for the family of the late officer. He had not had the office long enough to get back the expenses of his last campaign, to say nothing of the first one. It was conceded on all hands, that the person appointed ought to give some of the salary to the family. We are informed that Mr. Hine, will do this indirectly, by employing Miss Effie Hines, the daughter of the late treasurer, to assist him. She has worked in the office a good deal and is fully competent for the place. We hope to see her get it. The new officer will make friends by doing it.

Mr. Hine will now have to face the ordeal of getting bondsmen for at least $150,000, possibly $250,000. Under present public feeling, this will be no easy task. No one doubts Mr. Hine's honesty, but he must guarantee to run the office honestly, and take better care of the funds than Fair did.

Let us hope that all our county offices will soon get settled and down to business. Nothing can be done in the treasurer's office till the bond is accepted by the commissoners.

D'd You Ever.

Try Electric Bitters as a remedy for your troubles? If not, get a bottle now and get relief. This Medicine has been found to be peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all female complaints, exerting a wonderful direct influence in giving strength and tone to the organs. If you have loss of appetite, constipation, headache, fainting spells, or are nervous, sleepless, excitable, melancholy or troubled with dizzy spells, Electric Bitters is the medicine you need. Health and strength are guaranteed by its use. Large bottles only fifty cents at Robbins & McCord's. 3

Handy Device

Oscar Ensley is interested in a patent device for sending money such as silver quarters, halves or dimes and in fact any sort of money. through the mails in a convenient and safe way. The device is a folded card with six pockets or receptacles in which the money can be placed. This card can then be sent in the same envelope with the letter, and has on one side of it the advertisement of the person to whom the money is sent, for it was first sent out by that person. But anyone can use the card, and it can be kept going through the mails indefinitely until it is worn out, but of course it always has the advertisement of the original owner. He and another man own the device, and are going to push it all over the country. and will probably make some money out of it.

Splendid Success

has been had in cases of colic, diarrhœa, etc, by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. As a household remedy for such troubles it is invaluable. Buy a 10c trial bottle and you are bound to be convinced. To be had of F. E Davenport. 30

Notice to Farmers.

Having purchased a thoroughbred short horn Durham bull, he will be for service at my farm.

A. D. MOORE.

LARGE ENGLISH BERSHIRES.

WATERLOO INDIANA. June 24, 1897:—For 30 days I will offer a few choice gilts with or without being bred, at $10 and $12. Young boars old enough for service $8 and $10. Choice pigs at weaning $5. Choice sow, to farrow October, $15

J. W. JACKMAN & SON,
Two miles east of Waterloo, Ind

No Griping Or Pains,

Arrowsmith, Ill., Jan. 21, 1897.

Dear Sirs:—I have been bothered for 15 years with constipation and I have trid many preparations during that time. I commenced using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in the fall of 1895 and unhesitatingly say it is the best remedy I have ever found for my trouble. No griping or pains after taking Yours, etc.

F. E. Davenport WM. HURT.

Chautauqua Lake Excursions.

On July 2nd and August 2nd, 1897, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry., will sell excursion tickets to Chautauqua and return at about half rates. Those sold on former date will be good to return until August 2d and the latter until August 31st. A beautiful illustrated descriptive book about Lake Chautauqua sent on receipt of 4 cents to cover mailing; by A. J. Smith, G. P. & T. A., L. S. & M. S. Ry, Cleveland, Ohio.

Mrs Boullier, 222 Crane St, Writes:

Dayton, O., March 12, '96.—'My baby is two months old and from her birth has had severe attacks of wind colic. I tried almost everything, but nothing gave her any relief until I got Dr. Hand's Colic Cure. I have used two bottles and would not do without it. It surely is the best colic medicine ever made." Dr. Hand's Colic Cure and all of Dr Hand's Remedies at Fischler & Son's, 25c. 1

County Institute.

It seems quite impossible to make the best arrangements for our County Institute on dates of Aug. 23, 27, so we have decided to change to Aug. 16, 20.

Hoping this will meet the conditions suited to the welfare of all interested n the schools of the county.

I am yours respectfully,
H. E. COE, Co. Sup't

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

Celebrated for its great leavening strength and healthfulness. Assures the food against alum and all forms of adulteration common to the cheap brands. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

THE TEMPERATURE.

Major Kuhlman, the Meteorological Observer of the U. S. Weather Bureau give us the following report of the maximum and minumum daily temperature since July 1st:

July	Max.	Min.
1	91	65
2	95	68
3	100	73
4	100	70
5	92	61
6	90	62
7	96	65
8	98	68
9	98 1 p m.

It is Thought by Many

when the Creator said to woman "in sorrow shalt thou bring forth children," that a curse was pronounced, but the joy felt by every Mother when she first presses to her heart her babe, proves the contrary.

Danger and suffering lurk in the pathway of the Expectant Mother, and should be avoided, that she may reach the hour when the hope of her heart is to be realized, in full vigor and strength.

"Mother's Friend"

so relaxes the system that the natural and necessary.....change takes place without Nausea.....Headache, Nervous or Gloomy..... Foreboding and at the trying hour makes Child-birth easy, as so many happy mothers have experienced. Nothing but "Mother's Friend" does this. Don't be deceived.

"Mother's Friend" is the greatest remedy ever put on the market, and all my customers praise it highly."—W. H. KING & CO., Whitewright, Tex.

Sent by Mail, on receipt of price, $1.00 PER BOTTLE. Book "To Expectant Mothers" mailed free, containing valuable information and voluntary testimonials.

THE BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

William's Kidney Pills

Has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. Have you neglected your Kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your Kidneys and Bladder? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, groins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire pass urine? William's Kidney Pills will impart new life to the diseased organs, tone up the system and make a new man of you. By mail 50 cents per box.

WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props., Cleveland, O.

Sold By Fischler & Son.

Weakness of Men

Quickly, Thoroughly, Forever Cured

by a new perfected scientific method that cannot fail unless the case is beyond human aid. You feel improved the first day, feel a benefit every day, soon know yourself a king among men in body, mind and heart. Drains and losses ended. Every obstacle to happy married life removed. Nerve force, will, energy, when failing or lost, are restored by this treatment. All weak portions of the body enlarged and strengthened. Write for our book, with explanations and proofs. Sent sealed, free. Over 2,000 references.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., 65 NIAGARA ST. BUFFALO, N. Y.

MADE ME A MAN

AJAX TABLETS POSITIVELY CURE All Nervous Diseases—Failing Memory, Impotency, Sleeplessness, etc., by Abuse or other Excesses and Indiscretions. They quickly and surely restore Lost Vitality in old or young, and fit a man for study, business or marriage. Prevent Insanity and Consumption if taken in time. Their use shows immediate improvement and effects a CURE where all other fail. Insist upon having the genuine Ajax Tablets. They have cured thousands and will cure you. We give a positive written guarantee to effect a cure in each case or refund the money. Price 50 cts. per package; or six pkges (full treatment) for $2.50. By mail, in plain wrapper, upon receipt of price. Circular free. AJAX REMEDY CO., 19 Dearborn St. Chicago, Ill.

Sold by F. E. Davenport, Auburn.

LIFE DEATH

VIM VIGOR VITALITY RESTORED IN 30 DAYS

GOOD EFFECTS AT ONCE

NOW THEN

CATON'S VITALIZER

Cures general or special debility, wakefulness, spermatorrhœa, emissions, impotency, paresis, etc. Corrects functional disorders, caused by errors or excesses, quickly restoring Lost Manhood in old or young, giving vigor and strength where former weakness prevailed. Convenient package, simple, effectual, and legitimate.

CURE IS QUICK AND THOROUGH.

Don't be deceived by imitations; insist on CATON'S Vitalizers. Sent sealed if your druggist does not have it. Price $1 per pkge, 6 for $5, with written guarantee of complete cure. Information, references, etc., free and confidential. Send an statement of case and 25 cts. for a week's trial treatment. One only sent to each person.

CATON MED. CO., BOSTON, MASS.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Volume XXVII | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, July 22, 1897. | Number 29.

AN OPEN LETTER
To MOTHERS.

WE ARE ASSERTING IN THE COURTS OUR RIGHT TO THE EXCLUSIVE USE OF THE WORD "CASTORIA," AND "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," AS OUR TRADE MARK.

I, DR. SAMUEL PITCHER, of Hyannis, Massachusetts, was the originator of "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," the same that has borne and does now Chas. H. Fletcher on every bear the fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. This is the original "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," which has been used in the homes of the Mothers of America for over thirty years. LOOK CAREFULLY at the wrapper and see that it is the kind you have always bought Chas. H. Fletcher on the and has the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. No one has authority from me to use my name except The Centaur Company of which Chas. H. Fletcher is President.

March 8, 1897. Samuel Pitcher M.D.

Do Not Be Deceived.

Do not endanger the life of your child by accepting a cheap substitute which some druggist may offer you (because he makes a few more pennies on it), the ingredients of which even he does not know.

"The Kind You Have Always Bought"
BEARS THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE OF
Chas. H. Fletcher.

Insist on Having
The Kind That Never Failed You.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Photographs

Have the Children's pictures taken every birthday It is a pretty custom, and of the pictures are well made you will always be glad to have them. We make a specialty of children's photographs.

O. E. LYBARGER,
North Main Street.

Largest package—greatest economy. Made only by
THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY,
Chicago. St. Louis. New York. Boston. Philadelphia.

Free to the Ladies from the oldest and most reliable Tea House in the country.

A lady friend has sent us her photograph, displaying what she has earned from us—a watch and chain, dinner set and toilet set. We have produced her photograph, showing exactly what we are giving with Tea, Coffee, Spice and Baking Powder orders; and not only are premium of high grade, but the quality of our goods is such that the people want them, making the business pleasant and profitable. Square treatment has made the best ladies of the country our friends It is them specially tnat we ask to write us for particlars. Address,

LIMA TEA CO., Lima, Ohio

HOWE SCHOOL (MILITARY),
. . . LIMA, INDIANA. . . .

Thoroughly prepares for college or business. High character in boys is our chief aim. Most careful individual attention in matters of scholarship and morals. Refined Christian influence. Buildings equipped with all modern conveniences. Fine new gymnasium, large athletic grounds. Expense moderate. For testimonials, illustrations and catalogues, address

W. W. HAMMOND, A. M. (HARVARD) HEAD MASTER.
REV. J. H. McKENZIE, PH. D., RECTOR.

COURT.

They are still working on the J. C. Henry case from Witley county. It is a complicated case with able attorneys to fight for both sides. The substance of the case is, that while the Arnold bank at South Whitley was still doing business, J. C. Henry gave the bank a mortgage to secure a note of $8,000 When the Arnolds got into difficulty before their failure they gave this note to the First National Bank, of Huntington, as security on some money they got of that bank. Now, the Huntington bank is suing to collect that note. But it appears that soon after the Arnolds had sold the note to the Huntington bank, Henry went to Arnolds, and not knowing but they still had this note, paid the note off, by giving three new notes, and $2,500 in money. He let the same old mortgage stand to secure the new notes, and did not ask to have the old note returned to him. If he had done so, he would have learned that it had been sold to the Bank of Huntington. Later on, the Arnolds also put up one of the new notes for some money borrowed of a man named Galbreath. Henry now finds himself confronted by two sets of notes, and very naturally don't want to pay but one of them. The Huntington wants to get back the money it loaned on that note itself. Galbreath wants to get the money he loaned to the Arnolds. And both, finding the Arnolds busted, are trying to collect off of Henry. Both sides have able attorneys.

Thursday's Daily.

The Whitley Co. case is still going on. The First National Bank, of Huntington in represented by Hon. Jame B. Kenner and H. S. Lesh of Huntington, and Judge James S. Slick, of Wabash.

The attorneys on other side are T. R. Marshall. Hon. W. F. McNagny and Hon. A. A. Adams of Columbia City. They represent the interests of Mr. Henry, Mr. Galbreath and Mr. Foust, the latter being a banker in Columbia City who had got mixed up in the matter by accepting as collateral, some of the notes in the present dispute. J. E. Rose, of Auburn, has been added to the force of attorneys for the Huntington Bank, while D. M. Link, of Auburn is assisting on the other side. Altogether it is an able array of legal talent and a stubborn fight is being made on both sides. The case, too, is a very difficult one, as the affairs are so badly mixed up with the busted South Whitley bank and the paper it gave and received as collateral. Of course all there varied and mixed up transactions originating as they did in the South Whitley Bank, has called out many facts in the troubles of that bank, and of the Arnolds who owned it and got into so much trouble when it failed. It seems that the original $8,000 morgage that had been given by J. C. Henry, it was a "blanket mortgage" on a farm of 240 acres. James Arnold president of the South Whitley Bank, lived at North Manchester, Thompson Arnold, was cashier. He was was sent to prison after the bank had failed, for having been criminally negligent in the management of the band, Isaac N. Arnold was James' uncle and lives in Huntington. Had paid over $10,000 for the Arnolds after they had failed. Martin Galbreath sworn, been in Whitley Co., fourteen years. As early as 1893 the year the bank failed he became afraid the bank was shaky, for two drafts had been protested. It appears that Galbreath was township trustee and when James Arnold learned he had several thousand dollars of various funds in hands of county treasurer, he asked Galbreath to draw it out and let the South Whitley Bank have it. Galbreath told him he feared the bank was not safe. But Arnold said he could give ample security. So he drew the money and deposited it in Arnold's bank. This was in June 1893, Arnold gave him some of the Henry notes for security. Arnold had told him it was only a temporary alarm, and the withdrawal of so large a sum would injure the bank. He took $2000 Henry note, a $500 note on which he afterwards got $400.

Judge Vaughn seems to take hold of this difficult case, with a good deal of ease and ability.

AFTERNOON.

F. A. Foust and Mr. Roush, of Columbia city have both been on the stand. They represent the banking firm of Foust & Co. They say they had $6100 against the Arnolds when the South Whitley Bank failed, but have got the greater part of this out of the collateral they held. There is still due them $2,700, but for this they have a judgment of $2,000, which they considered good, if things are allowed to stand as they have been.

J. C. Henry, sworn. Is defendant in this case. In 1890 bought the Samuel Sickafoore farm for $12,000 giving three $4,000 notes for it, James Arnold signed these notes with him, and to secure Arnold he gave him a mort- of same size. After he had paid the Sickafoose notes, the mortgage was returned to him. Later on he gave Arnold the $8,000 mortgage to secure a loan of $2,500 and any future loans that he, Henry might need. Henry is a lumber dealer and mill man. The note was renewed a time or two, then $500 cash paid and a new note of $2,000, and later all paid. Had borrowed o the bank at other times on the $8,000 morigage, $4,500. He told how Arnold called him in one day and told him that some of the notes were now in other hands for collateral for the Arnolds. Henry gave new notes to renew them, on promise that old notes should be given up, but were not. At time of Arnold's failure, the latter owed him various sums on account. In substance his testimony ran in this way.

Friday's Daily.

Yesterday, Thursday, afternoon, the Huntington-Whitley case was finished or mainly so. Both sides stopped taking testimony, and were ready to make their pleas, but finally agreed to wait till the October term, when it may be argued, or they may in the meantime submit to Judge Vaughn, their pleas in writing, or as they say "briefs," for his consideration. But no matter what may be done the Judge has taken the case under his advisement, so as to have time to study over its various features, for it is a pretty hard case and full of knotty questions.

This, Friday morning, court began again with Judge Roby on the bench, and various cases were called up. The first was one brought by Carrie Kelley, recently Mrs. Frank Shull, against Shull to restrain him from taking the crops off her land, on which they had been living. This was brought up by her attorney C. M. Phillips, who asks the Judge, an injunction to restrain Shull from taking away the crops claiming he has no rights now on hi former wife's land.

Saturday's Daily.

We spoke, Friday, of the restraining order asked by attorney Phillips, to keep Frank Shull from taking the crops off his wife's farm. The Judge granted the order but of course, Shull may get off a good deal of it before the legal notice reaches him. But this of course, cannot be helped.

A considerable odds and ends of business have been worked off by Judge Roby in between the other more important cases.

Mary Hemry got a divorce from Hanan Hemery and custody of their child.

The Judge adjourned court yesterday afternoon, till a week from Monday, which is July 26, when he will hold court for one day.

Free Pills.

Send your address to H. E. Bucklen & Co., Chicago, and get a free sample of Dr. King's New Life pills. A trial will convince you of their merits. These pills are easy in action and are particularly effective in the cure of consumption and sick headache. For Malaria and liver troubles they have been proved invaluable. They are guaranted to be perfectly free from every deleterious substance and to be purely vegetable. They do not weaken by their action, but by giving tone to stomach and bowels greatly invigorate the system. Regular size 25c per box. Sold at Robbins & McCord's drug store 1

Purgatorial Pills.

The druggist would hardly smile if you asked for "purgatorial pills." There are many of them. But he would probably recommend a pill that did not gripe; a sugar-coated pill, gentle in action, and sure in effect. What are they called?

..Ayer's Cathartic Pills..

PAY OUT THE CASH

The Courier Whispers a Few Words in the Coming Treasurer's Ear.

Now, as we are to have a new treasurer, let us whisper in his ear, "Pay out the county cash." Don't let the county money accumulate and lie idle in the vaults or in banks, while the county owes a debt. There is no excuse, and never has been except for two or three months last winter and spring, for keeping any county money in the treasury. It is true that for the few months named, there was a doubt as to what outstanding orders were genuine and what were forged. And till that was fully settled, it was not safe for the treasurer to pay out any money to redeem them. But now, all this is over. The treasurer knows every good order an devery bad one, and he ought to keep the money belonging to the county paid right down to a small figure. There is no other use, to which we can put the county money, because for all fresh expenses we pay, except now and then a "cash order," in newly made orders. And there is no excuse for keeping any money on hand for fresh expenses. Then let all or nearly all the county's money, in the treasury be used to pay the old orders, and keep on doing this. If Fair had done this there never would have been a dispute between him and the Garrett bank as to the amount of money that bank had got out of the treasury. It would have got no money as the money on hand would have gone out to pay the debts the county owed in the shape of outstanding orders. If the treasurer will do this, he will do his duty. Keep his office safe from loss, and so keep his business outside of any "entangling alliances" like that which brought D. W. Fair to the portals of the penitentiary. It is now, a remarkably good time for every county officer to bring the business of his office down to a business basis.

BOY HAYMAKERS.

Get a lot of boys together, even small ones, and they are ready to undertake anything. A number of little fellows got together at the west side Thursday afternoon, and managed to amuse themselves in various ways. Finally they went to Mr. Caruth's barn, and tried working the hay carrier. They hook- the big fork in some way to little Don Sprott and proceded to run him along over the mow. Another lad took hold of the trip rope and "unloaded" Don, who fell in a heap to the hay on the bottom. He was badly shaken up, but not seriously hurt. though the hook had caught him in one or two places. The boys were asked how far Don fell, and one of them cheerfully answered, "Oh, not more than fifteen or twenty feet." Anyone can see the danger of such a fall as that, even on a pile of hay. And if by any chance the boys had let the big fork fall on him, it might have been a serious thing.

A True Remedy.

W. M. Repine, editor Tiskilwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We wont keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you for just as good as Dr. King's new Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record for cures; besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy Trial bottles free at Robbins & McCord's Drug Store.

Horrible! Horrible!

Innocent children by the thousand are constantly dying of diarrhœa whose life might be saved. How quickly the demon works! Flesh speedily wastes away as though subjected to fire. You try change of water, and change of food and change of air. The handiest and quickest and safest thing you can do is to procure at once a bottle of Dr. Hand's Diarrhœa Mixture, at any drug store, for 25c. It's wonderful how quickly it brings good results. Flechler & Son. 0

CASTORIA.
The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Compulsory Education Law.

The Compulsory Education Law enacted by the last session of the General Assembly of the State of Indiana provides, "That every parent guardian or other person in the State of Indiana, having control or charge of any child or children between the ages of 8 and 14 years, shall be required to send such child or children to a public private or parochial schools, or two more of these schools, each school year for a period of at least twelve (12) consecutive weeks in each school year" etc, etc.

That this law may be most effectually executed, the counties are divided into suitable districts and a truant officer appointed to preside over each district. DeKalb county has been divided into four districts.

District number 1, comprises, the townships of Fairfield, Smithfield, Franklin, Troy and Grant, and includes the town of Waterloo, and Mr. Arthur Daniels has been appointed its truant officer.

District number 2, comprises the townships of Richland, Keyser and Butler, and include the town of Garrett: Mr. John H. Houser, of Garrett, has been appointed truant officer.

District number 3, comprises the townships of Union and Jackson, and includes the town of Auburn. Mr. Joseph Link has been appointed truant officer.

District number 4, comprises the townships of Wilmington, Concord, Stafford and Newville, and includes the town of Butler. Mr. A. C. Koeppe of Newville, has been appointed truant officer.

It is hoped that there will be such a complete compliance with the provisions of this law that DeKalb County will not make a single record of a case of violation. If all parents and those in charge of children will but take the proper interest in their children and the schools we shall soon fooget that there is a Compulsory Education Law.

Respectfully,
H. E. COE, Co. Supt

Remington Brothers Estabish an Office in Chicago.

Remington Brothers, of 309 Broadway, New York, have opened a Western office in the Chamber of Commerce Building, Chicago, for the better handling of their increasing Western business, their Eastern office remaining, as heretofore, at 309 Broadway. The firm will continue at both offices with their specialty of county-seat dailies and weekies.—Extract from The Newspaper Maker, July 1, 1897.

Summer Tours 1897

is the title of an unique book issued by the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. The book is made in the shape of a government mail pouch, is handsomely illustrated and contains descriptive matter of large list of summer tours. Sent free on application to A. J. Smith, G. P. and T. A., Cleveland, Ohio. 30

My Baby.

Canton, O., 2-26-'96—Hand Medicine Co.—"My baby had been having wind colic since her birth and she was two months old when I procured a bottle of Dr. Hand's Colic Cure. In less than two weeks' time she was cured of having colic and has never had it since. We had tried several other medicines, but they did no good. I can cheerfully recommend your colic cure to be the best. Mrs. F. H. Rock." Sold by Flechler & Son, 25c.

EATON'S·TANSY·PILLS
A SAFE, SURE AND CERTAIN WOMAN'S RELIEF. Always prompt and reliable. Send postage for EATON'S TANSY PILLS and save a doctor bill. Sold by druggists, price $1 per box. Mailed postpaid on receipt of price. Address The Eaton Chemical Co., Toledo, O.

July Snowballs

Mr. Boland has a letter from Albert Robbins who is now in the far west giving some of his experiences on the trip. Going across the country he made the acquaintance of a Chicago lawyer, who is making a similar trip, and they concluded to go a good deal together. Among other points of interest, they visited Pike's Peak together, and on going up the mountain, they encountered a hard storm of rain and snow. They passed through this and soon after reaching the summit, the clouds cleared away and they were in the sunshine. There was a nice covering of fresh laid snow and they had great fun making July snowballs and throwing them. It was a new experience for both.

HUMPHREYS'
WITCH HAZEL OIL

FOR

Piles or Hemorrhoids.
Fissures & Fistulas.
Burns & Scalds.
Wounds & Bruises.
Cuts & Sores.
Boils & Tumors.
Eczema & Eruptions.
Salt Rheum & Tetters.
Chapped Hands.
Fever Blisters.
Sore Lips & Nostrils.
Corns & Bunions.
Stings & Bites of Insects.

Three Sizes, 25c, 50c. and $1.00.

Sold by druggists, or sent post-paid on receipt of price
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York.

ALBERT ROBBINS, PRES. J. C. HENEY, V. P

FARMERS BANK.
—INCORPORATED—
AND UNDER STATE CONTROL.

Capital and Surplus $50,000

Transacts a General Banking Business and pays Interest on time Deposits.

A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

J. H. JOHNSTON,
DENTAL SURGEON,
Auburn — Indiana.

OFFICE OVER PIONEER HARDWARE STORE.

SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO PLATE WORK

F. W. HOFFMAN,
DENTIST,
AUBURN, - - - - - - INDIANA

Office in Gandy building, northeast corner of Square.....

CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.

S. B. JOHNSTON,
DENTIST.
AUBURN - - INDIANA

Office, 25 North Main Street.
Most Difficult Operations, a Specialty.
Telephone No. 27, Western.

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS.

Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, Corner Main and Sixth Streets.

Professional Calls Promptly Answered.

Telephones: Western, 19; Central Union, 19

D. J. Swarts, M. D. Vesta W. Swarts, M. D

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.
AUBURN, INDIANA.

Capital and Surplus $60,000.

Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest, if left six months. County and town orders bought and sold. Money to loan.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN, PRESIDENT
CHAS. McCLELLAN, CASHIER.

T. O. BUCHTEL, HOMEOPATHIC
Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to Chronic and Obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Madden Bros Marble Works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, day or night.

ZYCOPHORUS!

ZYCOPHORUS is the latest and greatest, scientific composition of medicines for the cure of all Kidney, Bladder, Sexual and Nervous Diseases. It is purely vegetable and has an immediate marvelous action. Hundreds have been cured by Zycophorus after the failure of all other methods. We do not offer a large reward for cases it will not cure, but give a written guarantee to cure or refund money. Cures all kidney and bladder diseases such as painful, dribbling, burning, or difficult urination, dropsical swellings, gravel, cystitis, albumen, sugar, mucus, blood, and other deposits and discharges, and such sexual and nervous disease as emissions, vital drain in urine, varicocele, impotency, impaired memory, weak back, melancholy, premature decline of the manly powers, etc. Renews sexual life in both sexes, and builds up the nerve and brain tissues. One package will prove its efficacy. Six packages guaranteed to cure or money refunded. Price per package, 50 cents six packages, $2.50. For sale at drug stores or sent prepaid to any address on receipt of price. Send for circular.

TILMAN CHEMICAL CO.,
Toledo, O.

A Wonder Worker.

One of the greatest, medical discoveries is Dr. John W. Bull's Pills for the cure of indigestion, sick headache, sick stomach and constipation. They do not purge violently, but gently promote internal cleanliness without debilitating the system; nor do they nauseate the stomach. Dr. John W. Bull's Pills (60 in a box) cost but 25 cts; trial box, 10 cts., at all dealers, or by mail from A. C. Meyer & Co., Balto., Md. Buy the genuine Dr. John W. Bull's Pills. Sold by F. E. Davenport, Auburn.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

1897. JULY. 1897.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
•	•	•	•	1	2	3
4	5	6	7	8	9	10
11	12	13	14	15	16	17
18	19	20	21	22	23	24
25	26	27	28	29	30	31
•	•	•	•	•	•	•

F. Q. 7th. F. M. 13th. L. Q. 21st. N. M. 29th.

AROUND THE WORLD.

INTELLIGENCE FROM ALL PARTS OF THE GLOBE.

News from Foreign Shores—Domestic Happenings—Personal Pointers—Labor Notes—Political Occurrences—Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Etc.

WOODFORD'S INSTRUCTIONS.

Minister to Spain Given Direction to Push the Ruiz Claim Upon Spain.

This Government has directed United States Minister Woodford formally to present to the Spanish Goverment and press the claim of the family of the late Dr. Ruiz for indemnity in $75,000, on account of his death in jail in Cuba. Mr. Woodford's instructions, which are just completed, set out the reason for the presentation of the claims in detail. They show that this Government, animated solely by the love of truth and right, and a spirit of justice, after mature consideration of the substantial uncontroverted facts in the case, has reached the conclusion that all of the proceedings against Ruiz after his arrest and the notice given to Cuban authorities of his American citizenship, were illegal, wrongful and arbitrary. It is held that these proceedings were in violation of his treaty rights and resulted in his death and that therefore they warrant the demand for indemnity. While the circumstances would justify a demand for a much larger sum of money, yet Mr. Woodford is instructed to say that in proof of the spirit of moderation and absolute justice with which the United States Government is animated, the Government of Spain is requested to pay the indemnity named.

Damaging Floods in Illinois.

Fairbury (Ill.) special: The storm which swept over this section recently did more damage than was at first supposed. Forrest, five miles east, seems to have been the center of the flood, the water reaching a depth of over a foot on Main street, flooding all the cellars and buildings, located in low places. The water rose to a depth of several feet in them. Sidewalks and small structures were moved out of their places, and the damage will be considerable in the city alone. Both the Wabash and Toledo, Peoria and Western Railroads had to abandon their trains, as several bridges were in bad shape and a portion of the tracks were washed out. Bridges in rural districts were also carried away by the rushing of water, and the damage to the oats and corn is heavy, especially the oats, which are flattened to the ground.

Lynchers Invade a Court Room.

Major Terrell, a negro, assaulted Mrs. Martin Thomas, a white woman, living five miles east of Elba, Ala. She was alone in the house with her 6-months-old baby. After the assault the woman was struck on the head and thrown on the bed beside her sleeping infant. Fagots of pine wood were then placed upon her by Terrell and set on fire. The flames attracted some passers-by and they rescued the woman in time to get her dying statement. The baby was roasted. Terrell was arrested and was being given a preliminary trial, when a mob entered the court room and took him out and hanged him.

'Frisco Invites the President.

President McKinley has planned to visit the Yellowstone Park next September, and steps have been taken to induce him to extend the westward journey to San Francisco. A meeting of citizens was held to consider the best form of presenting the President with an invitation to visit San Francisco at his earliest convenience. A committee was appointed to go to Washington and personally present to the President an invitation to visit the Pacific coast.

Lady Selina Scott Free.

London special: Lady Selina Scott, mother-in-law of Earl Russell, who, in January last, was sentenced to eight months' imprisonment for criminally libeling him, has been released from Holloway Jail. A party of lady friends awaited her outside the prison yard and presented her with bouquets. A large crowd gathered in the vicinity and cheered Lady Scott as she drove away.

A Rich Find.

A special from Jamestown, Cal., says: This town and the entire country is excited on account of the rich strike in the Tansy mines, operated under lease by Colby & Beckwith. The mine is located on the mother lode just this side of Sonora. The workmen struck a pocket and in ten hours they had taken out $31,000 in gold from the pocket, and there is more to follow.

Arrested After Six Years.

George Snyder, who is charged with shooting and killing Albert Hamm in Columbus, Ohio, six years ago, and afterwards made his escape, has been arrested near Chillicothe, Ohio, while working in a harvest field. Snyder shot Hamm at a dance during a quarrel about a girl.

Spaulding Acquitted.

For the second time within two months a jury in the Criminal Court at Chicago found Charles W. Spaulding, ex-Treasurer of the University of Illinois, not guilty of embezzling bonds of that institution. This time, as before, the single word "interest" saved Spaulding. There are still twenty-five indictments against Spaulding, and he will be tried again.

Fatal Fall Down-Stairs.

Miss Lida Mapes of Harrisonville, Ohio, aged 55, fell down a flight of stairs and died of her injuries.

While We Sweltered.

A letter received at Port Townsend, Wash., from Alaska brings particulars of the terrible death of three men—Blackstone, Bottcher and Mollique—who were frozen to death while endeavoring to carry mail from Sunrise City across the glacier to Prince William Sound.

Suicide of Sheridan Mason.

Sheridan F. Mason, the son of William A. Mason, of the stock brokerage firm of Mason, Lewis & Co., committed suicide with a revolver early Monday evening in his father's private office in the New York Life Building, 171 La Salle street, Chicago.

CREEDE ENDS HIS LIFE.

Millionaire Prospector and Mineowner Commits Suicide.

Nicholas C. Creede, the millionaire mine owner, after whom the town of Creede, Colo., is named, committed suicide with morphine at his home in Los Angeles, Cal., because his wife, from whom he had separated, insisted upon renewing their marriage relations. On Jan. 4 last Creede and his wife separated and agreed to dissolve at once, as far as possible without legal process, their marital bonds. Mrs. Creede accepted $20,000 cash and surrendered all further claims upon her husband, at the same time voluntarily withdrawing from his premises. It was understood, after the necessary time had elapsed, Creede would institute legal proceedings and begin suit for absolute divorce. At that time it appeared that both husband and wife were well satisfied that they were not required to maintain intimate relations, and while Mrs. Creede considered that the amount of cash settled upon her was insignificant as compared with her husband's wealth, she left him and took up her home in Alabama. About three weeks ago Mrs. Creede returned to Los Angeles and proposed to her husband a reconciliation. This was much to Creede's distaste, and he endeavored to avoid his wife, but being unsuccessful, he determined to end his life. He took a large dose of morphine and went into the garden to die. He was discovered by a servant and medical aid was summoned, but he died two hours later.

GREAT HOST OF ENDEAVORERS.

Nearly a Quarter of a Million Went to the 'Frisco Convention.

At length it is possible to state with a close approach to exactitude how many delegates attended the Christian Endeavor convention in San Francisco. The registration committee has made a report by States and counties of the number of people registered. The total number of people from other States, territories and foreign countries in attendance is 11,224. From California the registration is 12,694, making a total of 23,918. Outside of California, the biggest delegation was from Illinois, the State sending 1,083, Iowa being next, Pennsylvania third, followed by Ohio, New York, Missouri and Massachusetts in the order named. It is interesting to note that the women from all places outside of the State were almost twice as numerous as the men, the figures being: Women, 7,477; men, 3,747.

WHEAT BINS WILL BE FULL.

Crop in Southern Illinois the Finest Reaped in Years.

Southern Illinois never had a finer wheat crop than this year. The yield is good, ranging from 20 to 30 bushels to the acre; the grain is dry, clean, plump and more than 90 per cent will grade No. 2. The returns per acre are fully double this year what they were last. The corn crop is looking very fine since the recent heavy rains. Tomatoes are a large and so far a profitable crop. The blackberry field is very heavy, both of wild and cultivated berries, and acres of the latter are going to waste because the price is too low to more than pay the cost of marketing. Grapes promise to be an excellent crop.

Twenty Persons Are Missing.

Melzingah reservoir, in the Fishkill mountains, near Matteawan, N. Y., burst at 3 o'clock Wednesday morning, owing to the heavy rains. The water ran into the creek and two miles below, near Dutchess Junction, washed away brickyard buildings, including a boarding house occupied by laborers. It is reported that nine of them were drowned and others are missing. The flood at Dutchess Junction washed away 200 yards of the Hudson River Railroad track. Trains are stalled on each side of the breach. There were two reservoirs in the mountain, the lower one half a mile distant from the other. The upper dam gave way, letting the volume of water into the lower reservoir. This also burst and the water rushed down through a ravine. Van Buren & Timony's brickyard on the Hudson, just below Dutchess Junction, is a mile distant from the site of the lower reservoir. Without warning the flood reached it through the ravine and made terrible havoc. Buildings were torn in pieces and their occupants carried away in the raging flood. The water works system was operated by a private company and supplied the villages of Matteawan and Fishkill-on-the-Hudson. At 9 o'clock seven bodies had been recovered. Two of them were those of Peter Mulligan and his wife, who kept one of the two boarding houses for brickyard laborers that were swept away by the flood. The names of the others are not known. It is reported that twenty are missing. Tons of earth and sand were washed down in the flood. Trains were stalled all the way from Fishkill to Poughkeepsie.

Strike May Last Sixty Days.

Three facts loom up from the mass of news relative to the strike of the soft coal miners. These are: That the strikers are to make a most determined effort to enlist the West Virginia miners in the strike. They see that they cannot win as long as West Virginia coal can be poured into the market. That the Ohio roads hauling West Virginia coal to the lakes are required by their employes to quit hauling that coal or have a strike of their own. That the coal famine is rapidly approaching an acute stage, inconvenience being felt by all middle-western cities consequent upon the decline in supply and advance in price of the fuel. A Cleveland, O., dispatch says: Positive information has been received that the Ohio railroads have decided to refuse to haul West Virginia coal. These roads include the Baltimore and Ohio, the Cleveland, Lorain and Wheeling, the Wheeling and Lake Erie and the Cleveland, Canton and Southern. The information lacks verification. A special from New Straitsville, O., says: "Eight cars of coal standing on the siding at mine No. 3 were let loose by unknown persons and ran half a mile down grade through a switch, making a complete wreck." Dan Hanna, manager of M. A. Hanna & Co., said that as long as the West Virginia coal was mined there could be no particular stringency, as there is sufficient coal out of the earth already to last until winter. Small dealers, however, are squirming over their inability to get coal for retail orders from the big dealers. The big dealers will not part with their supply.

Pays $6,000,000 for a Mine.

It is announced that the negotiations for the purchase of La Esperanza gold mining property, near Toluca, Mexico, by D. D. Lane, representing a California syndicate, have been closed. The consideration was $6,000,000.

Spent $75,000 to Recover $800.

The Barbara Yagle case of Oneonta, N. Y., which has been in litigation for several years, has been settled at a special term of the Supreme Court. The sum involved was $800, and the costs of many trials was $75,000.

Tramps Ride to Death.

A meat train on the Chicago and Northwestern Railway ran into eight derailed cars near Boone, Iowa. Eight tramps are supposed to have been killed. Several trainmen were injured. The whole train was wrecked.

What Do Spaniards Say?

Wednesday in Madrid the Federal party held the annual fete in honor of the one hundred and eighth anniversary of the taking of the bastile in Paris. Senor Margall, the leader of the party, addressed a large meeting, and in the course of his speech expressed the opinion that a steady revolution was now in progress in favor of Cuban autonomy. He said if the Federalists wished to see Cuba pacified and the Philippines returned to a condition of law and order, they must assert their strength and declare for independence.

MARKET FOR OUR WHEAT.

Agricultural Department Sees Possibilities in Eastern Asia.

Some important data as to the possibility of the material extension of the foreign markets for our cereals is given in a report of the Agricultural Department on "United States Wheat for Eastern Asia." Owing to the rapid recent development of new wheat producing areas in other parts of the world and the increasing competition the United States is compelled to meet in European markets the future disposal of our surplus wheat has become an important question. It has been suggested that the changes now taking place in the civilizations of Japan and China may result in the opening there of markets for our wheat that will to some extent compensate us for losses that may be incurred through the increasing competition of other countries in the European markets that this country formerly was able to control. The report says that chief among the conditions of the plausibility of the suggestion is the remarkable increase in our exportations of wheat to eastern Asia during the decade just closing. Most of this wheat is shipped in the form of flour, exports of grain being comparatively small. The total amount of wheat flour shipped to Japan and China during the entire fiscal year 1897, just closed, should reach, it is stated, about 1,000,000 barrels, equivalent to more than 4,500,000 bushels of wheat. The major portion of American flour sent across the Pacific goes to Hong-Kong, and is thence distributed to other Chinese ports. Exports of flour to Japan, while considerably smaller than to China, show an increase during the last few years proportionately even greater than to China. It is estimated that the total exports of wheat flour from this country to Japan during the fiscal year just ended amounted to 200,000 barrels. The exports of wheat in the grain have been chiefly to Japan. American wheat also is sent to eastern Asia in the form of bread and biscuits, but not in very large quantities. Official statistics indicate that the capacity of Japan for wheat production has not increased commensurately with the growth in population, showing constantly increasing dependence upon the wheat fields of other countries for its supply. Clearly, these oriental countries are well worth the attention of the American wheat-grower, especially now that Russia, Argentina and other great wheat producing countries are competing with us so strongly for the European market.

FORM WAR ALLIANCE.

Spain and Japan Said to Have Entered Into a Compact.

A dispatch from Paris to a news agency in London says that inquiry at an American embassy there has elicited a confirmation of the rumor that the Governments of Spain and Japan have arranged an offensive alliance against the United States. The terms of the understanding, which is for the mutual protection of Cuba and Hawaii, provide that in the event of an actively aggressive movement on the part of the United States tending toward interference in Cuban affairs or persistence in the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands, both Spain and Japan shall declare war simultaneously against the United States and shall make hostile demonstrations along both the Atlantic and Pacific coast lines of that country.

PANIC IN A CHURCH.

Terrific Thunder-Storm Nearly Causes a Dangerous Stampede.

A large congregation in the Methodist Church at Elmer, N. J., was panic-stricken by a terrific thunderstorm which passed over the village. Bishops McCabe and Foss, who were conducting the service, averted the danger of a stampede from the building by starting a hymn. The church was crowded to the doors when the storm struck it. Lightning flashed continuously. A tree in the parsonage yard adjoining the church was struck and a big dog owned by the pastor, Rev. Alfred Waggs, was stunned. This incident, which was witnessed through the windows by many people in the church, was responsible for the fears of the congregation. The coolness of the bishops was all that averted a dangerous rush for the doors.

Good Winter Wheat Crop.

The following are the percentages of condition of winter wheat on July 1 in the principal winter wheat producing States, as shown by the monthly report of the statistician of the Department of Agriculture: Pennsylvania, 101; Tennessee, 110; Kentucky, 101; Ohio, 88; Michigan, 78; Indiana, 65; Illinois, 40; Missouri, 52; Kansas, 89; California, 78; Maryland, 111; Virginia, 110; Washington, 105; Oregon, 92.

Great Gathering of Republicans.

The tenth annual convention of the National League of Republican Clubs was called to order Tuesday morning at Detroit.

MARKET QUOTATIONS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.50 to $5.25; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2 red, 72c to 73c; corn, No. 2, 25c to 27c; oats, No. 2, 17c to 19c; rye, No. 2, 35c to 36c; butter, choice creamery, 14c to 15c; eggs, fresh, 7c to 9c; new potatoes, 40c to 50c per bushel.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.00; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, common to choice, $3.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2, 67c to 69c; corn, No. 2 white, 27c to 28c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 22c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 70c to 72c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 24c to 25c; oats, No. 2 white, 17c to 18c; rye, No. 2, 32c to 34c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2, 73c to 76c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 27c to 28c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 19c to 21c; rye, No. 2, 34c to 36c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.50 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 76c to 78c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 26c to 28c; oats, No. 2 white, 24c to 25c; rye, 35c to 36c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 76c to 78c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 25c to 27c; oats, No. 2 white, 18c to 20c; rye, No. 2, 35c to 37c; clover seed, $4.15 to $4.25.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 74c to 75c; corn, No. 3, 26c to 28c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 23c; barley, No. 2, 30c to 36c; rye, No. 1, 35c to 37c; pork, mess, $7.25 to $7.75.

Buffalo—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2 red, 76c to 78c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 30c to 31c; oats, No. 2 white, 24c to 26c.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, $3.50 to $4.25; sheep, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 78c to 80c; corn, No. 2, 30c to 31c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 23c; butter, creamery, 12c to 16c; eggs, Western, 11c to 13c.

BITUMINOUS COAL REGIONS EAST OF THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER.

—New York World.

REPUBLICAN CLUBS MEET.

Tenth Annual Meeting of the League Held in Detroit.

The tenth annual convention of the National League of Republican Clubs opened its session Tuesday morning in the Auditorium at Detroit. The building was brilliantly decorated with bunting and portraits of McKinley, Harrison, Lincoln and Washington. The seats in the hall were divided into sections for the different States. Ohio, Missouri, Vermont, Wyoming, New Hampshire, California, Michigan, New York, Wisconsin, Maryland and Florida occupied the central section; Indiana, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Georgia, North and South Carolina, Kansas, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maine and Connecticut were grouped on the left, and Illinois, Iowa, North and South Dakota, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Utah, Minnesota, Kentucky, Texas, Louisiana, Tennessee, East and West Virginia and Alabama on the right.

There were fully 1,500 delegates present, and twice as many spectators, which included the Tippecanoe Club of Cleveland and the McKinley Club of Dayton, Ohio.

President Woodmansee called the convention to order at 10:30 o'clock. In his annual address he upheld a protective tariff, the gold standard, the unfurling of the American flag over Hawaii, and the Cuban strife for independence. He referred to the fact that the league was free from debt and on a splendid basis.

Gov. Pingree of Michigan and Col. Duffield of Detroit clashed in their speeches of welcome. Gov. Pingree made a speech, giving corporations a rap, and suggested that the convention do something to help the coal miners on strike. Col. Duffield, who followed, said that men who tried to foment strife between capital and labor were dangerous.

The speech of welcome delivered by President Dingley in behalf of the Michigan State League introduced to the convention the son of the framer of the new tariff bill.

Appointment of committees, reports of officers and routine work occupied the morning session. The afternoon was devoted largely to State caucuses.

At the mass meeting Tuesday night the speakers were Charles Emory Smith of Philadelphia, Webster Davis of Kansas City, Mo., John R. Tanner of Illinois, ex-United States Senator Brown of Utah and George Barnes of Oklahoma.

A PLAGUE OF HEAT.

Recent Torrid Spell Has Been as Bad as a Visitation of Cholera.

The heated term through which the country has just passed has been as destructive of life as a visitation of the cholera or yellow fever might have been. The features which have made it exceptional are the large extent of country affected, its long continuance without interruption and the fact that the nights have been almost as hot as the days. Almost every summer the temperature gets up into the nineties in some localities, and may remain there for two or three days with partial relief at night. In the recent case the whole Mississippi valley was affected and the high temperature continued without interruption for more than a week, and with very little relief at night. These conditions combined to increase the number of fatalities. Of these there have been several hundred reported in the news columns. Cincinnati alone reports sixty deaths from sunstroke during seven days. But probably not more than 10 per cent of the cases get into the newspapers. The reports come only from the cities and towns where there is telegraphic communication and a news reporter. There are hundreds of small towns and villages which have made no reports, and the rural districts have not been heard from at all. Throughout a large extent of country harvesting has been going on, and while farmers, as a class, are not as liable to be prostrated by heat as dwellers in cities, many of them must have succumbed to the torrid heat of the last week. The population of the farming districts greatly outnumbers, in the aggregate, that of the cities and towns, and must have furnished its proportion of fatalities. To all these must be added the deaths of very aged persons and of infants, which, though reported under other causes, were due as directly to the heat as if they had occurred from sunstroke. So it is evident the total number of deaths attributable directly to the heat must have amounted to many thousands. It was a veritable plague of heat.

TURKEY'S CRUELTY IS MERCY

Compared to the Savage Sway of Butcher Weyler in Cuba.

Revolution within revolution has broken out in unfortunate Cuba. In Matanzas a few days since over 2,000 reconcentrados, or people who had been forced by Weyler to abandon their homes in the country and live in fortified towns, where they are dying of starvation and disease, paraded the streets demanding bread. Many houses were looted before the authorities could quell the unfortunate people.

From various parts of the island horrible reports of the sufferings of the people are being received. At the town of Guines, in Havana province, over 1,500 deaths have occurred within six weeks, and nine-tenths of the victims were reconcentrados, native Cubans, driven in from their estates by Weyler's bands to starve by degrees within Spanish lines.

From Madruga upward of 100 deaths per week are reported among local reconcentrados. Whole families have succumbed, one by one, to starvation or epidemic disease.

A newspaper says that in the neighboring Santa Clara town of Zulueta, among the local reconcentrados starving in the streets, there are hundreds of native Cuban women and children in a perfectly nude state. The rainy season having begun, the roofless reconcentrados are reported dying daily in this little Santa Clara outpost, their bodies being removed by night and burned on the village outskirts.

In the Santa Clara village of Jicoteau hunger is so great among the floating reconcentrado population that mothers are being accused of strangling their half-grown children to hush their cries for bread and stop their sufferings.

At Viegna de Palma 1,600 reconcentrados are huddled in the local plaza, under a tropical sun, without any shelter whatever, the women and children sleeping upon the bare ground and exposed to drenching rains. Each day a dead cart passes and takes eight to ten victims of smallpox, fever or starvation away to the cemetery.

BIMETALLIC MISSION A FAILURE

Americans Said to Have Made Little Headway in Europe.

A dispatch to the New York World from London says that the bimetallic commission is one of absolute failure. The general impression among those in a position to know is that the reports of success in France have been circulated in order to reconcile the American public to the expenditure of large sums of money without result.

The principal Paris newspapers have referred to the commission in terms which, while conforming to the rules of artificial Gallic courtesy, have been not far from ridicule. Le Temps calls attention to the fact that while France objects to spending the money necessary to improve her navy, the United States has money enough to spend uselessly on a commission intrusted with an impossible mission and costing the taxpayers $500,000.

M. Hanotaux himself is authority for the statement that the mission absolutely failed and could not be accomplished by anyone. He speaks highly of the members of the commission personally, but refuses to take the bimetallic scheme seriously. He smiles at the statement that France would stand shoulder to shoulder with the United States in efforts to bring about international bimetallism.

NOTED BALL PLAYER.

Fred Pfeffer Leaves the Chicago Team for All Time.

In the release of Fred Pfeffer the Chicago ball team loses one of its most noteworthy characters and one of the best players who ever wore a Chicago uniform. During the days when the game was young and the Chicagos had things their own way, Pfeffer was one of the members of the famous "Stonewall Infield," and with the exception of Anson he is the last of the men forming that combination to serve on the team. It is not known whether he will seek another position in the National League or not. Pfeffer was one of the leaders in the Brotherhood movement and felt much disappointed over its failure.

FRED PFEFFER.

DECIDE TO TRY PRAYER.

Members of the W. C. T. U. Must Raise $250,000 by January.

The efficacy of prayer is to be tried by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union in the matter of raising the $250,000 necessary to clear the Woman's Temple in Chicago from debt.

Should the debt not be paid before January next the building, it is said, will pass into the hands of Marshall Field. The amount owed is about $300,000, and of this Mr. Field has promised to give $50,000 if payment is made before the first of the year. Prayer meetings have been called.

Sparks from the Wires.

Charles E. Davis, a laborer of Des Moines, was drowned in the Raccoon river. It is thought to be purely accidental.

The Bank of Spain at Madrid has greatly inflated its note circulation, which is now said to equal 1,900,000,000 pesetas.

Nicaragua objects to Costa Rica's recent decree allowing free imports, and war is threatened between the two countries.

A dispatch to the London Times from the Cape says that the native outbreak in Ghaziland is assuming alarming proportions.

The police of Russia are endeavoring to break up a sect who regard suicide by starvation as the highest form of religious devotion.

The Portuguese Government denies the existence of any syndicate of Boers and Germans formed for the purchase of Delagoa Bay.

A number of cities contested at Minneapolis for the next national meeting of the Elks. New Orleans won, with Louisville second.

Swindlers are going through the black belt imposing on ignorant negroes by informing them that Congress has passed a law pensioning all ex-slaves and collecting fees for their enrollment.

INDIANA INCIDENTS.

RECORD OF EVENTS OF THE PAST WEEK.

Sister of an Indiana Convict Will Secure His Freedom — Rival Correspondents Fight with Serious Results —Lightning Sets Oil Afire.

Pardon for a "Lifer."

The Governor will parole William W. Kennedy, a "lifer." During the campaign of 1884, while Gen. Logan was speaking to a throng at Greensburg, gangs of pickpockets plundered right and left until the enraged citizens gave chase. Leading in the pursuit was David Baker, a popular young man, who was shot dead. Kennedy was accused of the crime and after arrest at Cincinnati, his home, he was returned to Decatur County and convicted. Since that time his sister, Kate Kennedy, a brilliant young woman, confident of her brother's innocence, has employed every agency to prove him guiltless. Disguised as a detective and as a newsboy and bootblack, she frequented the resorts of thieves, hopeful of securing needed evidence and this failing she enlisted prominent men all over the country to petition for Kennedy's pardon. Her efforts were herculean. Gov. Gray, Gov. Matthews and the present chief executive were each importuned in turn, and finally Mount has yielded. Senator Foraker is among those petitioning for clemency. Some years ago nearly every member of the Indiana Legislature signed a similar petition upon Miss Kennedy's solicitation.

Loses His Leg in a Duel.

A sharp rivalry between Samuel Leonard and W. H. McDermott, rural correspondents of metropolitan newspapers, both residing at English, culminated in a shooting affray, in which Leonard was wounded in the right leg. The limb was amputated. It is claimed that they attempted to settle their differences by the code duello, and both were placed under bonds of $2,500 each for dueling. McDermott is a hopeless cripple, propelling himself about the streets in a little cart.

Blazing Oil in Anderson's Streets.

Two 250-barrel oil tanks at Anderson, owned by Harmon Black & Co., were struck by lightning Saturday and torn open. As the oil was freed it ignited and spread fire in every direction. The tanks were full, but were still connected with the well. The valve was open and twelve barrels per hour were added to the blaze. All attempts to put out the fire were unavailing. Considerable surrounding property was damaged.

All Over the State.

At Kokomo, John Kirkpatrick was killed by the cars. He was crossing the track riding a reaper.

Typhoid fever attacks over 20,000 persons in Indiana every year; 1,600 died from the disease in 1896.

Five hundred thousand hogs die of hog cholera annually in Indiana. Loss involved, at least $5,000,000.

William D. Johns, a Martinsville architect, hanged himself, the result of ill-health. He leaves a wife and six grown children.

Fred Beitler, a farmer near Huntington, was found dead in bed. Heart disease is thought to have been the cause of his death.

There have been thirteen deaths in the Muncie suburb of Avondale, nearly all being children. The epidemic is attributed to shallow wells.

Mrs. Joseph Ferrand, a young farmer's wife near Martinsville, has disappeared from home and her relatives have been unable to find her.

At Kokomo, a Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis special, carrying the officials of the road, struck Mrs. John Dabney, killing her instantly.

At Kokomo, the Union dry goods establishment of J. A. Southard assigned to William Trueblood. Assets, $10,000; liabilities, $12,000. Preferred claims of $4,500 are held by his wife and son. Southard came from Hoopeston, Ill., four months ago.

Mrs. John Sherer of Peru awoke earlier than usual Sunday with the fear that her brother had been killed. She passed an anxious day without hearing anything, but in the evening a telegram saying her brother, Clinton E. Reis, had been accidentally shot and killed at Brinkley, Ark. He formerly lived in Peru and was a railroad man.

Gov. Mount said that his sympathy is all with the strikers in the present contest between the operators and miners. He is investigating his authority as chief executive to take a hand in the struggle, and if he sees his way clear will appoint an investigating commission. The Governor's action in that event will depend upon the report of the commission from actual contact with the strikers. The Governor's pet aversion is the company store.

A double funeral took place in Huntington Monday. Mrs. Bartlett, aged 81 years, and her brother, James Roche, aged 73 years, died on Friday within a few hours of each other. Mrs. Bartlett was the wealthiest woman in the county. James Roche was a bachelor and for years was librarian of the city library. The two caskets were exactly alike, as were the hearses which headed the long procession to and from the Catholic church.

Thomas C. Andis, living near Scottsburg, is engaged in the cultivation of honey bees to a large extent. Nearly every hive on his farm has been destroyed. The excessive heat caused the honeycombs in the hives to melt, which in starting to run drowned the busy bees. Only a few of the sedulous insects escaped and these have taken to the woods. The honey ran down and out of the hives and is covering the ground in the immediate neighborhood of the honey vaults. As Mr. Andis' chief efforts are devoted to the cultivation of the honey bee, the loss of these millions of workers will reach a snug sum at the close of the season.

Judge E. C. Field, for the Monon Railway, is at Anderson investigating the rights and claims of the Chicago and Southeastern Railway, and local papers say there is a deal on by which the Monon will lease or purchase the Chicago and Southeastern.

Mrs. William T. Ziegler of Anderson instituted proceedings for divorce from her husband, the Rev. W. H. Ziegler. She says she has supported herself for two years, being a professional singer in New York. Ziegler resigned his pastorate in Anderson five years ago and failed in the real estate business.

George Rowe, a wealthy farmer, filed suit in the Boone Circuit Court against Dr. Amos Bennington, a prominent physician of Max, for alleged alienation of the affections of Mrs. Rowe. He wants $10,000 damages. Dr. Bennington is 60 years of age.

A Wise Man.

"Socrates," said Solomon, "you are known as a wise man. What really did you know?"

"Nothing" said Socrates. "And that, my dear Solomon, is my only reason for saying that I knew as much as you did."—Harper's Bazar.

"Nothing else like it."
The most refreshing and pleasant Soap for the skin.

It lasts twice as long as others.
A trial will convince you of its great merit. Will please the most fastidious.
CHARLES F. MILLER,
Mfr. of FRENCH MILLED TOILET SOAPS AND PERFUMERY,
Lancaster, Penn.
ESTABLISHED, 1849.

WHY NOT BUY THE BEST?

A GOOD SADDLE is the most noticeable and taking point on a Bicycle.
When buying insist on getting a
BURNS SPRING SADDLE.
Take no other. Get a Burns and GET THE BEST.
Manufactured by the
GRAND RAPIDS CYCLE SEAT MFG. CO.,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Patton's House Painting Model
shows just how your house would look if painted any one of 20,000 artistic combinations of colors. Designed and made only for the manufacturers of PATTON'S PURE LIQUID PAINTS. Sent postpaid upon receipt of 10 cts. "How to Increase the Size of Your House With Paint" mailed free.
JAS. E. PATTON CO.,
Dep't X. MILWAUKEE, WIS., U.S.A

ECLIPSE
Poultry Brooder.
BEST MADE.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR, which explains why you should use a BROODER, and why you should purchase the
ECLIPSE BROODER.
Also gives testimonials from MANY WHO HAVE USED THEM.
CAPACITY, 100 CHICKS.
Size: 32 inches long, 32 inches wide, 26 inches high. Weight, 135 lbs.
Price: Single one, $9.00.
Two or more, $8.50 apiece.
If not as represented, money refunded.
JOHN D. WINGERT,
MANUFACTURER,
FAYETTEVILLE, - PENN.

NIAGARA
BICYCLES

CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION.
CORRESPONDENCE INVITED.
Reliable Agents Wanted.
BUFFALO WHEEL CO.,
BUFFALO, N. Y.

THE LONG, HARD HILL.

They were standing in the sunlight
Of the summer time of life;
She was still without a husband,
He was waiting for a wife.
And her cheeks were rich and rosy
And her lips were luscious red,
So he pressed her dimpled fingers
As he looked at her and said,
As they stood there in the heather
Where the road had crossed the rill:
"May we not fare together
Up this long, hard hill?"

Now her hand began to tremble
And her eyes were full of tears
As she trained them on the road that
Wound away among the years;
But she had no voice to answer
Him; she could not understand,
For the future lay before her
Like a far-off fairy land.
There was sunlight on the heather,
There was music in the rill,
As they went away together
Up the long, hard hill.

Oftentimes the way was sunny,
Other times 'twas full of lures,
But the love that had come to them
Was the true love that endures,
Though the bonny brow is wrinkled,
Though the raven lock be gray,
Yet the road might have been rougher
Had she gone the other way.
Now the frost is on the heather
And the snow is on the rill,
And they're coasting down the short side
Of the long, hard hill.
—Cy Warman, in New York Sun.

LOYAL TO COUNTRY.

One warm morning in the spring of 1780 Mrs. Slocumb was sitting on the broad piazza about her home on a large plantation in South Carolina. Her husband and many of his neighbors were with Sumter, fighting for the struggling colonies, but on this beautiful morning there were almost no signs of war to be seen. As yet this plantation had not been molested, and as Mrs. Slocumb glanced at her little child playing near her, or spoke to her sister, who was her companion, or addressed a word to the servants, there was no alarm manifest. But in a moment the entire scene was changed.

"There come some soldiers," said her sister, pointing toward an officer and twenty troopers, who turned out of the highway and entered the yard.

Mrs. Slocumb made no reply, although her face became pale, and there was a tightening of the lips as she watched the men. Her fears were not allayed when she became satisfied that the leader was none other than the hated Col. Tarleton. That short, thick-set body, dressed in a gorgeous scarlet uniform, the florid face and cruel expression, proclaimed the approaching officer only too well. But the mistress gave no sign of fear as she arose to listen to the words of the leader, who soon drew his horse to a halt before her.

Raising his cap and bowing to his horse's neck, he said: "Have I the pleasure of addressing the mistress of this plantation?"

"It is my husband's."

"And is he here?"

"He is not."

"He is no rebel, is he?"

"No, sir. He is a soldier in the army of his country and fighting her invaders."

"He must be a rebel and no friend of his country if he fights against his king."

"Only slaves have masters here," replied the undaunted woman.

Tarleton's face flushed, but he made no reply, and, turning to one of his companions, gave orders for a camp to be made in the orchard near by. Soon the 1,100 men in his command had pitched their tents, and the peaceful plantation took on the garb of war.

Returning to the piazza and again bowing low the British colonel said: "Necessity compels his majesty's troops to occupy your place for a time, and I will have to make my quarters in your house; that is, if it will not be too great an inconvenience to you."

"My family consists at present of only myself, my child and sister, besides the servants, and we must obey your orders."

In less than an hour the entire place was transformed. The white tents covered the lawn, horses were tied to the high rail fences, soldiers in bright uniforms were moving here and there. Before entering the house the British colonel called some of his officers and gave sharp orders for scouring the country within the neighborhood of ten or fifteen miles.

"HO' ON, MASSA!"

This sharp command was not lost upon Mrs. Slocumb, nor was she slow to act upon it herself, as we soon shall see. But for the present, trying to stifle her fears, she determined to make the best of the situation and avert all the danger possible by providing for the comfort of Tarleton and his men, and accordingly she had a dinner soon ready fit for a king, and surely far too good for such a cruel and bloodthirsty man as Tarleton soon was known to be.

When the colonel and his staff were summoned to the dining-room they sat down to a table which fairly groaned beneath the good things heaped upon it. It was such a dinner as only the South Carolina matrons knew how to prepare, and the men soon became jovial under its influences. "We shall have few sober men by morning," said a captain, "if this is the way we are to be treated. I suppose when this little war is over all this country will be divided among the soldiers. Eh, colonel?"

"Undoubtedly the officers will occupy large portions of the country," replied Tarleton.

"Yes, I know just how much they will each occupy," said Mrs. Slocumb, unable to maintain silence longer.

"And how much will that be, madam?" inquired Tarleton, bowing low.

"Six feet two."

The colonel's face again flushed with anger, as he replied: "Excuse me, but I shall endeavor to have this very plantation made over to me as a ducal seat."

"I have a husband, whom you seem to forget, and I can assure you he is not the man to allow even the king himself to have a quiet seat on his ground."

But the conversation suddenly was interrupted by the sounds of firing.

"Some straggling scout running away," said one of the men, not quite willing to leave the table.

"No, sir. There are rifles there, and a good many of them, too," said Tarleton, rising quickly and running to the piazza, an example which all, including Mrs. Slocumb, at once followed. She was trembling now, for she felt assured that she could explain the cause of the commotion.

"May I ask, madam," said Tarleton, turning to her as soon as he had given his orders for the action of his troops, "whether any of Washington's forces are in this neighborhood or not?"

"You must know that Gen. Green and the marquis are in South Carolina, and I have no doubt you would be pleased to see Lee once more. He shook your hand very warmly the last time he met you, I am told."

An oath escaped the angry colonel's lips, and he glanced for a moment at the scar which the wound Lee had made had left on his hand, but he turned abruptly and ordered the troops to form on the right and he dashed down the lawn.

A shout and the sound of firearms drew the attention of Mrs. Slocumb to the long avenue that led to the house. A cry escaped her at the sight, for there was her husband, followed by two of her neighbors, pursuing on horseback a band of five tories whom Tarleton had sent to scour the country.

BOWING TO HIS HORSE'S NECK.

On and on they came, and it was evident that the pursuers were too busy to have noticed the army of Tarleton. Broad swords and various kinds of weapons were flashing in the air, and it was plain that the enraged Slocumb saw nothing but the tories he was pursuing. Could nothing be done? Would they run into the very heart of the camp? Mrs. Slocumb tried to scream and warn her husband, but not a sound could she make. One of the tories had just fallen, when she saw her husband's horse suddenly stop and swerve to one side. What was the cause?

Sambo, the slave whom Mrs. Slocumb had dispatched, as soon as Tarleton had come, to warn her husband, had started promptly on his errand, but the bright coats of the British had so charmed him that he had lingered about the place, and when the sound of the guns was heard Sambo had gone only as far as the hedgerow that lined the avenue. Discretion became the better part of valor then, and the negro in his fear had crawled beneath it for shelter; but when his frightened face beheld his master approaching he had mustered enough courage to crawl forth from his hiding place and startle the horses as they passed.

"Hol' on, massa! Hol' on!" he shouted.

Recognizing the voice, Slocumb and his followers for the first time stopped and glanced about them. Off to their left were a thousand men within pistol shot. As they wheeled their horses they saw a body of horsemen leaping the hedge and already in their rear. Quickly wheeling again, they started directly for the house near which the guard had been stationed. On they swept, and, on leaping the fence of lath about the garden patch, amid a shower of bullets, they started through the open lots. Another shower of bullets fell about them as their horses leaped the broad brook, or canal, as it was called, and then almost before the guard had cleared the fences they had gained the shelter of the woods beyond and were safe.

The chagrin of the British Tarleton was as great as the relief of Mrs. Slocumb, and when on the following day the troops moved on, the cordial adieu of the hostess led the colonel to say: "The British are not robbers, madam. We shall pay for all we have taken."

"I am so rejoiced at what you have not taken that I shall not complain if I do not hear from you again."

And she neither heard nor complained.—Everett T. Tomlinson, in Chicago Record.

PRINCESS VICTORIA.

The Simple Life of England's Queen in Her Childhood Days.

James Cassidy has written for St. Nicholas an article on the "Girlhood Days of England's Queen," in the course of which he says:

There was an occupation in which the wee woman of seven years, wearing a simple white gown and large straw hat, was frequently seen engaged. It was watering the garden plants. One of those who saw her said that as he sometimes watched her intently at work, he wondered which would get the most water, the plants or her own little feet!

The Princess was an early riser, getting up at seven, frequently earlier in the summer, and breakfasting at eight o'clock. Her breakfast was just such as any well-cared-for little girl, who was not a Princess, might be expected to enjoy; bread-and-milk and fruit, placed on a small table by her mother's side.

When breakfast was finished the little Princess went for a walk or a drive, while her half-sister, Feodore, her almost constant companion, studied with her governess. From ten to twelve the Duchess instructed 'Dina, after which she was at liberty to wander at will through the rooms, or to play with her many costly toys.

Two o'clock was the dinner-hour of the Princess, though the luncheon-hour of the Duchess. Plain food, nicely cooked, was placed before the little girl; and she did it justice, for she was healthy and strong, and enjoyed her meals. After dinner she received assistance in her studies till four o'clock, when she was taken by her mother to visit a friend, or perhaps to walk or drive or she was permitted to ride a donkey in the gardens.

At the dinner-hour of the Duchess her little girl supped, seated next to her mother. Then came a romp with her nurse, Mrs. Brock. By the time the romp was finished the house-party would be at their dessert, and then the Princess would be called in to join them.

Nine o'clock was bedtime, and she never prolonged her day beyond that hour. No matter whether she was at home or at the house of a friend, "nine-o'clock bedtime was rigidly enforced." Her little bed was placed beside her mother's larger bed, so that by day and night mother and daughter were never far apart.

Regular study, regular exercise, simple food, and plenty of time out of doors, plenty of play and plenty of sleep, distinguished the up-bringing of England's future Queen.

Value of the Egg in Sickness.

The value of egg albumen as food in certain diseased conditions is pointed out by Dr. C. E. Boynton. When fever is present and appetite is nil, he says, when we want an aseptic article of diet, the white of an egg, raw, serves both as food and medicine. The way to give it is to drain off the albumen from an opening about half an inch in diameter at the small end of the egg, the yelk remaining inside the shell; add a little salt to this and direct the patient to swallow it. Repeat every hour or two. In typhoid fever this mode of feeding materially helps us in carrying out an antiseptic plan of treatment. Furthermore, the albumen to a certain extent may antidote the toxines of the disease. Patients may at first rebel at the idea of eating a "raw" egg, but the quickness with which it goes down without the yelk proves it to be less disagreeable than they supposed, and they are very ready to take a second dose.—Pacific Medical Journal.

Not Specific Enough.

"Am I the only woman you ever loved?"

"Oh, no," he answered promptly; "you are the sixth."

"The sixth!" she exclaimed, suddenly relieving his shoulder of the weight of her head.

"Yes," he said, coldly, "there are five before you—my mother, an aunt and three sisters."

And thereafter she endeavored to be more specific when asking questions.—Tit-Bits.

His Wastefulness.

Sapsmith—Do you know, Miss Sally, I spend a gweat deal of my time in self-contemplation?

Sally Gay—Isn't that more like throwing it away than spending it, Mr. Sapsmith?—Puck.

It is better to keep the wolf out of the fold than to trust to drawing his teeth and claws after he shall have entered.

IT IS THE SAME OLD STORY.

TRIALS IN CHINA.

Cruelty Characterizes Celestial Administration of Justice.

That the tender mercies of the Chinese are cruel is one of those axioms which need no proof; and a case which was lately reported illustrates in a striking manner the extraordinary indifference to human life and suffering which characterizes both this callous people and their ruthless governors. The case in point was reported to the Throne by Liu-Pingchang, the ex-Viceroy of Szech uan, who states that within his jurisdiction there dwelt a family of the name of Wu, the implicated members of which were the grandfather, father and son. On the occasion in question the patriarch Wu attended a neighboring market to make purchases and to have his wood-cleaver sharpened. When starting on his mission he noticed that his grandson was unemployed, and being of a frugal turn of mind he bade him accompany him and take some of the home-farm produce for sale. This apparently disturbed the irascible temper of the young man, who took the opportunity of being in the neighborhood of a wine-shop to take a great deal more of the local spirit than was good for him. He was not so tipsy, however, as to be unable to carry the oil-basket and bamboo-pole which were among the purchases which his grandfather had made. On the way home the elder Wu took the opportunity to rebuke him for his intemperance, a proceeding which so enraged the youthful scion of the house that he snatched from the old man the cleaver which he carried, and knocked him down with a terrible blow on the neck. The spot where the old man fell happening to be rocky, the jagged edges of the stones completed the deed of murder, and he never moved again. Horrified at the consequence of his crime, the grandson cast about for means of disposing of the body, and remembering the oil-basket, he dismembered the corpse, and having packed the remains in the basket, carried it off and threw it into a neighboring pond. He did not succeed, however, in doing this without having been observed. A certain neighbor named Tso had seen him throw the basket into the water, and finding him flushed and excited, plied him with such searching questions that Wu ultimately confessed his crime. At the same time he bound Tso to secresy, and threatened that if he revealed the murder he would charge him with having been an accomplice. Tso vowed that not a syllable relating to it should pass his lips, and then went off and reported the whole affair to the son of the murdered man and the father of the murderer. Horror-stricken, the father laid the whole matter before the magistrate; the case was tried, the murderer made a full confession—in answer to what tortures we are not told—and then came the question of the sentence.

THE TRIAL AND CONFESSION OF WU.
Reproduced from a picture in the Pekin (China) Gazette.

Liu-Pingchang recommended that the prisoner should be put to death by the "slow and lingering process," which consists of the culprit being tied to a cross and being then sliced in the fleshy parts of the body with the number of cuts which the judge considers meet the circumstances of the case. This sentence the Emperor confirmed; but the Chinese sense of justice forbade Liu to stop there. By most people it would be thought that the father of the murderer acted with laudable promptitude, and, considering his relationship, with a very full sense of what was right. But Liu, interpreting the national theory of interdependence, held that the father should not be allowed to escape scot-free, as he had proved himself incapable of bringing up his son in the way he should go, and he expounded the law by saying that, as in the case of a wife who murders her father or mother-in-law, the husband should receive forty blows on the execution ground, should then, kneeling, be made to gaze on the infliction of the slow and lingering process on his erraut wife, and at its close receive another forty blows, so in this case the father should suffer like penalties. To this, likewise, the Emperor assented, and the gruesome scene was enacted with the full letter of the law.

NOT ALLOWED IN RUSSIA.

Influential Californian Cannot Enter the Czar's Domain.

Adolph Kutner, the Californian who was not permitted to cross the frontier of Russia owing to his political and religious convictions, is one of the most influential citizens of the Golden State. He came to the United States, a refugee, from Russia nearly fifty years ago, and went to California in 1852. He started in business in San Francisco and did very well until his partner absconded with all the firm's funds. Then Mr. Kutner set to work to rehabilitate himself, which he did by hard work and thrift. Mr. Kutner branched out and opened a business in Fresno. He built the first schoolhouse and presented it to the city. He is now the leading banker of that interesting little town, president of the most important commercial house of the San Joaquin Valley, and operates large stores at Fresno, Hanford, Selma, Fowler, Sanger and Madera. He is a large shareholder in the leading banks of all these California cities. He supports a fine residence in San Francisco and has made several visits to Europe, but he has never before attempted to cross the border into Russia. His relatives in that country have always gone to Germany to meet him. Mr. Kutner is one of the wealthiest men in the San Joaquin Valley, and has contributed liberally to the support of the less fortunate members of his family. One of his brothers was an eminent physician in Guben, Germany.

ADOLPH KUTNER.

"SIX-TOED TRILBY."

She's the Mascot of a Political Club in New York.

The Citizens' Union of New York City has a Maltese cat with six toes. Six-toed cats from time immemorial have been regarded as mascots. Though burdened with the name of Trilby, the mascot is of a cheerful disposition and even temper.

"SIX-TOED TRILBY."

At the Club.

"When I see a man sit and play solitaire all the evening I always think he must like himself pretty well."

"Yes, and it looks as though he had a sort of monopoly in it, too."—Chicago Journal.

Some girls seem to think that when they walk along the street all the men ought to wear blinkers, like horses.

SENATE AND HOUSE.

WORK OF OUR NATIONAL LAWMAKERS.

A Week's Proceedings in the Halls of Congress—Important Measures Discussed and Acted Upon—An Impartial Resume of the Business.

The National Solons.

A discussion of Union Pacific Railroad affairs occupied the attention of the Senate Monday. The deficiency appropriation bill was taken up early in the day and Mr. Morgan proposed an amendment designed to prevent the consummation of an agreement made some time since for the settlement of the Government's claims against the road. Mr. Morgan spoke throughout the day, severely arraigning the Pacific railroad managers. Late in the day the entire subject was disposed of by the withdrawal of the paragraph to which Mr. Morgan had offered his amendment. The deficiency appropriation bill was not completed up to the time of adjournment.

The price to be paid for armor plate for the three new battle-ships now in course of construction was the theme of extended and at times lively debate in the Senate Tuesday. Late in the day an amendment to the deficiency appropriation bill was agreed to restricting the price of armor plate to $300 per ton, or $125 less than the amendment reported by the committee and recommended by the navy department as the minimum rate acceptable to the armor contractors. Another amendment inserted in the bill directed the Secretary of the Navy to investigate as to the establishment of a government armor factory and to report to the next session of Congress. Then the deficiency appropriation bill, the last of the great supply measures, was passed. The House took a recess for one day without transacting any business.

The Senate was in a deadlock for several hours Wednesday, with business at a standstill, while calls of the Senate, roll calls and other parliamentary expedients were resorted to. It was due to the effort to secure action on the resolutions of Mr. Harris of Kansas, designed to prevent the disposal of the Government lien on the Union Pacific Railway under the terms of an alleged agreement. No final vote on the motion was secured. It finally went over. In the House Mr. Henderson of Iowa asked unanimous consent for the consideration of a joint resolution to permit the erection of a temporary studio on the future site of the statue of Gen. Sherman, for the erection of which a contract has been made. The resolution was adopted. Mr. Cannon moved non-concurrence in the Senate amendment to the general deficiency bill. The motion prevailed, and Messrs. Cannon, Northway and Sayers were appointed conferees.

Mr. Stewart moved in the Senate Thursday a reconsideration of the action of the Senate in passing the resolution directing the Secretary of War to proceed in the construction of a breakwater at San Pedro, Cal. It reopened the long-standing controversy over the location of a deep water harbor on the Pacific coast and led to an exciting debate between Mr. Stewart and Mr. White of California. The motion to reconsider was disagreed to. Mr. Thurston, chairman of the Committee on International Expositions, secured the passage of the joint resolution accepting the invitation of the French republic to take part in the international exposition at Paris in 1900. Mr. Tillman secured the passage of the bill in relation to the interstate transportation of distilled spirits and declaring such spirits to be subject to State laws to the same extent as spirits distilled in the State. The House did nothing.

In the Senate Friday the Harris resolution relating to the Union Pacific Railroad was further discussed. The conference report on the deficiency appropriation bill was considered. Mr. Hale said the price of armor plate was not included in the report. Nothing had been done on that subject except that the Senate conferees had stated positively that the Senate would not consider any sum over $300 for armor. The report was agreed to and a further conference ordered. Mr. Morgan secured the adoption of a resolution requesting the President for information as to the arrest of Alfred O. H. Hugnet, a citizen of the United States, by the Spanish authorities at Havana Sept. 6, 1896. On motion of Mr. Pettigrew of South Dakota the bill was passed to give the consent of Congress to a compact entered into between the States of South Dakota and Nebraska respecting the boundary between said States. The House agreed to the partial conference report on the general deficiency bill and then concurred in the Senate amendment fixing the limit of cost of armor plate for the three battle-ships now building at $300 per ton.

How Fast.

This sounds as if it came from the variety stage. But as a matter of fact, it is history, for occasionally funny things do happen in the courts besides the lawyers.

It was in a negligence case recently and a good-humored Irishman was a witness.

The Judge, lawyers and everybody else were trying their best to extract from the Irishman something about the speed of a train.

"Was it going fast?" asked the Judge.

"Aw, yis, it were," answered the witness.

"How fast?"

"Oh, purty fasht, yer Honor."

"Well, how fast?"

"Aw, purty fasht."

"Was it as fast as a man can run?"

"Aw, yis," said the Irishman, glad that the basis for an analogy was supplied. "As fasht as two min kin run."—Buffalo Enquirer.

A Bill to Match.

The Jersey Boniface—Did that fellow pay for his room in advance?

The Clerk—Yes, but he kicked at the size of the bill—said it was out of all proportion.

The Jersey Boniface—Then unchain my pet mosquito!—Truth.

Feminine Repartee.

She—Of course, you all talked about me as soon as I left?

Her—No, dear; we thought you had attended to that sufficiently—Tit-Bits.

Odds and Ends.

Germany in 1896 exported 3,000,000 needles.

United States contains 150,000 seamstresses.

It is always a good idea to recognize the strength of your enemy.

The man at the bottom of the ladder cannot fall and hurt himself.

It is pretty hard to get people interested in what you used to be.

With a woman her soul should always be at least as well clad as her body.

WELCOME TO TORONTO

EPWORTH LEAGUE IN ANNUAL SESSION.

Twenty Thousand Delegates from the United States and Canada Attend the Convention—Baptist Young People Meet in Chattanooga.

Greeted by Canadians.

There is scarcely a city of importance in the United States or Canada that was not represented at the big Epworth League convention in Toronto. By the time the convention was opened, shortly after noon Thursday, there were fully 20,000 delegates in Toronto, and they were still arriving. It was the largest convention in the history of the league, and it is almost safe to say it was larger than any previous gathering ever held in connection with the Methodist Church. The contingents from New York State and Illinois were the biggest. Brooklyn sent a large delegation, Cleveland sent 300 delegates. While the delegations from those States nearer to Canada were the largest, many came from San Francisco and a strong delegation came from Boston. The far Western States sent large contingents, and the Southern States were well represented, while Mexico sent a number.

Reception of the Visitors.

The welcome in behalf of the city and Canada generally was most spontaneous and enthusiastic. Baptists and other denominations turned out to receive the visitors. There was a big meeting in the Massy hall to welcome the delegates. An address was delivered by A. S. Hardy, the premier and attorney general of Ontario. He welcomed them for the cause they represented, and which they had come to stimulate, and because already 100,000 Canadians belonged to their society, and had taken the same vows and subscribed to the same pledges as the 1,750,000 of Epworth Leaguers in their own country. No one, he said, could look upon the work accomplished during the last seven or eight years by the league otherwise than with amazement. It read like a fairy tale.

It was understood that some of the principal aims and objects of the society were, in short, helpfulness to themselves and to others, or, in detail, greater culture, more personal piety, greater service to others and a more thorough knowledge of the Bible among the members, chiefly composed of the younger members of the Methodist Church. He welcomed them also because they were neighbors and relatives, and because they came as friends. They represented the pick and flower of the youth of that active and powerful church which is scarcely less influential relatively in Canada than in the United States, and which through its activity, zeal and spiritual life is adding constantly to its millions of members and adherents. Some time a warlike feeling would flash up between England and America, but would subside on sober second thought almost as rapidly as it had been aroused. There could be no war between these two foremost Christian nations of the earth. The moral forces of the two countries would in the last resort prove too strong for war.

Other Words of Welcome.

The Rev. Dr. Carman, the general superintendent of the Methodist Church of Toronto, in an eloquent address of welcome said:

"Methodism was providentially prepared for America, as this American continent was kept for popular enfranchisement and personal freedom. You south of the great lakes, and we north, equally possess, cherish and guard them both, but under different forms. You have chosen monarchical methodism in the great republic; we are working out republican methodism under the imperial standard of Great Britain. Our doctrines are the same. We greatly admire and love the nation of Washington and Lincoln, of Ulysses S. Grant and Stonewall Jackson—heroes both; of Motley and Parkham; of Longfellow and Whittier. We delight in its freedom, we triumph in its moral victories and we count it an unspeakable favor and honor to greet its noble sons and daughters in this grand Epworth League convention."

Eloquent responses, full of the spirit of brotherly love and good fellowship, especially between the people of Anglo-Saxon blood and of the Christian faith, were made by Bishop C. C. McCabe for the Methodist Episcopal Church; the Rev James Thomas of Little Rock, Ark., for the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and the Rev. H. A. Crane of Bombay, on behalf of India.

The most important feature of this convention was the fact that arrangements were made for the evolution from an international to an intercontinental convention. This year the Rev. Simpson Johnson, representing the Wesley guild of Manchester, England, came expressly for the purpose of transforming the three-fold convention to a four-fold one, and the next convention will consist of delegates from the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Methodist Episcopal South, the Methodist Church of Canada and the Wesleyan Church of England.

A message from President McKinley was received by the Epworth League officers. It was read by Dr. Berryman of Chicago. Then at the call of the chairman three hearty cheers were given for Queen Victoria and three for President McKinley. These were followed by a combined cheer for the two great rulers.

BIG INSURANCE WAR.

Fight Between Companies Will Save $9,000,000 to Policy Holders.

War has been declared among the fire insurance companies doing business in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin, and a cut in rates ranging from 50 to 25 per cent, according to classification, has been announced. A conservative estimate places the general cut at one-third of the entire amount paid for fire insurance policies in the five States. On this one-third basis, and taking the amount of premiums paid in 1896 in the five States, the following table will show the saving to policy holders this year if the fight among the fire insurance companies is fought to a finish:

Illinois	$3,095,949
Indiana	1,188,799
Iowa	1,152,285
Minnesota	1,296,047
Wisconsin	1,418,437
Total	$8,991,507

The governing committee of the Western Union, an organization of the strongest companies, covering all of the Western States from Colorado to Ohio, opened the conflict Monday. It was followed by a declaration of R. H. Garrigue, general agent of the Merchants' Insurance Company of Newark, N. J., that he would meet the reductions in the five States proposed by the union. The property owners who have to take out fire insurance policies will benefit by the fight if it is fought to a finish. Arrayed against the union companies are the smaller concerns and the bigger and more important army of agents—the men who get the business and who are already in rebellion against the proposed reduction of their commissions.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, Office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY..... July 22, 1897

THE TRAVELING SHOE.

An Old Mexican Sandal that is Likely to be a Globe Trotter.

Charlie Weaver our express agent opened his eyes wide yesterday when the "Traveling Shoe" reached him, among the usual miscellaneous lot of express packages. It was an old worn out sandal, probably thrown away by some Mexican greaser after his horny feet had worn a hole where the ball of the foot comes. We suppose some express agent down there picked it up, and for the fun of the thing, put an express tag on it and some funny message and sent it to some other express agent he knew. The agent receiving it, caught the idea and tagged it on to some one else, and so it got started. The order of the offices it has passed though, cannot be found by the tags, but we copy as nearly as we can in their order, some of the most interesting inscriptions on the mass of tags of all sorts and sizes that hang dangling to the old piece of leather.

The first tag is probably from some town in Mexico and reads:

This is quite a relict, a shoe from an Egyptian. Though not entirely worn out, it has traveled through every land.

The next tag was at Baltimore and says:

Coming from Mexico, no wonder it's "hol(e)y." Another Baltimore tag said:

Put me off at Philadelphia, and send me all over the east. And, and another said:

We are extremely sorry this sandal will not fit little Mayor Hooper of Baltimore. And this too:

The odor from this leather sole. Is worse than from a slimy pole. So kindly wash its dirty face and hands. Before it travels o'er the lands.

At Defiance, O., a tag was put on saying:

When you get through with your travels, order a bottle of "Diehl Gold"

Toledo tag. A good thing. Push it along.

C. H. & D. railway tag: Keep on adding tags and they will be as numerous as McKinley's promises of prosperity.

Bethlehem, Pa., tag: From the town where Christ first saw light. And this is the first sandal he wore.

Deshler, Ohio, tag: Most every place, and landed no place, or the drainage spot of Henry Co. Also "Across the earth, Across the sea. And all the world will see me." And another: Found at last. Prosperity has been located in Mark Hanna's coal mines, seven leagues beneath the surface. Spread the glad news.

Zanesville, Ohio, tag. I stopped at the Mascot convention city.

Laredo, Texas, tag: Present me at Nashville when I return.

Saltillo, Mex., tag: Messengers for ward this from city to city. Hasten to Durango. May. 10, '97.

St. Louis tag, Mark Hanna, Care of Coxey. This is all that is left of Weary Willie.

Texarkana, Texas, tag: Shake a little "foot ease" in this.

St. L. & Texarkana Ry. I am on my way to Washington to get a part of the fifty millions that congress is going to donate the Americans in Cuba. I belong to Weyler. He wore me out in retreating.

Defiance, Ohio, tag. On my way to Alaska gold fields, don't stop me.

Chillicothe Ohio, tag: This old shoe was worn by Grover Cleveland on his last fishing tour up Salt River. And another same. This is the shoe that Coxey wore.

Athens, Ohio, tag: On my journey still I go: Without pinching some one's toe.

Chillicothe, Ohio, tag: Wonder, was the wearer as hol(e)y as the sandal.

Baltimore tag: Paid its respects to Baltimore, Md., June 2.

Marietta, Ohio, tag: Ye gods! Gaze upon the Sunday-go-to-meeting foot year of the poor man in Mexico. Mexico, they told us in the last campaign, was the poor man's paradise, where the free coinage of silver made money plenty. The poor man had good clothes, plenty to eat and not much to do to get it. Now how does this strike you as a sample of his good clothes. Another of Marietta: Reader, the former wearer of this sandal, not wishing to leave the country of free silver, generously sends it to help relieve the wants of the subjects of a glorious gold standard.

Elmira, N. Y. tag: Received at Elmira in "bad order." More hol(e)y than righteous.

Cleveland tag. It may have seen better days.

Hongkong, China, tag: My home is in San Francisco.

Chicago Junction, Ohio, tag: Give me a rest.

Chillicothe, Ohio tag. After your wanderings, come home to your original owner. Hot foot Sue.

Akron, Ohio, tag: Allen's Foot Ease, would have saved his life.

A tag marked "From God knows where," says: Return to us with the tidal wave of prosperity.

Depot office Chillicothe, Ohio tag: Best wishes to Billy. Don't smell me.

Wheeling, W. V. tag. For Grover Cleveland. I think the foot is a yard.

Laredo, Tex. tag: Please forward me to my owner. Mark Hanna.

Philadelphia tag: A stray. This must belong to some young lady in Chicago.

Defiance, Ohio, tag: Meet me in Alaska, Aug. 15. (This was dated July 18)

C. H. & D. tag: To follow you, I'd be content. If I only knew which way you went.

Deshler, Ohio tag: Merrily on its way, hunting for prosperity.

As we said before, yesterday, July 19, it reached the express office here, and Charlie Weaver, after showing it, to a few friends, including the COURIER reporter, tied on a new tag and sent the collection up to the Lake Shore road. His tag reads:

Send me along. Like the Wandering Jew, there is no stopping place for me. Like Noah's dove, there is no resting place for my soul (sole.)

And we suppose the old relic is still on its travels. Just when or where it will stop, no one can tell. As will be noticed it has already traveled extensively.

It is a heavy piece of old sole leather, twelve inches long, and about five wide, and shows not only wear on the bottom, but the grinding of a tough old foot on its upper side. It made a strong protection for the sole of the foot and was held in place by several leather straps fastened into its edges and buckled over the top of the foot. Quite a number of our people inspected it, with its hundred or so of tags dangling like so many scalps at the belt of a Sioux Indian.

CHANGE OF FIRM.

W. C. McNabb is now sole proprietor of the Yellow Front and South Side Meat Markets as well as a market over at Butler, Mr. Leighty having retired from the firm. The deal was closed yesterday. Mr McNabb is a pratical man and of course the business will go on as before.

FORT MAYNE RACES.

Mr. Phil Thompson was in town yesterday putting up paper and advertising for the big Fort Wayne Race Meeting which begins August 9th and continues five days. Fort Wayne is still a member of the Grand Circuit and the meeting this year promises to be the most successful one ever held over the Fort Wayne track. The stake races which closed in April show an unusually big list of entries, every great stable in the country being contributors. Entries to the class races close July 27th, and the secretary reports good prospects for the biggest list of entries ever received by this justly popular Association. Arrangements have been made for special rates and trains on all railroads, announcements of which will be made in due season.

THE TARIFF BILL.

The great fight has been over the sugar rates and there as was the case with the existing law, have been so made as to put millions of money into the hands of the great sugar trust. The news that the little percent had been allowed to stand, created the wildest excitement in New York City, among those who owned stock in the sugar trust and the stock went up in price to $1.44 on the dollar. Did the great body of the nation, for whom just laws should be made thus rejoice? Did the value of farms rise from $30 an acre to $50 an acre? Hardly. Only a few pet lines of business are benefited by "protection." All others have to suffer enough to make up the gains of the favored ones. No one will deny this.

TOMORROW.

G. H. Yesbera Inaugurates a Great One Fourth Off Sale.

The greatest sale of the season in Clothing, Gents' Furnishing, Hats, Caps, and Merchant Tailoring will commence at G. H. Yesbera's, tomorrow and continue for four days only, till Monday evening July 26th. During this sale goods in his store will be sold at one fourth off the regular price. Mr. Yesbera's past reputation for honesty will convince our readers that these sales are bona fide and that no goods will be marked up this sale. All his goods are sold at the lowest possible margin, and commencing Thursday still one fourth off may be figured. Patrons of the merchant tailoring department will take notice that never before have they been able to buy tailor made clothing at one fourth off. Mr. Yesbera's store will no doubt be a busy bee hive during this sale.

THE NEW TREASURER.

The new treasurer was here Tuesday. He now has $144,000 on his bond. It is to be $200,000. The Board of Commissioners has adjourned to meet on Saturday, by that time it is believed Mr. Hine will have secured the remaining $56,000

COURT.

Monday, Judge Roby finished the case in regard to the crops of Frank Shult. Gave Frank three fifths of the crops and his wife two fifths.

Judge Vaughn came up Monday noon and is now trying the Sparling-Nusbaum case. The suit took up in the afternoon.

While this was going on there was a side case, before Judge Roby. Colby, who had married for his second wife, one of the Brown girls east of the creek, wanted Judge Roby to send his boy, Frank Colby to the Reform School at Plainfield. Judge Roby examined into the matter, called up the boy and got his side of the case and then told Colby that as far as he could ascertain, this was merely a case where the boy could not live in peace with his stepmother, and he refused to send him to Plainfield. He directed Colby to find another boarding place for the boy. If reports are true, the crowd of women Colby keeps around him, would make anyone desire a new boarding place.

WEDNESDAY

This morning the Sparling-Nusbaum case was finished up. Judge Vaughn decided that Dr. Sparling would be liable to pay the notes and that there was no written agreement that could be used to prevent Dr. Nusbaum from practicing medicine here. Of course it may all be brought up before the supreme court with a different result, but no one can tell. But under this decision Dr. Nusbaum has a right to continue the practice of medicine, and will do so.

Klondyke Gold Fields.

This is the name of the new gold fields of Alaska to which the world is now turning its eyes. The recent arrival of two steamers each with a large amount of gold and a few of the men who dug it, has set the country wild with excitement. It turns out that the new mines are over the line in British Columbia, and this may add to the natural difficulties of mining in a severe climate, for of course the English Dominion government will want a share. Then, too, the severe climate must be considered. Winter sets in about Oct. 1, and lasts till May or June, or about eight months in all, or two thirds of the year, in which little or no work can be done. All winter, there must be means for support, and poor people who go there this fall, will have a long hard and expensive winter before them, before they can dig an ounce of gold. It will be wise to wait till next spring before starting.

The Glazier House.

The Glazier is to be reopened and occupied at an early date. The new lessee is G. C. Ralston, the bargain having been completed Tuesday of this week, and the house will be opened about Aug. 1, or as soon thereafter as it can be got ready. There will probably be some changes to be made and things to get ready. Mr. and Mrs. Ralston ought to be successful in the hotel business and we believe they will be and that under their management, the Glazier will popular and profitable.

G. H. YESBERA,

Auburn's Leading Clothier and Gent's Furnisher, will have another great

1-4TH Off Sale

Commencing July 22, Contiuing Until July 26th.

Giving you four days to buy Clothing, Furnishings, Hats, Caps and Tailor-Made Clothing at 25 per cent Discount, A feature never before added to our Great Discount Sale, which should make this sale strikingly prominent, coming from recognized authority on Merchant Tailoring. The conservatism in buying; the special effort in disposing of goods, and the perceptible Reduction in Price for Cash, has reduced our stock to such proportions that a four days sale of One-Fourth Off, will give those of limited purse and others an unprecedented opportunity of procuring the best goods on the market. We buy nothing for special sale.

G. H. YESBERA, Auburn's Clothier and Merchant Tailor.

GRAND SALE.

A CAR LOAD OF

GRANITE WARE,

AT

Brown, Culbertson & Boland's

Cash Hardware Store, Auburn,

ONLY

One Day, July 31, '97.

These goods will be First-Class in Quality. Everything for your Kitchen at Less than Tinware Prices.

FOR EXAMPLE:

Pint Granite Cup 5c

Granite Wash Basin 10c

Half Gallon Granite Coffee Pot 25c

14 qt. Granite Dish-pan 35c

And the following articles in proportion: Dish Pans, Wash Basins, Coffee Pots, Tea Pots, Coffee Boilers, Oat Meal Cookers, Soap Dishes, Kettles, Water Pails, Covered Buckets, Cooking Pots, Lipped Sauce Pans, Pudding Pans, Preserving Kettles, Pie Plates, Drinking Cups, Foot Tubs, Wash Bowls and Pitchers, Chamber Pails, Etc.

Remember These Three Things:

DATE, PRICE, PLACE!

Saturday, July 31, 1897. Cheap as Tinware. B. C. & B., Auburn, Ind.

Interesting Store News.

Visitors and homefolks tell us that no other store shows such a collection of desirable New Goods. That even metropolitan stores do not sell them so cheaply. Our Cash Buying and Cash Selling gives us an immense advantage, which inures to your benefit.

Do you know about our New Cyclone Summer Corset? It is the best and easiest fitting Summer Corset in the world. But don't take our say so for it. Try a pair, and your money back if you want. Price only 50c. Our La Mode Corset at 38c is a world beater.

Ladies' Tailor-made Suits and Skirts.

We enumerate a few items to get you to come. Ladies' Black wool and Novelty Skirts, lined throughout, bound with velvet, $1.29 to $4. Tailor-made wool suits, up-to-date, $5 to $12. Two-piece Lawn Suits stylishly made, well fitting, beautifully trimmed, $2 to $3.50.

Summer Underwear

Ladies' Vests, Children's Vests, cool gauzy and comfortable. Vests with sleeves, vests without sleeves, vests with wings, in fact any style you want. Prices are 5c each up, and are cheap.

Shirt Waists

Neat, Chic, Dainty Designs, made to fit, made to wear, made for comfort, will wash and be the better for it. More than fifty styles to select from. Our 50c Waist is the Best.

Wash Dress Goods.

Seasonable Goods seductively priced. 28-inch Striped and Figured Lawns and Dimities, worth 12 1-2c yard; our price 8c. 30-inch Organdies, fine sheer fabrics, many stores sell at 15c; our price 10c.....

Our Stock of

Laces, Ribbons, Mitts, Belts, Fans, Shirt Waist Sets, Embroideries and Handkerchiefs is the largest in DeKalb County.

The Bishop & Lackey Co.

LEADING MERCHANTS.

IT'S RATHER MYSTERIOUS

How Jim Simon Escaped From the Hollister House Sunday Night.

But the COURIER will explain all. The course of true love never did run smooth, so they tell us. And every day, we see proofs of it. James Simon is devotedly attached to a very worthy Auburn girl, who is employed at the Hollister House. Like any industrious young man, Jim works during the week and goes to visit his girl on Sunday evenings. July 18, which was recognized by nearly everyone in Auburn, as Sunday, Jim was at his usual place, in the parlor of the hotel.

The happy hours, on angel wings flew o'er him and the lady, and the hour for locking up and closing the hotel had come and gone, before either realized it. Then the stubborn doors refused to yield to Jim's entreaties or the "Oh dears!" of the young lady. And Jim isn't of the right size to get out through the keyhole. He could have got out on the roof and jumped to the COURIER building, but he did not know it. We tell it now for his future advantage. And despairing of a safer way, Jim went to the front, and out on the veranda, put on his 2-league boots, and with one wild, maddening cry of despair and farewell, leaped to Dr. Baxter's balcony in front of the COURIER office, opened the window, came in, then out into the hall—and there he was, with the world all before him, the stars shining above him, and bright eyes left behind, rejoicing for Jim's sake. No, his hair didn't "Grow white in a single night,

As men's have grown from sudden fears."

BROKE AN ARM.

Henry West returned last night from Warren, Ind., where he had a wrestling match with Herbert Hale, of Indianapolis, who is supposed to be the champion of the state. But no matter where they come from they can never do up an Auburn man, and Henry won two out of three. This entitled him to a purse and gate receipts, which in all amounted to about $41. But the sad part of the wrestle was that in the last round, Henry fell and broke his right arm. He probably wont wrastle any more soon.

PICNIC FRIDAY

At the Sugar Grove School House, Southwest of Auburn.

The Baptist Sunday Schools of Auburn and Garrett will have a joint picnic in the grove at the Sugar Grove School House, southwest of Auburn next Friday. Free transportation has been arranged for all members of the Baptist school, and a very cordial invitotion extended to all others wishing to attend. Of course it is expected that all will come with well filled baskets and enjoy the luncheon in the shady grove.

BUTLER.

Geo. Haskins, of Butler married a charming widow at Kendallville last week.

Harvesting is progressing very rapidly, and a couple of more weeks of good weather will finish it.

We understand that parties from Waterloo are about to purchase S. W. Otis' stock of furniture and go into trade here.

Christ Lindrfer, who recently fell from a load of hay and broke his leg, is getting along quite well, under various unfavorable circumstances.

The attraction of Hamilton Lake are drawing very perceptably on the usually well attended churches of our place, scores of buggies and strings of wheelmen line the roads out of Butler on Sunday mornings.

E. W. Fosdick's residence caught fire last week from a gasoline stove and did considerable damage, the most serious of which was on Mrs. Fosdick's hands which were burned quite badly. His presence of mind and prompt action saved a disastrous fire. Fully insured.

Mrs. Dora Snyder, of Norwalk, Ohio is spending her summer vacations with Mrs. J. A, Campbell and the Butler friends.

John Mack has raised his home residence and put a substantial stone wall under it.

Mr. McNabb the Auburn butcher who recently bought the Tyson meat market here is about to move his family here.

J. M. Walter who bought the Ianson feed store is moving to town. He will occupy the Jones house at the head of Oak-st.

A. G. Jones has retired from the Butler Co. Byron C. Mason succeeds Mr. Catlin as manager.

Mother Hollinger living two miles east, died last week. She was About 78 years old. Was buried at Newville.

Thursday's Daily.

—Have your razors, knivers, shears or saws put in first-class working shape for a trifle. R. MCDOUGALL

—Don't nauseate your stomach with teas and bitter herbs, but regulate your liver and sick headache by using those famous little pills known as DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Davenport the Druggist.

—L. J. Miller is greatly improved after two or three weeks of illness and seems almost as well now as usual.

—Burning, itching skin diseases instantly relieved by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, unequaled for cuts, burns, bruises. It heals without leaving a scar. Davenport the druggist.

—Phillip Fluke is able to get up town now about every day and is greatly improved. We are glad to record this.

—Dr. Baxter is paying special attention to Diseases of Children also Diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Nervous system. tf

—Vim, vigor and victory:—these are the characteristics of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, biliousness and all stomach and liver troubles. Davenport the drug gist.

—Quite a number of the Military Band drove to St. Joe last night where they participated in an open air concert.

—"They don't make much fuss about it." We are speaking of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, biliousness, and all stomach and liver troubles. They never gripe. Davenport the druggist.

—Mrs. A. B. Richards went up to Fairfield yesterday to visit her father Wm. Buss. He has been sick some time and is no better to say the least. Her daughter Delia, and niece Edith Trout who have been visiting up there came home with her.

—It heals everything except a broken heart, may be said of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Piles and rectal diseases, cuts, burns, bruises, tetter, eczema and all skin tronbles may be cured by it quickly and permanently. Davenport the druggist.

—Ex-Sheriff John C. StClair hobbles up town now nearly every pleasant evening. He is really not so much better, as he is so badly crippled, that little relief can be expected. But he likes to get out and see his friends and we are glad he can.

—John Griffin, of Zanesville, O, says: "I never lived a day for thirty years without suffering agony, until a box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured my piles." For piles and rectal troubles, cuts, bruises, sprains, eczema and all skin troubles DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is unequaled. Davenport the Druggist.

—Steuben Republican:—The following party came up from Auburn Monday, and will go into camp with Mrs. Frank S. Roby and daughter Myrtie, at Crooked Lake; Mrs. Frank A. Borst and daughter Ruth, Charles Borst, Geo. Trout. Ed. Brandon, Ed. Baker and Will Roby. The party anticipate a good time. The boys assume the name of "The Bald-Head Club."

—Bucklen's Arnica Salve.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay repuired. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For ale by Robbins & McCord. tf

—Mrs. H. M. Henning went up to Waterloo today to attend the picnic and visit friends.

—Kansas City compels its jail prisoners to work on the stone pile, women as well as men.

—"I crave but one minute," said the public speaker in a husky voice; and then he took a dose of One Minute Cough Cure, and proceedrd with his oratory. One Minute Cough Cure is unequaled for throat and lung troubles. Davenport the Druggist.

—J. G. Mott of Michigan City is here today on some business matters as well as a call on relatives.

—There is a little time for everything; and the time to attend to a cold is when it starts. Don't wait till you have consumption but prevent it by using One Minute Cough Cure, the great remedy for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles. Davenport the druggists.

—Wages droppin' downward every blessed day, bosses think the workmen or ought to live on hay; wheels agrowin' rusty, whistles fail to toot, lips once busy singing campaign songs are mute. Congress doin' nothin', members never care, so they draw their wages, if we live on air—If this, as they keep preachin', is prosperity what in blazin' thunder kin ol' Hard Times be?—Toledo News.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair
DR.
PRICE'S CREAM
BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE.
A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.
40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Friday's Daily.

—FOR SALE:—The glass front of my store building. Call on E. Eldridge Auburn, Ind.

—Marie Wesmer is spending a week at Angola, visiting her aunt, Mrs. Morse, and other friends.

—J. H. Rose is now at Hagerstown Pa., on a business trip.

—Mrs. N. K. Reed, of Mansfield, Ohio, is visiting Mrs. F. T Zimmerman at present.

—Miss Gara Wheelock of Ft. Wayne, returned home yesterday after a week's visit with friends here.

—D. D. Snyder, of Danville, Ill., is here having arrived yesterday and is the guest of his brother, S. C. Snyder and family.

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs and timber. Highest cash prices paid for same. Address, Lesh, Sanders & Egbert Co., Goshen, Ind. 40

—Alvin Goodwin rode down from Pleasant Lake today on his wheel He came after some repairs which he is having made at the foundry.

—Miss Flora Jones came over this morning from Butler and spent the day here calling on her many friends and acquaintances, including her relatives of the COURIER.

—Mrs. Torrence and child are here visiting in the family of her aunt, Mrs. J. E. Rose. Her home is in St. Paul, and she will be better remembered as Miss Cora Webster, her father being a cousin to Trustee Webster of Stafford.

—Mathias Cupp, of the Junction made his usual cash call at this office today. Mr. Cupp earns his living by the hard work of his hands, but he has a good home of his own and is entirely out of debt. He needn't fear the "wolf."

—John Picker has just finished the brick work on a fine farm residence for Abe Furnish, on the county line in south Jackson. He expects soon to begin work on a brick school house over in Allen county southeast of Spenceryille.

—Mr. Walters, who had a stroke of paralysis some time ago is able to be up town every day, but it takes energy and push to do it. His right side is helpless except that he can walk by swinging his leg ahead at each step and then it is strong enough for him to step on lightly. He hopes by constant practice to give it in time more strength.

—G. A. Mader, the coal dealer, does not seem to be affected by the strike. He is delivering coal to his patrons, right along. Of course he deals in hard coal mainly, and that we believe is not affected by the strike. Still he handles soft coal also, more or less as his customers need. He hopes however, that the strike may soon end, before it affects the people at this distance.

—The Tri-State Normal College will open the fall term August 24. Board, furnished room and tuition, not over $24.65. You can review, or take course studies. Satisfaction guaranteed. Tuition refunded, if you are not satisfied. Address

L. M. SNIFF, A. M. Pres.
Angola, Ind.

—Harry Prescott and his cousin Miss Grace Walling of Kendallville drove over to Auburn yesterday to call on some of their young friends. The Editor's family had a pleasant visit with them. Mr. Prescott is a student of the Michigan Industrial school at Lansing, an institution similar to our Purdue University at Lafayette. Miss Walling is a daughter of Mr. Walling of the well known firm of Flint, Walling & Co. and is a student at the Westminster Seminary at Fort Wayne. We shall be pleased to see them over here often.

Sing a song of swell heads, a fellow fun of gin, coming home at 4 a. m. his wife won't let him in. His feet are full of tanglefoot, his head is full of wheels, the keyhole runs around the knob, he a funny feeling feels. He puts his feet upon the porch, his head upon the ground, all the time within his "mug" the wheels are going round. He thinks that he is sober—that everyone is tight, and that he's in his bedroom instead of out all night. He thinks the moon's a dollar and will buy a dozen drinks, and various other thoughts he thinks, and thinks, and thinks and thinks. But when his wife she cometh, (and with a hickory slat,) he gives a shout and yelleth, "now Jimmey's at the bat."

—Mrs. Dillop and son of Las Vegas, Mexico, and Miss Maggie McTighe and Mr. McTighe, of Little Rock, have been here several days, guests in the family of Wm. McIntyre. Mrs. McIntyre and Miss Lilly McTighe are their sisters.

—We have recolved a big edition of the Los Angeles Daily Herald of July 6, giving a full account of the great Fourth of July celebration there the 5th when Bryan spoke. It is also an illustrated edition being full of cuts of the leading men, local officers etc. As it bears the signature of Job A. Reinoehl, we conclude our young friend at Alhambra, is keeping up with the times in the Golden state.

—Edna Davis has returned from her visit in Goshen. It will interest many Auburn people to hear of "Hookey" Miller and family, whom she met while there. They are doing well. The daughter, Charrie, is a teacher in the public schools and is assisting her father to pay for a nice home they have bought.

—The Hicksville News has changed hands. Coulter Bros retire and the management is now known as "Wayman Publishing Co." The News is a good local paper and we believe has always been success. We hope it may continue so.

Saturday's Daily.

—Walter Penfield was at Ft. Wayne, yesterday.

—Miss Louise Long returned last evening from Montpelier, Ohio, where she had been visiting friends.

Lagrange has a telephone exchange with 125 subscribers. It takes in a great many farmers, in different parts of the county.

—Robert S. Bailey, better known as "Smith", of Jackson township, has received an increase in his pension. The COURIER is glad to note the fact.

—Mrs. Wm. Walsworth returned last evening from Blakeslee, where she had been visiting the family of her sister, Mrs. Reuben Bailey.

—P. S. Bishop, the enterprising south end Miller, bought the first new wheat of the season, this morning, July 17. It came from the south part of the county.

—LOST:—Somewhere between the postoffice and John Fischler's residence on west Fifth-st, a bunch of keys. Finder will be rewarded by leaving at this office.

—Mrs. T. C. Ford and daughter Margaret will give a tea to nine young ladies this evening in honor of Miss Helen Servoss and Miss Julia Hodge.

—LOST:—A pass book with red cover and name of owner, R. D Tefft. Has also items of the depth of 2nd gas well in Auburn. Finder kindly return to this office.

—There was a slight accident at the Greenler factory this forenoon. One of the men was struck on the back of the neck, with a belt; but not seriously hurt.

—W. J. Olds, of Plainwell, Mich., is in the city a guest of his brother A. B. and family. He rode his wheel down from that place. He stopped off Thursday night at Lagrange and made the trip from that city to Auburn yesterday. Most any body could tell that he was not accustomed to riding, for he was nearly fagged out when he reached Auburn.

Monday's Daily.

—Mrs. Will Bolan and two daughters, of Angola, were guests over Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. John Kruger.

—Mrs. Seely and children of Huntington are in the city, the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wash Link.

—Miss Etta Heist returned last night to Princeton after a few weeks spent here very pleasantly with her old friends.

—Grandma Barclay was 81 yesterday We hope she may see many more enenjoyable years yet in this good world of ours.

Charlie Schaab and Geo Beugnot are making a trip awheel over the country and may make Cincinnati before returning.

J. G. Gugerli was in town today. He is getting quite a fine complexion on him working on the farm, but says they are all getting along well.

John Rohrabaugh, at Fairbury, Neb. enlivens the dull season by sending in the cash for a year ahead on the Old Reliable COURIER. Thanks.

—Dr. L. A. Hines is at home for a time now. He is engaged as a partner in the practice of medicine with his brother, W. L. Hines, at Warsaw.

—Mrs. Geo Chapman and children, Harld and Bernice, went down to Toledo today for a visit with the family of F. E. Myers. The ladies are sisters.

—The average price for wool this year has been 3 to 4 cents higher than last year. After the tariff scare is over, it may settle back to the old price.

—Jarl Sprott has returned from his visit with Ed. Scott, at the home of the latter in Wells county. He reached here this forenoon and reports Ed. getting on nicely.

—A. G. Lodewick delivered another picking of strawberries Saturday. They were a very fine quality and as ready sellers as those which came on the market early.

—The First National Bank of York, Neb., failed last week. The capital stock was $50,000, and deposits $27,000, indebtedness $13,000 when the last report was made.

—Mr. Boland is so far recovered from his recent illness as to be at work again. He came near having a serious spell of it. There is nothing like prompt and vigorous treatment in these sudden cases.

—Take Simmons Liver Regulator now. It's just the remedy for the Spring of the year to wake up the liver and clease the whole system of the accumulated wasie of the winter. "My wife combated more Malaria in Alabama in 1861 with Simmons Liver Regulator than all the doctors in the neighborhood. We've had a siege of Malaria in our own family, and it helped us."—W. N. Bryant, Dallas, Texas.

—Last Wednesday we published a note about the big dog "Thor," a Great Dane, that is now here with his owner from Chicago. It is 13 months old, weighs 145 pounds, and is 33½ inches high. It took the first prize in the puppy class at the big bench show in Chicago last year. But Ed Bishop of this place has a half brother of Thor, and the other day measured and weighed him. He is just nine months old Sunday, and stands 33 inches high and weighs 144 pounds. So it will be seen that he is really a larger dog than Thor, for in the four months when he will be as old, he will have gained much more than one pound weight and a quarter of an inch in height. And Auburn is still ahead of Chicago.

—An exchange says: "We have seen people in church trying to look angelic while they sing, "Shall We Know Each Other There," when they wouldn't speak to each other when they meet. They may know each other, but the question is, where?"

—Now it is grandpa and grandma Shull since the birth of that little daughter last week, to Mr. and Mrs. Wert up in Fairfield. And Hank thinks Fairfield has taken up the Auburn fad. Of course Auburn leads, but in this instance, we are told, she is liable to follow.

—St. Joe News:—H. G. Provines has resigned as principal of the St. Joe schools much to the regret of the patrons and pupils, as he was well liked by everybody. We are not informed as to what he intends to do, nor do we have any idea of who is to take his place in the school here.

—Mrs. Othia DeLong, of Eastman, Ga., arrived here Saturday night for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Chris McNabb and father, J. R. Nichols. Mr. and Mrs. DeLong are doing a properous business at Eastman. Mr. DeLong runs a bakery and has scarcely any competion and Mrs. DeLong conducts a millinery establishment.

—John Leasure is having a new cement sidewalk put down in front of his property, the "Union Bakery" on west Seventh. John Treesh is doing the work, which was finished to-day. Now, he crosses over to the north side of the street and will put in cement walks for Peter Young in front of his tailoring establishment, and for Mr. Ashley in front of Baxter Bros restaurant. This will complete the cement walks for that entire block. Mr. Treesh is an expert at the business.

—Tramps must have a fearful appetite when it takes three sach good providers as Dr. Bowman, Alex Filly and Bert Patterson to furnish them a meal. Our own experience in several families in St. Joe, including that of the editor is that any one of them can set out more good food than an ordinary DeKalb man can take care of. We could hardly credit the story that a tramp cleaned out three larders down there and put out three kitchen fires, did it not appear in the St. Joe News

Tuesday's Daily.

Judge Penfield returned home from Washington reaching here last evening.

—If you want to borrow $100 upon good security, see

WALTER C. HARTMAN.

—Mrs. Frank Rush, and two daughters, Eva and Zella started for a visit today noon. They go to Montpelier and Mark Center.

—Brown, Culbertson & Boland's special sale of Granite Ware will be Saturday July 31st. They have bigger bargains then ever to offer.

A few of those diamond steel pocket and butcher knives left. While they last, choice for 50 cent.

R. MCDOUGALL

—Snyder and his wife, who got on such a spree here a month or two ago, were in town today and appeared to be wetting their whistles at various places.

—Mrs. C. P. Houser came up from Indianapolis yesterday, reaching here on the evening train. She will visit her daughter Edna, Mrs. Roy Garrett, and other friends.

—A man at Ashland, Wisc., is under arrest for raising a county order from $1.24 to $624.24. He has also been charged with forging other county orders.

—The Greeks who went from Chicago, got back to Athens too late to do any fighting. They visited at their old home villages and are now returning to Chicago.

—The young ladies of the Catholic church will give a lawn social on the public square Saturday evening, July 24. Ice cream and cake will be served. All are invited to come and help them.

—I never failed on making the oldest, worst worn shears cut good as new. Your choice razor may need honing the reason it don't shave easy as ever. I have fine hones and straps and know how to use them. R. MCDOUGALL.

—Hunt up your old favorite pocket knife and if the blades don't suit you, I can put better blades in than it ever had, and make you a better knife of it than it ever was. R. MCDOUGALL

—Wm. Kessler left this morning over the Wabash for a few days trip on the road in the interest of the Standard Electric Cigar Lighter. Before returning he will visit Logansport, Lafayette, Indianapolis and many other cities.

—Geo. Boland and Ed. Little left here Saturday afternoon on their wheels for Toledo. They staid all night at Pioneer, and the next day reached Toledo about 1 p. m. They came home Monday, and express themselves well pleased with the trip.

—The two girls, strangers, were riding wheels in town yesterday. They went into Berg's saloon, and perhaps into others, and before they started off south, were hardly able to keep on their wheels.

A Wonder Worker.

One of the greatest, medical discoveries is Dr. John W. Bull's Pills for the cure of indigestion, sick headache, sick stomach and constipation. They do not purge violently, but gently promote internal cleanliness without debilitating the system; nor do they nauseate the stomach. Dr. John W. Bull's Pills (60 in a box) cost but 25 cts; trial box, 10 cts., at all dealers, or by mail from A. C. Meyer & Co., Balto., Md. Buy the genuine Dr. John W. Bull's Pills. Sold by F. E. Davenport, Auburn.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

PURELY VEGETABLE.

The cheapest, purest and best family medicine in the world! An effectual specific for all diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Spleen. Regulate the Liver and prevent Chills and Fever, Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice and Nausea.

BAD BREATH!

Nothing is so unpleasant, nothing so common, as a bad breath; and in nearly every case it comes from the stomach, and can be so easily corrected if you will take Simmons Liver Regulator. Do not neglect so sure a remedy for this repulsive disorder. It will also improve your appetite, complexion and general health.

CONSTIPATION

should not be regarded as a trifling ailment—in fact, nature demands the utmost regularity of the bowels, and any deviation from this demand paves the way often to serious danger. It is quite as necessary to remove impure accumulations from the bowels as it is to eat or sleep, and no health can be expected where a costive habit of body prevails.

SICK HEADACHE!

This distressing affliction occurs most frequently. The disturbance of the stomach, arising from the imperfectly digested contents, causes a severe pain in the head, accompanied with disagreeable nausea, and this constitutes what is popularly known as Sick Headache, for the relief of which take Simmons Liver Regulator.

EVERY PACKAGE
Has the Z Stamp in red on the wrapper.
J. H. ZEILIN & CO., Philadelphia.

HUMOR FROM OHIO.

A Unique Set of Rules in a Buckeye Hotel.

They were sitting in the lobby at Murphy's, talking about the striking peculiarities of some of the hotels they had been up against in the course of their travels, says the New York Herald.

In the party were a red-headed drummer from Arkansas, a traveling railroad man and a spindle-shanked man who sells oil out of Pittsburg. The deal got around to the man from Arkansas, and what he had to say was this:

"I've had to stand for some queer rules and regulations in my time, but the most unique code of rules governing a hotel I ever had sprung on me was at the Tallewanda hotel, in College Corner, O. I remember each one of them distinctly to this day. They were posted in this order:

"1. Board, $50 per week, meals extra.

"2. Breakfast at 5, dinner at 6, supper at 7.

"3. Guests are requested not to speak to the dumb waiter.

"4. Guests willing to get up without being called can have self-raising flour for supper.

"5. The hotel is surrounded by a beautiful cemetery. Hearses to hire, 25 cents a day.

"6. Guests wishing to do a little driving will find a hammer and nails in the closet.

"7. If your room gets too warm open the window and see the fire escape.

"8. If you are fond of athletics and like good jumping lift the mattress and see the bed spring.

"9. If your lamp goes out take a feather out of the pillow; that's light enough for any room.

"10. Any one troubled with a nightmare will find a halter on the bedpost.

"11. Don't pick a quarrel with the clerk. His brother is the chief of police and his father the mayor of the town.

"12. Don't worry about paying your bill. The house is supported by its foundation."

A BORING ALLIGATOR.

Said to Have Made a Hole in a New Orleans Levee.

The high wind that prevailed did considerable damage to the levees along the Algiers shore, says the New Orleans Times-Democrat of late date. The wind after sunset blew especially hard against that side of the river. The waves were blown over the revetment, and in some places did much damage to the earthworks. The guards were very active. They reported promptly all washings and where the occasion demanded it the damage was promptly repaired.

One of the curiosities of the flood in this section developed at the Morgan railroad wharf early one morning. There has been trouble there for some days with seepage and a force of men has been employed closing the crevices and cracks through which the water percolated. There was an unusual quantity at one place Thursday night and the foreman of the gang, in going over the spot the other morning to ascertain the reason, announced the hole had been caused by an alligator, which had burrowed through from under the wharf. His trail could be plainly seen in the mud and the workmen, in speaking of it to Sergt. Cologne, commanding the Algiers station, said that they judged he must have been at least four feet long. They think the water covered all the resting places that he might have had under the wharf and he decided to bore a hole through the bank and thus mix his time between dry land and water.

The strong wind made the water run through the cracks in the wharf in large quantities and the nearest track was submerged. A gang of men was put to work stopping it with sacks of dirt and they succeeded in shutting out the water.

Descriptions.

A table groans under a loan of viands but not more than you do under similar circumstances.

A tarantula is recommended to the consideration of danseuses; when bitten by it, so says the story, you must dance or die; many dancers neither die nor dance.

A tender is the method by which contracts are lost or run at a loss.

A theater is the place where you go to see and hear what you cannot see nor hear at a music hall.

A time is that which you do, with a watch kept upon your movements; but which you seldom keep, in spite of the movements of your watch.—Pick-Me-Up.

POLITICS OF THE DAY

WHAT THE OHIO FIGHT MEANS.

It is fitting that Ohio should be the battle ground of a gigantic struggle between the forces of gold and silver, for it is to Ohio statesmen that this nation owes the oppression of the gold monopoly.

Secretary Sherman came to an understanding with the gold monometallists of Europe in 1867, and since that date has labored, with the craft and malevolence of a Mephistopheles, to fasten on the people the golden fetters. Sherman laid the train, but Charles Foster of Ohio fired it. When Sherman was Secretary of the Treasury he recognized the right of option to pay in either gold or silver, but when Foster took charge of the treasury and Austria wanted $100,000,000 in gold Foster ordered the sub-treasury to pay out the yellow metal.

Thus it came about that the treasury of the United States supinely yielded to the domination of the gold monometallists, and thus it happened that the nation was betrayed by the representatives of Ohio. That this yielding was entirely unnecessary is proved by the course taken by the Bank of France. No conspiracy of speculators can force a raid for gold on the French treasury. Whenever it becomes evident that a wise policy demands the protection of the state from the gold robbers, the Bank of France takes advantage of its option and pays out silver. There is no panic, there is no raid, and France has a silver currency amounting in volume to $700,000,000, which is easily and continuously maintained at par with gold.

Ohio men taught the United States the lesson of poltroonery and folly, and the State of Ohio now has an opportunity to wipe this stain from her escutcheon. The great representative of plutocracy and trusts, Mark Hanna, has thrown down the gage of battle to the silver forces of the Buckeye State. That gage has been accepted. The struggle is one of momentous interest. It is alleged that Hanna has $2,000,000 left from the $16,000,000 fund poured into the treasury of the Republican National Campaign Committee by the representatives of Wall and Lombard streets during the late Presidential campaign. That fund will be doubled, if Hanna thinks it necessary, to carry Ohio for the Republicans.

The tactics of the last campaign will be revived. Banks will hold the giving of credits contingent on the voting of Republican ballots. Manufacturers will threaten their employes and flatter them with false hopes to secure their support for Hanna and his friends. There can be no doubt that the combined efforts of all the elements in Ohio favoring silver can defeat Hanna; the only question is whether bribery, browbeating, intimidation and fraud shall defeat their labors.—Chicago Dispatch.

Republican Falsehood.

The voices of a million men, women and children are heard in the land today protesting against the Republican party and denouncing the false promises of that party's leaders.

Ten months ago the wage earners of the United States were promised that the mills would be opened and the wages raised if these toilers would give their suffrages to the Republican party. The glittering bait was accepted, and as a result the gold standard is practically in operation, a high protective tariff is about ready for signature but the mills are not open.

On the contrary, the iron mills and the tin plate mills are ordered to shut down, and 25,000 workmen are made idle. Moreover, the flint glass manufacturers, instead of raising wages under a proposed increase of protection, announce a reduction, which means 15,000 more skilled laborers reduced to starvation pay.

Add to this the distress which has forced the coal miners to a strike and the wicked folly of Republican conduct in national legislation stands fully revealed. With a quarter of a million men thrown out of employment, there are at least one million mouths crying for bread. The situation is appalling. The indictment against the Republican party is crushing.

If there ever was a party that deserved to be stamped out of existence, that party is the breaker of promises; the backer of trusts; the assassin of silver; the advocate of gold; the betrayer of the people—the misnamed Republican party of the United States.

Tariff for Trusts.

The work of the Senate on the tariff bill has resulted in creating a Frankenstein that will destroy the party responsible for it. The law will establish a tariff for trusts and a deficit. It will aid the rich to become richer, and, through its outrageous taxes upon the necessities of life, it will force the poor to become poorer. The sugar trust gets a present of half a hundred million of dollars, and the people get a tax on everything they eat and wear. A feeble attempt was made to throw a sop to the farmers of the West by a proposed bounty on beet sugar, but the attempt was half-hearted, ineffectual and soon made inoperative.

As a revenue getter the tariff is the worst failure ever made by legislation. By giving notice to the importers that the retroactive clause would be stricken out, any chance of securing revenue within the next twelve months was effectually destroyed, and the measure made an act for the protection and enrichment of trusts. The only benefit that can be derived from this iniquity is the lesson it conveys to the honest voter to work for Democratic success in 1898 and Democratic victory in 1900.

The Tariff Bill Is an Imposition.

Not only is the bill an outrageous imposition upon the consumers of the country, but there is grave reason to fear that as a yielder of revenue it will prove sadly inadequate. But its enactment cannot be averted, and the country must make the best of it. It has come to stay for at least four years. Business men and manufacturers will adjust themselves to its provisions without delay. We do not believe it will bring prosperity, but prosperity may—and we sincerely hope it will—come in spite of it.—Rochester Herald.

The Financial Situation.

Mr. Secretary of the Treasury Gage, or some subordinate acting under instructions, sent out at the close of the fiscal year a hilarious and triumphal statement that the "advance of prosperity" was at last in sight, because the receipts of money into Uncle Sam's Treasury during the last six months have exceeded the expenditures! It is not that the condition of the masses of the population has improved that furnishes ground for this official gratulation; it is because so much the more of the people's money has been taken from them by tariff and other tax legislation. The treasury has grown richer in the last six months, but there is no evidence that the pockets of the common people have been any better filled.

These millions of course have come from the tariff taxes levied under the tariff of 1894, that bit of legislation which the Allison-Dingley Republicans are laboring to repeal in Congress and the repeal of which they had vainly hoped to present to McKinley for his signature before this. Their own squabbles and disagreements have delayed their bill so long in the Senate that importers, alarmed at threatened increase of duties, have hurried up their importations and thus swelled the Custom House receipts. Last Wednesday saw the largest amount of duties paid, of which there is record. These anticipatory importations have wiped out any hopes that the new tariff rates, when they go into effect, will produce any surplus. On the contrary, the markets being stocked, the new duties are likely to fall short of the government needs.—New York News.

HOW THE SENATE WOULD TAX A POOR MAN'S FOOD.

Article.	Present rate.	Senate rate.	Increase in duty.
Cheese	4c. per pound	6c. per pound	$ 212,300
Butter	4c. per pound	6c. per pound	1,000
Milk, fresh	Free	2c. per gal	6,000
Beans	20 per cent	40c. per bushel	90,000
Pickles and sauces	30 per cent	40 per cent	32,000
Cabbages	Free	3c. each	38,000
Cider	Free	5c. per gallon	300
Eggs	3c. per dozen	5c. per dozen	19,000
Hay	$2 per ton	$3.50 per ton	400,000
Honey	10c. per gal	20c. per gallon	5,000
Hops	8c. per pound	12c. per pound	110,000
Onions	20c. per bushel	40c. per bushel	120,000
Potatoes	15c. per bushel	20c. per bushel	9,000
Linseed	20c. per bushel	25c. per bushel	35,000
Garden seed	10 per cent	25 per cent	65,000
Straw	15 per cent	$1.50 per ton	7,000
Vegetables	10 per cent	25 per cent	40,000
Fish, in cans	20 per cent	30 per cent	4,000
Other fish	20 per cent	30 per cent	20,000
Apples, green or ripe	20 per cent	25 per cent	18,000
Preserved apples	30 per cent	35 per cent	33,000
Ginger	30 per cent	35 per cent	2,000
Fruits, pr'v'd, juic's	20 per cent	35 per cent	31,000
Raisins	1½c. per pound	2c. per pound	51,000
Currants	1½c. per pound	2c. per pound	10,000
Other	Free	2c. per pound	600,000
Prunes	1½c. per pound	2c. per pound	5,000
Figs	1½c. per pound	2c. per pound	60,000
Dates	20 per cent	½c. per pound	13,000
Grapes and peaches	20 per cent	20c. per cubic foot	35,000
Pineapples	20 per cent	6c. per cubic foot	110,000
Almonds, shelled	5c. per pound	7c. per pound	85,000
Other nuts, shelled	20 per cent	1c. per pound	40,000
Poultry, live	2c. per pound	3c. per pound	4,000
		Total	$2,280,600

Another Republican Farce.

The anti-trust talk in the Senate on the part of the Republican members and the pronunciamento of Secretary Sherman, recently delivered in New York, indicate that Republicans are becoming alarmed at the public condemnation of their friends, the trusts.

It is alleged that the Judicial Committee of the Senate is now engaged in devising an anti-trust amendment to the tariff bill. The task is difficult, and if not cleverly done will throw a stumbling block in the way of the great robber game called the tariff.

If the amendment is of such a nature as to be any real restriction on the operations of the trusts, there are Senators who may be depended upon to hang up the tariff until a measure so obnoxious to their patrons shall be abandoned. On the other hand, unless the amendment has, at least, the appearance of sincerity, the people will not be pacified and the whole object of the juggle will be defeated.

There is not the least sincerity in the protestations of Republican leaders to the effect that they are opposed to trusts. There is no more sincerity in that claim than there is in the claim that they desire to secure international action in favor of bimetallism.

The farce of Republican friendship for bimetallism has been played through, and the participants are laughing at those who took the thing seriously.

But now there is another farce on the boards, and that is the side-splitting absurdity called "Republican Animosity to Trusts." In the meantime, the Senate Judiciary Committee is having a hard time to contrive an amendment that shall placate the people and be absolutely harmless to the trusts.

Ohio Democracy.

The Democracy of Ohio have followed their fellow partisans of New Jersey, Iowa, Kentucky and other States in straightforward declarations of their Democracy and in consolidating all the elements which adhere to their principles, in advance of this fall's campaign. Ohio, as being the President's own State, and as having been so shamefully bullied and deceived in last year's campaign, will be a center of interest this fall. Hanna, the owner of the President, is determined to go to the Senate, if possible. To get a foothold there, he was obliged to retire old John Sherman, overcome Bushnell with Federal patronage and conciliate Foraker. He has conquered all his own party, and now, to get a full Senatorial term he has to fight the Democrats.

The battle will be hot and heavy all through the rural districts of Ohio. Large expenditures of money in the legislative districts will be necessary. The Democratic papers say that Hanna is prepared for this and that a portion of the immense contributions which were lodged in his hands for the Presidential canvass of 1896 were not expended at the time, simply because all was spent that could possibly be needed. He is therefore regarded as "heeled" for the encounter. The Democratic State convention, contrary to usage, did not name a Senatorial candidate. The Republican State convention named Hanna.

Our friends in Ohio feel confident of redeeming their State and leading back the Northwest to Democracy.—New York News.

Futile Experiment.

The people of the United States are growing very tired of experimenting. For nearly five years this country has been in the hands of experimentalists, and the results are not at all satisfactory.

When Grover Cleveland was President he assured the people that if the purchasing clause of the Sherman bill were repealed confidence would be restored and an era of prosperity would ensue. The purchasing clause was repealed, but prosperity did not make its appearance.

Then Cleveland devised another experiment, and announced that by issuing bonds confidence would be restored and an era of prosperity would ensue. The bonds were issued, but confidence remained in the background and prosperity came not at all.

And then Mark Hanna arose and told the people that he had an experiment that would inevitably bring on the dawn of prosperity, and enough people in the United States believed him to put the Republican party in power. If the sun of prosperity has risen it is still completely hidden by the clouds of adversity.

A new experiment is to be tried in the creation of a gigantic taxing machine called the Dingley tariff bill. There is no hope that this will prove a success, and even those who are responsible for it have not the assurance to promise that it will bring prosperity.

Reformation of the currency is the next experiment proposed. Have not the people had enough of these unsuccessful experiments? The answer is found in Dmocratic victories and the experimenters will all be swept out of power by a tidal wave of public indignation in 1900.

False to Their Pledges.

With an eye single to the completion of the tariff bill and the liquidation of campaign debts, the Republicans have thrust aside one after the other of the anti-trust amendments offered to them. Always they promised that in good time they, the worshipful majority in the Senate, would prepare a fit amendment to the tariff bill, pass it and see the trusts vanish like a punctured soap bubble. And now the tariff bill has gone to the conference bereft of any anti-trust sections, and Congress stands ready to adjourn, leaving the people helpless in the grasp of the monopolists.—New York Journal.

Not Built That Way.

If the United States Senate was half as much interested in the welfare of the country as it has shown itself to be in that of the sugar trust and other special interests it has had to deal with, there would be no trouble about passing a resolution to create a currency commission while the Conference Committee is completing the tariff bill. But the Senate is not constituted that way. The welfare of the country is the last thing a Senator thinks of—before he retires at night, and by morning he has forgotten it again.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Patience Must Be Near an End.

We do not believe the intelligent people of this country will long remain content with a system of taxation made not for the primary purpose of putting money into the treasury for the common uses of the country, but for the purpose of taking money from some of the people and putting it into the purses of other people. These will never, we believe, be content with any such system of privilege and advantage as high protection creates.—Indianapolis News.

A Game of Grab.

The whole tariff question has now seemingly degenerated to a high-handed game of "grab" between various interests, each striving to get as much as possible from the other and each seeking to shift the reasonable burden of taxation that belongs to it. The chief purpose of the bill appears to have been lost sight of in this scramble, and the question of filling the deficiency gap has really become a secondary one.—Boston Traveler.

Monopoly's Edict.

MILLION DOLLAR COURTHOUSE FOR FORT WAYNE.

THE new court house which is to be erected by Allen County, Ind., is perhaps one of the finest public buildings in the State. The new building was selected from among a number of designs proposed by many architects. When finished it will have cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000. The location is in the heart of the city of Fort Wayne, and it will stand for a century as a monument to the present generation. The court house proper will be 134 by 272 feet, but in addition there will be a power station three squares away, which will furnish, through a tunnel, the power to run the elevators, make the electric light and heat the building. Sculpture work has been provided for on the outer panels of the building, and there will be carved the busts of George Washington, Anthony Wayne, Little Turtle and Captain Allen, after whom the county was named. The scenes of some or the historical battles fought in the locality will also be carved on the panels. One of the great features of the building will be the court rooms. There will be four of them, all inside rooms, with corridors and office rooms between them and the streets. The light is perfect and comes from the roof, without any side light whatever. The building is as nearly non-combustible as modern skill and knowledge can make it.

THE REICHSTAG.

Interesting Sketch of Germany's Representative Lawmaking Body.

The political complexion of the lawmaking body of the German Empire is as varied as the rainbow. The different parties are so numerous that at times it is a difficult matter to identify them. There are 359 members of the Reichstag and at present they are divided as follows: 58 Conservatives, 27 Imperialists, 100 Centrists, 49 National Liberals, 14 Radical Unionists and Richterites Radicals, 25 Freisinnige Volksspartei Richterites, 13 Social Reformers, 19 Poles, 12 Deutsche Volkspartei, 48 Socialists, 30 Independents, including 6 Guelphs, 3 Bavarian peasant party and two seats vacant.

The hall in which the Reichstag meets does not give one the impression of being extraordinarily large, although looking down from the galleries it seems a very deep room. Its acoustic properties, however, would only be excusable in a very large hall. The walls are much higher, the galleries are further from the floor, the President's chair is more distant from those of the members, and, altogether, this one hall is on a bigger scale than the corresponding halls of Congress. Like so many public halls in Germany, it is characterized by an absence of proper ventilation. The Germans, who are implacable foes to fresh air, do not appear to notice this deficiency, which sometimes forces even the most enthusiastic American to depart earlier than he would otherwise desire.

The President of the Reichstag sits at a table raised above the floor of the house, in a high-backed chair, on which the Prussian eagle figures very prominently. Just below the President's table is another one, where several Ministers sit, usually those at the head of the department which is concerned in the question being discussed at the time in the Reichstag. Within this charmed circle sit the stenographers, whose work goes down those steps to the outside world. On the level with the President's desk are the desks of the Bundesrath, two rows on either side, fifteen seats in each front row, eight in each second row, making up the forty-six in all. The Chancellor of the empire has the first seat in the front row to the right of the Speaker, facing the House.

WHERE THE REICHSTAG MEETS.

The arrangements for the seating of the Deputies are not marked with extravagance, and in comparing them with those of the Congressmen in Washington the latter seem immeasurably grand. In the Reichstag the Deputies do not have individual desks; instead, a number of them share one long desk, schoolboy fashion. Each member has an individual drawer, and that is something.

Ordinarily, when there is nothing of moment going on, the sessions of the Reichstag are terribly uninteresting. The sessions are supposed to open at 1 o'clock, but they begin about twenty minutes later. The room fills slowly, and business proceeds in a rather informal manner. The members pay attention if they are interested in what the speaker is saying, or chat with their neighbors or busy themselves with their writing if they are not. There is a continual buzzing undercurrent of conversation, which the speaker of the moment is usually powerless to drown.

When the President wishes to say something that must be heard he rings a bell, and the momentary hush which arises allows his voice to be heard. Then the hum begins again. When a man has something of importance to say, he usually takes his stand at the top of the steps leading down from the dais where the President and the Bundesrath sit, but many men simply rise in their seats and speak from the floor.

Flying Machines.

The subject of aerial navigation is now so prominently before the public that reminiscences as to its beginning may not be out of order. The principle of the balloon was conceived by Albert of Saxony, as early as the fourteenth century, and successful balloons were made by a Portuguese Jesuit, Francesco Mendoza. The first balloon ascensions were made by the Montgolfiers in 1783, since which time balloon flights have become so common as to attract little attention. The idea that a piece of mechanism could be devised which should navigate the air, irrespective of the winds or currents, has long been entertained, and it is said that over 1,000 patents have been taken out in England and this country on flying machines. Most of them combine the balloon principle with a propelling power, the former for the purpose of sustaining the weight of the necessary machinery and of the operator. It is probably only a question of time when some of these devices will prove successful, and, according to common report, several inventors have already solved the problem. There must always, however, be a large element of danger in navigating the atmosphere, and it is probable that even if flying machines become a success the most of the human race will be contented with terra firma modes of travel.

SHE SUCCEEDED.

How Queen Victoria Remembered an Old English Lady.

An old lady in rural England surprised her friends by announcing at table one night that she would go to London in June to see the jubilee procession. Some of her relatives warned her of the burdens of age and failing health, but she would not listen to their objections.

"I know," she said, "that I am eighty-three, but I was in Westminster Abbey when the Queen was crowned, and I shall go up to London to see the jubilee parade."

The objectors shifted their ground. They mentioned the high prices which windows and platform-seats were already commanding, and suggested that she was hardly rich enough to hire any place along the six-mile route.

"I shall arrange that little detail," she replied, confidently. "I shall write to the Queen about it. She will know my name, for it is one of the oldest in England. She will insist upon having a seat provided for me."

The old lad's enthusiam amused her friends, but she was wiser than they were. She wrote a respectful letter to the queen, relating her good fortune in having been a witness to the coronation service, and also of the first jubilee festivities ten years ago, and adding that although she was 83 and very feeble, she was bent upon going up to London and seeing the second jubilee show.

The letter was sent to Windsor palace, and was answered by the Queen herself with little delay. She was touched by the old lady's anxiety to witness the parade, and moreover recognized the name as one which had come down from the era of the Norman Conquest. The reply was cordial and gracious, and was in the Queen's own hand. She thanked her correspondent for the loyal interest displayed, and announced that she had given orders that a window in Buckingham Palace should be reserved for her on the day of the jubilee parade. She hoped that one of the oldest and most respected of her subjects would live to occupy a seat in the window.

When this gracious letter was received the old lady was triumphant, and all her friends were called upon to rejoice with her.

"I knew," she told them, "that the Queen had a kind heart, and also a good memory for a historic name like mine."

The Queen has a womanly instinct in such matters. She knew how much pleasure she could confer upon a worthy lady of ancient lineage by exceptional kindness and honor. By thoughtful and considerate deeds like this she has endeared herself to her subjects.—Youth's Companion.

A man is always looking for a nicer brand of smoking tobacco, and a woman for a better style of curling-iron.

BETTER THAN GOLD

ARE THE STEEL PENS shown below, as say our Customers.

OVER FIVE THOUSAND NATIONAL, STATE AND PRIVATE BANKS IN THE UNITED STATES are constantly being supplied with our pens, which fact alone guarantees their excellence.

PATENT APPLIED FOR.

Cut of inkstand shows our Popular No. 3, Automatic. Write us, enclosing stamps, and we will send you sample pens and tell you how to get the above stand without cost.

THESE ARE THE STRONG POINTS:
DURABILITY.
QUALITY.
SMOOTHNESS.
UNIFORMITY.

Take No Substitute.

If your dealer cannot supply you, send to this office, enclosing price, and we will fill your order, and guarantee safe delivery.

Price, per gross (1 box) $ 1.00
" 1-2 doz. boxes, 3.40
" 1 doz. boxes, 10.00

W. L. MASON & CO.,
(INCORPORATED.)
MANUFACTURERS STATIONERS' SUPPLIES.
KEENE, N. H.

ESTABLISHED, 1848.

D. A. ALTICK'S SON,

Manufacturer of High Grade Buggies, Surries, Phaetons, &c.

We claim to build, not the CHEAPEST, but the BEST for the money.

All we ask is, a TRIAL ORDER.

Send for catalogue, and by mentioning this paper we will allow you an EXTRA DISCOUNT.

D. A. ALTICK'S SON,
LANCASTER, PENN.

HIGH GRADE WORK GIVES THE CONSUMER SATISFACTION,
Consequently is best for the Dealer to handle.

A Full Line of BUGGIES, SURREYS, PHAETONS, ROAD WAGONS, &c., &c.

Send for Catalogue and Prices.

All Work Guaranteed.

We also Manufacture DOVETAIL BODIES AND GEARS IN THE WHITE.

DOVETAIL COMPANY
CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND.

FACTORY, Cor. Oak & College Sts.
SALESROOM, 214 S. Main St.

Relay Bicycles

Have more points of merit than any other High Grade Bicycle.

FULL OF GRACE AND BEAUTY.

Every Wheel Guaranteed. Send for Catalogue.

Relay M'f'g Co., Reading, Pa.

NATURE'S REMEDY

CURES IN THE RIGHT WAY, BY REGULATING THE LIVER AND KIDNEYS, AND PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

It is a positive cure for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, Chills, and all diseases arising from a diseased liver or the kidneys, or impure blood.

YOUR MONEY BACK Is the plan on which it is sold. If after taking the entire box of medicine you do not think you have had your money's worth, send us back the guarantee, which you will find in the box, and we will send you a check for $1.00 by return mail.

It is put up in two forms, powder and tablets. The tablets are the easier to take, requiring no mixing. Price $1.00 for 180 doses of either kind. Sent post paid upon receipt of price. Send 10 cents for ten days' treatment and copy of Nature's Guide to Health.

A. H. LEWIS MEDICINE CO., - Bolivar, Mo.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies. Especially recommended to married Ladies. Ask for DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler — Son.

$2.50 Cleveland .. TO .. BUFFALO

....Also Daily Line Between....

Cleveland and Toledo, Via "C. & B. LINE."

Steamers "City of Buffalo," (new) "State of Ohio" and "State of N. Y."

DAILY TIME TABLE.
Sunday Included Mar 30 to Oct 25

Lv Cleveland 7:00 p. m. | Lv Buffalo 7:30 p. m.
Ar Buffalo 7:30 a. m. | Ar Cleveland 7:30 a. m.

Central Standard Time.

Take the "C. & B. Line" steamers and enjoy a refreshing night's rest when enroute to Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, New York, Boston, Albany, 1000 Islands, or any Eastern or Canadian Point.

Cheap Excursions Weekly to Niagara Falls.

Send 4 cents for tourist pamphlet.
For further information ask your nearest Coupon Ticket Agent, or address.

W. F. HERMAN, Gen. Pass. Agt.
T. F. NEWMAN, Gen. Manager.
Cleveland, Ohio.

ROESSNER'S ONCE A WEEK SHINE TRADE MARK SHOE POLISH FOR LADIES,—GENTLEMENS AND CHILDRENS SHOES HARNESS & PATENT LEATHER. PRICE 25¢. READY FOR USE. REQUIRES NO RUBBING OR BRUSHING. ROESSNER MFG. CO. WINONA, MINN. U.S.A.

IT SHINES FOR ALL.

THE NEWEST AND BEST OIL SHOE POLISH

In Colors.

BLACK, TAN, GREEN and OX BLOOD.

This is truly a "ONCE A WEEK" shoe polish, as it will hold a shine for a week, and rain or snow will not spoil it. A Liquid Polish, put up in large bottles, encased in neat cartons, and makes a good show in the package and on the shoe. The nicest thing on the market for LADIES' AND GENTLEMEN'S FINE SHOES AND PATENT LEATHER. Easily applied. Requires no rubbing. Will not freeze.

Ask your local dealer for it.

Roessner's "Once a Week" Shine Shoe Polish. Address ROESSNER MFG. CO., Winona, Minn.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

Made This Change.

DO YOU suffer from Nervous Prostration, Falling or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Shrunken or Undeveloped Organs, Youthful Errors, Excessive Use of Tobacco or Opium? Sent by mail on receipt of price. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

WE GUARANTEE to cure you or refund money, and we stand by our guarantee.

Sold at $1 per Box, 6 Boxes for $5.

Sold By Fischler & Son

JOB PRINTING

LETTER HEADS, BILL HEADS, CARDS, ENVELOPES, CIRCULARS.

MRS. CURTIS, NEW YORK,

Tells Her Experience With Ovaritis.

A dull, throbbing pain, accompanied by a sense of tenderness and heat low down in the side, with an occasional shooting pain, indicates inflammation.

On examination it will be found that the region of pain shows some swelling. This is the first stage of ovaritis, inflammation of the ovary. If the roof of your house leaks, my sister, you have it fixed at once; why not pay the same respect to your own body?

Do you live miles away from a doctor? Then that is all the more reason why you should attend to yourself at once, or you will soon be on the flat of your back.

You need not, you ought not to let yourself go, when one of your own sex holds out the helping hand to you, and will advise you without money and without price Write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and tell her all your symptoms. Her experience in treating female ills is greater than any other living person. Following is proof of what we say:

"For nine years I suffered with female weakness in its worst form. I was in bed nearly a year with congestion of the ovaries. I also suffered with falling of the womb, was very weak, tired all the time, had such headaches as to make me almost wild. Was also troubled with leucorrhœa, and was bloated so badly that some thought I had dropsy. I have taken several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and several of her Blood Purifier, and am completely cured. It is a wonder to all that I got well. I shall always owe Mrs. Pinkham a debt of gratitude for her kindness. I would advise all who suffer to take her medicine."—MRS. ANNIE CURTIS, Ticonderoga, N. Y.

A COOL BOTTLE

of Hires Rootbeer on a sweltering hot day is highly essential to comfort and health. It cools the blood, reduces your temperature, tones the stomach.

HIRES Rootbeer

should be in every home, in every office, in every workshop. A temperance drink, more healthful than ice water, more delightful and satisfying than any other beverage produced.

Made only by the Charles E. Hires Co., Philadelphia. A package makes 5 gallons. Sold everywhere.

The Bicycle Sensation.

1897 COLUMBIAS AT $75.

Standard of the World.

1896 Columbias . . .	at $60
1897 Hartfords . . .	at $50
Hartford Pattern 2 . .	at $45
Hartford Pattern 1 . .	at $40
Hartford Patterns 5 and 6	at $30

These are the new prices. They have set the whole bicycle world talking—and buying.

POPE MFG. CO., Hartford, Conn.

Catalogue free from any Columbia dealer; by mail for a 2-cent stamp.

$75 RIDE A CRESCENT BICYCLE. $50

Western Wheel Works, MANUFACTURERS CHICAGO ILLINOIS

CATALOGUE FREE

PENSIONS, PATENTS, CLAIMS. JOHN W. MORRIS, WASHINGTON, D.C. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs. in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty. since.

PATENTS H. B. WILLSON & CO., Washington, D.C. No charge till patent obtained. 50-page book free.

BABY KANGAROO.

Belongs to a Species that Rarely if Ever Before Bred in Captivity.

At the Zoological Garden at London, England, there was a short time ago born the first baby kangaroo of the Brush-tailed Rock species that has yet been brought into the world within its hospitable confines. up till the present year the animals of this particular species have refused to breed, although the other branches of the kangaroo family have been fairly prolific. The Brush-tailed Rock kangaroo dwells chiefly in rough, rocky country, and is therefore more thick-set in build than many of its cousins, while its sturdy, brush-like tail plays an important part in its agile movements.

MAMMA AND BABY KANGAROO.

Don't Eat Unless You Are Hungry.

There is a good old maxim which runs as follows: "In time of peace prepare for war," and this is as true in connection with the question of diet in health as in other things. Too many people assume that because they enjoy fairly good health, no improvement need be effected in their diet, but that this position is eminently untenable none who carefully consider the subject will deny. Those whose practice brings them into contact with the wealthier classes have frequently an opportunity of estimating the bad effects of improper diet. As regards the poor, they are unable to procure meat on account of their poverty, and, as a result, their diet is composed largely of carbohydrates. In the case of general sickness, or even without unfavorable climatic conditions, both classes seem to be unable to resist attacks of disease. It is for the most part the apparently healthy people who are so quickly stricken down by disease, while the chronic invalid may pass through unscathed, and yet no one seems to understand that conditions were present which predisposed the healthy man or woman to disease, and that these pre-existing conditions were largely due to want of attention to diet. It would be well for those who feel so sure that they are in perfect health to consult a doctor for instructions how to avoid disease. One very common mistake is to eat when not hungry, simply because it is "meal time," an act not one whit less stupid than that of replenishing one's fire because one hears one's neighbor's coal-scuttle rattling, regardless of the fact that there is plenty of coal already on, and that any addition thereto would be mischievous.

A Multi-Millionaire's Death.

William L. Winans, son of Ross Winans, of Baltimore, died in London June 25. Mr. Winans was educated in Baltimore and sailed for Europe in 1844 to build a railroad for Emperor Nicholas from Moscow to St. Petersburg. He made a million dollars on the contract. He constructed other big railroads and his fortune increased until he was fifty times a millionaire. He married an English woman, Miss Delarue. He spent money lavishly. He maintained a shooting box in Inverness-shire, Scotland, at a yearly rental of $35,000, and a seaside villa at Brighton. One of his favorite methods of entertaining his friends was to treat them to morning concerts at which Patti, Nilsson and other great operatic artists sang.

He so suffered from seasickness on his voyage across the Atlantic as to end any attempt at returning to his native land. He often said, even when his fortune was none too large, that he would not cross the ocean for a million dollars. He was 75 years old.

Mr. Winans liked the circus and on one occasion bought all the seats in advance of a big traveling company on condition that no one but himself and two friends was allowed to witness the performance. The exhibition was given to three people and the performers went through their parts the same as if 10,000 spectators were inside the tent. Mr. Winans hated the United States and his two sons were brought up in this belief.

Doctors and Death.

The old traditions which represent the doctor and death as always hunting in couples still survive in Spain. In all well-to-do families the house of death is always deserted immediately after the funeral, and the bereaved ones retire and pass eight days in inviolable seclusion. Children are buried in coffins of gray, pink, or blue color, which are carried open to the grave. A luxury of grief consists in shutting up the house where a death has taken place and never suffering it to be opened again.

Pill Clothes.

The good pill has a good coat. The pill coat serves two purposes; it protects the pill, enabling it to retain all its remedial value, and it disguises the taste for the palate. Some pill coats are too heavy; they will not dissolve in the stomach, and the pills they cover pass through the system as harmless as a bread pellet. Other coats are too light, and permit the speedy deterioration of the pill. After 30 years exposure, Ayer's Sugar Coated Pills have been found as effective as if just fresh from the laboratory. It's a good pill with a good coat. Ask your druggist for

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

More pill particulars in Ayer's Curebook, 100 pages. Sent free. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

FENCING NOW A FAD.

SOCIETY WOMEN TAKE TO THE ATHLETIC SPORT.

Rooms Especially Devoted to the Exercise Now Found in Residences of the Swell Set—Favorite System Is of the French School.

Wielders of the Foil.

"Prepare! Salute! On guard! Defend! Clash! Clash!" These are the sounds that may be heard in the homes of the swell society girls nowadays. Fencing at home has become a fad, and rooms especially devoted to exercise with the foil are found in the residences of all the young women who have vowed fealty to Dame Fashion. There is no exercise which more thoroughly develops the muscles of the body than fencing. In Germany, where the women fence as much as they ride bicycles over here, feminine strength and health and grace are generally enjoyed, although with us they are not to be found as often as is desired. This is an era of the practical in society, and it is likely in this fact will be found the reason for the general adoption of this new fad. If a young woman is not too far advanced upon the list of society's devotees, she may enjoy the privilege of exercising with the foils in the public fencing academy. If she be a little more exclusive she can hie herself to the private academy. To be a real up-to-date society girl, however, she must forswear the academy and take her lessons at home. This is the absolute decree of the supreme court, from which there is no appeal.

CHAMPION WOMAN FENCER.

GIRLS AT WORK WITH THE FOILS.

Every dainty fencer must perforce have a master who will instruct her in the fad that woos a graceful carriage and muscles like the highest tempered steel. Unquestionably it is true that the introduction into the homes of aristocracy of these private fencing rooms has served to awaken a renewed interest in the art. So it is that where a few months ago the fencing clubs throughout the country could be counted on one's fingers, such clubs now, especially those whose membership is entirely feminine, have more than trebled in number. Instead of arraying herself in fine linen and often uncomfortable purple, and undergoing for two hours a sort of social martyrdom under the guise of an afternoon tea, the girl of the period who is quite correct receives a half dozen of her friends in her fencing room and there many a pleasant half hour is spent in discussing and demonstrating the latest forms of fence, guard, parry and attack.

EQUIPPED FOR AN ENCOUNTER.

To hear these fair wielders of the foil discuss the merits of some particular form of attack, of the parry of sixte, parry of octave or counter of septime, one would think they were all veteran duelists, but in reality this knowledge of the phraseology of fencing is as much a part of the art as is the handling of the foil itself, and no woman who has ever undertaken to learn how to fence considers herself competent until the vernacular of the fencing room is as familiar to her as the latest social event.

Fencing is one of latest fads of Chicago society girls, says the Inter Ocean, and among the fair fencers Miss Florence Higinbotham is the most expert and graceful. She began taking lessons about two years ago, and soon became so proficient that she succeeded in disarming her teacher, very much to his chagrin and her delight.

No one looking at Miss Higinbotham's slight, rather fragile figure would imagine her capable of the strength necessary to make a good fencer. But she is a capital "whip," and constantly handling spirited horses has given her arms good muscular development. Miss Higinbotham has also had the advantage of constant practice with her brother, who is a capital fencer. She has a room in her father's house especially fitted up for the engagement of her favorite exercise, and here she and her girl friends have many a friendly bout, and finish up with the cup of tea so essentially feminine.

The floor of Miss Higinbotham's fencing-room is of cork, the walls are decorated with foils and masks; there are no chairs in the room, but a low, broad seat runs around three sides of it and forms a comfortable lounging place for the lookers-on.

Miss Higinbotham's fencing costume is an artistic as well as practical one. A full skirt of red accordion-plaited silk reaches to the top of the high-laced boots which fit her slender feet very trimly. The bodice is of chamois skin, made perfectly plain and close fitting, and at the left side, just over the heart, is embroidered a tiny red heart. A little cap is generally worn.

"I am very fond of fencing," said Miss Higinbotham in response to an inquiry. "In fact, I think I like it better than any amusement except riding and driving. I like anything in the way of athletic sport, and I felt quite proud of myself when I disarmed my fencing master. I don't think he enjoyed it very much, though," and she paused to laugh at the recollection. "A few of the girls who take lessons from him were looking on, and they all clapped and applauded me, and he didn't like it a bit.

"I don't see why more girls don't go in for fencing. It is such a splendid exercise, and not hard to learn. Quite a few of my girl friends fence, and we have pleasant matches together."

The favorite system of fencing now practiced by the society woman is of the French school, which, as is well-known, was founded on the old sword-play of Spain, which was introduced into France and later into Italy by the Spanish Bourbons. While the Italian masters have kept to this day the long foil with its bell-shaped guard, the direct descendant of the old Spanish rapier, the French have modernized the weapon and the fencing foil of today is the result. Scientific fencing as practiced to-day dates from the sixteenth century, and was originally the sport of kings and nobles. King Henry III. and Louis XVI. of France were both expert swordsmen, and when the Bourbons returned to France after the fall of Napoleon fencing in all its glory was revived. The year 1825 was the culminating point of the science. It was then that the two Bertrands, Jean-Louis, Borssiere, Saint George, and La Fangere were the recognized masters of the art in Europe.

When Cain Killed Abel.

There is a very general misconception of a well-known passage in the Book of Genesis with regard to Cain's place of abode after he had killed his brother Abel. The expression reads: "Cain went out from the presence of the Lord and dwelt in the land of Nod," but learned commentators express the opinion that this should read, "land, Nod," the preposition being unnecessary. The word Nod is said to mean a wanderer, and, if Biblical students are to be trusted in this matter, the passage means Cain went out and dwelt in the land a wanderer or exile from his people, the presumption being that he was obliged to keep away from his immediate family for fear of their vengeance, an additional precaution for his safety being indicated by the fact that a mark was placed upon him. The question where Cain got his wife is a silly quibble which frequently comes up in Sunday schools and other places; silly from the fact that if the Biblical account of the origin of the human race from a single pair be received as correct, there may have been several thousand of human beings in the world long before the death of Cain.

The Literature of the Day.

Prison Librarian—What sort of book would you like to have?

Convict—Got any bicycle catalogues? Exchange.

TOO MANY LAWYERS.

"Of a Thousand Seeds He Bringeth Only One to Bear."

The rush into the learned professions seems greater than ever, particularly into the legal profession. Within a fortnight, says a Chicago paper, several hundred young men have been admitted to the bar of Illinois, and the same thing, to a greater or less extent, is going on in all the States. Taking the 45 States it would not be surprising to learn that some 3,000 or 4,000 youths had been licensed to practice law in the United States this current year. Nor is the spectacle a new one. It is simply a repetition of what have been seen for years and years past.

What becomes of all these youths, fresh from their studies, full of ambition and emulous of the fame of the great masters of the law? How many succeed and what proportion fail? Are the rewards of the profession so great as thus to entice so many to pursue it? And what are the chances for obtaining a portion of these rewards? Let a great English jurist, Vice Chancellor Bacon, who died but a short time ago, answer. It became his duty on a certain occasion to receive a class of students just called to the bar, and he thus addressed them:

"I cannot congratulate you, gentlemen, upon the profession which you have chosen. It is one in which very few succeed, and most of those who succeed wish they had failed."

A few, alas! how few, favored by good fortune and possessed of real qualifications for the profession, finally forge into prominence and success. Just read the leading newspapers of the country. Here they tell of the suicides of disappointed lawyers, there of others driven to desperation, insanity and crime because of failure. Glance over the advertisements: "A good lawyer wanted in a commercial establishment; salary $10 a week!" "Wanted—An active and experienced lawyer to draw papers and make collections; salary $8 per week."

Undoubtedly the law is an attractive field in the United States. The pathway to power and public station lies through it. The lawyers may be said to be the ruling class. They make, construe and execute the laws, and are to be found in the seats of the mighty. But where one attains that seat hundreds fall by the wayside. "Of a thousand seeds he only bringeth one to bear," saith the Scriptures. No truer word can be spoken of the legal profession.

Direct Vote of the People.

It is a singular and not generally known fact that no official of the United States is elected by the direct vote of the people. The President and Vice President are not named in the ballots cast at a presidential election, but in their stead appear the names of a number of gentlemen, most of whom are unknown even by name to the great mass of voters. The members of the President's Cabinet are selected by himself and are confirmed on his recommendation as his personal advisers. Supreme justices, judges of the Circuit and District Courts are named by the President, who, with his Cabinet, nominates, with a few trivial exceptions, all other United States officials. Members of the United States Senate are elected by the State Legislatures. Representatives are voted for directly by the people, but neither Senators nor Representatives are properly officials of the United States. While the people of this country are the ruling power, the exercise of that power, so far as the United States Government is concerned, is largely indirect.

Start of a Colorado Graveyard.

"The graveyard in Georgetown, Colo., was started," explained a Colorado politician, "by burying a man who was lynched. He was a bad character and made himself very disagreeable in many ways. Finally he shot a saloon-keeper there, and the boys, supposing that the saloon-keeper was dead, organized a lynch court and executed him in very short order. After they returned from their lynching bee the saloon-keeper showed some signs of life. By the most careful kind of nursing he recovered from his injury. The boys then saw that they had made a mistake; that a life should not have been taken except in return for a life, and they raised quite a large sum of money and sent it to the fellow's parents. Though the body was first planted in a gully, it was afterward taken up and properly interred in what is now Georgetown's leading cemetery. The saloon man always kept the grave green."—Washington Star.

Enterprises of Great Pith and Moment

Have, ere now, had their currents "turned awry," as Hamlet says, by an attack of dyspepsia. Napoleon failed to improve his advantage at Austerlitz in consequence, it is said, of indigestion brought on by some indiscretion in eating. In order to avoid dyspepsia, abstain from over-indulgence, and precede the meal by a wineglassful of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, more effective than any dietetic in improving the tone of the stomach. Liver complaint, chills and fever, and rheumatism are annihilated by the Bitters.

Numbering Bank Notes.

All United States bank notes are printed in sheets of four of one denomination on each sheet, and are numbered and lettered twice. All notes of which the number when divided by four shows a remainder of one, have the letter A upon them; a remainder of two, the letter B; of three, the letter C, and those which have no remainder the letter D.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is a constitutional cure. Price 75 cents.

A Large Family.

Fedor Vossileff, of Moscow, was pensioned by the Czar in 1872 because he had eighty-three living children.

Real Warm Weather Rest and Comfort.

There is a powder to be shaken into the shoes called Allen's Foot-Ease, invented by Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y., which druggists and shoe dealers say is the best thing they have ever sold to cure swollen, burning, sore and tender or aching feet. Some dealers claim that it makes tight or new shoes feel easy. It certainly will cure corns and bunions and relieve instantly sweating, hot or smarting feet. It costs only a quarter, and the inventor will send a sample free to any address.

In tropical forests so large a proportion of the plants are of the sensitive variety that sometimes the path of a traveler may be traced by the wilted foliage.

BICYCLE FIGURES.

Some Interesting Facts Regarding the Output of Crescent Bicycles in 1896 by the Western Wheel Works, of Chicago, Ill.

The idea of this article is to convey to the reader a conception of the enormous amount of raw material consumed during a season in supplying the demand for one of the most popular bicycles made. The Western Wheel Works, Chicago, makers of the Crescent wheel, have the largest, and without doubt the most complete bicycle factory in the world, and can turn out, when running to fullest capacity, 725 finished Crescents in twelve hours, or a complete "up to date" bicycle per minute.

The following figures are based on the actual amount of the principal parts of material used by them during 1896 in the manufacture of Crescent bicycles, during which season they made more high-grade bicycles than any other two factories in the country.

They used 350 miles of tubing, or enough to nearly reach from Chicago to St. Paul if placed in a straight line. The spokes were made in their own factory, and required 780 miles of wire, or enough to reach from Chicago to Lincoln, Neb.; 50 miles of brass rod was required for spoke nipples. If the spokes, spoke nipples and tubing were placed in a straight line they would reach from Chicago to the Rocky Mountains at Denver. The cranks, if placed end to end, would cover a distance of 22 miles. They used 35 miles of steel for crank axles, wheel axles and pedal axles, and 19 miles of steel for seat posts. If the rims that were used in the manufacture of Crescents in '96 were placed one upon the other they would make a pile 19,800 feet high, 6,000 feet higher than Pike's Peak and about the height of Mount Elias in Alaska, whose summit has never yet been reached by man. If placed in a straight line, side by side, these rims would reach a distance of 72½ miles, and if the tires were fitted they would make a line 77½ miles longer. The steel forgings used for the crank hangers on the '96 wheels weighed, in the rough, 113 8-10 tons, and when finished, 21 9-10 tons, showing a complete waste of 91 9-10 tons in drilling and finishing. It required 32,084 square feet of sheet steel to make the Crescent hollow tooth sprockets, and 21,876 square feet for the steel stampings of the head and seat post clamps, or in all enough flat steel to cover an area of 1¼ acres. There were used 10 miles of cork grips, 10½ miles of finished hubs, and 28 miles of steel wire to pin frames together before brazing. The finished chains, end to end, would reach 70 miles, and the different pieces of which they are composed would reach 237½ miles, or in all 307½ miles, the distance from Chicago to Cincinnati. The bearings of 1896 Crescents required 13,007,300 steel balls, which, if placed in a straight line, side by side, would reach a distance of 45¾ miles. To lace the chain and dress guards on the ladies' Crescents manufactured in 1896 required 434,150 yards of cord, or 246½ miles, enough to allow a small boy to stand on the top of the Auditorium tower in Chicago and fly his kite where the people in Des Moines, Iowa, could see it. To supply Crescents sold in 1896 required 1,006,742 bolts, and 1,488,075 nuts, having an aggregate weight of 23 tons. Sixteen and one-quarter miles of spring steel were used in the manufacture of saddle springs, and the saddle and tool bags together used up 177,883 square feet, or over 4 acres of leather. The total weight of the complete bicycles was 2,382,842 pounds, or 1,191 tons. To crate these bicycles required 1,235,740 square feet of lumber made up in pieces, which would make a distance of 1,139 miles, or more than the distance from New York to Chicago; 72,718,068 separate and distinct pieces entered into the construction of '96 Crescents, and if all were placed in a straight line, end to end, they would reach from New York to some distance in the Pacific Ocean west of San Francisco.—Crescent Bulletin, July 1, 1897.

Poor Lo Behind the Plow.

William Shakspeare, an Arapahoe Indian on the lower Shoshone agency, reports to the Indian guide of Fort Washakie that the Indians on the subagency are working on their farms more industriously this year than ever before. They are breaking up a large amount of new land, and where last year the sage brush was thick there are now good farms. He says: "The old Indians always used to talk of going to war, and now they talk different; they tell us about farming, and how to farm, and they tell us young men to work hard at farming. I have in about twelve acres of wheat, five of oats, one of potatoes, and a big garden of watermelons, squash and other vegetables. I have twenty-two acres this year instead of ten last, and all the other Indians are the same way, plowing much more land this year than last."—Lander, Wyo., letter to Denver Republican.

ALL THE WAY FROM THE MISSOURI RIVER TO BUFFALO, THE WABASH RAILROAD OPERATES TRAINS OVER ITS OWN TRACKS.

Having leased the tracks of the Grand Trunk Railway between Detroit and Suspension Bridge, and those of the Erie R. R. from Suspension Bridge to Buffalo, the Wabash R. R. will run its own trains from Kansas City, Omaha, Des Moines, St. Louis, Quincy, Hannibal, Keokuk and Chicago to Buffalo, being the only road from Missouri and Mississippi River points having its own line and trains running into Buffalo. Through cars from Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago to Buffalo without change.

Apropos of currency, it is noteworthy that the sale of racehorses in England is still made in guineas, although that gold coin, worth 21 shillings in silver, has been out of use for years.

There Is a Class of People

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over one-fourth as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15c and 25c per package.

Queen Victoria now rules 367,000,000 people, a greater number than has ever before acknowledged the sovereignty of either a king, queen or emperor.

Piso's Cure for Consumption is our only medicine for coughs and colds.—Mrs. C. Beltz, 439 8th ave., Denver, Col., Nov. 8, 1895.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

BEAUTY IS BLOOD DEEP.

PURE, HEALTHY BLOOD MEANS BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION.

Intestinal Microbes Poison the Blood When the Bowels Are Constipated—Drive Them Out by Making the Liver Lively.

"Beauty is skin deep." That is wrong. Beauty is blood deep.

A person constipated, with a lazy liver, bilious blood, dyspeptic stomach, has pimples and liver spots and a sole leather complexion.

No one with a furred tongue, a bad breath, a jaundiced eye, can be beautiful, no matter how perfect are form and features.

To be beautiful, to become beautiful, or remain beautiful, the blood must be kept pure and free from bile, microbes, disease germs and other impurities.

Cascarets Candy Cathartic will do it for you quickly, surely, naturally. They never grip nor gripe, but make the liver lively, prevent sour stomach, kill disease germs, tone up the bowels, purify the blood and make all things right, as they should be. Then beauty comes of itself and to stay.

Buy and try Cascarets to-day. It's what they do, not what we say they do, that will please you. All druggists, 10c, 25c or 50c, or mailed for price. Send for booklet and free sample. Address Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago, Montreal, Can., or New York.

Printing in China.

The art of printing, according to Du Halde and the missionaries, was practiced in China nearly fifty years before the Christian era. In the time of Confucius, B. C. 500, books were made of bamboo, and about 150 years after Christ paper was first made.

Poison in the Coffee.

Few people who habitually drink coffee, several times a day, realize the amount of poison they are distributing through their system. All coffee contains caffeine, and the better the coffee the more of that slow poison. By experimenting with pure grains a substitute for fine coffee has been produced. It is called Grain-O. There is nothing about it to hurt the most delicate system. It strengthens the nerves and is nourishing to old and young alike. The smallest child can drink Grain-O without any bad effects. While it tastes like and has the seal brown color of the finest Mocha or Java coffee it contains all pure nourishing grains. It costs only one-quarter as much as coffee. Sold by all grocers, 15 cents and 25 cents per package. Ask for Grain-O.

During the past week Caribou, Maine, has produced a pig with two perfect heads, Bethel, Vt., a calf that looks like a bulldog with a calf's hoofs, and Stonington, a chicken with four legs—but unfortunately for the dime museum men all these freaks are dead.

Shake Into Your Shoes

Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder for the feet. It cures painful, swollen, smarting feet, and instantly takes the sting out of corns and bunions. It's the greatest comfort discovery of the age. Allen's Foot-Ease makes tight-fitting or new shoes feel easy. It is a certain cure for sweating, callous and hot, tired, aching feet. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores. By mail for 25 cents, in stamps. Trial package FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

How He Guessed It.

She—I don't see anything so terrifying in death.

He—Why didn't you tell me you were from Philadelphia? I have friends there myself.—New York Tribune.

To Colorado Springs and Pueblo—Burlington Route via Denver.

A through sleeping car to Colorado Springs and Pueblo, via Denver, is attached to Burlington Route daily train leaving Chicago 10:30 p. m. Office, 211 Clark street.

In every mile of railway there are seven feet and four inches that are not covered by the rails—the space left between them for expansion.

If the care of the hair were made a part of a lady's education, we should not see so many gray heads, and the use of Hall's Hair Renewer would be unnecessary.

The honeycomb presents a solution of the greatest possible strength and space with the least possible material.

Good Blood Is Good Health

Good blood is blood that is rich and pure and loaded with nourishment for nerves, muscles, tissues and organs. Good blood makes the whole body healthy and keeps it so. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes good blood; therefore it cures all scrofula eruptions, that tired feeling, dyspepsia.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact, the One True Blood Purifier.

Hood's Pills cure nausea, indigestion. 25c.

NEBRASKA FARM LANDS. A dry healthy climate, free from malaria, an abundance of pure water, a soil which is unsurpassed for richness, and is easily cultivated, yielding all varieties of crops. That is what Nebraska offers to the home seeker. Lands are cheap now. Send for a pamphlet describing Nebraska, mailed free on application to P. S. EUSTIS, General Passenger Agent, C. B. & Q. R. R., Chicago.

GET RICH Quickly. Send for "300 Inventions Wanted." Edgar Tate & Co., 145 B'way, N. Y.

Do You Know that There Is Science in Neatness? Be Wise and Use SAPOLIO

PATENTS. TRADE-MARKS.

Examination and advice as to Patentability of Inventions. Send for INVENTOR'S GUIDE, or HOW TO GET A PATENT. Patrick O'Farrell, Washington, D.C.

SORE EYES? DR. ISAAC THOMPSON'S EYE WATER

BIG G. CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A.

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

When Writing to Advertisers say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

OUR THANKS ARE DUE

To the citizens of Auburn for the large trade enjoyed with them the past six months. It takes a mamouth establishment to carry a nice assortment of.....

Furniture & Carpets

You could put into our great establishment at least a dozen ordinary stores.

Why not buy your Furniture and carpets where you can have the advantage of....

The Latest Styles,

The Lowest Prices,

The Biggest Assortment,

The Best Made Goods.

A round trip ticket costs you but little,; the trip you will enjoy, and you can save five times your expenses; we will pay the freight on your goods, and, best of all, you will not have goods your town'a people have all looked over, but instead, something new and fresh that none of them have seen and which none of them have.

Everybody admits we have the finest Furniture and Carpet Store in the state of Indiana. We want....

You

for one of our customers.

Foster Furniture & Carpet Co.,

Fort Wayne, Indiana.

B. & O. R. R.

Schedule In Effect Nov. 22 '96

Leaves Auburn Junction.

WEST BOUND.

No. 3 Express, to Garrett only	3:53 p m
No. 15 Daily	2:00 a m
No. 5 Daily	4:20 a m
No. 7 Daily	4:18 p m
No. 17 Daily Except Sunday	12:25 p m

EAST BOUND.

No. 4 Express	4:20 a m
No. 6 Daily	3:05 p m
No. 8 Daily	2:40 p m
No 41 Daily	11:41 p m
No 16, Daily, except Sunday	12:25 p m

D. S. MARTIN, Manager of Passenger Traffic.
Q. H. YOUNG, Auburn Junction, Ind

Wabash Line

GOING EAST.

No. 2	5:58 am—Daily
No. 4	7:37 pm—ex Su
No. 70 (local freight)	3:00 pm—ex Su
No. 6	2:08 pm—ex Su

GOING WEST.

No. 5	7:27 am—Daily
No. 3	7:10 pm—Daily
No. 71, (local freight)	9:55 am—ex Su
No. 7	12:20 pm—ex Su

All these trains stop for passengers.
For rates, tickets, time tables, etc. apply to
L. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind
Chas. M. Hays, V. Pres. and Gen'l Manager.
G. S. Crane, Gen'l Pass'r and Ticket Agent

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Nov. 29, 1896.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations	Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne	11 45 am	4 25 pm	6 40
New Haven	12 12 pm	5 34	7 27
Auburn Junction	12 28	5 52	7 58
Auburn	12 30	5 55	8 37
Waterloo	12 41	6 41	9 24
Summit	12 52	6 52	9 44
Steubenville	12 56	6 56	9 50
Pleasant Lake	1 03	7 03	10 10
Angola	1 13	7 13	10 30
Jackson	2 25	8 35	4 30 pm

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations	Fre'gt	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson dp	6 00 am	11 25 am	7 05 am
Angola	12 25	2 10 pm	8 22
Pleasant Lake	1 00	2 25	8 38
Steubenville	....	2 36	8 52
Summit	1 28	2 39	8 55
Waterloo	2 05	2 55	10 00
Auburn	3 53	3 10	10 20
Auburn Junction	3 14	3 14	10 14
New Haven	3 05	3 24	10 28
Fort Wayne	5 25	3 55	11 00

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call [illegible] or address E. E. DeLAPP, Agent Auburn.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Administrator of the estate of Leah Rhodarmer deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent July 1st, 1897.

GEORGE W. BLEEKS, Administrator.
Baxter & Brown Attys.

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the County of DeKalb, State of Indiana, Administrator of the estate of Henry Rines deceased, late of DeKalb Co.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

FRANCIS M. RINES,
July 9, 1897. Administrator.
Baxter & Brown Attys.

OBITUARY

Henrietta Salome daughter of Martyn F. and Louisa Snyder was born May 23, 1877, and died July 15, 1897, aged 20 years, 1 month and 17 days. She was baptised in infancy by the Rev. Ruhl of the Reform Church and at the age of thirteen years embraced Christ under the labors of Rev. S. P. Klotz of the U. B. church, during a series of meetings which he held at Showers Corner. She united with the church at that place and remained a faithful member until during the last year she transferred membership to the Reform Church. She had been a continual sufferer for the last five years. She bore it all patiently yet often expressed a desire to go home to her Saviour and be at rest. She was resigned to the will of God saying she was going home, requested loved ones to meet her there.

The funeral occured at Tamarack Church, July 16, Rev. S. P. Klotz officiating after which the remains were laid away in Tamarack cemetery to wait the resurrection morn.

NO PAY—NO CURE

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Chills and Malaria. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price 50c. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

CASTORIA.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Which Will it Be?

(Silver Dawn)

"The Sheriff of DeKalb county, the leading peace official of the county has again threatened to lick us. If the editor of this paper is to be whipped, we hope it will be all over very soon. It makes us weary waiting."

The COURIER is waiting to see whether it turns out, "Billie lickee Jumbo, or Jumbo lickee Billie."

"Two Privileges of Summer Travel."

A beautiful illustrated and descriptive booklet, telling about stopover at Niagara Falls and a trip on the Hudson River, two privileges secured to passengers via the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Ry. without extra expense. This handsome book sent free by applying to A. J. Smith, G. P. and T. A. Cleveland, O. 30

Hurt at the Factory.

Saturday's Daily.

A man named John Croyle was severely hurt at the Greenler factory this afternoon. He runs the equalizer but took a notion to try running the stave cutter. It was a bad job for he soon was minus a thumb, and the forefinger is so nearly off that Dr. Sparling fears it may have to be amputated. His home is at Mark Center.

DIED.

At her home near Green's Corners south of Sedan, Thursday evening at 6 o'clock, Miss Ettie Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Snyder, at the age of 20... The funeral and interment are Saturday, July 17, at 2 p. m. at the Tamarac Church.

—In letter-head, note-heads, envelopes and all kinds of printing on which a pen is required, besides this printing, THE COURIER will not permit the use of the flimsy, porous stock so often palmed off on business men, who send out of the city and buy the cheap printed stationery. Therefore it pays all business men or firms to leave their orders for this class of work particularly, or whatever class of work may be desired, with THE COURIER and be assured that it will be of the best stock, always; free from blunders and at reasonable prices.

—The young ladies of the Catholic church will give a lawn social on the public square Saturday evening, July 24. Ice cream and cake will be served. All are invited to come and help them.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

THE NEW GALLERY

....NOW READY....

FOR WORK.

....CALL ON ME AT....

RICE'S OLD STAND For all kinds of Photograph Work. Cabinets in tints or Platino Finish; Views, Pictures of Residences or Family Groups Kodac work done on short notice. First-class work guaranteed.

M. L. HOFFMAN, Auburn, Ind.

WITH THE MASONS.

The Knights Templars had a fine day for their first annual picnic which was held at Waterloo yesterday. The meeting was under the maple trees around the school house, where stands and seats were arranged, and bunting displayed in profusion. The dinner, from the baskets was first disposed of, and after a social hour the regular exercises came on. These included an address of welcome by Rev. W. O. Butler of Waterloo, and the principal address of the afternoon, later, by John W. Hanan of Lagrange. There were also a number of fine recitations, and choice music by the Waterloo Mandolin Club. The singing, which was excellent, was by a quartet of four Auburn ladies, Mrs. D. A. Garwood, Mrs. Wm. Eckhart, Miss Maud Trover and Miss Della Weaver. There was also a drill by the Sir Knights, greatly appreciated by the company present, and a band concert by the Kendallville band. The entire affair was very pleasant, and will encourage the Sir Knights to make their annual picnic a permanent feature.

LYING REPORTERS.

We publish a dispatch sent out from Ligonier, July 15, by some enterprising reporter to the Associated Press. The true account of the death of John Henry Bruentz appeared only in the COURIER. He was found unconscious, and injured July 4, as the result of a fit. He died July 5, and that day the DAILY COURIER published the account As soon as several reporters from neighboring towns could get hold of it, they re-wrote it in a fairly correct way from the COURIER and sent in their dispatches. This gave the great dailies the story about three days old. But we supposed it was over. Now, however, comes an enterprising reporter from Ligonier, who sends to the Associated Press, and it goes all over the country 11 days old, a sensational and entirely erroneous account of the matter. As we saidbefore, it was all taken originally from the DAILY COURIER as the reader could easily see, but this last set, was largely made to order by the reporter. Nearly every town along the Lake Shore road has just that kind of a reporter. If these fellows can't send reports half way right, they ought to get out of the business. And the news bureaus ought to look over their lists, and weed out a few of their news gatherers.

OH THE LIAR!

The following is found in the Indianapolis Sentinel as a special dispatch dated July 15:

John Henry Bruentz, an eccentric and wealthy old man, living on a farm in Jackson township, DeKalb county was found dead in his house Tuesday by neighbors. Bruentz lived alone on his farm and was known to have a large amount of money in his possession. He was seen early in the evening about 7 o'clock in good spirits.

Neighbors who were accustomed to seeing him up early became suspicious when he did not show himself up to the noon hour. A search was made and the man's dead body was found. Blood was found on the furniture, upon the door and on an ax handle.

Bruentz never kept his door locked, and it is supposed that some tramp secured easy entrance to his room and killed the old man. Citizens are aroused and several vagabonds have been taken into custody. Should the murderer be apprehended there may be a lynching.

Baby's Second Summer

is the time that tries all the care of the mother and all the skill of maternal management. Baby comfort comes from fat; fat babies have nothing to do but to sleep and grow.

If your baby does not seem to prosper, if he does not gain in weight, you must get more fat there. A few drops of each day will put on plumpness; fat outside, life inside, baby and mother both happy.

Scott's Emulsion

Your baby can take and relish Scott's Emulsion as much in summer as in any other season.

For sale by all druggists at 50c. and $1.00

Beautiful eyes grow dull and dim
As the swift years steal away.
Beautiful, willowy forms so slim
Lose fairness with every day.
But she still is queen and hath charms to spare
Who wears youth's coronal—beautiful hair.

Preserve Your Hair

and you preserve your youth. "A woman is as old as she looks," says the world. No woman looks as old as she is if her hair has preserved its normal beauty. You can keep hair from falling out, restoring its normal color, or restore the normal color to gray or faded hair, by the use of

Ayer's Hair Vigor.

Boots' Wool,

Geo Schaab, who bought John Boot's wool, answers in part at least, our question as to how that clip of 1896 had increased in weight 225 pounds by the time it was sold this summer. In the first place, the figures from which we took our article, were wrong. The increased weight was 125 pounds, and is accounted for partly by Mr. Boots' manner of weighing last year. Whenever a fleece, and there were about 80 of them, weighed a few ounces over a certain number of pounds, he would not mark down the ounces, but call it even pounds. Then, too, Mr. Schaab thinks that wool will absorb some moisture, or in some way become heavier while packed away closely. It is likely too, that Mr. Boots forgot to mark down some of the fleeces at all. So, we cheerfully take back a part of what we said (from a republican standpoint,) that a high tariff on wool makes it weigh heavier. It don't. We hope our republican friends will read this retraction.

HYDROPHIA,

The little Magazine, "Our Aminal Friends." has a long article this month, discussing the question as to whether there is, or is not, such a disease as "hydrophobia." It cites an abundance of able authority, and concludes that it is very doubtful whether there is such a disease. There are many cases of a queer character that are carelessly called "hydrophobia" or "rabies," but it has never been clearly shown that the disease originated from the bite of a mad dog. And what is called the "hydrophobia microbes" are found in all healthy dogs. It is believed that many so called cases are the results of fright or a diseased imagination. However this question may be settled, the safest way on meeting a mad dog is to get out of his way.

B. & O. EXCURSIONS

UNVEILING LOGAN MONUMENT.

For the above occasion the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell excursion tickets to Chicago, Ill., at rate of one fare for the round trip, for all regular trains of July 21 and for trains arriving in Chicago not later than twelve o'clock noon July 22.

Tickets will be good for return July 26, 1897.

TO CINCINATI, OHIO.

On July 21 and 22 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell excursion tickets to Cincinnati, Ohio, at rate of one for the round trip, account German Epworth League, M. E. Church, Annual Convention.

Tickets will be good for return until July 26, 1897.

TO MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, MD.

August 2 to 23, inclusive, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell excursion tickets to Mountain Lake Park, Md., at rate of one fare for the round trip, on account of the Chautauqua Meeting Tickets will be good for return until August 31, 1897.

TO PHIADELPHIA, PA.

On August 2, 3 and 4 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell excursion tickets to Philadelphia, Pa., at rate of one fare for the round trip, account League of American Wheelmen, National Meeting. Tickets will be good for return until August 9, 1897.

TO ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., AND OCEAN CITY MD.,

On July 22 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell low rate excursion tickets to Atlantic City, N. J., and Ocean City, Md., good for return until August 2, 1897.

Our Member

(Washington Post)

Newsboy, shopman, attorney, and Congressman—these steps illustrate the career of a dark-haired, dark-eyed, slender-built young man who stood in the lobby of the Riggs last evening conversing with several friends.

Hon. James M. Robinson, of Indiana, who is among the young contingent in a House extraordinarily full of young men, got his education in the public schools of his native city, Fort Wayne, and was a newspaper carrier until 1876; then he went into the railroad machine shops and worked till 1881. While working in the shops he studied law, and in 1886 he was unanimously nominated for prosecuting attorney, which important place he filled four years with signal ability. During his early struggles he was the only support of a widowed mother.

In 1892 he came very near the nomination for Congress, and four years afterward was elected to represent his district at Washington. His career shows the wonderful possibilities in this country for ambitious youth to triumph over adverse conditions. Mr. Robinson never went to school as much as an entire year altogether, yet by dint of the closest study he has acquired a solid and practical education, and his speeches in the House on the tariff, as well as his eloquent eulogy on his late colleague, Judge Holman, show that he is not only a man of ideas, but has the ability to express them in clear and polished English.

Obituary.

Minnie Dell (Ruhl) Baker, wife of Elmer Baker, was born in Columbiana Co. Ohio April 28, 1872, and departed this life at her home in Auburn last Tuesday noon July 13th 1897, aged 25 years 2 month and 15 days. When she was 3 years old her parents moved to DeDalb county, Ind. and two years later to Auburn, where they have since lived. September 10, 1890, she was united in marriage to Elmer Baker, and to this union were born two children, both of whom survive their mamma. They had enjoyed married life together nearly seven years when the cruel hand of death separated them. About twelve years ago Mrs. Baker became a christian, and united with the Methodist church of Auburn, of which she was a member at her death. Before the cares of little children and the duties of home were laid upon her, she was a faithful attendant at Sabbath School and church services. Though detained at home she forgot not her God. Her faith was lifted upward from whence her help came. Now she is relieved from the cares of this life, and is at rest with Jesus at the right hand of God. Mrs. Baker was an ideal mother and wife,and was loved by all who knew her. She possessed an uncomplaining spirit. and made the best of everything. She did not harass the feelings of others with her trials and troubles, but kept them buried in her own bosom, and took it to the Lord in prayer. In this sad event Mr. Baker sustains the loss of a faithful and loving companion, the children a selfsacrificing and tender mother, and the parents an affectionate daughter, and the community in which she lived a lovely character. While our loss is great, and our hearts are bleeding, let us look upward and say, "Our Father which art in Heaven, Thy will be done." Mrs. Baker leaves to mourn her untimely death a husband, and two little children, a mother and father, one brother and half brother besides many friend.

The funeral services were conducted from the M. E. church last Thursday July 15, at 2 p. m. Interment took place in Woodlawn cemetery. Rev. J. D. Brosy officiating.

Rates to Niagara.

The round trip tickets to Niagara Falls, July 29, over the Wabash are:—Cedar Creek, Auburn Junction, Auburn and Moores, $6.25; Butler and Artic, $6.00. On the new line the rates are: Helmer, Hudson, Ashley and Hamilton, $5.75. On both roads it is the evening train, both reaching Montpelier at 8:25 p. m. Those who contemplate going should cut this out. Tickets good for 5 days.

Make the Baby Smile.

To hear a crying baby suffering from colic and griping pains is not inspiriting. You can relieve and soothe the baby at once with Dr. John W. Bull's Baby Syrup and make her smile again. "I gave Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup to my baby who suffered and rested badly; after the first dose she became quiet and slept peacefully. It is a blessing to mothers. Annie E. Burkhart, Reamstown, Pa." Dr. John W. Bull's Baby Syrup costs only 25 cents.

Sold by F. E. Davenport, Auburn.

NICE FLOWER AND VINE.

One of the loveliest and cutest flowers we ever saw, is the wax flower at J. G. Clapp's residence, and now in bloom. It is probably the "Sentera Lyonia" of the botanists, and is probably a slow grower, as this vine is now seven years old. It has the the most symmetrically arranged clusters of flowers, in 'umbels' like the elder flowers, and very fragrant. Each of these small flowers has a waxy feel and look, and the modest tints they have are very delicate. The flower is regularly "5-parted" from the outside to the center, and the stamens have a cute arrangement into five groups with many in each group. This sweet flower should be seen and Mr. and Mrs. Clapp will no doubt take pleasure in showing it.

Splendid Success

has been had in cases of colic, diarrhœa, etc, by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. As a household remedy for such troubles it is invaluable. Buy a 10c trial bottle and you are bound to be convinced. To be had of F. E. Davenport. 30

EXTENDS THANKS.

Elmer Baker extends thanks to the many kind neighbors and friends who assisted him so much during the sickness, death and burial of his wife. He will ever hold them in remembrance for their kindness.

Professor Andree's Expedition.

(Harper's Weekly.)

Another novel expedition which we may get a thrill or two out of is that of Prof. S. A Andree, the Swedish æronaut whose purpose it is to sail across the north pole in a balloon. The latest news at this writing from the professor comes by way of Stockholm, and tells that his balloon was filled on Danes Island, at the northwest point of Spitzbergen, on June 28, and that he was ready so start on July 1. His start will doubtless depend somewhat on the direction of the wind. Indeed, his whole expedition seems to depend on forces beyond his control, and not to be estimated beforehand. He may get a big story in a short time and without much trouble; he may take immense trouble and get only a little story; and he may have a valuable and astonishing experience and not succeed in getting home to share it with mankind. However, all the news from Prof. Andree we shall be glad to read, be it much or little. It may be remembered that the attempt similar to the present one which he made a year ago failed because of unfavorable winds and defects in his air-ship. This year he is better equipped and knows more than he did. His present balloon carries a sail and steering apparatus. The Swedish Academy of Sciences has helped him in his preparations, and other organized scientific societies are interested in his attempt.

No Griping Or Pains,

Arrowsmith, Ill., Jan. 21, 1897.

Dear Sirs:—I have been bothered for 15 years with constipation and I have trid many preparations during that time. I commenced using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in the fall of 1895 and unhesitatingly say it is the best remedy I have ever found for my trouble. No griping or pains after taking Yours, etc.

F. E. Davenport WM. HURT.

Niagara Falls & Lewiston R. R.

THE GREAT GORGE ROUTE

Is one of the best built and safest electric railroads in the world. It is double tracked the entire length, and rock ballacted, and provided with every safety appliance known in modern railroad building.

It is the only railroad which runs through the most wonderful of river canyons, the Niagara Gorge, from the great falls to Lewiston. It is on the American shore, and stops at all points of interest, of which there are many, which until the completion of this line were unknown to nhe world.

On the line are many caves and caverns, many rapids and historic points; it passes under old forts, through battle grounds, and the scenes of the bloody massacres by the red men 150 years or more ago, which has made this region famous in history, poetry and by the novelist.

To see Niagara from the Falls to Lewiston, and see it cheaply, thoroughly and quickly, take the best, most complete electric railroad route in the world, the Great Gorge Route. Write for excursion rates, etc.

D. B. WORTHINGTON, G. P. A.
Buffalo, N. Y.

CASTORIA.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

Celebrated for its great leavening strength and healthfulness. Assures the food against alum and all forms of adulteration common to the cheap brands. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

Parasites Destroy Grasshoppers

Reports from the farming regions south and west of Peshtigo, Wis., indicate the almost total destruction of grasshoppers by parasites, which began preying upon them about two weeks ago.

In the grasshopper infested regions of this country, myriads of them may be seen dead or dying, clinging to the vegetation upon which they were feeding, not able to withstand the persistent attacks of little red insects which cling to them with fatal results.

This is a source of great rejoicing among the farmers in this vicinity, who lost so heavily by the ravages of grasshoppers last year.

Few Appreciate the DANGER

to which the Expectant Mother is exposed and the foreboding with which she looks forward to the hour of woman's severest trial. All effort should be made to smooth these rugged places in life's pathway for her.

"Mother's Friend"

allays Nervousness, and so assists Nature that the change goes forward in an easy manner, without such violent protest in the way of Nausea, Headache, Etc. Gloomy forebodings, yield to cheerful and hopeful anticipations—she passes through the ordeal quickly and without pain—is left strong and vigorous and enabled to joyously perform the high and holy duties now devolved upon her. Safety to life of both is assured by the use of "Mother's Friend," and the time of recovery shortened.

"I know one lady, the mother of three children, who suffered greatly in the birth of each, who obtained a bottle of 'Mother's Friend' of me before her fourth confinement, and was relieved quickly. All agree that their labor was shorter and less painful." JOHN G. POLHILL, Macon, Ga.

Sent by Mail, on receipt of price, $1.00 PER BOTTLE. Book "TO EXPECTANT MOTHERS" mailed free, containing valuable information and voluntary testimonials.

THE BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

William's Kidney Pills

Has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. Have you neglected your Kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your Kidneys and Bladder? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, groins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire pass urine? William's Kidney Pills will impart new life to the diseased organs, tone up the system and make a new man of you. By mail 50 cents per box.

WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props., Cleveland, O.

Sold By Fischler & Son.

MADE ME A MAN

AJAX TABLETS POSITIVELY CURE All Nervous Diseases—Failing Memory, Impotency, Sleeplessness, etc., caused by Abuse or other Excesses and Indiscretions. They quickly and surely restore Lost Vitality in old or young, and fit a man for study, business or marriage. Prevent Insanity and Consumption if taken in time. Their use shows immediate improvement and effects a CURE where all other fail. Insist upon having the genuine Ajax Tablets. They have cured thousands and will cure you. We give a positive written guarantee to effect a cure with each order received, or refund the money. Price 60 CTS per package; or six pkges (full treatment) for $2.50. By mail, in plain wrapper, upon receipt of price. Circular free. AJAX REMEDY CO., No. 1 Dearborn St. Chicago, Ill.

Sold by F. E. Davenport, Auburn.

LIFE VIM VIGOR VITALITY DEATH
RESTORED IN 30 DAYS
NOW GOOD EFFECTS AT ONCE THEN

CATON'S VITALIZER

Cures general or special debility, wakefulness, spermatorrhœa, emissions, impotency, parcels, etc. Corrects functional disorders, caused by errors or excesses, quickly restoring Lost Manhood in old or young, giving vigor and strength where former weakness prevailed. Convenient package, simple, effectual, and legitimate.

CURE IS QUICK AND THOROUGH.

Don't be deceived by worthless imitations. Insist on CATON'S Vitalizers. Sent sealed if your druggist does not have it. Price $1 per pkge, 6 for $5, with written guarantee of complete cure. Information, references, etc., free and confidential. Send us statement of case and $5 cts. for a week's trial treatment. One only sent to each person.

CATON MED. CO., BOSTON, MASS.

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding, Ulcerated and Itching Piles. It also he the tumors, allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and Itching of the private parts and nothing else. Every box is guaranteed. Sold by druggists, sent by mail for 50c and $1 per box.

WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props. Cleveland O.

Sold by Fischler & Son.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Recorder's Office

Volume XXVII | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, July 29, 1897. | Number 30.

AN OPEN LETTER To MOTHERS.

WE ARE ASSERTING IN THE COURTS OUR RIGHT TO THE EXCLUSIVE USE OF THE WORD "CASTORIA," AND "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," AS OUR TRADE MARK.

I, DR. SAMUEL PITCHER, of Hyannis, Massachusetts, was the originator of "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," the same that has borne and does now Chas. H. Fletcher on every bear the fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. This is the original "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," which has been used in the homes of the Mothers of America for over thirty years. LOOK CAREFULLY at the wrapper and see that it is the kind you have always bought Chas. H. Fletcher on the and has the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. No one has authority from me to use my name except The Centaur Company of which Chas. H. Fletcher is President.

March 8, 1897. Samuel Pitcher, M.D.

Do Not Be Deceived.

Do not endanger the life of your child by accepting a cheap substitute which some druggist may offer you (because he makes a few more pennies on it); the ingredients of which even he does not know.

"The Kind You Have Always Bought"

BEARS THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE OF

Chas. H. Fletcher.

Insist on Having
The Kind That Never Failed You.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

This is the Package—

remember it. It contains

GOLD DUST

Washing Powder

that cleans everything quickly, cheaply and perfectly.

Largest package—greatest economy.

THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY,
Chicago, St. Louis, New York, Boston, Philadelphia.

Free to the Ladies from the oldest and most reliable Tea House in the country.

A lady friend has sent us her photograph, displaying what she has earned from us—a watch and chain, dinner set and toilet set. We have produced her photograph, showing exactly what we are giving with Tea, Coffee, Spice and Baking Powder orders; and not only are premium of high grade, but the quality of our goods is such that the people want them, making the business pleasant and profitable. Square treatment has made the best ladies of the country our friends It is them specially tnat we ask to write us for particlars. Address,

LIMA TEA CO., Lima, Ohio

HOWE SCHOOL (MILITARY),

. . . LIMA, INDIANA. . . .

Thoroughly prepares for college or business. High character in boys is our chief aim. Most careful individual attention in matters of scholarship and morals. Refined Christian influence. Buildings equipped with all modern convenience. Fine new gymnasium, large athletic grounds. Expense moderate. For testimonials, illustrations and catalogues, address

W. W. HAMMOND, A. M. (HARVARD) HEAD MASTER.

REV. J. H. McKENZIE, PH. D., RECTOR.

Steady Employment and Good Wages

Can be had by securing a County Agency for some of our Standard Publications A very small capital only is necessary. One of our best sellers is the

Reversible Wall Map of the U. S. and World

66 x 46 inches in size; eleven beautiful colors. Should be in every home. Is necessary to adults as well as school children, and so cheap every family can afford one. People buying this are virtually securing $10 worth of maps for $1.25 as each side was formerly sold at $5.

It is a Photograph of the World One side shows a colored map of our great country, with railroads, counties, rivers, towns, etc. The other side shows an equally elegant Map of the World, locating all countries at a glance by help of a marginal index. It also shows ocean currents, Cuban battles, Armenian massacres, polar expeditions, etc.

On receipt of $1.25 we will send a sample copy by prepaid express, and will inform you how to obtain a trial agency. Our men clear from $15 to $25 weekly after a month's work.

RAND, McNALLY & CO., 160-174 Adams-St. Chicago, Ill.

We also need agents for our fine line of Subscription Books, Atlases, Enclyopedias. etc.

COST OF SPECIAL JUDGES.

The People Pay for This Unnecessary Matter $20,000 a Year.

(Indianapolis Sentinel.)

Evidence in the auditor of state's office confirms the supposition that reular judges of the state who draw pay as such have been making a "fat thing" on the side out of special judge service. In some cases it is claimed that they draw three days pay for less than a day's work. The law allows them extra pay for this service, although they are drawing regular pay at the same time. The settlement sheets in the auditor of the state's office show that the cost to the state for extra service during the six months ending June 30 was $9,535, and at this rate the cost amounts up to nearly $20,000 a year. In Marion county, with its large population, the cost for extra service was but $25, while in Elkhart county alone the cost was $970.

The extra pay in several counties in this vicinity is as follows:—Adams, $165; Allen, $130; Blackford, $65; Delaware, $185; DeKalb, 215; Huntington, $325; Kosciusko, 135; Lagrange, 380; Laporte, $90; Marshall, $220; Miami, $80; Noble, $35; Pulaski, $155; Randolph, $185; Starke, $150; Steuben, $110; Wells, $220; Whitley, $25.

Marriages and Divorces in Indiana.

The Indiana state bureau of statistics has been gathering data concerning marriages and divorces from various county clerks. Thus far forty-five counties have been heard from and some of the figures are entertaining. In these forty-five counties there have been 685 divorces granted to wives and 274 to husbands, or 71 per cent of the total to wives. This shows that wives bring about three fourths of the divorce suits. The causes for which (these divorces) were granted are the seven statutory grounds for divorce. The ground and number of divorces on that ground are as follows: Adultery, 80; impotency, 8; abandonment, 284; cruel treatment, 254; drunkenness, 92; failure of husband to provide, 155; criminal convictions, 12. The figures show an average of about 10 per cent. of divorces to the number of marriages.

IN A COLLISION.

Last evening as Ed. Ostrander and Jim Eldridge were coming into town in a buggy about half past 8, they suddenly saw a rig driving at a furious gait just ahead and coming towards them. The stranger, instead of keeping to the right as would be expected, kept to the left. Ostrander then tried to go to the left, but there was not time to to make the change, and the two rigs came together with a crash. The boys were thrown out, Ostrander going over the dashboard and against the horse, which fortunately did not kick and was soon got under control. The shafts were ruined and some other damage done, but besides bruises and dirt no one was harmed. The stranger was evidently full and neither himself nor rig appeared to be hurt. He did not tarry long, but if they find out who he is, he may be called on to pay damages. It is believed he was hurrying to get out of town, as he had run into Peter Young's new cement walk and was afraid the marshal was after him. This collision reminds us that there is altogether too much fast driving on our streets evenings, not only by strangers, but by our own people for we often see persons crossin the streets who have to jump and run to keep from being run down. Slow up gentlemen, give the foot passengers a chance for their lives.

It will go... Right to the spot

Ayer's Hair Vigor will go right to that bald spot and begin to bring the hair back.

It Makes Hair Grow.

Oil at Peru.

Will Buckley has a card from a friend at Peru stating that a fine oil well had been struck at that place Monday morning. The well flows oil out of the pipe, and is of the finest quality It is located only about 150 yards from Mr. Buckley's property in that city.

Still Going.

Wednesday's Ft. Wayne Sentinel brings the first news of the old Mexican sandal. It says:

There arrived at the United States express office this morning an old Mexican sandal that has been drifting about the country to the amusement of the agents in whose hands it happens to fall. The sandal contains tags from several hundred offices which it passes through and one more was added to it here. Manager Beaver sent the "chain of evidence" into the northwest.

Something to Depend On.

Mr. James Jones, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says that last winter his wife was attacked with LaGrippe, and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into Hasty Consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store, and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home, and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it Free trial bottles at Robbins & McCord's rugstore. 5

B. F. MYERS DEAD.

Frank Myers, who lived east of Huntertown died this morning of some trouble of the bowels, caused orginally it is believed, by the grip. He will be buried Sunday, at 1 p. m. at Cedar Chapel. Mr. Myers was Mrs. U. S. Weaver's father.

Mrs Boullion, 222 Crane St. Writes:

Dayton, O., March 12, '96.—'My baby s two months old and from her birth has had severe attacks of wind colic. I tried almost everything, but nothing gave her any relief until I got Dr. Hand's Colic Cure. I have used two bottles and would not do without it. It surely is the best colic medicine ever made." Dr. Hand's Colic Cure and all of Dr Hand's Remedies at Fischler & Son's. 1

Our Own Gold Mines.

The latest reports from the Klondike gold fields, is that a few miles down the Yukon river on American territory, better gold mines are found than in the Klondike fields. If this is so, Canada may rest easier. They are already complaining about Americans digging up their soil. Americans are very apt to do that, if the soil contains gold. Besides the prospect of immense gold fields in Alaska, we are again finding valuable new mines in Colorado.

None Equal to Dr Hand's Remedies!

Nelsonville, O., Dec. 20, '95.—Dr. Hand—Dear Sir:—"I have been using your remedies for my children for over 6 years, I have used many other medicines but have found none equal to yours. Have recommended Dr. Hand's Colic Cure to many other mothers and persuaded them to try it; they all say it proves satisfactory. I am the mother of nine children and am never without a bottle of all of Dr. Hand's Remedies in the house." At Fischler & Son's 1

Cathode or X Rays.

As will be seen by Dr. Nusbaum's notice in this paper, Auburn has the latest wonder of science for use in the treatment of difficult and special cases. It is a strange power that is given to man by these discoveries in electricity and magnetism. By means of these intense "X Rays," one can see into every part of the human body, except the solid bones. A man was shot in Chicago a short time ago, and now the papers are able to show pictures of his interior with the bullet in plain sight lodged in the thick walls between the right and left parts of the heart.

CASTORIA.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

STEPPED ON NAILS.

Both Feet Fastened to Boards at the Same Time.

Terrible Accident to Miss Louise Yoquet Who Lives on the McCulloch Farm.

(Fort Wayne Sentinel)

Miss Louise Yoquet, who lives on the McCulloch farm west of the city, met with a very bad accident Tuesday, one of the most peculiar which has ever been chronicled. She was at work about the yard in her bare feet and did not notice some boards from which nails were protuding. She accidentally stepped on one of these nails and with a scream gave a lurch and with the other foot stepped on another nail. Both feet were fastened and the poor woman fell against the smoke house and moaned, unable to relieve either foot from the nails in the boards. William Bartley was near by and came to her assistance. After some effort he succeeded in releasing the lady and she was carried into the house and Dr. W. H Myers, of this city was sent for. He found the woman suffering intense pain, but has no fears of serious results. Miss Yoquet is still confined to her bed and will not be able to move about for some time.

SEATTLE LETTER.

Seattle, Wash., Sunday, July 18, '97.

BRO. DICK:

We hoped and rather expected that you would take advantage of the cheap rates to San Francisco and visit us, but have been disappointed. My wife insisted on my going to the depot when the special trains carrying the endeavorers were coming on and she thought sure that you and Rose would be among them. But when Ann Fisher called and said you did not come she gave it up. The city is at a white heat on account of the great finds of gold on the Klondye in Alaska, or rather in North West Territory in British Columbia. Every steamer for the north is loaded with all the freight and gold seekers they can possibly carry. Steamer Alki will leave now within an hour loaded down and hundreds more on the wharf that want to go. It is no fake as the last steamer from there brought too many well known Seattle people with from $5000 to $100,000 in shining gold to leave any room for doubt. None of these people have been up there more than a year. It is no doubt one of the greatest gold discoveries ever made and does not require machinery to get it. I will send you the daily Post-Intelligencer published here as long as there are important news in regard to the matter, and you can depend on its being reliable. The miners have landed right here direct, and the public has had an opportunity to look at the buckskin bags of gold.

It is about 2000 miles from here and you will see by the maps in the P. I. of the 17th, the routes to get there. Steamers go direct from here as you will see, via St. Michael and the Yukon River. Fare $150 and takes from 30 to 40 days, but only about 4 months in the year as it is frozen solid the balance of the year.

The other route is via Juneau to Dyea and then overland which is a very hard and dangerous route. No one can make it without much hardship and lots of endurance. Yet quite a good many women have made the overland trip walking hundreds of miles. Last evening a woman that we are well acquainted with and whose husband went up there last spring called here and said she had a letter from him yesterday saying he was working for a man that has a claim, at $15.00 a day and board and advising his brothers to go there as soon as possible. Time for me to go to dinner so will break off right here. All well

ADAM SHULL.

Summer Tours 1897

is the title of an unique book issued by the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. The book is made in the shape of a government mail pouch, is handsomely illustrated and contains descriptive matter of large list of summer tours. Sent free on application to A. J. Smith, G. P. and T. A., Cleveland, Ohio. 30

"All Das Same Tang."

MASTER NATION TRAVELER.

Das Moines, Ia., Das State: Ay lake to writing yaw das time, Ay fale so bully and happy bout das Republican floor and das boad in das floor das tell bout das opehion bus'nese. Dat as what Ay always tal day boys jest stack to Republican feller and he will give all da alchohol yew want. He was yust yolking bout das probition bufore und das meeso gude das da Democrat and Republican can came togeder nuw. Ay tank das Bible come true now where it tal das da "soard goin to be bent up for das hoop beer keg and das spear mak into cork screw," an da sheep an lion sleep togedde. Ay tank das da way it say. Us Republican fellers been awful sorry bout calling das Democrat fellers whiskey und saloon fellers. We tak das all back now, we was das yust same like yew.

Ay hope Master Governor Boysen going to ba so gude an let Master Yacksan tak speaches ea was makin two year go bout das probition, das will save Mr. Yacksan lot of truble bout writing speaches. Mr. Boysen got lected by dos speaches, maybe Mr. Mr. Yacksan can to. Mr. Yacksan Ay tank das a Sweed man, das sound lake it to me. Please sunn tal hem on das lection bus'ness. Af he want to haive may Ay going to get seam prees on may pants an start reight out. An tal Mr. Yacksan to say notang bout das New York korn speaking Master Boysen make. Das elect hem before an me got to kap still bout das time.

Ay tank now we going to get law mak af a man going to speak bout probition we going put hem in da yale, be gash an call hem crank. Da Ragaster paper tal now probition feller is crank, las year he tal probition is gude ting. Ay am glad ha is convert, das so nice for das Lader paper and das Ragaster paper to come to gedder.

Weal Master, Ay wal tal gudeby an Ay hope next year we goin to hav plenty alchohol. Your frien,

KNUTE FINGERSON.

Old People.

Old people who require medicine to regulate the bowels and kidneys will find the true remedy in Electric Bitters. This medicine does not stimulate and contains no whisky nor other intoxicant but acts as a tonic and alterative. It acts mild on the stomach and bowels, adding strength and giving tone to the organs thereby aiding Nature in the performance of the functions. Electric Bitters is an excellent appetizer and aids digestion. Old People find it just exactly what they need. Price 50c. a bottle at Robbins & McCord's Drug Store. 25

BAD ACCIDENT.

Alva Brandon Crushed by a hresher Separator.

Friday's Daily.

Soon after noon today, Alva Brandon, who is working with a threshing machine, met with a bad accident. It happened in this way. He was standing on the rear end of the traction engine and going down the hill at Hartle's, when the tongue of the separator that was following, broke, and the heavy wagon came down against the engine and pinned him fast. It took the men several minutes to get him out. A man was sent post haste for Dr. Hines, and he went down at once. It was found that his chest was crushed in but whether seriously hurt internally, could not be fully learned. He was badly burned in places, as he was forced against the fire box, and portions of his legs and arms considerably burned. The inside of one wrist was pinned down on the hot steam cylinder, making a painful scald or burn. He was taken up through town, to his father's, I. B. Brandon's and his wife sent for. It is hoped his hurts will not prove fatal.

Do You Feel Run Down.

If you are miserable, feel run-down and have no energy, take that great invigorator, Dr. John W. Bull's Pills "Mrs. Jennie Black, of Angola, Ind., writes that many of her acquaintance speak very highly of the pills and so does she. She took Dr. Bull's Pills as a tonic, and they did her much good." Dr. John W. Bull's Pills (sixty in a box) cost but 25 cts.; trial box, 10 cts., at dealers, or by mail. A. C. Meyer & Co., Balto., Md. Leave substitutes alone. Sold by F. M. Davenport, Auburn.

THE NEW GALLERY

....NOW READY....

FOR WORK.

....CALL ON ME AT....

RICE'S OLD STAND For all kinds of Photographic Work. Cabinets in Gloss or Platino Finish; Views, Pictures of Residences, or Family Groups Kodac work done on short notice. First-class work guaranteed.

M. I. HOFFMAN, Auburn, Ind.

I. O. BUCHTEL, HOMEOPATHIC Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to Chronic and Obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Madden Bros Marble Works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, day or night.

ZYCOPHORUS!

ZYCOPHORUS Is the latest and greatest, scientific composition of medicines for the cure of all Kidney, Bladder, Sexual and Nervous Diseases. It is purely vegetable and has an immediate marvelous action. Hundreds have been cured by Zycophorus after the failure of all other methods. We do not offer a large reward for cases it will not cure, but give a written guarantee to cure or refund money. Cures all kidney and bladder diseases such as painful, dribbling, burning, or difficult urination, dropsical swellings, gravel, cystitis, albumen, sugar, mucus, blood, and other deposits and discharges, and such sexual and nervous disease is emissions, vital drain in urine, varicocele, impotency, impaired memory, weak back, melancholy, premature decline of the manly powers, etc. Renews sexual life in both sexes, and builds up the nerve and brain tissues. One package will prove its efficacy. Six packages guaranteed to cure or money refunded. Price per package, 50 cents six packages, $2.50. For sale at drug stores or sent prepaid to any address on receipt of price. Send for circular.

TILMAN CHEMICAL CO., Toledo, O.

LICENSE NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the town of Auburn and Union township, DeKalb County, Indiana, that the undersigned, a male inhabitant, of said town and township over the age of twenty-one years, will make application to the board of commissioners of said county at their next regular session in September, 1897 for a license to sell spirituous, vinous and malt liquors in quantities of less than a quart at a time, with the privilege of allowing the same to be drank on the premises where sold, the same to be sold in the front room of the ground floor of the one story frame building situated as follows:—Commencing twelve (12) feet east of the southwest corner of lot sixty-five (65), orignial plat, town of Auburn, Indiana, thence east twenty-two (22) feet, thence north fifty-six (56) feet, thence west twenty-two (22) feet, thence south fifty-six (56) feet to beginning. Said room being nineteen feet wide east and west by thirty feet long north and south and fronting on Eighth-st.

I also desire to sell cigars in the same room,

WILLIAM E. RYAN.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

ALBERT ROBBINS, PRES. J. C. HENRY, V. P

FARMERS BANK.

—INCORPORATED—

AND UNDER STATE CONTROL.

Capital and Surplus $50,000

Transacts a General Banking Business and pays Interest on time Deposits.

A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

J. M. JOHNSTON, DENTAL SURGEON,

Auburn — Indiana.

OFFICE OVER PIONEER HARDWARE STORE.

SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO PLATE WORK

F. W. HOFFMAN, DENTIST,

AUBURN, - - - - - - INDIANA

Office in Gandy building, northeast corner of Square.....

CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.

S. B. JOHNSTON, DENTIST.

AUBURN - - INDIANA

Office, 25 North Main Street.

Most Difficult Operations, a Specialty.

Telephone No. 27, Western.

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS.

Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, Corner Main and Sixth Streets.

Professional Calls Promptly Answered.

Telephones: Western, 19; Central Union, 19

D. J. Swarts, M. D. Vesta W. Swarts, M. D

FIRST NATIONAL BANK, AUBURN, INDIANA.

Capital and Surplus $60,000.

Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest, if left six months. County and town orders bought and sold. Money to loan.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN, PRESIDENT
CHAS. McCLELLAN, CASHIER.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

1897. JULY. 1897.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
•	•	•	•	1	2	3
4	5	6	7	8	9	10
11	12	13	14	15	16	17
18	19	20	21	22	23	24
25	26	27	28	29	30	31
•	•	•	•	•	•	•

F. Q. 7th. F. M. 13th. L. Q. 21st. N. M. 29th.

CIRCLING THE GLOBE

CONCISE HISTORY OF SEVEN DAYS' DOINGS.

Intelligence by Electric Wire from Every Quarter of the Civilized World, Embracing Foreign Affairs and Home Happenings.

GOLD CRAZY

The Miner's of Cook's Inlet Leave for Klondyke.

San Francisco special: Among the arrivals from Alaska on the steamer Bertha, was Dr. C. F. Dickenson of Kodiak Island, which lies just at the head of Cooks Inlet. He says the gold excitement all over the territory of Alaska is something unprecedented and that people are flocking to the Klondyke in a way that threatens to depopulate many of the trading posts and coast towns.

"When I left Kodiak two weeks ago," said Mr. Dickenson, "the people were leaving all that section of country and flocking in the direction of Klondyke. In some ways the situation is appalling, for many of the industries are left practically without the means of operation.

"Mines that are paying handsomely at Cook's Inlet have been deserted. In my opinion there are just as good placer diggings to be found at Cook's Inlet as in the Klondyke region. There is not a foot of ground in all that country that does not contain gold in more or less appreciable quantities."

Boom in Furniture Business.

The fall furniture season "opening" at Grand Rapids, Mich., is drawing to a close, and in figuring up the results the manufactdrers find that it has been the most satisfactory opening they have had since the spring of 1892.

Conservative estimates place the increase of the business this season over that of July, 1896, at 25 per cent or better. Some of the manufacturers report orders Looked already to an aggregate larger than the entire sales of last fall, and there are none that do not report an encouraging increase. All the factories here are running full time, and most of them with full forces of men.

Cannot Bar Foreign Grain.

Berlin special: In the Lower House of the Diet Dr. Miquel, on behalf of the Government, said no decision had yet been reached as to the proposal that a decree be issued temporarily excluding foreign grain in accordance with the petition of the Farmers' Alliance, but he believed that Prince Hohenlohe would be compelled to regard such a decree as inconsistent with existing treaties, and therefore impracticable. Nevertheless, he added, he must decline to stigmatize the proposal as mischievous, as requested by Dr. Rickert, as he intended to follow a policy of concentration and do nothing to accentuate party difference.

Preparing to Move Gold.

San Francisco special: There is every probability that Wells, Fargo & Co. will establish an office in Dawson City during the spring. L. F. Rowell, assistant manager of the company, said that nothing would be gained by establishing an office earlier than that. The present rate of transportation for gold from Seattle to San Francisco is $3 a thousand, and $8 from Seattle to Philadelphia. If an office is established in the Klondyke district, the rate per thousand, including insurance, will be $8.40.

Whalebacks for Yukon River.

West Superior (Wis.) special: It is said the American Steel Barge Company has arranged with a syndicate interested in the Alaskan gold fields to construct several small vessels on the whaleback plan to navigate the Yukon. Arrangements are being made to open the shipyards of the company at Everett, Wash., and the plant at West Superior may be used to get out some of these little ships.

Fatal Explosion.

A severe explosion occurred on the steamship Nutmeg State, of the Bridgeport Steamship company's line, while she was lying at her slip at the foot of South street, Bridgeport, Conn., with the result that four men are dead, three others fatally injured and a number in a serious condition. The steamer was damaged about $1,000.

Attractions at Robison Park.

The following attractions are booked for Robison Park, Fort Wayne:

Reunion of the German societies of Northern Indiana and Ohio, August 8.

Farmers' Carnival and Reunion, August 25.

Mammoth Labor Day Celebration, September 6.

Living with His Neck Broken.

Two weeks ago Patrick Kelley, a farmer residing near Marcellus, Mich., fell from a load of wheat, dislocating his neck. Although death was immediately expected, Kelley is still alive and steadily improving, though below the hips he is totally paralyzed.

The Tariff Bill Now a Law.

The tariff bill passed the legislative stage at 3 p. m. Saturday, when the Senate by a vote of 40 to 30, agreed to the conference report on the bill. The announcement of the result was greeted with enthusiastic applause by the crowded chamber. This closed the great labor for which the Fifty-fifth Congress assembled in extraordinary session. After a stubborn resistance, at times threatening a deadlock, the Senate concurred with the House in a resolution for a final adjournment of the session, and both Houses stood adjourned.

Killed by Lightning.

A succession of terrible electrical storms with heavy rainfall passed over Marion, O., and vicinity. George Stout, while driving a mowing machine, was killed by lightning. Charles Seiter and William Sontag, mechanics, returning from work, were struck down in the street.

Poor Envelopes to Blame.

Many complaints are reaching the Postoffice Department of losses of contents of registered letters, which investigation shows were caused by the poor quality of envelopes used. The postal regulations have been amended so as to overcome as far as possible this deficiency

PEARY PARTY SAILS NORTH.

Will Seek to Found in Greenland a Base for Exploration.

The steam sealing bark Hope, with Lieut. R. E. Peary and party on board, bound for Northern Greenland, left Boston at daybreak Monday, fully equipped for the voyage. The work of provisioning the vessel was completed only a short time before she sailed. The object of the voyage is to establish a settlement at a remote northern point in Greenland which shall be used as a base of supplies for an expedition to search for the north pole under Lieut. Peary in 1898. To this end a party of Eskimos will be established at the new settlement and will during the next year be engaged in making preparations for Lieut. Peary's expedition. The Hope will make direct for Sydney, C. B., where she will take coal for the remainder of the voyage. The ship will skirt the coast of Greenland, dropping the scientific parties at various points and taking Lieut. Peary to Whale Sound, where his plans for establishing a settlement will be carried out. The return voyage will be begun, it is expected, in about five weeks after the Hope arrives, and the parties will be picked up on the way back. While Peary is in the north a Belgian expedition will explore the antarctic circle and endeavor to locate the south pole. The expedition expects to reach Grahamland about the middle of October, the beginning of the fine austral season. The greatest latitude which has ever been reached in the antarctic zone is 78 degrees, reached by Sir James Ross. If the north pole is hard to reach, the difficulties surrounding the discovery of the south pole are innumerable. Phenomena occur there which no human being has yet been able to account for, and continents and mountains appear and disappear in a twinkling; fogs and sunshine alternate in startling rapidity. This much is known of the south pole. Nobody has got nearer than 720 miles of it; mountains exist, some of which are active volcanoes; no human being lives farther than 56 degrees and no quadruped beyond 66 degrees. It is a land of mystery and wonder.

SAY SPAIN WEARIES OF WAR.

Cost of Cuban Struggle in Men and Money Is Unendurable.

Among the passengers who arrived in New York by the steamship Gascogne from Havre were Antonio Bravo, a Cuban provincial deputy, and Leandro G. Alsorta, editor of La Paz, a Madrid newspaper. Both men were political prisoners in Spain and together they escaped to France, where they boarded the steamer for America. Senor Bravo, speaking about public opinion in Spain regarding the Cuban war, said: "The mass of the Spanish people are disgusted with the outlook in Cuba. They begin to realize the uselessness of prolonging a war which has cost the Spanish nation about 50,000 men and over $200,000,000. Public men in Spain begin to voice the popular sentiment. Pi Margall, the venerable leader of the republicans, and Francisco Silvela, the leader of the conservatives, were frantically applauded in recent meetings when they pointed to the advisability of letting Cuba go. Those who have contributed a large share of blood and cash in the present struggle long for a conflict with the United States in the hope that it would afford Spain an opportunity to withdraw her troops from Cuba." Senor Monet y Prendergast, the liberal leader and former minister, delivered a brilliant speech at Saragossa on the Cuban question. He violently attacked the policy of the Government, especially its methods of campaigning in Cuba, and declared that autonomy must be proclaimed. "Autonomy," he said, "for Cuba is as much a necessity of Spain as of Cuba."

GRAVEYARD INSURANCE PLOT.

Southern Conspirators Said to Have Divided $75,000.

W. D. Robinson, of Meridian, Miss., has just been in New York several days in consultation with officials of some of the principal life insurance companies. His object is to bring to light the facts in a conspiracy to defraud insurance companies by insuring invalids and decrepits, and, when disease failed, to hasten the death of the victims by means of poison. The scene of the conspiracy is said to be laid in Kemper County, Mississippi. Mr. Robinson's estimates of the operations of the conspirators, given after conference with officers of the New York Mutual Reserve, the New York Life, the Equitable and the Mutual Benefit of New York, is as follows:

Policies in which the members appeared as beneficiaries	100
Number who died by disease	30
Number who died by poison	12
Number whose lives were attempted	15
Policies cancelled	60
Amount cleared and divided by the plotters	$75,000
Still to be paid and divided	15,000

Dreams of a Republic Vanish.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat has this from Washington: "An intense desire for peace characterizes the Cuban situation. It has obtained such a hold in the insurgent ranks that the movement for independence seems to be on the verge of collapse. This is the information that reaches the State Department. It is fully confirmed by the reports received through private channels. Insurgent leaders write in the most discouraging tone of the prospects for independence. Gomez and a few of his followers are still maintaining a bold front, but they write confidentially that the spirit of compromise is growing so strong that there is danger of the insurgent forces breaking up. The number surrendering and taking amnesty is larger than at any previous period in the history of the revolution. A letter was received from one of the foremost of the native Cuban generals, in which he describes the situation as most gloomy. If it were not for the foreign-born commanders of insurgent troops it is doubtful if the insurrection would last much longer. The native Cubans are sick of the war and its horrors, and are willing to accept the best terms they can get. The failure of this country to recognize belligerency has disheartened those who dreamed of a republic. The certainty that the administration's efforts at Madrid are to be directed along the line of a compromise, with autonomy, has practically ended all hope at this time of complete severance of relations with Spain. Feeling that this is to be the conclusion of the war, the insurgents are anxious to see it realized with as little additional bloodshed and misery as possible."

Forbids All Public Meetings.

J. R. Sovereign, head of the Knights of Labor, arrived in Columbus, O., from Pocahontas, Va., where he spoke ten minutes to miners when the Mayor, by proclamation, stopped "all public meetings or assemblages of more than three persons in any public place within the corporate limits," alleging that such meetings were inimical to the public peace. President Ratchford copied the proclamation for future use. Mr. Sovereign reported to President Ratchford that 100 business men of Pocahontas apologized to him for the act of the Mayor, and that Col. J. S. Browning of the Browning company, coming away on the train with Mr. Sovereign, also apologized to him for the act of the Mayor.

Bar Silver Getting Cheaper.

Bar silver declined Wednesday at New York to the lowest price in two years, and private dispatches from abroad received in Wall street were to the effect that the holders of the white metal had "weakened." Some of the bullish brokers assumed that this meant that the silver pool was liquidating its holdings. Other brokers were of the opinion that the lessened demand for silver in the East, through the adoption of the gold standard by Japan, among other reasons, was responsible for the decline. Outsiders generally called attention to the fact that the recession in price came simultaneously with the announcement of the great gold discoveries in the Klondyke region. The price of bars abroad declined ½d to 27 7-16d per ounce. The decline in New York was ⅝c to 59¾c an ounce.

RECONSIGNING THE GRAIN.

Southwestern Railroads Ignore the Interstate Commission.

All the southwestern railroads are reconsigning grain from Kansas City to Texas local points at the balance of the through rates, despite the recent decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission, which practically dealt a death blow to the reconsignment privilege at Kansas City. The full text of the decision has been received by shippers and railroad men, and they agree that it does not apply to grain shipments to Texas points. It affects the reconsignment of grain, they say, at the balance of through rate to Chicago and the Mississippi river, but this privilege was withdrawn by the railroads last November. The Missouri, Kansas and Texas and the Missouri Pacific roads agreed to handle grain to Texas at Kansas City, Mo., in the old way. They consider that the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission is only an opinion and must be followed with an order to the railroads to abolish reconsignment privileges before it can become effective.

MAD RUSH OF WATER.

Cloudburst Does Awful Damage at Youngstown, Ohio.

At 7 o'clock Thursday night a terrific cloudburst struck Youngstown, Ohio, flooding the entire valley and causing great damage to property, both in the city and along the railway lines. Many people are supposed to be drowned. The entire country east and west for twenty miles was flooded and the damage will be enormous. The Erie Railroad west of Warren fourteen miles, and north of Sharon for the same distance, was entirely washed out, and orders were issued to discontinue all trains. On every railroad leading into the city came reports of extensive washouts and bridges swept away, and railroad officials say the loss will be the heaviest they have ever known.

KEENE'S SUGAR COUP.

Famous Financier Surprises Wall Street with a Big Deal.

James R. Keene is in the saddle again, and Wall street has found it out. On the floor of the exchange and in every broker's office Wednesday this brilliant, daring man was credited with having so conducted the recent dashing campaign in sugar that he has increased his wealth by fully $2,000,000. He reappears, therefore, in the front rank of American financiers, from which adversity temporarily crowded him. For years he fought with his back to the wall, but he paid his obligations, principal and interest.

Rebel Success in Uruguay.

Uruguay is practically in the hands of the rebels. While the rebels have not upset the Government they have forced it into a corner, from which there seems to be no escape, and the final result undoubtedly will be a complete overthrow of the existing conditions in Uruguay. An armistice between the rebels and the Government was signed a few days ago.

Beware of Mad Cats.

According to the returns published by the Pasteur institute at Paris, fully 10 per cent of the patients treated there owe their injuries to the bites of cats afflicted with hydrophobia. These wounds are considered by the medical officers in attendance to present a greater degree of danger than the bites of mad dogs.

Pigeon from the North Pole.

A telegram from Stavanger states that a carrier pigeon has been caught in the neighborhood of Soevde, with a silver ring upon one of its feet and the following stamped upon its wings: "North pole, 142 W. 47.02." Soevde, where the carrier pigeon is reported found, is on the west coast of middle Norway.

Honor to a Hero.

The Gaudens statue of John A. Logan was unveiled Thursday at Chicago, in the presence of a vast concourse of people. Twenty thousand soldiers and as many civic bodies were in the parade, which was reviewed by the widow of Gen. Logan and many famous men from all parts of the country.

Burned While Using Hair Wash.

Mrs. Frances Samuelson of Breckenbrough Hall, Yorkshire, Eng., died from injuries received while her hair was being dressed with petroleum hair wash, which ignited. Mrs. Samuelson was frightfully burned, lingering three weeks in terrible agony before she died.

Jean Ingelow Dead.

Miss Jean Ingelow, the distinguished poet and novelist, died in London Monday night. She was in her seventy-seventh year.

MARKET QUOTATIONS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.15 to $5.15; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $3.80; sheep, fair to choice, $2.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2 red, 76½c to 78½c; corn, No. 2, 26c to 26½c; oats, No. 2, 16½c to 17½c; rye, No. 2, 37c to 39c; butter, choice creamery, 14c to 14½c; eggs, fresh, 8c to 9½c; new potatoes, 50c to 70c per bushel.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.00; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, common to choice, $3.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2, 67c to 69c; corn, No. 2 white, 26c to 27c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 23c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 72c to 74c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 25c to 26c; oats, No. 2 white, 16c to 18c; rye, No. 2, 33c to 35c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.00; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2, 72c to 74c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 27c to 29c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 20c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 34c to 36c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.50 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 78c to 79½c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 26c to 28c; oats, No. 2 white, 23c to 24c; rye, 36c to 38c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 76c to 77c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 25c to 26c; oats, No. 2 white, 20c to 21c; rye, No. 2, 37c to 38c; clover seed, $4.30 to $4.35.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 76c to 78c; corn, No. 3, 25c to 27c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 23c; rye, No. 1, 37c to 38c; barley, No. 2, 32c to 35c; pork, mess, $7.25 to $7.75.

Buffalo—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $3.00 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 76c to 78c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 30c to 31c; oats, No. 2 white, 24c to 26c.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, $3.50 to $4.25; sheep, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 84c to 86c; corn, No. 2, 31c to 31¼c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 22c; butter, creamery, 12c to 15c; eggs, Western, 11c to 12c.

GROWS IN GRAVITY.

COAL MINERS' STRIKE IS FAR FROM SETTLEMENT.

Pittsburg District Miners March to Open Shafts and Compel Men to Quit—Railroad Trains in the Coal Districts May Be Abandoned.

Trouble Is Widespread.

The coal strike is extending and bids fair to involve all the miners in the soft coal mines from West Virginia to the Mississippi. In the Panhandle district in Pennsylvania sensational developments are expected. The men are beginning to feel the pangs of hunger and want and are in a condition bordering on desperation. A Pittsburg dispatch says: Organizers have been secretly at work among miners of the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal Company for several days. One of them was served with an injunction to remain off the company's property and leave the men alone. He said he had been at work among the miners of Plum Creek and expressed great hopes of being able to have them join the general suspension. As near as can be learned a concerted effort will be made in the near future to bring out the men at Turtle Creek, Sandy Creek and Plum Creek.

The officials feel that in order to make the strike a success these miners must be brought out. They admit they have a difficult job on their hands, as De Armitt's men seem determined to remain at work. The mines are running to their fullest capacity and are supplying a large quantity of coal to the trade. Much coal was offered at $1.25 a ton. Slack took a big jump and sold for 85 cents a ton. Before the strike it was sold at 40 cents a ton. There are hundreds of tons of slack coal at the mines in the Pittsburg district, but the miners' officials will not permit any of it to be loaded.

A number of strikers interfered with men who were loading from barges into cars coal that had been purchased by W. H. Simmons, a dealer from C. Jutte & Co. The men were compelled to quit work. Miners' Secretary Ward disapproved of the action and issued orders to the strikers to molest no men who are handling coal that was mined before the strike was inaugurated.

A COAL TIPPLE AND A MINER'S HOME IN THE PANHANDLE DISTRICT

Reports come from Bridgeville that the strikers are massing at that point with the intention of making a raid on the mines at Canonsburg, where the men returned to work. A determined siege will be the result. A mass meeting of the miners in the coke regions will be held at Scottdale to consider grievances peculiar to their own district, which include the loading of "humpback" wagons, company stores, etc. Mr. Miller says it needs but a spark to inflame the miners in the coke region and secure their co-operation in the great strike. There are 2,000 men now at work in that region.

May Involve Railroad Men.

Some new features will likely be introduced into the struggle within the next few days. It is believed the miners contemplate calling upon the railway organizations for assistance. A meeting of railway employes was held in Pittsburg, and the situation of the miners' strike thoroughly discussed. Resolutions were adopted pledging support to the strikers, and each member was assessed $2 for the strike fund. It was claimed the action taken was at the suggestion of the national officials of the Railway Trainmen's Union.

News of the Strike.

Wheeling, W. Va.—The miners employed in the works of the Glendale Coal Company, eight miles below Wheeling, have gone out.

Pana, Ill.—All slack loading has been discontinued and the miners remaining in Pana are patiently awaiting the end of the industrial battle, hoping for better wages for their work.

Steubenville, O.—The Dillonvale and Long Run miners held a monster meeting in the school house yard at Long Run and voted unanimously not to work a stroke until they got their price.

Jefferson City, Mo.—The coal miners' strike in the East has increased the business of the Missouri mines. The labor commissioner's office reports a general demand for men in the coal mines of the State.

Rock Island, Ill.—The miners in the employ of the Coal Valley Mining Company at Cable and Sherrard villages have joined in the general strike. There are 225 of them in all, and the company's shafts at both places are now idle.

Spring Valley, Ill.—The first supplies in aid of the Spring Valley miners were shipped in here this morning, consisting of flour, coffee, sugar and tobacco. They came from some of the big Chicago merchants. Money was also sent for the same purpose.

Terre Haute, Ind.—The miners are learning every day of the action of unauthorized solicitors for relief funds. Nearly everywhere the regular committee goes it finds that someone has been ahead of it. Complaints of distress from the mining camps are increasing.

Mascoutah, Ill.—At a meeting an official report was made that sixty-seven out of the seventy-eight mines in the Belleville district were closed, and that the balance will be compelled to remain idle, by force if necessary, for the miners are in an ugly mood and trouble is expected to result should any attempt at resistance be made.

Elkhorn, W. Va.—The only signs of any of the miners coming out on the Norfolk and Western road in the immediate future is at the switchback collieries. Here a little dissatisfaction has manifested itself, but otherwise all the mines are running to their fullest capacity and operators and miners are on the best of terms.

REAR ADMIRAL BEARDSLEE.

United States Naval Officer Who Will Keep an Eye on Hawaii.

Rear Admiral Lester A. Beardslee, who will safeguard the interests of the United States in Hawaii during the excitement attendant upon the annexation crisis, is one of the most interesting characters in the United States navy. He is now 61 years old, and is a thorough sailor. He has been in the navy ever since 1850, when he was appointed acting midshipman. In 1855 he was attached to the sloop Plymouth for service in the East Indies, and in that year he participated in some of the actions and in at least one battle with the Chinese army at Shanghai. In 1856 he was made passed midshipman and detailed for service on the Merrimac. In 1863 he was attached to the Nantucket, and he participated in the attack on the ironclad fleet in Charleston harbor on April 7, 1863. After the war Lieut. Beardslee, for that was now his title, commanded the gunboat Aroostook. Subsequently he was transferred to the command of the steamer Saginaw of the Pacific squadron, and later to the command of the steam sloop Lackawanna of the same station. In 1869 he was commissioned a commander. He has been a rear admiral since June 27, 1895.

REAR ADMIRAL BEARDSLEE.

MILLIONAIRE'S DAUGHTER GONE

Miss Grace Stevenson, of Boston, Who Has Dropped Out of Sight.

On Monday night, April 26, Miss Stevenson, who is 25 years old, left her mother's home, No. 1478 Beacon street, Brookline, saying she was going on an errand. Since that time nothing has been heard from her. Her parents live apart, Mr. Stevenson occupying rooms at a Boston hotel. He has said he would give $5,000 for her recovery. The police think she left home on account of the family troubles.

MISS GRACE STEVENSON.

SHEDS HIS SKIN.

A Montana Miner Affected with a Peculiar Affliction.

John H. Price, a miner of Phillipsburg, Mont., is affected with a peculiar affliction. He sheds his skin every year. He has twice visited Chicago to be attended by physicians, but this year he went to Butte, Mont., where he underwent the process.

Price is now 40 years old, and for the past thirty-two years he has annually exchanged his old skin for a new one. He becomes ill every year with unfailing regularity about 3 o'clock in the afternoon of July 24. Sometimes he is delirious for three or four days. On the third day the skin loosens and begins to come off in strips. It is all off, from his scalp to the soles of his feet, usually within two weeks, sometimes longer. The finger nails become loose gradually, and are not removed until the skin is entirely off. The toe nails are the last to be removed.

PRICE SHEDS HIS SKIN.

RECORD OF THE WEEK

INDIANA INCIDENTS TERSELY TOLD.

Supreme Court Sets Aside a Cordially Detested Measure — Indianapolis Company Trying to Clip a Big Company's Wings—Wages of Mill Men.

Garnishee Law Is Invalid.

The full bench of the Supreme Court recently held that the garnishee law passed by the last General Assembly, which has been used as an engine of more or less extortion in the labor districts, until it has become the most thoroughly hated enactment in the statute book, was unconstitutional and void, on the ground that it interfered with the general exemption law. The latter exempts $600 worth of household goods from execution. The ruling is not only upon constitutional points, but also because the garnishee law is discriminating, and it is beyond the power of the Legislature to make classifications which are arbitrary and unreasonable. The opinion was rendered in a test case, in which many railroad employes are interested.

See Too Much Profit in Gas.

If they can get it by city ordinance the people of Indianapolis are going to have 75-cent or 90-cent gas, or at any rate gas that will be cheaper than $1.25 per 1,000 cubic feet, the price at present charged by the New York company that owns the gas plant. Two or three years ago the people found out that Indianapolis was paying more for gas than any other city in the country. They also found out that the company made $2,700,000 on bonds issued on property that cost $2,000,000. The stock pays 12 per cent, is worth 50 per cent more than par, while the bonds pay 6 per cent interest and are worth 8 per cent premium. When the people found this out it occurred to them that they would like to keep a little of the money they were giving the gas company and they struck by the introduction of the ordinances mentioned above. It is said that the company does not care to reduce prices and the case will probably be finished in the courts.

Settle Sheet Mill Wages.

The signing of the sheet-mill wage scale by the National Steel Manufacturers' Association in Pittsburg will result in the Midland steel works in Muncie resuming work, and the big mill will have nearly 1,000 men at work. President Bard of the Indiana iron works intimates that his mill also, employing as many hands, will soon resume work, as they are ready to settle the wage matter with the men, since the scale with the steel manufacturers has been adjusted at the old scale. The green-glass manufacturers adjusted the wages for next year with the men at Atlantic City, the old scale being accepted. This means that Ball Bros.' big fruit-jar works, the Port glass works and 100 others will resume work on time Sept. 1.

All Over the State.

The Indiana Farmers' Loan and Savings Association, a small Fort Wayne building association, has been placed in the hands of A. A. Purman as receiver. The assets are $99,600 and the liabilities $94,000.

While returning to Portland from Fort Wayne on an excursion train Jacob Wolfe, a wealthy ex-contractor of Bluffton, was robbed of his pocketbook containing $5,528. Of this amount $278 was in cash.

Harry T. Hugley, alias Henneberry, alias Pierce, was arrested at Indianapolis and returned to Terre Haute to answer a charge of having passed a forged check for $65 on McKean's bank. He is also said to be wanted at Chicago, Washington and Louisville for this and other offenses. Hugley posed as a man of means, the pretended son of a Boston millionaire, emphasized by monthly remittances of $100, and he made a specialty of working liverymen and horsemen generally. He is a well-dressed, educated man of the world, about 30 years old. The alleged forgery at Terre Haute was committed in December, 1895.

An opinion in the first case to test the validity of the Indiana convict-goods law was rendered at Richmond by Judge Henry C. Fox of the Wayne Circuit Court. Judge Fox holds the law unconstitutional. The law stringently governs the sale of all convict goods brought into Indiana, but exempts all such produced in the State. The court holds that this is unjust discrimination against the governments of other States, an interference with interstate commerce and an infringement on the vested rights of contract. An appeal will be taken to the Supreme Court. The case out of which the decision grew was that against the Frankfort (Ky.) Chair Company, which secures its goods from the Kentucky penitentiary.

Farmers in the eastern part of Madison County are inaugurating a series of rat hunts which bid fair to rival the old-fashioned sport of fox hunting. During the past two months, rats large, rats small, rats lean, fat and otherwise, hundreds and thousands of them, have overrun everything, barns, homes, chickens, outhouses, and have done a great deal of damage. It is not known where they came from or on what score they are supposed to be a curse, but their material numerical strength has been something that has attracted no end of attention. It is feared that they will injure the wheat and corn when it is stored in barns and cribs. The farmers have therefore organized a rat killing club. The membership runs up to about 100 persons, to say nothing of rat dogs and cats. They will take rat outings every Sunday and are supposed to kill all of the rats off of one premise every Sunday. All kinds of implements will be brought into use. Some farmers estimate that there are several thousand around their places. It will take several months to get around the entire circle. This section of the country has never been especially encumbered with rats heretofore.

Under the new medical law the State Board of Medical Examiners will attempt to prevent twenty-eight Fort Wayne physicians from procuring licenses to practice. Twenty-six of the practitioners now have licenses under the old law. They have employed attorneys to test the constitutionality of the law which can prevent them from practicing in Indiana. The charge against most of the doctors is that they were graduated from colleges that are not recognized by the profession as competent schools for learning. Some of them, it is claimed, have purchased their diplomas for a few dollars.

John Henry Bruentz, a hermit living in Jackson township, near Auburn, known to the community as "Prince Henry," was found murdered in his hut. The crime is believed to have been perpetrated by tramps. Bruentz was an eccentric character, and for many years had resided alone, never venturing beyond the confines of his farm. He was reputed to be worth considerable money, which neighbors believed was hidden in his house. The police attribute the motive for the crime to a desire to gain possession of the wealth he had stowed away. All the tramps in the town have been told to get out as quickly as possible, and never return, under penalty.

"Nothing else like it."

The most refreshing and pleasant Soap for the skin.

It lasts twice as long as others.

A trial will convince you of its great merit. Will please the most fastidious.

CHARLES F. MILLER,

Mfr. of FRENCH MILLED TOILET SOAPS AND PERFUMERY,

Lancaster, Penn.

ESTABLISHED, 1849.

WHY NOT BUY THE BEST?

A GOOD SADDLE is the most noticeable and taking point on a Bicycle.

When buying insist on getting a

BURNS SPRING SADDLE.

Take no other. Get a Burns and GET THE BEST.

Manufactured by the

GRAND RAPIDS CYCLE SEAT MFG. CO.,

Grand Rapids, Mich.

Patton's House Painting Model

shows just how your house would look if painted any one of 20,000 artistic combinations of colors. Designed and made only for the manufacturers of PATTON'S PURE LIQUID PAINTS. Sent postpaid upon receipt of 10 cts. "How to Increase the Size of Your House With Paint" mailed free.

JAS. E. PATTON CO.,

Dep't X. MILWAUKEE, WIS., U.S.A

ECLIPSE Poultry Brooder.

BEST MADE.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR, which explains why you should use a BROODER, and why you should purchase the

ECLIPSE BROODER.

Also gives testimonials from MANY WHO HAVE USED THEM.

CAPACITY, 100 CHICKS.

Size: 52 inches long, 32 inches wide, 26 inches high. Weight, 135 lbs.

Price: Single one, $9.00.

Two or more, $8.50 apiece.

If not as represented, money refunded.

JOHN D. WINGERT,

MANUFACTURER,

FAYETTEVILLE, - PENN.

NIAGARA BICYCLES

CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION.

CORRESPONDENCE INVITED.

Reliable Agents Wanted.

BUFFALO WHEEL CO.,

BUFFALO, N. Y.

"IF."

If trouble were a feather
A breath might blow away,
And only sunny weather
Came to us, day by day,
We'd laugh away the wrinkles
That tell of life's decay,
If trouble were a feather
A breath might blow away.

If maids would set the fashion
Never to answer "nay,"
When love, the tender passion,
Spoke in its pleading way;
Then through life's leafy byways
In lovers' mood we'd stray,
If maids would set the fashion
Never to answer "nay."

If fame were worth the striving
And all were in the race,
And each of us were driving
A horse well backed for place;
Then round life's race course speeding
We'd set a merry pace,
If fame were worth the striving,
And all were in the race.
—James King Duffy, in The Puritan.

THE TWO LOVERS.

"You have no right to talk to me like that," said Mabel Courthope, indignantly. "Just because we have known each other so long is not the least reason in the world why you should presume to dictate to me as to my friendship. It's mean of you."

"I'm sorry, Mabel," replied Jim Todd, humbly, "but I was only thinking of you, and I don't like Reginald Bulwer, and——"

She cut him short with a scornful little laugh.

"I am sorry I cannot be guided by your likes and your dislikes, but if papa does not object to my knowing Mr. Bulwer, I don't see why you should take me to task."

"No," replied Jim wearily, "I don't know why I should; only not so very long ago you never used to snub me when I ventured an opinion upon any subject, even upon your acquaintances. It seems things have altered."

Mabel Courthope made no reply to the remark, and after glancing once into her face, Jim bade her good night, and refusing the half-hearted invitotion to him to "come in for half an hour, as papa would be so glad to see you," made his way to his solitary lodging.

Things had changed considerably, he reflected, in the past six months—how much he had scarcely realized until this very evening. And it was all owing to an individual of whose existence he had been entirely unaware until some time after Christmas.

He had been happy in the love that had grown up within him from the day when he had first met Mabel Courthope. He could have sworn that it had been reciprocated until Reginald Bulwer appeared on the scene. Then things changed. Unfortunately, he admitted there was only too much reason for the change. Bulwer was everything he was not. Bulwer was rich, handsome and an aristocrat. Jim was poor, plain and a plebeian, and when he reckoned up the advantages which lay in his rival, Jim Todd groaned in spirit, but it was not until the week before Henley that they were finally shattered.

He had called in the hope of persuading Mabel to go with him to Henley on the final day of the regatta, and had been met with the information that she had already accepted an invitation to spend a week there with a party of Bulwer's friends on a house boat. It was the bitterness of the disappointed hope which made him voice the dislike which he felt instinctively for Bulwer, and led to the quarrel—the first quarrel he had ever allowed himself to be drawn into with Mabel Courthope. It only added to his dejection to perceive in the last backward glance he cast toward the girl that she already seemed to have forgotten him. Another had occupied the post he had vacated; and Mabel, as she leaned over the fence, was too intent to give him another look.

Yet Mabel Courthope was not altogether at ease with herself. She liked Jim immensely, and, until the advent of Reginald Bulwer, had fancied herself in love with him. But when Bulwer appeared, Jim was eclipsed completely. It flattered the girl's vanity to receive the attentions of the dark, handsome man. None of her girl friends could boast such a suitor, and half the pleasure she found in his society was due to the envious glances of her feminine acquaintances. Besides, at the most, Jim would be able to offer her a suburban home, while Reginald's life would have undreamed-of possibilities. She was so sick of the suburbs, she told herself, and the bolder, freer life of Mayfair seemed to be opening its doors to her. She accepted implicitly all Bulwer had told her of the society which seemed so far away from Brixton, and his position in the land of promise. She wondered and became tremulous with delight at his flatteries, when he told her that among its queens there was none to compare with her when he hinted at his hope that he soon might venture to ask her to accept her right position among them. Yet when she turned her thoughts for a while from the dazzling future of her dream something very like regret was apt to crop up in her mind. Jim was not brilliant, but he was very tender. He had no great circle of aristocratic friends, but he had rather die than give her a moment's pain. Like most girls of 20 with a pair of lovers, she was a veritable bundle of indecision. She had no sooner accepted an invitation to spend the week at Henley under the chaperonage of a lady friend of Bulwer's than she began to regret that jolly day which she knew she would have had in Jim's company. However, she had decided, and when she set out for Henley, on a cloudless July morning, her regrets were not sufficient to pucker her fair brow in the very slightest degree.

There was no doubt but she made a very attractive picture, and Reginald Bulwer could not help being proud of his companion. Many a keen inspection was made of the pair, and more than once an audible comment reached the girl's ears.

"Bulwer again. I wonder who that little girl is?" she distinctly heard one man say, as they embarked at the landing stage. But the remark conveyed nothing to her mind, for she was far too busily engaged in noting the life and bustle around her to spare a thought for anything else.

Mabel had been on the river often enough, but Henley was new to her, and when the full brilliance of the scene became clear to her dazzled eyes she could only gasp out her pleasure.

"Oh, it is lovely! I did not think anything could be so bright in this gray England of ours," she exclaimed.

"All England is not Brixton," exclaimed Bulwer, lightly. "I hope that we shall see many scenes as bright as this together," and as he spoke a light flashed into his eyes as he bent them upon her, and Mabel's heart trembled with pleasure. She thought that at last he was going to ask her to share his lot in future, and remained discreetly silent. But Bulwer made no further remark, and, settling to work with the sculls, paddled the boat down the stream.

Presently he broke the silence again. "You will find the people we are staying with very different from the Brixtonians, Mabel," he said. "It will be quite a new experience of life for you." He seemed somewhat at a loss to explain his meaning in reply to the girl's question as to where the difference lay.

"Is Mrs. Walls a very clever woman?" asked Mabel, referring to the hostess she was about to meet.

"No; oh, no," replied Bulwer. "Clever, of course, but nothing exceptional, you know. She is just like the rest of them, and you must prepare to be shocked a little. You see, in Brixton people take such narrow views of life. Men and women of the world are accustomed to take a much broader outlook upon things."

"What things?" demanded the girl.

"Things generally, you know," replied Bulwer, vaguely.

Mabel began to wonder a little. She wondered still more during the next two or three days she spent on board the houseboat Irene, and something very much like distrust began to take possession of her. In two days her experience of the manners and customs of the society to which Bulwer had introduced her led her to some very curious conclusions. She decided that the ladies consumed more champagne than was good for their health, and she found that a brandy and soda was invariably considered the thing to drink in the early morning. She learned that it was correct to address the most casual male acquaintance as "dear boy" and to refer to a lord otherwise than by his Christian name was to confess oneself outside the pale of civilization. She learned, too, that the only subjects upon which a society lady could converse with any degree of fluency was upon matters theatrical or sporting, and when deeply interested in either of these questions her language had an adjectival facility which was somewhat alarming to a mere Brixtonian.

Still Reginald was very attentive, and laughed away Mabel's scruples. She had very little time to think, either. Each day was full of incident, and in one continual whirl of light and life, seemed to end before it had well begun. Before breakfast was finished it was time to take the punt and make their way to a point of vantage on the course. Scarcely an hour seemed to pass and it was time to return to lunch. Then the punt again, tea at another houseboat, and finally a drift down the river and a reposeful half-hour in the backwater before Hambledon Lock before dinner. After dinner, gossip and music, without and within, filled the evening, until eyes refused to remain open longer. That was the order of things until the last day of the regatta.

Meanwhile Jim Todd had been going disconsolately about his business in town. At first he had determined to remain away from Henley altogether; but, as each day passed, he repented of his intention, and at last, on the morning of the last day, he donned his flannels and followed the rest of the pleasure-seekers. At least he would be able to get a glimpse of the girl who had thrown him over. He did not bear her any ill-will; there was not a particle of malice in the whole of his body. If she seemed unhappy, well, he would bear it as best he might, and take up loyally the position of friend, if he were allowed to do so. In spite, however, of the fine day and the life and movement Jim Todd felt the reverse of happy. The general gayety only increased his gloom. He was outside it all, and, to crown everything, he did not catch a glimpse of Mabel. So at length wearying of the babble of laughter and music, he got out his sculls and left the course behind, determined to find some secluded spot where he might rest and brood over his lost happiness.

The quiet spot was more difficult to find than he had anticipated. Every sheltered corner had its boat and its pair of lovers. It was very tantalizing to Jim, in hit particular mood. He went on, however, pulling doggedly until he reached at last a little backwater which promised retirement, and there he pushed his boat in under the shade of a tree and made it fast to one of its branches. He was not undisturbed for long, however, for within half an hour a second boat pushed in within a few yards of him, and, though the leafy screen prevented him from seeing who the occupants were, snatches of their conversation reached his ears. He was about to move, when suddenly he heard a woman's voice mention the name of Mabel Courthope coupled with that of Reginald Bulwer.

Jim lay still and listened, and as he lay his blood began to boil in anger. But not for long did he lie quiescent. Putting the scraps together convinced him that his suspicions were more than correct. He pushed his boat out into the river and once more settled himself to the sculls. A shout made him look over his shoulder. He had been working off his anger by strenuous exertion and driving his light outrigger fast against the current. He was going straight back to Henley and the Irene to confront Bulwer and to take Mabel home. In one glance he saw a punt narrowly escape being run down by a big launch only to be caught in the swirl of the water and ignominiously capsized.

Half a dozen vigorous strokes took Jim to the spot. Brief though the time had been, he recognized the occupants. One of them, the man, intent only upon his own preservation, was striking out for the bank, the girl was not to be seen. Jim hesitated not a moment, but, balancing himself carefully in his light craft, dived into the river. It seemed an age, but was a very few seconds in reality, before he caught sight of the object of his search, and then the matter was easy. Another boat had arrived on the scene, and the launch, too, had slowed down; so that within a minute both Jim and the object of his rescue had been safely hauled out of the water, and were making for Henley as fast at the launch could take them, heedless of the dripping figure on the bank.

Mabel Courthope did not return to the Irene; neither did Reginald Bulwer ever venture to call at her home again. Nor did the girl desire to see him. Mr. and Mrs. Tood are quite happy in their little home at Brixton.
—Chicago Times-Herald.

WORRIED THE LANDLADY.

Balder Twins Made Her Think She Was in the Wrong Business.

The Balder twins have been getting into trouble again. This time it was with a new boarding-house keeper who had bought out the widow Clancy's business and didn't know there was a twin in it. The widow had always been generous to a fault—her own and everybody's else—but the new dispenser of provender had a taunt for measuring and sipping and keeping tally on every biscuit that was served. She saw Harold, the thinnest twin, eating his supper and the dimensions of his appetite fairly appalled her. She asked who he was and was told that he was a regular boarder and belonged to the Balder family, but not a word of his being a twin.

"Land sakes!" she said, "he must be hollow from his head to his heels. I can never make any money with such a cormorant as that to feed!"

She saw pork and beans, fried hash, eggs on toast and bread without stint disappearing under the hungry administration of a boy's appetite, and she hurried into the china pantry and took out a small memorandum book and began figuring on profit and loss. She was at it some time and when she returned to the dining-room she expected to find it empty. What was her horror to find the boy with an appetite had just received an entirely new order which was being served. She stared for a moment like one distraught, then she tackled the boy.

"You must be hungry," she said, with withering sarcasm.

"You bet I am," said the other twin, Eugene, as he began to devour the nearest dish.

"Young man, you'll have a fit of apoplexy, and I won't be half sorry. Anybody who gorges himself with two suppers ought to die."

Eugene understood in a flash, but he only said demurely:

"Wait until I've eaten this one—maybe I won't need any more."

The new boarding-house keeper went through the apartments in a fury, looking for the Balders to inform them that their son was eating himself to death. The first one she saw was the boy himself playing checkers with his father. Her eyes grew round.

"How on earth did you get here before me?" she asked.

"Oh, that was dead easy," said Harold, who saw the usual complications, and was happy. "I came up as soon as I finished my supper."

"But you had just begun all over again," shrieked the tormented and perplexed woman, and then Father Balder came to the rescue and explained about the twins. But the awe-stricken head of the commissary department said that she should sell out, for she thought there was something uncanny about the business.—Chicago Times-Herald.

This Bear Had Nerve.

A. J. Brockway, of Osceola, N. Y., has been missing sheep from his pasture for a month. A week ago he discovered bear tracks in his sheep pasture, and he decided that the bear was the thief. He set a big spring trap, which he chained to a log, and baited it with fresh meat.

The next morning the log and the trap were gone and the condition of the ground around made it plain that the bear had had a tussel with the trap before he had started to carry it away. There was a trail straight across the field in the direction of the swamp, showing the way the bear and his load had gone. The trail led more than a mile through the woods.

Brockway got his gun and followed it up. It led into the swamp, and he almost stumbled over the bear before he saw it. The animal was sitting down licking a paw which was fast in the trap. It was just as much astonished as was Brockway at being discovered, and started to run away. It was almost exhausted, and before it had gone half a dozen steps Brockway recovered his nerve and shot it between the shoulders. It weighed about 250 pounds.—New York Press.

A Prince's Windfall.

The Prince of Wales has just come in for a windfall of $10,000 in a somewhat strange manner, says a correspondent. Some time ago a young fellow of the name of Sydney de Bao was staying down in Lizard, in Cornwall, when he took a fancy to the daughter of the local innkeeper, a girl of the name of Ruby Hart. Being in poor health at the time he informed her that he was going to put her name down for a legacy of $10,000 in his will. He added that with the object of overcoming her objections to receiving the legacy he would make it payable to the Duke of Cornwall, that is the Prince of Wales, if she declined it, thinking if the matter was put in that way she would accept the money rather than let it go to a stranger. In the course of time Mr. De Boa died. Miss Hart has declined to accept the legacy for reasons which she refused to state in court, and which are left to the imagination, and thus the legacy falls to the Prince of Wales, who had never heard of Mr. De Bao in his life until cited as a party to the proceeding for the probation of the will.

An ambitious youngster in Marion County, Oregon, tried to ride on a cow's back and was thrown and suffered a broken clavicle.

HONOR TO BLACK JACK

MAGNIFICENT LOGAN STATUE UNVEILED IN CHICAGO.

Grand Demonstration in Honor of America's Greatest Volunteer Soldier—Ceremonies Marked by a Great Parade of Veterans.

EQUESTRIAN STATUE OF LOGAN IN CHICAGO.

Logan in Bronze.

Chicago correspondence:

Illinois has paid tribute to the last of the great triumvirate she gave to the nation when the nation's life was at stake. A shaft at Springfield marks the grave of Lincoln, the martyred President. A magnificent monument at Galena tells that from that city went forth Grant, the silent tanner, who became the great military chieftain. Now, in enduring bronze, the figure of Logan, the greatest of American volunteer soldiers, stands on the lake front in Chicago. With a great demonstration which, like the recent Grant commemoration in New York, was one not of sorrow and mourning, but of glory and joy, the monument to Logan was unveiled Thursday. This was the anniversary of the battle of Atlanta, fought in 1864, at which Logan reached the summit of his military fame.

The ceremony was accomplished in the presence of a multitude notable in its factors, and with a magnificence of detail quite unprecedented. On the platform at the foot of the statue was grouped a company that no event of less importance could have called together. The widow of the dead general, army officers who served with him through the war, Governors of States, members of President McKinley's cabinet and United States Senators sat in the shadow of St. Gauden's heroic statue and took part in the exercises. In the throng that listened to Mr. Peck's oration were many of the leading citizens of the nation and in those greater multitudes along the line of march were thousands of Chicago residents together with other thousands from every quarter of the country.

The city has rarely been so profusely decorated. It was not alone from public buildings that bunting had been flung to the breeze, but business houses and private residences in every section of the city shared in the general display. President McKinley could not attend in person; his duties in Washington during the closing hours of Congress rendered such a step impracticable.

It was well on to 2 o'clock when a boyish figure arose out of a forest of serried row on row of people. The sun was tangled in his hair and on his face, almost girlish in its youthful beauty, there rested such an expression as might be expected upon the countenance of a lad of 5 years entrusted with a great responsibility. One moment he stood there outlined against the placid background of lake and sky, and then made a sudden gesture with his right arm. Up the silken cord that hid the rugged features of the warrior statesman from thousands of expectant ones there went a thrill and a quiver, a cloth fell to the base of the monument and there was no longer any reason for the immense throng to refrain from feasting its eyes on the surpassing beauties of the apotheosis in bronze of all that was martial, all that was heroic in the inspiring presence of the Black Eagle.

The uncovering of the statue was the signal for a chorus of thirteen guns to growl forth approbative thunder, and, as the windows round about rattled in their casements a castanet accompaniment, smaller pieces of ordnance took up the warlike strain and grizzled veterans, burned by unsparing suns almost to the color of the bronze counterfeit of their once resistless leader, recalled his valorous attitude before Atlanta on another July day, thirty-three years ago, when, with tears in his eyes, he saw his men mowed down by desperate Southrons like ripened wheat before the reapers, and, a hundred times at death's portals, a hundred times eluded on his black charger the pale equestrian of the fates. Or they may have been reminded of that other day at bloody Helmont, when, his horse shot beneath him, he carved his way through a seemingly impenetrable wall of bone and sinew to a decisive victory, but at a fearful cost to his own boys, not less brave than their fierce antagonists. Be these things as they may, tears stood in the eyes of some whose lids had for years remained unwetted, and on the faces of others a faraway expression, glorifying and illuminating them, rested.

MRS. JOHN A. LOGAN.

The parade was reviewed by Mrs. Logan, Captain John A. Logan and wife, John A. Logan III., whose tiny hand loosed the drapery and unveiled the figure in bronze; by Major and Mrs. William R. Tucker, the latter a daughter of the hero of Atlanta; by members of President McKinley's cabinet, and other distinguished guests of the city. Besides these the reviewers included: Gov. Tanner of Illinois, Gov. Holcomb of Nebraska, Gov. Drake of Iowa, Gov. James A. Mount of Indiana, Gov. Atkinson of West Virginia, Gov. Scofield of Wisconsin, Secretary of War R. A. Alger and Mrs. Alger, ex-Senator D. M. Sabin of Minnesota, Archbishop John Ireland of St. Paul, Lord Breadalbane of England, Gov. Barnes of Oklahoma. The two brothers of Gen. Logan—Thomas M. Logan of Murphysboro, Ill., John A. Logan's birthplace, and James V. Logan of Olney, Ill., occupied places of honor. There were besides hundreds of men and women who had known the general in life and who had come to pay their tribute of honor to his momery. And the city itself, having announced its intention to make of this a holiday, also reviewed the parade from every foot of standing room along the miles of the line of march.

Twenty Thousand Soldiers.

In the column which swept away from Twelfth street and Michigan avenue at 3 o'clock were more than twenty thousand soldiers under arms, the whole commanded by Gen. John R. Brooke. The regular service, the National Guard and various uniformed semi-military organizations were generously represented. And no body of marchers has ever presented in Chicago a more inspiring sight. In dress, in arms, in bearing and in the masterful methods of control they were one of the most interesting features of the entire event.

First in the parade line was a remnant of the Thirty-first Illinois Volunteers, Gen. Logan's old regiment, and at its head Gen. Pearson, the regiment's last colonel, unfurled the tattered folds of the regimental flag. Veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic marched through Michigan avenue by thousands and tens of thousands. As they passed the noble figure erected by a grateful State, they walked with bared heads. With these veterans who wore the blue marched the veterans who wore the gray and whose ranks were thinned on that awful day at Atlanta more than thirty years ago. Then soldiers swung past in rhythmical march, the regulars of the United States army and the National Guard of Illinois, more than 20,000 in all, an army in themselves. Uniformed detachments of those civic societies which teach patriotism while they teach fraternity closed the line. All these passed in review before the distinguished guests, conspicuous among them being the white-haired widow of the man who has gone, the weight of her weeds lightened by this demonstration.

It would be impossible to exaggerate the interest and enthusiasm which from first to last marked the proceedings. The bugle call of "assembly" with which the formal exercises were opened struck a keynote that expressed the military temper of the day; and not an incident in speech or song or action proved a discord. Thousands of heads bent low while Rev. Dr. Arthur Edwards prayed. When he had finished the band played martial music that stirred the old soldiers present to the depths of their souls. The selection was "Battle Scenes of the War," in which the patter of musketry, the screaming of shells, the cooing of bullets and the grumbling of cannon all were imitated.

Judge Henry W. Blodgett, president of the board of monument commissioners, presented the statue to the State of Illinois in well-chosen phrases, and the unveiling followed. Gov. Tanner accepted the statue on behalf of the people of the State in a brief address, and George R. Peck delivered an oration which quite outran his already splendid reputation.

Years hence, when the clustering curls of the youngest John A. Logan shall have become whitened by the rime of many winters, he, no longer least in age of the namesakes of the cyclonic general, will gather other John A. Logans about him and tell them of that wonderful July day in Chicago when by a movement of his tiny hand he bared the greatest triumph of the greatest sculptor to the eager gaze of a patriotic multitude.

In warlike bronze the man of battle, annointed with fire and smoke, and the shadow of impending death, has been annointed with libations of praise and given to unborn generations, who are bidden to cherish and honor the name of John A. Logan. With military and civic pomp the people of the nation united to do honor to the hero of Atlanta. The son of Illinois, who seized the fallen standard and rode through the hail of bullets, rallying the broken troops and turning defeat to victory has been praised by statesmen and honored by the presence of a fourth of the nation's standing army.

A Heroic Figure.

The statue, which is the tribute of the State, cost $50,000. The contract for it was made with Augustus St. Gaudens ten years ago and he was told to take his time and make the statue his masterpiece. He selected as the scene to be depicted that moment during the battle of Atlanta, when Logan took command of the Army of the Tennessee. Readers of history know that this engagement, on the banks of Peach Tree creek, was one of the bloodiest of the war. Brave Gen. McPherson was in command when the battle opened. Within an hour he had fallen. The Union lines had been split, the flank had been turned and Hood's eager legions were rolling up the Army of the Tennessee like a scroll. Then a wild figure burst on the vision of the disheartened men in blue. "Black Jack" Logan dashed along the lines. Waving a ragged battle flag snatched from the hand of a color bearer, with head uncovered, his long black hair streaming in the wind, with eagle-like features illumined by the fire of resolve, and driving spurs into his horse, he looked the very personification of victorious war. At his word the lines were reformed. Hood was beaten back. Seven thousand men fell on either side, but the victory was with the Union. That is the scene depicted by the sculptor for this monument—the supreme moment when Logan headed the Army of the Tennessee and reining back his horse, gave the order which saved the battle. The statue is of heroic size and mounted on a base rising 24 feet above the level of Michigan avenue.

JOHN A. LOGAN III.

The sensational "stolen image" case of the Onset Bay (Mass.) Theosophical camp ground finally reached the district court. As an outcome Clarence B. Crane, a newspaper man who has figured in the affair, was found guilty of stealing the image of Buddha from the cottage of Mr. Foulke and fined $50.

Maj. Perley, the well-known Canadian rifleman, died of bronchitis at Bisley, Eng.

WORK OF CONGRESS.

THE WEEK'S DOINGS IN SENATE AND HOUSE.

A Comprehensive Digest of the Proceedings in the Legislative Chambers at Washington—Matters that Concern the People.

Lawmakers at Labor.

The conference report on the tariff bill was adopted by the House shortly after midnight Monday by a vote of 185 to 118. This eclipses all previous records. The result was accomplished after twelve hours of continuous debate. But two speeches were made by the Republicans, one by Mr. Dingley in opening the debate and one by Mr. Payne of New York in closing it. Is all ten Democratic and one Populist speeches were made. The sugar schedule was the main point of assault. Every Republican in the House who was present voted for the report. The Democrats, with five exceptions, voted against the report. The exceptions were Slayden of Texas, Broussard of Louisiana, Meyor of Louisiana, Davey of Louisiana and Kleberg of Texas. An analysis of the vote shows that 180 Republicans and five Democrats voted for the report, and 106 Democrats and twelve Populists against it.

The tariff conference report was presented to the Senate Tuesday, but little progress was made on it beyond the formal reading of about two-thirds of the report. Mr. Tillman openly threatened a filibuster until next December if cotton bagging and cotton ties were not restored to the free list, but the threat was regarded as somewhat facetious. The sugar amendments occasioned a long debate, and the lumber amendment also brought out animated criticism from Senators Teller and Pettigrew. Early in the day the Senate passed a joint resolution authorizing and requesting the President to take all necessary steps for the release of the Competitor prisoners from prison at Havana. Representative Mitchell of New York has introduced a bill in the House to establish a currency reserve fund for the redemption of United States and treasury notes of 1890. The fund shall aggregate at the start $150,000,000, of which not over $100,000,000 shall consist of gold and the remainder of United States treasury notes. The fund shall be added to from time to time as the treasury's cash balance exceeds $75,000,000, but shall never aggregate more than $200,000,000. The fund shall be used to redeem United States and treasury notes, which shall not be reissued, except in exchange for gold, to be deposited in the reserve fund.

The Senate concluded the formal reading of the tariff conference report Wednesday. Mr. Jones made a contest against the conference committee on the ground that it had exceeded its authority in so amending the paragraph relating to printing paper as to place a retaliatory duty against the countries paying an export bounty on wood pulp. His point of order was debated at much length, and finally overruled by Vice President Hobart. This removed the only obstacle thus far encountered by the report. The reciprocity amendment and the abandonment of the stamp tax on bonds and stocks developed much criticism. When the House met Mr. Evans from the Committee on Ways and Means reported a joint resolution which finally passed, requesting the President to make such investigations as will elicit all the facts in reference to the restrictions put upon the sale of American tobacco in foreign countries under what is known as the "Regie" or government contracts. It also authorizes the President to enter into negotiations with the governments of those countries with a view to obtaining a modification of these restrictions.

In the Senate Thursday the debate on the report was participated in by Senators Chilton of Texas, Jones of Arkansas and Pettigrew of South Dakota in opposition, while Mr. Aldrich took frequent occasions to defend the report against the criticism of these Senators. The credentials of the new Senator from Tennessee, Thomas B. Turley, who succeeds the late Senator Harris, were presented to the Senate by his associate, Mr. Bate. Mr. Turley was then escorted to the Vice President's desk, where the oath of office was duly administered. In the House, Mr. Stone introduced a bill to authorize the appointment of a monetary commission and to provide for its expenses. One hundred thousand dollars is appropriated by the terms of the bill for the expenses of the commission. This bill has been prepared by Mr. Stone, after consultation with H. H. Hanna, chairman of the Indianapolis convention, and is understood to have the approval of the administration.

In the Senate Friday a House bill was passed authorizing the President to suspend discriminating duties imposed on foreign vessels and commerce. Mr. Allison then moved to proceed with the tariff conference report, but Mr. Tillman contested this with a motion to take up his resolution for an investigation of alleged senatorial speculation in sugar stock. Mr. Allison made the point of order that debate was not in order, and the presiding officer sustained the point. A joint resolution was passed for the erection of a government building at the trans-Mississippi international exposition at Omaha. The consideration of the tariff conference report was then resumed, and Mr. Teller of Colorado took the floor for a general speech. The House passed the bill passed by the Senate to ratify the compact entered into between the States of South Dakota and Nebraska relative to the disputed boundary line.

Counted the Geese.

Under Henry V. of England an act of Parliament ordered all the geese in England to be counted, and the sheriffs of the counties were required to furnish six arrow feathers from each goose.

Passing of the Skirt Dance.

France is doing away with the skirt dance and there is a return to favor of the beautiful, stately dances—the minuet, the gavotte, the pavane, and the saraband—which lent grace to the eighteenth century.

Hawaii's Best Safeguard.

The American flag over Hawaii will be a better defense for the islands than half a dozen warships charged with maintaining an uncertain protectorate.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

This and That.

Sequardine, the late Dr. Brown-Sequard's elixir of life, made of macerated guinea pigs' orchids, is an effective cure for leprosy, used as an injection, at least so Dr. Bouffe tells the Paris Academie des Sciences.

Richard Sparks, of Boston, has a "four-clasp" medal for service in the Crimean war. This not only certifies that he landed with the first expedition in 1854, and that he fought at Alma, Balaclava and Inkerman, but that he is one of the few survivors of the winter of 1854-'55.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana Office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY..... July 29, 1897

County Teachers' Institute.

The DeKalb County Teachers' Institute will convene at the Oper House in Auburn, on Monday August 16. A full corps of the best teachers and lecturers has been secured. Send for programs. Get things in shape to attend if possible.

H. E. Coe, Co. Supt.

The Meese Reunion.

Anyone getting married at the Meese reunion August 19, will save money by it. The ceremony will be free, and Clerk Long will donate the marriage license. Now, here is a chance for some to save enough to buy some extra furniture. The reunion is getting to be famous. Long articles with a picture of Mr. Meese, appear in a Pittsburg daily, and also in one in Denver, Colorado.

It Is Treasurer Hine.

Saturday, Mr. Hine had filled up his list of bondsmen, to the full $200,000 required by the commissioners, and the Board having met in session to consider this matter and finishing all satisfactory, the bond was accepted and this morning he took possession of the room. He did not do any work however till the arrival of Mr. Ernst, who came down from Angola at 10 a. m. and who was requested by the commissioners to see that a proper settlement was had between the late treasurer and the new one.

CONGRESS ADJOURNS.

The Senate passed the new tariff bill Saturday, at 3 p. m. and one hour later it had been signed by the President and it became a law at once. Then the two Houses closed up their work, and at 7 p. m. they adjourned to meet next time at the regular session, the first Monday in December. They have done nothing of importance except to reject the arbitration treaty that Clevdland had arranged with Great Britan, and to pass a higher tariff law. In both these cases, Congress did the country a great wrong.

NOTICE.

A Challenge for a Horse Race.

CORUNNA, IND., July 28, 1897.

Inasmuch as George H. Miles has said and has caused the people of Corunna to believe that his stallion, Banner Boy, can out-trot my stallion, Ben Hershey, Jr., by Ben Hersher, by General Hatch, I hereby challenge him for a match race between the above named horses for $50 a side, mile heats, 3 in 5, race to be held at the track at Kendallville, Ind., not later than 3 weeks and not sooner than two after he has accepted this challenge and deposited the money with M. J. Thomas, hardware dealer at this place, to cover the same already deposited by me.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN K. TOMPKINS.

WAY OFF WRONG.

(Butler Record.)

"The senators voting for the Dingley bill represents a vote of over seven millions while those voting against the bill represent less than three million votes.

Way off wrong. The senators voting for the "Dingley" bill do not represent the millions of common people in their states in this matter. The common people did not ask for an increase in the price of sugar, coal, iron, leather, cloth or hundreds of other articles that common people use. Why should they? Why should people ask their senators to increase the cost of living? No, the only ones who asked this increased cost were the sugar trust, the coal trust, the various iron and steel trusts, and in all cases, the few men who would by such a law receive a higher price for the articles they have to sell. These represent less than a half a million of people. And this half million is all that the forty senators who voted for the "Dingley" bill do represent. The thirty senators who voted against the bill represent the rest of the seventy million consumers.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY

A Regular Holdup, On the Waterloo Road Yesterday

For some days, a Mr. Greenberg a foreigner has been in Auburn, with his son, Harry Greenberg. They located at corner of VanBuren and 3d-sts, and have made a business of buying old junk and repairing furniture etc. The father did most of the repairing while the boy bought the junk. Yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock, Harry was driving home from Waterloo, where he had been to make purchases. He was driving a peddling wagon, with one horse, the horse that belongs to his uncle, Mr. Robinson, who is well known about here, as "Picture frame Robinson," having sold picture frames in this section for some time. Harry had reached a point about half way between J. E. Dilgard's residence and the school house, when he was met by a double rig containing three men and a woman, with a led horse and buggy on behind. This was the same rig which had gone north through Auburn yesterday. They were selling and trading a new sort of coffee and similar things. On meeting Harry Greenberg, they stopped him, and tried to do some dickering with him. They finally offered to sell him fifty bags for $5. But he replied that he could not make any such trade, as he was working for his uncle, Mr. Robinson. They replied, that if he would not buy, they would take his money from him. One of the party jumped out and caught Harry's horse by the bridle to hold it. Harry, determined to escape if possible whipped the horse, which struggled and broke the bridle but the man still managed to keep the horses from moving and Harry was helpless. The men got into his wagon and took what old copper etc, they thought of value, and put into their own, Harry cried, and begged the woman to give him back his property. But she swore at him, called him foul names, saying. "If you don't keep still, we will kill you. The men struck him, knocking him to the ground, beat and whipped him and left him under the wagon. They then drove on north and Harry hurried to Auburn and told his story. Sheriff Stroh was soon on the road to Waterloo, where he found the parties. But they refused to come back with him as he had not got out a warrant. and started again. But they had reached Butler when he found them this time. He arrested all four and brought them to Auburn landing them in jail at about 10:30 in the evening.

At 10 a. m. today, Tuesday, they had agreed to stand trial before court instead of a justice and were brought into court. As the grand jury had been dismissed they were brought in on "information." They gave their names as: Charles Bowers, Charles Studley, Ed. Smead, and Lilly Cunningham. Each defendant plead "not guilty." Attorney Welsheimer, for the state, put each on the witness stand. The substance of all found out was that Studley owned most of the rig, and that none of them had money. They were buying junk by trading for it a new sort of coffee, called "coffeeette." All the men lived in Fort Wayne. The girl swore she was 21, and her home is in Wabash. She got acquainted with the men when they came to Wabash a week or so ago. They had engaged her to go along to do the cooking and were to furnish her board and clothes. The whole crowd is tough and present a sorry appearance. The judge had them taken back to jail till they could get word to friends in Ft. Wayne, to employ an attorney for them. He gave them to understand that DeKalb county would not pay an attorney for such a brazen lot running across its territory as long as they were able to get help from anywhere else. He even suggested that their rig might be used to get money to defend them. They were well supplied with "gall," and kept hinting to the judge that they were "worthy poor." But he very properly saw it in a very different light. They will be brought into court for trial as soon as they get counsel. The state is ready any time. The whole party had been drinking heavily while passing through town, and that may account in part for their holding young Greenberg up. But they are a tough lot the best that can be said.

WEDNESDAY FORENOON.

We made two or three slight errors yesterday, in our detailed writeup of the highway hold up on the Waterloo road. The officers who pursued and finally arrested the offenders, were Deputy Sheriff Platter and Marshal Clint Potter. Sheriff Stroh was not along and had nothing to do with it. We had been misinformed. They did not come back from Waterloo to get a warrant. Harry Greenberg was with the two officers, and when they found the party would not come with them without a warrant, they went before 'Squire McBride and got one. But by the time this was secured the men and woman were gone. The officers followed up, and found them at a saloon in Butler. The whole four were taken into custody by the officers, and another rig hired to help bring the party to town. Their own rig was left in Butler.

Harry Greenberg is around all right though pretty sore after his rough usage. He says that Smead and the girl did not get out of their wagon. It Studley and Bowers, who got out held his horse and beat him. They did not get any money from him, although one of them went through his pocket. What money he had, he had in a pocket they did not find. He begged them to let him go, as he was a poor man. But they said they were poor, too, and were going to get what there was to be had, whether they had to buy it or take it. They appear to have handled him pretty roughly.

AUGUST DEMOREST'S.

This is a beautiful number of a magazine that is always readable. But the articles in this number are especially inviting, and very naturally. For in the summer months are more possibilities furnished for artist and writer. This idea is shown in one of the August articles, the description, with abundant pictures, of "Greater Chautauqua." One can readily see what an inviting field the artist has here, with its various athletic clubs to sketch, its natural scenery and its views and descriptions of the various buildings of that now famous resort. And then there is the illustrated article "Living Landmarks of New York Streets." This deals largely with the street musicians, peddlers and various kinds of fakirs, and is illustrated with reproduced photos. Then too there is a series of pictures of the "American Girl," the student, the bicyclist, the horsewoman, the bride, etc, etc. And many other attractive features that make this number of the valuable magazine one of more than usual interest.

COURT.

As noted heretofore, court was in session yesterday for such business as came up. The first presented was a matter growing out of the J. L. Davis receiver matter. The bill brought in by Receiver Davenport for his services during the settlement of the case, was disputed, but was settled satisfactorily.

A divorce case of parties from Garrett, was also ready for trial. E. S. Beall, as freight engineer on the B. & O. who lives at Garrett, has been separated from his wife. Now she seeks a divorce, and after some delay in settling their property matters. They have reached an agreement. She gets a satisfactory share of the property and they will then stop fighting over the divorce, which will then be granted to her if the Judge thinks she is entitled to one. It is an unfortunate affair. The writer knew Mr. Beall when he was a lad, many years ago, and feels sorry to see "Doc" get into any sort of trouble.

Work has been going on a part of the time. Monday there was a discussion and settlement of the fees of Receiver Davenport in the J. L. Davis matter. Then came up a case involving the ownership of a note on the Rollins firm. Tuesday was the first calling of the case against the men and woman who held up Harry Greenberg. To-day (Wednesday) it came to trial with Link and Brown on the defense, and a jury. There was a lively time getting a jury. Several felt like Mr. Merica. When asked if he had formed an opinion, he said he believed he had. And admitted he thought they ought to go to the pen. He was excused. The case proved a pretty lively one. The trial is going on as we close.

BUTLER.

Mrs. Dural living on East North Street was taken seriously ill while attending church last Sunday, and had to be carried to home.

Henry Potter's daughter a teacher in the Hartford Conn., schools, is visiting with him.

Mrs. T. M. Fralick and children of South Chicago is visiting her father, J. A. Campbell, and other Butler relatives and friends.

Isaac Dohner, a veteran wheelman of the border of Ohio, sustained severe injuries recently from a fall caused by the breaking of his wheel.

Fred Gengnagel threshed five acres of wheat adjoining town and obtained 100 bushels.

About every house in town that is tenantable is occupied. There is a demand for a considerable number more.

AUBURN CARNIVAL,

September 22, 23 and 24, 1897.

At a meeting Monday evening of the subscribers to the Auburn Carnival fund a board of directors was chosen to proceed at once to make arrangements for a grand carnival. The members of the board are: W. H. McIntyre, H. B. McCord, W. C. Hartman, Wm. Kessler, John Kruger, Wm. Schaab and Wm. Ryan. Yesterday they met and elected the following officers: W. H. McIntyre, pres.; Wm. Schaab, vice pres.; W. C. Hartman, sec.; H. B. McCord, treas. The carnival will be for three days Sep. 22, 23, 24

It is the intention to make the round of amusements so interesting that people will attend both days. In this way the number of people in Auburn will be as great as if three days' amusement was given. No time nor pains will be spared to make this the grandest celebration Auburn ever saw. This annual event will be a great advertisement to the town and should have the hearty support of every citizen.

LADIES' COMMITTEE.

The following ladies have been chosen as a committee to co-operate in the carnival. They will meet at Mrs. Anise Leas' store to-morrow (Thursday) afternoon at 3 o'clock to elect officers and an executive committee. An officer of the association will be present and explain the work. Other persons will be added to the committee, the ladies mentioned having been selected to start the organization. Mesdames Chas. McClellan, Chas. Schaab, John Robbins, H. C. Hanna, I. M. Zent, J. Aber. D. A. Hodge, John Kruger, Wm. Ryan, C. Raut, D. Caruth, Fred Yesbera, Anise Leas, Caldwell, Frank Eckhart, Frank Zimmerman, J. A. Barns, Wm. Schaab, H. B. McCord, W. H. McIntyre, Frank Draggoo, W. C. Hartman, Willis Brown, H. Culbertson, Morris Eckhart, and all others who are interested and will render assistance will please be on hand at the appointed place.

SECRETARY.

OBITUARY

Alice Amanda Draggoo was born in DeKalb County Ind., August 20, 1852, and departed this life July 23, 1897, aged 44 years, 11 months and 3 days She was born and always lived upon the farm where she died. She was sick about three weeks and from the first her disease seemed to baffle the skill of her physicians and her friends felt doubtful of her recovery, and at different times she requested what should be done in case she did not recover and seemed to feel impressed that she could not live but a short time. She was converted under the pastorate of Rev. S. S. Stanton in the winter of 1889 during one of his protracted efforts and was baptized but did not unite with the church but clung to the faith of the Presbyterian demonination but was too far away to unite with the church of her choice. She was faithful in attending services and was an active, earnest worker in the Sunday school at this place for several years and served as secretary of the school for over fifteen years. She was efficient and thorough in whatever she undertook to do at home or wherever duty called, and strovet to make life pleasant for those with whom she associated. For years she has been the solace and comfort of her aged mother who now feels that she is bereft indeed in the loss of an only daughter. They felt deep affection for each other and the close companionship of the two was very remarkable. It is said that "death loves a shining mark," and in this case death has taken a great light and comfort out of this home The death of such a character is not only a loss. A few hours before passing away she was questioned by her nurse regarding her willingness to leave this earth and she replied, 'It is all right." She has gone from life's labors to her reward. She leaves a sorrow striken mother and one brother besides a great number of relatives to mourn her departure. May they find comfort in the thought that when done with life's turmoils and cares they will meet their loved one where trouble and sorrow are unknown. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. C. W. Evans, who preached to a crowded house, after which the remains were tenderly laid to rest in the St. Joe cemetery, by the side of her father who died a little over seven months ago.

RESOLUTIONS.

We, the committee to draft resolutions on the death of our worthy sister Miss Ettie Snider, submit the following:

WHEREAS, it has pleased our Heavenly Father, to take from our midst our sister and member of our church and Sunday school, who died July 15, 1897, and,

WHEREAS, there comes to us all, in church and Sunday school, a sense of our personal bereavement and that in the passing away of our sister we bow in humble submission to the will of Him who doeth all for the best, be it.

RESOLVED, that in the death of our sister, the church loses a worthy member; the parents, a loving daughter; and we extend our heartfelt sympathy to all of the bereaved family;

RESOLVED, that a copy of these resolutions be tendered to the parents of our departed sister, a copy sent to the AUBURN COURIER, and one placed on records of our secretary.

MARY BROWN,
ANNA PICKER. } Com.
MARY LIKENS,

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Administrator of the estate of Mary C. Chaffee deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent

July 28 h, 1897.

GEORGE W. MAXWELL, Administrator.
Baxter & Brown Attys.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—in Effect Nov. 29, 1896.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations	Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne	11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 40
New Era	12 13 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junction	12 22	5 28	7 58
Auburn	12 29	5 29	8 37
Waterloo	12 41	5 41	9 24
Summit	12 52	5 52	9 46
Steubenville	12 56	5 56	9 50
Pleasant Lake	1 03	6 03	10 12
Angola	1 13	6 14½	10 50
Jackson	3 25	8 35	4 30 pm

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations	Fre'gt	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson ....dp	6 30 am	11 35 am	7 15 am
Angola	12 25	2 19 pm	9 26
Pleasant Lake	1 03	2 29	9 36
Steubenville	.....	2 36	9 42
Summit	1 26	2 39	9 46
Waterloo	2 25	2 55	10 00
Auburn	2 53	3 10	10 20
Auburn Junction	3 14	3 18	10 14
New Era	4 05	3 34	10 36
Fort Wayne	6 25	3 55	11 00

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. E. DeLAPP, Agent Auburn.

Buy Straw Hats of Yesbera....

He Sells at One-Half the Regular Price...

$2.00	Straws at	$1.00
1 50	Straws at	75
1 00	Straws at	50
75	Straws at	38
50	Straws at	25
25	Straws at	13
10	Straws at	5

For this week we want to close out every Straw Hat in the Next 5 Days.

Our sizes are not badly broken, and the styles are New and Up-to-Date. Buy for next season and save 50 per cent. We are clearing out children's waists at a price that is in accord with your pocket book—the sizes are mostly small We make special prices on Summer Clothing.

G. H. Yesbera,

Auburn's Hatter & Clothier.

A CAR LOAD OF

GRANITE WARE

AT

BROWN, CULBERTSON & BOLAND'S

Cash Hardware Store, Aururn, Ind.

Only One Day, July, 31st.

These goods will be first-class in quality. Everything for your kitchen at Less than Tinware prices.

FOR EXAMPLE:

Pint Granite Cup	5c
Granite Wash Basin	10c
Half Gallon Granite Coffee Pot....	25c
14-qt. Granite Dishpan	35c

And All Other Articles In Proportion.

Remember These Three Things:

DATE, Saturday, July 31, 1897.

PRICE, Cheap as Tinware.

PLACE, B. C. & B., Auburn.

UNLUCKY ROYAL SAILORS.

Nearly All of Them Have Some Bad Accident to Their Discredit.

Somehow or other royal and imperial princes who have adopted seafaring life as a profession seem to be pursued with ill-luck, says London American. At Petersburg not long ago the Grand Duke Alexis, lord high admiral of the Russian fleet, managed to run his yacht into the Russian steamship Limorno, with little damage to the latter, but injuring the yacht to the extent of some 100,000 rubles. His brother-in-law, the duke of Coburg, quitted active service in the British navy with his record besmirched by the loss of his flagship, the Sultan, on a rock near Malta. The queen's nephew admiral, the prince of Leiningen, is celebrated in particular for his feat in running down the yacht Mistletoe in the Solent while in command of the royal yacht, the queen herself being on board. Several lives were lost in this collision. The sailor brother of the emperor of Germany has hitherto escaped maritime disaster from the relatively small amount of sea service he has done. But his misfortunes on land have been uncommonly numerous, especially when he has been out shooting. Not only did he severely injure a Greek gentleman by the accidental discharge of his gun at Corfu some years ago, but there is also a gamekeeper of his uncle, the grand duke of Baden, who is in receipt of a handsome pension from the prince for the serious wound resulting from his carelessness in handling a gun. Archduke John of Austria, who passed the examination necessary to secure his papers as a licensed skipper, disappeared from sight a few years ago while rounding Cape Horn in his ship, and no one knows to this day whether he is alive or dead. Indeed, the only royal sailor princes who have escaped mishap are the duke of York and the Italian duke of Genoa.

"Three Cheers and a Tiger."

As to the origin of the use of the word "tiger" in the phrase "Three cheers and a tiger!" the following story is told: In 1822 the Boston Light Infantry visited Salem, Mass., and encamped in Washington square. They indulged in a great many rough and tumble sports, and one day a visitor exclaimed to one of them: "Oh, you tiger!" The phrase became a sort of playful reproach, and on the way to Boston some musical member of the company sang a line: "Oh, you tigers, don't you know?" Thus they acquired the name, and they soon began to imitate the growl of that beast. Then at the end of three cheers, a "tiger" was always called for. This company visited New York in 1826, and at a public festival they astonished the New Yorkers by giving the growl, which tickled the fancy of the hosts so much that the custom became fixed.

Churches and Smokestacks.

Many statistics show that of 10,000 smokestacks only 3 are struck by lightning during the year, while of 10,000 church spires, 67, and of 10,000 windmills, 89 are struck by lightning annually. It has been endeavored to explain this condition by the fact that the smoke discharged from the smokestacks takes the electricity assembled around the building along and distributes it in the air, whereby the source of lightning is not only diminished, but almost disappears. This also explains why people in the country kindle a large fire in the fireplace when a thunderstorm is approaching.

Quite Proper.

Mrs. Brown-Jones—There is some talk of restoring the Venus de Milo. Do you think it would be advisable? Mr. Greenstuff—Um—yes—oh, yes! I think whoever has it ought to give it back to whoever it belongs to.

Interesting Store News.

Visitors and homefolks tell us that no other store shows such a collection of desirable New Goods. That even metropolitan stores do not sell them so cheaply. Our Cash Buying and Cash Selling gives us an immense advantage, which inures to your benefit.

Do you know about our New Cyclone Summer Corset? It is the best and easiest fitting Summer Corset in the world. But don't take our say so for it. Try a pair, and our money back if you want. Price only 50c. Our La Mode Corset at 38c is a world beater.

Ladies' Tailor-made Suits and Skirts.

We enumerate a few items to get you to come. Ladies' Black wool and Novelty Skirts, lined throughout, bound with velvet, $1.29 to $4. Tailor-made wool suits, up-to-date, $5 to $12. Two-piece Lawn Suits stylishly made, well fitting, beautifully trimmed, $2 to $3.50.

Summer Underwear

Ladies' Vests, Children's Vests, cool gauzy and comfortable. Vests with sleeves, vests without sleeves, vests with wings, in fact any style you want Prices are 5c each up. and are cheap.

Shirt Waists

Neat, Chic, Dainty Designs, made to fit, made to wear, made for comfort, will wash and be the better for it. More than fifty styles to select from. Our 50c Waist is the Best.

Wash Dress Goods.

Seasonable Goods seductively priced. 28-inch Striped and Figured Lawns and Dimities, worth 12 1-2c ard; our price 8c. 30-inch Organdies, fine sheer fabrics. many stores sell at 15c; our price 10c.....

Our Stock of

Laces, Ribbons, Mitts, Belts, Fans, Shirt Waist Sets, Embroideries and Handkerchiefs is the largest in DeKalb County.

The Bishop & Lackey Co.

LEADING MERCHANTS.

HAS NO FEAR OF SNAKES.

Maryland Man Who Allows the Most Poisonous Reptiles to Bite Him.

The only man in the world who does not fear a snake bite, and upon whom the venom of serpents apparently has no effect, is William F. Witmer, whose home is in Wolfsville, Md., says the New York Herald. His performances with copperheads, rattlers and vipers are a constant source of wonder and amazement to all who know him, and even to his lifelong friends there is a large element of mystery about the man and his strange power over snakes. He takes great pride in this respect, and when among strangers it is a favorite form of amusement with him to hunt up some ugly looking speciment of the serpent family—the more deadly the better it fits his purpose—and to let the reptile sink its venomous fangs in his bare arm or hand. Recently, while on a visit in the mountains of western Pennsylvania, a half-dozen spotted vipers were found in a bunch under a stone. Rolling up the sleeve of his coat until his arm was bare to the elbow, Witmer proceeded with his other hand to take the largest and ugliest-looking viper by the tail and, shaking him apart from the rest of the snakes, swung him about until he was thoroughly enraged. He then allowed the viper to sink its teeth in his arm. Then one by one the other vipers were picked up and allowed to seize the arm, until there was a full half-dozen of the spotted writhing things hanging from Witmer's flesh and writhing themselves about the arm in a very frenzy of rage. When the spectators were sufficiently horrified the man took off the snakes one by one by the tail and, shaking them loose from his arm, killed them by snapping them like the lash of a whip. For the rest of the day no one would have been surprised to see the man drop dead any moment, but, on the contrary, he seemed among the liveliest of the party. There was no swelling of the arm nor any numbness of the flesh, the only trace of the exhibition being a number of tiny red spots on the arm, which looked as if a needle had punctured the flesh. Those were the marks of the snakes' fangs. Witmer himself says of the strange peculiarities which he possesses that it is something inherited from his ancestors, one in each generation back as far as he knows having had this same immunity from the poison of venomous reptiles. "I do not try to explain it," said he; "all I know is that I have no fear of snake bites; and although I have been bitten hundreds of times I never felt the slightest ill effects from any of them. It is only a pastime for me to hunt and catch the most deadly serpents, and a peculiar feature of it is that once a snake has bitten me I have no difficulty in taming it. In fact, at home I have a number of pet rattlers and copperheads, which know me and will come when I call them, just like a dog. I seem to have the same power over animals, and have yet to meet the first wild animal I cannot tame."

Photographs Have the children's pictures taken every birthday. It is a pretty custom, and if the pictures are well made you will always be glad to have them. We make a specialty of children's photographs.

O. E. LYBARGER,
North Main Street.

—Joe Robbins went back to Fort Wayne yesterday afternoon. He is engaged as coachman for Ex-Senator W. J. Hayden.

Another Low-Rate Excursion to Atlantic City, N. J., and Ocean City, Md.

Via the Baltimore & Ohio, R. R.

In order to give its patrons an opportunity to visit the Seashore at a nominal cost, the Baltimore & Ohio R. R. will run another low-rate excursion to Atlantic City, N. J., and Ocean City, Md., on Thursday, August 5.

Atlantic City has acquired such fame as a summer resort that a description of its varied attractions would be superfluous. Thousands are annually attracted to this delightful resort for the enjoyment of magnificent surf bathing, and to avail themselves of the unequaled opportunities for sailing, fishing, etc.

A promenade along the famous "board walk" (an elevated platform skirting the shore for several miles) will alone repay the tourist for the trip.

Ocean City, Md., is one of the most delightful places on the Atlantic Seaboard. The bathing is fine and exceptionally safe, the coast being entirely free from currents and dangerous undertow. The boating, fishing and crabbing afforded by the waters of the Sinepuxent Bay are additional attractions.

The air is wonderfully pure and dry, dampness during the summer season being unknown. Anyone who has once visited this charming resort is sure to carry away such pleasant memories as will insure his return.

This is the last excursion that will be run to these resorts this season, and persons who are contemplating a trip to the Seashore during their vacation should not fail to embrace this opportudity to visit the most charming of the many resorts on the Atlantic Coast.

Tickets will be available on all regular trains, and will be good for return twelve days, including date of sale, thus giving ample time for an enjoyable outing. Stop-off will be allowed at Philadelphia, Pa., on the east-bound trip, and at Washington, D. C., on the west-bound trip, within limit of ticket. Passengers desiring to avail themselves of stopover privileges at these points should deposit their tickets with depot ticket agents immediately upon arrival.

Detailed information in relation to rates, time of trains, etc., will be given upon application to nearest B. & O. ticket agent, or B. N. Austin, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Chicago.

Thursday's Daily.

—Hon. W. F. McNagny was here yesterday helping in the Nusbaum-Sparling case.

—Have your razors, knivers, shears or saws put in first-class working shape for a trifle. R. McDOUGALL

—Dr. E. J. McOscar of Fort Wayne a former Smithfield boy is visiting his brother Will. at Salem, Oregon.

—Don't nauseate your stomach with teas and bitter herbs, but regulate your liver and sick headache by using those famous little pills known as DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Davenport the Druggist.

—Burning, itching skin diseases instantly relieved by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, unequaled for cuts, burns, bruises. It heals without leaving a scar. Davenport the druggist.

—Dr. Baxter is paying special attention to Diseases of Children also Diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Nervous system. tf

—Vim, vigor and victory:—these are the characteristics of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, biliousness and all stomach and liver troubles. Davenport the drug gist.

Jean Ingelow, the well known English poet, died Monday at the age of 77. She was the author of "Songs of Seven" and many other sweet poems.

—"They don't make much fuss about it." We are speaking of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, biliousness, and all stomach and liver troubles. They never gripe. Davenport the druggist.

The special election for a congressman in the Fourth District, to fill the the place left vacant by the death of W. S. Holman takes place August 10. The democrats claim a good majority.

—It heals everything except a broken heart, may be said of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Piles and rectal diseases, cuts, burns, bruises, tetter, eczema and all skin tronbles may be cured by it quickly and permanently. Davenport the druggist.

—Auburn is to be congratulated on her bands and the excellent concerts which they give on Tuesday and Saturday evenings. On these occasions large assemblages of people gather to hear their music.

—John Griffin, of Zanesville, O, says: "I never lived a day for thirty years without suffering agony, until a box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured my piles." For piles and rectal troubles, cuts, bruises, sprains, eczema and all skin troubles DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is unequaled. Davenport the Druggist.

—Bucklen's Arnica Salve.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay repuired. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For ale by Robbins & McCord. tf

—"I crave but one minute," said the public speaker in a husky voice; and then he took a dose of One Minute Cough Cure, and proceedrd with his oratory. One Minute Cough Cure is unequaled for throat and lung troubles. Davenport the Druggist.

—Allen Wolf has gone up into southwest Minnesota, where he is to help run a threshing machine at good wages The abundant wheat harvest in that section calls for many outside men to help them.

—There is a little time for everything; and the time to attend to a cold is when it starts. Don't wait till you have consumption but prevent it by using One Minute Cough Cure, the great remedy for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles. Davenport the druggists.

—W. B. Campbell of the Andersun Herald had a very flattering compliment paid his paper in the Sunday evening sermon of Elder M, W. Harkins of the Christian church:

"He recalled the stand the Herald had taken in behalf of principle and morality and how it had always appeared as a clean, newsy and helpful chronicle and advocate, fit to go into any home and to be read at any fireside. In contrast to it he briefly referred to the afternoon papers as not only devoid of principle and without stamina, but as unwholesome, as appealing to the worst in human nature and not even offering a crumb of comfort to the best. He believed, however, that the Herald had often lost money by standing by what it thought was right and he earnestly urged that law-abiding and moral as well as religious people should be found in line working for it and supporting it as well as working with it. He repeated that it was in no spirit of malice that he spoke of the afternoon papers, and he deeply regretted that they did not measure up to their responsibilities.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair
DR.
PRICE'S CREAM
BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE.
A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.
40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Thursday's Daily.

—Wilson's Ladies' $2 shoes wear.

—M. B. Willis went down to Columbia City this morning on a business trip.

—Henry Wyatt and wife, of Fort Wayne, are in the city visiting their many friends.

—Ralph Moody has moved to Columbia City where he has a job in a furniture factory.

—Irven Hoffman and Ira Thrush drove to Waterloo this morning on a business trip.

—Dr. Frank Bristol will lecture at the Teachers' Institute on Tuesday evening August.

—A son of Prof. Latta, of Purdue, has been visiting at Cal Husselman's for about three weeks. He returned today to his home.

—Wm Leins, of Corunna, was in the city today on his way to Bellplain, Kan. His wife is out there and is quite sick and he went after her.

—Miss Myrtle Snyder, of Antwerp, O., who has been visiting friends here and at LaOtto was called home today by the illness of her mother.

—Mrs. Trover and daughter Maude, went to Monroeville today, where Mrs Trover has a married daughter with whom they will visit a week.

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs and timber. Highest cash prices paid for same. Address, Lesh, Sanders & Egbert Co., Goshen, Ind. 40

—Probably the largest hydrangea in town, is that at Ed Bishop's in the west side. It is a beauty, very large and with such a profusion of flowers.

—Miss Mary Teeters and her Sunday School class had a nice picnic at the north of town yesterday afternoon. About twenty took part and say they never enjoyed a picnic better.

—Mrs. Mary Barnes returned yesterday from an extended visit with friends in Toledo. Saturday her niece Miss Cleveland will arrive here. She will be accompanied by the Misses Lamson who are friends. They stay here over Sunday, and then all four go to Winona to stay few weeks.

—MARRIED: July 18, at the residence of the bride, in the presence of a few immediate relatives. George C. Haskins, of Butler, to Mrs. L. France, of Kendallville. Light refreshment were served and very enjoyable, and social time was had by all. The guests departed at a late hour. No cards.

—Ft. Wayne Sentinel—There is one man in this city who never admit to a young lady again that he knows how to play checkers. She asked him not long ago if he understood the game and he diligently answered yes. She then pleasantly inquired if he didn't "think it was time to move?" He "moved."

—Art Hiatt of the Marion Chronicle called briefly today. He has been taking his regular summer outing at Jones' popular resort on Lake Wawasee and came home this way to visit the family of P. L. Bishop, who are old friends. He spent a portion of the day taking snap shots at some of Auburn's fine residences.

—The Tri-State Normal College will open the fall term August 24. Board, furnished room and tuition, not over $24.65. You can review, or take course studies. Satisfaction guaranteed. Tuition refunded, if you are not satisfied. Address

L. M. SNIFF, A. M. Pres.
Angola, Ind.

—Mrs. Rebecca Dickinson came home yesterday noon after a visit of several weeks with her relatives in Shelby county, Ohio. Her brother Abram Walborn at St Paris is very low, and may not live long. Her sister is about as usual. Crops are fair out there except fruit which will be scarce. After a long dry spell, a heavy rain had flooded the country.

—E. R. Shoemaker cammissioner-elect, was here today, and took occasion to pay the COURIER way ahead as he always does. He spent some time in the surveyor's office, which is also the commissioners' room. It may be he wanted to get the hang of it and be ready for the December term. Mr. Shoemaker no doubt is aware that the coming office is more productive of fault-finding than of cash. But he don't need the cash and we don't believe he will be kept awake nights by the fault-finding. It is the general belief that he will be a good officer, a belief heartily shared by the COURIER.

—The Dispatch has just discovered another wave of "prosperity," all owing to the higher rates of taxation in the new tariff law. All you have to do to make a country rich and happy is to raise its taxes a notch or two higher. That is the substance of the argument.

—Before you try anything else for the blood take Simmons Liver Regulator. It is the best blood medicine because it is the best liver remedy. If your liver is active and at work the blood will be the best. Simmons Liver Regulator is the best Spring medicine. "I tell my friends if they want to enjoy health and happiness they ought to take Simmons Liver Regulator."—Mrs. R. W. Smith, McIntosh Bluff, Ala.

—Miss Alice Draggoo, of Concord, is lying at her home there dangerousy sick of a sort of dropsy. caused by the accumulation of fluid about the heart. Dr. Nusbaum was called down there yesterday by her physician Dr. Bowman, for consultation. Both agree her condition is extremely critical.

—Surveyor Krontz says there is a great deal of ditch work to be done this season, mostly recleaning the ditches already made. There will be more work to do than will get finished.

Friday's Daily.

—Children's colored shoes at cost at Wilson's.

—Colored shoes and slippers are going cheap at Wilson's.

—Mrs. Sawvel's brother, Theodore Phillips of Kokomo, is here on a visit.

—Ladies' colored shoes and slippers must be sold, at Wilson's.

Elsie McCrory, of Angola, is here, visiting the family of her grandfather, C. C. Shaffer.

—For $1.50 you can pick any of those $2 to $2.25 and $2.50 Oxfords at Wilson's.

—Chas Eckhart has gone to Coldwater for spend a couple weeks with his daughter Mrs. Geo. Shugers.

—FOR SALE:—The glass front of my store building. Call on E. Eldridge Auburn, Ind.

—Gordon accuses some Auburn newspaper man of attending a prayer meeting. It must be Weamer, as both the COURIER fellows are prepared to prove an alibi.

Do you understand the Swedish pigieon English? If so, read the letter from a Wisconsin Correspondent. The country up there is full of Swedes and they have a peculiar way of talking English.

—Rev. W. L. Meese has moved to the commodious rooms in the second story of J. C. Lochner's residenee on North Main street. Persons desiring to communicate with him may call there in person, or call up Western telephone No. 57.

—The Winona Assembly, and the Island Park Assembly are both said to be well patronized this season. Both are in full session now, and we have no doubt but before the time closes, many of our people will attend one or the other, at least a few days.

—The President of the Interstate Life Insurance Co., was here yesterday and in the one day he wrote up new policies to the amount of $70,000. The list includes many of our best known business men. It is this company of which Dr. Nusbaum is a member.

—We place before our readers today, at letter Seattle, Wash., written by Adam Shull whose home is in that city, to his brother Richard Shull of this place. He is in the center of the gold excitement for it is from Seattle, that everybody starts, who is going to the new El Dorado. Mr. Shull will be remembered by nearly everyone in the county his home having been so long in Waterloo.

Saturday's Daily.

—Alice Draggoo, of Concord is dead. Funeral at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

—Geo. Trout returned today from an outing at Crooked Lake.

—Supt. Coe, went over to Butler today on a business trip.

—Ladies $2 to $2.50 slippers are going for $1.50 at Wilson's.

—Geo. Reed came down yesterday from South Haven, Mich.

—A. J. Harris left at noon for Angola where he will visit.

—Mrs. Jacob Walborn and Mrs. L. Bowers went to Angola at noon today.

—Mrs. Wallace Webster of Minneapolis, Minn., is in the city visiting her sister Mrs. J. E. Rose.

—Miss Miller of Fort Wayne has been visiting in the family of D. Z. Hoffman a few days.

—Mrs. P. L. Bishop and daughter, left this morning for a visit with friends over Sunday at Peru.

—Mrs. G. W. Askew and children are making their summer visit with her mother at Beulah, Mich.

—A new sign has been put up at the Hoffman studio. Its a neat piece of work, and does credit to the artist.

—Walter Hartman, R. Shull and Mr Hallauer have returned from Crooked Lake. They caught quite a number of fish.

—Albion has a man named William Thorogood. Auburn has several Williams, but we fear they are not all so thoroughly good as their Albion namesake.

—Mrs. Blanche Hoffman has returned to her home at Lafayette, after a pleasant visit in the home of D. Z. Hoffman.

—Lodie Potter accompanied his cousin, Miss Myrtle Snyder to Antwerp yesterday. He will remain there for some time.

—Mrs. Nicholas Ensley reached here last night from Indianapolis, and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs I. M. Zent. Mr. Ensley will also arrive tonight.

—Miss Roxie Hosler, sister of Miss Libbie, a typo on the DAILY, came up from Fort Wayne today for visit in the family of her sister Mrs. Wm. Buss.

—If one reads the Dispatch over carefully between the lines he will be led to conclude that Comrade Gordon has it in for Comrade Weamer and Comrade Miner.

—St. Joe News: Chris Curie lost his gold watch Tuesday while cutting oats with a binder. Although a diligent search had been made, the watch had not been found at last reports.

Thomas Taggart was yeseerday renominated for Mayor of Indianapolis. He got 606 votes in the convention, while his three opponents got a total of 42. He is pretty sure of re-election.

—Alva Brandon, who was hurt yesterday, rested well last night. He was pinned fast between the separator and hot boiler about fifteen minutes. One hand is burned nearly to the bone. It required four horses to pull the separator back from the engine so as Mr. Brandon could be taken out. He was uncouscious for about thirty minutes. Dr. Stamet was first to arrive and Dr. Hines came later.

Monday's Daily.

—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fulks were in town on business Saturday forenoon.

—Mrs. C. C. Shaffer is some better and the family feel somewhat encouraged.

—Will Wolf and wife and Joe Pfefferel's family drove to Robinson park Sunday.

—H. M. Henning and Geo. Clark with their wives spent Sunday at Robinson park.

—Chas Kinsey and family were at South Milford, Sunday the guests Mrs. K's parents.

—Harry Draggoo came down from Angola this morning, where he had been over Sunday.

—Mrs. Alva Potter and daughter came home from Waterloo today. They had been there over Sunday.

—Miss Wilson, at James Griswold's, has a cousin visiting her. She goes this week to visit friends in Butler.

—Ed. Bishop and family and Geo. Bishop and family go to Hamilton Lake Wednesday for an outing of several days.

—Geo. Lanning, J. G. Clapp and C M. Brown, with their families go to Hamilton Wednesday where they have a cottage rented.

—Al. Robbins came home Sunday from his recent trip in the mountains of the far west. The trip seems to have done him good.

—Miss Lou Daniels, of Fairmount, Minn., who has been visiting relatives in Waterloo for a time, reached Auburn this afternoon, and is a guest in the COURIER family.

—Joe Robbins reached home Saturday, being barely able to come. He has been close death's door with a bad attack of typhoid fever. Even now he has to walk with the aid of crutches.

—Nicholas Ensley joined his wife and daughter Amber, here Saturday, and is around shaking hands with the old neighbors. He will stay about a week. We believe Mrs. Ensley will stay longer.

—J. W. Jackman of Grant was here Saturday. He thinks the total wheat yield of the county, compard with the amount sown, will not exceed half a crop. But the quality will be much better than last year.

—J. E. Dermott, of St. Joe, was in town Saturday on a business trip. He is the guardian for Uncle John Humbarger, whose matters have been so much in litigation. The old man is some over 90.

—Brandon & Long commenced work on the Glazier hotel this morning. All the plate glass in the front will be taken out and cut off. Transoms will be put in at the top. The building will be remodeled in many ways.

—A. J. Shutt was in town Saturday. He is still employed nearly the entire year selling his remedies which have now become household necessities all over this section of the state. People know that some handy medicine often saves a severe sickness.

—Here's one that's going the rounds of the state papers: "Mary had a little lamb; that time has passed away. No lamb could follow up the pace our Mary sets today. For now she rides the air shod wheel, in skirts too short by half, no lambkin shares her airy flight, but you can see her calf.

—Chicory is now extensely raised in this country, especially in Nebraska, where it forms a staple crop in some sections. Its chief use is as a substitute for coffee, or to mix with coffee. When properly prepared it adds to the pleasant flavor of the coffee in the opinion of many. It is mixed at about one fourth chicory.

—There is trouble in Jay county over the office of county superintendent of schools. Suit has been brought to have the present incumbent put out, it being claimed that his election is illegal, though it is not stated on what grounds this claim is based. His name is Crowe, and the Jays of Jay county evidently think he crowed too soon.

—The Dispatch has announced the arrival of another era of prosperity. It must look through rosy glasses. If we except the great railway strike of '94, there has perhaps never been a time when so many men were on a strike as now. Coal miners who were working at 90 cents a day, with only three days work a week, had to do something.

—Mrs. Wm McIntyre was seriously hurt Saturday evening. She had gone to the barn to do some chores, when by accident she struck her hand against a sharp iron hook, tearing the flesh badly a few inches above the wrist. Dr. Casebeer happened to be there, and Dr. Stamets was called, and the wound dressed. Her arm is badly swollen and quite painful.

—Charley McClellan and wife and son startad this morning over the Wabash for Detroit. They will visit there till Wednesday when they will be joined in that city by Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lochner. From Detroit the party will sail by Detroit and Cleveland boat for Cleveland, stopping in that city Wednesday night. Thursday the trip will be continued on the Cleveland & Buffalo, steamer for Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Toronto.

—James Gilliland, as we all know, has been unfortunate. A few years ago, he had to have a leg amputated, and since that time has hobbled about on crutches, when he could get out at all. Of course he can do nothing to sustain himself, in such a condition. Now a number of our big hearted people are interesting themselves and friends in a plan to get an artificial leg for him so he will be in better shape to help himself and to enjoy life. We hope this friendly and sensible plan will succeed.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

PURELY VEGETABLE.

The cheapest, purest and best family medicine in the world! An effectual specific for all diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Spleen. Regulate the Liver and prevent Chills and Fever, Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice and Nausea.

BAD BREATH!

Nothing is so unpleasant, nothing so common, as a bad breath; and in nearly every case it comes from the stomach, and can be so easily corrected if you will take Simmons Liver Regulator. Do not neglect so sure a remedy for this repulsive disorder. It will also improve your appetite, complexion and general health.

CONSTIPATION

should not be regarded as a trifling ailment—in fact, nature demands the utmost regularity of the bowels, and any deviation from this demand paves the way often to serious danger. It is quite as necessary to remove impure accumulations from the bowels as it is to eat or sleep, and no health can be expected where a costive habit of body prevails.

SICK HEADACHE!

This distressing affliction occurs most frequently. The disturbance of the stomach, arising from the imperfectly digested contents, causes a severe pain in the head, accompanied with disagreeable nausea, and this constitutes what is popularly known as Sick Headache, for the relief of which take Simmons Liver Regulator.

EVERY PACKAGE

Has the Z Stamp in red on the wrapper.

J. H. ZEILIN & CO., Philadelphia.

SAD PLEASURES.

(Chicago Record.)

All picnics disappointment yield.
It matters not how far we seek;
The band plays in the other field,
The shade is just across the creek.

Tuesday's Daily.

—Read the notices of the Auburn Street Carnival in this issue.

—Read B. C. & B's. great granite ware sale ad.

—Ladies' and children's Oxblood and low shoes at cost at Wilson's.

—Miss Blanche Maurer in Stamets town is quite sick, and has been for some time.

—An insane woman from Garrett was brought over here yesterday and locked up.

—Mrs. Dr. S. B. Johnston was taken quite sick Saterday evening, but today is better.

—Geo. Weeks of the Edon Independent came in this morning on the Wabash.

—Mrs. Blanche Felsky, of Montpelier Ohio, is here visiting her father Clerk Long and family.

—The three days of the Street Carnival will be full of first-class amusements. No doubt the business men will enjoy a good trade as the length of the time will give people an opportunity to make purchases.

—Al Weyer is in town today on some business matters. He reports the family all well at their present home in Chicago.

—Lots and dwellings in Auburn to trade for stock of goods or other property. WALTER C. HARTMAN,
Auburn.

—Mrs. R. H. Murch and son Clarence, of Franklin Center, were guests of the COURIER family today. She was here on some matters at the court house. We are always glad to meet them.

—G. I. Patterson and five daughters go to Niagara on the excursion tomorrow evening, with the excursionists Like a sensible father he serves all the girls, alike, and the COURIER hopes all will have a delightful trip.

—Congress will probably adjourn the special session tonight soon after the Senate votes on the tariff bill that came up at 3 o'clock. The regular session will begin the first Monday in December.

—Steamers running excursions from Chicago to Windsor Park and points about South Chicago are having a rate war. They are carrying passengers for 1 cent the round trip. The distance is about nine miles and the regular fare is 25 cents.

—Angola Magnet:—W. H. Ernst, the expert who is auditing the books of the county officers, is working from ten to fifteen hours a day, but is only nicely started, as in a few years there is a wonderful mass of figures made in do the county business.

—J. F. Aber the Supt. of Woodlawn cemetery is building a bridge across the creek. The bridge will be on land owned by the cemetery and will be to the east of the other bridges. People going to the cemetery will have to go down the railroad to opposite Fred Funk's and then down the fields to the cemetery, thus reaching the cemetery by crossing only one bridge, while before people had to cross three. Mr. Aber expects to have the new bridge finished by the first of next week.

An entirely new system of mileage books goes into effect on the railroads. A new interchangeable book has been issued under an agreement of thirty-eight roads in the Central Passenger association. The books will be good for 1,000 miles and will be accepted on any of the thirty-eight roads represented in the association. The purchaser will have to pay $30 for the book, $10 of which goes to the Passenger association as a deposit of the good faith of the purchaser, who when he has used up the ticket, can present the cover at any ticket office, and he will be refunded $10. This arrangement, now used by the number of western roads, is a scheme of the railroad companies to keep the mileage books out of the hands of the scalpers. The regular mileage book will hereafter be good until December 31st, instead of being made good for a year from date of issue.

Topics of the Times

A horse always gets up foreparts first, and a cow directly the opposite.

Five hundred horseless cabs will be placed on the streets of Paris.

It takes 72,000 tons of paper to make the post cards used in England each year.

There is about twice as much beef as mutton consumed in Scotland and England.

Sydney, Australia, can now boast the largest town hall and the largest organ in the world.

The original manuscript of Sir Walter Scott's "Lady of the Lake" was sold recently in London for $5,450.

A smart woman of Boston had her sanity examined into and vouched for the other day before she made her will.

At the dance of the Brooklyn Country Club, at Bridgeport, Conn., the other evening, the men danced in their golf suits.

It is estimated that the lumber out of the Miramichi and tributaries, Canada, will this season amount to 112,000,000 feet.

Gray horses are usually the longest lived. Creams are decidedly delicate, and are seriously affected by very warm weather.

Salmon last year yielded in Canada $3,700,000; cod, $3,600,000. Next in value come herrings—$2,786,000, and then lobsters, $2,210,000.

Out of the enormous number of women in Constantinople—the population is nearly a million—not more than 5,000 can read or write.

The Coliseum at Rome was built by Vespasian to accommodate 100,000 spectators. It covers five and one-half acres, and was 120 feet high.

One woman residing in a Maine village has been so much annoyed by loafers leaning against her fence that she now keeps it freshly painted.

A turtle dove at Tiffin, Ohio, that survived separation from her mate for twenty-nine years, has set a beautiful example of constancy to other widows.

A Calais, Maine, correspondent, in writing of a recent slugging match pulled off in that city, says the ring was pitched in a "secluded spot, near the center of the city."

A real sea lion is loose in the Merrimac River, between Lowell and Lawrence. It belonged to the menagerie at Glen Forest, and made its escape.

In making up their profit and loss account it is said the Parisian warehouses have to allow for thefts, and that this item is the most important one with some of the larger houses.

An Anglo-German association has been formed by Germans in London for the promotion of good feeling between their mother country and England. It has already proved quite popular.

A report from the office of the registrar-general of England contains the intelligence that 225 women reach the age of 100 years, while only 85 men out of a million count the milestone of a century.

It is said that the German emperor is not at all in favor of bazaars as a means of raising money for charitable purposes, and since the disaster in Paris he has been more than usually bitter in his denunciation of them.

A Belgian gourmand of Mons has bequeathed $3,000 to five friends for an annual dinner, which they must attend, dressed in mourning, entering the room with a flag to the music of an accordion, the bill of fare to contain his favorite dishes and wines.

Under a Wisner, Mo., drug store four small skunks have established themselves, and they are said to be as gentle as kittens. Frequenters of the store are content to admire without being tempted to the familiarity which house cats are apt to engender.

Some medical men of Turin, Italy, have formed a syndicate for the purpose of publishing a paper, to be called La Morte Apparente, which will treat of cases of apparent death and of burying alive, and will discuss the best means of avoiding such mistakes in future.

The earliest thimbles were made of leather, but in the seventeenth century they were of gold and silver, principally gold, and enriched with rubies and other gems. Blois, which had a great renown for its gold and silver smiths' work, saw the making of most of them.

Stephen Mayberry, of Windham, Maine, has built a protection for eave swallows under the roof shingles of his barn. The result is there are 130 nests there. It is estimated that these swallows catch daily 6,000 grubs. Mr. Mayberry has no flies in his house as long as the swallows remain.

A tramp went into a sawmill at West Paris, Maine, awhile ago and lay down on a pile of sawdust to get a good night's rest. He was a good deal surprised and not a little alarmed when he awoke in the morning to discover a saw humming merrily away not more than two or three inches from his head.

A new repeating rifle has been distributed to one of the battalions of riflemen of the guard at Potsdam. Its mechanism is kept secret, but the cartridge cases are so ejected automatically that firing can be continued without disturbing the aim. The stock of the new rifle is as long as the barrel.

At a meeting of the Royal Humane Society in London, the medal was awarded to a little girl of 12 for saving life from drowning. At the meeting before medals were given to three women, two of whom were but 15 and 18, one of them swimming with all her clothes on and rescuing a girl from an overturned boat.

The military authorities of Vilna, in Russia, are about to present to the French Military Museum a valuable gift, consisting of a large artistically ornamented box containing various objects found during the recent excavations on the banks of the River Beresina, at the point where the army of Napoleon I. effected a passage in 1812.

In London, Paris, Berlin and Vienna a large number of Chinese have arrived recently for the purpose of studying medicine. They have been dispatched to Europe for the purpose by the express orders of the young emperor, who has come to the conclusion that Western medicine is superior to the popular Chinese remedies, consisting of wasps' nests, rats' tails, dogs' eyes and every kind of filth and abomination.

Last year was one of the most profitable for the fire insurance companies ever experienced by them, but this year promises even better results. The fire loss in the United States and Canada, according to the New York Journal of Commerce, has amounted to $57,940,450 during the first half year, against a loss of $63,959,550 in the same time last year, and over $66,000,000 in the first six months of 1895.

The first class graduated from Vassar College in 1867, and this year three of the four members, all of whom are living, celebrated their thirtieth anniversary. One of the four is a woman of society and a philanthropist, and brought her three sons to the anniversary; another had two daughters graduated this year. She was early left a widow, and for many years has been fitting boys and girls for college. A third is the principal of a high school in her own town, and the fourth, since losing her husband, has been a practicing physician.

WALES' POPULARITY.

He Mingles with the Public, Is Fond of Sports and Greatly Beloved.

"Nothing has ever seriously affected the Prince of Wales' popularity. It is personal to a very great degree," writes George W. Smalley in the Ladies' Home Journal. "As the Queen's son he has, of course, his own share of that loyalty which burns in all British hearts, but he has a great deal more than that. It is felt that he has done much, in very difficult circumstances, to earn the good will and even affection of the people whom he will some day address as 'my people.' He mingles with them, and is of them. Little things count for much. The crowds that gather about the gates of Marlborough House in Pall Mall in patient expectation of the exit or entrance of the Prince and Princess, are supposed to like a spectacle, and no doubt they do. They delight to behold them drive in or out in a gilded coach with an escort of the splendid Life Guards. But they like almost better to see the Prince drive away in a hansom cab.

"The Englishman loves sport and games, and to the great body of the people the Prince seems a more engaging personage because he frankly gives the rein to his tastes for outdoor and indoor diversions. They gather in crowds to see him start for Epsom on Derby Day. They cheer him on the Downs and on Newmarket Heath. They back his horse, not a few of them because it is his. They like to see his name high among the winners of the year, as it now is, after a long course of ill luck on the turf. They like to think of him as the country gentleman at Sandringham, busy with the management of his estate, receiving guests, taking the lead in shooting and other amusements. They like to see him on horseback in Hyde Park, where he rides often. They like to see him at theatres, where they always recognize and often cheer him. In short, they like to think of him as one of themselves."

Roman Relics in England.

Ever since 1890 excavations have been made southwest of Reading, Eng., in the parish of Silchester, and the remains of the old Roman settlement of Callera Attrebatum have been brought to light. There have been found the indications of public edifices, temples, forum, residences, shops, traces of trades, and other evidences of the former existence of a purely civil community. The latest excavations have shown that there were dyers' works, furnaces, shops and bleaching ground. There was also a very curious find of blade bones of sheep, from which numbers of ring counters had been cut, seemingly by a center bit, and this indication of a turner's trade may in some degree account for the presence in other places of accumulations of these bones. Another interesting discovery was a tub well, which had been successfully brought out. One curious thing shown was that this well had its water carried off by means of wooden logs, which were bored, and the sections of this piping were secured by iron collars.

Finds of glass, pottery, bones, metal articles and coins have been frequent. Roman wood relics, from the perishable character of the material, are of great rarity, but what was certainly a chair leg of hard wood has turned up. One thing very curious is a fragment of glass of many colors, and a fragment of Egyptian porphyry. There is a handsome whiteware bottle, with neck vased, showing that the Romans did not always use Samian ware.

The Shoemaker's Memory.

Shoemaker Shaw, of Dixon, is possessed of a phenomenal memory. It is at once phenomenally good and phenomenally bad. In the first place, when he measures a customer's foot for a pair of shoes he never puts down a figure of all the numerous measurements, but he has them for all time. It is never necessary for him to measure that foot again. Years afterward he will recall them on an order and make a perfect fit.

That is the only thing Mr. Shaw can remember. A short time ago he was standing at the depot in Dixon talking to a friend. The passenger train pulled out for San Francisco, and still he talked away. Suddenly he exclaimed:

"By George! I was going somewhere on that train. Where in the dickens was I going, anyway?"

He felt in his pockets and found a ticket to Suisun.

"Now, what was I going to Suisun for?"

Again Mr. Shaw searched his pockets, read all the letters he found, and finally came to a subpoena.

"That's it. I was subpoenaed as a witness."

He had to hire a team to get to Suisun in time.—San Francisco Post.

Galley Slaves Lost a Battle.

A naval battle between the Romans and Carthaginians off the coast of Spain in the first Punic war was lost by the latter because the galley slaves could not keep their seats when the ships rolled.

VISIT TO THE DEAD SEA

AN EXCURSION POPULAR IN THE HOLY LAND.

From Jerusalem to the Monastery of Mar Saba, Thence to the Fords of the Jordan—On the Plains of Jericho.

Journey to the Jordan.

A pleasure jaunt to the Dead Sea is a novelty in these days, when novelty has lost its edge. Yet, there is such a thing, and, during the season, travelers who desire to make the journey from Jerusalem to the neighborhood where Lot lost his wife may do so with as little discomfort as the climate, the bad roads and the horseback traveling will permit.

The tourist who wishes to "take in" the Dead Sea as one of the sights of Palestine will be roused at his hotel in the City of David before 5 o'clock in the morning, and will find his dragoman waiting at the door with as many of the small Syrian horses as may be needed for the party that proposes to make the journey. It is very seldom that a tourist goes alone, for traveling in the East is expensive, and an excursion of this kind would cost three or four travelers much less in proportion than it would cost one. Mounting at the hotel door, the party goes rattling along the narrow streets of Jerusalem.

THE SHORES OF THE DEAD SEA.

Two hours' ride from the hotel down through the gorge excavated by the Brook Kedron brings the party to the Turkish guardhouse on the road to the Jordan, where he is met by the unspeakable Turk in force, for all the garrison for the time being, whether on duty or not, come out to meet the travelers and bid them welcome. The cordiality is purely mercenary, however, for the Turkish and Kurdish troops have no more love for the Christian tourist than for the Armenian peasant, and, if it were their interest to do so, would, with neatness and dispatch, cut the throats of all the party, pillage their baggage and throw their bodies over the nearest precipice. But even Turks learn something by experience, and the Turks of the guardhouse on the road to the Jordan have learned that it is more profitable to protect than to plunder travelers, so they extend a hearty welcome to the tourists, invite them in and offer them cups of black coffee. Coffee, in all parts of the Ottoman Empire, is always on tap, and the traveler who accepts a cup from a gens-d'arme, by that act engages the man as his protector during the journey to the Dead Sea and return. No one ventures even so far as the Jordan without an armed escort, for the road from Jerusalem to Jericho is as badly infested with thieves now as when the good Samaritan went that way and picked up the luckless tourist who ventured to make the journey without an escort. Even now it sometimes happens that overconfident travelers come to grief, and a recent party met on their way a couple of English tourists who had fallen among thieves who carried out the Scripture program almost to the letter, stripping them of their raiment, save a shirt apiece, and departing, leaving them unwounded, it is true, but half dead under the responsibility of getting back to town with no more clothing than that left to them by the plunderers.

THE TOMB OF MOSES.

About half way between the Holy City and the Sea of the Dead the party stops for the night at the Monastery of Mar Saba. It is a gloomy looking place, half fortress, half monastery, but it has abundant accommodations for the hundreds of pilgrims who flock from Jerusalem to the Jordan and back again. There is no charge for food or lodging, but if anyone supposes that the monastery loses money by entertaining travelers, or that the Abbot lies awake nights worrying about where the support of the brethren is to come from, he is greatly mistaken, for the clever Greek monks, while claiming to run a free boarding house for tramp pilgrims, have managed to make the establishment not only a paying institution, but one of the wealthiest communities in the East. It is ostentatiously given out that entertainment is free for all who come, but before the tourist leaves the confines of the monastery he is made aware that any contribution he feels willing to make in aid of the poor brethren will be gratefully received. Of course, every tourist takes the hint, and even from the poorer classes of pilgrims, who go afoot and have little to spare, the shrewd monks contrive to get something.

From the towers of Mar Saba it is an easy ride to the tomb of Moses, which marks the end of the hill country of Judea and the beginning of the plains of Jericho. The tomb is a Mohammedan mosque on the site of a Christian monastery that dated from the days of the Crusades. It is not an imposing structure, low, flat and without architectural pretensions, but enjoys great repute in the world of Islam as a shrine of unusual sanctity. The fact that the real grave of Moses was unknown even to the Jews of his own day cuts no figure in this case, for, during the age of the Crusades, miracles were common, and when the desirability of a shrine became manifest it was an easy matter to make a miraculous discovery of the grave, the location of which was so revealed to a monk in a dream, the monastery established, and afterward appropriated by the Turks.

The plains of Jericho are the private property of the Sultan; are tilled for his benefit by the local peasantry, and are kept free from grasshoppers by a primitive and thoroughly oriental method. When the storks make their first appearance in the spring, the inhabitants know that the grasshoppers will not be long in coming, and the local supervisor sends word to the Pasha in Jerusalem that the 'hopper crop is nearly ready. As soon as the Pasha feels equal to the necessary exertion he sends word to the men of the villages nearest to the Jordan to hold themselves in readiness to protect the Sultan's crops. When the 'hoppers begin to move, all the population turns out in force, armed with sticks, brooms, poles, brush, bunches of cane and similar means of offensive warfare, and, forming a line, advances on the 'hopper infested district. Every grasshopper that can be found is killed, and after the carnage, which generally lasts only a day or two, the pest is subdued, and the people go back to their homes. The Jericho plains are singularly fertile, and under any other rule than that of the Turk would be one of the choice garden spots of Palestine. Now, little is grown there save wheat, which is produced in quantity and of quality unknown elsewhere in the Holy Land.

Midway through the flats runs the Jordan, and tradition has pointed out in the vicinity of Jericho and along its fertile plain many spots noted in sacred lore. At one pool in the river, according to the popular legends, Christ was baptized, and here the Russian pilgrims fill their bottles with water from the Jordan, to be taken home as a holy relic. At another is shown the tree which Zaccheus climbed to get above the heads of the crowd; at still another are a few scattered stones, stated to be those of the identical walls which fell at the blast of the Jewish trumpets. A cave in the side of a hill is stoutly affirmed to be the veritable hole in the ground into which Lot retreated after the destruction of the cities of the plain, while beneath the waters of the sea a few hewn stones, still in position, as a wall, are supposed to mark the location of one of the doomed cities.

The immediate neighborhood of the Sea of the Dead presents few attractions to the tourist, and does not invite a stay of more than a few hours. Not a bird in the air, not a fish in the sea, not a sign of life along its shores, but a glimmering above the waters from the constant evaporation, intense heat, reflected from the rocks and waters, and utter silence. The sea well deserves its name, and after a survey of the vicinity it is easy to understand why the dwellers in the plains of Jericho believe the region to rest under a perpetual curse, and that, after nightfall, it is infected by the uneasy ghosts of the wicked dwellers in Sodom and Gomorrah.

Men who go to the wall—Paperhangers.

A sluggish liver—The sloth.

MAD RUSH OF WATER.

CLOUDBURST DOES AWFUL DAMAGE IN OHIO.

Crab Creek, Near Youngstown, Becomes a Torrent and Rushes Upon the Residents of the City—Many May Have Perished.

Swept by a Flood.

Thursday night a terrific cloudburst struck Youngstown, O., flooding the entire valley and causing great damage to property, both in the city and along the railway lines. Many people are supposed to be drowned. The entire country east and west for twenty miles was flooded and the damage will be enormous, the railroads being the heaviest losers. The Erie Railroad west of Warren fourteen miles, and north of Sharon for the same distance, was entirely washed out, and orders were issued to discontinue all trains.

Many residences in Youngstown were flooded out and the occupants were taken away by the police and fire departments. The Mahoning Valley electric lines were flooded out and all the bridges washed away. The Catholic church at Niles was struck by lightning at the same hour and nearly destroyed by fire, while business houses and manufacturing concerns were flooded.

Henry Myers, a tailor, while standing at his residence on Mill street, was struck by lightning and killed instantly. Every railroad leading into the city reports extensive washouts and bridges swept away, and the officials say the loss will be the heaviest they have ever known.

About 10 o'clock the water came down the Crab creek valley into the city and formed into a flood, sweeping everything that was not fastened down before it. The bed of the creek was not more than twenty feet wide, and the flood spread out to a width of about 2,000 feet. It rose quickly, and in less than thirty minutes the water was up to the second story of all the dwelling houses in the flooded districts and was still rising. The whole district was covered with darkness except one small place where a lonely light shone.

Firemen, police and others were on hand quickly, but were powerless to rescue anybody, as not a boat of any kind was to be had in that portion of the city. The cries of the people in the houses were heartrending to those who stood at the water's edge and were forced to retreat slowly on account of the gradually rising water.

Many People Drowned.

It is almost a certainty that many people were drowned. One whole family was heard crying for help from an upstairs window, when suddenly there was a grinding noise, as if the house was being moved from its foundation, and soon the cries from that place ceased. The intense darkness made it impossible to see what was going on, but it is supposed that the house and its occupants went down in the flood.

People at the water's edge heard a man crying for help who was apparently being carried down in the flood. The voice grew fainter and it is supposed the unfortunate man perished. Pitiful cries for help were heard continually, but the crowd on the shore could do nothing in the way of giving aid.

Police and firemen went at once to another part of the city after boats. It was midnight before boats were gotten to the flooded Crab creek district, and the work of rescue could be started. The boats were manned by firemen, who went to work with a will, but could not make rapid progress on account of the swift and dangerous current. Nine families were taken out of second story windows within a half hour, and many people were picked up, clinging to debris.

CURRENT COMMENT

Our advice is—stay at home and save what little you have.—Kalamazoo Telegraph.

It's quite easy to get the gold fever, but unfortunately that doesn't lessen the hard work of getting the gold.—Binghamton News.

When Constantinople was captured by the Turks its walls were not battered down with "collective" notes.—New York Press.

Don't start for the Klondyke gold fields without about $500 and a year's supplies, omitting ice cream from the menu.—Fargo Argus.

Peary can very easily reimburse those who subscribe for his polar expedition by towing a few icebergs home.—Chicago Times-Herald.

It costs money to go to the Klondyke, but you can get all the advice you want about staying at home for nothing.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Turkey has anticipated the powers with an ultimatum. It now remains to be seen which ultimatum will be ultimate.—Baltimore American.

Unless a man has the capital to invest in an outfit and a large commissary he is taking more chances on death than fortune.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

If Russia had known that portions of Alaska were principally composed of gold she wouldn't have sold it to William H. Seward for $7,000,000.—Minneapolis Tribune.

The powers are treating the sultan with great mildness. They evidently believe that moral suasion is much more efficacious than brick-bats.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Uncle Sam has never made a mistake in annexations, and he is not likely to go wrong in the next one after having thought it over for sixty years.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

In view of the enormous amount of metal some of the pans in that Klondyke district are said to wash, it's very probable that lots of these stories won't wash.—Philadelphia Times.

And now the Hawaiian volcano of Kilauea is in a state of active eruption. Maybe the poor thing is trying to voice the native opinion of the annexation scheme.—St. Louis Republic.

With his abundant opportunities for associating with colossally intellectual war correspondents the Turk is so shockingly ignorant that he does not know the war is really over.—Kansas City Times.

No American's slumbers should be troubled because the London Globe says the Japanese will ravage the coast of California, or because the Saturday Review declares the Japanese are stronger than we are in the Pacific.—Boston Transcript.

Ex-President Cleveland will not go into innocuous desuetude if letter writing can keep him before the public.—Baltimore American.

Many of the young men who are going to Alaska to get a few bags of gold dust and a barrel or so of nuggets will be sending home for the price of a return ticket before they have sojourned very long in the Klondyke country.—Minneapolis Times.

BETTER THAN GOLD

ARE THE STEEL PENS shown below, as any our Customers.

OVER FIVE THOUSAND NATIONAL, STATE AND PRIVATE BANKS IN THE UNITED STATES are constantly being supplied with our pens, which fact alone guarantees their excellence.

THESE ARE THE STRONG POINTS:
DURABILITY,
QUALITY,
SMOOTHNESS,
UNIFORMITY.
Take No Substitute.

If your dealer cannot supply you, send to this office, enclosing price, and we will fill your order, and guarantee safe delivery.

Price, per gross (1 box) $ 1.00
" 1-2 doz. boxes, 5.40
" 1 doz. boxes, 10.00

PATENT APPLIED FOR.
Cut of inkstand shows our Popular No. 3, Automatic. Write us, enclosing stamps, and we will send you sample pens and tell you how to get the above stand without cost.

W. L. MASON & CO.,
(INCORPORATED)
MANUFACTURERS STATIONERS' SUPPLIES.
KEENE, N. H.

ESTABLISHED, 1848.
D. A. ALTICK'S SON,
Manufacturer of High Grade Buggies, Surries, Phaetons, &c.

We claim to build, not the CHEAPEST, but the BEST for the money.

All we ask is, a TRIAL ORDER.

Send for catalogue, and by mentioning this paper we will allow you an EXTRA DISCOUNT.

D. A. ALTICK'S SON,
LANCASTER, PENN.

HIGH GRADE WORK GIVES THE CONSUMER SATISFACTION,
Consequently is best for the Dealer to handle.

A Full Line of BUGGIES, SURREYS, PHAETONS, ROAD WAGONS, &c., &c.

Send for Catalogue and Prices.

All Work Guaranteed.

We also Manufacture DOVETAIL BODIES AND GEARS IN THE WHITE.

DOVETAIL COMPANY
CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND.

FACTORY, Cor. Oak & College Sts.
SALESROOM, 214 W. Main St.

Relay Bicycles

Have more points of merit, than any other High Grade Bicycle.

FULL OF GRACE AND BEAUTY.

Every Wheel Guaranteed. Send for Catalogue.

Relay M'f'g Co., Reading, Pa.

NATURE'S REMEDY

CURES IN THE RIGHT WAY, BY REGULATING THE LIVER AND KIDNEYS, AND PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

It is a positive cure for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, Chills, and all diseases arising from a diseased liver or the kidneys, or impure blood.

YOUR MONEY BACK Is the plan on which it is sold. If after taking the entire box of medicine you do not think you have had your money's worth, send us back the guarantee, which you will find in the box, and we will send you a check for $1.00 by return mail.

It is put up in two forms, powder and tablets. The tablets are the easier to take, requiring no mixing. Price $1.00 for 180 doses of either kind. Sent post paid upon receipt of price. Send 10 cents for ten days' treatment and copy of Nature's Guide to Health.

A. H. LEWIS MEDICINE CO., - Bolivar, Mo.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies. Especially recommended to married Ladies. Ask for DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler — Son.

$2.50 Cleveland ..TO.. BUFFALO

....Also Daily Line Between....

Cleveland and Toledo, Via "C. & B. LINE."

Steamers "City of Buffalo," (new) "State of Ohio" and "State of N. Y."

DAILY TIME TAB.
Sunday Included May 30 to Oct. 31

Lv Cleveland 7:00 p. m. | Lv Buffalo 7:30 p. m.
Ar Buffalo 7:30 a. m. | Ar Cleveland 7:30 a. m.

Central Standard Time.

Take the "C. & B. Line" steamers and enjoy a refreshing night's rest when enroute to Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, New York, Boston, Albany, 1000 Islands, or any Eastern or Canadian Point.

Cheap Excursions Weekly to Niagara Falls.

Send 4 cents for tourist pamphlet.
For further information ask your nearest Coupon Ticket Agent, or address,

W. F. HERMAN, Gen. Pass. Agt.
T. F. NEWMAN, Gen. Manager.
Cleveland, Ohio.

ROESSNER'S ONCE A WEEK SHINE
TRADE MARK
SHOE POLISH
FOR LADIES', GENTLEMENS AND CHILDRENS SHOES
HARNESS & PATENT LEATHER.
PRICE 25¢
READY FOR USE. REQUIRES NO RUBBING OR BRUSHING.
ROESSNER MFG. CO.
WINONA, MINN. U.S.A.

IT SHINES FOR ALL.

THE NEWEST AND BEST

OIL SHOE POLISH

In Colors.

BLACK, TAN, GREEN and OX BLOOD.

This is truly a "ONCE A WEEK" shoe polish, as it will hold a shine for a week, and rain or snow will not spoil it. A Liquid Polish, put up in large bottles, encased in neat cartons, and makes a good show in the package and on the shoe. The nicest thing on the market for LADIES' AND GENTLEMEN'S FINE SHOES AND PATENT LEATHER. Easily applied. Requires no rubbing. Will not freeze.

Ask your local dealer for it.

Roessner's "Once a Week" Shine Shoe Polish

Address ROESSNER MFG. CO., Winona, Minn.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS
Made This Change.

DO YOU suffer from Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emission, Shrunken or Undeveloped Organs, Youthful Errors, Excessive Use of Tobacco or Opium? Send by mail on receipt of price. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

WE GUARANTEE to cure you or refund money, and we stand by our guarantee.

Sold at $1 per Box, 6 Boxes for $5.

Sold By Fischler & Son

JOB PRINTING

LETTER HEADS, BILL HEADS, CARDS, ENVELOPES, CIRCULARS.

Scrofula

In its thousands of forms is the most terrible affliction of the human race. Salt rheum, sores, eruptions, boils, all humors, swellings, etc., originate in its foul taint, and are cured by the great and only True Blood Purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla. The advanced theory of to-day that tuberculosis, or consumption, is curable by proper nutrition, care and purifying the blood, finds confirmation in the experience of many who have been cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Hood's Pills cure sick headache. 25c.

Words for Use.

An English authority estimates that an illiterate day laborer in the rural districts of Great Britain will use only 300 to 500 words; that a farmer or mechanic able to read and write will employ about 3,000; that a skilled workman of more than average reading and information will use 5,000; that an orator will employ from 8,000 to 12,000. It is estimated that Shakspeare uses about 10,000 words. The scientific publications contain from 35,000 to 50,000. That people can transact all the business of life with very few words is shown by the fact that the latest dictionaries are estimated to contain 250,000 words, while in social life the number employed, even by the most highly educated people, rarely exceeds 10,000.

What Does This Mean?

A perusal of the history of railway transportation during the last four years shows us that this period has been the most disastrous, from a financial standpoint, of any other of the present decade. Under the circumstances it would almost seem as though the further development or improvement of railway facilities must cease. Yet, strange to say, many notable instances prove that the contrary is true. In numerous instances, first-class roads, despite the hard times, and general business depression, have made very decided advances, not only in the improvement of the material condition of the roadway itself, but likewise the equipment and service. And the public has been a great gainer by the public spiritedness of the roads.

One of the most notable cases of railway development is the Nickel Plate Road, which seems to have forged right ahead with its improvements and has exhibited an unrelenting determination to give the public the best possible facilities, in spite of the hard times. And how well this corporation has succeeded in its laudable efforts, the excellent condition of its system bears ample evidence. Yet the secret of this success is obvious: The people have responded very generously to a generous effort to give them the worth of their money. That is all. The people's money has enabled the road to better its facilities in every respect; thus the work has been of a mutual and reciprocal character. The liberal patronage accorded the road has brought a handsome return to the people in the shape of improved facilities for travel, yet at the same time at lower rates.

And now, it seems, the Nickel Plate Road is still engaged in further efforts to serve the people well. It has a high class roadway to begin with; a most excellent equipment to end with, and a safe, fast, and reliable service for the delectation of its patrons. All in all, it offers a most attractive menu to travelers bound east or west in the shape of "A Peerless Trio of Fast Express Trains."—George A. Benham, Special Correspondent.

Early Breakfasts.

The enthusiastic wheelman has an idea that a ride before breakfast is very beneficial. A short ride may be, but in nine cases out of ten it has just the opposite from the desired effect. According to experiments with the dynamometer, a man is precisely at his weakest when he turns out of bed. The muscular force is greatly increased by breakfast, but it attains its highest point after the midday meal. It then sinks for a few hours, and rises again toward evening. The chief foes of muscular force are overwork, and the other extreme, idleness. Many of the great workers of the world, if not all, have been early risers, but early risings ought always to be supplemented by early breakfasting.

High Salaries in Greater New York.

When the charter for Greater New York goes into effect the salaries of three of her municipal officers will be greater than is paid to any other public servant, with the exception of the President of the United States. The Mayor will receive $17,000 per annum. The corporation counsel will get $15,000.

KIDNEY TROUBLES

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,

Also Backache.

I cannot speak too highly of Mrs. Pinkham's Medicine, for it has done so much for me. I have been a great sufferer from Kidney trouble, pains in muscles, joints, back and shoulders; feet would swell. I also had womb troubles and leucorrhœa. After using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and Blood Purifier and Liver Pills, I felt like a new woman. My kidneys are now in perfect condition, and all my other troubles are cured.—MRS. MAGGIE POTTS, 324 Kauffman St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Backache.

My system was entirely run down, and I suffered with terrible backache in the small of my back and could hardly stand upright. I was more tired in the morning than on retiring at night. I had no appetite. Since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I have gained fifteen pounds, and [illegible] better than I ever looked before. I shall recommend it to all my friends as it certainly is a wonderful medicine.—MRS. E. F. MORTON, 1043 Hopkins St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Kidney Trouble.

Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I had suffered many years with kidney trouble. The pains in my back and shoulders were terrible. My menstruation became irregular, and I was troubled with leucorrhœa. I was growing very weak. I had been to many physicians but received no benefit. I began the use of Mrs. Pinkham's medicine, and the first bottle relieved the pain in my back and regulated the menses. It is the best kind of medicine that I have ever taken, for it relieved the pain so quickly and cured the disease.—MRS. LILLIAN CRITTER, Box 77, St. Andrews Bay, Fla.

HOME OF PRESIDENTS

OFFICIAL RESIDENCE OF OUR CHIEF EXECUTIVES.

Interesting Description of the Famous Building—The East, Blue, Green and Red Rooms—Mecca of Politicians Who Seek Office.

The White House.

Washington correspondence:

There is no house in all the land to which the eyes of the American people turn with more interest than to the one which for almost a century has been the home of their Presidents—the White House at Washington.

When L'Enfant laid out the plan of this beautiful city, it is evident that he had in mind the old Babylon of Scriptural magnificence. Jefferson, however, had procured abroad plans of foreign capitals—Paris, Marseilles, Milan, Versailles and others—and before submitting his own he consulted these, and from them he took the topography of Versailles, and then introduced the broad transverse avenues, the circles, open squares and triangular reservations which resulted in producing this city of "magnificent distances."

PRESIDENT'S PRIVATE OFFICE.

At the foot of one of these reservations the White House stands. There are twenty acres in what is known as the President's grounds, fronting on Pennsylvania avenue and directly facing the lovely Lafayette square and running south to the Potomac river. The house was designed by the famous Architect Hoban, and was constructed under the personal supervision of George Washington. He officiated at the Masonic ceremonies when the corner stone was laid, and he had the satisfaction of walking through it with Mrs. Washington after its completion, a few weeks previous to his death. This building was burned by the British in 1812, but rebuilt in 1815. With the exception of Washington, it has been the home of every President the United States has had. The structure is built of sandstone painted white, and is severely plain in its exterior. It is two stories high, with a basement, and is of the Grecian style of architecture. On the north, which is the front side, is an imposing port cochere, and a grand portico supported by Ionic columns, while on the south is a semi-circular colonnade.

THE EAST ROOM, WHITE HOUSE.

But if the exterior is plain, the interior is sufficiently magnificent to compensate for it. The heavy black walnut front doors, with their stained glass windows, open into a spacious corridor, the floor of which is of mosaics in different colored stone. In the rear, and separating it from the red corridor, is the famous Tiffany screen, which is one of the most beautiful pieces of work of its kind in the world, and which was designed and made by Louis Tiffany. An idea of its cost may be obtained from the fact that at one of Mrs. Cleveland's last receptions, in the crush of people, two of the small pieces of glass were broken out, and it cost $25 to have simply the two replaced. It is in this corridor that the Marine Band is stationed when playing for the President's dinners and receptions.

The East Room.

To the east of this corridor, and across the hall which leads upstairs, is the well-known East Room, so historic in its associations, so filled with the memory of the great men who have trodden its floor! It is finished in Grecian style, and the woodwork is decorated in white and gold. The ceiling is divided into three panels, and from the center of each hang massive crystal chandeliers. On the walls are the painting of Washington (which Dolly Madison had cut from the frame carried from the White House when the British were at its very gates in 1812), and those of Martha Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln. This room is a marvel of beauty when it is prepared for the official receptions. Then the window recesses are filled with tall palms, the mantles and mirror rests are banked with cut flowers, while from the chandeliers are hung ropes of dainty asparagus and smilax, and woven through them are hundreds of tiny varied colored electric lights, the whole presenting a picture which might grace the Arabian Nights. It was in this room, near the large east windows, that Nellie Grant's marriage, which afterwards proved so unhappy, was solemnized.

Leading from the East Room is the Green Room, so named from the tinting which prevails in its furnishing and decorations. On its walls hangs the picture of Mrs. Hayes, which was presented to the Government by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, because she was the first mistress of the White House who turned her wine glass upside down at the dinners given there, although since then Mrs. Cleveland has done the same. The life-size painting of Mrs. Harrison also hangs in this room, and is one of the most artistic pieces of work in the house.

The next in this suite of state parlors is one about which a peculiar charm attaches—the Blue Room. For it is here that the receiving party stand for the official receptions, and it is here that President and Mrs. Cleveland were married. It is in this room, too, where the diplomats, in their gorgeous attire await for the President to receive them first on New Year's Day. The room has been the scene of a thousand and one other interesting events. In the illustration can be seen the "Golden Gate," over which the eager public lean to catch a glimpse of the receiving party after having passed through the rooms themselves; and beyond it is a glimpse of the Tiffany screen.

Opening off the Blue is the Red Room; this was Mrs. Cleveland's favorite of all of the downstairs rooms and she gave it a more home-like air than any of the others possessed. She filled it with bric-a-brac, her own books and so forth, and often here received her guests. Mrs. McKinley prefers the library above stairs, which is a delightfully charming, sunshiny room, and the view from its south windows of the White lot, the Monument, Potomac and the blue hills of Virginia beyond cannot be surpassed for loveliness.

On the walls of the lower floor hang pictures of all of the Presidents, as well as many of their wives.

The state dining-room opens from the Red Room, and across the hall is the smaller one used by the family, both handsome apartments and furnished in fine dining-room paraphernalia. To the west of the house is the conservatory, and probably more rare exotics are grown there than within the same space elsewhere in the country.

The upper corridor is used by the President's family as a sitting-room, and off from it is the library and the five sleeping rooms, which make up the number that the limited space of the historic old mansion can spare for that purpose. The eastern part of the upstairs is given to offices; over the East Room is the President's private office, from which the carpet has been worn almost threadbare by the feet of the many office-seekers since the 4th of March, while leading out of it is his secretary's office, and beyond that the room in which the Cabinet meet. On the other side of the corridor are other offices, while this corridor is the waiting room for those who wish to see the President when he is busy.

A FAMOUS WRITER.

Mrs. Margaret Oliphant Was One of the Prolific Novelists of the Day.

The death of Mrs. Margaret Oliphant, which occurred in England not long since, has removed one of the most prolific and versatile writers of modern times. Ever since her first novel was published, when she was 21, she has had a place in the hearts of a very large class of readers. She was an exceedingly rapid writer, turning out with great regularity a three-volume novel every year. She published over forty works of fiction in addition to numerous biographical and historical works. Beside, she was a frequent contributor to the periodicals and was the editor of a series, Foreign Classics for English Readers.

MRS. MARGARET OLIPHANT.

Mrs. Oliphant was 70 years old when she died and was born in Midlothian, England. Her maiden name was Wilson.

Badly Mixed.

At a country station a little child, owing to the rush of a crowd of trippers, was pushed over in front of an out-going train. Quick as a flesh a workingman jumped into the four-foot way, threw the child on the platform and scrambled up himself; but scarcely quick enough, as the engine, in passing, rolled him over on the platform.

Several people hastened at once to his succor; but he rose uninjured, and, with a face expressive of extreme concern, drew out of his pocket a colored handkerchief containing his day's victuals, which he cursorily examined and then ruefully exclaimed:

"Confound it! Just my luck!"

"What is the matter?" inquired the crowd.

"Why, I've broken two eggs and a rhubarb pie, and it's all mixed up with my tea and sugar."—Answers.

A willing prisoner—A man locked in slumber.

RIDES FROM THE HIPS DOWN.

Jimmy Michael Examined by Boston Physicians with Surprise.

Immediately after his record-breaking victory over McDuffie, in the fifteen-mile race at the Charles River Park, Boston, Jimmy Michael, the wonderful little Welsh rider, was subjected to an exhaustive examination by a number of physicians. The observations of these medical men led them to some surprising conclusions, which may perhaps be summarized in the statement that the little bunch of grit and muscle rides from his hips down. The hearts of other racing men examined by some of the doctors had been found to beat at tremendous speed after a severe race, but Michael's blood pump seemed to be no more excited than it would be had he vaulted over a couple of tables. His lungs were free and his respiration normal. He did not seem to be suffering from fatigue. All the organs in the upper portion of his body were found to be in a remarkably healthy condition. But below the hips some of these conditions seemed reversed. The great flexor and extensor muscles in his thigh and calf were found to be highly excited. The thigh muscles seemed to be beating like the pulse in an ordinary man's wrist, and they were corded and bunched as hard as iron. Below the hip line Michael was warmed up; above as cool as a cucumber. This state of affairs is explained by the medical men as indicative of the way the man works. He holds his body rigid without effort, while his legs do all the work propelling his 120 gear. His heart and lungs are large and strong enough to keep his vitality up to the requirements of severe exertion without showing it by increased action. The doctors unanimously expressed astonishment that such a diminutive physique (Michael is only 4 feet 11½ inches tall) could be capable of the enormous exertion necessary in driving a wheel at the rate of something over thirty miles an hour for fifteen miles.

GREATEST OF BICYCLE RIDERS.

CHAMPION OF TENNIS COURT.

Miss Juliette Atkinson Desirous of Winning Theatrical Applause.

The woman tennis champion of America, Miss Juliette Atkinson, who enhanced her claim to the title recently in Philadelphia, is not only a tennis player, but also has dramatic ambitions. In the match with Miss Bessie Moore in championship singles, which she won on the grounds of the Philadelphia Cricket Club, Miss Atkinson won the championship of America for the second time.

MISS JULIETTE ATKINSON.

The young lady is a daughter of Dr. Jerome G. Atkinson, of Brooklyn, and is well known in society circles of that city. Early in the year she astounded her friends by appearing in the chorus of "Kismet," which was then running at Wallack's Theater, New York. She was given a few lines to speak in the second act, and when she was interviewed by one of the New York papers she declared all her inclinations were toward a stage career.

The First Teacups.

Even after tea was introduced into Europe and had come into general use, teacups were scarce, says the Jewelers' Circular. At the same time coffee was introduced, but, apart from Constantinople, the first coffee cups in Europe date back only as far as 1645 in Venice, 1659 in Paris, 1652 in London and 1694 in Leipsic. From the first, however, the conventional Oriental coffee cup, without stem or handle, was little used, and in Germany not at all. The Chinese teacup was used for tea, coffee and chocolate as well. Specimens of porcelain were undoubtedly introduced into Europe in the Middle Ages, yet not till the sixteenth century were cups imported from China in any great quantities, and even then it was as articles of virtu. Most of those found their way back to China again, as collecting porcelain is a lasting fad there, and high prices are paid for good specimens. The collection of Chinese porcelain, if only the genuine specimens are desired, requires immense study and knowledge, as the Chinese are skillful imitators and put numerous falsifications on the market.

There is a vast difference between being able to say prayers that sound fine, and having a broken and contrite heart.

WHY JOHN STARNES IS A HERMIT

Fled to the Mountains from Conscription and Remains in Seclusion Still.

Thirty-five years ago John Starnes, then in the prime of manhood, lived near Blacksburg, York County, S. C., and but a few miles from the battlefields of Cowpens and Kings mountain, where the Americans whipped the British. But the proximity of the battlefields did not imbue a warlike spirit in the breast of Starnes.

The conscription officer cast covetous eyes on the mountaineer's stalwart frame, and Starnes took the hint and to the woods almost simultaneously. They searched for him, but Starnes was a better runner than a fighter, and he kept out of the way, out of the war and in the woods. He had an old musket and a supply of ammunition, and the fare of the woods was better then that in the town. Starnes became fond of the life and when the war was over and conscription officers had lost their dreaded power Starnes still remained in the wilds of York.

And there he is now living. His home is not a romantic cave in the rocks, but is a curiously constructed, miserable looking hut, of much the shape of an Eskimo snowhouse, without a window, and with a hole about two feet high which serves as a door, through which the hermit crawls. There is no fireplace in the house. When snow is on the mountain and the north winds howl over the Blue ridge, the old man builds a fire at the entrance of his hut.

Starnes is not a picturesque figure. His long, white, unkempt hair and beard and the ragged clothes that can hardly hang on his frame make him an unprepossessing object, whose very name is used to scare children in the neighborhood.

The hermit does not like to have visitors, and shows temper if questioned. He forages on his neighbors. He has relatives who have offered him a home and means of living in comfort, but the hermit has declined all advances. His neighbors call him "Wild John Starnes."—Boston Post.

Intelligent Fox Terrier.

Maggie is an intelligent fox terrier belonging to Mr. McKeever, a livery stable proprietor, who prefers the odors of the kitchen of the Galt House to the companionship of horses. In this way she has become acquainted with all the guests of the hotel and has made many friends. Maggie, therefore, had many sympathizers when, about a week ago, she took ill, and it was noticed that a tumor was forming on her breast. As the pain caused by the growth became greater from day to day and its dimensions larger her appeals for help were almost human in intelligence. She would look appealingly into the faces of some of her friends at the hotel who had befriended her in the past, whine and stand on her hind legs as if to display the cause of her trouble. Many attempts were made to help her, but all proved unavailing. Last Thursday the pain must have been excruciating, for Maggie was heard to give a yelp at the moment she sank her teeth into the protuberance. The result was that it was as effectively lanced as if it had been done by a surgeon. The pus discharged, leaving a large cavity, and with it came a great deal of blood. The prognosis was that Maggie would surely die, but she proved a better surgeon than she was rated. She bathed the wound with her saliva, and yesterday was frisking around as lively as ever.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Use Gentleness.

Be gentle in stimulating the kidneys, otherwise you will excite and weaken them. The happiest results follow the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters to overcome renal inactivity. Avoid the unmedicated, fiery stimulants of commerce. The kidneys have a delicate membrane easily irritated, and upon this the action of such excitants is pernicious. Malarial complaints, indigestion, rheumatism, neuralgia and biliousness succumb to the corrective influence of the Bitters.

There Is Money Still in Ranching.

Judge Torrey, the author of the well known national bankruptcy bill that bears his name, is one of the most successful stockmen in the Northwest. He is largely interested in one of the biggest cattle ranches in Wyoming, on which he raises as beautiful specimens of shorthorns and Herefords as can be found in the United States. On his ranch are also raised some high-priced hackney horses, in the breeding of which Judge Torrey takes special delight. In raising cattle the Judge goes in for practical results, and culls from the ranch some of the finest steers, which he ships to a Nebraska feeding farm in order to fatten them for market. Not long since he received a check for $1,300 as the price of seventeen head of beeves, an average of nearly $80 a head, which seems to demonstrate that there still is money in the ranching business when it is conducted along intelligent lines.

Hall's Catarrh Cure
Is taken internally. Price 75 cents.

Picnic Conscience.

The picnic conscience does not command absolute confidence in Florida, even when the picnickers are white, in the neighborhood of watermelon patches. When a St. Augustine organization, at San Mateo on an outing, came upon a melon patch they found the owner, a woman, on guard with a gun, which she allowed might go off if any stranger got among the vines.

There Is a Class of People
Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over one-fourth as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15c. and 25c. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

Hoped She Was Fit.

Minnie—I want to introduce you to a young lady—a very nice young lady—and she's worth her weight in gold.

Bob—Stout girl, I hope.—Tit-Bits.

I never used so quick a cure as Piso's Cure for Consumption.—J. B. Palmer, Box 1171, Seattle, Wash., Nov. 25, 1895.

When there is a crack in the stove it can be mended by mixing ashes and salt with water.

FITS Permanently Cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. DR. R. H. KLINE, LTD., 931 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

New Marine Invention.

One of the recent marine inventions is a multikeel vessel, a form of ship with a flat bottom, provided with five or seven keels. The inventor claims greater carrying capacity and increased floating power, with higher speed, than any other form of ship. The bow and stern are spoon-shaped, the vessel has two stern posts and two rudders, linked together, so as to move simultaneously, and two propellers. It is also claimed for this model that it can be turned in its own length, and will, in smooth water, steer equally as well whether running ahead or astern.

Shake Into Your Shoes
Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder for the feet. It cures painful, swollen, smarting feet, and instantly takes the sting out of corns and bunions. It's the greatest comfort discovery of the age. Allen's Foot-Ease makes tight-fitting or new shoes feel easy. It is a certain cure for sweating, callous and hot, tired, aching feet. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores. By mail for 25 cents, in stamps. Trial package FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

Windows and mirrors can be made to shine without long polishing, if after being washed in hot soapsuds they are rubbed dry with a newspaper.

The best way to avoid scalp diseases, hair falling out, and premature baldness is to use the best preventive known for that purpose—Hall's Hair Renewer.

People who possess the virtue of retiring early are not always the first to rise in the world.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!
Ask your grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food-drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it, like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c. and 25c. per package. Sold by all grocers.

Goosberry fool is a corruption of goosberry foule, milled or pressed goosberries.

There Is a Class of People
Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over one-fourth as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15c and 25c per package.

The Serpent in Art.

The serpent is in Christian art an attribute of St. Cecilia, St. Euphemia and many other saints, being assigned to them either because they destroyed the power of satan or because they cleared one or another country of reptiles.

To Colorado Springs and Pueblo—Burlington Route via Denver.
A through sleeping car to Colorado Springs and Pueblo, via Denver, is attached to Burlington Route daily train leaving Chicago 10:30 p. m. Office, 211 Clark street.

Care is to be taken that our hearts may be always the working place, and our members the instruments of God, in which and through which he can perform everything himself.—Golden Treasury.

A complete feminine toilet service always includes Glenn's Sulphur Soap.
Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye, black or brown, 50c.

The undertaker re-hearses his part after each performance.

ALL THE WAY FROM THE MISSOURI RIVER TO BUFFALO, THE WABASH RAILROAD OPERATES TRAINS OVER ITS OWN TRACKS.

Having leased the tracks of the Grand Trunk Railway between Detroit and Suspension Bridge, and those of the Erie R. R. from Suspension Bridge to Buffalo, the Wabash R. R. will run its own trains from Kansas City, Omaha, Des Moines, St. Louis, Quincy, Hannibal, Keokuk and Chicago to Buffalo, being the only road from Missouri and Mississippi River points having its own line and trains running into Buffalo. Through cars from Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago to Buffalo without change.

The barber, like the detective, mugs his customers.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

AN OPEN LETTER
To MOTHERS.

WE ARE ASSERTING IN THE COURTS OUR RIGHT TO THE EXCLUSIVE USE OF THE WORD "CASTORIA," AND "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," AS OUR TRADE MARK.

I, DR. SAMUEL PITCHER, of Hyannis, Massachusetts, was the originator of "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," the same that has borne and does now Chas. H. Fletcher on every bear the fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. This is the original "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," which has been used in the homes of the mothers of America for over thirty years. LOOK CAREFULLY at the wrapper and see that it is the kind you have always bought Chas. H. Fletcher on the and has the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. No one has authority from me to use my name except The Centaur Company of which Chas. H. Fletcher is President.

March 8, 1897: Samuel Pitcher M.D.

Do Not Be Deceived.

Do not endanger the life of your child by accepting a cheap substitute which some druggist may offer you (because he makes a few more pennies on it), the ingredients of which even he does not know.

"The Kind You Have Always Bought"

BEARS THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE OF

Chas. H. Fletcher.

Insist on Having The Kind That Never Failed You.

THE CENTAUR CO., PRY., 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

BAD BLOOD

PIMPLES, ERUPTIONS, BLOTCHES, SCALES, ULCERS, SORES, ECZEMA, and CHRONIC SWELLINGS.

Cascarets

ARE WONDER WORKERS in the cure of any disease caused by bad or impure blood. They eliminate all poisons, build up and enrich the blood, enabling it to make new, healthy tissue.

PURE BLOOD MEANS PERFECT HEALTH, and if you will use CASCARETS they will give you GOOD HEALTH and a PURE, CLEAN SKIN, free from pimples and blotches.

To TRY CASCARETS is to like them. For never before has there been produced in the history of the world so perfect and so harmless a BLOOD PURIFIER, LIVER and STOMACH REGULATOR. To use them regularly for a little while means

ALL DRUGGISTS. 10c., 25c., 50c.

Pure Blood and Perfect Health.

1897 COLUMBIAS $75 TO ALL ALIKE.

Standard of the World.

Have made themselves the leading bicycles on account of their quality—not on account of their price.

1896 COLUMBIAS,	$60
1897 HARTFORDS,	50
HARTFORDS Pattern 2,	45
HARTFORDS Pattern 1,	40
HARTFORDS Patterns 5 and 6,	30

POPE MFG. CO., Hartford, Conn.

Catalogue free from any Columbia dealer, or by mail from us for a 2-cent stamp. If Columbias are not properly represented in your vicinity, let us know.

"He that Works Easily Works Successfully." 'Tis Very Easy to Clean House With

SAPOLIO

F. W. N. U. - - No. 31—97.

When Writing to Advertisers please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A.

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

A Great Sensation In The Furniture Business....

The Foster Furniture Co., of Fort Wayne, Ind., opens up the fall season with a Special Thirty Day Sale, that has caused a decided sensation in the Summit City.

Read This.

One car load of Solid Oak, Brace Arm, Turned Spindles, Fine Cane Seat Ladies' Rocker, worth everywhere $1.75; for One Dollar.

Sideboard Sale!

$20	Oak	Sideboard	$12 50
$25	Oak	Sideboard	$15
$30	Oak	Sideboard	$17 50
$35	Oak	Sideboard	$20
$40	Oak	Sideboard	$22 50
$45	Oak	Sideboard	$25
$50	Oak	Sideboard	$27 50

There never was known such a sale of Sideboards as this. They will be shipped freight prepaid.

Bedroom Suit Sale.

	Oak Finished Suit	$11 90
$25	Bedroom Suit	$12 90
30	Bedroom Suit	18 75

This suit is in Solid Oak, Hand Polished, with a large mirror 30x 24, in the dresser. The wash stands are large and have splasher backs

A Row on Chairs.

Set of 6 Diningroom Chairs in Solid Oak, Continuous Post, Brace Arm, Fine Cane Seat for $5 25.

Ladies' Large, High Arm, Oak and Mahogany Finish, Parlor Rockers with Leather Cobler Seats, worth $4 each, for $1.98.

The greatest stock of Odd Chairs and Rockers you ever saw. Four Hundred Styles to pick from.

Carpet Stock.

The Carpet Department is crowded with the richest new designs. We lead in assortment as well as in prices.

Foster Furniture Co.,
FT. WAYNE, IND.

HUMPHREYS' VETERINARY SPECIFICS

500 PAGE BOOK MAILED FREE.

CONTENTS:

Part I.—Diseases of Horses.
Part II.—Diseases of Cattle.
Part III.—Diseases of Sheep.
Part IV.—Diseases of Hogs.
Part V.—Diseases of Dogs.
Part VI.—Diseases of Poultry.

Same book in better binding 50 cts.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., Cor. William & John Sts., New York

NERVOUS DEBILITY,
VITAL WEAKNESS
and Prostration from Overwork or other causes.

Humphreys' Homeopathic Specific No. 28, in use over 40 years, the only successful remedy.

$1 per vial, or 5 vials and large vial powder, for $5
Sold by Druggists, or sent postpaid on receipt of price.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., Cor. William & John Sts., New York

B. & O. R. R.

Schedule In Effect Nov. 22 '96
Leaves Auburn Junction.

WEST BOUND.

No. 3 Express, to Garrett only	8:53 p m
No. 15 Daily	2:00 a m
No. 5 Daily	4:30 a m
No. 7 Daily	4:18 p m
No. 17 Daily Except Suday	12:25 p m

EAST BOUND.

No 4 Express	4:30 a m
No. 6 Daily	8:05 p m
No. 8 Daily	2:40 p m
No 41 Daily	11:41 a m
No 16, Daily, except Sunday	12:25p m

D. B. MARTIN, Manager of Passenger Traffic.
G. H. YOUNG, Auburn Junction, Ind

Wabash Line

GOING EAST.

No. 2	5:53 am—Daily
No. 4	7:27 pm—ex Su
No. 10 (local freight)	3:00 pm—ex Sa
No. 6	2:08 pm—ex Su

GOING WEST.

No. 5	7:27 am—Daily
No. 3	7:10 pm—Daily
No. 11, (local freight)	9:55 am—ex Su
No. 7	12:00 pm—ex Su

All these trains stop for passengers.
For rates, tickets, time tables, etc. apply to
I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind
Chas. M. Hays, V. Pres. and Gen'l Manager.
G. S. Crane, Gen'l Pass'r and Ticket Agent

Syracuse, Indiana.

On August 2, 3, 6, 9 and 10, the B. & O. will sell low rate excursion tickets to Syracuse, Ind., for all regular trains account Camp Meetings. Tickets will be good for return until August 17th inclusive. For further information call on or address nearest B. & O. Ticket Agent.

CASTORIA.
The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Beer Stamp Rebates

Under the Wilson law that died out Saturday afternoon when the new tariff bill was signed, there was allowed a rebate of 7½ cents on every dollar stamp purchased, to make good any loss caused by leakage, etc. But under the new Dingley-McKinley law, this rebate is not allowed. So, on Saturday last, the two big breweries at Ft. Wayne, bought $25,000 worth of stamps. The Centlivers took $14,000 worth and the Berghoffs, $11,000. The saving was $1,875.

Complete Surprise.

The following Rathbone Sisters last Saturday evening surprised their sister Mrs. Alice Grogg, (it being her birthday,) by calling on her at her residence, north of the city:—Mesdames G L Lanning, C H Pommert, M B Willis, J G Clapp, F E Rose, D N Fitch, A H Baker, W E Ryan, D D Moody, F A Moody, I O Bachtel, G A Mader, C A Spake, E D Beadle, E E Mitchell, G W Moss.

The Sisters took with them ice cream and cake which all enjoyed with a general good time. After the refreshments was over Mrs. G. L. Lanning made a neat little speech and a poetical reminder of the recent trip to Pleasant Lake and the happenings which was enjoyed by all. In conclusion she in behalf of the Temple presented Mrs. Grogg with a fine rocker which was responded to by Mrs Grogg; after which all present wishing Mrs. Grogg should see many more pleasant and happy birthdays, departed for their various homes.

OBITUARY.

Lewis Campbell was born in Smithfield DeKalb Ind., April 7, 1857. Died July 20, 1897, aged 40 years, 3 months and 13 days.

Deceased had been a great sufferer nearly all his life. Early in his childhood he had a fall off a porch, which did serious injury to the spine. The effects were not so very noticeable for some time; and while he was not robust, yet the mother thought that with an education he could make his way in life. She moved to Waterloo and placed him in school and several of his schoolmates remember him as an apt scholar. However it became apparent that he could not sustain the mental strain of study, and she returned to her country home where she began her long weary care. Thirty-seven years of unceasing-unfaltering toil and watchfulness has she devoted to this unfortunate son, thereby disclosing a touching incident of the unfathomable depth of a mother's love and and devotion. For many years she has been especially aided and sustained by her son Edward and his good wife near whose home she resided. Lewis, was the youngest of the family and was left fatherless as at the age of three years. His mother, three brothers, and two sisters survive him.

Cottage services were held at the house of Edward Campbell and were very largely attended by neighbors and friends who strove in this way to express their appreciation and esteem for that old mother, and the attentive and uncomplaining family who have endured such an affliction in their midst for so many years. He was interred in the family plat in Cedar Lake cemetery, and was borne to the grave by six nephews, Scott, Charles, Frank, Burt, Clark and Thomas Campbell. The floral offerings were abundant and beautiful.

NO PAY—NO CURE

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Chills and Malaria. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price 50c. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the County of DeKalb, State of Indiana, Administrator of the estate of Henry Hines deceased, late of DeKalb Co.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

FRANCIS M. HINES,
July 9, 1897. Administrator.
Baxter & Brown Attys.

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding, Ulcerated and Itching Piles. It absorbs the tumors, allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and Itching of the private parts and nothing else. Every box is guaranteed. Sold by druggists, sent by mail for 50c and $1 per box.

WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props. Cleveland O.
Sold by Fischler & Son.

BRANDON BETTER

Alva Brandon is still at his father's near town, and getting along nicely, Charlie Crew was out there this morning, and says he is resting easy, except for some pain in his chest. The burns, though bad are healing nicely, and he hopes to be out in a few days. It is often asked, why it took so long to get him free from his painful position against the fire. When the accident occurred, there was a chain or something got wound around the wheel of the traction engine, tangling it up, so it could not be moved. And in any case, the engine could not be started, as Brandon was crushed against it so the lever could not be moved. So the only way to do was to pull the separator back up hill. The team was hitched on, but could not move it. They then went back to Hartel's and got another team, and with both, they pulled the separator up far enough so the suffering man could be liberated. It must have been terrible while it lasted.

DEKALB BATTALION

HEADQUARTERS DEKALB BATTALION, G. A. R., July 22, 1897. General Orders No 1.—

Pursuant to decision at the last annual meeting held at St. Joe, August 8, 1896, the annual meeting of the Battalion for 1897 will be held at Ashley, Saturday, August 14. The colonel commanding hereby directs the DeKalb Battalion to assemble in annual reunion on August 14, at Ashley, for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year and to transact such other business as may properly come before the meeting. The G. A. R. Posts of DeKalb County constitute the Battalion and each Post will take steps to attend in a body, including their auxiliaries—the Woman's Relief Corps. The commissary department will be supplied with one full days cooked rations. It is further ordered that all the officers of each Post forming the Battalion be in attendance with their families. Let this annual meeting be the occasion for a reunion of all ex-soldiers in DeKalb and Steuben Counties. On account of the meeting place being on the line between the two counties, the Battalion cordially invites the ex-soldiers of Steben County to unite with us. A basket picnic in which all may unite is to be one of the features of the occasion. The G. A. R. Post at Ashley will prepare the camp ground and make all necessary arrangements for the meeting, including a program for the entertainment of the Battalion after the business shall have been transacted.

By order of
D. D. DIEHL,
Colonel Commanding.
FRANK W. WILLIS, Adjutant.

We Pay Higher Duties.

Several large ocean steamers were rushing across the water Saturday to reach New York before the new tariff bill went into effect, so they would only have to pay the old low rates of duty. But of course if they had got in in time, they would still have charged up the high price to the consumer just the same. The new bill went into effect when the president signed it, at 4:07 p. m. So the high rates had to be paid on all goods that had come in since the midnight before, as Uncle Sam's laws do not recognize any part of a day, and the day on which the bill was signed began at midnight, and ended at midnight of Saturday. All the goods brought in earlier than 4:07 p. m. had paid the old, low rate, but they must now go back and pay the additional rate charged by the new law. But why should that make any difference? Don't the "foreigner pay the duty?" Republican papers say the foreigner pays it. Why should these ships race their lives out to get across in time? Why not turn back and make the foreigner pay the extra duty? We ask some of our republican exchanges to come up to the scratch and explain this to a waiting people.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites, can be taken as easily in summer as in winter. Unlike the plain oil it is palatable, and the hypophosphites that are in it aid in digestion and at the same time tone up the system.

For sickly, delicate children, and for those whose lungs are affected, it is a mistake to leave it off in the summer months. The dose may be reduced if necessary.

We recommend the small size especially for summer use, and for children, where a smaller dose is required. It should be kept in a cool place after it is once opened.

For sale by all druggists at 50c. and $1.00

Fifty Years Ago.

This is the way it was bound to look
When grandfather had his "picter took."
These were the shadows cast before
The coming of Conjurer Daguerre
And his art; like a girl in a pinafore
Some day to bloom to a goddess fair.
Men certainly were not as black, we know
As they pictured them, so years ago.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla began to make new men, just as the new pictures of men began to be made. Thousands of people fronted the camera with skins made clean from blotch and blemish, because they had purified the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It is as powerful now as then. Its record proves it. Others imitate the remedy; they can't imitate the record:

50 Years of Cures.

"Short Order" For Justice.

There was a sort of "emergency case" before 'Squire Walter, Saturday evening. A man named Wm. Templeau, after getting his week's wages, had looked on the temperance lemonade when it was red, and got up a discussion with his wife. He struck her, so she says, and so also, the justice believes, and Templeau was fined a good round sum, and got wholesale advice.

P. O. swindler Caught.

Some time ago a man came into John Lahnum's store in the evening, after the hour when the postoffice closes, and asked to have John cash a $12 money order for him. He said a farmer he had been working for paid it to him and now as it was after postoffice hours he could not present it at the postoffice and get this money. So John took the order and gave the man the money. John afterwards paid the order out to Will Ryan, and the next day Ryan took it to the postoffice to get his money. Postmaster Brandon had no "advice" for such an order and could not pay it. So he sent on to the original office for a duplicate advice supposing the original had been lost. Word came back that no such order had been issued there. Investigation developed the fact that the man was a swindler who was wanted by the department for passing a number of money orders. Detectives finally located him at Fremont, in Steuben county, where he was working on a farm. The officers telegraphed for Lahnum, and he and Ryan identified the fellow as the man who sold them the order. On Monday, as we understand it, he will be taken to Ft. Wayne to stand trial in the U. S. court.

It appears he has been in the business for some time. It is now understood that he got the book of blank postoffice money orders, by happening in a small country store and postoffice over in Ohio. When the store keeper, who was the postmaster, walked to another part of the store he left the book of blank orders lying on the counter. The fellow slipped it into his pocket and has since had business handy. He would go into a town, very much as he did here, with about the same story, and after getting an order cashed, would disappear and be heard of next at a place far away. Once, he was arrested in Pittsburg for an attempt to pass a bogus money order, but as the proof was not full, he was detained a few days, by fining him $5 under belief that he had no money. In a day or two, he made an excuse to have a policeman take him down town, when he pulled $50 out of his hat and gave 25 to the officer telling him to go back and pay the $5 fine and keep the rest of it. The officer did it, and the swindler got away. There are many stories coming out, about his adventures, but they will all probably come to an end now, for Uncle Sam deals promptly with the men who break his laws.

Court Expenses.

Some one has been preying on the guilelessness and credulity of the Gazette, but we don't know who it is. In the last issue the Gazette has a long article on "court expenses" that begins like this:

"Those who are not familiar with court matters consider every day that court is held there is great expense to the county, but this is not the case."

It will be pleasant news to the taxpayers, to learn that court don't cost them much. But June 24, we published an official list of court expenses, the total amount of which is $2,445.71, for three months. At least the statement said they were "orders drawn on the county treasurer as per clerk's certificate on file in the auditor's office, for the quarter ending May 31, 1897."

This amount included the salary of the clerk, but not of Judge or Prosecutor. The judge's salary for three months is $625; that of the prosecutor for the same time is $375. This makes a grand total of $3,444.71. Somebody pays them, too. So it looks as if there is expenses "every day" unless we prefer to put it all on one day.

Of course a part of the expenses come off of the parties to the civil suits, including a part of the jury expense, but not all. But the assertion that in such cases, "the county pays nothing" is incorrect. It often happens that a case is settled without the jury actually taking part, or the party against whom the costs are charged may never pay. But the juror gets his pay, as he ought to.

In brief, perhaps one quarter of these court expenses, may not come off of the taxpayers yet there is a heavy bill left for them to foot. We wish it understood that we do not complain of these expenses as far as they are necessary. We believe every man who does work about the the court should be paid. But we object to any useless expenditure, and we object to such misleading statements as the ones we are discussing. And we object to them especially because, by the lead they follow, they seem to be intended to criticize what the COURIER has put forward at various times.

"The per diem of $2 a day is not allowed the sheriff by Judge Roby," says the article.

But in the list of orders drawn for the court expenses, which we published as already noted, we find:

"H. P. Stroh, per diem, $72."

This speaks for itself. There are many other misleading statements, but these are enough for samples of all.

Then comes an additional item, saying it is "a little amusing to read the advice given to officials by newspapers."

As the COURIER is the only paper that has advised the county treasurer to "pay out the cash" we have no doubt this was also, a sly allusion to us. But we still say "Pay out the cash." It is true as the article says that the "treasurer has certain funds in his hands" that he ought not to pay out. And as he has no right to pay them out, he should not be lending them to banks. A large amount of this kind is the money that belongs to the several townships. These funds are collected in taxes paid in April and November, and in each case, the trustees are entitled to come in a short time and get their money. And substantially the same is true of the state funds.

But what we said was no doubt understood by everyone, to mean the "county fund," as was plainly intended. There is very little use for keeping county money on hand. There are now and then a few "cash orders" to be paid. But a thousand or so, kept on hand would be ample.

As the COURIER is the only paper that has published the court expenses, or has called on the treasurer to "pay out his cash" instead of letting it pile up, and be used by the banks, while the county is paying interest on its orders, we have felt that we should notice these misleading statements. We have never complained of any necessary expense, and never shall. But the various officers have been at times, careless and unbusiness-like and both they and the county have lost by it. A fair price should be paid for all services, including special attorneys and those who defend pauper criminals, but no fancy prices. And every dollar should be watched just as a dry goods salesman watches the dollars of his employer. And judging by past experience and by present prospects we believe a few friendly words of warning will do some good, and no harm. Keep down the expenses. Pay out the cash.

CASTORIA.
The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

FINE WHEAT.

August Bartles, superintendent of the county farm brought us in a bunch of wheat heads raised on the farm, the finest we have seen for many a year. They are of a new variety, called the Wisconsin Red Cross. He sent for the seed last year, from Lacrosse, Wisc, and is highly pleased with the result. The heads are long and well filled and the berry is plump. The stalks, also are very strong, just such as would be needed for such strong growing wheat. Mr. Bartels thinks it would do will on any kind of soil, even on muck land. He will sow more of it this season. It has the reputation of yielding sixty bushels to the acre.

Remembered the Beans.

(Indianapolis Sentinel)

There is one pathetic little thing in the tariff report that doubtless escaped the attention of many. It was this: "The difference between the two houses on beans was compromised, being made 45 cents per bushel." For weeks beans have been a source of confusion and alarm in congress. The Massachusetts men have pleaded for freedom for the favorite fruit of their constituents, while Fairbanks, Hanna and other champions of agriculture have insisted on prohibitory duties. At times it was feared that beans would rupture the entire bill. But at length one of the most obstinate combatants asked "Are the trusts all satisfied?" On being assured that they were he sobbed, "Oh, well, let beans go at 45 cents," and they went, while former foes wept on each other's necks.

Splendid Success

has been had in cases of colic, diarrhœa, etc, by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. As a household remedy for such troubles it is invaluable. Buy a 10c trial bottle and you are bound to be convinced. To be had of F. E Davenport. 30

"The Privileges of Summer Travel."

A beautiful illustrated and descriptive booklet, telling about stopover at Niagara Falls and a trip on the Hudson River, two privileges secured to passengers via the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Ry. without extra expense This handsome book sent free by applying to A. J. Smith, G. P. and T. A. Cleveland, O. 30

No Griping Or Pains.

Arrowsmith, Ill., Jan. 21, 1897.

Dear Sirs:—I have been bothered for 15 years with constipation and I have trid many preparations during that time. I commenced using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in the fall of 1895 and unhesitatingly say it is the best remedy I have ever found for my trouble. No griping or pains after taking Yours, etc.

F. E. Davenport WM. HURT.

ROCKS IN THE WHEAT.

According to the Anderson Herald, some fiend down in Madison county put rocks in the sheaves of wheat on a farm down there. As soon as the thresher started, trouble began. The first stone that was run in flew back and took off the hat of the man who was feeding. The next rock struck him in the breast and knocked him to the ground. The machine was stopped and the sheaves examined. It was found that many of them from all over the field had good sized stones in them and every sheaf in the job had to be opened. It is believed some fellow who had been exposed in some white cap business had a grudge against that particular farmer.

B. & O. EXCURSIONS.

TO MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, MD.

August 2 to 23, inclusive, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell excursion tickets to Mountain Lake Park, Md., at rate of one fare for the round trip, on account of the Chautauqua Meeting Tickets will be good for return until August 31, 1897.

TO PHILADELPHIA, PA.

On August 2, 3 and 4 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell excursion tickets to Philadelphia, Pa., at rate of one fare for the round trip, account League of American Wheelmen, National Meeting, Tickets will be good for return until August 9, 1897.

Scratch for Money.

A father's lot is to dig and scratch for money, but yet he should not neglect his baby's health. Provide your baby with Dr. John W. Bull's Baby Syrup when teething, and avoid much suffering. Mr. J. P. Steiner, Aurora, Mo., who has had some experience with this remedy, pronounces it "the best medicine for babies he has ever used in his family." It costs only 25 cents, but fathers should see that they get Dr. John W. Bull's Baby Syrup.

Sold by F. E. Davenport, Auburn.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

Celebrated for its great leavening strength and healthfulness. Assures the food against alum and all forms of adulteration common to the cheap brands. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

LICENSED.

Earl W. Brown and Rose E. Fisher
Oliver B. Arthur and Nellie Jennings.

Family Jars.

Thursday's Daily.

Yesterday Squire Walborn's court had another of the family quarrel cases from Garrett for which that is somewhat noted. A lough lad had been impudent and "sassy" to a neighbor woman. The women stopped him. Then he kicked and cuffed her. Then the woman knocked him over. Then the boy's mother took a hand, and had the other woman arrested. Garrett justices having no standing at home, the case came here. Squire Walborn wanted to fine both parties, but failing to find any law for it, so he fined the defendant 75 cents, Gengler was on one side and Stoner on the other. We have not heard whether it will be appealed or not.

There is no Word so Full of Meaning

and about which such tender recollections cluster as that of "MOTHER"—she who watched our helpless infancy and guided our first tottering step. The life of every Expectant Mother is beset with danger.

"Mother's Friend"

so assists Nature in the change taking place that the Expectant Mother is enabled to look forward without dread to the hour when she experiences the joy of Motherhood. It insures safety to both Mother and Child, and she is found stronger after than before confinement—in short, it "makes Childbirth easy," as so many have said. Don't be persuaded. Use nothing but

"Mother's Friend"

"My wife suffered more in ten minutes with either of her other two children than she did altogether with her last, having previously used four bottles of "Mother's Friend." It is a blessing to anyone expecting to become a mother, says a customer." HENDERSON DALE, Carmi, Ill.

Sent by Mail, on receipt of price, $1.00 PER BOTTLE. Book "To Expectant Mothers" mailed free, containing valuable information and voluntary testimonials.

THE BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

William's Kidney Pills

Has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. Have you neglected your Kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your Kidneys and Bladder? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, groins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire pass urine? William's Kidney Pills will impart new life to the diseased organs, tone up the system and make a new man of you. By mail 50 cents per box.

WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props., Cleveland, O.

Sold By Fischler & Son.

MADE ME A MAN

AJAX TABLETS POSITIVELY CURE
All Nervous Diseases—Failing Memory, Impotency, Sleeplessness, etc., caused by Abuse or other Excesses and Indiscretions. Prevent premature old age and surely restore Lost Vitality in old or young, and fit a man for study, business or marriage. Prevent Insanity and Consumption if taken in time. Their use shows immediate improvement and effects a CURE where all other fail. Insist upon having the genuine Ajax Tablets. They have cured thousands and will cure you. We give a positive written guarantee to effect a cure in each case or refund the money. Price 50 cts. per package, or six packages (full treatment) for $2.50, by mail, in plain wrapper, upon receipt of price. Circular free. AJAX REMEDY CO., 19 Dearborn St. Chicago, Ill.

Sold by F. E. Davenport, Auburn.

LIFE VIM VIGOR VITALITY DEATH
RESTORED IN 30 DAYS
NOW GOOD EFFECTS AT ONCE THEN
CATON'S VITALIZER

Cures general or special debility, wakefulness, spermatorrhœa, emissions, impotency, paresis, etc. Corrects functional disorders, caused by errors or excesses, quickly restoring Lost Manhood to old or young, giving vigor and strength where former weakness prevailed. Convenient package, simple, effectual, and legitimate.

CURE IS QUICK AND THOROUGH.

Don't be deceived by imitations; insist on CATON'S Vitalizers. Sent sealed if your druggist does not have it. Price $1 per pkge, 6 for $5, with written guarantee of complete cure. Information, references, etc., free and confidential. Send us statement of case and 25 cts. for a week's trial treatment. One only sent to each person.

CATON MED. CO., BOSTON, MASS.

CATON'S TANSY PILLS
A TRIED, TRUE AND SAFE WOMAN'S RELIEF.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Volume XXVII | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, Aug. 5, 1897. | Number 31.

AN OPEN LETTER
To MOTHERS.

WE ARE ASSERTING IN THE COURTS OUR RIGHT TO THE EXCLUSIVE USE OF THE WORD "CASTORIA," AND "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," AS OUR TRADE MARK.

I, DR. SAMUEL PITCHER, of Hyannis, Massachusetts, was the originator of "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," the same that has borne and does now Chas. H. Fletcher on every bear the fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. This is the original "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," which has been used in the homes of the Mothers of America for over thirty years. LOOK CAREFULLY at the wrapper and see that it is the kind you have always bought Chas. H. Fletcher on the and has the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. No one has authority from me to use my name except The Centaur Company of which Chas. H. Fletcher is President.

March 8, 1897. Samuel Pitcher M.D.

Do Not Be Deceived.

Do not endanger the life of your child by accepting a cheap substitute which some druggist may offer you (because he makes a few more pennies on it), the ingredients of which even he does not know.

"The Kind You Have Always Bought"
BEARS THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE OF
Chas. H. Fletcher.

Insist on Having
The Kind That Never Failed You.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Free to the Ladies from the oldest and most reliable Tea House in the country.

A lady friend has sent us her photograph, displaying what she has earned from us—a watch and chain, dinner set and toilet set. We have produced her photograph, showing exactly what we are giving with Tea, Coffee, Spice and Baking Powder orders; and not only are premium of high grade, but the quality of our goods is such that the people want them, making the business pleasant and profitable. Square treatment has made the best ladies of the country our friends It is them specially that we ask to write us for particlars. Address,

LIMA TEA CO., Lima, Ohio

HOWE SCHOOL (MILITARY),
. . . LIMA, INDIANA. . . .

Thoroughly prepares for college or business. High character in boys is our chief aim. Most careful individual attention in matters of scholarship and morals. Refined Christian influence. Buildings equipped with all modern convenience. Fine new gymnasium, large athletic grounds. Expense moderate. For testimonials, illustrations and catalogues, address

W. W. HAMMOND, A. M. (HARVARD) HEAD MASTER.

REV. J. H. McKENZIE, PH. D., RECTOR.

Don't Go to Alaska

FOR

GOLD DUST

All Grocers Sell It.

Cleans Everything.

MADE ONLY BY
THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY,
Chicago. St. Louis. New York. Boston. Philadelphia.

Steady Employment and Good Wages

Can be had by securing a County Agency for some of our Standard Publications
A very small capital only is necessary. One of our best sellers is the

Reversible Wall Map of the U. S. and World

